With Lids Combat Flies

The community get into compliance with the new ordinance quickly the first two weeks of August should see the sale of 1200 or more of the new garbage cans. They will take the place of hundreds of open-top discarded oil barrels.

The city has been chided by the Texas State Department of Public Health for the use of the open-top type of garbage disposal cans and many residents have urged the desirability of making a change to reduce the potential fly and vermin breeding places in the city.

The mayor yesterday did not know the price the Lions will ask for the new garbage cans. He said, however, the Lions plan to sell the new containers at cost, with a minimum handling charge to represent only actual expense.

Twice-a-Week Disposal?
Mr. Patterson said the council contemplates the probability they will be able to provide twice-a-week disposal service. Certainly the city will be able to give once-a-week service, he said.

One of the reasons, probably the principal reason, for the substitution of a smaller container for the big garbage cans now generally in use is that the old barrels represent too much weight for two men to handle as the garbage truck makes its rounds. The excessive weight is calculated to break a man down in a day's run. As a consequence labor turnover is too great on the job. "The big old barrels have been just too hard to handle," said Mr. Patterson.

The city is going to go somewhat ritzzy while they're at it. The new truck will have a spray attachment with which fly-breeding filth can be sprayed. The spray also will be used on disposal cans when needed, he said.

Sell New Cans
Cans that will meet the needs of the new ordinance will be sold soon, Mr. Patterson said. The Lions club is unable to handle the sale of the cans and have announced distribution points. Higginbotham Company, Mayo and Bishop Motor Company are selling depots for the cans. The Lions told that all the citizens of

Drouth Relief Program for Cattlemen Appears Stymied by New Directive on Feed Distribution

Whether the USDA drouth relief program in Floyd county had fizzled out into a big flop or whether some workable plan to get feed for cattle at a reduced rate worked out, still a big question mark yesterday, and a headache as well for the Floyd county drouth relief committee.

Presumably concentrated feeds are enroute to Floyd county for starving herds of cattle although none had actually arrived Wednesday. At the same time the committee had a directive telegram that put the distribution of any government-furnished feeds on such a restricted basis they were in doubt how many of their 218 applicants for the feed could qualify to receive it. Apparently, it was said unofficially at the PMA office headquarters of the county committee, only a man who was already broke and out of the cattle business, could qualify. He wouldn't need any feed, of course.

All the committee knew for sure, according to Buck Sams, the chairman, was that they had a place already designated to store any feed that is received. Until further interpretations of their orders are received the feed can be cared for. The 218 applicants for the concentrated feeds had banked on orders to the committee for 200 tons or more of cottonseed meal or pellets, over 10,000 bushels of oats and a considerable amount of corn. None of this the committee had on hand as late as Wednesday morning, although several cars of the concentrated feeds had been requisitioned.

A load of pellets may be the first to reach Floydada. The committee had notice that a shipment of meal had been forwarded to Plainview mill to be processed and forwarded to the committee here. County chairman Sams said Tuesday they hoped to have this feed the latter part of this week. However, he was not sure to whom the committee could make deliveries. Whether or not his committee can successfully "screen" the applicants and thus determine who is entitled was a question he could not answer.

After receipt of instructions from the Department of Agriculture that will clarify the directive, Sams planned to call his committee together at the earliest possible moment and see if they can decide upon a plan of procedure when the concentrated feeds do begin to roll in.

Meanwhile cattle owners, puzzled at the turn of affairs, were wondering what their next step will be. Whereas, they had anticipated early help of the federal and state agencies in locating and procuring hay or other winter filler feeds for cows and calves, they may now be unable even to obtain the concentrates on the terms which the federal agency set up.

According to news dispatches the Monday directive restricting the distribution of the feed created wide-spread consternation in all the drouth-stricken counties. Protests calling the order everything from "illy" to "disaster upon disaster" flowed into the state offices. In some counties the feed had already begun to move to feed lots. In these instances committee men said they were not going after the feed nor were they going to try to have the cattlemen return it to storage. Here is the wording of the directive which the Floyd county committee received by telegram:

Text of the Telegram
"Purpose of drouth feed program is to maintain basic foundation herds for those bonafide farmers and stockmen who do not have the finances to purchase feed at prevailing market prices to maintain such herds and remain in livestock business with reasonable chance for successful operation. For this purpose, basic foundation herds will consist of cows, bulls, nursing calves and such heifers as may be kept to replace over-aged and other undesirable cattle culled from the herds.

"To be eligible for feeds at reduced prices a farmer or stockman must (1) have less than a 30 day supply of feed to supplement the roughage for the foundation herd to be maintained, except that such feed may be made available for cattle other than those in foundation herds when such cattle, other than feeders in feed lots, will be marketed not later than September 30, 1953; (2) not have the financial ability to remain in business and maintain his herd in a relatively satisfactory condition in view of present drouth conditions, unless he can purchase feed at prices substantially below prevailing market prices. Feeders in feed lot are not eligible.

"To avoid any undue hardships county committees should use reasonable discrimination in carrying out these instructions."

The order was signed by "Claude K. McCann, chairman of the state drouth relief committee."

Last week's rain practically blanketed Floyd county with ample moisture for all present needs and in considerable sections put quantities of water into surface lakes.

The story runs about the same for all the county, with minimums slightly under three inches, maximums near six inches.

As one result of the rains a rush to get planting seed was on last week-end and the first of this, with indications that clearing weather would see hundreds of planting rigs in the fields beginning yesterday and running through today, possibly tomorrow and Saturday.

Cane and hegari are reported to be the favorites of the farm operators for late planting. After one dealer had sold out all of the available seed he had that were in demand he had a capacity load for a six wheel semi-trailer freighted in and on hand Monday morning to finish filling his orders. Other dealers had about the same story to tell.

Good Season for Planting
Most farm operators said the soil penetration was sufficient to assure a good season to sprout the grain in almost all kinds of ground. Accordingly everything from summer fallowed tracts to stubble land and a good deal of intended cotton land was put into grain sorghums of one kind and another.

July planted forage feeds always makes good bundles, assuming August rains. More years than not the grain matures a good crop. Dry land farmers who have missed a cash cotton crop are taking the gamble on August rains and a reasonably late frost date.

Besides cane and hegari there are some combine-type forage feeds, including Martin maize being put into the ground. Conditions must be right for the gamble to show a profit at this late date, one operator said. "However, you've got to do something, you know," he remarked.

Crops Are Dusted In
The rains brought to light the fact that quite a bit of forage grain seed had been dusted in on dry land in the period since May 15. This grain is already "up to a stand and shining down the row." Fred Bell, who dry-planted in May on the S. N. McPeak farm north of Floydada, estimated the rain at 4 to 5 inches there. It hadn't washed the ground, however, and he had a nice stand of feed Monday, he said.

Heaviest rainfall in the county last night was in a strip across Center and Muncy districts, in central Floyd county. At least airmen say there is more run-off water in evidence in lakes in those two communities than elsewhere in the county. Mark Martin says there is no run off water in evidence to the northwest after you leave Aiken toward Adrian. Marvin Massie said he counted 26 lakes with some water in them on the road from Tuco by way of Petersburg to Floydada Monday morning.

Rain Cuts Fuel Expense
Even among farm operators who had ample water for the land they had under wells the rains were welcome for the most part. An occasional farmer is found who didn't need the rain and for whom it made inconvenience or put too much water on his growing cotton. But 99 per cent of the irrigation farmers welcomed the respite from well-tending, siphon tube moving and the heavy expense of fuel. Some of them also viewed it as a distinct help to the level of the water table. In some areas the level of the underground water had dropped so fast that wells were losing volume.

Ralph Thayer of Sand Hill voiced the general pleasure at temporary relief from the expense of irrigation Monday. He said a rain generally left a few places on the farm with too much water, but a good rain that doesn't wash does a better job than you can do with an irrigation well, he said.

One area of the county which has not had a sufficiency of moisture lies in the east-northeast portion. W. F. Saul, who lives northwest of Flomot, said he and his neighbors still lack sufficient moisture to get farming operations under way and (See Good Rains Fall, back page)

Wind, Rain, Hail Tuesday Night

Floydada residents were awakened around one o'clock Wednesday by a terrific thunder storm and high wind, blowing gusts of dust from the north and west and northeast, about 50 miles per hour. Tree limbs were scattered around town during the wind storm and some out buildings and small buildings were blown over and toppled in the west part of the county.

George McAllister had a small shed topped, while trees with large limbs were hurled around like paper. Some folks were really scared and dressed ready to run to the storm house at any minute, while others slept thru it all, not knowing about the "little wind."

J. T. Huckabay, west of town reported about a two inch rain (about six inches in all) but no hail, lots of wind. North of town got bad winds and one-fourth inch of rain, no hail.

In the Pleasant Valley community, the rain was about one and a half inches while farther south more fell.

On the Lockney highway water was everywhere and the old airport farm was a lake of water. At the Alva Hull farm northwest of town hail leveled the cotton, which was mighty pretty, according to Mr. Hull. His hegari, waist high, was also leveled. Rained about an inch.

Bud Pope also reported he had hail.

Johnny Miller, Barwise, reported no hail, but one inch rain and heavy winds. Lockney had 1.04 inches of rain, some wind damage. South Plains got a nice, gentle rain, estimated at 1.5 at Bill Beedy's place, their best rain of the week. East of Floydada and here in town the shower with the wind was about 4-fourths of an inch.

Mrs. Lena Parsons Funeral Tuesday

Mrs. Lena Parsons, 75, died in the Lockney General hospital Monday, from injuries incident to a fall which occurred about two weeks ago. Her hip was broken in the fall.

Funeral service for Mrs. Parsons was held at the First Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, with the pastor, Rev. Burgan Watkins, officiating. Interment was in Lockney cemetery under the direction of the Carter Funeral home of Lockney.

Mrs. Parsons was born December 7, 1878, in Tennessee. She had made her home in Lockney for several years.

Survivors include one son, J. S. Parsons of Lockney, and one sister, Mrs. W. E. Ragsdale of Artesia, New Mexico.

School To Open On September 7

Floydada public schools will open for the 1953 - 54 term on Monday, September 7, said Superintendent I. T. Graves this week.

Most of the other schools in the county, including the Lockney schools, will open on the same date, according to report.

Mr. Graves said a good faculty for the school year is being lined up. He anticipates making the faculty list public shortly before the opening of the school year, when the details of opening week plans will also be given.

STUDIES AUCTIONEERING
Miss Thada Lackey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lackey, route Q, Lockney, returned Saturday morning from Bryan, Texas, where she has completed a course in public auctioneering.

Of a class of fourteen she was the only woman and she is also the first woman to take a course at this school.

Her instructor was Walter Britton, well known in this vicinity, especially around Amarillo.

Thada was elected secretary - treasurer of her class of 1953.

PO Examination To Be Held Soon

The formality of a civil service examination to fill the position of postmaster at Floydada, a $5,070 a year job, will be carried out soon, it is indicated by an announcement issued last week-end by the Civil Service commission.

Applications will be received until August 11. New, more exacting eligibility requirements have been agreed upon recently between the Civil Service commission and the post office department, the announcement said. The written test will be at Lubbock.

When David Mount, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Mount, carried off reserve champion honors with his 730-pound milk-fed steer last March 12 - 13, he began getting congratulations from his sponsors and friends. And the good reports continue to roll in. Latest recognition given David came from Floyd Fuqua of Fuqua Farm Supply on Fuqua's "local news" broadcast over KFLD last week. Here are shown the young champion feeder and Mr. Fuqua, with the 20 inches tall trophy presented by the feed dealer. The trophy is of ebony with the inscription in gold.

County PMA Committee Readies Machinery For Measuring All Cotton Acreage for Season of 1953

A ten or twelve-man team, coached in the measurement of land, will take the field in Floyd county about August 1, with instructions to measure all the 1953 cotton acreage in the county.

They will be under the direction of Bob Logan, field supervisor for the Floyd county production and marketing committee, and their combined figures will be taken as the figure for the 1953 acreage planted to cotton in this county.

The figure that will thus be established is to be used by the PMA, the Extension Service and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. It is anticipated that cotton allotments will be forthcoming for the 1954 crop. The planted acres history, always a matter of dispute between the three agencies and the farm operators themselves, it is hoped, will thus be determined before ever an allotment order is entered.

Buck Sams, county PMA chairman, W. F. Ferguson, member of the Soil district's board of supervisors, Henry I. Martin, county administrative officer of PMA, and Bob Logan, field supervisor for PMA, spent Tuesday in Lubbock where they based up on the land measuring ordered by the congress.

The cotton land measuring move is backed by a recent congressional enactment which took into consideration the need for a definite figure on cotton acreage before allotment vote is taken and allotments actually ordered by the U. S. department of agriculture. W. F. Ferguson, a veteran of former cotton allotment years, said yesterday that the plan to determine the planted acres prior to the beginning of an allotment program is highly important to a fair and proper operation of a restricted cotton acreage. Measuring before time will settle the argument between the farmer and the county committee before it ever begins," he pointed out. "In other years, after we arrived at a figure based on the farmers' reports, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics has stepped in with a different and lower figure, which the committee had to apply. It was the cause of a lot of friction throughout the cotton year. The BAE set the figures but the county committee had to do the arguing. If we can establish a figure on planted cotton acres before an allotment program is even started we hope to eliminate a great deal of friction."

One of the first problems that may arise will be in connection with land that was prepared for cotton planting this spring but the seed were not put into the ground for lack of season. So far as the committee knew Tuesday before they went into their district meeting in Lubbock their crews would measure only the actually planted acres.

Conservation District News

Paul Cooper who farms north of Lockney has found vetch to be a very profitable crop. His yield of wheat was increased from 17 to 35 bushels per acre. He seeded vetch in cotton middles with a regular grain drill at the rate of 10 pounds per acre. In order for him to use his grain drill, he removed one disc which would run over each row of cotton.

As soon as he had seeded his vetch he watered it up the last time he watered his cotton. Paul stated this was about the first of September.

The vetch was watered once in the summer and turned under when it had grown to a height of 24 to 36 inches. It was then tanded and moldboarded under.

At the time he seeded his wheat last fall, 40 pounds of anhydrous ammonia was applied to this field of wheat with the exception of a check strip.

Paul stated that he could tell little difference in the wheat which had only vetch and that which had vetch and the 40 pounds of anhydrous ammonia. However, he stated a neighbor of his applied anhydrous ammonia on wheat with no vetch and there was a big difference in it and the wheat with no treatments.

The fact that little difference was noted on wheat following vetch with 40 pounds of anhydrous ammonia and wheat following vetch alone is a good indication that you can grow your nitrogen.

Vetch with the growth this reached would produce 10 tons of green manure by converting this to actual pounds of nitrogen, we find he added about 120 pounds.

If this were purchased as commercial fertilizer, it would cost $15-60.

The important part of this planting was that increased yield from 17 bushels to 35 bushels. The reason 17 bushels is used is because, that is what Paul made on a patch of wheat that did not follow vetch.

Another field of vetch was seeded in feed stubble last fall and made a very good growth but due to the dry weather it was necessary to water the vetch three times. This field of vetch will be followed by wheat this fall.

Paul says he would like to see everyone start using more of these legumes because it is not only good for the land but it is good for the entire country. This includes business people as well as the people who are farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Hale and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Will Snell and Mrs. Emma Jones of Gatesville visited in Altus, Oklahoma, Sunday with Messlames Snell's and Jones' sister, Mrs. Virtie Hollingsworth.

The census-takers are men of the Army's 25th Preventive Medical Survey Detachment (PMSD), and their jobs is to keep a running count of the kind and number of malaria, yellow fever and pest mosquitoes.

With this intelligence of enemy strength, the winged menaces can be destroyed more readily and their breeding places brought under control.

But the mosquitoes are wary and hard to "interview." They have to be trapped and taken to laboratories for identification.

The Army uses various types of decoys to lure the mosquitoes into traps—and to beat them at their own game of the jungle ambush.

One method is to use horses for bait. The horses are placed in cages made of wood and screening. A narrow opening in the horse-bait trap invites the insects in—but they can't get out.

Members of the Malaria Control Force — a civilian component — come around every day to gather the catch. The mosquitoes are killed by chloroform, and taken to the PMSD laboratory for identification.

When a large force of one particular type of the insect enemy is captured at one time, PMSD men draw up battle plans for a raid on possible nearby breeding spots.

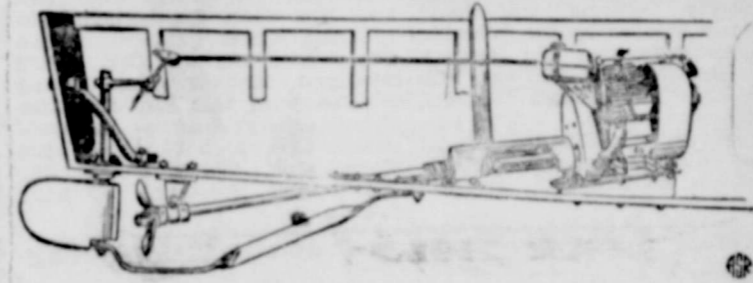

Once the enemy strength and strongholds are analyzed, the Army uses several methods to massacre the mosquitoes.

Hand-spraying is the most common form of attack — with a mixture of heavy oil and DDT being spread on breeding places.

Now You Can Throw Away Those Oars

A new inboard engine kit recently placed on the market makes it possible to convert any rowboat up to 18 feet into a dandy troller for less than $100. Made by Reo Motors, the "Trollabout" do-it-yourself kit can be installed in a few hours by anyone handy with ordinary household tools. Powered by a 1 1/2-hp, 4-cycle, air-cooled Reo engine using regular gas, your boat glides along at a brisk clip or throttles down to an easy trolling pace. Performance is claimed to equal that of a 3-hp outboard. The installation, shown in the drawing, uses a novel pulley and belt arrangement which provides for neutral, forward, and reverse drives.

GOOD HEALTH

Question No. 1:
A pigeon said to his friend, "Don't walk people, the feet should be parallel in standing. It is as walk with the toes as this may weaken and produce flat feet. They are all-important."

Question No. 2:
A doctor in curvature on the eye cause an astigmatism which is looking through a lens which has a slight-ly irregular surface. Although it's rare in childhood, many adults have astigmatism and need properly prescribed glasses to correct it.

Answer to Question No. 3:
3. Something like a chicken incubator for babies was invented in 1860. Modern types are vastly improved. Since premature birth is a major factor in infant mortality, many states now have premature baby centers situated to provide quick incubator care when needed. Services include portable incubators and provision for the loaning of incubators.

She represented a friend of the groom who came all the way from Arabia to bring gifts to the bride and groom. She was dressed in an Arabian costume from sandals to head dress. It brought back old memories to Mr. Smith who spent two years teaching agriculture to the Arabians for our government.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames D. S. Battey, M. D. Ramsey, Roy Hale, Loyce Turner, Walter Hanna, Zant Scott, D. J. Parkey, Monroe Shultz, Wesley Carr and Everett Miller.

Mrs. Childress and daughter served lovely refreshments to the group.

If you want to forget the drought, go to a July clearance. Approached in the proper spirit, these things can be as much fun as a county fair, or an old-fashioned church picnic.

First you read the ads, and smack your lips over the bargain prospects. Then you single out a few to go for. This is an important part of the formula. Otherwise you'll get to the door, see the crush and bolt for home. Or else you'll dive into the thickest concentration of humanity and come out with something startling that you never dreamed of wanting. One year we took home a pair of green shoes, some white kid gloves and a straw handbag. The gloves we finally used; we have since bought three different costumes trying to find the right combination for the shoes; and the handbag is still a stray in our wardrobe.

Next you brush off your best sense of humor, because if you go into it too seriously you'll likely to start a civil war. Then by all means save some time to stand and listen:

"Gee, I wish I needed towels; aren't those luscious looking?"

"Lady, which one of these do you think I should buy?" (You've never seen her before, so how can you answer?)

"I'm getting pink sheets for the boys' room. I think they'll like them."

"No 5-B's left, Madam. But this 6 1/2-A is really the same size." (We once fell for that argument and our unhappy feet, not being made of putty, still ache at the recollection.)

"I brought little Susie; she may as well get initiated early."

Yes sir, clearance sales are great summer sport. And if you should buy something you need, that's extra — like winning at bingo.

THE BRAND NAME FOUNDATION GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY CERTIFICATE

THREE SEALS OF APPROVAL!

The Leonard Refrigerator is the only refrigerator in the world that can make that claim, W. E. Garrett, of White Auto Store, pointed out today.

The three seals are the Brand Names Foundation Golden Anniversary Certificate, the Good Housekeeping Guaranty Seal, and the Underwriters' Laboratories Seal.

"Manufactures of many products today are spending large sums of money advertising that their products have won awards for styling, for engineering, for performance, for taste and similar qualities," Garrett pointed out.

"A small percentage of those awards, gold medals, seals and certificates are pure and simple sales promotion devices with no basis of merit or fact behind them, and oftentimes these awards are available to the highest bidder.

"True awards of merit must be earned," Garrett declared. "No amount of money can buy them unless the product itself is worthy of them. The three won by Leonard are such awards."

The Brand Names Foundation Certificate is given products which have won wide acceptance from the buying public for 50 years or more. Leonard, which goes back to 1881, is the only refrigerator to win this honor.

The Good Housekeeping Guaranty Seal is given products which have been tested and approved for quality by Good Housekeeping Magazine's staff of specially trained technicians. Products advertised in the magazine are tested under conditions of actual use in the home, to learn whether they perform satisfactorily the jobs claimed by the manufacturer.

The Underwriters' Laboratories, one of the finest and largest in the United States, is a non-profit safety testing laboratory supported largely by insurance companies. Products undergo, and must pass, tests for safety far more severe than ever received in normal usage.

Leonard products, with these three seals of approval, may be seen at White Auto Store.

Vacationers Have Residence Blaze

The Grady Walkers, Mr. and Mrs. and their sons on a trip to the Rio Grande valley, are due to get a bit of surprising news when they reach home shortly. They have had a fire at their home. It occurred Saturday noon.

However, the damage was not serious, probably not in excess of $250, according to the estimate of Fire Marshal Carl Rodgers, and the insurance company will have repaired everything and made it hot as today before the end of the week. There was no water damage and repairs have been to the electric wiring system.

The blaze probably caught from an electric cable leading into the kitchen, the fire chief thinks.

Mrs. Walker has been with relatives in the valley while the father of the family and the two sons have been in Old Mexico on a fishing expedition, it is said. Friends decided not to spoil their fun.

A worse loss than the fire came in a Monday night mishap to the Walker farm pick up, when Allen Watts enroute home from the sick bed of a relative in town, overturned on a dirt road and did considerable damage to the pick-up. Watts was only slightly injured in the mishap.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stovall and sons are in Colorado this week on a short vacation.

The group were here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Smith, mother of Mmes. Jameson, Aulick and Houston and sister of Mrs. McDermott and Mr. Pledger. Mrs. Smith passed away at the home of Mrs. Jameson, last Tuesday and was buried at White Flat.

Mrs. Dora Crain of Corpus Christi is here visiting her brothers R. E. and Luther Fry and their families, and is house guest of Mrs. J. E. Horton. Mrs. Crain recently has spent some months in Arlington, Virginia with relatives.

Nursing Homes Health, Safety Standards Set

AUSTIN, Texas — The State Department of Health moved this week to make sure that all nursing and convalescent homes in Texas are looking after the health and safety of their elderly residents.

Acting under authority granted by the last legislature, the health department mailed licensing application forms to several hundred operators, all of whom must now conform to humane standards of operation or close their doors.

As state health officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox is administrator of the new licensing law. These are its terms:

Any establishment which provides food and shelter to four or more persons unrelated to the proprietor, and which provides services which meet some need beyond basic provisions of food and shelter and laundry, must apply for an operation license from the State Department of Health.

Hospitals and similar institutions are not included. Nor are homes conducted by or for adherents of a religious order who depend exclusively on prayer or spiritual means for healing.

Application fees have been set by the legislature at $25 per year, plus $1 for each bed maintained by the home. Fees will be applied to paying administrative costs of the law.

The health agency has the authority to make inspections on homes and to revoke licenses for shoddy operations. Home operators can file grievance complaints in district court in any instance of unfair or arbitrary treatment by the administration of the law.

Dr. Cox, outspokenly in favor of the licensing law as a method of insuring proper treatment of elderly people in nursing homes, says "some homes in this state are little more than fire traps." He adds:

"This is one condition we hope to eliminate. We will not tolerate unscrupulous persons in the nursing home profession, not when the health and safety of disabled old folks are at stake."

Jeep Blaze Burns Driver Who Tries to Extinguish It

Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock, Doyle Grundy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Grundy, driving a jeep on West Missouri street, was heading east on the 400 block when he discovered his machine on fire. Doyle was fighting the fire with his hands and his coveralls caught fire.

When the fire department arrived, they extinguished the blaze, thought to be caused from leaking gasoline.

Doyle received first and second degree burns on his hands and legs. He works with his father at the Grundy Iron and Metal company during the summer months. Doyle had just returned from a six week stay at a Scout camp in New Mexico, where he was in a scout leadership school.

Rockets Play Hide and Seek

ALAMOGORDO, N. M.—An Army unit attached to Holloman Air Development Center near here has one of the atomic age's strangest tasks—playing hide-and-seek with rockets and guided missiles.

The seven officers and 33 enlisted men of Detachment Three, 9393rd Technical Service Unit, track down and recover remnants of rockets and guided missiles test-fired at Holloman or at Army Ordnance's White Sand Proving Ground.

With five single-engine L-19A airplanes and a ground fleet of jeeps and weapons carriers, these soldiers play tag with man-made meteors over the 4,000-square-mile Army Air Force desert range.

Aloft in spotter-aircraft, pilots of the unit often can follow the path of a missile when it is fired, thus directing the ground crew to the landing point.

Ninety per cent of the air missions are flown at an altitude below 500 feet, the better to keep an eye on the speeding quarry.

The average search flight lasts about two hours.

On the easy mission, a puff of smoke pin-points the landing spot and the missiles are found easily. But sometimes the hunting can be hard and prolonged work.

It took 28 hours of desert scouting to find the remains of one rocket, which had parachuted into a canyon. Planes had to fly low between the canyon walls, and the updrafts of air usually found in canyons considerably complicated the search.

When a pilot spots a missile, he directs the ground team to the site by signals and message drops. A dropped smoke grenade can be used to mark the location of the missile, and often the pilot shows the way by wagging his wings, circling and then spurring in the right direction to keep the ground crew on the track.

More complicated instructions are dropped in weighted message bags attached to long, colorful streamers.

Detachment Three arrived at Holloman in October, 1932, and despite the great area of the desert range, only once have the men failed to bring back the missile they set out to find.

Besides their work at shadowing missiles after they are fired, the men have the job of scouting the firing area before a shot to make sure nobody has strayed into the path of the weapons.

their range land still lacks sufficient moisture to make grass for winter. At his place he measured 9-tenths of an inch. Several ranchmen in that area could use more moisture, he said. Mrs. A. V. Haynes Died This Morning

News of the passing of Mrs. Maggie (A. V.) Haynes, 73, at a Mesquite, Texas, hospital early this morning, was relayed by telephone to The Hesperian at 7 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sherbet of Allmon.

The Shurbets were told by Roy Lee Haynes, son of the deceased, that the body will be forwarded today from Mesquite to Cotton-Bratton Funeral home at Weatherford, the former home of the family, and the funeral will be held there Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Interment will be made in Little-Deen cemetery, four miles out from Weatherford.

Mrs. Haynes had a stroke two weeks ago and her death was not unexpected. She had been residing at 503 North Ravinia drive in Dallas for five and a half years. She lived in Floydada from 1915 to 1944. Her husband, Andrew V. Haynes, cotton gin and oil mill man, built a gin in 1915 here and operated it until his death in 1932. His remains are interred in Floydada cemetery.

Besides Roy Lee Haynes, the only child, one sister and two brothers survive.

The surviving son was one time associated in the publication of The Hesperian. He has been with the U. S. Department of Labor for several years.

THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

Published by the Hesperian Publishing Co., Inc., at 212 South Main St., Floydada, Texas. HOMER STEEN, Editor.
THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1953

Established 1899 by Charles W. Steen as second class mail at Floydada, Texas, under the act of Congress of 1897

VIEWS AND COMMENT

In Floyd County you don't know when you're smart nor when you're not, if you're in the farming business for a living. It takes Floyd county weather and soil to confound the wise man. A cinch is never a cinch. A last effort at a lost cause is as often a winning move. Nearly as many ideas about late planting as there are farmers this next to the last week in July with ample moisture in the ground for immediate needs, water in many of the lakes, and the fields inviting the plow and the planter. For one thing most dry land farmers seem to be agreed they are going to put some ground in cane or hegari to make bundles for a stock filler this winter. Continued good seasons and a late frost could make a bumper crop. It has been done and often. Another encouraging factor is that late feed, for some reason makes better feed than early feed especially if you plan to use the fodder.

Floyd County Fair plans, delayed by a late start and the listlessness that hung on due to the weather, has a good prospect for the fall of 1954. It is a fortunate thing that the proponents of a fair are going to go right on with their plans, get organized this year and get the fair's name in the pot for next. Times have changed a bit, they tell us, since the county fair plan was abandoned years ago after many years of successful operation. At that time it appeared that, unless a fair could be developed into a regional thing, it had no hopes of success, but the viewpoint and the outlook have changed. Now a county fair would be a good thing, as the chamber of commerce and the farmers tell us. Let us all join in the worthwhile venture.

Chamber of Commerce reminder is that the third week in August is going to be health week in Floyd county. A mass chest x-ray survey is set for August 15-16 in Floydada, August 19-20 in Lockney. And right in the midst of it comes the Red Cross bloodmobile, due back in Lockney August 18, in Floydada August 19. Both chest x-ray and bloodmobile take a lot of local work, well organized. Both are entitled to 100 per cent cooperation.

People on South Main in particular and in the community in general have been pondering why the State Highway Department didn't carry out their promise to pave on South Main when they did the other paving through the city. The same resolution that covers paving a 24-foot strip on West Missouri, which the department did, also covers a 33-foot center strip on South Main which the department didn't. The resolution on the council's minutes is dated June 9, 1952. Seeking the explanation, since the city authorities did not seem to know that it wasn't to be done, we have been told that South Main is not credited with being a "designated" highway, whereas West Missouri is. Evidently being designated a "business route" is not the same as being otherwise designated. The failure is a keen disappointment. The Hesperian, which helped to give publicity to this bit of misinformation before the paving was done, begs leave to point out, now that the contractor has come and gone, that the statements made at the beginning had all the earmarks of the truth, as much as any of the paving stories we carried at the time. Maybe the state department went into the matter fully with the city council, but to us failure to carry out the whole plan as put down on the public records and represented to the public was much, much too casually passed over when performance time came.

DRAFT LAWS AND REGULATIONS

(Fifth in a series of 10 on the draft law and its rules and regulations)

Any young married man registered with a draft board had better be on the alert about any expected additions to his family. If his wife is expecting their first child, it is to his interest to tell the board about it immediately.

As long as he has only a wife to support, he's as eligible for a hitch in the Army as a single man. When he has a child in his family, or one has been conceived and not as yet born, the law provides for his deferment, provided he tells the board about it before he is ordered for induction.

Draft regulations require that a man with an unborn child be deferred if he files with his board, prior to the time his induction order is mailed, certificate of a licensed physician that a child has been conceived.

If he does not take this highly necessary step and the draft board sends him an order to report for induction, then the draft board has no authority to defer him on the basis of the unborn child, Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, state draft director, points out.

Neither does the state draft headquarters or the national draft headquarters have authority to interfere with his induction under such circumstances. Draft regulations would have to be amended to permit consideration of his deferment solely because of the unborn child.

Afterward, the law requires a man to report the birth of children into his family, just as it requires him to provide the local board at all times with his latest change of address.

Henry I. Martin New PMA Sec'y

Henry I. Martin, a Coleman man, is the new executive officer of the Floyd county Production and Marketing administration. He took over last week, succeeding E. C. Madera, of Plainview, who had been serving as temporary administrator for this county, following the resignation of Thos. J. Hutchins.

Martin's four and a half years of experience in the PMA organization has been at Coleman and Sweetwater. He formally took the responsibility of the local office on July 13.

He and his family — a wife and baby girl — are domiciled temporarily at 229 East Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bain of Plainview are the parents of a baby son born July 15, in the Plainview hospital. The baby has been named Ernest Lee. Mrs. Bain is the former Ernestine Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fowler.

Judge E. C. Nelson, of Amarillo, was a business visitor in Floydada on Saturday.

Five Registrants Reporting Today

Five registrants, three of them volunteers, reported this morning at 5 o'clock to Local Board No. 45 for induction into the armed forces.

One of the three volunteers is Jerry A. Warren of Matador, the others being Edward B. Wallingford and Wayne A. Smyer, both of Plainview.

The inductees going into service on regular call are Richard C. Turner, Tulia, and Royce C. Durham, Kress.

One Plainview man, James T. Shugart, listed as a delinquent registrant with the board, is ordered to report with the above group as is Clyde B. Kirk of Tulia, also on the delinquent list with the board. Usually the "delinquents" have already entered the service, their records having failed to catch up with them.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Barker and granddaughter, Sandra Assiter of Chicago, Ill., went to Clovis, New Mexico, today to meet their granddaughter, Kristena Barker, who is coming to spend about three weeks with her cousin Sandra and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Barker. Kristena lives in Pagosa Springs, Colorado.

15 of these big icing machines are in operation at ice-servicing points along the Santa Fe

Ever see so much fuss just to chill an orange?

It's the best way there is today to refrigerate a "reefer"—but Santa Fe is developing an even newer and better way to do the job

In 60 seconds flat, the giant ice-crushing machines Santa Fe recently installed can fill the bunkers of a refrigerator car with five tons of ice!

They are the newest and fastest machines for icing cars yet devised. And Santa Fe "reefers" are the most efficient type of refrigerator cars now on the rails.

These refrigerator cars and icing machines have carried the technique of ice refrigeration to the ultimate of present day knowledge.

WHAT ABOUT TOMORROW?

We can't be sure, BUT—

Santa Fe is now experimenting with a newer way to refrigerate cars automatically for hauling foods which may require temperatures as low as 25° below zero.

30 new experimental refrigerator cars designed by Santa Fe, built in its own shops and each with a capacity of 128,000 pounds of frozen foods, are now being utilized in the movement of frozen foods.

Each of these new cars has its own thermostatically-controlled diesel-driven compressor-type refrigerator unit. It carries 400 gallons of fuel (almost the exact amount Lindbergh used to fly the Atlantic). It can maintain sub-zero temperatures all the way from California to New York.

BENEFITS FELT ALL ALONG THE LINE

All along the line, people and communities feel the benefits of this building new wherever it actually occurs on the Santa Fe—and day-after-day, something new is done to make "America's New Railroad" a little better.

The millions of dollars this newness costs Santa Fe doesn't cost you a single penny in the taxes you pay.

PROGRESS THAT PAYS ITS OWN WAY

Trip to California to Get Martha Lee Sanders

Martha Lee Sanders, a senior this fall at the State college, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otho Sanders, who resided in Floyd county and are now in California. Her present objective is to attend college with a music major and a minor in history here, told of an accident in her life, the account of a highly intelligent travel guide.

I was awakened by the persistent buzz of the alarm clock. After a few minutes I realized that this was the time to get up. Since June 1st, I had been in California, and I was to leave for the Eye Hospital at Azusa, California, today, when I was to begin my training.

Mr. Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Stewardman drove me to the airport in Amarillo. There, I was told that I was to be delayed and so I had to wait a few minutes longer than planned. This is not unusual when one arrives at a new place, when one arrives at a new place, when one arrives at a new place.

We took off at long intervals. The air was very hot and the time passed very quickly before landing at the airport. We were told how long it would take to get to the plane. It seemed to take a long time. Finally, I was able to land. I was very nervous and I was very nervous.

that I was to go over to the M.G.M. studio, with Mr. Wiest that afternoon to be photographed with the president of the studio. It took a long time to drive over there, but when we arrived at the studio, we went in and were shown to the conference room. Rusty sat on a table and did not seem to mind too much. I was proud of her for being so well behaved.

For the next several days we worked hard, but we were all getting more sure of ourselves, because we were used to our dogs. The dogs were all well-trained. They always stop at curbs to wait for instructions. When told, they will go straight ahead or will turn to the right or left. When crossing streets, the dogs watch the traffic very carefully and stop for the person with them to find the curb on the opposite side. They walk around bicycles or shoppers or other obstacles in the path. The dogs are all trained to work on the left side. One of the trainers remarked that they did not like to think of the dogs' owners as masters, but as partners.

Three Months of Training
The dogs receive three months training before being trained with the person who receives him. The dogs are not trained to be unfriendly but we were told that it was better not to permit people we pass in our walking to pet the dog. This is a precaution for the benefit of strangers as well as the dog as any dog will dislike strangers at times. The dogs are cautious of anyone who acts suspiciously. For example, the trainer said that when a dog is walking along if someone watches her until she passes and then walks along behind her, she will be on guard. The dogs do not like to have many people crowd close to them.

I hope the readers will remember these words of caution and observe them. When the dog is accustomed to those who associate with her partner frequently, she will be inclined to be less cautious herself.

June 29 — I learned after we arrived home, that Rusty and I were to appear on a television show the next day. The program was a talent show. We were ready and the drive over was nice. Rusty was not on the screen during the whole program as the lights bothered her a little and the show lasted a full hour.

Quite an Experience
By this time, in our work, we were ion was waiting.

We walked to the car and I noticed the cool ocean air of Los Angeles. After we started to Azusa, I learned that this nice cool air would not last and the nearer we got to Azusa, the warmer it was.

Settle Down for Four Weeks
When we arrived at the Foundation, I was shown to my room and before very long my companion for the next four weeks arrived. She was a large woman past sixty, whose home was in Los Angeles. We talked while we unpacked and very soon it was time for dinner.

At dinner, I met two of the other members of the class, one a Mr. Curtis Hale, about fifty, was from California, also. The other, Gordon McCaw was a school principal from Henderson, Nevada. We all called him Mac. There was one other, Tanken, from U.C.L.A., who had not arrived and was a week late.

Monday, June 15 — Shortly after breakfast, Mr. Stewart Wiest, the trainer for the foundation, arrived to drink a second cup of coffee with us. We chatted for awhile and then we went over to the living room, where he talked to us briefly. He had a speaking engagement so he left us in charge of his assistant, who took us all for walks over the grounds and explained how everything was arranged. We were told that we would be required to keep track of our directions, when we were walking so as not to get lost. In the afternoon, we worked with Mr. Wiest's dog, Sandy. After that they brought some more dogs and we worked with them for a little while.

June 16 — That day it was cool and cloudy and we worked inside the building with more dogs. This was repeated Wednesday. By then, we were all a little restless, wondering when we would receive our own dogs.

Introduced to Rusty
Thursday, June 18 — The first thing that morning was a few minutes work with Sandy. None of us enjoyed it too much, because we were still wondering about our dogs. Then, Mr. Wiest told us to go to our rooms and he would bring our dogs. The place was empty in seconds and we were talking about what we thought the dogs would be like.

After a few minutes, Mr. Wiest called me from the front door and asked me to sit in the dining room. I could hear the dog he was holding, move a little. After I sat down, he told me that the dog's name was Rusty and that he was a yellow, German Shepherd dog. Mr. Wiest said she was a very smart dog and said she was very affectionate, when speaking of her disposition. Then, he put my leash on Rusty and told me to take her and play with her for awhile and get acquainted with her.

Rusty seemed to like me, but she wanted to go outside. Before very long, I took her out for a walk. We did not do much work that day, but spent most of it getting acquainted with our dogs.

June 19 — We walked on the street with our dogs that day for the first time. At first, Mr. Wiest kept a leash on them just in case something should go wrong, but nothing happened. We followed this routine for the next day and Monday. Mr. Wiest took turns walking with us.

going out alone. This is quite an experience as I have never traveled alone frequently. We all got lost, at least once, but we knew the dogs kept track of where the car belonging to the foundation was parked and would return to it if we permitted them. The trainer watched us carefully to see that we did everything right.

Gradually, we walked farther and finally, we went into stores, during our walks. The dogs, as usual were well behaved. One afternoon, when it was hot and we were out walking in a group as we often did toward the last, I was walking in front and some one said something about going into a drugstore near for a cold drink. The dogs did not understand a long conversation like that but they had been to this store several times before and so, when I crossed the street and went up on the curb, Rusty started for the door without being told.

On July 4, Open house was held at the Foundation. A large crowd attended. The night of the Fourth, the class enjoyed a picnic in the backyard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiest.

We completed our training Friday afternoon and left for home on July 11, arriving home late that evening.

It has been a very enjoyable experience. Rusty did not object to flying, but it was a little confusing to her.

THE HORROR OF FAMINES

There is nothing new under the sun. History can be rightly called "a study of parallels" and particularly in regard to the present record-breaking drought.

Bad as the prolonged dry spell has been, we can take refuge in the fact that disasters, either local or national, bring out the humanitarian instincts of the more fortunate. As a result, tragedy is averted through gifts, loans and other economic means.

But this was not always so. Recent studies show that man has sometimes had to resort to cannibalism in order to live through the famines following great droughts.

In a story released by the Associated Press recently, Arthur Edson reports on a study of age-old droughts made by Julius Allen of Library of Congress. Edson quotes Allen as saying famines also have been the cause of wars, migrations, revolutions and Communists.

"India and China, near starvation level even when things are at their best, have been hardest hit."

Edson writes, "The University of Nanking figures that China has had 1,829 famines in the past 2,000 years."

"Famines have been no respecter of geography. Some 650 famines have been recorded in Europe. In 936, in Scotland, people began to devour one another." During that same time, the Irish sold their children for food.

There is this description of the Egyptian famine of 1064-1072, according to Edson.

"The wretched restored to cannibalism, and organized bands kidnapped the unwary passenger in the desolate streets, principally by means of ropes furnished with hooks and let down from the latticed windows."

"Even the mere statistics are awesome: five million dead in the India famine of 1876 - 78, 9 1/2 million dead in North China in the same period, and 12 million dead of starvation during the Russian Revolution."

"The first written account of a drought remains one of the best. Two years before the time of Abraham, a drought struck Egypt. The king, Toserthus, left his report on it, and any Texas or Oklahoma farmer will know how he felt."

"I am mourning on my high throne for the vast misfortunes because the Nile flood has not come for seven years. Light is the grain; there is lack of crops and all kinds of food."

"Each man has become a thief to his neighbor. They desire to hasten and cannot walk. The child cries, and the youth creeps along and the old man; their souls are bowed down..."

Edson ends his story with Toserthus' note of almost complete desperation: "Torn open are the chests of provisions, but instead of contents there is air. Everything is exhausted."
