We extend our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Arby Mulder during the serious illness of Mr. Mulder's mother, Mrs. Sippie Mulder who resides in Floydada. At this writing she is a little improved. Mr. Fitzgerald, father of Mrs. Mulder, is also very ill at his home in Clarendon, and they have been going back and forth there.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Reasoner from Midway, Texas, were Saturday afternoon and evening visitors at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Allen at the parsonage.

Stanforth, Jr., and little Billy, left Monday morning of this week for a week's deer hunting in the mountains of Colorado, going to La Veta and around Cucharas camp. Mr. Stanforth nearly always brings back a deer. We hope he has good luck this time.

Plains to Get Television Soon Speaker Says

Coaxial cable and microwave radio relays, the two "communications trains" which are bringing network television to Texas, were demonstrated to members of Floydada Rotary club yesterday by Don Hanson of Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

Hanson was presented by Bob Rosson, who was program chairman for the day.

Hanson demonstrated a miniature coaxial cable which "piped" an image several feet to a television receiver. He showed a cross-section of the large cable, which contained eight pencil-sized copper tubes. Each pair of tubes can handle 600 telephone calls or two television programs, he said.

Radio relay was demonstrated by transmitting a picture between two small microwave towers. Hanson said this system is being used to carry some TV network programs. The large towers are about 30 miles apart and relay TV signals along a line-of-sight path. These systems can handle a thousand telephone calls and two television programs at the same time, the speaker said.

Explaining the telephone company's connection with television, Hanson said: "We're like the railroads down in the Valley. They don't grow the fruit or sell it. They just haul it. We don't produce TV programs or put them on the air. We just transmit them between stations in different cities."

The speaker did not indicate when television will become a reality on the high plains but the date is not far distant, he declared, and this county is due to be in a good reception area, he thinks.

Hanson explained basic principals of television. Scenes are broken down into thousands of tiny squares of light and dark which are converted into electric energy for transmission and broadcast. Twenty-five complete pictures are wiped on and off a TV receiver screen every second. Motion on the screen is due to an optical illusion called "persistence of vision," he explained.

A television program requires a radio band width of 4,000,000 cycles, the speaker said. Hanson demonstrated amplification of a program circuit by playing a record player with and without vacuum tube amplifiers in the circuit.

The video and music parts of a TV program often travel between cities by different means and are synchronized by equipment at the receiving end, he said.

Gin Runs Show Increase Daily

Something less than 10,000 of Floyd county's hundred thousand bale cotton crop had been turned out by Floyd county gins yesterday afternoon.

Gin runs have begun to pick up moderately with all the gins late in the day and some of the plants had a considerable bit of cotton on the gin yard waiting its turn.

Natural defoliation of the cotton in the fields has helped to open up the bolls and dry them out. Cotton is making a better turn out on this account this week than when the season opened. Most cotton growers indicate they have help to gather their crops as fast as the bolls open.

Several new gins are in operation in the county and it appeared this week that the acute conditions of last year would not develop. Many cotton farmers ginned. In 1951 at plants 60 and 80 miles distant when the gins in the county were unable to give reasonably fast service.

Wonderful, open weather has continued throughout the period of the last week.

Also attending sessions of the convention, which opens Sunday at the Kemp hotel, will be James M. Willson, sr., and James M. Willson, jr.

West Texas water problems, community service, Texas Highway policy and other topics will be discussed during the three-day meeting.

Watson, sr., was recently elected a director for 1953 in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce by the board of directors of the Floydada Chamber.

Floydada Days Fri., Saturday

A nip in the air and a recurrence of "Floydada days" bargains in Floydada stores, added to the transient shopping population, ought to make business hum in retail business establishments of the community this week-end.

"Floydada days," a mid-month feature fostered by merchantile interests, is, as the name implies, a special two-day merchandising event in which several stores join to highlight their current bargain offers. Despite the talk of inflation and higher prices many soft goods items are lower in Floydada, as a tour of the retail establishments will prove. Shop Floydada Friday and Saturday for "Floydada Days" values.

Producers Name Battey a Director

At the annual meeting of the Producers Cooperative elevator the annual audit and reports were given. Fred Battey was elected a director to replace P. J. Wilkes whose term of office expired.

Hold-over directors are Henry Willis, J. P. Moss, Tom Porter, and A. H. Kreis.

Roe Jones is manager of the Producers Cooperative elevator.

Eight of the former pastors will be present, among them Dr. Little, who was pastor in 1898.

Among the outstanding speakers on Sunday will be Hon. Sam Rayburn, Bonham. Dr. J. Howard Williams, Dallas and William Fleming of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Winnie Angus, left today for Bonham to attend the anniversary. She is a former member of the church and her forefathers helped in the building and the organization of the church.

TOO YOUNG TO RETIRE

Billy Morgan has completed 50 years on the same job but he still isn't old enough to retire on pension. An inspector of microscopic jeweled bearings at an Elgin watch factory, Morgan won't reach 65 until July 21. He was born in England, brought to America as an infant and started working at the age of 15 for 50 cents a day. "It was big money in those days," Morgan recalls, "even though we had to work nine hours a day to earn it. And we got a real break on Saturday—they let us off an hour early!"

Easter Island May Be New Pacific Air Link

Easter Island's great stone statues, left by a forgotten civilization far out in the southeastern Pacific, stand guard today over one of the last major blank spaces on the world air map.

However, it may be on the threshold of a new day. Mutual security talks are under way between the United States and Chile. It may become an important air base.

No one knows how or when the first inhabitants came to Easter. It is a triangular volcanic outcrop 13 miles long and seven wide.

Until recently it had a population of only about 400.

Easter's stone figures have been studied for more than two centuries, but they remain an enigma. Some are more than 30 feet high and weigh up to 50 tons. One uncompleted statue is 60 feet high. Cut from cross-grained granite, they were somehow lifted by a people who had no levers and very little stone.

TRULY A "SERVICE" CENTER
(A contributed editorial)

We Americans are using more oil in more ways than all the rest of the world combined. At the same time, we Americans are enjoying the highest standard of living in the world. No one can doubt that there is a healthy relationship between the amount of oil we are consuming and the amount of progress we are making. Significantly, the growth and development of the petroleum industry parallels that of the United States—and vice versa.

Since the oil industry is observing Oil Progress Week October 12-18, this is an appropriate time to think about oil and oil men—and to salute them for the amazing job they have been doing in keeping us supplied with an abundance of petroleum products. This, despite the highest consumption rate in history.

The oil men who most of us know best are those who run the service stations. There are more than 200,000 of them 19 out of 20 of whom are independent business men. They are active citizens of their respective home towns.

The service station has grown into a typically American institution. Actually the proprietor or manager or attendant runs a sort of branch office of the local Chamber of Commerce. It is impossible to keep track of the number of times he is asked to recommend hotels, motels, stores, cafes—sometimes, where there is good fishing or hunting.

Also, he conducts a sort of travel bureau. Not only does he provide road maps, but neighborhood folks as well as transient customers depend upon him for information about highway construction, detours, washouts and shortcuts. And your service man, with an assist from the local and state police, is usually right up-to-date with the facts.

It's true that the aggressive and progressive oil industry works in many ways, its wonders to perform, and certainly one of its most pleasant contributions to the American scene is the service station and the men who attend it.

We think that politics, by and large, is taken more seriously but at the same time with less noise in areas like Floyd county than in places where there is considerable concentration of population. It is our belief that here people think more and talk less about their politics. As for instance a bit of speech-making here for Mr. Eisenhower and a bit there for Mr. Stevenson and you have it, so far as the sound and fury go, in the rural counties of Texas. Not so in the big towns where more people have to prove on which side they stand for the sake of the future politically. And also where there are more people there are just naturally more loose-tongued persons and probably the less real information. It is an axiom that the less many people know about a subject the more they talk about it.

Fifty Seven Billion dollars, the official figure on the amount of U. S. Defense bonds now held by the American public. This is a tremendous backlog of buying power, the way they express up in upstairs language. In anybody's language it means that a community in which a considerable amount of bonds is held is a more stable one because of the fact. This is the greatest thrift program of all time—this campaign for the ownership of U. S. Defense bonds. Despite the critical attitude taken by some that the dollar has gone down and that the owner does not have as much value in his bonds today as he had five or 10 years ago when he bought the bond, the fact is that the defense bond dollar is as good as any other he may have. And it can be spent under the strain of necessity! Vote your sentiments in the election on November 4, but regardless of whom you plan to support for president, remember to put your plus money into something good like defense bonds.

Late Cotton, Feed sure show the signs of the earliest cold snap in the history of this generation. Little cotton was caught that would not have been caught anyhow, we surmise, but a lot of feed needed only another few days to make a hard grain. As it was much of the July-planted crop was caught in a dough stage and was frozen. They say it will go ahead and mature the outside of the grain and look good from the road but that the grain itself will be swivelled up and of no account if it was caught before the sap was out of it. There was many a little patch of feed that we didn't know anything about, just as the county agent said back in July. One consequence has been that the man with a row binder sure has been in demand among his neighbors. Even the worst of the post toasties they are trying to save against a cold January day.

It is rumored that cheerfulness is largely a matter of one's income being above one's outgo.

Floyd County 14 Years Ago

(Taken from the files of The Hesperian, issue dated October 20, 1938.)

The weatherman dished out a low of 35 degrees this morning from 6 until 8 o'clock after a high of 90 degrees had been registered on Tuesday. Floyd county citizens can mark October 19 as the day Old Man Winter made his entry for a stay until sometime next year. Meanwhile the cotton fields of Floyd county were filled with cotton pickers to gather Floyd county's small crop. The near freezing temperature caused little slackening in the fields.

OIL makes the big difference!

How many acres could you farm without oil? It would depend largely on how many back-breaking hours of toil you were willing to put in. But no one knows better than you how farming with oil has stepped up your production and helped move your crops to market.

Yes, the power of petroleum has made farming easier, better, more profitable. That's one reason we're proud to be your oil supplier—proud of the high quality oil products we sell and the services we give. As a part of the competitive, progressive oil industry, this is our assurance that we will always be on the job for you, doing everything we can to power your farm with the newest, most improved oil products.

CONSUMERS FUEL ASSOCIATION

DECLARATION

We live in an age in which civilization has been transformed through the discovery of petroleum in commercial quantities, and we dwell in a land which is the very symbol of progress, comfort and security which petroleum makes possible, and the week of October 12th to 18th has been designated Oil Progress Week, when the oil men of this country will cooperate to inform the public of the contributions of their industry both to our high standard of living and to the preservation of our traditional freedoms, and the citizens of Floydada who are engaged in producing, transporting, refining and marketing petroleum products desire to participate in the observance of Oil Progress Week by arranging exhibits and joining in various activities for the purpose of showing how, through initiative, skill and daring, America's competing oil companies serve and will continue to serve the people of this nation and this state or community.

BEFORE, I, J. A. Patterson, Mayor of Floydada, do hereby proclaim the week of October 12th to 18th inclusive to be FLOYDADA OIL PROGRESS WEEK and do call the attention of all men and women to the many contributions and services rendered to us by the American Petroleum Industry, and

and particularly to those rendered by the members of that industry who live and work among us, and who we of Floydada know as friends, neighbors, and good citizens.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand this 13th day of October, 1952.
(Signed)

J. A. PATTERSON

Conservation District News

J. T. Huckabay, who lives five miles west of Floydada, has increased the number of productive acres on his farm. This was accomplished by bench leveling 92 acres of sloping land around two lakes on his 360-acre farm. Technical assistance and advice for the project was furnished by the Soil Conservation Service technicians working with Floyd County Soil Conservation district.

Mr. Huckabay bench leveled 32 acres around a lake bottom in April, 1950. The borders were laid out on contour and the land between the borders was leveled from side to side from end to end. This method of bench leveling made the level strips irregular in width. Mr. Huckabay states that the borders held 25 inches of rainfall during July 1950 and kept the lake bottom dry.

In 1951, sixty acres around another lake were bench leveled. The borders were run parallel but as near on the contour as possible making each strip uniform in width from one end to other. The strip between the borders were leveled from end to end and side to side. The cost of bench leveling with parallel borders is greater than bench leveling with contour borders; however, Mr. Huckabay states that he would rather have the parallel borders as the higher cost would be off-set by being more simple to farm.

Mr. Huckabay has had wheat on all the land since it has been bench leveled. He states that this otherwise unproductive land has yielded 20 bushels per acre of wheat, (as much as his other farm land).

Mr. Huckabay is well satisfied with the results he has had with bench leveling and realized improvements can be made on his present system. He plans to improve the system by installing a concrete pipe line down opposite sides of the lakes so irrigation water can be run down the slope to each border in a manner to eliminate erosion. He is experiencing some erosion by using the present system of open ditches. Mr. Huckabay also plans to put an elevated turn-row down across the borders so farming equipment may be brought into each strip without crossing over the borders.

HOME AFTER 27 MONTHS

U. S. NAVAL AIR STATION, SAN Diego, Calif. — After 27 months in the fleet air wing Clyde McLane Jr., seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McLane of Ralls, Texas, has returned here with Fleet Air Wing One for duty.

In July, 1950, the Wing was ordered to the China Sea from Guam Marianas Islands. Her job was to maintain the neutrality of the Furmossa Straits and protect the Chinese Nationalist stronghold there.

A combined surface and air task force maintained a 24-hour surveillance of the Straits and adjacent coastal area.

The long months of patrol were broken for the Wing and staff by visits to Hong Kong for rest and relaxation.

The Wing, embarked aboard the seaplane tender USS Pine Island, during the Formosan patrol, was awarded a letter of commendation before being detached from Far Eastern duty.
