ELECTION BOARD WOULD NOT DO SUCH A THING!

There has been some indication that the people of the surrounding territory are holding the Hesperian responsible for the rains, both large and small, that have occurred since the election board was put up a week ago. It has been the policy of the Hesperian in the past to take credit for the showers that fell on the election board, and the claim has been made that the election board was the cause of these showers.

Quannah Route To Go Diesel

Chas. H. Sommer, of St. Louis, president of the Quannah, Acme & Pacific Railway company, in Floydada, Tuesday said that the line will adopt 100 per cent diesel power as soon as the engines can be delivered by manufacturers, probably within this year.

HOME FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Felt Patterson and daughters, Fern and Wren, have just returned from a vacation trip to South Texas. They visited in San Antonio, Bastrop, Port Arthur, and Hillsboro. They report a wonderful trip and fine crops everywhere they visited.

Continued Rains and Damp Adds the Threat of Boll Worms, and Other Cotton Insects to Crops

Continuing rains and damp weather have made ideal conditions for the increase of the cotton boll-worm population and there is great danger that the cotton fields will be severely damaged unless control measures are taken at the first sign of these insects in the cotton, said Robert H. Gibson, county agent.

MONOTONOUS is the word for these scenes, repeated daily for the past week on Floydada streets. Top, looking north on North Fifth from the American Legion corner at Virginia; middle scene, looking north on Main from the California street intersection; At bottom, looking west on California, shoppers marooned until the flood subsides.

Municipal Concert Membership Drive Will Be Made Next Week

For the first time in the history of Floydada have the people had an opportunity to secure good entertainment in the form of soloists in the semi-classical and classical field.

6-County Singing Convention Sunday

A six county singing convention will be held in Lockney next Sunday afternoon, July 30, starting at 1:30 in the city auditorium.

A deluge of rainfall in Floydada this week, and as well in numerous other communities of the county, has made a 25-year record for precipitation at this point. July of 1936 had made the previous rainfall record with 8.5 inches. The wet year of 1941 rainfall in July was 4.32 inches.

Yesterday afternoon a downpour of 1.43 inches brought the total for July here to 10.61, of which 6.59 inches has fallen since midnight Sunday.

Practically all areas of the county have had ample rainfall. Edgar Hays at Lockney reports 3.05 since Sunday. In the extreme west and southwest part of the county irrigation wells were still running as late as Monday said Zant Scott of Harmony, but later rains have been ample for immediate needs.

Practically all areas of the county have had ample rainfall. Edgar Hays at Lockney reports 3.05 since Sunday. In the extreme west and southwest part of the county irrigation wells were still running as late as Monday said Zant Scott of Harmony, but later rains have been ample for immediate needs.

The plight of Floydada residents is a minor matter, however, as compared with the serious conditions in Fairmount and Edgin communities where rivers have washed out bridges, destroyed crops and washed land worse than it has been washed in a quarter of a century.

Hails Hit Three Spots. Hail has added its toll in the 10-day period. In addition to the extensive cotton crop damage westward from Floydada, the fine Aiken crop also was hard hit last week.

Winston Brown, who is with the Radio Electric company, is convalescing from an operation at the Pitts hospital last week. Mr. Brown hopes to be back on the job in a few days.

EDITORIALS

We are convinced that a local newspaper does no good when it gets into local politics. Possibly such a newspaper does no good in district or state politics, but particularly in local affairs any time the newspaper touches top, side or bottom of a county or precinct campaign the personal equation enters into it. We mean that somebody recalls something that did or did not please the newspaper people. Immediately they assume that this human sort of thing makes the newspaper forget its bounden objective attitude toward things political.

This might be far from the fact of the matter, but its harm is done just the same when the voter's imagination puts it that way. Our belief is that the newspaper has no business, no right, to put personal prejudices of an editorial writer above the welfare of the community. A newspaper man who feels it his duty to punish a man who has earned the newspaper man's personal disapproval goes against the tenets of his calling. We do not do it, but you can make few believe that. As a consequence the newspaper loses influence and does the candidate of his choice no good. We have seen this proven over and over again. At least we think we have. The only time a newspaper man can feel like, perhaps, he is doing the right thing in the affairs of a community when the heat is on, comes when most everybody on both sides of a controversy are mad enough at him that they read partiality between the lines.

There were no major upsets in the primary Saturday that we think of except possibly that one in the campaign for associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Amarillo. There seems no doubt that Judge W. N. Stokes the Wilbarger jurist, has lost to Herbert C. Martin, of Littlefield. A layman could hardly say that Mr. Martin is not an outstanding man in legal circles of the area, because we do not know. It can be said, on the other hand, that Judge Stokes has a long and distinguished record on the bench. Perhaps it was the geography of the situation and the fact that Mr. Martin made an aggressive campaign for the place. He is the first candidate ever to have an airplane over Floydada (in the last week of the race) carrying a record player and voicing the confident claim that the Littlefield man would be a good man to elect. Had we done such a trick it would have backfired and the other man would have gotten even those whose votes which we had been sure of getting. Congratulations, Mr. Martin! Our condolence, Judge Stokes. You pick your horse and you lay down your money. Sometimes you win. Sometimes you lose.

A movement to get primary election day in Texas set up to about April 1, so that when it rains on The Hesperian's out-door "election board" it will also rain on the wheat, has been started by two or three of us. We have it figured out that it will make the county a million dollars or more in added wheat production. We have decided that this writer will be secretary and treasurer, particularly treasurer of this great social and economic organization which we will call something important sounding and get a lot of names as directors and have an executive committee that covers one margin of the letterhead from top to bottom. It never fails to rain on the board. At least it has not yet. This time it rained the spots right off Sunday night. Monday morning there were no figures. Saturday night attenders and Sunday dopsters who like to mull over what happened in the primary vote got an eyefull, but Monday morning there wasn't any chalk marks left, only the names done in sho-kard ink and the verticals.

One of the regrettable things in the campaigns for Supreme Court Judgeships (to our way of thinking) is that Mead F. Griffin, the plains candidate for Place 3, has to have a run-off with a Dallas lawyer. The fact of the business is that if Judge Griffin loses in the run off it may not be the worst thing that could happen to him. On the other hand, he was named to fill an unexpired term on the court and is now running for an elective term. We'd like to see him returned to the place. He certainly is a solid man. His opponent may be also, but since Meade wants the job we want him to have it.

Do what the book says and you won't be sorry. So Judge Stalbird, a stalwart of pioneer days, used to tell the writer. It was about affairs political, particularly about the administrative side of the conduct of party business. This "education" began before the writer had reached his majority and that has been sometime ago. The judge was a fighting Pennsylvania Irish democrat, but he hunted for the line and hewed to it. Do what the book says is good advice in any line of endeavor. If you play by the rules before hand you'll have a lot less trouble afterwards.

Lots and lots of rain means lots and lots of weeds in the wheat stubble and even the land that has been plowed once. Also continued rain is not doing cotton the same amount of good it is doing for the forage feed. In a wet summer cotton looks like it is doing better than it is.

Little Girl Killed in Fatal Car Quitaque

QUITAQUE, July 26, (Special)—Judy Beth, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hamilton, was killed in a fatal car quitaque on Wednesday evening about 10:30 p. m. when struck by a lightning bolt.

The storm came up rather quickly on Wednesday evening and the quitaque, accompanied by a heavy shower, passed over in a few minutes.

The little girl was playing in the yard near her home four miles east of Floydada, with her younger sister, and the younger child was struck by lightning when she was a few feet from her when the storm struck. The children's grand-uncle, Mrs. H. W. Hamilton was driving the flash storm from the north when she noticed a flash of light raised when the lightning struck.

lightning struck, and told Mr. Hamilton that it was near where she had seen the little girl playing, so they hurried to their car and drove to the spot. Their worst fears were verified and little Judy was stricken. They were joined by the child's mother who was hoeing cotton in the field nearby and rushed the child to Dr. Achor's office at Turkey, pausing enroute to pick up Raymond who was driving a tractor in an adjoining field. The little girl was declared dead on arrival at the doctors office.

MAKE FENCE MUCH FASTER with this post hole digger

Why wait to build fence because digging post holes by hand is such hard work? We recommend the Danuser post hole digger that attaches quickly to the Ford Tractor and can dig up to 600 post holes a day. Lifts and lowers by Hydraulic Touch Control. Pays for itself in time and labor saved... gets fence made quickly, between rush seasons or in spare time.

If you have seedling trees to set out, or holes to dig for building pilings or foundations, there's nothing like this post hole digger. Even use it for digging trenches... saves lots of shoveling. Several size augers... Ask for a demonstration.

Miss Virginia Holmes, Wm. A. Dowdy Take Wedding Vows July 15

Saturday afternoon July 15, in a double ring ceremony at the home of Rev. E. M. Eastman in Tucumcari, New Mexico, Miss Virginia Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Holmes of Floydada, became the bride of William A. Dowdy, son of John A. Dowdy of Fort Worth. The bride wore a dress of navy crepe, with white and navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. For something old the bride wore a diamond lavalier belonging to her mother, something new was her wedding dress, for something borrowed she carried a linen handkerchief, and something blue were her handmade garters. The only attendant was the bride's sister, Miss Joyce Holmes, who was attired in a navy blue lace dress, with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Dowdy is a graduate of the Floydada High school of the class 1950. She is now employed at King's store. Mr. Dowdy attended school in Covington, Texas, spent five years serving with the 124th cavalry, 18 months in C. B. T. He is now employed with the Soil Conservation Service in Floydada. The couple plan to make Floydada their home.

Scout Scribe Tells Story of Natl Jamboree

(Jack Henry is scribe of the Floydada Scout troop which sent six boys to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. Here he reports for The Hesperian the high lights of that eventful occasion. -Ed Note)

Six of us Boy Scouts from Floydada were fortunate enough to be among 55,000 Boy Scouts from about 3 countries at the National Jamboree recently at historic Valley Forge in Pennsylvania. The Floydada group included Glad Lyn Norman, Larry Glassmoyer, David Willson, Don Grigsby, Bill Walker and myself.

To me, the most interesting part of the trip was the time spent in Washington, D. C., where we saw many things of historical interest as well as the present government at work. I enjoyed Washington because we had plenty of time there to go sightseeing.

We left Floydada June 21 for Lubbock to spend two days and two nights in training camp. The Reese Air Force Base sent a band to entertain us. We learned there that charcoal will burn for an hour and a half. Later we were to use this charcoal to cook our own meals.

The trip to Valley Forge was begun about 6:30 p. m. June 23, when three troops from the South Plains Area Boy Scout Council left by Santa Fe train after eating supper at a cafeteria in Lubbock. There were 94 Boy Scouts and Scoutmasters in our party. Some highlights of the trip follow:

June 24—We woke up in Fort Worth where we ate at the Bomber Grill. We had lunch at the Huggins Hotel in Oklahoma City. We had dinner that night on the train dimer.

June 25—The train was late when we arrived in Chicago about 9:30 a. m. We had breakfast on the dimer, then arrived in Washington, D. C., for lunch in the Pentagon Building. We saw Lake Michigan as we were leaving Chicago.

After leaving the Pentagon Building, we went to George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, seeing a flower garden on the way. Washington's home was closed for the day when we got there. We looked in the windows, but couldn't see much as the lights were off and the burglar alarms were set.

We saw Washington's old tomb, then we went to his new tomb where his wife is also buried. Then we went back to our chartered buses for a drive to the Potomac River, Lincoln's Memorial, Washington's Memorial, Arlington Memorial Cemetery, the Unknown Soldier's Grave and the U. S. Mint. We ate supper in a Child's Restaurant.

Camp on Tourist Laws

John Lott of Post, the Scoutmaster of our troop, arranged for us to camp out that night on a tourist court lawn.

June 26 — After breakfast in a restaurant, we went inside the Lincoln and Washington Memorials, then went through the Smithsonian Institution. There was so much to see, I can't say what impressed us the most.

Congressman George Mahon took us through the Capitol, and we saw the Library of Congress and Congress in session. Later Mr. Mahon sent each of us a pass to the Congress and the Senate signed by himself and Senator Tom Connally. The passes had our names on them.

We chartered some buses and went to Valley Forge, arriving about 5 p. m. We slept in the open.

June 27 — We pitched tents and began a three-day training camp. We cooked our own meals and learned the things we needed to know for the Jamboree.

June 30 — We heard President Harry Truman speak at the opening ceremony of the Jamboree.

July 1 — We went on a walking tour, during which we saw an observation tower on the top of a mountain, the Hospital Hut that had been used by George Washington's soldiers, a cemetery where some Revolutionary war soldiers were buried and statues of Mad Anthony Wayne and General von Stuben. Then we went back to camp.

Stayed to Wash Dishes

July 2 — Most of the Scouts went to Sunday church services, but I had to stay in camp and wash dishes.

July 3 — We had a flag lowering ceremony in the evening.

July 4 — We had a free day. At night, we heard Dwight Eisenhower speak.

Before he spoke all 55,000 of us lit candles.

After Mr. Eisenhower's talk, we saw a display of $3,000 worth of fireworks.

July 5 — We walked three miles to Betzwood Station and took a Pennsylvania line train to Philadelphia, where we got off at the Broadstreet station. We walked to Christ Church. On the way we saw Betsy Ross' house. On the way back to the station, we saw Carpenters Hall, Benjamin Franklin's grave, Washington Square, Independence Hall, and an old customs house. We returned to Valley Forge.

July 6 — We broke camp in the rain. After we got the grounds all cleaned up, we were told to take showers then go to the trading post or do anything else we wanted to do. We had a closing ceremony that night. Speakers included the president of the Boy Scouts of America and Arthur Ray Schuck, the chief field executive. We went to bed at 11:30 p. m.

On The Sleepy Side

July 7 — We got up at 2 a. m. and walked to Betzwood station. Our train left at 3:30 and we pulled in at New York City about 6 a. m. We got off at the Pennsylvania Station. After breakfast in a Child's restaurant, we went on a bus tour, seeing the Statue of Liberty, the Brooklyn Bridge, Manhattan Bridge, St. Paul's Cathedral, Macy's store, China town, Rockefeller Center, Central Park, Madison Square Garden, the Flatiron Building, Times Square, the homes of Eisenhower and Jack Dempsey and other places. This tour would have been more interesting if we had not been so sleepy.

We ate lunch in the NBC Building at Radio City, then went to the Music Hall to see a movie that I've forgotten the name of and a newsreel about the Jamboree. Some burlesque girls came out and danced for us, then there was a program about George Washington raising the flag at Valley Forge. After the show, we got a subway and went to the Empire State building. There we split up. My group went to the top of the world's tallest building and the other group went through Macy's, the world's largest department store.

Off to Niagara Falls

After the two groups met, we ate supper and got on a Grand Central train at 7 p. m. for Niagara Falls. On the way out of New York, we saw the Yankee stadium.

July 8 — We pulled into Niagara Falls about 8 a. m. We saw the falls, then walked over Rainbow bridge to Canada and bought some souvenirs. We came back and boarded the train for the trip to Texas. We cut across Canada to Chicago, but couldn't get off the train.

July 9 — We pulled into Kansas City, Mo., at noon, but didn't get off the train. We had all our meals on the train.

July 10 — We arrived in Fort Worth at 4 a. m. and struck out for home on two chartered buses. We ate dinner in Jacksboro and arrived home about 7:30 p. m.

It would take too much space to describe the interesting souvenirs which were exchanged by the various troops at the jamboree. Our troop took, for trading purposes, a horned jackrabbit, some horned toads, a fox and some cactus plants. We also took some turtles to enter a race. Our turtles won. Mr. Lott traded the horned jackrabbit for five neckerchief slides. The fox got away the first night. Horned toads sold for $1 to $2.50 and the cactus sold for $2.50.

Educational, Health Standards Raised in Texas Small Schools

AUSTIN, July—The smaller public schools of Texas now have available many special services which have raised the standards of education and improved the health of children says a release from the Texas State Teachers association issued last week.

Until enactment by the last legislature of the Gilmer-Aiken school laws, only the larger and richer school districts could afford the numerous services now being utilized throughout the state, Miss Waurine Walker, president of the association declared.

Increased state funds for districts, after they have met state requirements as to financing on the local level has made available teacher supervisors, student counselors, librarians, visiting teachers, nurses, physicians, itinerant teachers, more vocational teachers, home economics and trades and industrial courses, distributive education, and more training of exceptional, or handicapped children Miss Walker pointed out.

"The time is past when children education as good and in as many fields of endeavor as students in the centers of population", Miss Walker commented.

State aid to schools is offered on a variety of bases.

Schools are allowed funds for a basis of one to every forty classroom teacher. Supervisors work with the teachers to improve education. Counselors devote their time to guiding and advising children.

Librarians, health nurses doctors and visiting and itinerant teachers chers are provided for on the basis of the school districts having their choice of one of those for each twenty classroom teachers.

Visiting teachers work with parents to overcome conditions which prevent children's regular attendance of school. Itinerant teachers are those specializing in such subjects as art, music or physical education who give instruction in several schools in the same district daily or several times a week.

School districts in the same county can combine teacher totals to be eligible for more of these specialists.

Vocational education departments increased during the last school year by more than 500 making a total of 2,087 in the 2,492 school districts in the state.

State aid has enabled these high schools, when they have enrollments of sixty or more pupils, to hire instructors in vocational agriculture, trades and industries and home economics.

There has also been a big demand for more distributive education and it is being met. In these courses high school students devote half of their school time to classroom work and the other half to gaining actual experience in their chosen field, whether it is in mechanics, printing, selling, farming, merchandising or work as beauty operators.

Classes for handicapped children increased 50 per cent throughout the state for the last school year. Another such increase is anticipated during the 1950-51 school year as more teachers trained in this highly specialized work become available.

Smaller school districts can also combine to establish joint classes Miss Walker expects that practice to be expanded.

Handicapped children benefit greatly under specially trained teachers, but outside the larger centers of population there are so few in many school districts it is not feasible from an economic standpoint to hire instructors. Two or more districts generally have a sufficient number of children to make possible this badly needed service," the state association president declared.

John B. Stapleton Expresses Thanks

Celebrates Eightieth Birthday Party At 61st Anniversary Party Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burleson

Missed Alamo and Goliad
 "General Burleson, my grandfather, had his own company of 380 men in his stockade near San Marcos. He received a note from General Travis and started as soon as he could but his company bogged down in the mudholes," says Burleson to Rosedale.

"My grandfather was also away fighting Indians when the battle of Goliad was fought," continues Burleson.

And Texas history take up the Burleson story from there. When General Burleson returned from his Indian battle only to hear of another massacre at Goliad, he called together his men and made his famous speech which began thus: "Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat, the Alamo had none. Men—remember the Alamo."

"Remember the Alamo" was the battle cry of the amazing victory of San Jacinto, when the Texans slipped on the sleeping Mexicans in an amazing battle which lasted only 20 minutes and which was won with the Bowie knife and in which General Burleson led his company of 380 men.

Courageously General Burleson, the famous Indian fighter who had never been wounded in all the 33 Indian battles and who was never known to retreat, was elected first vice-president of the Republic of Texas shortly after the victory of San Jacinto. General Sam Houston was elected president. But after that famous battle, General Burleson contracted pneumonia and died after a three-day illness. He is buried at Austin, Texas, with the other Texas generals, Crockett, Travis, Houston, Fannin, and others. Their wives were not allowed to be buried in this plot with the Texas independence heroes.

Story of a Tame Indian
 "My grandmother told us the story of Placido, a 'tame' Indian who volunteered to join General Burleson as a fighter. He always knew when the Indians were near. He never rode horseback, he always walked or ran, by the general's side as he rode.

One day Placido got tired walking and General Burleson took pity on him and let him get up behind him on the pony. Placido got to bragging of how many men, women and children he had scalped. And of how he laughed when he saw the women and children wrinkle up their forehead, after the scalp was removed. He demonstrated."

Suddenly General Burleson grew angry at hearing Placido cold-bloodedly telling of how he had murdered innocent whites. He reached down, got his Bowie knife and scalped Placido, then shoved him off his pony. The last he ever saw of Placido, he was running away from him. This scalp hung by the fireplace in Grandmother Burleson's home.

One of these eleven grandchildren, a first cousin of J. C. Burleson, rose to become postmaster general under the presidency of Woodrow Wilson, and left a personal fortune of 8,000,000.

"I used to play with him, out in the country, recalls J. C. Burleson. "Even then, he said he was going to be a great lawyer. He got up on a tree stump and preached for hours."

Another cousin of General Burleson's, the late Dr. Rufus C. Burleson, founder of Baylor University, Waco, Texas. The town of Burleson, Texas is named for Dr. Rufus Burleson.

Burial Plot Neglected
 Gen. Edward Burleson named his youngest son, Crockett, after General Crockett. The other sons were: John, Paul, Edward and Joe, who was the father of J. C. Burleson. Edward was the father of Albert Sidney Burleson, postmaster general. General Burleson was born in Tennessee, coming with his parents and wife to Texas when it was a vast wilderness. General Burleson founded the town of San Marcos, Texas, donated the townsite, and deeded to the town a five-acre plot for a cemetery. Later, when the town built up around the plot, burials were prohibited in it and the plot went back to the Burleson heirs. They cannot agree upon a price for it, so it stands on the townsite, neglected.

In 1933, Burleson visited the senate chamber of the state capitol of Texas and viewed the large picture of his famous grandfather which is exhibited there. He also visited the Independence Heroes burial plot at Austin, and the double-log cabin, now preserved by the state of Texas, on the old Burleson homestead overlooking the San Marcos river where a statue of General Burleson has been erected.

Of the 11 grandchildren who gathered around the fireplace listening stories, only three are left. They are J. C. Burleson of Rosedale, Okla., Mrs. Hulda Owen of San Marcos, Texas, and Mrs. Driscoll of Sabin, Texas.

The Burlesons were married 61 years ago at San Marcos. Mrs. Burleson, who is 14 months older than her husband, was a granddaughter of Dr. Hartin Oatman, a pioneer settler and physician of San Marcos.

The J. C. Burlesons have two sons, C. W. Burleson, of Rosedale, Oklahoma, and Jack Burleson of Floydada, and two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Broxson of Pampa, and Mrs. Bertha Thompson of Earlimart, California. The lost a son, John B. in World War I.

The Burlesons moved from Floydada to Rosedale in 1930, where they have made their home since.

Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin, smiles as she pours her self another cup of coffee. Mrs. Poling says life lately is like it used to be years ago... "that is, of course, since I've been taking HADACOL." She can't get over what a difference HADACOL has made in her outlook on life.

Mrs. Poling says: "Three months ago a good friend of mine told me about HADACOL—she knew how much stomach distress I have had. Any type of food that was fried or that had acid in it I just couldn't eat. It affected my sleep, too. In fact, I couldn't have been in a worse condition. When I ate what I wanted to I felt miserable and when I didn't eat these things—I didn't have a proper diet and still felt bad. Then, when I started taking HADACOL, I felt better immediately. I've got a bottle in the house now—and will continue to keep HADACOL from now on. I have told many folks about HADACOL—and they all thank me for telling them about HADACOL. They all have gotten wonderful results from HADACOL like I have. Now I eat anything I want and get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough."

HADACOL Can Help You, Too!
 as it has helped thousands of others whose systems lacked Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin. Yes, even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomachache, distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, and a general run-down condition caused by such deficiencies.

Make Up Your Mind
 ... to give HADACOL a chance to help you, as it has helped countless thousands of others. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. What a stepper!

Just hint to the gas pedal and she steps out like no other low-priced car. And that's true whether you're driving a Ford V-8 or "Six". But this high-stepper is a low spender when it comes to costs. You can own a V-8, for example, for hundreds less than most "Sixes"—and a Ford "Six" for even less.

What a stopper!

This '50 Ford actually helps you apply the brakes. They're 35% easier-acting King-Size Brakes that use car momentum to help you stop. Like Ford's extra-rugged "LifeGuard" Body, they give you the kind of protection you'd expect only of costliest cars. And for added safety and comfort, you ride low and level in the "Mid Ship" section of the car, between the wheels—not over them. You're cradled in comfort on "Hydra-Gol" front springs and "Para-Flex" rear springs that give a road-hugging smoothness truly amazing.

What a looker!

Yes, again in '50, Ford received the Fashion Academy Gold Medal as "Fashion Car of the Year." And Ford's stay good looking because their baked-on finish is "made to live outdoors." That means high resale value which, together with Ford's low running costs, puts Ford further out front as America's savingest car.

And what a saver— all the way!

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Mrs. Fern Strickland Roberts of Lamesa puts in rhyme her little son's question:

The cows were filling through the gate,
And John was putting out the feed for them.
'Twas passing twilight and getting late,
Daylight fast was growing dim.
In the distance I could see the children play,
Could hear them laughing now with glee.
They'd soon be rolling down the way,
And lean on the corral gate will me.

They grew quiet watching their father work,
For by now he was milking Old Wee,
The younger child, face streaked with dirt
Yet with the dignity of the age of three
Looked thoughtfully at the darkening sky,
With countenance sober as a judge's stare
Turned to his father, striding by,
And asked, "Daddy who turns those lights on up there?"
Thanks Mrs. Roberts for your words of appreciation.

It has rained so much I heard one man say that a snipe would bog in his field. Four and one half inches while you were asleep made your eyes bug out the next morning as you saw your lawn, flowers and garden under water. see okra pods getting longer and harder, the cucumbers turning to yellow gold while I sit inside and wish to gather them. The heavenly-blue morning glories try to reach up and up. They are the only blue we see as the sky is hidden by dark clouds.

It is such fun training the vines. I was looking for the Pastor's Helpers class to meet with me, but the morning was cool and I told myself I had plenty of time. I strung more and more twine and caught up long leafy sprays and wrapped them so them could cover the little fence I had put up. My grandchildren from Beville came in and we cooked and ate dinner. Soon the ladies were here and such a pleasant time we did have. Not till after they all left did I discover that I had left my dusting undone and names could have been written on tables instead of the guest book. I consoled myself about this error by the knowledge that blue morning glories would hang on my fence for to many weeks and their precious beauty would only be a sweet memory and that the association of my friends in my home was more precious than being miserable about a little dust.

Robert Mynard Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago once said, "If life hand you a lemon, make lemonade out of it." In other words make the "lemon" experience you would never have troubled yourself to find if you had not been challenged.

The long silver daggers of lightning and the ear-splitting roars of thunder, the high twisting winds and dashing rains with hail, seem to have given way to rumbling, muttering, thunder which growls at us and the rain has gone weepy and sad. The wind sways with easy care the trees loaded with raindrops. Our wild abandonment to grief gives way to quiet weeping.

The busy air conditioners are turned off and light wraps have come out of dark closets. Wet washed clothes lie in baskets waiting for our usual sunny weather. It makes me think of California folks. They are always telling us that there during our visit was "unusual" weather. Maybe so, or maybe not, I could not say to that. But I do know that rainy, cloudy days are very "unusual" for our West Texas weather this time of year, or lots of other times of the year.

I do not have but a few rose bushes, but my nearest neighbor

Mrs. Byars has many so:
The roses red upon my neighbor's vine
Are owned by her, but they are mine.
Hers was the cost, and hers the labor, too,
But mine as well as hers the joy,
their loveliness to view.

They bloom for me and for me as fair
As for the one who gives them add her care.
Thus I am rich, because a good friend grew
A rose-clad vine for all her neighbor's view.

I know from this that others plant for me
And what they own, my joy may also be.
So why be selfish, when so much that's fine
Is grown for you, upon your neighbor's vine.

Overheard on street corner: Farmer optimist—"More rain - more rest."
"Oh Yeh!" scoffed farmer pessimist, "More rain, more starvation."
Colored man to another colored man who had 8 or 9 children following—"Boy you ort not be in town, you ort to be in a cotton patch."

PETERSBURG, July 21 -- Mrs. Alex Norris and daughter, Virginia, Mrs. L. M. Honea of Lockney were here Thursday visiting Mrs. L. S. Claitor and the J. L. Suits family. Mrs. Honea and Mrs. Claitor are old school mates of a few years back, when the Hughes family lived in Lockney.

Celebration Date Is August Fifth

PETERSBURG, July 21--Considerable interest is being shown in the big 4th annual celebration on August 5.

It looks as if the town is going to be overflowing with people. All communities are on the job and rounding out their particular part of the program.

Be Sure To Attend Church Regularly

HAND IN HAND

THE trust of a little child is one of life's high goods. Each of us has been the better for the unquestioning faith of one of these little ones. To betray such confidence is to maim and twist the human spirit, perhaps beyond recovery. Shall we be worthy of childhood's trust, worthy in word and in deed, worthy in the example and the instruction we offer, worthy in the direction we give to young feet? We must be trustworthy, for their sakes. . . We must walk hand in hand.

EQUALLY as important is our trust, our confidence in the possibilities wrapped up in every new life. The little girl, the tiny boy, each merits our meditation and our imagination to look into the future and dream of what this life may be and do. God has made them worthy of our highest hope; they will go beyond what most of us can believe, surely beyond where we have come.

THIS eager mind, with its eternal questing to know, will learn all that we can share with him and more; he will solve problems that were too difficult for his parents. Give him a chance; help him to believe and to dream; fill his teeming brain with everything we have to offer; then trust his own thinking. He will be the master of the new age which he will help to build.

THE immortal spirit or soul will grow into a rich person with capacity for loving and for creating. Encourage him to read great biographies, teach him to sing our noblest songs, share with him our reverent prayers, acquaint him with high souls that pass his way; lead him into the church. Who can tell the grace and the nobility that lie hidden within the soul? It doesn't matter so much where he may be today; it matters much that we shall show him where he may go tomorrow. Trust the aspiring soul. And trust the great God who is creator of body, mind and soul. Who knows what you and the child and God may accomplish through this life? Walk hand in hand with him.
