Daniel Is Given Majority Vote In Floyd County

In Saturday's majority primary for nomination for governor and attorney general of Texas, Floyd County was the only area plains county to give Senator Daniel a majority over his opponent, Judge Ralph Yarborough, for governor.

A total vote of 1915 was divided 994 for Daniel, 925 for Yarborough, ran contrary to the trend in more than 30 counties of this section, numbers of which reversed their vote in July, when they gave majorities to Daniel.

Percentage wise Daniel got 46.98 per cent of the Floyd County vote in the first primary, 51.37 per cent in the second.

THE RESULTS, which Texas Election Bureau hoped to have ready for the newspapers Wednesday morning after the counties had made their official tabulations, are so close in the governor's race that state-shaking reverberations are due to follow. There seemed little likelihood that Daniel would not have 3,500 vote state lead when the final count was in, but in Yarborough's quarters it was intimated the first of the week that there would be any number of counties contested.

Final figures on the governor's race in the state Tuesday night tabulated by Texas Election Bureau gave Daniel 698,125 and Yarborough 694,598, a majority of 3,527 for governor.

For attorney general Will Wilson was an easy winner 803,740 to 515,119, over Tom Moore.

Court battles had already erupted in several counties over the governor vote. For attorney general it was a big victory for the ex-judge, Will Wilson, of Dallas County, in Floyd County as well as over the whole state. Here Wilson carried the county 1,943 to 836 for Moore, the young Waco attorney.

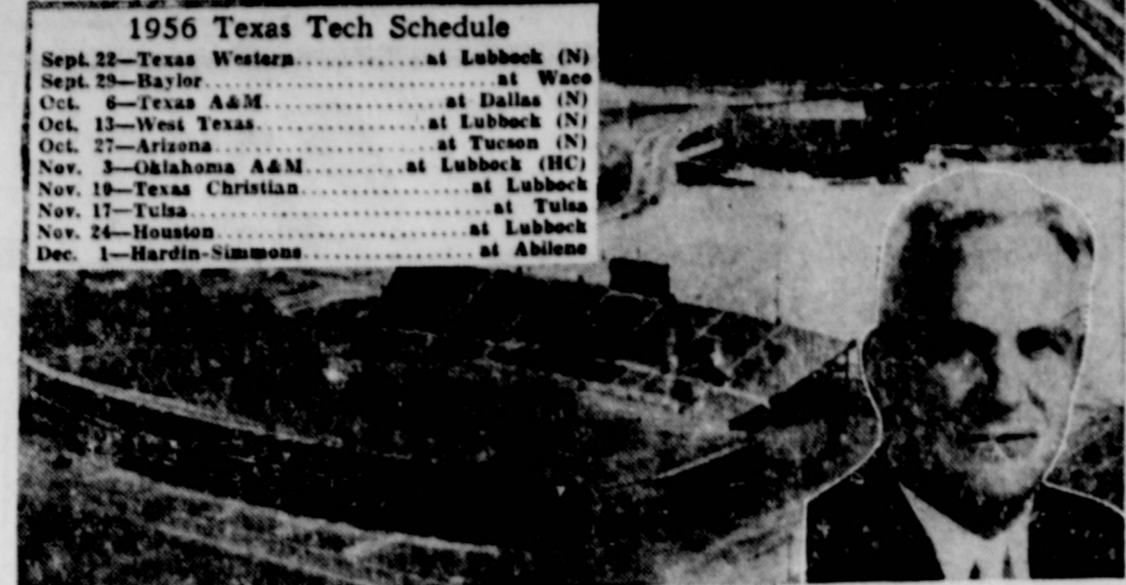

THE USUAL write-ins were noted in the returns of the election. "Joe Smith" was given one vote for lieutenant governor in Southwest Floydada No. 1 and in Harmony No. 16 Lee O'Daniel got two votes.

The fastest tabulation and complete report of an election ever accomplished in Floyd County was staged Saturday night. Within one hour and 15 minutes after the first incomplete report was given by Southwest Floydada No. 1, the last complete report was in.

County Democratic Chairman Ben P. Ayres made his headquarters at the Hesperian office until the count was in on election night. He and the newspapers of the county had had calls from every precinct in the county and had the figures on the board for the public to see at 8:15 o'clock. Appreciation for the great courtesy of the election judges in giving the figures promptly was expressed by the county chairman.

Lockney Fires Bring On Talk Of Incendiarism

A Saturday morning fire that ruined two classrooms of Lockney Ward School and did a total estimated damage to the building in excess of $39,000, followed closely on the heels of two other fires in that city in the same week, and sent a glimmering of the town's good fire record of long standing.

The town had already had one severe blaze early in the month of August, the Patterson Grain Company having lost an important unit of their big grain elevator plant at a cost in excess of $15,000.

Capt. Holbrook Died of Heart Ailment Sunday

Winfield Holbrook, who pioneered irrigation from underground water sources on the high plains as the head of the Texas Land & Development Company, died while on vacation at Cortez, Colo., Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock.

Seventy-six at the time of his death, Captain Holbrook moved to Plainview in February of 1919, following a brilliant career in World War No. 1, and had made that city a home since.

He had been outstanding as a civic leader in the community and real right up to the time of his final illness, victim of a heart condition. He liquidated the affairs of the Texas Land & Development Company in 1954, which owned several sections of land in Floyd County a long time.

Mr. Holbrook was mayor of Plainview two years, 1948 to 1950, was president of the Plainview School Board, had taken the lead in scores of civic developments of that city. He was prime leader in the organization of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society and Panhandle-Plains Museum at Canyon.

Among the survivors are two children, Raymond Holbrook, Associated Press correspondent, of Dallas, and Mrs. L. R. Bain, Plainview. The mother of these children died in 1948. The captain re-married in 1954 to the widow who survives him.

Marshall taking vegetables many doubted my plans could be made in this field. This season have a fair start. They will also be better, tomato and the things that was the drouth.

that cut short our neighbors of south and central Texas. We can raise in our irrigated section everything in the book and by the section if desired. Our concern at present is the broadening of our market outlets. Right now the tomato growers can give the truckers of the area a chance at some profitable hauling. "Pinks" are coming on the market and a trucker could do well to get them into adjoining parts of Texas and other states and into the channels of trade. It is necessary for a vegetable program to be backed up with packing sheds, processing plants, quick freeze plants and canning plants. These will come in due time. Our farmers are going at this vegetable experiment sensibly, that is just try a few acres, 5 or 10, and learn about it. The pioneering of vegetables is just like pioneering any new country or business and those who have the courage to try are to be commended. They will experience some headaches — there will be crops that will have to be plowed under. Our timing for the marketing of vegetables is good. Take for illustration, onions. South Texas and Central Texas crops are gone and there is no other section that hits the market just at our harvest time. We are watching with much interest this new hybrid grain sorghum. We hope the production will be greatly increased. We hope they can produce at least 6,000 pounds per acre this season. In view of the water situation, we must take a long serious look. I think one answer is smaller acres, bigger prices per acre. Another serious thought, is this fast moving game. One must think fast, act faster, get the facts, information is paramount. Its like a football game, if you can't get through the line or around the end, then try the air. If you fail there go into a huddle and organize and get help. The game is no fun unless we can make a touchdown. This thought also applies to vegetable raising. Unless the farmer will co-operate with his neighbor and organize for strength, he will get smeared.

Crocheters Can Claim Fame In Fair's Contest

Year after year, crocheters have made their claim to fame through the Nationwide Crochet Contests. Once again opportunity knocks at needworkers doors, but crocheters are advised that time is growing short for heading this call.

The Floyd County Fair which is opening on Sept. 13 would like to remind crocheters that only a few weeks remain before the preliminary judging of the Contest at the Fair.

All entries must be made of mercerized crochet cotton in any size thread up to and including 100. Mercerized crochet cotton with a metallic strand is also eligible. A contestant may enter as many articles as desired, but each must fulfill the Contest requirements and be completed during the year, 1956, although not necessarily started this year. Contest rules may be picked up at Hales Dept. Store in Floydada.

Entries that win special Nationwide Crochet Contest blue ribbons at the Floyd County Fair will be eligible for the national judging which will take place in New York City next November. Over $3000 in cash and three all expense trips to New York are being offered to the prize-winning contestants who compete in the finals. The Grand National Champion will receive $500. The Men's Champion and Teen-Age Girl Champion will receive $100 each. All three will also receive trips to New York City.

Following is a rundown of the classifications in which you may

Makes All-Time Public Service Safety Record

Employees of the Southwestern Public Service Company have established a new all-company safety record of working 3,020,404 man-hours without a lost-time accident, it has been reported by A. R. Watson, executive vice president and general manager of the electric light and power company.

The new record, exceeding the old company standard of 3,019,075 man-hours, set in 1954, was reached at the end of the working day August 17. However, a check of working time of all employees was necessary to verify the new accomplishment, and that check has just been completed.

"WE ARE proud of the fact that we have set this new record, and that we are still adding to it. But records, in themselves, are merely the statistics that measure the accomplishments of individuals. The important fact about safety is that our employees are enthusiastic about it, interested in it, and have made it an integral part of their work. Everyone gains from safe working habits, our customers, our employees, and their families," Mr. Watson said, in announcing the safety accomplishment.

Southwestern Public Service Company employees have not had a disabling injury this year, the current accident-free period getting underway on Nov. 3 of last year. Presently the company boasts the top safety record in the Southwest Personnel Exchange Group made up of 14 electric light and power companies in the southwestern states.

THE NEW safety record, and it continues unbroken and grows with the passing of every hour, is in addition to being the company's best performance, the third longest accident-free period ever recorded by any electric light and power company.

There are eight safety groups within the company, made up of the five divisions, headquartered at Amarillo, Guymon, Plainview, Roswell and Lubbock; the operating department, which includes all of the company's generating stations; the system construction department, which is responsible for transmission line and substation construction; and the employees of the general office in Amarillo.

GRAHAM CHISEL-TYPE PLOWS for Tractors with three-point hitches

The Graham Plow is ideally adapted to all types of work, deep or shallow and all types of soil and terrain. The chiseled furrows, twelve inches apart, create six-inch terraces and break up the hardpan to bypass moisture into the subsoil, yet do not disturb the decaying vegetable matter which protects the surface. Hollingsworth, Standefer Get Promotions With Public Service

MARVIN STANDEFER

LEWIS HOLLINGSWORTH

Floydada residents promoted to new positions in the Western Public Service Division, headquarters at Amarillo, Texas, by an announcement by manager J. M. Collins of the division.

Hollingsworth is moving to Amarillo as division utilization manager. Standefer is moving to the company's headquarters in the Plains Area, to be effective Sept. 1. Standefer received his high school diploma in Floydada and worked for the electric company here in 1938. He has several managerial posts to his credit. Slaton and manager for Lubbock prior to coming to Amarillo in 1953. He is the son of A. S. Hollingsworth, who for many years was the general agent here.

Standefere was manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Scout Executive prior to coming to Amarillo. He is married to Laura Graves, daughter of Mrs. L. T. Graves. Standefer has had high praise for his work in our city. We are proud that we can accept the recommendation of our industrial, commercial and rural customers for the maximum utilization of our electric service," the power company executive said.

Mr. Standefer joined the Plains Division's utilization department in 1951 as a lighting draftsman, then he became a technical assistant and in 1954 was named sales representative for the division. Prior to joining Southwest Public Service he was manager of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce. The new utilization manager is a graduate of Texas Tech.

AT THE same time Mr. Collins commented on the departure of Mr. Hollingsworth, and again expressed pride in the fact that men from his division had been asked to take greater responsibility. He regarded the utilization program as developed under Mr. Hollingsworth as "outstanding".

Mr. Collins was referring to the years 1954 and 1955 when the Plains Division won the Southwest Public Service Company's "Outstanding Achievement Plaque" for utilization and sales promotion activities. Hollingsworth was appointed Plains Division utilization manager in 1953.

Mr. and Mrs. Standefer and their two children, Joe Mike and Susan Kay, live at 208 Zephyr in Plainview.

Electric systems financed by the United States Department of Agriculture's Rural Electrification Administration are nearly $100 million ahead of schedule in loan repayment, and those in arrears are at an all-time low, the Department of Agriculture reported July 26 of this year.

As of June 30, end of the fiscal year, 772 of REA's 996 active electric borrowers had increased their advance payments by $11 million to a total of $35.9 million. Ten were delinquent more than 30 days, in an aggregate of $332,364.

Copied from Southwest REA News: "What do you have out behind your house?"

It wasn't many years ago that farmer and city dweller boss and employeefish and poor met on common resting places as far as bathrooms were concerned. Everyone had a very personal building equipped with Sears or Montgomery Ward porcelain, out behind the house and regardless of your station in life, the little frame structure was an absolute necessity which varied little in appearance from thousands of others. Of course some persons with more delicate natures, camouflaged the building with vines or shrubs and others, who were inclined to be artistic, used wallpaper, wax flowers, pictures of dogs, horses or Niagara Falls, and other gimmicks to create a homey interior. But at their best, the buildings were primitive - authentic mirrors of living conditions of the time.

As more and more cities installed central water systems, city folks gradually abandoned the little building, "modernized" their homes, and began enjoying a new standard of living that their grandparents never dreamed possible.

But not so on America's farms, and it appeared as if country folks were destined to endure the out-house's frigid drafts of winter and flies of summer for generations to come. Then America's farms became electrified and progressive farmers all over began installing pressure water systems of their own. The farm family could now share in the many conveniences of running water which their city cousins had taken for granted for so many years.

Electrically operated pressure water systems not only add to convenience in the bathroom but in a score of other places in and outside the home. And not only does water under pressure add convenience but it helps increase efficiency and production. The farmer who has only to turn the faucet for water in the barn, hen house, or feed lot claims that a pressure water system is the best investment on the farm.

If you're one of the farm families that still tolerates the little old building out behind the house you're far behind the times. You're putting up with horse and collar standards in the age of electricity.

A pressure water system for your farm costs less than you think. Why not get a step with the times!

The MYF of Matador visited the MYF group at the Floydada Methodist Church last Sunday night. There were 14 youths from Matador and their sponsors, Mrs. Frank Pohl and Mrs. Fair.

"When baking a cake, and the recipe calls for a cup of sugar, do you use a small cup or a large one?"

"That depends on whether you're making a large cake or a small cake."
