LIPSTICK LOGIC
By LOUISE ALLEN

We spent an afternoon recently with three newcomers to our town. One of them had just arrived. She had lived in large and small places, from the west coast where she was born to Washington, D. C.

"We're here to stay," she said. "I like this place. I'm glad we can start our children to school in a clean American town." She hadn't really had time to like the place, but by her attitude we knew that she would.

Another of them had come from a much smaller community two years before. She had many friends there, was in the middle of all the community activities. She found it hard to adjust, but, by golly she wasn't one to be whipped! She now teaches in the public schools. She knows her children's friends and their parents. She knows all her

The table was laid with white lace cloth over green, having the punch bowl as centerpiece, around which was greenery and small white mums. Pink candies completed the table decor. Pink napkins were used with the words, "Aurie and Steve" printed in green.

Miss Donice Reeves and Eddie Lynn Hammonds were in charge of the display of gifts.

The guests were invited to call at 7:30 o'clock.

Hostesses with Miss Reeves were Mesdames Fred Reeves, Jimmy Derryberry, Edwin Hammonds, Harmon Roberts, Robert Day, W. A. Lovell, Pearl Fagan, Floyd Fagua, R. C. Ross, D. M. Moore, Mrs. Norma June Craig, Mrs. Clifford Willis, and Misses Betty Blum, June Hartline, Mona Williams, Bonita Teaff, Mozell Smith, Alyne Reeves, Anni Hickerson, Margaret Lovell, Mildred Clark, Eddie Lynn Hammonds.

The third was really a 'returnee' to our town, where she grew up. Since leaving, she had lived in twenty houses in a dozen towns. "I feel as if I've come home," she said. "I'm so happy to have my girls permanently settled at last."

"But you have to watch yourself on this moving around," she added, "or you'll get spoiled. Houses don't make much difference; they're never really homes. You don't feel any social responsibility, either, in a town when you know you're just passing through."

Lost City Built by Traders Found in Borneo Swamp

WASHINGTON—According to reports from Borneo a thousand-year-old city has been found deep in a swamp on the north coast. It is believed to have developed because of rich iron foundries in the region and trade with far eastern nations. Crudely carved human figures on sandstone boulders stand guard over great quantities of ancient Chinese and Siamese porcelain, Hindu-styled ornaments of gold, and pieces of iron slag from forgotten furnaces—all this on an island where today live tribes of people close to the Stone Age.

Spread across more than a square mile, these relics of a lost settlement would seem to indicate that Sarawak once was a principal trading point in the islands of the East, visited by merchant convoys of ancient Oriental empires.

Today Sarawak is Great Britain's largest dependency on Borneo, covering 40 miles of coast and reaching 40 to 120 miles back into mountainous rain forests. Its half-million inhabitants include Chinese, Malays, and pagan animistic tribes.

Tribesmen in the interior still live in communal longhouses, and their recent ancestors were head-hunters. Yet among their most valued possessions can be found exquisite Tang Dynasty porcelain jars, and colored beads believed to have come from Mediterranean lands in Roman times.

The country became a British Crown Colony in 1946.

Income Tax Plays No Favorites: Hits Service Men, Too

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Uncle Sam's income tax collector isn't over-looking men in uniform. Just like you, they never see many of their pay dollars—the bite is put on before they ever step up to the pay table.

The biggest single payment ever made by the Army for Federal income taxes withheld from the pay of Army personnel was made this year—more than $12,000,000.

The check—written for $12,127,691.13 by Brigadier General Emmett J. Bean, Commander of the U. S. Army Finance Center—was received in payment by the Director of Internal Revenue in Indianapolis, where the Center is located.

This fabulous amount was collected from members of the Armed Forces, both officers and enlisted, who are subject to Federal income tax as is every other citizen.

The Army, like any other large business organization, must account to the Director of Internal Revenue and make periodic payments of taxes collected from its soldiers.

Traffic Violators Treated to Coffee

TUCUMCARI, N. M. — Traffic violators are astonished these days at the treatment they receive in Tucumcari, New Mexico.

Instead of fine and the jail house, they are given coffee and a printed list of traffic don'ts.

The idea was originated by Police Chief Houston Bragg. When a motorist is flagged down for a violation a policeman hands him the printed list of don'ts and a coupon entitling him to free cups of coffee for themselves and passengers at the nearest eating place.

The chief explains the coffee period gives the motorists time to read the "don'ts" and realize that speeding and other violations are thoughtless disregard for the rights and lives of others.

In the five months it has been in force, operation coffee has definitely helped the spending problem, Bragg says. Traffic offenses have fallen off sharply.

The Chamber of Commerce reports that the town's previous reputation for toughness toward traffic violators has been erased and that the present friendliness was being repaid in good will and better-behaved drivers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cline, of Ben Hur, were here Tuesday to attend the funeral of their friend, Johnny Baxter. They returned to their home Wednesday morning. The Clines are former Floydada residents.

Nature Teamed With Insecticides In Pest Control

Nature can be teamed with insecticides in controlling insect pests. Tests by U. S. Department of Agriculture entomologists have shown that nature, in the form of beneficial insects, can be used in conjunction with insecticides in combating an insect pest.

Normally, only one form of control is used because in most instances insecticides destroy not only the insect pest but the beneficial insects as well.

This need not be. Fruit insect specialists of USDA's Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine learned they could prevent most oriental fruit moth damage to ripe peaches in New Jersey by:

1. Releasing tiny wasps that prey on the larvae of the moth, and then
2. Spraying with an insecticide.

The USDA says results were equally good as those obtained with conventional control methods which necessitate the use of two insecticidal sprays applied at two to three week intervals starting about a month or more before harvest.

Either method, the USDA says, lowers the percentage of moth-injured fruit from an average of about one-fourth of the crop when no control is practiced, to an average of about six per cent.

Prior to the development of modern organic insecticides in the mid-1940's, peach growers prevented orental fruit moth damage solely with the parasitic wasps, the USDA points out. Timely release of these wasps cut damage to ripe peaches to about half that normally caused by the fruit moth. When DDT became generally available in 1947—and later EPN and parathion—entomologists proved these chemicals applied as sprays would more adequately control the moth.

Although some peach growers might prefer the newly proven wasp and spray method over spray alone, a Department entomologist believes the greatest value from these tests is the knowledge that these apparently opposite approaches to insect control can at times be used together.

Ultimately, they believe, this knowledge may lead to the practical control of many pests through the use of combinations of both beneficial insects and insecticides.

Chance Listener Gives Happy End to Sad War Story

DENVER, Colo. — Sergeant Marvin W. Dye of Fulton, Mo., leaned back on his bed at Fitzsimons Army Hospital and started to spin a yarn for other soldiers in the ward.

It was one of these heart-rending World War II stories about the rescue of a badly-wounded and destitute Polish boy from almost certain death in Nazi Germany. He had been shot by German guards while trying to escape from a concentration camp in 1945 and had no one to treat his injury.

"I took the boy to the American Seventh Field Hospital where I was stationed at the time," said Dye. "The M.D.'s there treated his wound. After he recovered, several of us took it upon ourselves to look after the kid. His name was Abe."

Dye described how he and his buddies gave food and clothes to the forsaken youth and let him sleep in their tent. Then, he continued, the group located the boy's father in a nearby displaced persons' camp.

"I'll never forget the re-union of Abe and his father," the soldier related.

A ward attendant taking blood pressure at the next bed turned to stare at Dye.

"When the kid first saw his dad, he ran up and threw his arms around him. It was the first time they'd seen each other in six years," continued Dye.

The ward attendant forgot his work. He stood transfixed as the tale unfolded.

But the re-union had its sad side too, according to the sergeant. Abe learned his mother, sister and brother had been killed by the Germans.

The Floyd County Hesperian, Floydada, Texas, Thursday, October 8, 1953

"The kid flinched a little when he heard that news, but you could tell he'd suffered so much he'd forgotten how to cry."

"When our organization moved out of the area, we turned our refugee over to Military Government. I often wonder what happened to Abe and his dad."

The ward attendant jumped to the side of Dye's bed and excitedly thrust his arm in front of the sergeant's astonished eyes.

"Here I am, sergeant. It's me—Abe Verderber. Look at my arm. The initials KL—for concentration camp (Konzentrationslager). And to think I've been helping take care of you here for several days without recognizing you!"

The sergeant was too stunned to say anything for a minute. Then he and Abe got re-acquainted. Dye was at Fitzsimons for treatment of an injury received in a training accident at Port Whittier, Alaska.

His former "adopted" refugee and the elder Verderber came to the United States in 1949. The father is living in Ohio, and both expect to become citizens soon. Abe is serving a two-year enlistment hitch.

EIGHTH OF NATION'S CROPS GROWN ON IRRIGATED LAND

An eighth of the nation's crop output is coming from a sixteenth of our total harvested cropland, due to irrigation, economists calculate.

In the Western State practically no cropping would be possible without an artificial water supply. Nevada, for example, has all but 100,000 acres of the 620,000 in crop and under irrigation. Harvested crops in Nevada come from the 413,000 acres of irrigated cropland, while the balance of 36,000 acres is devoted to irrigated pastures. The remaining 69,245,000 acres in Nevada produce the remaining one-tenth of all crops produced in the State.

And in California, Colorado and Wyoming better than four-fifths of the production of crops is on irrigated land.

Similar cases of the importance of irrigation are found in Idaho, where three-fourths of the crops are grown from irrigated land; one-third in Oregon, Montana and Washington; and about one-sixth of all crops produced in Nebraska and Texas come from irrigated lands.

Except for large projects such as the Grand Coulee in Washington, the expansion of farm land being brought under irrigation is small. Expansion on the remaining land in the Nation, both suited to irrigation and with water available is largely confined to marginal areas.

While a better system of farming has resulted from irrigation in areas where it has been effected, it has been at a great cost to farmers. Economists point out that irrigation farmers have extremely heavy investments in the development of wells, canals, ditches, land levelling, drainage and machinery.

Lyndale Dairy Gets Car Load Paper Cartons

Lyndell Dairy Farm store personnel is jubilant this week, after two years effort, over the receipt of paper carton containers for their milk and a machine to fill them with.

Geo. B. McAllister, owner of the dairy farm and store, announced yesterday that the new containers for service of customers at the retail establishments are to be used immediately.

The Floydada establishment is the first independent of its size in the state to obtain the new containers, Mr. McAllister believes. A carload shipment of the containers was unloaded at the dairy store this week.

McAllister blames the "big interests" for his failure to get the cartons sooner. He credits the justice department, the federal trade commission "and a few congressmen and senators" with helping him get the paper milk cartons.

The store processes milk from local farms, bottles it in their modern, local dairy, and it is "delivered by local people."

Lyndale has chosen the green container for their homogenized milk, red for the pasteurized, and an orange carton is used for butter-milk. For their cartons the store has in effect a 25 cent price for the homogenized product, and 24 cents for pasteurized. Their buttermilk is sold at 20 cents per quart in the paper cartons.

Deliveries will continue to be made to residential customers in the glass containers.

Drouth Disaster Feed Nearly Gone

Drouth disaster feed in the store rooms of the Floyd County PMA are about gone and unless the county is put back on the active list which hadn't been done Wednesday morning, drouth-stricken stockmen will get no more when the committee scrapes the bottom of the barrel.

Floyd county was taken off the list three weeks ago. At that time there was some oats, cottonseed pellets and cottonseed meal left. The committee announced that the supply would be reserved for farmers of the county who had no irrigation. Three years of poor crops have made their positions perilous as regards further live stock operations.

Cotton Land Measured

Measuring the cotton lands of the county has been completed, Henry I. Martin, administrative officer of the PMA, said yesterday. However there is still considerable detail work to be done before completion of the report ready for consideration of the secretary of agriculture.

NATIVE PASTURES

Grass clippings were recently made on two native pastures at the south edge of Floydada. One pasture was in good condition with a good cover which includes Blue Grama and Side-oats Grama from

Good Showers in S. E. Floyd

Practically all of southeast Floyd county, from six miles out of Floydada and including Lakeview, Antelope, Dougherty, Baker, and portions of the area north of Highway 70 as well, had excellent showers Saturday when rains deluged the area immediately to the east of Floyd county under the caprock.

Rain reports over Lakeview indicated an inch and more of rainfall as general and the same is true of considerable other areas in that vicinity. However, some reports give the rainfall east and southeast as low as 75-hundredths.

At Floydada and most other points in the county, after you leave the southeast, the fall dribbled out to 4-tenths and less.

Most of the farmers seen this week in the rain streak said they had not dry-sown any wheat but were rigging up to put seed into the ground.

The rainfall came in on a break in the heat wave and temperatures dropped to the mid-thirties Sunday and Monday.

The rain did not appreciable damage to cotton, according to report.

The plot in this pasture about 275 lbs. per acre was clipped twice, about 4 and 5 weeks before. A soil thermometer was used to take the soil temperature at a depth of about three inches, which was 89 degrees F at 4:00 p.m. The moisture penetration following recent rains was 15 inches.

Across the road on another pasture in poor condition from overgrazing, another study was made. Buffalo grass was the chief native grass found and it was thin. There was not enough grass on the marked plot in this pasture to clip. It had been clipped twice before, the same as the one above. The moisture penetration on the pasture was only 7 inches, and the soil temperature at a depth of three inches was 100 degrees F.

From this information we can see that a pasture in good condition will take in about twice the amount of rain where it falls, as compared to a pasture in poor condition. Also the soil temperature, gives us another clue. The higher the soil temperature, the faster is the rate of water evaporation from the soil. Also at the higher temperature of 100 degrees, it is much more difficult for the grass to survive.

Therefore, it will be to your advantage not to overgraze. And where you have already overgrazed, it will be to your advantage to rest and reseed native pastures. Much of the water in our lakes gets there through native pastures that have been overgrazed. Let us practice good pasture management, and at the same time hold much more of the rain water where it falls, producing good pastures, and a better farm income.

Cotton Moving To Gins Slowly

C. O. Spence field man for the TBC, with offices with the Chamber of Commerce, announced Wednesday that he had placed only about 50 cotton pickers since Monday and that he has orders for five hundred workers if he could find them. He was in hopes more would be coming into this area any day now. They are needed and needed bad, said Mr. Spence.

The four gins in Floydada up to Wednesday noon had ginned a little over 700 bales, the grade turning out good and more and more cotton pickers and pullers needed. One ginner has a customer who has ginned 40 or more bales, while another has a customer who has ginned 25 or more bales. The cry is for more and more pullers.

The four gins in Lockney have ginner around 1200 bales today with the grade good and average. One ginner has a couple of customers who have ginned 60 bales each and one has a couple who have brought in about 50 each, others coming in with 10 or 15.

Sterley has ginned 225 bales, grade unusually good, all white with the exception of about 2%. South Plains has about 15 bales. Lone Star had ginned 249 bales, grade way above average. One customer brought in about 40 or 50 bales.

Aiken has ginned 806 bales today grade fine. Staple about one inch; some cotton will make one bale to acre; more and more hands needed, paying $2.00 per hundred, there. One customer has ginned around 40 bales.

Lakeview had ginned 51 bales today. Barwise has ginned 190 bales, both report more hands needed for pulling.

McCoy ginned 536 bales, grade good, need more pullers.

Newton gin at Dougherty has gins are marked by addresses from leading laymen and ministers of the state.

ginned 21 bales, more pullers needed only one bunch in community. Total number bales ginned to yesterday noon in Floyd county is 3,993 bales cotton.

Grade and Staple Good

Reports of good grade and staple cotton includes green tags that show a lot of cotton reports on middling inch and better basis. Only an occasional bale is classed as low as 7-eighths inch staple, ginners say.

Many thousand bales of cotton are open in the field, a figure probably upward of 50,000.

FRED JACKSON NAMED MEMBER OF SCS BOARD

Fred Jackson, of Sand Hill, is the new supervisor of sub-division No. 5, of Floyd County Soil Conservation district succeeding W. F. Ferguson. Sub-division No. 5 covers that portion of the county south and west of U. S. Highway 70 and west of Highway 207, lying principally in the southwest and west part of the county. Jackson was elected Tuesday night in a meeting called at Sand Hill by the district board of supervisors.

Ferguson, who was chosen on the original board of supervisors when the district was created 14 years ago, asked that his name not be submitted for the place.

Ladies of the Sand Hill home demonstration club served light refreshments. Attendance was small but interest pronounced.

A part of the program for the evening was a soil saving film presented by Bill Rodgers, county agent.

Gilbert Fawver, chairman of the board of supervisors, opened the meeting. Chester Mitchell of Pleasant Valley was elected chairman and presided during the evening.

Your Newspaper . . . In History

Colonial newspapers were the mainstay of the movement for independence.

Thomas Paine was a leading journalist during the American Revolution.

The Boston tea party was planned in the back room of the Boston Gazette.

Newspapers consistently fight corruption and incompetence in government.

Benjamin Franklin originated the practice of printing letters to the editor.

The earliest state editorial association was organized in Wisconsin in 1853.

At the end of the American Revolution there were 43 newspapers in the colonies.

John L. Hopper of New York, the first advertising agent, began business in 1841.

The two world wars increased the appetite for foreign news in the United States.

History shows that the press has been uniformly on the side of the common people.

The royal governor of Massachusetts appointed the first licenser of the press in 1662.

The New York Tribune was the first American newspaper to pass under corporate control.

The invention of the telegraph made possible the publishing of national and foreign news.

Charles A. Dana, famous editor of the New York Sun, helped educate the public to want news.

The first newspaper in New York City was named the New York Gazette. It was started in 1726.

John Peter Zenger, early New York editor, was jailed in 1734 for his criticisms of the royal governor.

"Patent insiders" and "ready print" were first devised during the Civil War due to the labor shortage.

The first issue of the New York Weekly Journal, Nov. 15, 1733, contained an article on liberty of the press.

Many early colonial printers and editors conducted "general stores" in connection with their newspaper plants.

Greeley's New York Tribune was the first newspaper in America to recognize Charles Dickens as a great writer.

The second printing press was brought to Massachusetts colony in 1693, 40 years after the first press arrived.

The first daily newspaper in America was the Pennsylvania Packet and General Advertiser, started in Philadelphia in 1784.

One of the historic newspapers in the struggle for liberty was The Federalist founded by Alexander Hamilton.

The first newspaper war correspondent was George W. Kendall of the New Orleans Picayune who covered the Mexican War.

Noah Webster founded the American Minerva in New York in 1739 with the assistance of Alexander Hamilton.

Samuel Adams did most of his effective work in leading the movement for independence by writing for the press.

The first successful newspaper in the colonies was started with permission of the royal governor of Massachusetts in 1704.

The Boston News Letter, first successful American newspaper, had a circulation of 300 after 15 years of publishing in 1719.

During the War of the Revolution numerous colonial newspaper editors were forced to flee before the advancing British army.

The public during the American Revolution acquired a vast respect for the press and for the principle of press freedom.

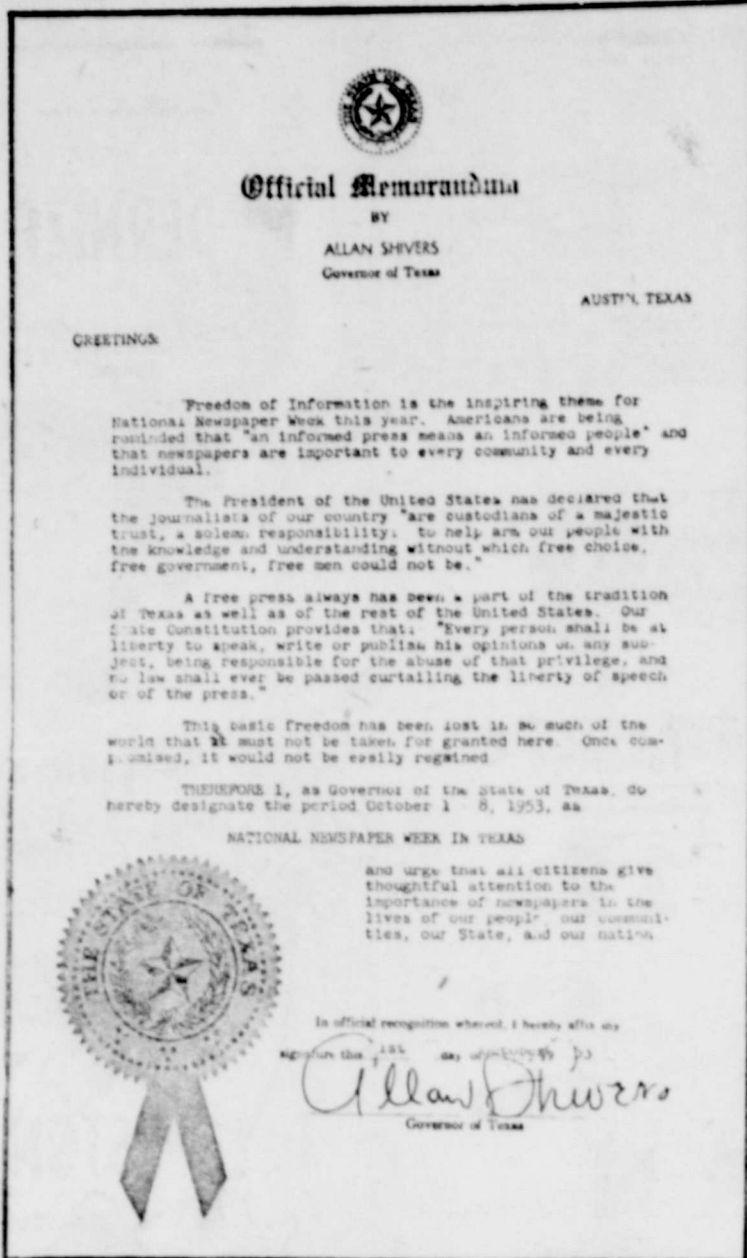

The Herald was the first newspaper in New York to give detailed descriptions of the gowns worn by women at social affairs.

Benjamin Franklin became the publisher of the Pennsylvania Gazette in 1728, second newspaper established in Pennsylvania.

The historian Rhodes declared that no single man in his time influenced so many people as Horace Greeley, editor of the New York Tribune.

Most of the Mayflower pioneers came to this country because they had been persecuted for their expression of beliefs in England.

The New England Courant, started by James Franklin in 1721, was supported editorially by a group known as the "Hell-Fire Club."

Official Memorandum
BY
ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas
AUSTIN, TEXAS

CREETING:

Freedom of Information is the inspiring theme for National Newspaper Week this year. Americans are being reminded that "an informed press means an informed people" and that newspapers are important to every community and every individual.

The President of the United States has declared that the journalists of our country "are custodians of a majestic trust, a solemn responsibility. To help arm our people with the knowledge and understanding without which free choice, free government, free men could not be."

A free press always has been a part of the tradition of Texas as well as of the rest of the United States. Our State Constitution provides that: "Every person shall be at liberty to speak, write or publish his opinions on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that privilege, and no law shall ever be passed curtailing the liberty of speech or of the press."

This basic freedom has been just as much of the world that we must not be taken for granted here. Once compromised, it would not be easily regained.

WHEREFORE I, as Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby designate the period October 1 - 8, 1953, as NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK IN TEXAS.

And urge that all citizens give thoughtful attention to the importance of newspapers to the lives of our people, our communities, our State, and our Nation.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 5th day of October, 1953.

Allan Shivers
Governor of Texas

James Franklin was the printer for the Boston Gazette, second newspaper in America, started in 1720. William Booker was the editor.

The Boston Gazette, leading newspaper which espoused the cause of the American Revolution, never had more than 2,000 circulation.

Benjamin Franklin, printer and editor, has been termed by one historian as "the one man of vision" in the colonial resistance of oppression.

The first American newspaper, Publick Occurances, was started with the intent of "curing, or at least charming, of that spirit of lying which prevails" in Massachusetts colony. It was suppressed after the first issue.

The editor of an early Boston newspaper organized public meetings and demonstrations in favor of forming a United States with a Constitution. It is believed that his activities did much to cause Massachusetts to ratify the Constitution.

An early patriot editor carried legal government notices in his newspaper free of charge, refusing to accept payment until finally George Washington thanked him for his generosity to the fledgling government and insisted that he accept pay.

Washington's Farewell Address was first presented to the American public in the columns of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser.

A press operated by steam power was invented in 1882.

The first newspaper in the American colonies told its readers, "It is designed that the Country shall be furnished once a month (or if any Glut of Occurrences happen, oftener,) with an account of such considerable things as have arrived unto our Notice."

Thomas A. Edison published the first newspaper ever printed on a train.

A group of reporters first conceived the idea of the Linotype in 1806.

The first daily newspaper in the United States was established in 1784.

The first newspaper published regularly was printed in Germany in 1609.

America's first continuous newspaper, the Boston News Letter, began in 1704.

Twenty years after his death, editors of daily papers named Joseph Pulitzer the greatest American editor of all time.

The first Southern newspaper was published in 1736.

United Press was organized in 1907.

William Allen White purchased the Emporia Gazette for $5,000.

WORMS REPORT
The cotton insect, pink bollworm, is believed to be the gateway of the pest into Texas. This was the first year when we had a serious infestation in the state. The latest progress report is attributed to entomologists, cotton growers, plus hot, dry weather in the northern areas of the pink bollworm. Uncomfortably warm weather in those areas still in the portion of the growing season is favorable for the Texas counties of Brown, cotton gin.

A Clean House Seldom Burns

COLLEGE STATION — Fireman have a saying that "a clean building seldom burns." This means that the majority of fires start in trash-piles, rubbish or stored odds and ends accumulated around the house. Closets, attics and cellars are the main source of home fires and plain ordinary good housekeeping is the first line of defense against such fires.

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, home management specialist for the Texas Extension Service says Fire Prevention Week, October 4-10, is a good time to check your closet, attic and basement for cast-off articles that would burn easily. They could be curtains, draperies, tablecloths, bedclothes, lamp shades, coats, suits, dresses, wicker and wooden furniture, rags and linoleum.

Although the specialist recommends daily housecleaning to a certain extent, the fall season with emphasis on fire prevention should encourage every family to take special safety precautions. Clean out storage places. You may be surprised how many burnable objects you will be able to remove that are useless to you. If local welfare agencies can't use the garments and objects, get rid of them some other way. If you burn rubbish, be sure to use metal containers of some other safe means.

Check your wiring system. Many electrically-caused fires happen in homes every day, most of them simply because of carelessness. Frequently, families will overload circuits by plugging in too many appliances to a single outlet. Worn out cords, wires strung all over the house, under rugs or staples to baseboard and door frames, are all invitations to disaster.

KITCHEN AND ★★ ★★★ FIELD NEWS

Lighthouse Electric Cooperative,
Inc. by Nancy Morekel and Claude
Weathersbee

The following is a release made by the United States Department of Agriculture, Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D.
C. September 25, 1953.

REA Estimates 99.8 Percent of U.S. Farms Electrified

Nearly 150,000 farms in the United States were electrified during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, bringing the percentage of all electrified farms to 99.3 the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today. A year ago the percentage of all farms electrified was 98.1 percent. (The exact number of farms estimated to have been electrified in the last year was 147,611.)

The estimate, compiled by the Rural Electrification Administration, shows that on June 30 there were 4,888,460 farms connected to lines of all power suppliers, leaving a total of 493,674 still unelectrified. The annual REA estimate of unelectrified farms is required by law as a basis for allotting a portion of REA electrification loan funds to the several states. The estimate is based on the number of farms shown in 1950 census reports.

In addition to the 493,674 farms without service, REA estimates that about half that number of other rural establishments, such as non-farm rural homes, schools and churches, are unelectrified.

Three states passed the 99 percent mark during the year. Michigan now has 99.9 per cent of farms electrified, Indiana, 99.33 percent and Washington 99.1 percent. Altogether, 27, states are above the national average of 90.8 percent, and 30 states are below.

Rural Power Systems

When the REA Program was started 10.9 percent of all farms were electrified. Of the farms now connected to power lines, 2,631,047 are now served by rural power systems financed by REA. Most of the remainder are served by commercial utility companies, and the others by various public bodies, such as municipalities or public power districts.

In announcing the new estimates, REA, administrator Ancher Nelson recommended an aggressive program, by both REA borrowers and other power suppliers to complete the farm electrification job and meet the growing electric power needs of rural people.

"We have just completed a streamlining of the REA organization to reduce costs, accelerate progress and free borrowers of government interference," Mr. Nelson said. "Our idea is to operate so as to meet rural needs and at the same time be consistent with the president's objective of national economic stability. In this effort we will welcome the help of all agencies—public and private—that are willing and able to aid because this will enable our organization to operate still more economically as time goes on. In this way, we can be sure that the public gets 100 cents worth of benefit for its tax dollar, just as the farmer is entitled to 100 cents worth of power for his electricity dollar."

January 1, 1935, showed 2.3 percent of the farms in Texas electrified. The 1950 U. S. Census of Agriculture reported 331,567 farms in Texas. As of June 30, 1953, this year the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reported 874 of the farms in Texas were electrified, leaving only 12.6 percent yet to be electrified.

LIBRARY NEWS

(By Mrs. Rosita Hollar, Librarian)

An interesting group of visitors came on Friday morning. They were members of Mr. Barber's class and were manning a truck to move our tables and shelves over to the high school to be remodeled by Mr. Hendrick's class in shop work. This piece of cooperation is going to give the library assorted tables through gifts of time and material. It would be interesting to know how many individuals have, in some way, contributed to this gift.

Story hour had its second round with the weather and true to form story hour won. Fifty-three children came to welcome the wet weather. Barbara Perry told the stories and supervised the games. Mrs. E. E. Joiner brought refreshments and Mrs. R. C. Henry attended the story hour as chairman of the committee from the 1929 study club.

We were pleased to learn on Saturday afternoon that the tapes and the radio announcements had been heard all across the county and at least one mother from a county line community hopes to be with us next Saturday.

The Rev. Anderson of Providence community is going to be our guest on the library radio hour next Friday. We hope to have a number of other speakers from this area.

On Monday, October 12, at 2 p.m. Dr. Per Stensland of Texas Tech will meet with those interested in the American Heritage program in the district court room, second floor of the court house. We hope to have a good gathering from all over our area. Many of you will remember meeting Dr. Stensland last spring when he spoke here and began laying plans for the start of this work.

Junior Womack says the reason you never see pictures of men angels with whiskers is because men get to heaven only by a close shave.

Winds Squeeze by Dragons In Defensive Battle

Whirlwinds really near the Winds goal line and that was in the early minutes of the fourth quarter when they drove in to the Floydada nine-yard line only to see the ball go over on downs when necessary yardage could not be made.

Big guns in the Dragon offense were Kelly Biddy and Kenneth Buckley. Biddy was a bulldozer of a runner and ground out 89 yards in 20 carries to take ball carrying honors for the night. His teammate Buckley was close behind with 65 yards in 16 scampers.

Battle Whirlwind Offense

The Whirlwind offense was bottled up after the first quarter and was able to gain only one first down in the last three periods. Fine defensive play and good kicking when it counted most saved the situation for the locals however.

Seeing their attacks bog down completely and with the opposition in control of the ball most of the time was a new experience for the Floydada boys and their followers. Many observers credited the Whirlwind coaches, Don Barber who called the shots and played a whale of a game, and Glad Norman who turned in a fine game and also furnished the magic toe that six times sent the ball sailing high and deep into Dragon territory, with the spark that turned the game in favor of the 'Winds.

Paducah received the opening kick and Stanley Vickers sent one bounding on the Dragon 20 where Herschell Thaxton took it and returned to the 26. Two line smashes advanced the pig skin to the 33 before a fumble cost them the ball and Vickers recovered for Floydada.

The 'Winds were able to gain to the Dragons 20 before losing the ball and again the Dragons were on the offensive. This time they moved to the 31 before Don Barber pounced on the pig hide to again give the 'Winds possession.

Out of the Air

Running plays by Stephens, Jarrett and Muncy moved the ball in for two consecutive first downs and the 'Winds owned the ball first and goal on the Dragon eight.

Stephens took the ball on a hand off and started through the left side when he was jarred loose from the pig hide on about the four. Jackie Jarrett grabbed the ball out of the air and crossed the goal standing up. Don Barber kicked the point after with Jerry Bob Harrison holding and the score was over for the night with the 'Winds leading 7-0.

The remainder of the game was a rock 'um sock 'um defensive battle with the Dragons rolling along in midfield, but unable to go when the 'Winds pulled up to their last ditch stand. The Whirlwinds recovered four Dragon fumbles, one each by Vickers, Barber, Norman, Rucker. The alert pass defense of the 'Winds intercepted two Paducah aeriels, Barber taking one and Norman Muncy one.

Glad Norman punted six times for a 30-yard average and Jerry Bob Harrison added a 35-yard quick kick to the booting duties for the night.

Harrison completed one pass of nine for 8 yards to Stephens, Jarrett completed one to Harrison for 14 yards.

All of the Whirlwinds turned a good defensive game. Starting for Floydada were Barber, Dunn, Joiner, Stephens, Muncy, Jarrett, Rucker, Waller, Fulton, and Norman. Seeing lots of service in the game besides those already mentioned were Bobby Carmack, Leon Anderson, Bob Ashton, Jack Womack, Gary Carthel, Jackie Henry, Carrol Guthrie.

Norman Muncy — 160 pound senior Whirlwind halfback.

Stanley Vickers — 200 pound junior Whirlwind tackle.

DISTRICT 6AA RECORD

District 6AA is proving to be a rough one in inter-sectional play this year. Friday night they won 6 games and lost none to bring their total to-date to 18 won and 3 lost.

Slaton has the best offensive record with 151 points scored in 4 games. The Whirlwinds have the stingiest defense allowing only 13 points in 4 starts.

Beef on Table at Lower Cost Seen this Fall

COLLEGE STATION, October — More grass fed cattle are going to market this fall than ever before. That means more beef for family eating, at prices comparatively lower than some other types of meat. According to Roy Snyder, meat specialist for the Texas Extension Service, families can profitably serve beef dishes now at a saving on their meat bill. It is an accepted fact that beef from grass cattle will not produce the quality that is usually obtained from grain fed beef. Then to have that excellent meat dish whether it is steak, roast or stew from this fall run of cattle, a maximum use of tenderizing methods should be understood not only by those selling meat in the markets but also by the cook.

Snyder says there are four methods of tenderizing meat, the first two being the responsibility of the packer or meat market. They are aging in the carcass or wholesale cut at 38 degrees Fahrenheit, and the pounding or tenderizing by machine. The other methods are by marination and treating with a commercially prepared tenderizer. This is the cook's responsibility and can be done at home.

America's First Sports Car Reaches Market

One of the most widely discussed automobiles—the Chevrolet Corvette—has been placed in distribution. A two-passenger open model (with removable top), the car is the American auto industry's first sports car and the first to carry a plastic body built by mass production methods. The Corvette measures only 33 inches high at the door. Wheelbase is 102 inches. Traditional Chevrolet features include a special 150-horsepower "Blue-Flame" engine and a Powerglide automatic transmission. Production followed special showings of an experimental model in many cities.

Different grades of meat have different aging times, because usually the fatter animal can be held longer in an aging room than those with less fat. Prime grade beef may be aged longer than commercial or utility, because the amount of external fat of the carcass. "We always think of young animals more tender than old," Snyder says. But you can fatten a three year old steer and properly age the meat for excellent eating, where as the young animal with no fat covering does not need to be improved with aging."

Meat from a choice animal weighing a thousand pounds could be aged for two to three weeks, but a good calf of 500 pounds may be choice eating in 5 or 7 days. The age and amount of fat make the difference. A high quality animal could be aged from 30 to 60 days and be very tender and tasteful eating if special aging rooms such as commercial concerns are building today, are used.

Home tenderizing meat from lower grade cattle can be done by pounding if the cut is to be broiled or pan-fried. Tenderizing can also be done with commercially prepared materials containing a "proteolytic" enzyme which really predigests the meat 20 to 30 minutes before the meat is cooked.

"Feed lots are being depleted of high quality beef right now," Snyder says. "Fall is always time for a high percent of grass fed cattle to go to market, and as a general rule, they do not yield the quality of meat from grain fed animals. Methods of improving or tenderizing the meat are practical and should be considered by the good cook."

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 2 — (TPA) — When it comes to newspapers it's another first for Texas.

The Lone Star state has more newspapers in its 250 counties than does any other single state in these United States. And, believe it or not — almost as many as the entire Dominion of Canada.

There are 656 daily and weekly newspapers in Texas. Of this group exactly 100 are daily newspaper establishments. The balance is composed of 543 weeklies, 12 semi-weeklies and one tri-weekly.

Five out of seven of the dailies, weeklies, semi-weeklies and tri-weeklies belong to the only statewide business organization representing both groups — the Texas Press Association. Headquarters of the TPA are in the capitol city, Austin.

Time Important Element in Social Security Benefits

Time is an important element where social security insurance benefits are concerned. To begin with, the time you have worked in employment or self-employment covered by the law determines whether or not you are insured at the time of your retirement or death.

The time when you retire at age 65 or later and make a claim for monthly benefit payments is equally important. This is because the date of entitlement affects the benefit rate of payments to you and your family.

A variation of several dollars a month in benefit rates may occur if a claim is made, for example, on June 30 instead of July 1, or vice versa. If it should happen that a claim made on July 1 should have been made the day before, nothing can be done to correct the disadvantage.

In case of the death of the insured breadwinner, the total of benefits payable to the survivors depends on the time the claim is made. A delay can cost each entitled member of the family one or more months insurance benefits payments. This is because back payments can be made for only six months from the time a claim is made.

Here are two timely reminders: (1) the survivor of a deceased insured worker should get in touch with the social security office without delay. (2) If you are an insured worker and are nearing or past age 65, go to your social security office before deciding on the time of your retirement.

TRUCKER DEFEATS POLIO

Joe Tambasco, Jr., 23, of Detroit has defeated polio. He is still driving a big semitrailer truck although polio has robbed him of the use of his legs.

He contracted the disease in 1948 but he rigged up wires, pulleys and levers enabling him to drive with only his hands and arms. When he applied for a chauffeur's license, police were skeptical. But after one ride with Joe through heavy traffic, they recommended that he be given a license.

A young lady clerk in a back FBI office quickly decoded it, as follows: "Knot one, puri two, cast on eight," etc.
