Gibson Resigns; Rogers Is New County Agent

Effective March 1 Robt. H. Gibson will step out of the Extension service of A. & M. college as county agent of Floyd county to take another place in agricultural industry, and Floyd county will have a new county agent in the person of Bill Rogers. Gibson and Rogers and District agricultural agent Welton H. Jones conferred with the commissioners court Monday morning when the change was formally ratified. Rogers, who moves in as county agent, comes from Lamb county where he has been assistant county agent for the past two and a half years. He is an area native, reared on the campus of Texas Technological college, where his father has been manager of the college farms for the past 25 years. He is a graduate of Tech and prior to taking up Extension work served two and a half years in the army. Mrs. Rogers is a Peterburg girl. She was Dorris Scarborough.

Will Be Farm Superintendent In the change up Floyd county, however, does not lose Gibson as a citizen. He will be resident farm superintendent of Paymaster farms at Aiken and will make his home there. Mrs. Gibson has been spending part of her time this week at the farm, where a residence is being fitted up for the family — two sons and a daughter — to live in when they move. Gibson is also expected to have responsibility for the farming of 160 acres Paymaster operates south of Lubbock.

Paymaster farms is a Clayton-Anderson Company enterprise, which specializes in cotton plant breeding. The farms at Aiken are comprised of 885 acres of land. They have been operated by Clayton-Anderson for many years.

Gibson's resignation from his job as county agent comes exactly four years after he assumed the duties of county agent here March 1, 1949. Gibson's four years of service as county agent have been eventful ones in the history of the county's agricultural development, and he has shown remarkable grasp of the rapid developments which have come in the industry.

Sgt. Billy G. Mooney Buried in Native Soil

Taps sounded for another Floyd county youth, who paid the supreme sacrifice for his country, when funeral service was held for Sgt. Billy Griffin Mooney, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mooney of Floydada, on Tuesday afternoon at the First Methodist church at 3 o'clock. Reverend Tilden B. Armstrong, pastor, officiated at the service. Interment was in Floydada cemetery under the direction of the Harmon Funeral home. Military rites were conducted at the cemetery. Billy Griffin Mooney was born in Floydada on November 23, 1929, and had spent all his years here until he joined the armed forces on August 14, 1951. Billy graduated from the Floydada high school in May, 1947. He was employed by Cooper and Woodruff, road builders, when he entered the service.

In Korea Nine Months He had been in Korea for nine months, when he was sent back to Japan for a weeks rest leave. Returning to his base in Korea on a C 119 Flying Box car, November 13, the big plane crashed 18 miles east of Seoul, killing the 44 servicemen and crew aboard, including Billy. (See Sgt. Mooney, back page)

STEADY POPULATION, BUSINESS GROWTH REVEALED BY FIGURES

What is the population of Floydada today? That is a good question and with some multiplying, adding and dividing, the Floydada Chamber of Commerce has been looking for an answer. Taking the West Texas Gas Co. Figures of 1,056 connections in 1950 and the population of Floydada reported by the 1950 census of 3,214 that would mean 3.04 People for every gas connection. On January 1, 1953, the gas connections totaled 1,155. The 1953 figure times 3.04 people for each connection gives Floydada a population of 3,511. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reports 1975 telephones for the city of Floydada. Using the average of 3.3 people for each telephone Floydada would have around 3,547 people. The gas and telephone figures are close, but the city of Floydada comes along and throws those predictions off with a report of 1,030 accounts in 1950 with an increase to 1,270 in 1953. Those accounts would just about include every home in the city through a water, sewer, or electricity connection. Using the 1950 population figure that would mean 3.12 people for each account and would give Floydada a population of 3,962. An average of those three population figures is 3,673. Another interesting point brought out by the city accounts is that 176 business connections in 1950 jumped to 233 in 1953. Has Floydada gained 57 new business houses in three years? There are several points to take into consideration which would make the connections go up but would not affect the population. For example churches are considered business accounts and the city has gained several small churches since 1950. Many professional services have moved from upstairs quarters to downstairs, on the street, offices which would make a new connection for each new office but does not add to the population. The Floydada Chamber of Commerce would like to take that figure close to the four thousand mark but will be forced to compromise. A population of 3,550 would be a good guess for February, 1953, says the Chamber.

the fishing expedition, reached Texas Saturday following a cruise of two weeks in the Caribbean sea and gulf of Mexico.

A farmers wife near by reported the wreck and Deputy sheriff Woolsey and other officers made the call to the scene. A city policeman of San Antonio, L. C. Christensen made pictures of the wreck and S. F. Thomas, of the CAA made an investigation.

All personal belongings of the victim were turned over to the Justice of the Peace, Judge Reeves, at San Antonio.

Carter Funeral home of Lockney with two ambulances and two friends of the families made the trip to San Antonio and returned with the bodies to Lockney Tuesday morning.

It was by chance that Turner was the fourth member of the party. R. H. Ford, of Lockney, was to have made the trip but dropped out because of the illness of his wife, Mrs. E. I. Durham, of Floydada. Mr. Ford's sister, said he was flown by Rhea Mitchell to Dallas Saturday where his wife is in a hospital, and decided he had better not make the fishing trip. Turner took his place on the ill-fated flight.

Witnesses of the crash were Anton Friesenhahn and A. A. Wecker, who lived near the scene of the crash. Allen Webb, a Dimmitt pilot described Rhea Mitchell as a cautious and experienced pilot. The two men started CPA training in 1940 and Mitchell progressed through that to an instructor rating and later to airplane pilot.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

Our Canadian neighbors evidently do not mind taking a good honest but firm hold where the hair is short to turn a fair additional penny of profit. Most recent news for the buyers of newsprint is said to be the supply will be more than adequate but the price is likely to be higher.

There is no precedent in the annals of peoples for the American system of installment buying, we are told by Small Business, which is the voice of a loosely jointed federation of independent business. This federation voice sees in the first attitudes of the new administration heads a probable move to restore the power to control credits. Some of the bigger financiers claim consumer credit produces inflation, does not encourage personal thrift. The opposite view is that there is nothing wrong with people buying out of income the produce of American factories. Probably expensive due to interest charged the buyer, but it gives so many people an opportunity to enjoy and eventually own so much goods. Joe American has a reputation for meeting his obligations and is a good credit risk. Losses on his account are very low. Also those who oppose government regulation of domestic credits point to the big loans under the Marshall plan by big business to foreign lands to build up state-controlled industry, with a red tinge, such as the commitments in Yugoslavia. In such matters it is the international financier against the independent banker, the independent business man, who must live by, for and with the domestic economy.

For the benefit of those who are inclined to make cynical remarks about the price of beef over the retail counter, the advertisements of the food dealers in the past few weeks should be put into the record. Among these disbelievers should be listed the new secretary of agriculture, who does not view with alarm the depressed price of cattle but does add the weight of his belief that retail prices do not reflect the lower costs of cattle on the hoof. The fact seems to be (in this area at least, possibly not in others) that retail prices have followed live beef prices downward quite closely. Government restrictions have kept the retail market from following the live stock market even more closely.

What we mean by government restrictions helping to keep the prices up, as of a very recent date at least, is partly that you can't go out and butcher an animal and then sell it out to the neighbors, like retailers have done for years on end. The meat must go through an approved packing house and be stamped (each quarter separately as it goes into the refrigerator) before the retailer is permitted to buy it so he can re-sell it to you. This procedure may be a necessary evil in congested centers, we wouldn't know, but it is chiefly a pain in the neck out where the grass roots take over a skip and a jump from the end of main street, and cattle graze on vacant lots.

One housewife, whose husband is in no danger of being drafted by the armed forces, is reminded by declining prices of meat of the good old days when you bought steaks and roasts and the man behind the counter often gave you a soup bone or some liver.

The silly youngsters, who make three-lane race tracks out of the highways, drive blindfolded in traffic with signals called by their passenger pals, as well as those who gang up street-width deep to hold their talk and chatter while traffic detours by way of the bar ditch—you wonder what will become of them. Here's the low-down. They are fated to be the grouches of the next generation who view with alarm the ungodly antics of their neighbors' children. They'll wonder why the law does not take over and stop it, what ever it is the youngsters of that time will be doing as they attempt their stretch up the same fool's hill their parents climbed. About the same proportion won't make it, while the others will be the farmers, merchants, doctors, lawyers peace officers, night watchmen, janitors government employes, atom station operators, and so forth.

Current news, at least in The Hesperian, seems to lean to the contributed ideas of representatives of the people from various levels of government. We justify ourselves with the thought that the people need to know what the reaction of their representatives may be from the impact of the problems which they face in legislative halls and executive departments.

From a California source comes this suggestion: To curb moral delinquency and help the moral re-arming program let us keep reminding the public that there are churches they may join and be baptized any day.

Adequate feed supplies which must include reserves and balancing these supplies with livestock numbers are listed as the foundation for a profitable livestock enterprise on the farm.

A one-line paragraph we see in the current news declares that the Texas market egg producers should find 1953 a profitable year.

Another advantage of the stream-lined car is that you can often get by with parking it on the wrong side of the street.

Experience is a good teacher but a hard one. She gives the test first and the lesson afterward.

One way to make a long story short is to start telling it to a cop.

A hypocrite is like a pin—points one way and heads the other.

Sidelights From Washington

(by George Mahon)
I had my first visit a few days ago with the new Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Ezra Taft Benson, of Utah. The two Texas Senators, Congressman Poage of Waco, and I went to his office to invite him to address the American Cotton Congress in Lubbock on June 27. In addition to extending the invitation we talked about problems of agriculture in general, including such matters as farm labor difficulties, problems arising out of the continued drought, the possibility of cotton acreage controls at a future time, and other matters.

Mr. Benson was easy to talk with and seemed to be well-informed and sympathetic toward agricultural problems. I was favorably impressed with him.

President Eisenhower's Inaugural speech was good, but it was made in the open air and under very difficult circumstances. Last week the setting was perfect when he addressed the joint session of Congress. The Members were in their seats and the galleries were packed. He was thunderously applauded. Every Member was, no doubt, in disagreement with him on some issues, but all were with him on many of his proposals.

For the benefit of the television audience the President was made up for the occasion with a little face powder. Rather than the customary white shirt and dark suit, he wore a pale blue shirt and gray suit. This did not mar his appearance for those personally in attendance, and it greatly improved his television appearance.

My assignment on the appropriations committee in the new congress is the same as in the previous congress except that all committee chairmanships are now held by Republican members. Hearing on money bills are already under way, and there is little doubt but that material reductions in spending requests will be made. Last year we succeeded in reducing budget requests submitted by the president in the sum of eight and one-half billion dollars.

TO MM DEALERS MEETING AND BANQUET AT AMARILLO

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Latta and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Norrell attended the meeting and banquet of Minneapolis-Moline dealers at Amarillo Monday February 9. The division office of MM was the scene of the get-together. Representatives were present from the entire tri-state area. Subjects of discussion was the new model UB tractor and what is new and can be expected in farming equipment within the next 12 months. The local guests were representing the S. J. Latta Implement Co., of Floydada.

Choralettes Sing For School Groups

While making a tour of several college campuses during the week-end The Choralettes, a group of teen-age high school girls of Floydada, sang their way into the hearts of their audiences and won music scholarships for themselves in two of the colleges.

At Howard-Payne college in Brownwood, the Choralettes were presented in an assembly program consisting of sacred, popular and novelty numbers.

From Brownwood, they went to Mary Hardin-Maylor at Belton, where they sang at the state Baptist YWA house party.

Baylor University and Hardin-Simmons were two other campuses where the girls visited. They were accompanied by Mrs. C. B. McDonald, their director and accompanist, Mrs. L. J. Welborn, and Mrs. R. Earl Allen and daughter, Norma.

Making the week-end trip were the following girls who are the Choralettes: Misses Ann Welborn, Carolyn McDonald, Fern Patterson, Dorothy Holmes and Jo Day. The group left Floydada Thursday and returned home Saturday night.

Fairview News

(by Mrs. Clyde Bagwell)

FAIRVIEW, February 10 — Our weather news today is a sudden change from warm spring weather to cold winter weather in a few hours. We are hoping for some moisture from these clouds.

Some of the men of the church have worked several days out in the yard around the parsonage and the church and have worked on the floor of the auditorium. They sanded the floor, filled the cracks and varnished the floor. It sure looks pretty.

We were very sorry to hear of the tragic death of the four Lockney men in the plane crash Monday morning.

Rev. J. R. Naylor held a revival meeting in our church last summer and was in all our homes.

Dean Walls arrived home Saturday from Fort Worth, where he showed his cows at the stock show and sold them before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rushing visited in Lubbock on Saturday with their son Joe and family. The grandson, Dickie Lee, came home with them for several days visit.

Judy Wilson visited Sunday with Francis Hopper.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(Nellie Witt Spikes)

We had such a lovely day Sunday at mother's birthday party in Lubbock. All eight of her children were present and several of her grandchildren and families, met to do her honor. The lovely party house overlooks the canyon MacKenzie Park. A thin haze of dust made the gray trees look like they were swimming in fog. Inside was joy and merry talk, old pictures made one know the passing of time and the changes in styles. The long tables were spread with everyone's best dish of food. The children ran in and out, down the hill and up all the family love Grandmother Witt and she takes time to give each child some of her love and attention. Somehow each of mother's children came away with renewed strength and faith. God bless you, mother, may we go many happy years to your party.

The clouds this morning look like long gray woolen frieged shawls hung under a sky of blue and rapidly moving towards the northeast. What do they mean? We shall see, perhaps, before the morning comes.

None of the fall flower seed I planted have come up. They just haven't had enough moisture. I have only tried to keep the rose cuttings and shrubs watered. I can see the new leaves coming out on the rose cuttings under glass jars. It is fascinating to grow roses from cuttings. I find the secret is to keep the cuttings well watered during the winter. It is not easy to get out in the cold and wind and water the lawn.

but the life of trees and shrubs depend on it. I learned this by losing many fine plants and sometimes grass in dry winters.

I enjoyed the North Ward high school songs on Alma Holmes' program this morning. I hope they sing again.

I do not seem to be able to settle down to any one thing this Monday morning. I type a little while, look at seed catalogues, watch the clouds. I know the house needs a thorough cleaning, that many things await me, but I do not respond. Always have felt like this before a norther. My children used to say "mother is feeling a norther again," and they seemed to think I had something to do with its turning cold.

To the Joiner Family, of Falls our new neighbors, we are happy to have you and to them this little poem:

A house is built of brick and stone Of sills and posts and piers, But a home is built of loving deeds That stand a thousand years.

A house, though a mansion or a cot, Within its walls may hold A home of priceless beauty Rich in love's eternal gold.

Our hearts are sad for the Mooney family because they gave their most precious gift, their son, who lost his life in far-off Korea. Our own dear nephew was brought back under the flag of America he loved only last summer. We know the sadness and heart breaks. May God bless and help you in this hour.

Sometimes you went away

For just a little while, And I could scarcely wait To see again your smile.

I listened for your step My hand was on the door, And what a joy it was To have you back once more.

One day you said "Goodby," And went to see the King, His beauty to behold And precious sheaves to bring;

In eagerness I wait The while I feel my lack, I'm looking hour by hour To see you both come back.

CARD OF THANKS

With the deepest gratitude, we extend this word of thanks to the doctors, nurses, ministers and many, many friends for their prayers, cards, food, flowers, blood donations and other thoughtful deeds during the recent illness of our husband and father.

Old-fashioned cooks, we know, are still around. In fact, we're lucky enough, about five times a year, to eat some of the super-cooking they turn out.

As a rule, they're women who don't think the hours spent in the business end of a house are wasted. And although they won't ignore the modern quickies in food preparation, they could hardly be classed as packaged food addicts. A cake, to them, is a creation: sifting and re-sifting flour, using real butter, beating the stuff until their arms ache—and turning out a delicacy that melts in one's mouth. Soup? Not a canned 'get by', but a subtly blended, slow-cooking masterpiece!

We used to bemoan the cookbooks that were all written for such gourmets: aspic jelly that called for 10 or 15 ingredients; a three-day recipe for pickling peaches; an all-day session with chicken spaghetti. Always in a hurry, we couldn't see making a career of feeding eager faces. We snapped up every new short cut as it hit the market. We were pleased when recipe makers began to take speed into consideration.

Now we plead guilty to some doubts about the direction cooking has taken: frozen apple pies, frozen chicken dumplings, 20-minute rolls, canned biscuits. We realize how far this has gone when we read a cake recipe with a tantalizing name which we promptly forgot in the shock of reading the directions: Get a package of ready mix cake flour, pour in half a cup of milk, stir and bake. For topping add some ready prepared chocolate syrup to powered whipping cream.

It was like a sneeze that doesn't come off. Surely the frustration of spending hours over a hot cookstove is nothing to what happens to the old-fashioned cook in this age of packaged foods.

Raw or Partly Cooked Meat Health Threat

AUSTIN, Texas — "Trichinosis is a disease caused by eating raw or partly cooked pork which contains the trichina worm. This disease as a rule causes several deaths and an undetermined amount of illness in Texas each year," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Definite symptoms and signs of illness are associated with trichinosis. In the beginning there are abdominal pains, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, lasting about a week. Migration of the embryos in the blood stream causes fever and severe muscle soreness, especially in the diaphragm and the muscles of the arms and legs. The third stage, during which cysts surround the larvae in the muscles, is the critical one. If infection is severe, there may be edema, or swelling of the eyelids and elsewhere, marked loss of weight, weakness and delirium.

The prevention of trichinosis depends primarily upon the thorough cooking of all pork. Most cases follow the ingestion of wieners sausage or other pork products, eaten in raw or partly cooked form. The hazard of this disease is greater in connection with home butchering, unless safeguards are exercised. Rats should be exterminated because they play an important part in the spread of infection among swine. Prolonged refrigeration, as carried out under federal supervision, destroys trichina larvae. Throughout cooking and the use of meat which bears the stamp of federal inspection are safeguards against trichinosis.

CUT NEED FOR PASSPORTS

Several European countries recently have applied international scissors to travel-entangling red tape by curtailing the need for passports.

Most notable example this year is the action of Greece and Turkey, ancient enemies now allied in a common cause. No longer do Greeks or Turks require passports to cross their nations' mutual boundaries.

Another outstanding ending of restrictions has been achieved by Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Finland. These nations, in the shadow of the Iron Curtain, have abandoned passports for mutual travel.

Applicants Sought For Co. Librarian

The Floyd county free library board of directors had their regular meeting on Monday afternoon in the library room in the court house. Mrs. J. H. Barnard, chairman, pre- sided. Efforts are being made by the board to secure additional applica- tions for the positions as librarian for the library. There seems to be more demand for librarians than can be supplied, said Mrs. Barnard. The drive for gift money in the Floydada territory will be completed by March first, if possible. Due to illness and other hindrances, the workers have been prevented from contacting everyone. Those who have not been seen may send contribu- tions to Mrs. Sam Spence, county treasurer. Those who have spare time can be a help in working to secure the additional funds. Con- tact Mrs. Barnard or Mrs. Howard Drysdale if you can give your time. Floydada workers had raised $1700.00 to date. Lockney workers are still working in their territory and hope to be finished soon with their campaign.

Herbert Irwin, one of the Fairview Floyd county twins, who got sick enroute to Korea from the United States mainland in December, and was hospitalized in Tokio, is well and all right, the members of the family have learned at long last.

Not only has he recovered from a kidney ailment but he is back with the other twin, Herschell, with a motor squadron about 20 miles be- hind the lines in Korea.

The information was gained through letter from Herschell, to which Herbert appended a brief note, received Tuesday. The Irwins were about ready to begin burning the wires or something when they got the news.

Herschell wrote that he had gone on early in January and left Herbert to be hospitalized. When the family finally had word from the sick twin he said he hadn't written about be- ing sick for fear they'd be worried. The twins are assigned as mech- anics with a motor squadron.

4-H Youths Tell Safety Hazards

The kids who know safety best agree that one of man's oldest and simplest inventions is one of his most dangerous. Forty young safety experts who attended the 31st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 30 to Dec. 4 were asked to list their ideas on how to prevent farm and home accidents. They responded with suggestions ranging from picking up loose baling wire to putting safety shields on power machinery. But almost all of them singled out one often-overlooked hazard for emphatic mention: stairs.

Man invented stairs thousands of years ago. But the young folks apparently observed, while making safety surveys under the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety Awards Program, that he still hasn't learned to go up and down them without risking a broken neck.

Some 400,000 4-H youths from coast to coast took part in the safety program, sponsored for the eighth consecutive year by General Motors. GM gave the 40 state winners expense-paid trips to the 4-H Congress, including $300 college scholarships to the eight national winners.

"Keep stairs uncluttered!" warned Eileen Holbach of Minot, N. D. Ralph Walker, Biddeford, Me., was even more specific. He urged everyone to "keep the stairs clear of all roller skates." Other safety winners advised frequent check and repair of steps, or suggested handrails to reduce the likelihood of falls.

Stairways should be well lighted, they agreed, and Agatha Jean Bell of Blair, W. Va., recommended painting the bottom step white to make it conspicuous.

Farm machinery and its hazards drew frequent mention. Beth Fuhr Smith of Poplarville, Miss., one of the $300 scholarship winners, suggested this simple rule for avoiding accidents with farm equipment: "Know the correct way to use all tools and machinery."

Other suggestions included labeling poisons, frequently checking electrical equipment, keeping inflammable materials away from buildings, confining bulls and other dangerous animals in sturdy pens, putting curbs on sharp objects, keeping children off farm equipment and away from stoves, storing pitchforks and other tools in a special place, and many others.

Kurtz, Noted Cellist, Here on February 20

Floydada Municipal Concert Association is to present the second of its concerts Monday, February 23, at the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. when Edmund Kurtz is to play the cello for the music lovers of Floyd county and the surrounding territory.

Edmund Kurtz was born in old St. Petersburg in Russia and began his cello study in Berlin, where the family took refuge during the revolution. His early musical education was under Fritz Espenhangen, and he subsequently worked with Professor Julius Kelengel of Leipzig, a recognized master of the cello.

Kurtz made his debut as a concert cellist in the Sala Bach in Rome in 1924. He then went to Paris to study with Dr. Alexanian, another great teacher, with whom he spent a summer in the French Alps for advance technique.

Toured with Pavlova

Kurtz's debut in Rome was so successful that he was immediately engaged for appearances in leading cities of Italy, France, Germany and Scandinavia. Following his performance of Saint-Saens' "The Swan" at a concert in Berlin in 1928, the great Anna Pavlova went backstage to see Kurtz and insisted on buying up all his contracts so he would be free to accompany her on tour and play for her dance to "The Swan". He toured with Pavlova's company for two and a half years.

After Anna Pavlova's death Kurtz joined a chamber-music trio whose fame spread so quickly in Europe that they were invited to visit Australia in 1932 for a tour.

Kurtz was invited to make his United States debut under Arturo Toscanini at an NBC Symphony broadcast. So successful was his performance of the Dvorak B Minor Concerto on this occasion that Kurtz was signed for a long term recording contract with RCA Victor, and his records, by virtue of their extraordinarily fine tone reproduction, have been eagerly sought by lovers of cello music all over the world. Kurtz's triumphant debut in New York came in January of 1945 and was hailed by the critics as the introduction of a new artist of "challenging importance."

Outstanding in Our Time

From 1945 until the present time, Edmund Kurtz has toured Europe, South America, Australia, besides the United States. He is acknowledged as one of the outstanding cellists of our time, a master of technique and quality of tone.

W. E. Garrett, president of the Floydada Municipal Concert Association says, "I feel that I represent the entire association when I say that the people of Floydada are indeed fortunate in having an international artist of such quality to present to its membership."

The Board of Directors of the Texas A&M College System, by resolution, recently called attention to the 50th anniversary of the beginning of farm demonstration work in Texas.

"God made the sea, we made the shore," is a Dutch proverb.

Governor Talks Of More Money Schools Need

(NOTE: The Governor of Texas says our school teachers must have a cost-of-living increase in pay. The problem is finding the money. His plan, as presented to the Legislature recently, is outlined in a series of articles of which this is the third.)

(By ALLAN SHIVERS, Governor of Texas)

The crises of our schools is that we need more teachers.

The crises of our teachers is that they need more money.

The crisis of our State is that it must remain on a sound financial basis in these pressing times.

In two previous articles I have pointed out that the public school teachers of Texas deserve a raise and that I am for it.

But, instead of setting a definite figure for a raise and then trying to find the money, I think we need to locate the money first.

That is the only way to operate on long-range principles that will be to the best interest of all Texans, including the teachers.

We cannot measure educational values solely in terms of dollars. At the same time, we have a limited number of dollars to translate into educational values. A dollar misapplied means the lack of a dollar where it is needed.

My proposals for obtaining the money for increased teacher pay are: (1) transfer part of the available school fund, which goes to all districts on a strict per capita basis regardless of need, over to the Gilmer-Alkin minimum foundation fund, which guarantees a decent standard to the less prosperous schools, and (2) return to the original proportion of one local dollar for every three State Dollars of Gilmer-Alkin support.

That first suggestion, which I already have explained in detail, boils down to a switch of part of our State school money from one pocket to another. The pocket that pays for the Gilmer-Alkin program of State help to needy schools ought to have a little of the money from the pocket that shells out its contents to "haves" and have nots" alike.

As for proposal number two—local support of the State aid program to public schools—it is both a matter of simple mathematics and a question of fundamental policy.

Mathematically, it is clear that nobody's money goes as far today as it did in 1949 when the Gilmer-Alkin concept was put into operation. Yet the total contributions of Texas as school districts toward the minimum foundation program have remained exactly the same—$45 million—from year to year. This has left it up to the State to bear the rising expense of the Gilmer-Alkin plan.

If $45 million was a fair share for the local school districts in 1949, it is no longer a fair share. I feel that it would be fair for the local districts to continue at the original rate—25 per cent of the expense of the minimum foundation program.

Policy-wise, the districts need to pay their part as a means of insuring that local schools remain under the control of local people. As the State government paid more and more of the minimum foundation bill, it would be natural for the State to begin assuming more authority in the local schools. That would be an unwholesome situation, contrary to the independent traditions of Texas.

When we discuss the contributions of the local school districts, one of the first questions to arise is the ability to pay. The Gilmer-Alkin plan includes an "economic index" formula design to place the financial burden equitably.

This index takes into account elements like assessed valuation of property, school-age population, and local income. A few inequalities have become apparent because of disasters, droughts, and other economic factors in various parts of the State. But these can be corrected to a great extent by averaging experiences over periods of several years in order to compensate for unusual conditions.

The ability-to-pay idea should continue to be practiced in all phases of public school education in Texas.

The Texas Department of Education has made a study of 20 representative counties to see how the payment of one local dollar for every three State dollars toward the Gilmer-Alkin found would affect the average community. Briefly, the conclusion was that the local people can pay 25 per cent of the minimum foundation program cost just as easily NOW as they could in 1949 when it was started. That is because of higher incomes and the increased value of property. For example, total county assessed valuations in Texas in 1949 were about $6 billion. The 1952 valuations were $8.4 billion.

The below-average districts that really can't stand more expense would not be assessed any higher payments.

Over-all, however, the total contributions of the school districts of Texas must be raised if we are to give our teachers better pay without increasing State taxes.

Public school financing, over and above the once-small per capita State aid, was originally a burden on the local district. The State has contributed more year by year, until now the annual cost of "equalization aid" is approaching the $175 million mark. Only by a proper balance between State aid and local support can we hope to continue both and to keep control of our public schools at home, where it belongs.

Next week Governor Shivers will continue this series of articles with a summary of his proposals and a discussion of some dangers facing the public schools of Texas.)

Amazed Reader Thinks All Not Well in Texas

Editor, The Hesperian:

I read your February 5 editorial with amazement. So, all is well with Texas government and politics! What have you to say about the Parr regime in South Texas, and if you answer that it is a local situation for that territory, how do you account for that backing, from the beginning of his political career, by our United States Senator, Lyndon Johnson?

I thought he was elected by the whole state, and therefore the whole state was "bossed" into that election.

If you think things are smooth and civilized go to your last summer's files and re-read the stories of how only the women of that area dared get out and campaign for a "free" election. The men who dared such a revolt were shot at and killed.

And who was the voice behind all the killing? The multi-million dollar Parr business; their business being the political freedom of everyone in Texas.

The only way you and I can overrule this "boss" is to go to the trouble of looking up the backgrounds and connections of our candidates before election time. We Texans can't put all the blame on Washington. We have some housecleaning to do at Austin, too. But will the opposition be strong enough, with enough money for advertising, enough showmanship to capture the people's attention, and enough enthusiastic curiosity from the people to win over the "boss" men?

That's up to you to decide. For the press is also a voice of the people.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Q. D. Williams, Route 2,
Floydada, Texas

New, More Powerful Tractor

Increased power, greater economy, and more comfort are the three basic engineering achievements of the new Model UB tractor, recently introduced by Minneapolis-Moline Co.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A new tractor developing 50 horsepower on gasoline and 53 horsepower on LP gas, based on sea level conditions, is powered to handle three-bottom and four-bottom plows. Called the Model UB, it also features a 12-volt ignition system. The new 12-volt battery is situated below but to one side of the fuel tank so that the battery can be readily serviced without being moved. Split-beam headlights concentrate the light over a wider area just in front and over the immediate working area.

The UB is designed so that the operator can enjoy new comforts whether he prefers to stand or be seated while he works. The platform is 27 inches wide and raised to the level of the transmission case cover.

The steering wheel is centered for better vision on both sides of the tractor. On it is mounted the speed-control lever. As a safety feature, the speed-control lever is moved forward to increase the speed of the engine, and backward to reduce the speed. A streamlined steering enclosure houses the instruments and various gauges.

Brake pedals, one for each wheel, are placed side by side on the right hand side of the tractor, and the double disc brakes are located on the differential countershaft. The clutch pedal, a spring loaded, foot-operated clutch, is located on the left-hand side.

With the raised platform, the lifting roll is located underneath, out of the operator's way. The power take-off guard is attached to the housing of the shaft and is standard in design so that any machine driven by power take-off may be quickly attached.

Other features of the MM Model UB are a new and large fuel filter, new type of valve inserts to improve valve life, heavy-duty roller drawbar with a maximum swing of 22 inches, large capacity tool box, and a muffler cap for the exhaust pipe.

AGRICULTURE

COTTON CULTURAL PRACTICES

Good crop culture practices are important to every farmer.

For the cotton farmer, good cultural methods are especially important for two reasons: (1) they help assure maximum production on the land, and (2) they aid in keeping insect infestation to a minimum. The second reason has special significance in view of the continued spread of the pink bollworm in Texas.

A previous article by Glenn Shelton, farm editor of the Wichita Falls Record News, pointed out the dangers of the pink bollworm. This insect can make cotton growing a losing proposition in Texas unless it is checked. Then what can we do?

The Texas Department of Agriculture, which sets and enforces cotton planting and plow-up controls in certain climatic areas, is co-operating with Mexico on this problem. If the insect can be reduced in the country from which it spread to the United States, then a big part of the battle is won. The rest is up to farmers in Texas and other infested states, aided by agricultural officials.

A practical five-point cultural program is recommended by the Texas Department of Agriculture this year. The practices involved are meant not only for farmers in heavily-infested pink bollworm areas but all cotton farmers in the state. These practices are:

1. Use all known methods which tend to speed up maturity of the plant and harvest of the cotton. This involves planting the cotton as early as possible and planting fast fruiting varieties where it is practical. It is desirable to use only properly treated and culled high germination tested seed and to leave plants as thick in the drill as soil moisture content will allow. Fertilizers should be used when recommended. It is also especially desirable to protect the plants from early season damage from the usual insect which would slow development of the plant and allow the pink bollworm to get a better hold.

2. When the cotton has been harvested, destroy the stalks immediately. Early stalk plow-up shortens the breeding cycle of pink bollworm and other insects and helps cut down a carry-over into the next season. Stalk shredders are excellent.

3. In transporting the picked cotton, cover the vehicle with a tarp to prevent loss and possible spread of the insect. Where tarps are unavailable or too expensive, substitutes may be used such as poultry wire, gunny sacks, etc.

4. Use seed which has been sterilized against pink bollworm at the gin.

5. Clean your fields, including the end-rows, fence lines and ditches of all standing cotton stalks, thus destroying the winter nesting and feeding place of the insects.

CAR DEALER'S CALENDARS

Car leaders Cliff McCarville of Carroll, Iowa (pop. 6,231), adds an extra service to calendars he gives local businessmen. On the first of each month he visits their offices to tear off the calendar sheet of the previous month — and tucks in a short sales talk. — Pathfinder.

LIKE WATERY MUD

Through the 200-inch Hale telescope atop Palomar Mountain in Southern California, scientists took the closest and best pictures so far of the moon. From 239,000 miles away the moon carter of Copernicus and the area around it looked like watery mud into which different size marbles had been thrown with great force. — Pathfinder.

LUBBOCK.—A simple, letter-size application blank, free to everyone, is getting lots of attention among actual and prospective water well owners in the 13-county High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, in West Texas. It is the new "Application for Water Well Permit" effective February 1. Approval of these applications by local county committees is the basis for regulation of water well spacing in the 13 affected counties.

These free forms may be obtained from four handy sources: (1) county committeemen, (2) county agents, (3) pump companies, or (4) water well drillers. Completed blanks are to be filled out in triplicate and submitted to the five-member county committee for action. Approval by three of the five-member committee is the "go ahead" sign to start drilling.

New county committeemen, elected January 13 by resident taxpaying voters in Armstrong, Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Parmer, Potter, and Randall counties, are now setting up county offices. These are generally located in county agents' or Farm Bureau offices.

Committeemen are acting as fast as possible to keep abreast of the current rush for drilling approval. When this rush slackens off, they will meet weekly to process future applications. Information on how to fill out application blanks may be secured from committee headquarters, 1110 Lubbock National Bank Building, Lubbock, Texas.

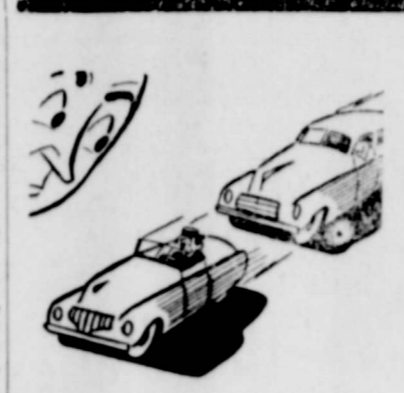

According to Mr. T. J. McFarland, manager of the High Plains Water Conservation District No. 1, this whole plan is aimed at benefitting the individual well owner. He observes, "Wells too close together hurt the owner, his neighbors, and sometimes affect the entire community. This program permits spacing regulations to vary according to the problems of different counties. This seems to be the best way to protect everyone's interests."

The Floyd county committee, composed of T. B. Mitchell, Sid Thomas, Lee Trice, Grady Walker and Marvin Shurbet, is meeting for the present weekly at 9 o'clock on Mondays to consider applications for water well permits. Their meetings are held in the Floydada National Farm Loan association lobby on South Main street.

NEW YORK LEADS WORLD
The world had 79,400,000 telephones as of January 1, 1952, the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced. New York leads all cities with nearly 3,400,000; Greater London tops foreign cities with 1,700,000. Washington had the greatest density of phones — 64 per 100 of population. Atlantic City, N. J., was second with almost 55. — Pathfinder.

U. S. PLATINUM IMPORTS
The United States in 1952 was the largest importer and user of platinum and palladium. The volume of sales of these metals to the U. S. consuming industries, principally the electrical and chemical fields, was at a rate comparable to that of 1951.
