

COTTON OUTGROWS THIRP THREAT, SURVEY REPORT OF COUNTY AGENT DISCLOSES

A thorough survey of the cotton crop in Floyd County has been made by County Agent Robert H. Gibson and Asst. County Agent Cecil Lewis for cotton insects. Their investigations reveal that most cotton has out-grown the thrip and that further thrip spraying is unnecessary. Some fields have been and are being damaged by careless weed worms or web-worms. Most of these fields have been controlled by Toxaphene applied at the rate of 2 lbs. per acre. A few fields are showing heavy to light damage from lice.

Phosphate) per acre. TEPP when applied at the rate will effectively control any thrip or fleahopper in the cotton at that time. Anyone using TEPP as a spray should use extreme caution in avoiding fumes or coming in contact with this poison in any way. It has caused death to humans and animals, but can be applied safely if the person uses caution. Very few fleahoppers have been found. A few lygus bugs were found. From this inspection the county agents are recommending that producers stop spraying cotton for thrip unless they are found in great numbers. Cotton fields should be inspected several times during the week for fleahoppers, careless worms, lygus bugs, and small boll-worms. No further sprays are necessary until these insects are found in damaging numbers.

Inspections of corn in tasseling and silking stage reveal an abundance of corn-earworms eggs. Spraying these fields where possible with 2-3 lbs. of 2 parts Toxaphene and 1 part DDT or 2-3 parts Toxaphene will give profitable control. Cotton fields are being damaged by a fungus growth called angular leaf spot and high winds. These two things are causing most of the rugged appearance to the cotton.

Consolidation Voted Lockney School Group

Saturday in a special session of the county school board, a petition was considered from the Cedar common school district board of trustees asking that a portion of the former Liberty school district be taken from the Floydada district and added to the Lockney district, an area sufficient to make their district contiguous to the Lockney district. It is their desire, they told the board, to consolidate with the Lockney district, which the transfer of territory would make possible. The board took no action on the request, leaving it pending. Members of the Cedar board of trustees are E. E. Wells, C. F. Lemons and E. W. Ginn.

The board took favorable action on a petition from the Lockney Rural High school trustees asking that common school districts of Erick, Pleasant Valley, Prairie Chapel, Ramsey and Sterley be abolished and that they be consolidated with the Lockney district. At the time the action was taken the five districts, together with Lockney district, comprised the Lockney Rural High School district.

The members of the county board also voted to recommend to the Cedar School board that they do not have school at Cedar this year, but instead that they allow students to transfer to Lockney and Floydada schools as the patrons desire. The board indicated in this recommendation that they would recommend that buses from the two schools be allowed to travel into the district to transport pupils.

All members of the county board were present for the meeting, which took the place of the regular meeting scheduled for an earlier date.

E. Thorn Smith Burial at Midland

Funeral rites for E. Thorn Smith, 47, a native of Crosby county, who died Saturday, were held at Odessa and interment was made in Midland cemetery Monday.

Smith, a former employee of The Hesperian and other newspapers of West Texas, was currently foreman of the Winkler County News at Kermit. Smith died of injuries he sustained Friday night when he jumped or fell from a seventh-story window of the Jefferson hotel in Dallas. Two companions with him at the time were released after questioning. Officers were confident there was no foul play. The justice of the peace in an inquest verdict termed the death "probable accidental."

Smith was a veteran of World War II. He served through severe campaigns in North Africa. He joined the army shortly after leaving Floydada. A sister, Mrs. Forrest Storey, of Ralls, said he suffered combat fatigue, affecting his eyesight. He was totally blind at one time and was still bothered with poor vision, she said. Mrs. Ida Smith, of Ralls, is surviving mother of the deceased and one brother, Wilburn Smith, lives at Ralls. His wife, one son, 3, and two stepchildren survive the deceased.

Early Cotton Shows Blooms

Progress of the cotton crop in Floyd county the past week could best be described as booming. With fields clean or being cleaned rapidly, good stands, hot sun, moisture ample for any field crop with a tap root, the stalks are rapidly approaching the period when they will begin to bloom and put on fruit.

In fact, there are already fields in the county which have had blooms for several days. Among these is the C. C. Burns crop on the R. B. Rosson place 3 1/2 miles southwest of Floydada. Burns has 320 acres of cotton, of which 60 acres is an early variety, seeded with delinted seed. First blooms in this 60 acres were seen 10 days ago. Mr. Rosson said "Burns has as pretty a cotton crop I have seen anywhere in this part of the country. I saw its equal a few days ago southwest of Lubbock."

While here, Robert W. Friedberg, price specialist in the consumer durable goods branch, will maintain offices in the Chamber of Commerce but will also be available for appointments. Businessmen in this area who need help in complying with OPS pricing regulations are asked to call the OPS representative by telephone to arrange for an appointment at their place of business, if they desire. The price specialist will also conduct interviews in his temporary office. "The Lubbock district OPS office," said Price Executive C. J. Taylor, "is using this method in an effort to bring about as nearly complete voluntary compliance with the government's price stabilization program as possible, as the agency cooperates with the business and general public in the overall national defense program. Merchants are urged to take advantage of this offer to bring their firms into conformance with the law."

Bell, son of Fred Bell of Floydada is in Mexico City this summer where he is in the graduate school of Mexico City college, the only institution of higher learning in Latin America that follows the same credit system as universities in the United States. Bell says that one of the advantages of studying at the college is that of being in the cosmopolitan and international environment of the country's capital city. Many of the students live in Mexican homes where they not only become proficient in Spanish but also are able to observe first hand the family life and customs of the country. The exchange rate of 865 pesos for $1 makes it possible for students with small incomes to take in jai alai games, bull-fights, and other entertainments typical of the country. Aztec ruins, old Spanish palaces, and world-famous beach resorts are all within easy reach of the students, both geographically and financially. Bell graduated from Floydada High school and Texas Tech college in Lubbock, where he received his B. A. degree, and served in the U.S. army in the South Pacific area of operations before coming to Mexico. An international trade major, he says that Mexico is a valuable place to study, particularly for any one planning to do business with Latin American countries. Founded ten years ago to fulfill a definite need for an American liberal arts college in Latin America, Mexico City College has grown to international importance through its unique role in the Western Hemisphere. Each quarter numerous universities in the U.S., including Georgetown School of Foreign Service, Ohio State University and others, send groups to the college for special study. The College is a member of the Texas Association of Colleges, extra-territorial status. "One of the most important objectives," says Dr. Henry L. Cain, president of the college, "is to develop a better understanding between peoples. We believe we are taking a step ahead in bringing all nations more closely together."

Geo. T. Moore K C Capitalist Died June 28

News of the death of George T. Moore, and of the last rites held for him at Kansas City, was given The Hesperian last week-end by Mrs. A. D. McCall, of that city, who nursed Mr. Moore in his last illness.

Mrs. McCall enclosed a clipping from the Kansas City Star, which told of Mr. Moore's demise as follows:

Native of Alabama
George T. Moore, 80 years old, a long-time resident of Kansas City, died today (June 28) after an illness of several years at the home, 3525 Walnut street.

Mr. Moore was born in Lowndes County, Alabama, the son of Lysander R. Moore, one of the early owners of the Emery Bird, Thayer store. He became associated with the store when a young man. He was graduated from Central Business college in 1881 and married Miss Katie Davis Secaree of Plattsburg, Mo.

Mr. Moore was one of four men made honorary members of the University club. He served as club president in 1925 and 1926 and had taken an active part in Nitwit club reviews.

He presented a 1583 edition of the famous "Breches Bible" to William Jewell college in 1949. The Bible was one of two purchased by Lysander Moore in the 1890s. The second copy was given to Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Moore was a member of the Westport Methodist church.

He leaves two grandnieces, Mrs. Diana H. James, 644 Westover road, and Mrs. Molly H. McKittrick, Boston.

Rites Held June 30
The funeral service was held at 2 o'clock Saturday, June 30, at the Stine & McClure chapel. Mrs. McCall writes: Six long-time friends served as pallbearers and a list of 12 honorary pallbearers also were named.

Mrs. McCall was Mr. Moore's nurse for the last years of his life and carried on much of his correspondence in long hand in his dictation. Some of his old friends in Floydada received correspondence from him in this manner in the past year or two.

Mr. Moore was at one time a large lender of money in this portion of the plains country on real estate and buildings, many of the business houses and some of the residences here were built through his confidence in the future of the county. This period lasted from about 1910 to the late thirties.

Geo. T. Moore became interested in this area through acquaintance with the late John N. Farris, whom he met during the time that his father was owner of the French where Mr. Farris was employed as a young cowboy in the nineties of the last century. Later when F sold to the Criswell Cattle company and Mr. Farris moved to Floydada and became president of the First National bank, he interested Geo. T. Moore in real estate and other loans here.

For several years Mr. Moore annually spent several weeks in Floydada and always headquartered at the First National bank. It was in the twenties that his affairs were handled here through J. V. Daniel, president of the bank. In the 1940s Mr. Moore closed out his last local interest while he was represented in the area by Olin M. Watson, now also retired from the management of the bank here.

The trip is sponsored by the City of Floydada. An automatic fire insurance rate reduction of 3 cents is given all cities in the state who send a member or members of their departments to the school.

Swear By Beard

Much of the word still takes its oaths "by the beard of the Phophet." At one time the Turks even "measured" veracity by the fullness of the beard, and a hirsute witness of the beard, and a hirsute witness needed to give no oath.

Cause of Tidal Waves

Most earthquakes occur beneath the sea. While less destructive usually than those that hit populated land areas, they may wreak havoc through high sea or so-called tidal waves that inundate coastal settlements.

'I Give You Texas' —Boyce House

An Indian fight was the cause of Brown County receiving its name.

The leader of the force of settlers was Capt. Henry S. Brown, whose well-known history of Texas.

Capt. Brown had a remarkable career. In 1827 while Texas of course was still a part of Mexico, he engaged in trading expeditions. While encamped on Peach Creek east of Gonzales, Brown found the body of a young stranger named Early who had left San Felipe de Austin with another stranger. When Brown reached San Antonio, he saw Early's companion in possession of the slain man's horse and other belongings—a fact which the captain reported to the political chief and that official authorized Brown to arrest the man and take him back to San Felipe for trial, which Capt. Brown did.

There it was learned that the accused was the son of a former governor of Kentucky and that he had been convicted of killing a Southern merchant who was en route, horseback, to Philadelphia and that the governor had pardoned his son.

The man was sentenced to die for the Texas murder but, according to Brown's history, died before the date of his execution. However, later research indicates it is probable that the prisoner did not die but wrought upon the sympathy of his jailer and the latter put out the report of death and nailed up a chunk of wood about the weight of a man's body in a box and that is what was actually buried. More than 90 years later a Texan who visited an island in the Pacific reported that he met the descendants of this man, who had fled there and lived out his life.

But back to Captain Brown— He is the discoverer of the Enchanted Rock. He made the discovery of this huge solid rock mountain while leading a force in search of Indian raiders. While he was on a trading expedition, redskins stole a large number of his horses and the captain set out in pursuit, at the head of a good sized body. He crossed the Colorado near the mouth of Pecan Creek, came up on an Indian village and there was a stubborn fight in which the savages were routed. This fight took place in what is now Brown County and the county was named in his honor.

We speak of this county and that town and seldom stop to think that in most instances they were named for some hero or pioneer who helped to build the foundations of Texas. The history of Texas, (the blood and toll and sacrifice), is recorded in the names of those noble men which have been bestowed on our counties and cities.

Quick Market

Oysters are one of the many perishable food crops that are marketed by telephone. Cargoes often are sold while they are en route in refrigerator cars. Oysters are grown by oyster farmers in coastal waters. The beds are tended carefully and it takes about five years to mature a crop.

Cleaning Leather

Leather can be cleaned by washing with mild soap and water. Mud is hard on leather, so remove it from shoes as soon as possible; wash it off with warm water and then rub oil or grease into the leather while it is still damp. This prevents the shoes from drying stiff and hard. For heavy shoes, oils, talcum, and grease are good lubricants.

Unusual Services

Did you know you can have your taxes paid or your funds deposited in the bank by the Railway Express Agency? It will also collect on notes and mortgages; obtain signatures on notes, mortgages, deeds and other legal documents; purchase goods; renew or redeem pawn tickets and return the pawned article to the owner; deliver papers to be filed or recorded by Federal, State, County, City or town officials and examine such records.

Wood-Headed Characters

Wooden-headed characters just can't help it. They were born that way. A stubborn streak may be apparent in a child by the time he is 12 months old. If his parents do nothing to mold his personality into softer, more agreeable lines, he is usually stuck with this unpleasant trait for life.

What About Spanish Rice?

There is no trace of rice as a native plant in the early histories of Egypt, Persia, Greece or Rome. It is not mentioned in the Bible; but its culture is alluded to in the Talmud. There is proof of its culture in the Euphrates Valley and in Syria, four hundred years before Christ.

Everyone's Duty

Every person and every community has a part to play in the civil defence program. Remoteness from places considered probable targets does not exempt any community from playing its part in the over-all program, since evacuee reception and care must be planned, and a support program organized.

Butter Sales Increase

Despite forebodings of dairymen that the repeal of Federal taxes and other restrictions on margarine would reduce butter consumption, sales have actually increased since the act went into effect on July 1, 1950.

Box Car Celebrated

The Sunday before Labor day finds the town of Tracy, Minn., celebrating "Box Car Day." The population is this railroad division town thus acknowledging the reason for the prosperities of the community, the freight business.

Mesquite Menace on Rangeland Target of New Chemical Killer

Bad news for mesquite trees which hamper southwestern range-land operations comes from the Du Pont company, which announces the availability of a new brush killer, designed specifically to control this pest.

The material is a low-volatility formulation to be known as 2,4,5-T Ester Brush Killer and has been developed as a result of a number of years of testing various herbicides for the control of mesquite, both at the Spur, Texas, experiment station and in large-scale field tests during the past season on rangelands throughout the southwest. Applications by airplane of the low volatility ester of 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxyacetic acid have proved by far the most effective treatments for killing this brush.

Economically, the mesquite tree is blamed for costing southwestern cattlemen millions of dollars annually. Its spread throughout the rangelands has crowded out grass and other plants that provide feed for cattle. Equally important, its dense growth has obscured the cross country vision of riders, resulting in the missing of thousands of head of cattle at round-up time.

For best results, it is suggested that the mesquite killing chemical be applied in the spring, from two to three months after appearance of the first mesquite leaves. Recommended airplane sprays should contain one and a half pint of the brush killer in solution with three gallons of water and a gallon of oil, such as clear diesel oil, per acre sprayed. The material is available in one-gallon cans, or in five gallon or 50 gallon drums.

MINK IS A THIRSTY ANIMAL

The mink—source of luxurious fur coats—is a steady and consistent drinker. This is a fact which fur farmers have to bear constantly in mind in moving into captivity this animal which lives in and near streams in the wild state.

A man may live without water for about 12 days, but three days without water is almost certain to be fatal to mink, say specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who do the fur farming investigations in the Bureau of Animal Industry. Under fur farm conditions, they find that many young mink (kits) are likely to die if deprived of water for a single day. Water is so essential to mink that frequent watering is well worth while. A test recently by one experimenter showed that mink kits watered seven times a day grew 12 percent heavier than those watered only 3 times a day. Pelts of male mink were two inches longer as a result of the more frequent watering. However, a small stream flowing through a trough from which all the caged mink can drink is dangerous as a possible spreader of disease to valuable animals.

Allied to their constant need for water is the fact that too heavy a supply of salt acts as an acute poison. Mink need some salt, but very little. Too much salt acts as a poison and results in symptoms of the "dehydration" which follows water shortage.

If you want to make friends at the right time, make 'em before you need 'em.

Fried Chickens Year Around

July is high tide for fried chicken fanciers who find this delicacy to take—and to reach for—a helping. In days when most were hen-hatched, the Fried Chicken Picnic was likely to be the first of the spring of family Tender young chickens or broiled—is now a year round orite on the menu—thanks to the commercial broiler industry food breeder.

Broiler specialists are setting records nowadays. Last year a number of chicks hatched for broiler business was just about to the number hatched for the number of laying flocks. This broiler hatchings are running ahead, and broilers are produced as well as welcome element to the meat supply.

In the past there has been a tendency for commercial broiler production to slack off in summer. Broiler specialists know farm flock to be coming to market in April. Chicks placed in April are ready for the frying pan in June. Agricultural Economics reports that more chicks were placed in April in March. To help broiler producers estimate market prospects, the U. S. is now issuing weekly reports of broiler placements in seven principal production areas. Producers to estimate closing number of young fow that will be at market weight three months later.

Last year, says the Bureau of Animal Industry, the number of broilers marketed was about half of the total of all poultry. For 1951 the broiler supply will supply a considerably larger share. This year broiler production had booked for June delivery than one and a half as many as in June of 1950. Poultry specialists say the supply of good hatchings has been about the only factor limiting the placement of broiler. Both the number and hatchability drop in hot weather.

Tires Around the Clock

To supply the critical needs of truckers for tires, Firestone's retread shops across the nation have gone on wartime work schedules of 16 and 24 hours a day putting new treads on worn tires. With truckers hauling more freight than ever before, the all-out efforts of Firestone's factory-method retread shops are keeping trucks rolling. Being removed from the mold in the above picture is a truck tire with a new tread that will provide thousands of additional miles of service for some trucker in the United States.

Boyce House—

Early days in Texas are described by Mike Campbell of Lockhart, well-known news-paperman:

"My maternal grandparents settled at Dresden, Navarro County, in 1844, on land granted them by the Republic of Texas. Our family still has that old document with Anson Jones' signature. The settlers made annual trips to Houston in wagons drawn by oxen for supplies, usually taking two months to make the round trip. There was not a fence between Dresden and Houston, except rail and brush fences around small fields and corrals.

"In those days, wild horses, cattle and wolves roved over the prairies. Prairie chickens were plentiful.

"My grandfather owned a slave who made all the shoes and boots. Lowhides were of the utmost use in the early days. They furnished shoes, harness, bull whips, chair bottoms and hinges for doors; and sometimes vessels for carrying water were made of leather.

"The Meltons were also early settlers in that section. Ethan Melton married my grandmother's sister. My great uncle, John Welch, told me of the Battle of San Jacinto, and the capture of Santa Anna. He related: 'Deaf Smith and I had been looking after some pack mules, and as we walked up to where General Houston lay, some of the boys led up a Mexican, dressed in uniform of a private, facing the general. The Mexican made a sign with his hand and General Houston answered with his hand. About that time, some other Mexican prisoners exclaimed, "El Presidente; El Presidente!" Then we knew we had Santa Anna.'

"Now nesting in a little valley north of Old Dresden lies the Melton cemetery, fringed with wild plum and persimmon thickets. There sleep pioneers, including my maternal grandparents. The song of the mocking-bird may be heard in the stately elms, but no more do the mournful howl of the timber wolf and the haunting notes of the horned owl boom out in the dark hours of the night. Yes, in North America, frontiers have vanished forever."

"Wild and woolly" characterized much of Fort Worth's life in the 1880's. Most celebrated of six-gun exponents was long-haired James Courtwright, who could shoot equally well with either hand and was a master of the "border shift" where in a pistol was drawn, fired, tossed in the air, caught in the other hand and firing resumed. He was city marshal; then as head of a detective agency, he convinced saloon and gambling hall proprietors that they needed his protection—except Luke Short, owner of the White Elephant Saloon, who had done quite a little effective shooting in Arizona and Kansas boom towns.

The two had a short conversation and both went for their guns. A bullet hit Courtwright's right thumb; he tossed up the gun for the "shift" but, while it was in the air, Short fired three more times and Courtwright had the longest funeral procession Fort Worth had ever seen.

Miss Odessa Poore of Lubbock was a guest Sunday of her sister, Mrs. J. C. Odam and family.

Significance of Hemorrhage Is Discussed

(By State Medical Association of Texas.)

Hemorrhage is commonly considered to stand for any excessive bleeding but actually means any escape, excessive or slight, of blood from the tube-like vessels it flows in. It may always be considered a sign that something isn't going right; how wrong things are will depend upon the source of the bleeding to a large extent.

A nosebleed, for instance, may be a very slight affair resulting from the rupture of those small varicose veins in the lower front part of the nose. It may come from injuries to such as squeezing the nose too hard or picking the nose or it may originate from the inside as a result of high blood pressure.

A small piece of cotton or gauze placed in the nose will usually stop the bleeding unless the source is higher up and back in the nose, in which case it may be necessary for the doctor to pack the whole nasal cavity to stop the flow before he can discover the source.

The spitting of blood is usually a sign of irregularity in the respiratory tract, any place from the mouth on down to the lungs. Blood spit out will nearly always be accompanied by sputum which may be only slightly tinged or may be a hard or rough objects which may scrape the wet lining of the respiratory tract or cause inflammation by their lodging in the tract may lead to blood-tinged spit. Fractured ribs or injuries to the chest may cause a puncture of some of those blood vessels lining the respiratory tract and bring blood to the mouth.

High blood pressure and hardening of the arteries may be general diseases which would cause the spitting of blood. Tuberculosis is notorious for the amount of blood spit out with coughing. Any swelling or sores that develop along the respiratory tract, whether single instances or as the result of certain diseases, may lead to this sign of disorder.

The vomiting of blood is a different matter. The source of bloody vomit is considered to lie within the digestive tract, usually in the upper part. Sometimes the vomiting of blood is not distinctly red and biologically, it may appear more like coffee grounds in the material brought up.

Blood from the bowels is also considered an intestinal tract irregularity. Hemorrhoids or tears in the walls of the rectum will usually account for bright red blood in the stools whereas darker blood is generally considered to arise from disorders in the large intestines. Black, sticky stools are frequently a sign of intestinal hemorrhage; black stools may result from medicines containing iron or bismuth but are generally not sticky like the black stools of hemorrhage.

Peptic ulcer is the most common cause of intestinal hemorrhage, either bloody vomiting or bloody stools. There are many other possible causes of this disorder, though, with cancer as one possibility, so the presence of bloody discharge not only from the intestines, but from any other part of the body should be considered a signal deserving medical attention. One or an occasional slight nosebleed is perhaps an exception; persistent nosebleed or a heavy nosebleed that resists staunching the flow should serve as a warning.

The body has wonderful defenses to stop the flow of blood to one particular spot, build back the amount of blood lost, and keep the blood circulating to other places that are not endangered. But these defenses can be overworked by the constant abnormal flow of blood and the organs that function in the defense set-up may require outside help. If no help arrives, the sudden rapid loss of blood may cause death. If the loss is slow over a period of time and no help is given those defenses, it may lead to that state known as secondary shock. Fainting is the most common phase of primary shock. Some people actually faint at the sight of blood, of course; others faint from the loss of blood.

Mrs. Malcolm Bridges and children, of Houston, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rushing. Mrs. Bridges will return to her home on Friday but the children will remain for several weeks. They accompanied Miss Ora Jean Willson of Houston, who came to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Willson for a few days.

Kinard this week. "We believe we are living in the last days and Christ will soon appear without sin unto salvation. Come and study God's word with us. We will be studying Genesis 8 next Sunday."

HERE'S MONEY-MAKING NEWS ABOUT YOUR U. S. DEFENSE BONDS!

New law gives your Series E Bonds ten more interest-bearing years

Bond bought for $18.75 in '41 will pay $33.33 in '61!

Congress has passed a bill that makes it possible for all U. S. Series E Bonds to continue earning interest ten years longer than was originally planned.

For example, a Series E Bond which cost you $18.75 in 1941 will pay you $25 in 1951. But if you hold that bond ten extra years, until 1961, it will pay you $33.33. This is an average interest of 2.9% per year.

The new law applies to all Series E Bonds (purchase price of $18.75, $37.50, $75 and up to $750.00) bought in any year. The same holds true for any bonds of this series which you may buy in the future.

There is nothing for you, as a bond holder, to do. You need not exchange the bonds you have. You need not sign any paper, fill out any form. You simply keep your bonds as you have been keeping them.

This law does not change your privilege of redeeming bonds in any way. You may still redeem any United States Series E Bond at any time after the first sixty days you have held it.

May be converted to Series G
The new law also makes it possible for you to exchange your Series E Bonds, in blocks of $500 or more, for Special Series G Bonds which pay interest in cash twice a year for 12 years. For further details, ask at any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch.

Look how your maturing bonds go on earning under the new law!

Floydada Girl Is Injured at Stamford Rodeo

STAMFORD, July 5—Both bones broken in her left ankle was the penalty of an "innocent bystander" when the bridal rein of Margaret Free, Haskell sponsor, broke during the barrel race Saturday night. The victim of the freak accident was Darlene Johnson of Floydada. She was permitted to sit in the judges stand for the night performance Monday carefully guarding her foot but has since been taken to Methodist in Dallas.

Darlene Johnson, 17-year-old sponsor representing the Floydada Rodeo Association, was on her quarterhorse, "Sugar," waiting for her name to be called. She had turned the horse toward the east and away from the runway and did not even know a horse was headed that way at top speed until she was hit.

Miss Johnson was knocked from her horse by the impact when Miss Free's horse collided with hers and Miss Free's horse stepped on her ankle, she said. Both bones of the ankle are broken, X-ray revealed at the Stamford Sanitarium where she was taken for treatment.

Miss Free's bridal broke as she was going around the third barrel of the four-leaf clover pattern and it left her unable to cope with her horse. She shouted to men near the entrance to help her as the horse left the arena. She was thrown from her horse and picked up unconscious, but quickly revived.

First Rodeo This Year
Miss Johnson, who was a sponsor here last year and has ridden in rodeos for the past three years, was preparing to appear in her first rodeo for this summer. She suffered a sprained back in a car accident last February and had been waiting for her back to be all right. The same left ankle that was broken was pushed up under the front seat of the car by the impact of the accident and the front seat had to be pried up to release her foot, which was not hurt at that time.

Miss Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, graduated from Floydada High school this spring and is planning to enter business school this fall. She has ridden all her life, she said. Her father is president of the Floydada Rodeo association.

Pastures Best Reliance For Milk and Beef

Successful livestock growers recognize they cannot produce milk and beef most economically unless they have an abundance of good grazing. Many Texas farmers have found that an improvement permanent pasture is their best and cheapest source of feed. Well managed pastures carrying one cow or more per acre is no longer a dream in this State, Texas, but a fact which has been demonstrated on numerous occasions in recent years.

The ability of Texas Livestock farmers to compete with livestock producers of other sections of the nation depends primarily on their ability to produce an abundance of grazing throughout the year. The farmers of part of the state have one great natural advantage over northern and western livestock producers in that they can grow winter pastures as well as spring and summer pastures. Year-round grazing is the Texas farmer's main answer to the problem of economical livestock production.

Realizing the importance and value of improved permanent pastures, the Agriculture Conservation Program provides a way whereby farmers may obtain the equivalent of cash assistance or certain materials for the establishment of permanent pasture. The assistance consists of either payment or reimbursements for a part of the cost of establishing the pasture and applies to such items as grass and legums seed, limestone, superphosphate, potash

Farmers who are interested in obtaining this assistance must bear in mind that there are definite limitations on each individual farm as to the total amount of assistance available for pastures, and there are also definite specifications which must be complied with in developing their pasture. Those who are interested should contact their county PMA Administrative officer for details concerning the pasture practices.

'I Give You Texas' —Boyce House

Boyce House Gives You Texas? You can find Texas material in books that you would least expect. For example, recently I got around to reading Col. Henry Watterson's autobiography. The great Louisville editor, in his youthful days, was a Washington correspondent and knew Sam Houston personally.

Old Sam didn't like the New York Tribune editor, Horace Greeley, and in a speech said, "I refer to Horace Greeley, whose hair is white, whose skin is white, whose clothes are white and whose liver is of the same color!" Houston could think fast on his feet, as another of Marse Henry's stories shows. Sam, in a speech (maybe the same one in which he paid his respects to Greeley) referred to the Tribune's assistant editor as "an Irishman, an Orange Irishman, a red-haired Irishman"—then he noticed that there was a sprinkling of red heads in the audience and he quickly added:

"Fellow citizens, when I say that he is red-haired Irishman, I mean no disrespect to persons whose hair is that color. I have been a close observer of men and women for 30 years and I never knew a red-haired man who was not an honest man nor a red-headed woman who was not a virtuous woman; and I give it to you as my candid opinion that had it not been for his red hair, this fellow would have been hanged long ago!"

Senator Toombs, the Georgia firebrand, had a great gift of humor. In the midst of a battle of the Civil War, someone said something favorable about Ben Ward, a Northern politician. Bullets were whistling by and shells were screaming. Toombs nodded his head at the favorable remark about Wade and said, "Yes—I have never believed in the doctrine of total depravity."

HEARING IS REVEALING

We asked the dear old lady With the brand-new hearing aid If her relatives were happy With the purchase she had made.

"My dear, I haven't told them." Was the answer, soft and shy; "But I've changed my will 3 times," said she.

San Jacinto Battle Joined Despite Orders

DALLAS, Texas, March—(Special) Andrew Forest Muir has some things to say about Texas' Number One hero which should be said with a smile—particularly when ladies of patriotic societies are present. In an article in the Spring issue of "Southwest Review," published by Southern Methodist University Press, Mr. Muir reveals for the first time certain facts about the Battle of San Jacinto which on doubt will cause arguments almost as heated as the battle.

Muir writes that when news of the fall of the Alamo reached Houston's army, it began a headlong retreat, first to the Colorado, then to the Brazos. "At times it seemed that the terror stricken families (of settlers) and the retreating troops were racing to see which would first cross the Sabine. Rumors ran through the army that Houston was to continue the retreat until he crossed into the territory of the United States where he would be safe from Santa Anna."

Houston's army was made up largely of men who had come to Texas for a fight. They wanted a go at the Mexicans, and when the retreat continued, and they were kept in a long bivouac, many of them deserted. There was general dissatisfaction throughout the troops, with much criticism of Houston by both soldiers and officers. Muir states that whether the order to head toward Harrisburg—where the Mexican Army was expected to go—was given by Sam Houston or Secretary of War Thomas J. Rusk, it was the only command the surly Texans would have obeyed.

Later, when both Mexican and Texan armies had succeeded in dotting themselves up between Buffalo and a strip of exposed prairie, the Texas men could no longer restrain and attacked the Mexicans during their siesta hour. Houston claimed that he ordered the attack, but, according to Muir, "more than one participant insisted that Houston ordered the troops to halt as soon as they began the assault." Twenty minutes later the battle was won, and Texans were pursuing fleeing Mexicans through the timber along the Bayou.

Among the spoils of war captured by the Texans was some $12,000 in cash, which, less an amount assigned to the navy, was supposed to have been divided among the troops. Most of them, however, never saw any of it, and many believed the money was "counted out of existence."

Muir's article is bound to add more fuel to the fires which have long raged around this most controversial event in Texas history. "The Mystery of San Jacinto" is the lead article in the Spring issue of "Southwest Review."

CREW SPELLS OUT "LEYTE"; READ IT—Shown in the above photograph is the USS Leyte upon her recent return to the United States after several months of duty with U.N. Naval Forces in Korean waters. The Leyte joined Admiral E. C. Evan's Task Force 77 early last October after a record breaking run three quarters of the way around the world. The next day her pilots started pounding the enemy giving close support to ground troops. During the tour of duty in Korean waters the Leyte's planes destroyed or damaged over 1,000 military buildings, 127 vessels, 59 bridges, besides blocking 3 tunnels and inflicting 10,000 casualties.

New Insecticide Research Result

Allethrin is the coined name of a new insecticide that is highly effective against several kinds of insects, especially house flies. Discovery of allethrin as a synthetic chemical was a result of long time studies of the active insect poison in pyrethrum by F.B. LaForge and others in the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. This research team determined the chemical structure of four compounds in pyrethrum and were able to produce, in March 1949, allethrin which is closely related to one of the four compounds.

In a recent review of development in the insecticide field, H.L. Haller emphasized the speed with which industry accepted the results of this research and carried it further. Industrial chemists aided by active cooperation by the Federal chemists had allethrin in commercial production within a year. "This is an outstanding accomplishment," said Haller, "especially when it is required at least twelve chemical steps, each step necessitating careful chemical control to insure a good product and maximum yield. Industry is to be congratulated for having done a fine job in so short a time."

The name comes from a combination of syllables from "allyl" and "pyrethrin." The effectiveness of allethrin against house flies and mosquitoes is particularly welcome now for two reasons: (1) It provides "stockpile" insurance against a shortage of pyrethrum such as occurred during World War II; and (2) development of resistance to DDT by flies and mosquitoes makes an effective alternate insect poison valuable.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(Nellie Witt Spikes.)
These early mornings are so very lovely. I go outside and take a ball of twine I have been saving all summer and make for the morning glory vines. I get more pleasure from this simple duty than from most things.
I tie the strings and catch the long green tendrils and carefully twine it around the string, where it hold fast and keep reaching out for new places to climb.
Very soon sky-blue umbrellas will shade the green leaves in the morning to twist up as the hot sun comes higher in the sky. Then the garden has to be seen after. I find yellow squash and cool green cucumbers and a few red strawberries. The lettuce is still good, ruffled up like a young lady for a dance, onions white as milk have been gathered and hung in the shade.
But I have to come into the house and make jam out of the red wild plums Wilda and I gathered at the farm the other day. Dinner has to be cooked and while I wait for it to cook, I will take time to type this article.

I have lighted my flame at the altar of the Eternal
I am become myself the living torch, burning with an everlasting fire.
I bring again the ageless, vibrant message of transcendence,
Man's kingdom heritage, immortal and triumphant light!
And when its flaming utterance is through
I shall pass this incandescent torch of beauty
Onward in escasy to you, and you, and you.
And after all have lighted their torches at the flame of the Eternal may we follow this prayer by Myrtle Shay:

All through my life I've daily prayed
For blessings for myself,
For friends, success, and happiness;
For peace and radiant health.
"God give me this," and "God, give me that,"
Has been my constant prayer;
I have not thought that maybe God
Might need me too, somewhat.
So this morning I'm not pleading
For more good things for me.
Instead I'm humbly asking, "Lord,
What can I do for Thee?"

WHO'S ON OUR TEAM?

While the administration has repeatedly appealed to the nation's consumers to help combat inflation by putting off buying whenever they can, federal government has been making such purchases as 68,000,000 can openers since the start of the Korean campaign a year ago. There are about a million and a half men in the Army, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce reports.

The president has told business men to avoid piling up inventories, to increase efficiency wherever possible, and to keep prices down; he has asked employers to conserve man power and urged all to work harder and longer, and to forego wage increases or more profits.

The federal bureaucracy obviously does not want to play on the nation's anti-inflation team, the report states.

Some examples of Federal purchasing of goods:

Army Ordnance recently purchased 6,000,000 gallons of paint in quart and gallon cans. This was a full year's requirement, but the Army sought delivery in 60 days. The huge order for paint in civilian-size cans, rather than in 5-gallon cans, was criticized by paint suppliers, and admitted as unwise by the Army.

The Army set up a requirement of 4,636,000 web belts for 1951. This is three belts per man, although only one is issued per man per year. Its 1951 requirements for combat boots was set up at 11,753,000 pairs, although the total consumption was estimated 4,800,000 pairs.

Last January the quartermaster service bought 5,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine at 25 1/2 cent a pound. At the very same time the department of agriculture was selling 5,500,000 pounds of surplus butter to Italy at 15 cents a pound.

Reports of the Byrd committee show that the number of civilian employees on the federal payrolls had jumped from 2,184,681 on December 31, 1950, to 2,409,121 as of April 30, an increase of 224,440 in four months. This means that the Government has been filling new positions at the rate of 1,870 per day, every day in the month.

Recently an official of the new defense transportation administration reported that that agency is "stockpiling" stenographers "against the needs of the future."

Which report prompts us to wonder, who is on whose team?

One of the angles to education which we feel does not get enough thought in the minds of the educator—more particularly those fellows away out on the limb of philosophical speculation—is the dignity of the human souls with which they deal. This is the thing around which Americanism was built, for which the forefathers fought, for which 108 million people left Europe in 130 years. The educator's daily business should see that his teachings all come back to that basic thing which God created, the individual. For instance, the individual's rights, which the sheriff, the judge, even the president, cannot invade; for instance, further, the individual's responsibilities, which European statism denies, and which only the individual can assume, if we shall continue to have the kind of America which was envisioned in the opening paragraph of the declaration of independence. That is the thing that has brought America to greatness. Now, we harangue and make great "explanations" to our children, and leave their minds befuddled. The human soul, its responsibilities to God and country, and not to state and class and clique, its creation in equality of rights and responsibilities. Communism, statism, socialism, has none of that. Why "explain" or "apologize" to a child or a young man that heritage which his forefathers have brought to fruition simply because Europe and Asia foul the air with mummery of warped minds?

That the word agriculture is a big one, with a spread over a considerable variety of activities connected with the farm is brought to mind by a report on farm income for Texas for the period January through May made by the University of Texas bureau of business research. To the average farm operator the statement that income from Texas farms in the period was $150 million more than for the same period last year would be almost unbelievable. It was to us when we read the report last week. However, when you consider cattle as a part of the agricultural picture and read down in the story that cash revenue from this source was 42 per cent of the total increase of 45 per cent, it gives you a better idea of how it could be. Wheat, cotton, cottonseed all brought less money to the farmers pocket book in the period this year than in the same five months last year. Also a lot of the cattle cash revenue was due to extremes of dry weather which sent cattle to market from some Texas ranges.

PARDON us if we play switchman with a familiar railroad phrase, but we aim to flag down some certain people...

Those folks who've always had a great big yen for a new Buick, but a big worry that Buick prices ran too high for their budgets.

Now we'll have to grant you that —on style and beauty and size and impressive appearance — a 1951 Buick looks like a pretty high price tag.

And we'll have to grant, too, that the zooming power and the luxurious ride and the heavyweight steadiness you get in a Buick would also indicate prices beyond the reach of most people.

But honestly, you'll find nothing farther from the truth when you note the price tags on 1951 Buicks.

You'll find that beauty with the big-power, big-mileage, valve-in-head Fireball Engine is really within your budget picture—with prices starting below those of many of today's sixes.

And you'll have to admit then and there that you can have Buick room and comfort, can have Buick ride and handling, can have Buick style and size—for little, if any, more than you've been paying for lesser cars.

That leaves the next step up to you—stopping in to see us.

Come in soon, look over the SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER you've always wanted — and let that happy glow go surging all through you as you sign up for your smart-buy Buick.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Dial Telephone Service Cut in at Noon Today

Change over from the manual to the dial system is due to be made at 12 o'clock noon today at Lockney exchange of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. The directories issued last week have the new numbers in them which were not used.

however, since the change was not complete until mid-week and tests had to be made to assure accuracy in operation. Only the new numbers will be used in the future.

All Lockney phone numbers now have four figures. The new directory gives detailed information on dialing procedure.

With the cut over the telephone rates will be advanced. Most rates will advance $1 per month, it was said last week. With the cut over the Lockney office of the company will be abolished. Bills may be paid to Mrs. Faye Messer, city secretary, or they may be sent to the Plainview office.

Western Electric engineers made the installations and the telephone company's men were checking the work over in the interim between the completion of the job and the cut over.

J. C. Oakley, district manager of the telephone company, said no special ceremony would mark the cut over but that an open house will be held later.

Report Shows 16,509 Irrigation Wells in 29 High Plains Counties

In an estimate compiled by Bob Thurmond, irrigation specialist of A. & M. college, and released by him last week-end, it is shown that 2,500 new irrigation wells have been drilled on the high plains during the past year.

Thurmond, who is stationed at Lubbock, compiled his figures from reports of 29 county agents. Here are the salient facts of Thurmond's report:

There are 16,509 irrigation wells today, compared with 14,000 a year ago and 2,560 10 years ago.

There are 2,230,965 acres under irrigation. A year ago there were 1,966,000 irrigated acres and in 1941 there were about 275,000 acres subject to irrigation.

Counties included in the survey are: Armstrong, Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dallam, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Garza, Gaines, Gray, Hale, Hansford, Hemphill, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, Lubbock, Moore, Ochiltree, Parker, Potter, Randall, Sherman, Swisher, Terry, Wheeler and Yoakum.

Farms Numbered

The survey shows there are 11,651 irrigated farms. Of the total number of wells 5,910 pump more than 700 gallons per minute and 10,599 pump more than 700 gallons per minute.

Butane, with 10,279 wells, is the most popular type of fuel used to power pumps. Others include: Gasoline 2,363, diesel 467, electricity 2,116, and natural gas 1,284.

More acres of cotton are irrigated than any other crop. Thurmond figures 1,114,070 acres of cotton are under irrigation this year.

Crops Listed

Other irrigated crops in acres include: Grain sorghums 612,110, alfalfa 98,245, wheat 309,880, pasture 56,360, barley 150, sudan 23,000, potatoes 6,050, sugar beets, 1,800, oats 1,900, onions 850, safflower 1,400, castor beans 1,500, lettuce 2,300, pop corn 800, cabbage 175, corn 20,350, blackeyed peas 500, beans 200, tomatoes 120 and miscellaneous legumes 300.

Deaf Smith is the most diversified of the counties. Thurmond's survey shows this county irrigates cotton, grain sorghum, alfalfa, wheat, pasture, potatoes, sugar beets, onions, safflower, castor beans, lettuce and corn. This is 12 different crops.

Hale and Lamb counties follow closely in the amount of diversification. The survey shows Hale county grows 11 irrigated crops and that Lamb county grows 10.

Lubbock county has 2,300 irrigation wells. Hale county, in a three way tie for the largest number of wells, has the greatest number of wells pumping more than 700 gallons per minute. Thurmond figures 1,700 Hale county wells pump more than 700 gallons per minute.

Irrigation wells by counties include: Armstrong 40, Bailey 475, Castro 1,000, Cochran, 250, Crosby 623, Dallam 100, Dawson 9, Deaf Smith 1,000, Floyd 1,200, Garza 65, Gaines 275, Gray 2, Hale 2,000, Hansford 12, Hemphill 2, Hockley 2,000, Lamb 1,700, Lynn 325, Lubbock 2,300, Moore 14, Ochiltree 5, Farmer 600, Potter 10, Randall 250, Sherman 2, Swisher 2,000, Terry 100, Wheeler 8 and Yoakum 80.

No Smallpox In First Half Year in Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS—Not a single case of smallpox has occurred in Texas this year, said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Unfortunately, the fact that we have had no smallpox does not mean we are immune for all time.

"Smallpox can strike again. For example, in 1947, an infected individual from Mexico innocently carried the disease to New York City. The result was 13 cases and three deaths, the first deaths in 35 years. Service men returning from the Orient caused an epidemic of 68 cases and 20 deaths in Seattle in 1946.

"In spite of Texas apparent freedom from smallpox, vaccination of every child before he is a year old and re-vaccination every three to five years is imperative. This is the only sure way to prevent the disease.

"With the speed of present day travel a person harboring smallpox could alight in our midst at any time. If the public becomes lax concerning vaccination that single case could spread as happened in New York and Seattle.

Dr. Cox asks, "When were you and your family last vaccinated against smallpox? Would you and your children be safe if exposed to this disease?"

3-WAY CHOICE!

For "the drive of your life" Mercury now proudly makes available a high choice in transmissions. Merit-O-Matic Drive, the new simpler, smoother, more efficient automatic transmission—of thirty Touch-O-Matic Overdrive an optional at extra cost. There's also silent-ess standard transmission.

1. Road-Test a Mercury for Proof of Performance!

Get into a Mercury and out on the road—and you'll find power, purring V-eight power—more of it than you may ever need.

Now, swing into traffic and discover what a joy it is to handle. Climb a hill. Try an S-curve. Turn down the roughest road and see how Mercury's springing smoothers the bumps.

Comfort? There's move-around space for six. It's room with a view: big windows for extra visibility. Drive a Mercury a mile or two and you'll want to drive it home.

Try it today—MERCURY for "the buy of your life!"

2. Budget-Test a Mercury for Proof of its Rock-Bottom Economy!

Does it have a down-to-earth first price? Mercury's price tag you can understand—gives you a big dollar's worth for every dollar invested.

Will you be sure of good gasoline mileage? Mercury has proved its more-miles-per-gallon by winning officially sponsored economy tests.

Is it famous for long life? It is indeed! 92% of all Mercurys ever built for use in this country are still on the road, according to latest annual official registration figures.

Will trade-in value stay high? Mercurys keep their value; used car market reports consistently prove it.

south Texas breeders announced recently.

Both of the young bulls are sons of Jester Aim, one of the record-making bulls of current Jersey history in the nation. Knolle's is the world's largest Jersey herd.

One young bull, shipped to Carmack is a 5-star son of Jester Aim from a daughter of Masterman Golden Jolly. This cow has an official record of 680 pounds of fat in 305 days. The Carmack herd is spoken of as one of the leading small herds on the high plains.

The second bull, shipped to T. G. Herring & Sons, of Crosbyton, is named Masterman Standard Flash. He is a six-star son of Jester Aim out of a daughter of Masterman Golden Jolly. This cow in her tenth year produced 780 pounds of fat from 12134 pounds of milk in 305 days. Only a half-interest in the calf was sold to the Herrings. Knolle said the young bull was one of the best calves to leave the farm this year.

T. G. Herring has had long and successful work with Jerseys and his sons have enthusiasm and ability, which prompted the Knolles to form the partnership it was stated.

Billy Wester, who has been spending his vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wester, returned to Dallas and his studies at Baylor Dental college. Billy will receive his degree from the college on September 24. He will probably "work" for Uncle Sam after that time.
