

Good Rain Makes Cotton Prospects Brighten

Prospects for a good cotton crop in Floyd county again this year soared Tuesday as the fields over a wide area soaked up the moisture from a rain that fell in a seven or eight hour period Monday night.

Blowing in swiftly on the heels of a dry July "norther" that had whipped up dust and thin clouds throughout the late afternoon, the rainfall was measured at 1.3 inches at Floydada and ranged in measure all the way from 4-tenths in the vicinity of Providence in the northwest corner of the county to three inches at Allmon in the southwest corner, throughout the county the reports indicated promising conditions.

The freakish "norther" and rain came on the heels of blistering hot weather that had prevailed the first six days of the month. This followed a June that broke heat records of several years standing.

The rainfall assures ample moisture for cotton to put down a good tap root through the heat of mid-summer and go into mid-August with promise of an abundant yield. Reports from all portions of the county says cotton is just edging into the blooming stage with little indication of insect infestation. Cotton, especially early cotton, had continued to grow throughout the heat of June and early July. In the Sterley area where irrigation is practiced almost 100 per cent and where early cotton got off to a good start the crop is earlier and better than in 1951.

The absence of hail, scourge of plains farmers, has been marked. Monday night's rain was like previous ones of the growing season, leaving no marks of hail damage in any of the reports that have come in.

Late Feed Planting The rain is also expected to be the signal for some late feed planting, although this acreage is expected to be light. Throughout the county the shortage of forage crop acreage this season forecasts a short bundle crop.

The rains will have a highly beneficial effect on the cattle market and will relieve many small owners of the necessity of going to town with their cattle for a few weeks to come at least. Grass shortage and limited cultivated range for livestock had the stockmen in a squeeze.

The rain extended more than 200 miles eastward and far south as well.

Bids on School Jobs July 31

Members of the Floydada school board have no hope that the new buildings and improvements on old buildings of the school system in Floydada will be completed by the beginning of the school year.

However, they are moving as fast as they can to obey the mandate of the taxpayers for carrying on a $60,000 combination of jobs to meet the current acute need for additional school rooms and for betterments in the school plants.

Work planning includes a three-room classroom structure in North ward, and re-doing the old building there to relieve crowding of a fast-increasing scholastic enrollment. The past year adjacent church buildings were used for the student body overflow there.

Room for two additional classrooms will be made at the high school, where a laboratory is to be added to the building. Other betterments there and at Andrews ward include electrical installations that will give better lighting facilities.

Last week the school board made their formal contract for the sale of the $60,000 bonds intended to be used for the new construction. Also the board employed Haynes & Kirby as architects to plan and supervise the construction.

At this time it is anticipated the contracts will be let on July 31.

League Nears End of Second Half Schedule

Only one soft ball league game was played in the week with July 4 lay offs. R.E.A. played Humble Monday night winning 10 to 5. The second game between McCoy and Center was called because of strong wind and cool weather. That game will be made up Thursday, July 16 as a second game. McCoy and Dougherty play first with McCoy taking on Center in the second.

Friday night, July 11, another double header, Builders Mart (S.P.L.) Vs. Murrell Furniture and R.E.A. Vs. Center in the second.

Second Half Ends Monday Night Monday night, July 14, will end the second half of league play with all postponed games being made up so the double elimination play offs of the first four teams can begin Tuesday, July 15.

In this elimination teams No. 1 and No. 4 will play the first game Tuesday night and Teams No. 2 and 3 will play the second game.

Wednesday night the two winning teams will play the first game of a double header and two losers will play the second game. Games will continue and end Friday night with a league winner.

Girls Tournament Planned Beginning July 21, it is hoped that a double elimination tournament can be worked out with four girls teams to begin just ahead of a mens tournament. The girls team are Lockney, Spur, Crosbyton, and Floydada. Plans will be announced later.

WHEAT DEPOSITS SOAR

Returns from the most gratifying wheat crop in recent Floyd county farming history began to flow into the channels of local trade the first of last week, following the announcement of CCC loan values.

Receipts have run in excess of $100,000 per day. Saturday was the ringer, according to President E. L. Norman of the First National bank, who said receipts there reached $407,000 that day. Next biggest day was Monday with $300,000 credited to the accounts of individuals from

STILL MISSING

Still a mystery is the whereabouts of R. L. Ardry, 86, who left his Floydada boarding house the morning of June 12 to spend a few days with a daughter at Levelland. He has not been seen since. A wide-spread hunt for the missing man has been under way since it was discovered a week and a day after he left his room that he had not arrived at the home of the daughter, Mrs. R. E. Gilbreath.

The fact that he was missing was brought to light by a post card notion from Miller & Miller asking Mr. Ardry to call for his suit case which was found in a by-road in the outskirts of Memphis, Texas, by a Miller and Miller driver.

All leads had uncovered no information last week when Sheriff Leland A. Hart broadcast an appeal for information that might be helpful. Officers of the area were alerted and a description and picture of the missing man was forwarded to the State Department of Public Safety for circulation throughout the state.

The picture above is a good recent likeness of the unassuming resident of Floydada since 1926.

The children of Mr. Ardry include three daughters and five sons, who have been here all or a part of the time since the search for their father began.

School Transfers

County School superintendent Clarence Guffee reminds the parents of school age children that July is the month to make application for the children to transfer from one school to another, when their grade is not taught in the home district.

Please come to the office and attend to this during July, said Mr. Guffee.

Drillers Final Lakeview Well

Announcement of the first drilling contract for oil on a step out from the Minnie Adams No. 1 was not forthcoming yesterday, but it is in the making according to well-founded reports. It is due to be confirmed within the next several days.

None of the details are ready to be released, except that the test will be about a mile west and slightly south of the Adams well on the W. N. Jones estate lands, and that the contract calls for drilling to begin within 60 days after approval is obtained from the railroad commission.

District Nine Baptist Camps Are Under Way

The Plains Baptist Assembly camp ground was the scene of meeting from Monday until Wednesday afternoon for the Intermediate boys from District Nine. This was the largest group to attend the camp.

There were over 420 boys registered between the ages 12 thru 17 years. Reverend Russell Poage of Friona was the camp pastor and the missionary was Mrs. Aaron Hancock, a Cherokee Indian from McAllister, Oklahoma. Mrs. Hancock works as a missionary for the Baptist church with all the tribes of Indians in Oklahoma.

Al Brian, educational director of the First Baptist church has been in attendance at the Intermediate boys camp and will be the rest of the week. The Junior boys camp meets Wednesday night thru Friday afternoon. Over 1,000 boys of the junior ages 9 thru 12 are expected to attend.

The 420 boys who attended the first camp of the week was 30 more than attended last year.

Next week will be the girls camp. The first three days will be for the intermediate girls and the rest of the week will be for the junior girls. A large number, probably more than attended the boys camps this week, is expected.

May Complete as Pumper

Continued tests of the Standard Oil of Texas Minnie Adams No. 1 at Lakeview this week point to the probability that the well will not be finished as a flowing well unless acidization of an additional section of the pay formation is done.

Thirty feet of a total of 148 feet of the formation has been acidized, according to a report made public last week. This section will flow by heads when swabbed but does not have enough gas pressure to continue the flow after a few hours of open hole.

Several hundred barrels of oil have been taken from the hole, but presently there is a question locally whether the additional formation will be acidized or whether the well will be completed as a pumper.

As a pumper it is estimated good for 500 to 700 barrels of oil per day.

Briscoe-Dickens Roads in July List

The projected state road from Silvertown northeastward to make a highway down Schott cap is included in the list of contract lettings announced for July 15 and 16. This will be one of the major jobs included in the list.

Also up for letting at the same time is a farm to market road in northwest Dickens county. This road will extend from the end of the farm to market road east of McAdoo one mile for 4.7 miles north and east, serving a highly productive area.

Democratic Primary Ballots Readied As Absentee Voting Opens; Biggest Vote Due to be Counted

With a notably shorter list of state and district candidates and a shorter list of county and precinct aspirants to choose from, it is forecast that Floyd county voters will go to the polls on Saturday, July 26, in larger numbers than ever before in the history of the county.

The ballots already are printed and in the hands of the county committee and absentee ballots also are in the hands of the county clerk. The period for absentee voting opened Monday morning. How many such votes are cast before the end of the 20-day period three days before the primary will determine how big a job the committee's absentee ballot canvassing board will have to do Saturday afternoon, election day.

Reports on Test Made Report on the tests made the latter part of last week, made public Monday, are about in line with the results that have followed this week, according to local, unofficial information. This report released Monday said:

Oil flow on a drillstem test in open hole from 7,602 to 7,784 feet, total depth, was reported Monday at Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 1 Mrs. Minnie Adams, section 32, P. D. Adams survey, Cisco lime discovery eight miles southeast of Floydada in Floyd County.

Open 55 hours and 40 minutes, gas was at the surface in 18 minutes, but no fluid apparent at the surface. Swabbed after tool had been open 24 hours and 10 minutes, the well kicked off and flowed 19 1/2 barrels of oil the first hour, 19 barrels the second hour, 13 barrels the third hour, 12 barrels the fourth hour, 10 barrels the fifth hour, seven barrels the sixth hour, six barrels the eighth hour, after which flow died.

Left open 19 more hours, the well headed 58 1/2 barrels for a total of 147 barrels of 38.8 gravity oil in 13 hours.

Swabbed once more, the well flowed 14 barrels the first hour, five barrels the second hour, three barrels the third hour, and two barrels the fourth hour, after which flow died again. Gas-oil ratio averaged 1,160-1 during this test.

Puff-Brinsmere Test Report yesterday from the Puff-Brinsmere oil test in the northwest corner of the H. A. Krause land in southwest Floyd county was not too encouraging. According to this report the bit was at 7636 feet yesterday morning and no shows had been found in repeated tests.

The test will be drilled to 7,800 feet unless a pay formation is found before that depth.

Outdoor Rally of Candidates

An outdoor candidates rally on Saturday night, July 19, is announced by the women of the Order of the Eastern Star at Lockney.

The event will be staged on Main street there. The Eastern Star will sell pies and cold drinks, and all the candidates will be given an opportunity to speak and meet the voters.

The hour is set for 8 o'clock. The rally is a week prior to the primary election on July 26. A large crowd is expected.

Coach Preston Watson is helping with the work and supervising the job.

In addition to being re-strengthened the stands will also get a coat of new paint throughout, Superintendent I. T. Graves said.

Views and Comment

Not many days remain until the first primary July 26 when a large per cent of local and state races will have been decided, so far as the Democrats are concerned. Just an outside chance that republicans could make it interesting in scattered portions of the state. The governor's race is due to become more interesting in the next week or so. The powerful County Judges and Commissioners association is yearning for some way to keep him from being governor another two years. He has also other opposition but we'd estimate this as the strongest. The governor believes that the commissioners and judges are spending far and away too much road fund money for the results they are getting the taxpayers. But that is incidental to the fact that he believes taxes collected at one level and spent at another level of government is bad practice. The commissioners would find themselves cut off at the pockets, based on their present rate of operating, should the governor get the road bond refund money back into the hands of the State Highway department and the money that is collected for automobile and truck licenses also back into that agency for handling. As it is now Floyd county gets upward of $50 thousand from licenses issued and last year received upward of $20 thousand from the road bond refund, if our information is not wrong. Commissioners Courts fear the governor and those who see it as he is said to see it would just about put them out of business, so far as road work on the present scale is concerned. The commissioners would find a good many people who agree with the governor and the governor would find a good many people who agree with the commissioners. That could make an interesting last week or two in the campaign for governor.

It appears little sentiment has crystallized on the question of whom the people will have for their congressman-at-large in Texas this year. The state is entitled to one more than they have been having and sooner or later a district will have to be carved out for him. Meanwhile, the office will be filled by an at-large representative. The state has five, as we recall it, candidates for this office, only one of whom is from the deep west. He would be a Lubbock man, of course, and his name is John Lee Smith. Generally sectional lines are disregarded in this type of campaign.

Another Fourth of July has come and gone. Many people had not only the fourth but the following Saturday, and calling Sunday also a holiday, made it a three-day event. With three days to spend and a fast automobile people can cover a lot of mileage and be back on the job again the fourth day. Floyd county people, like many in the rest of the state, scattered to the four winds. It is a pleasant thing to do to get out once in awhile and do something different.

When any kind of machinery is carrying an overload is when things begin to happen to it. Striking proof is found in the news columns of the past few days telling the troubles of the water departments of many municipalities of the west Texas areas. Big towns and little alike seem to have crowded their luck into the ground during the dry, hot days of mid-June. The general pattern seems to be mostly the same in every town, a plea to the residents to be more conservative with the use of water for lawns in particular and more conservative with their other demands on the waterworks system. Floydada water works has its troubles, too, but the utilities department has been trying to get over the hump without disturbing the users. The department has one well, long in use, that "went out," a mechanical failure that wouldn't have made any particular difference in mid-winter but may have the city hollering for help from the public if anything else should go wrong. There isn't anything wrong with most any of the waterworks over the area that a good, general rain would not solve at least temporarily.

News about an oil test that is successful surely is a relief-ful thing to write about. The Hesperian has not had a great deal of fault to find with local political or fiscal matters, school, municipality, county or state, that is of the scandalous variety. We assume that no commissioners court, city council or school board could please a newspaper publisher 100 per cent. (Fortunately pleasing the newspapers is not one of the things they are elected to do). But we can't say as much about our federal government. We are shamed by more than a few of things to which "practical politics" have made the people of the nation vulnerable. Surely no good democrat of the Floyd county variety could wish to perpetuate the unsavory set-up at top levels in national affairs. Long since has the thought of public servants disappeared from the vocabulary in the national capital. Now its such expressions as "paramount rights," "allocations," "seizure," "executive order" and such. To get one's mind off of the mess in such a pleasant manner as to put it on the forecast of probable problems in connection with the development of an oil field is a relief indeed.

White Seeking Re-Election to Ag. Com. Post

AUSTIN.—A recent admission by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that its 1951 cotton crop estimate was "too optimistic" has verified a claim by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

White, who is now seeking his second term in office, said the U.S.D.A.'s over-estimate by 2 million bales last year resulted in a serious break in cotton prices. His own correct estimate of the Texas crop as early as last August, and his advice to farmers to hold their cotton saved them millions of dollars, he said.

The commissioner cited his cotton report, which was upheld last week by the U.S.D.A. annual bulletin, as one of the services rendered by his department during his first term in office. He is actively campaigning this year to repeat his 1950 victory at the polls when he unseated J. E. McDonald, veteran politician who had held the post of Agriculture Commissioner for 20 years.

The son of a Clay county tenant farmer, White was formerly head of the Division of Agriculture at Midwestern University, Wichita Falls. He and his wife and three sons have now established their home in Austin.

TEMPERATURES

What are the highest and lowest temperatures which the human body can stand? In an experiment conducted in 1925, at the Cornell University Medical College a scientist stayed for two hours in dry air at a temperature of 201 degrees F and suffered no harm. More recent experiments at Wright Field show that even higher temperatures can, under special conditions, be tolerated for considerable periods of time. Most sturdy young men, it has been found, from the experience of pilots shot down during the Battle of Britain, can survive for as much as half an hour in water as cold as 40 degrees F. Very prolonged exposures, however, result in death from heart failure, presumably due to disturbances of the nerve impulses that cause the heart to beat. In regard to actual body temperatures, there is a record of recovery from a fever of 113 degrees, though most persons would not live if it went above 109 degrees. Generally, a drop to as low as 78 degrees for a short period is not fatal. Below this an increasing number of people will die, although, in a recent case in Chicago, a woman lived after her body temperature had fallen to 69.8 degrees.

One of Plains' First Irrigation Wells 'Quits' After 40 Years

PLAINVIEW, June 17 (Special) — One of the first irrigation wells put into operation on the Plains is not producing after almost forty years because of mechanical failure.

It is the ninth irrigation well installed by the Texas Land & Development Company in its vast program of development of irrigation on the High Plains of Texas. The well was designated by Texas Land & Development Co. as No. 9 and is located about twelve miles east of Plainview.

To Drill New Well

It was put down in 1913, said Winfield Holbrook of Plainview, several years before Holbrook came to Plainview. Holbrook managed the T.L.D., during the years it operated vast farm holdings in the area and since the company sold out all its property a few years ago has continued as the firm's representative here in looking after the financial business entailed in continuing payments on the land.

The casing in this well caved in when effort was made to withdraw it to clean and repair the well. Lockview Farms management decided to have a new well drilled nearby.

County Reported Under Water

Elton Flake and H. O. Bogle were drilling away on a new well, 150 feet from the old location, when the rotary bit dropped into a void and circulation was lost. This cavity was where sand and clay had been pumped out of the old well through the years. At 150 feet distance from the old hole it was estimated at between 20 and 30 feet deep.

Lockview's manager, Harold Loden, had the outfit moved 800 feet away to drill another hole.

Incidentally, Lockview had several wells packed with gravel several years ago. The gravel didn't let the water and clay both through and these wells were abandoned and new wells drilled nearby.

Not Worried About Water

When the No. 9 well was sunk, the practice was to dig by hand until water was encountered. This well has been variously improved from time to time. The present pump is being moved to the new well.

Asked about the behavior of water in that area, Loden said that of course the water table has declined under recent heavy pumping.

"How long will it last?" he was asked.

"Oh, there's no shortage of water, it will last indefinitely." He didn't seem perturbed about the longevity of Plains irrigation water.

Boyce House Says I Give You Texas

The first airplane I ever saw — (they were called aeroplanes then) — was at the Tri-State Fair Grounds in Memphis, Tenn., in 1910. The pilot was Glen H. Curtis, who, next to the Wright brothers, was the foremost figure in early aviation.

The plane was made of bamboo and canvas and was steered by a wheel, pushed away by the pilot, caused the ship to descend or, pull toward him, made it climb. (I may have the procedure reversed.) The pilot sat in the open, wore a cap with the bill at the back of his head, and goggles. The plane did little more than circle the Fair Grounds — but it flew!

The recent death of Anne Morgan daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, brought recollections of her visit to Mexico when that oil field was in full bloom. Miss Morgan visited Texas in the interest of the Red Cross. At Mexico, she was taken to see an oil well; and the owner, the late J. K. Hughes, turned it on and let it shoot into the air. She watched the sight for a little while and then asked, "How much oil has it made?" referring to the space of time that the display had been going on. The owner said, casually, "Oh, about a thousand dollars' worth." She gasped, "Turn it off!"

Duke University has been conducting experiments for years — in crap-shooting! The time of numerous students and instructors has been spent in tossing the ivory cubes and compiling records and they have come up with the invaluable information that, if the dice are honest, the odds are against the man who is doing the rolling. (This same information was in the Encyclopaedia Britannica when I was a boy.)

It is wonderful to see our institutions of higher learning grappling with, and solving, the truly important things of life. Now Duke will probably spend a dozen years and a good many thousand dollars to demonstrate what the odds are against filling an inside straight.

One of the characteristics of a small town is its democracy; everyone if respected — unless, of course, by his own conduct, he forfeits respect.

In Brinkley, Ark., (where I lived when I was 7 and 8), there was a young fellow who "clerked" in a grocery store and drove the delivery wagon. Everyone liked him and he became a town hero when, as a member of baseball team, he made a dash from third base and, in a cloud of dust, slid safely into home plate with the winning run.

The principal of the school in Brinkley was "Professor" Bailey. He was a large man, very dignified and all the pupils were in great awe of him — and well they might be because this was before the days of "progressive education" and a boy who didn't obey the rules was not considered as "developing his individuality" and not to be repressed or curbed in any way lest scars be left on his psyche — instead, from Professor's Bailey strap, he acquired, if not scars, at least marks but not on his psyche.

Professor Bailey was more than a rigid disciplinarian. He had a very good mind and also human sympathy, as he proved after Louie came to Brinkley. Louie was a little Jew who had a small beard. He was born in Russia and had arrived in America only a short time before his father had the town's store and he provided space in a corner for a table he repaired wares.

Some of the citizens of Louie fair fame for a smile. Louie wore a suit and one day a package had destroyed a burn along Louie's hair, after that, the jokes ceased.

Louie could not speak so Professor Bailey sent Russian grammar and enough of that language to be a good command of the business. It was time for Bailey to go to all that teach an immigrant the of his new land, wasn't it?

When we're thinking of places we'd rather not be those hot July days, most of us put Chicago high on the list. We can wilt at the mere thought of crowded trolleys, jammed traffic, stepped sucker pieces, and the sun beating down on the city streets. Even the air-conditioned convention hall, where all the excitement will be focalized, holds little charm on a hot July day. We relax on our own back porch, read the news and swear we wouldn't be there for anything in the world.

Nosiree, we wouldn't consider it.
 But wouldn't it be fun!
 Fun to watch the politicians busi-ble and green. To understand for a few days what makes men and women go through the ordeal of trying for public office.

Wouldn't we like to see the newspaper names come to life, and walk about the hotel lobbies? To realize they have families, hopes and dreams, and are people, just as we are?

We know one woman whose husband pulled a bunch of strings to get them box seats at their own party convention — then he backed out.

"I'd rather go fishin'," he explained.

But she's a trooper. She's off to Chicago carrying her softest shoes and her coolest clothes. Sure she'll be uncomfortable, but it's an experience she'll never forget. It will be fun to get home, of course, but for a little while a least she will have felt America's pulse beat. And while she won't be making history herself, she'll feel the dynamic excitement of history being made!

Mrs. Roy Curry Is Club Hostess

"We do not know how much we Americans should be thankful until we visit other lands," said Mrs.
 Brown.

 theme in her flower arrangements and her refreshment plates, served the members present: Mesdames

 O. Tye, J. T. Hopper, D. W. Burke and C. W. Denison, and Alice Latta, a visitor.

 the club room with Mrs. Riley Holmes der and roll call was answered with "What I would like to see in the year book next year."

Mrs. John Hoffman gave the council report. She reported the State be at A. & I. College at Kingsville, Texas, August 24 to August 26. The Long Range Battle Plan Against Rampaging Polio Given Outline

AUSTIN, TEXAS — A long-range battle plan against rampaging polio was outlined Wednesday by the State Department of Health.

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox recommended these eight points of action in combating the disease which this year is striking harder at Texas than at any other part of the nation:

1. Spot spray insect breeding places after they have been cleaned up and destroyed. Spraying indiscriminately might kill a few insects on the wing, but it won't do the job. It might kill valuable plants and create a false sense of security.
 2. Get rid of animal shelters in urban areas. They cannot be kept clean and consequently create a health hazard as fly breeders.
 3. Get rid of dump piles, tin cans, old tires, and accumulated debris which breed flies and mosquitoes and provide harborage for rats.
 4. Provide a properly operated sewerage system and get rid of all surface toilets. Dr. Cox believes surface toilets constitute one of the major health hazards facing Texas.
 5. Provide a source of pure water.
 6. Protect food supplies in wholesale business houses, retail shops, and in private homes.
 7. Make regular inspections of all premises to see that no possibility exists for fly breeding. If you have flies, somebody is maintaining a breeding spot.
 8. Garbage should be placed in fly tight garbage cans until time of disposal. Tubs, boxes, lidless garbage cans, etc., are of no value.
- He urged each home owner to assume responsibility for keeping his property clean inside and out. This will help protect you and your neighbor. More people have been struck down by polio this year than ever before.
- He said it takes months and months to clean up a city, and that it "takes forever to keep it that way." The program must be continuous. "It will take from one to five years to really clean up our larger cities," Cox said.
- "This is the same program we have followed and published for the past ten years. People have not to get over the notion that spraying alone will keep their city fly-free," Dr. Cox declared. "The only way to kill flies is to do it methodically."

block by block, by eliminating their breeding places.

"They carry many diseases—diarrhea, typhoid fever, cholera, trachoma, just to mention a few. I firmly believe that if this 8-point program is invoked, we'll see a lessening of polio incidence in the future."

WHEN POLIO IS AROUND

BUT DO KEEP CLEAN

RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seven-year-old Karen Blecha enacts 1952 polio precautions recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. When polio is around, the National Foundation cautions parents to watch for these signs: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of neck and back. A person showing such symptoms should be put to bed at once, away from others. Then, call your doctor and follow his advice. If polio is diagnosed, call your local chapter of the March of Dimes for advice and assistance, including needed financial help.

cotton had stopped growing until the rain came. The cotton has no blooms.

T. S. Brown, Cedar community had 1 1/2 inches rain.

B. A. Howell, Sterley, reported half an inch Monday night. They didn't get enough rain to stop irrigating, he said. The cotton has scattered blooms and the cotton is the earlier and better than at was last year. The dry land cotton is not so good but the irrigated is fine. South Plains got 66-hundredths and Lockney in general got 71-hundredths, was the report by Mr. Howell.

Billy Stanforth of South Plains had one inch of rain. They turned off the irrigation wells Tuesday but will probably start them again soon. The cotton has no blooms on it.

A report in the Massie & Bond real estate office gave 35-hundredths of an inch at Silverton, slightly less northwest of that point, and 1.25 of an inch three miles east.

Helmuth Quebe said the rainfall at his Providence home was 4-tenths of an inch, about an inch at Lockney and heavier southward.

The temperature for the month of June hit an all time high, with only two days in the month below 90. There were seven days during the month with a high of 100 or over. The highest was on June 25 when the reading shot to 104, and June 30 was 103.

The high and low for the first seven days of July was as follows: July 1, high 97, low 70; July 2, 99 and 69; July 3, 103 and 73; July 4, 101 and 69; July 5, 98 and 71; July 6, 94 and 72; July 7, 97 and 64.

July 8 the high was 80 and the low 54. Wednesday morning the low was 57 and the temperature had climbed back to 72 at noon.

Garden Shoes

By Isabelle Bryans Longfellow

Gardeners always choose Dull, flat, discarded shoes. Spread very loose and wide. Beyond all pride.

Broken of tongue and lace. They have no mark of grace; To tread the naked earth, Their single worth.

But in a garden bed, The dark loam loosely spread, Its green life rising strong, They quite belong.

Wandering in and out Through lanes of leaf and sprout, They blend their abodes Like two great toads.

The above was taken from the Saturday Evening Post and many will find amusement and truth in it.

We had such a nice day yesterday, Saturday at Guy and Sybil Taylor's where the brothers and sisters of the John and Mary Taylor were having a day of visiting and remembering. The men sat under the tall shade trees, while the women as women have from time immemorial, fixed the dinner. Nora and Tom from Lubbock, Effie from Lovington New Mexico, Myrtle and Will's wife coming from California, Witt and Bula from the nearby town of Lorenzo, Vera from Tyler and Ode and Vesta from their beautiful home south of Ralls, which was once in the town of Emma. Oh, how nice it is to "belong" as an old Scotch woman once told me. And how Grandmother Brentz did enjoy the day! May we all meet another year in memory of Aunt Mary and Uncle John.

I have been so disappointed about my flowers this year. Seems as if somehow they have shrunk instead of growing. I had visualized long rows of glowing red verbenas, stately zinnias, and blue morning glories keeping each other company on our new ground. But only a few verbenas open tiny blossoms, the zinnias are just coming up, and so are the morning glories. Another year, just wait and see, I tell myself.

We were very happily surprised to see our next door neighbors (while we lived in Floydada) drive up to our door the other afternoon. Mrs. Byars, Dorothy, Gloria and Alden, how nice it was to sit and visit again. We loved to live in Floydada, the friends we lived near, the friends all over town. Every day was a day of pleasure in that beautiful little city. But we love Ralls, too. And I am sure if we had moved to any other small town on the Plains we would love it and its people, too.

If you have read Mrs. S. E. Joiner's column last week you will know what a woman goes through. Mrs. Joiner I remember once I had a carbuncle on the back of my neck and by all means I should have for once all the attention of my family. But what would one expect. Mr. Spikes went to bed with an attack of severe arthritis, the children had to go to the field for it was summer and the weeds had to be stopped, so mother got up, her with a sore neck as big as a baseball and waited on father.
