Details of this pian will be aired in a county-wide meeting Thursday ⁿight, Aug. 21, at 8 o'clock in the District Court

Thos. J. Hutchins, manager of the Floyd County ASC office said yesterday he is sure Floyd County farmers are going to be greatly nterested in the new program.

He, in company with B. L. Breed and Henry Schacht, members of the ASC committee, and Mrs. Nell McClung, also Truman Gregory of the Soil Conservation Service. spent a day in an area meeting held Tuesday in Plainview, where a representative of the state office of ASC unfolded the program and new provisions for retiring farm land from production.

Among the "attractive incentives" is the announcement that there will be no flat rates for retiring land into the conservation program.

According to Hutchins' informaon appraisal basis. He said the local office is already having applications and inquiries. He has no doubt the department will have all the land signed up they will want by the closing date of the contract offer on Sept. 27. He thinks the deal is going to look good to a large number of farmers.

Hutchins thinks the possibility of a one-year program for next year on cotton and wheat is slim. Congress has taken no action on this program, so far as providing money is concerned and the session is now near an end.

The Thursday night, Aug. 21, meeting will be a county-wide affair at the District Court Room.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

There's No Way of knowing exactly how much greater the actual accident toll on America's highways is than that reported in the figures of the state and national organizations committed to the work of reducing the number of deaths and economic loss on the highways. The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, which is composed of companies which pay for most of this terrific toll and in turn pass it back to the traveling public in the form of insurance premiums collected, says the National Safety Council puts the figure at one million four hundred thousand, while the United States Public Health Service gives the tremendous figure of four million, five hundred thousand. Far more in doubt is the total number of traffic accidents that cause only property damage, on streets and highways. In addition the personal injuries which never get on the records runs into astronomic figures. So, hunting for a factual basis on which to make computations and really paint the picture for the people is practically an impossibility.

Workable Farm Bill. While there's still time for it, farm leaders claim, the fact is that unless a workable farm bill does come out of the Congress and get approval of the President, the farmers of America face a drastic reduction in income next year. Cotton farmers stand to lose up to 30 percent of the acreage and wool growers will be inreal trouble. What will happen to the wheat and maize man we are not informed at the moment. We can depend on Speaker Sam Rayburn getting some kind of action in the House, but the matter is more doubtful in the Senate. .

Since the casualty insurance companies do not know for sure what the overall accident picture is and how much their bills are going to climb before they level off (we refer to the accident toll, we are not sure we are through with the rise in the cost of casualty insurance. Whether the increase August 1 represents what we may anticipate as the high point or whether it may go even higher is still in doubt, we gather. There will be some people who cannot pay any such terrific figures every year as are indicated, others who can do it only under dire necessity for a way to travel. The result will be the temptation to get out on the highway without any protection for one's self or for the other fellow and chance the good fortune of getting by. The number of "illegal" vehicles surely will mount higher and higher. Already one knows that of the hundreds of cars one passes there is a large percentage which have no financial responsibility. They hit you and you are sunk unless your own insurance takes care of the matter.

If it was wise, manly, and patriotic for us to establish a free government, it is equally wise to attend to the necessary means of its
