Members of the Planning Committee for the annual membership gathering of Light-house Electric Cooperative, together with several of the directors looked over the Plains Baptist Assembly grounds last week-end. Their annual gathering will be held there Saturday, April 21, San Jacinto Day. Auditorium and feeding facilities for a large group, and playground equipment for a horde of children due to attend with their parents, were found ample. Here Melvin Henry, manager, left, L. T. Wood, chairman of the planning committee, and Mrs. Wood, look over the site and pronounce it good. Upper view is of the entrance to the grounds taken last summer. (Staff Photo)

Forecast Big Crowd At Lighthouse Meet

REA officials are expecting the largest attendance in the 17-year history of the local cooperative when they meet Saturday at Plains Baptist Assembly grounds South of Floydada on Blanco Canyon.

The attractive meeting site, if coupled with favorable weather, should prove very popular with the membership is the belief of those making plans for the day.

No effort has been spared by Lighthouse Electric's planning committee to prepare for this year's annual membership meeting. The big affair is to begin at 8:30 a. m., and a full day's program follows with events of interest for the entire family.

The facilities of Plains Baptist Assembly are believed to be ideal for the membership. Size of buildings there can accommodate the large crowd and the scenic beauty of the place can be enjoyed by all.

L. T. WOOD is chairman of the committees which have worked up the program and taken care of all details for the meeting day. Serving with him are Mrs. Dee Cash, Bob Hatjen, W. T. Conner, the date and site committee; Mrs. L. T. Wood, Joe Foster and Mrs. W. T. Conner of the entertainment committee; Mrs. Bob Hatjen, L. T. Wood, Mrs. Joe Foster of the foods committee; Ned Bradley, Mrs. Henry Scarbrough, Dee Cash of the program committee; Mrs. Kenneth Poole, Henry Scarbrough, Kenneth Poole of the prizes committee. Ned Bradley will serve as master of ceremonies.

The National Guild of Piano Teachers will hold auditions for their students at Floydada, on April 25th and 26th and will have as visiting judge the New York teacher and concert pianist, Aurora Ragaini, pronounced Ra-gain-ee, Italian.

She has appeared many times in New York and eastern states in... has given four programs in... New York City and has appeared on various radio programs such as the Keyboard Masters Series of New York Station WRYC.

Thirty local piano pupils from the class of Mrs. Ohmer Willis Kirk, 504 South Wall Street, Floydada, have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers of which their teacher is a member.

They will strive for honors which the mother organization will confer according to the number of standard classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the Masters of Western literature each student can creditably perform in the presence of this important examiner of note from another state.

Identify Body In Amarillo As Joe C. Foster

The body of Joe C. Foster, 38, Floydada well worker, found in the rubble of a burned building in Amarillo Sunday morning, was forwarded to Denton for burial Tuesday night and rites are due to have been held late yesterday or this morning.

Friends here said Foster left Floydada on March 2 and had not been heard from since. Foster was a veteran of World War II. He was severely wounded in Korea, Mrs. Epperson said. His father is George Foster of Denton. Two sisters, whose homes are in Amarillo, teach in Dumas. They are Mrs. Bernard Taylor and Mrs. Effie Taylor. Bernard Taylor identified the body. He is a druggist.

Joe Fawver, who has been in an Amarillo hospital for 18 months with a broken back, learned of the missing man and telephoned Taylor from the hospital. Taylor investigated and made the identification from wounds in the dead man's shoulders and arm.

Following the farm bill veto by the president Monday, local farm people turned their interest to the provisions of the law under which farm production would be carried on this year and particularly to the level at which supports are expected to be pegged for basic commodities.

At the ASC office the opinion was expressed that the support for maize, principal crop substituted for cotton and wheat on lay out land, would be at a cent or two higher level than it was for the last crop.

Official announcement was made out of Washington Tuesday that the price support program for cotton would reflect "about 87 per cent of parity for the fall crop."

Support for corn will be on the basis of 86 per cent, which means $1.39 per bushel, against $1.23 locally last year. An estimated 10,000 acres of Floyd County crop land is planted in hybrid corn.

At the ASC office it was said unofficially that the rate for maize under the law that will govern should run a cent or two higher than last year. The guess was that the support will be at about $1.71 per hundred pounds, less storage.

RITES HELD FRIDAY

Mrs. Belle Henry Passes; Was Civic, Church Leader 50 Years

Mrs. Mary Belle Henry, 89, a resident of Floyd county since 1890, and for 60 years one of the civic and church leaders of Floydada, died quietly Wednesday night at Pitts Hospital at 10 o'clock.

She had been ill two weeks and was brought home by ambulance from Monday where she had been the guest of a daughter. She entered the hospital Monday night and failed to rally. Immediate cause of death was pneumonia and complications.

The funeral was held at First Methodist Church Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Tilden B. Armstrong, pastor of the church, was assisted in officiating by Rev. Phil H. Gates, assistant pastor.

Burial was made in Floydada Cemetery. Six grandsons, Arthur and Barry Barker of Lockney, Charles and Kenneth Baker of Munday, R. C. and Billy Henry of Floydada, were pallbearers. Harmon Funeral Home had charge of the funeral and burial rites.

Mrs. Henry is survived by three daughters, Mrs. George V. Smith of Floydada, Mrs. Arthur Barker of Lockney and Mrs. C. P. Baker of Munday; a son, Kenneth of Vernon; three brothers, J. C. Ross of Albuquerque, the Rev. H. L. Ross, a missionary in Zitacuaro, Mexico, and the Rev. W. A. Ross of Montreat, N. C.; a sister, Mrs. B. F. Jarvis of Plainview; 7 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Henry and her husband, the late Emmett C. Henry, had lived in Floyd County since 1890. They first made their home north of Floydada on what is now the Silverton highway where it crosses the Lockney-Floyd road. They lived there until Mr. Henry's election as sheriff of Floyd County in 1898. He was the second elective sheriff of the county.

From the time the Henrys filed on an 80-acre tract adjoining Floydada townsite on the northwest in 1898 until the early thirties the Henry home was a center around which much of the young life of the community revolved. Many in the audience which filled the church Friday morning were persons who had been touched in their youth by the open-door hospitality characteristic of the Henry home for almost 40 years.

Mrs. Henry was born Mary Belle Rose at Greenville, Tennessee. When she was 15 the family moved to Cane Hill, Arkansas, where she was married to E. C. Henry September 16, 1887.

Mrs. Henry was active in church work in the community. She was a member of the First Methodist Church, one of the organizers of Andrews Ward Parent-Teachers Association. She was a charter member of the Pastor's Helpers class. She was an honorary member of Floydada Garden Club.

Mr. Henry preceded his wife in death in 1929.

65 Pre-Schoolers Get Health Check

The pre-school health clinic for prospective pupils of the elementary school of Floydada next fall, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, was held Tuesday afternoon, from 1 to 3 o'clock with approximately 65 pre-schoolers receiving check-ups.

The clinic was held in the office of Mrs. Wesley Carr, school health nurse at Andrews Ward.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

Baseball Days Here. Baseball days are here again, serving to remind us that attendance at games known as the national pastime continues to fall off. The fast balls managerial delaying tactics and the way the pitcher is allowed to fool around out on the mound are among the things that have hurt at the turnstiles. In a period when people want their fun in a hurry so they can go on to other things the baseballers falter and fumble.

Texas Getting Drier. We read a long piece, intended for the public prints, which tells of the continuing dryness the falling water table and the rivers carrying less water volume. Even in water-blessed deep East Texas, the article says the Nechez River carried only 21 per cent as much volume last year as the average. Floydada, Dallas, and everybody is worrying. Save every drop of water you can in every way you can, the article urges.

Income Tax Limit. Now that the deadline for income tax paying has come and gone, except for those who are willing to pay the five per cent penalty, it is as well to remind that nearly enough legislatures have passed resolutions favoring it to have a constitutional amendment put up to the people to limit federal income taxes to 25 per cent in any income bracket. Historians say that excessive taxation has ruined more nations than all other causes combined. Too high taxation, for one thing, tends to make people dishonest. They say that 25 per cent is the utmost that can be safely assessed. Some incomes are paying two and three times that much and have been for several years. The congress, under many pressures from many sources, seems unaware of what is happening to the nations integrity.

The Independent Dealer. Despite the growing tendency of the business of the country to grow in super corporate manner you see an occasional independent in a service line who still holds out. For instance, there is a poultry dealer we know, one of few of his breed left, who has battled Jew and Gentile alike, aligned in Big Business, successfully. He has reared a family, sent them to school, and acquired a small competency against age. He is still battling and although the odds have been great and the disappointments many, he continues, by reason of a willingness to "take it" in order to be his own free man, to carry on. He even enjoys the constant battle. Probably few men out of the same stripe have punished themselves so much to accomplish an aim.

Independents gravitate to the small cities or do they. That is where we see them at least. Bigness goes where bigness is, may not be a factual statement in every way, but the statement answers the purpose for the present discourse. And bigness serves its own needs. It can make many moves not possible for more limited operators. Accordingly the tendency is to put small business out of business or to prevent small business from ever opening the doors.

At the moment Lubbock and Amarillo are the boogers of the high cities plains of Texas. It is from these cities that the big operators work to put local small business out of business or to prevent them from going into business. Not that there is anything unfair or illegitimate about their operations. We just note that it is the way it happens. As instances we know (we think) of towns as big as 10 thousand population in the area which have no bakeries. These have grown up since Lubbock's big concerns got into the picture. At the same time the big operators were heading off new concerns in the up-growing cities which they served, they also effectively whipped out the already-established bakeries in such older communities as Floydada. They could and did give "better and bigger" service.

The same is true of the meat industry, the milk business, produce business, the office supply business, and others of that nature. You couldn't buy a gallon of whole milk in Floydada if roads were blocked for as many as 36 hours or some major disaster hit the area, the meat supply would run out pretty soon, and short supply of other necessities, of which the public is only superficially aware, would develop. Even the reading habits of the people would be rudely disrupted. Nothing unfair or illegal about it, you understand. But that is the way it is. And it does spell tough sledding for the small city which would like to keep its place in the sun, to grow to be a good, well-rounded community. You run into "blocks" at every turn which the small community cannot surmount.

This certainly is not intended to develop into a hate article nor is it to be a trade at home preaching. There is no particular reason to hate, though one may "nearly die" of envy. The public concludes that a trade at home campaign is simply another gimmick to catch the unaware. This is, however, a suggestion to the local business interest—people who have their all tied up in Floydada—that a hard core of otherism among neighbors would pay off tremendously—a hard core that would stay with their own. The competition will get harder, the need to hang together more insistent. While others may find it desirable to follow their own bent or their own desires as to trading preferences, those whose jobs and livelihood are tied up in Floydada will find it quite desirable to be members of this hard core, helping to "hold things together."

A newspaper publisher in a western state says that keeping up with the Joneses, bad as it may be, isn't half as dangerous as trying to pass the Smiths on a hill.

New Look At An Old Enemy

Texas farmers are warned to keep an eye out this spring for an old enemy — the grasshopper.

Early season surveys show the grasshopper threat is more serious this year than in 1955. The Texas Panhandle can expect the biggest threat, but Central Texas is likely to have infestations also.

This threat is a warning to start early in planning a hopper control program. Early control means less work at less cost while a "wait-and-see" attitude can result in heavy losses with more acres to treat later in the year. One dollar spent for early control can save as much as $38 in crops and grazing later on.

Early season methods work best just after the grasshoppers finish hatching. This can be anytime from April 1 to late June, depending on the weather. Cold, wet seasons delay hatching while warm and moderately dry weather favor it.

Idle land, field margins, fence rows, ditch banks and roadsides are good places to start. These are favorable habitats for the hopper to lay eggs. And they lay 200 to 400 eggs a season, if the female is a migratory hopper.

To show what you can be up against, if all eggs hatch and young hoppers are permitted to develop into adults, they can average 24 to 32 hoppers to the square yard. Then you're in the middle of a serious outbreak.

A control program which provides federal assistance is available only in range land areas. In cultivated land, you're on your own. And controlling grasshoppers that originate on your own land is only part of the job. Your place can be overrun by hoppers from nearby areas.

Cooperative community action is the best way to solve the problem. Literature and further information is available from Agriculture Commissioner John White, Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas.

Farm Bureau News

(By Chester Carthel)

Well, it has been quite a few days since I have written anything for the Farm Bureau. It seems that I have been a little busy otherwise.

I noticed the last time I was in the Floyd County Farm Bureau office that there were quite a few of the gate signs that had not been picked up. If you are a member of the Farm Bureau you have one of the gate signs in the office or we will be glad to secure one for you.

In driving around over the country, those signs sure do show up where they are displayed. I believe that is a very good way of advertising Farm Bureau and of also showing others that we believe in further advancement of agriculture. So if you have not picked up your gate sign yet, go by the office and do so.

I received a program of the 9th Annual Texas Weed Control Conference to be held at the Amarillo Experiment Station, Thursday April 26. For any of you interested here is the program.

"Who Knows What We'll Find!"

As a part of their work in Humble's Refining Research Laboratory, Humble scientists bombard petroleum hydrocarbons with electrons in a 2-million volt Van de Graaff Accelerator.

But if you ask one of these scientists what he expects to find, he'll answer, who knows!

For this is fundamental research. Results may be quick or they may be a long time developing. Who knows?

... Perhaps the scientists will find a way to increase the yield of useful products from a barrel of crude oil.

... Perhaps they'll be able to make improvements in the fine products already supplied you.

... Perhaps they'll develop an entirely new group of petroleum products.

Who knows!

This much, however, is certain: Humble research scientists at Baytown use every device of physics, chemistry, mathematics and mechanics to provide you with more and better petroleum products.

Two quick examples: The specifications for Esso Extra gasoline, the formula for Humble Uniflo motor oil. These, without question, are the finest products you can use in your car.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

The clock of life is wound but once
And no one has the power
To tell just when the hands will stop
At late or early hour.

Today is the only time we have
So live and work with a will.
Put not your trust in tomorrow's dawn
For the hands may then be still.

Everyone around our family has or is having the flu. We had almost forgotten how sick and uncomfortable this disease can make you feel, but after having our memory renewed and refreshed, wonder how we ever forgot every little detail. The sandstorms added to our misery. We longed for a warm peaceful place in a sunny corner where we might recover. Like a row of dominoes falling the members of the family came down. Dale said he had gone around everyone that had it and just could not get it. But alas only that night his fever climbed to 104.

This may interest you: At a Ford For Defense conference at Grand Island, Nebraska, Harry Andrews president of the Highline Electric Association of Holyoke, Colorado said in part: "We cannot forget what happened in the last war. (World War I). They told us to raise more wheat, and we did. We plowed up thousands of virgin prairies which never should have been touched. We wore silk shirts to the harvest fields. We fed the Somebody won the war — but we farmers lost our shirts."

Friend after friend departs,
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end.

Our living in Floydada gave us many pleasures, among which was knowing Mrs. Belle Henry and having her call us friends. She had such a radiant personality, gave of herself as freely as the hillside spring its refreshing cool water. Life to her was a pleasant experience. She loved her friends, served the Being she gave her life to at an early age. I liked to see her come in the Sunday School room. Upright she sat. Always she was one of the first to volunteer for any duty the class needed. She had a joy in giving.

Death like a friend unseen, shall say to me,
My toil is over and my work begun.

We cannot know how much we learn
From those who never will return.
Until a flash of unforeseen
Remembrance falls on what has been.

I am sure that all who knew and loved Mrs. Henry will have flashes of remembrance which will add much to their lives.

How many times have you got dolled up for a party — only to knock your hat askew as you step into the car? Or worse, get where you're going and peel it off as you emerge from the driver's seat?

This is as upsetting an experience as being punched by one's playful spouse when already out of temper, or racing with closing time at the grocery store on Saturday night and losing.

Men have a tendency to find this hat-knocking very funny. Why we'll never know, but it amuses them to see a dressed-up female have her dignity and self-assurance thus undermined.

That's why we enjoy a news item we ran across the other day. Seems the trend toward longer and longer car lines has finally got the boys upset, too. So now they're wearing "flat-tops" in some areas for better clearance. These soft felt fedora-type hats, says the fashion note, have absolutely flat crown that's a full inch lower than the long-popular "crease-crowns." And even the men who don't own cars are buying them.

We don't say this solves anything for us women. Matter of fact, even our turbans and pillboxes, which can hardly get any flatter, are bad about grazing off as we bow to escape from the family four-door. But it is kind of heartening to find we haven't imagined this crisis — that even masculine vanity is piqued by losing a headpiece just as its owner plans a majestic entrance or exit from his low-slung automobile.

There's only one real drawback to our pleasure: Western men may never know about the new trend in men's hat styles. Furthermore, by the time they get their own consent to forego the ten-gallon Stetson in favor of a flat-top, the style in
