More Liveable City Seen If Paving Project Adopted

Home Building Areas Would Be Opened, Values Increased

If Floydada property owners go along with the City Council on its proposal for a paving project in the bond election set for April 7, the town will have made a major breakthrough in civic improvement. More especially in view of the positive attack planned on the drainage problem, they will have done the biggest job of improving the liveability of the town in a quarter of a century.

This is the firm opinion of some of the business leaders of the community. That the town needs a drainage and paving program is a statement of a patent fact.

And that paving 100 to 150 blocks would open up many new sites for homes where none are now indicated is also quite true. People are not going to build homes any more on unpaved streets.

Many sites suitable for homes lie vacant now that home builders would find desirable when and if the streets become usable through all kinds of weather.

The city's plan is to issue $150,000 in bonds. Apparently this will not provide the money for all the streets that home owners are going to want paved once the program gets started and they see the transformation that will be brought about. A study of the paving map reveals the fact that before the work gets under way, there will be competition for inclusion in the paved area.

The contention of the engineer the city has employed is that the town site of most of the original Fortenberry 3 years; Precinct 4, town site can be made to drain. The problem to be attacked is to Doyle Mount, 3 years; Clay Henry correct existing drainage problem, so far as possible, and then to provide adequate drainage for new construction.

Estimate of the engineer was based on a 137 block program of paving and curb and gutter with widths of streets varying from 40 feet high and 100 feet wide at the base. The top or crown of the structure is approximately 14 feet wide, which Mr. Skinner will use as a roadway leading into his farm. NOTE: Fence at top of picture approximately 20 feet above bottom of gully that was on ground level 10 years ago.

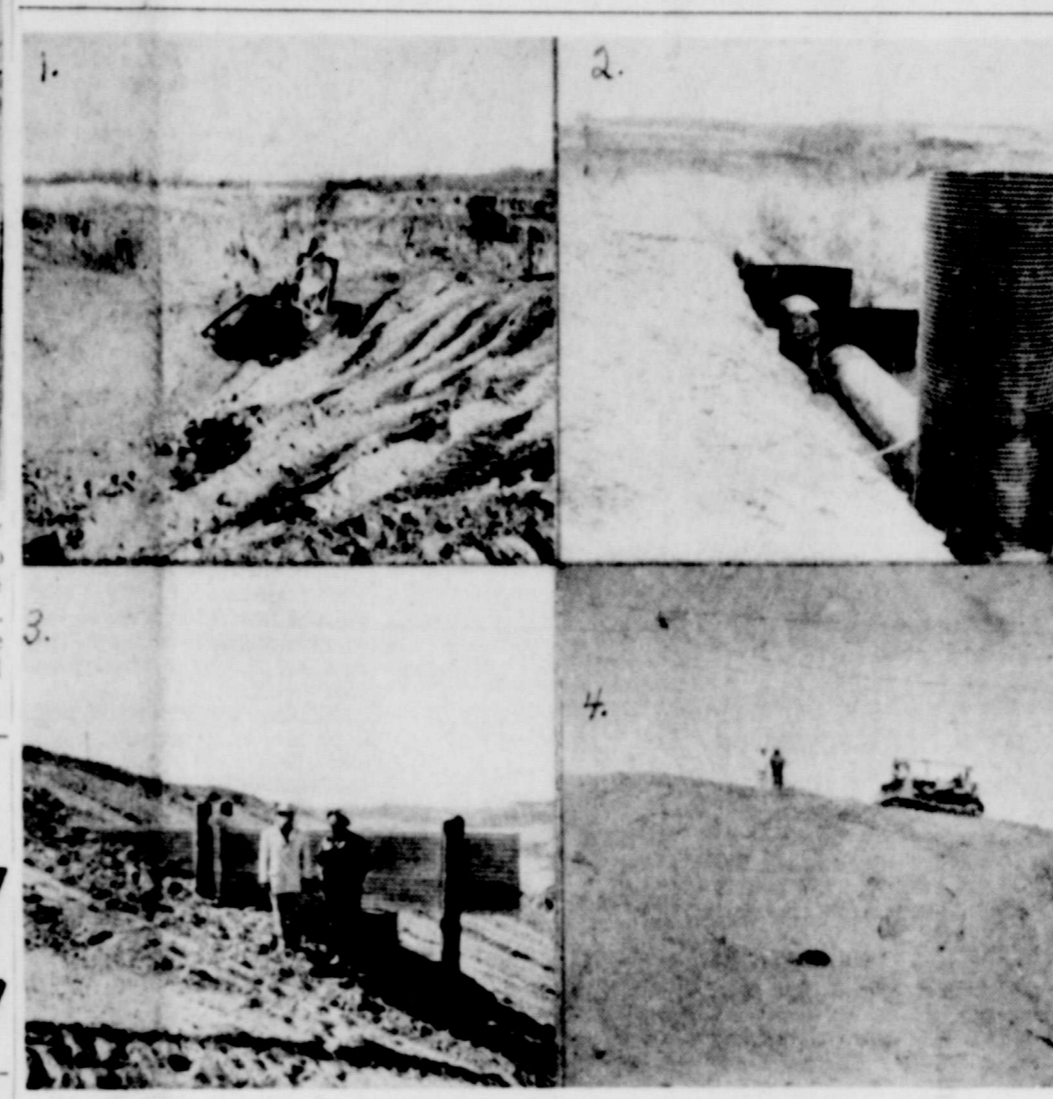

A change made in rule one governing eligibility to show, sets up the qualification for 4-H and FFA members who move into the county during the year. Such an exhibitor will be eligible to show only provided that his county agent or vocational agriculture teacher certifies in writing that the boy or girl has complied with all the rules of the show. Boys or girls who move from the county will not be eligible to exhibit in the Floyd County Stock Show next year.

The principal change affecting fat lambs sets up four classes in this show, instead of three as formerly. The new rules make classes as follows: Class 1 will consist of South-down and Southdown Crosses; Class 2 will include fine wool lambs - Ramboulets, Delaines, or a cross between the two; Class 3 will include medium wool lambs - Purebred Suffolk, Columbia and Corriedale, and crosses between them, and the crosses between these breeds and the fine wool lambs.

Class 4 will include other breeds of sheep. The directors went over the records of their show and pronounced it the most successful of any year to date.

Easter holidays start this afternoon for school students in the Floydada district, giving them a four-day holiday over the week-end. Egg hunts are planned by various church groups and organizations with most of the churches offering an Easter message for Sunday services.

I. T. Graves, school superintendent, said classes would dismiss this afternoon and resume at usual time Tuesday morning. Giving students Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, for the Easter holiday.

Practices planned include, brush control, terraces, diversion terraces, and a grassed waterway.

THE NIGHTS and MOST of the time on Sunday morning DIFFICULT questions and expounding of Scripture that are handed in to us during the week have proven to be great help and blessing to our members (43 in last 5 months) and to our visitors.

Attendance and also our Wednesday night services our Sunday morning attendance has been increasing. We are certain that all our new members are certainly growing in KNOWLEDGE of God's Word.

We put this proposition to our readers, that if all services possible at the Bible Baptist Church at the end of this six months, if you did not know more about the Bible and its wonderful teachings than you had ever learned at school or others' in 10 to 20 years in going to church, then we would be willing to apologize and pay bill for your time. (We will print next week of the new members, just to prove our point.)

Our people are learning the Bible is; for instance, the message, it was backed with 42 reference verses.

Messages: "The Spiritual Resurrection" and "When the Saints be Resurrected and Raptured." (Many references)

Corn Support Price Raised By Ten Cents

Announcement that corn will be supported this year in Texas and other states not in the commercial corn belt at a price 10 cents above last year's support price may create some interest in this county and even result in the planting of some corn acreage that otherwise would not have been planted.

Last year corn was supported (the farm storage rate) at $1.09 per bushel. This year USDA raised the rate to $1.19 per bushel.

Information of the change in support base came through the county committee's office. Office Pollan, Manager Thos. J. Hutchins said and that heretofore corn in states and Max of Wake were Floydada shoppers on Monday morning. They came by the co-op for a visit while in town.

Principal deterrent to production of corn in this area has been a worm called the Southwestern Corn Borer. Totate planting and cultural practices are the only means found to combat the insect.

Corn in the official corn belt is being planted again this year without restriction.

Kitchen and Field

Among the definite signs of spring I have noticed were the visits last week of a Cardinal (Red Bird) in the trees in our yard. The beautiful notes of his spring-time song reminded me of a beautiful poem I love.

There's Nothing Like Spring
There's many a beautiful sight to see,
And many a wonderful place to be,
Many a splendid deed to do,
That cheers a man when he battles through,
There's many a need to fill
That lends a smile, or a transient thrill,
But nothing in this old World can bring
The surge of joy that comes with spring!

OUTDOORS In Texas

(By Vern Sanford)

Thousands of ducks and geese now are working their way back up the Central Flyway to the nesting grounds in Western Canada. We didn't kill nearly all of them in Texas during the hunting season just recently closed. In fact, there were many hunters who didn't do too well on ducks. Others however, got their fair share.

There was considerable disappointment in far southeast Texas. Here, with Federal Aid, the state purchased some 8,000 acres of marshland for a wildlife refuge. It was opened to hunters five days a week. But the hunters got very few ducks.

As a result, not nearly so many hunters took advantage of the permit shooting as had originally been planned. Fortunately, there was a good answer for the absence of the ducks, which should be under control by next season.

This land was purchased only a few weeks before the hunting season opened. It had not been managed land. There was insufficient food on the area for the ducks. Resting areas had not been provided.

A management program is under way now, and by the time the 1959 season rolls around, there should be some excellent shooting in the area. This, of course, providing a good hatch comes back down the flyway from Canada.

Duck stamp sales were heavy in the United States in 1958. In the 10 Central flyway states there were 555,525 stamps sold at $2 each. Texans bought 167,383, or more than twice the number of any other state. Kansas was next with 73,096. Oklahoma was bought 50,633, and 10,200 were sold in New Mexico.

In the Mississippi flyway states they purchased twice as many licenses as in our flyway, but no state equaled Texas. In fact, California, in the Pacific flyway, with 183,011 duck stamp sold, was the only state exceeding Texas. (Alaska sold only 9,796 stamps.)

Proceeds from the sale of duck stamps are used to finance Federal waterfowl refuge and law enforcement programs. Every individual, 16 years of age and over, who hunts migratory waterfowl, is required to have such a stamp.

The price this year, has advanced from $2 to $3, with the added money set aside to finance an enlarged refuge program.

The 1959-60 stamp was designed by Maynard Reece, Des Moines, Iowa. He won the designing award, with a drawing featuring a Labrador retriever carrying a mallard drake. This is the third award he has won in addition to the purchase of duck stamps, hunters and fishermen also paid more than $20,000,000 in excise taxes on outdoor equipment last year.

Under appropriation from this excise tax Texas will receive $207,027.73 for fishing and $820,000 for wildlife development.

The funds are expended in Texas under the direction of the Game & Fish Commission. Each item must be projected by the Commission in advance, and approved under the federal program.

Texas, fortunately, has been able to provide the necessary 25 per cent matching funds from its own license sales. With like program like this, it looks like we'll have good hunting and fishing for a long time.

This also shows conclusively that the people who hunt and fish are not only paying their own way, without general tax funds, but are providing for protection of renewable wildlife resources for everyone.

buys the license. Texas has done a remarkable job.
More Water Means More Fish
Speaking of remarkable jobs, Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game & Fish Commission, was on the program of the meeting of the Texas Press Association in Austin recently.

In describing the department's activities, he made a significant statement. "We have more fish today than the Indians had," he told them.

Those of us who have been thinking of fishing back in the so called "good old days" must agree with him. Perhaps we might have had more fish in the Indian days if we had had as much water as we have today.

With all our lakes and streams now heavily stocked, our fishing is good. We are told that it will continue to be good because legal fishing pressure cannot reduce it.

Dodgen went on to explain the work of the Commission in keeping the studies going on these lakes to furnish even better fishing for those of us who find a little time to wet a hook.

Fishing definitely has increased a great deal within the last few years. In the first place, fishing is a sport anyone can participate in and enjoy.

Incidentally, there is a $20,000 fishing contest going on in the Corpus Christi area. Last fall the North Beach Women's Club sponsored a program for tagging a bunch of fish in the Corpus Christi Bay. These tags are worth from $10 to $500 each if they are caught and returned to the club group.

The contest, which started last November, will end April 1 of this year. Two of the more than 1,000 tagged fish are worth $500 each; 10 of the fish are worth $100 each; 50 are worth $50 each; 100, $25 each; and 1,000, $5 each.

The contest is limited to tourists only. The Texas coast is ideal for tourists during the winter months. If one should catch one of these $500 fish, he'll be double lucky, for he's just plain lucky to be there in the first place.

CITY'S GOOD FIRE RECORD EARNS LOWER PREMIUMS
Another year of low fire losses in 1958 has resulted in an additional credit on fire insurance premiums for Floydada property owners.

Announcement received by local insurance agencies last week said the good fire record reduction will be 5 per cent. This is on top of a 10 per cent reduction already effective.

Appointment of Shurbet Okeyed By State Senate

The appointment of Marvin Shurbet, Petersburg farmer, to the State Water Development Board by Governor Price Daniel has recently been confirmed by the State Senate. Mr. Shurbet's confirmation was recommended by Senator Andy Rogers of Childress.

The six-man Board of the State Water Development Fund is the administering body that handles financial loans to political subdivisions of Texas. Money loaned by the Board is made available through the sale of State bonds and repaid by the recipient with interest.

Mr. Shurbet represents the interests of West Texas on the Board and has served in this capacity since December 30, 1957. His present term of office will expire December 30, 1961.

The White River dam project, which will furnish municipal water to several High Plains communities, has been approved by the State Water Development Board for a loan of $1 million. This amount constitutes approximately 25 per cent of the total cost of the project.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Burns and children will leave tomorrow for Oklahoma City where they will visit relatives of hers, and a sister of his, Mrs. Frank Jordan and family.

Auto Inspection Deadline April 15

Persons in the County are reminded they have until April 15 to have their vehicles inspected for safety devices. The pile-up, always expected at inspection stations, hasn't started as yet but the past two weeks have shown an increase at the five check points here in town.

Your car must have a sticker by the 15th showing that the vehicle's brakes, horn, lights and windshield wipers are in working order, inspectors say.

Here is something we can start studying about. In California the price for gathering a field box of tomatoes is 11 cents per box. These field boxes contain one bushel. Because of the inexperience of Plains farmers, someone started a price of 40 cents per bushel for picking tomatoes. This is nearly one cent per pound, almost as much as the ripe tomato sells for at canneries.

Thermometer Ups To 84 Degrees

The warmest day since the start of spring on Saturday, was recorded in Floydada Tuesday with a high of 84 degrees. Members who blocked his push for a transactions (sales) tax, prudently committee. Price Daniel was one of the 56. So far this session, Governor Daniel is focusing his ire on the 157 persons executed and had "powerful lobbyists" who he says are blocking his tax program. Most of Daniel's proposals have been bogged down in the House Taxation Committee since the first of the session.

Whether they intend to push the governor's bills or some others, the tax committee members have made a move toward speed by adopting a Monday-through-Friday work schedule.

NOT GAS — No tax proposal thus far has brought a solid round of cheers.

Spokesmen for the gas industry told the House Taxation Committee the governor's proposed natural gas tax would have to be paid by Texas producers, not out-of-state users, as sponsors claim. They contended it would increase the industry's burden to 43 per cent, seriously impairing ability to stay in business, let alone contribute to Texas' growth.

Several House committee members were openly hostile to the bill.

CITY BOYS HO'NSWOGGLED — In a couple of recent city vs. country votes in the House, the "city boys" were completely outdone by their country cousins.

This is not unusual in the frequent clashes over rural and urban interests, since rural area lawmakers now predominate. But with the cities growing so fast, the rural group fears that one more census and redistricting will tip the scales.

They hope to head this off in a constitutional amendment proposed by Rep. Will Ehrle of Childress that would limit any one county to nine representatives. Despite city protests, it passed the amendments committee, 10-6.

Cities lost again in the House floor vote on a bill which would allow farmers with 10 acres of land to "disannex" themselves from a city.

EASIER POND PERMITS — Farmers won, too, when the House passed a bill that would make it easier to get a permit to dam up a small pond for irrigation.

Rep. Murray Watson's bill would change the law governing ponds of less than 200 acre feet. These may be constructed without a Water Board permit for domestic and livestock use. For irrigation use, a permit is required which farmers complained was for too complicated, expensive and difficult to get.

Sen. Bill Wood of Tyler is sponsoring an identical bill in the Upper House.

ADVERTISING "PRO" URGED — Senators are studying two different approaches to putting into effect the new constitutional amendment permitting state-financed advertising of Texas.

Senator George Parkhouse of Dallas, an advertising man for many years, insists professional ad men should be at the helm of the program. He suggests a five-member state advertising council. Four members would be existing state officials; the chairman and executive director would be an advertising professional.

Original bill sponsored by Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi would set up a Development Council of the governor and chairmen of the Highway Commission and Industrial Commission. Highway Commission would take care of luring tourists and the Industrial Commission would seek to attract new industry.

After Parkhouse protested this arrangement, Senate State Affairs Committee decided to give it some more study.

DEATH PENALTY ARGUED — "Day of the death penalty is over in most of the civilized world," say proponents of a bill to abolish it in Texas.

Rep. Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi is sponsoring the bill which is being studied by a sub-panel of the House criminal jurisdiction committee. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wylie Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Sparks flew to San Antonio last Wednesday and returned Saturday. They attended Texas Oil Jobbers convention. The couples were guests one night during their stay there of a cousin of Mrs. Wylie, Sgt. drawing the death penalty were and Mrs. Hoy Moffett.

The trip by plane was the first for Mrs. Sparks. She commented she thoroughly enjoyed the venture.

Huntsville newsman Don Reid told the committee he had seen 157 persons executed and had decided "there must be a better way." He said he believed at least six or seven of those executed were innocent.

Representatives of organized labor and church groups joined in supporting the measure. Several said they thought chances of a cousin of Mrs. Wylie, Sgt. drawing the death penalty were and Mrs. Hoy Moffett.

EDITORIAL VIEWS AND COMMENT

Who Is Provincial? Is it we outlanders or is it Ingrid Bergman who recently said "Over half the people I work with in Europe are communists and we think nothing about it. In the U. S. it is considered a crime." Communism sings a siren song, all right. It promises everything to everybody, actually gives rags and patches on your britches. Ingrid wouldn't understand this. She wouldn't understand communism isn't all right. Doubtless the California husband, whose home and name she scorned is wryly pleased, indeed, that she uses another name to mouth so brazenly about values, ascribing provincialism to people who detest communism.

We are unwilling to resign ourselves to a retail tax and the state income tax that always follows it in order to meet the growing demands on the state for education, hospitalization and eleemosynary needs. There are plenty of taxes to go around to all, we admit and we blame nobody for not volunteering to take on the added load. But the sales tax has so many objectionable features that we need to avoid it some way, some how. Not the least of these objectionable features, which we do not see mentioned, is the added load and expense to the dealer who must collect the tax and report it. This expense alone would run into the millions. Business already is having to make too many nuisance reports without adding this burden.

Don Reid, Editor of The Huntsville Item, who has been an official witness of 157 executions at the state prison, has come to the conclusion that capital punishment should be abolished in Texas. He is sure that at least six, perhaps seven, innocent men, have been executed out of that 157. He is quoted as saying, "There must be a better way of punishing those who commit capital crimes than the electric chair." He told this to a House committee which is conducting hearings on a bill that would abolish capital punishment. As usual in such a controversial matter there is sentiment on both sides. One point made by Reid was that the rich, or the well-represented, rarely go to the chair.

Free enterprise is threatened in numerous industries, not so much by the oft-named scapegoat Communism, nor by inflation, but by monopoly, seemingly trying to price itself out of business. An instance in the Graphic Arts industry are concerns which have gone up 15 to 30 per cent in two years on parts for which they have no independent competition. On parts for which there is competition it is announced "a major program of price adjustment (downward, our parenthesis) to more closely align prices with costs." Other monopolies have cut the same caper year after year.

The Try For Rain. About the most pressing need on the high plains at this time is a good rain, so the effort of the elements to give us some sort of a shower in the early part of April will be watched with much interest. Meanwhile the try last week got quite a bit of moisture for the north plains. Isn't ours more likely to come from the south and east?

Peaches and Apricots. This may not be a fruit country but every household has a little peach tree or two, perhaps an apricot, out in the backyard that is budding. A few have already bloomed, with Easter early and still a few days in the future. Could they'll escape the late frost. We've had a considerable bit of cold during the normally cold period. On the other hand it seems probable that if the blooms do escape and the little tree bears fruit in the summer it will be a pure dee bonus.

We Had Misgivings, back when Mr. Truman was president at the time of the Korean "incident" when he and the military bragged of the nation's readiness for whatever might transpire. Eight months and seven billions later they were indeed landing a tremendous army of reserves on the Korean Coast and did battle the Communists successfully.

Now, we have it again. A president who was a military idol, is running the show. He is quite sure we have everything we need to successfully withstand the Soviets, to meet the show down. He was wise in the ways of another war, now history more than a decade ago. We have misgivings. The logic is all against the president being on the right track—in orbit, you might say. We devoutly hope our misgivings are ill-founded.

The Western Allies do not need to stay in Berlin merely for to keep face. The West needs to stay in Berlin because we owe a debt to freedom. We are in that city by solemn international agreement. Whatever betide we do not want to see another Munich, for another Munich will only be another surrender to be followed by the horrors of another surrender—or less advantageous battle. People do not like to talk about it. They do not even like to think about it, but they do face the awful fact, that having done all, we must stand. Our leaders must sense this fact. Big talk and give-in to pressure and threat are not the kind of program the people want played.

Embarrassed Candidate. Most everybody has read that one about the candidate who issued a statement for the press. He whipped it out, turned it over to the secretary to type. When it got to the newspaper it said, "I favor excessive and unnecessary spending." He hurriedly telephoned the two missing words.

The Boy Who Served

(Ralph Johnston, a sixth grade student in Junior High School, wrote a theme last week that his teacher, Mrs. Kelly Hagood, thought had merit. She offered it for use in the newspaper, as appropriate for pre-Easter reading. —Ed Note.)

(By Ralph Johnston, 6th grade)
It was the Passover Feast and I was twelve years old. To every boy in Palestine this is the most waited for time in a boy's life. People were pouring in from every where.

One sunny afternoon my friend John and I were playing in front of the city gate. I then heard people shouting, "Hosanna to the King," and throwing palm leaves in front of a strange man who was riding on a donkey.

I thought how could this man be a king, riding on a donkey and not wearing beautiful robes? I then heard this strange man say that He needed a helper to wait on the table. Then without even thinking I said I would.

The next evening I was serving supper and I heard the man say, "One of you shall betray me," but no one heard, because they were arguing among themselves. Then He took a bowl and washed their feet. Then he told them one would betray him; they all, except one, said, "Lord, is it I?"

He then went out to the garden to pray. I then saw torches coming. I wondered what was going on. The people led the man off.

I went home and told my mother what had happened. She said for me to go to bed, because it was late. I couldn't sleep for thinking why they took the man away.

The next morning I heard people saying Pilate had released Barabbas unto the people in exchange for Jesus and they were going to crucify him.

I went outside to see what I could find out. I then saw a procession coming down the hill and in the midst of it was the man carrying a cross. I asked a man why they were going to crucify him. "I don't know, because he has done nothing wrong," he said.

Later his disciples were having supper in the upper room and I walked in. Jesus was serving. Then the Master the grave.

The Man who Appreciates the Finest...

BUYS HIS WIFE GAS APPLIANCES!

Brahms and Brubeck... an unlikely combination? Not to the man who recognizes the "best of its kind," be it appetizer or appliances. That's why he insisted on a new GAS Clothes Dryer for his wife. He sees the advantages of instant heat (turn it on and it's on), and no heat hang-over (gas off, heat's gone!). He's observed how gentle Gas heat blows moisture away instead of baking it out. Clothes come out fluffier, more wrinkle-free and easier to iron! They last longer, too. Yes, in every way—economy included—GAS gives you more. And where the finest is truly appreciated... Gas belongs!

Breakthrough Calls Research Projects

This is the first time a basic finding is applied to the quest for cancer control — the only breakthrough in cancer research since the discovery of penicillin. A team of scientists at the University of Colorado at Boulder has announced that they have discovered a way to control the growth of cancer cells by blocking the production of a protein called cyclin. The discovery is a major breakthrough because it provides a new way to control the growth of cancer cells. The team, led by Dr. Robert C. Allred, has been studying the role of cyclin in the cell cycle. They found that cyclin is essential for the cell to divide. Without cyclin, the cell cannot divide. This means that if you can block the production of cyclin, you can stop the cancer cell from dividing. The team has developed a drug called "cyclin inhibitor" which blocks the production of cyclin. They have shown that this drug can stop the growth of cancer cells in laboratory tests. They are now testing the drug in animal models. If successful, this drug could be used to treat a wide variety of cancers.

week and then cuts off the tail of the cancer and all. She learns that the cancer has not spread to other parts of the rat body. Moreover, she learns that the rat has been immunized against that kind of cancer. When she plants a second rat, it doesn't take. It dies. Scientists have developed many ways of vaccinating animals against specific cancers. The question is: Can man be vaccinated against the hundreds of kinds of cancer which might befall him?
A New York scientist wonders whether tumors shed cells. He takes a sample of the vaginal fluid of a woman with cancer of the uterus and examines it under the microscope. He finds many cancer cells in the fluid. Many years of investigation show that very small and early cancer cells shed cells in great numbers, and it occurs to him that this might be of clinical value. The technique becomes useful in finding early cancers; and thousands of women now owe their lives to tumor shedding.
A Wisconsin scientist wonders what happens to a cancer-causing chemical in the liver tumor it induces. He looks — and can find no trace of the chemical. A few years later he learns that it binds with a certain liver protein and is excreted. Maybe cancer is due to the loss of this protein.

A Seattle scientist uses two chemicals on the same rat — one which causes liver cancer and one which causes skin cancer. The one which causes skin cancer makes the liver manufacture proteins in large quantities. This prevents liver cancer.
An Illinois scientist finds that certain viruses are well behaved. Instead of destroying the bacterium they invade, the viruses become part of the genes and divide only when the cell divides. As part of the genes, they are beyond attack by antibodies.
This could explain how viruses might cause human cancers and yet never be detected.
The scientist finds that virus-infected bacteria have a peculiar spot on their skin. It is antigenic — that is, antibodies will attack this spot and destroy all cells with this odd marking. Does the skin of cancer cells also have a distinctive spot? If so and if the chemicals forming it can be isolated and purified, they might be used as a vaccine for the prevention and treatment of cancer.
No drug cures the common cold or any virus-caused disease. Only Nature can do that.
A Wisconsin scientist, studying the food requirements of various plants, finds that a certain chemical kills viruses inside plant cells without killing the cells. The first anti-virus drug ever found cures plants of viruses.
A San Francisco scientist transplants a cancer to a rat and then injects radioactive iodine into the animal. The iodine does not go to the thyroid gland, as it does in healthy animals. Instead, it concentrates in tissues around the tumor transplant and in other areas — or it is excreted. Some-thing in the cancer drastically changes the body's iodine chemistry and the manufacture of thyroid hormone.
In another series of experiments, the scientist finds out now cancer does it. The cancer exudes a substance which breaks up most cells — little store houses of materials which liquefy blood, enlarge arteries and make nerves function. In this way, the cancer may be providing itself with a abundant blood-borne food and superior accommodations within tissues.
An Illinois scientist develops an ultrasonic beam — waves pitched above the frequency of sound. Would it destroy a tumor deep in the animal body?
He starts off by aiming the beam at various known structures in the brain. He finds out that these tissues can be destroyed with sharpshooting accuracy.
In collaboration with Iowa scientists, he uses the beam to demolish a tiny structure in the brain of patients with Parkinsons disease. A few of the patients lost their torturous tremor within minutes after treatment. It is announced against that kind of cancer. When she plants a second rat, it doesn't take. It dies. Scientists have developed many ways of vaccinating animals against specific cancers. The question is: Can man be vaccinated against the hundreds of kinds of cancer which might befall him?

A Los Angeles scientist, investigating the chemistry of cell growth and aging, observed this sequence of events: (1) Just before cells divide, they produce DNA — deoxyribonucleic acid, which becomes part of the new genes; (2) When cells stop dividing and begin to age, they produce DNase which grinds up DNA; (3) In their youth, cells produce DI (DNase inhibitor), which prevents DNase from breaking up DNA and permits DNA production and cell growth.
It occurred to this scientist that lupus erythematosus may be caused by a lack of DI. He injected 16 lupus erythematosus patients with DI-containing white blood cells. All of them had been long and gravely ill with the disease. They showed almost immediate improvement.
Leukemia appears to be due to the unrestrained youth of white blood cells. These observations on basic growth and aging suggest how may have application to the leukemia problem.
These are just a few of the hundreds, no, thousands — of efforts in basic research aimed at cancer.
None of the fruits so far resemble the big breakthrough that will end cancer as a major menace.
But almost any project could do so by uncovering a secret of evolution (some say the cancer cell has gone back a billion or so years in time to a form of early life), of aging (the cancer cell is a young cell — one which always grows but never grows up) or of embryology (in several ways, cancer resembles unspecialized embryonic tissue).
It takes a sharp eye to recognize the subtle secrets of life now being unfolded in basic research. And it takes an alert and bold mind to find the implications and possible applications of these discoveries.

Assisting Mrs. Huntington were four members of her Class III. Misses Nedra Jarrett, Martha Meek, Martha Smithy and Shirley Gunn.

Mrs. O. G. Glassmoyer was leader for the program on traffic safety. Bob Copeland, local chairman for the Traffic Safety Committee, introduced the speaker for the afternoon, William Senning of Plainview, who is with the Southwestern Insurance Information Service.

Senning gave accounts of traffic deaths caused by autos, stating there had been 460,000 since the start of the driving vehicle.

He stressed the importance of driving education in schools, saying that 25 percent of accidents involve persons under the age of 25. Senning continued by saying there were only 40 percent of Texas high schools teaching driver's education Floydada is one of those.

He concluded his talk on the importance of obeying safety rules and regulations of the state. During a short business session Mrs. Tate Jones, president, was selected as delegate to the Federated Study Clubs convention to be held in Borger.

The Homemaking girls served refreshments from a table decorated in the Easter Fashions to Misses Fred Battey, Hollis R. Bond, R. E. Fry, O. G. Glassmoyer, Paul Huntington, A. H. Kreis, J. G. Martin, J. D. McBrien, Lee Rushing, J. B. McGerman and Henry Willis.

Jealousy is probably the most destructive of all the little-league sins. We refer to that type known as "unpleasant suspicion of the faithfulness of husband, wife, or lover."

In a supermarket one day, we passed a couple at the meat counter who were kidding around and having themselves a ball, but their son Adolph and family recently moved to that city from Reswell, and in San Antonio they visited their son Kenneth and his wife.

Several months later, we met the husband-wife team at a public reception. This time they seemed surface-happy, although she was still watchful — and the girlfriend of the grocery store was not around. Could be she had grounds for doubts, could be she imagined them.

The same instincts that make a mate show jealousy could just as easily be turned to improving a marriage. They mean, "I love you. I want to keep you." And that's flattering to any husband or wife. Started wrong, these instincts seem unattractive, possessive, distrustful. Aimed with intelligence they simply alert the victim to danger. "If I'm good company, he won't have to seek elsewhere to build up his ego." "She likes compliments." "Well, she is pretty — I'll tell her so."

Giving husband, wife or lover grounds for jealousy, of course, is big-league stuff. But the petty imaginations of a husband or wife whose mate is just naturally a show-off, or a people-pleaser, is poor sportsmanship that may lead to something worse.

Miss Jackson crowned Eddie Parks as King, and presented him with an identification bracelet bearing his title, the year and his name. Runner up was Larry Brand.

As a Farm Woman Thinks

(NELLIE WITT SPIKES)

HITLER AND THE DEVIL

Hitler called up the Devil up or the telephone one day, the girl at Central listened to all they had to say. "Hello," she heard Hitler say. "Is old Satan home today? Just tell him its the dictator who wants him on the phone."

The Devil said, "Howdy" and Hitler said "How are you?" "I'm running a hell on earth, so tell me what to do." "What can I do?"

The Devil said, "Dear old pal of mine, it seems you don't need any help, you're doing mighty fine."

"Yes, I was doing very good until a while ago, when a man named Roosevelt wired me to go more slow; He said to me, 'Dear Hitler, we don't want to be unkind, but you have raised hell enough so you better change your mind.' I thought his leave-leave bill was a bluff and he could never put it through."

"But he soon put me on the spot when he showed what he could do. 'Now that is why I called you,' I need advice from you. 'For I know you will tell me what I ought to do.'"

"My dear Hitler, there is not much left to tell. 'For Uncle Sam will make it hotter than Igrass at mother's in New Mexico can here in hell. 'I've been a mean old Devil, but not half as mean as you.' 'So the minute you get here the job is yours to do.'"

"I'll be ready for your coming, and I'll have the fires all bright. And I'll have your room already when Sam begins to fight. For I can see your days are numbered and there's nothing left to tell. So hang up your phone, get your hat and meet me here in hell."

Peter P. Belknap

Did you happen to cut this out during World War II? Maybe it will help us to know that dictators come and go and we know that God still rules this world we have the privilege to live in. But let us not talk of the present for a while but take a peek back to other days and other ways.

My mind goes back to one February many years ago when my father, John Marion Witt was very sick at his home in Lubbock and I went over to stay a few days as the others were worn out by much sitting up with him. I took the long night hours. There was a big coal heater in the room which I had to keep going, but it could not be kept too hot. I would try my very best not to disturb the sleeping family or my sick father when the fire needed re-igniting.

I would quietly get up but then I would try to get a little coal. I'd shovel, the noise began. The stove door squeaked as I opened it, the shovel hit the side of the door and father would stir. I would quit a few minutes but in a few minutes just had to be poked out at the bottom for the coal to get a bit burn.

I blacked my hands on the poker as I picked up hitting the coal scuttle in the act. I opened the bottom door and began trying to get the ashes out without any noise. But the ashes made me sneeze and my hands drove the poker on the tin under the stove with such a clatter that the bed rooms stirred and groaned.

The fine powdered coal would leak out the bottom of the scuttle and had to be swept up, and come daylight the big pan of ashes had to be taken outside and emptied and more coal brought in.

After the coal stoves we had the blessing of oil heaters. They did not demand so much, the tank had to be kept filled and they were very smelly. Then we got butane on the farm, but it one did not keep a close watch some cold morning the family would get up to a cold house and no hot breakfast as the butane had run dry in the big tank out side.

Now different kinds of fuel have I used. The dry cowchips which made such a quick hot grass at mother's in New Mexico as I tried to push it into the fire box of the range stove.

As the bear grass was cut off the new farm land it was dried and piled in long high stacks on the north side of the cowpen, thus doing duty as a wind break and making a supply of fuel. It was a sticky business getting it into the house and then into the stove.

One's hands and arms would be stuck here and there with this hard job, but it made a fire. Biscuits, meat, potatoes and cakes and pies were cooked with it and thus the first settlers of Eastern New Mexico were able to stay on the 160 acres the government had given them if they could stick it out for five years.

I have cooked with cobs from the hoppen, another very smelly, fuel. With long heads of golden maize that popped as it burned. I did not like to use something that was food to animals, but circumstances were such that we were glad to have the maize for fuel.

I must hurry along and get a meal. I will turn on the gas to fry the bacon and eggs, switch on the electricity for the coffee pot and the toaster. So life is easier but maybe not more interesting.

God bless and keep you and yours.

Now gas flows on and on into our stoves, we turn on a burner, or run a little wheel up and down to regulate the heat and remember when things were not so easy.

Crash Sunday Night Injures 7 on Highway

A grinding head-on crash Sunday night about 8 o'clock put seven persons in the hospital, three of them reported in serious condition, at Methodist Hospital at Lubbock, where they were taken by Harmon ambulance after emergency treatment in Peoples Hospital.

In Methodist are Pedro Rodriguez, Tomazo Rayes, and his five year old daughter, Rochella. Their injuries include internal injuries, broken bones, and the little girl suffering from a skull fracture.

Mrs. Rodriguez, Mrs. Rayes and another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rayes, Rosendo, age 7, remain in Peoples Hospital for treatment of lacerations, bruises and abrasions.

Dale Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnson of the Muncy community, and driver of one of the vehicles involved, is in Lockney hospital, where his condition is described as good.

Sheriff Walter Hollums and Deputy E. J. Hucakabee, who were assisted in the investigation of the wreck by Plainview Highway Patrol, said the accident occurred about two and a half miles from Floydada on Highway 70, toward Lockney Johnson was driving a pick-up headed toward Lockney, and the car bearing the two Latin American families were enroute to Floydada.

Hollums said Johnson's pick-up swerved across the line in the lane of oncoming traffic, hitting the Rayes' car head-on. Johnson said he didn't know what caused the vehicle to go out of control. Both the car and pick-up were demolished.

A vegetable fertilizer demonstration is being conducted on the Pleasant Valley Community. Combinations of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash are being used.

This demonstration was conducted on the Lane Decker farm this past year. The best combinations of fertilizer last year was 100-100-0 pounds per acre.

Also available in the County Agent's Office, are results on fertilizers and varieties of the different vegetables grown in our area. Many of you might be interested in looking them over.

Mrs. Plumlee has been indisposed the last few days but is better today.

Mrs. Hartline returned last week from El Paso, where she was with her son, Dub and family for a few days during the illness of the grandchild. When she left everyone was well.

We regret the passing of another old timer, Mrs. G. R. Strickland. Her pleasant, cherry greeting will be sadly missed. A good neighbor and faithful church woman. Our sympathy goes to her loved ones.

Next Sunday will be Easter. Let us all be present at church and bring along somebody including the relatives, who come on vacations. It helps both them and us, we hope.

(Several of our people must be away somewhere today. We can't reach them.)

EASTER: RESURRECTION OF IDEALS

(By Marisue Burleson)

Easter, the day for celebrating Christ's resurrection from the grave, is a day for the coming alive, the rising, and the restoration of our ideals. Ideals which are tainted, tarnished and dead call for resurrection and reedification.

So often we lose sight of our existing thoughts of high and perfect ideals and of the model we wish to imitate. In losing these ideals we are forming a type of dogma. For if we have no model to imitate we are inferring to ourselves that we are perfect and have no wish to become better. We are asserting our thoughts, opinions, and ideals as if they were the highest authority, if only to ourselves. A great man was persecuted. He died for what he believed rather than to live an empty life. Having a faith that would not compromise he came back from the dead to live again. In the same sense, our ideals become persecuted; they die; and if they are the right kind and high ones that we have faith in, they will come back from the dead.

Great ideals and ideas have been lost somewhere along the way to materialization with the most important thirteen virtues, as those thirteen have the possibility of being recovered and restored to better condition.

This Easter, why don't we celebrate Christ's triumph over death by reedificating, retrieving those ideals which mean so little to the pagan world but so very much to the world of Christianity. Why don't we cease to compromise? Why don't we become non-conformists in our religion like so many of our first great leaders, Luther, Calvin, Knox, and Wesley? And why don't we thank God for His son who suffered so much for us so willingly?

To every man there openeth a way, and ways and a way, And the high soul climbs the high way, And the low soul gropes the low; And in between on the misty flats The rest drift to and fro. But to every man there openeth a high way and a low, And every man decideth the way his soul shall go.

WHISPERS

On The Wind

(By Marisue Burleson)

To reverence superiority and accept a fact though it slay him are the final tests of an educated man.

No one has ever undertaken an art or a science merely to acquire knowledge of it. It seems in all human affairs there is always a personal achievement involved—one of pleasure, of honor, or of advantage.

Can it be justly said that "Men are dependent on circumstances, not circumstances on men," or that "Man is not the creature of the creatures of men?" It has been said that Attention is like salt. A small amount is to be desired but unlimited quantities can quickly become detestable.

A democratic, state, or community has two superfluities to be wary of: the spirit of inequality, which leads it to aristocracy, and the spirit of extreme equality which leads it to tyranny.

Honesty is often in the wrong. But what good virtues can be right all the time?

A nation which thought itself to be one of the "Master Races" in the past was quoted as saying "Americans generally are an arrogant, self-centered, dogmatic and unreflecting lot. What they call frankness is merely the result of prejudice." (Excerpt from an Editorial in the Tokyo Yumiri written in 1929)

In a friend, I would want someone to laugh with me, someone to be sympathetic and understanding when I am sad, someone who would strive to please me but one who, at the same time would think for himself and assert himself, and I would want someone to help my discrimination with his or her own remark, and someone who would grow with me. One has to keep his friendships in constant repair, lest they crumble in negligence. If a person does not make new acquaintances as he advances through life he will find himself alone when he needs friends the most.

An American school is an athletic or social institution in which a few classes are held for the feeble-minded. But remains to be seen that the things taught in schools and colleges are not education, but the means of education.

Genius is one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration.

There is no other way by which the individual can attain to his own happiness than which leads to the common happiness of all.

Senior Class Plans Friday Night Event

(By Sonja Guffee)

For the second consecutive year, the senior class of Floydada High School is sponsoring the "Miss Floydada Pageant." The pageant is to be tomorrow night, March 27, at 8:00 p. m. in the High School Auditorium. Before the pageant a Cake and Ice Cream supper will be held at 6:00 p. m., which is also a project of the senior class.

Fifty-one girls were nominated for the preliminaries for "Miss Floydada." Of these, thirty have entered the contest. The entries are from the freshman, sophomore and junior classes.

Each girl will model three things: sports wear, dress wear, and formal. Five finalists will be picked and each given a question to answer. From these five the judges will pick the "Miss Floydada." Last year Edwina Overstreet was crowned the first "Miss Floydada."

Guffee, Darlene Johnson, Neida McCary, Sue McClung, and Barbara Smith.

Look Sharp! Inspector to Visit School

(By Sonja Guffee)

Floydada Public Schools will be visited immediately after the Easter holidays by the Texas State School Inspectors. The main reason for their coming is to evaluate the teaching system of the schools.

The inspectors are coming in answer to our request. They will visit classrooms while in session. All students are reminded to be on their best behavior. No more chewing gum and throwing erasers!

The inspectors will inspect lesson plans and the work of the students. Therefore, all students are encouraged to bring up all homework.

A challenge to us, the students of Floydada Public Schools, is to set an example for other schools to follow.

Chorus Gets Top Rating

(By Joyce Morren)

The Girls' Senior High School Chorus brought home a Gold Plaque for making a first rating at Regional Chorus Contest Saturday, March 21, in Littlefield, Texas.

The chorus presented three numbers: "The Singing Brook" by Pohlmann, "Nocturne" by Most, and "Let Us Break Bread Together" by Bell. Chorus entries were allowed to sing two numbers with accompaniment and one acappella. They chose to sing all three acappella. The first selection presented was in AA classification and the two remaining numbers were in AAA classification.

FHA director, Mrs. L. H. Christensen, received personal commendation from the judges for the unusual effectiveness of the presentation of the numbers after the groups left the stage.

The chorus received a rating of II in Sight Reading.

The three judges of all the choruses are as follows: Dr. Houston Bright from West Texas State, Canyon, Mr. Leon F. Brown from North Texas State, Denton, and Mr. David Scott from Western New Mexico, Portales.

BOOKS MISSING

(By Edwina Overstreet)

Many books have been lost from the library during the past year. These have been paid for, and if they are found your money will be returned.

Some of the books are: "The Virginian" by Owen Wister, Kit Carson by Stanley Vestal, What People Wore by Douglas Gorsline, and Home Book of Verse for Young People. There is also a dictionary missing.

Please look through your lockers and things at home. The library would appreciate getting any of these books back.

Lonnie Jarrett Directing Tulia One-Act Players

Lonnie Jarrett, 1953 graduate of FHS, is directing Tulia High School's One-Act Play entry for the scholastic league on April 3. The contest is to be held at West Texas State College, Canyon.

He is directing "Little Women," a play that Mrs. I. T. Graves, his former speech teacher in FHS took to State. Lonnie was in speech work under Mrs. Graves. He has had three years of high school. He was in the play, "Special Guest," which went to State and won second place in the contest. He was named to the All-Star cast at Regional Meet.

Lonnie also chose Floydada High School at which to do his practice teaching, while he was attending West Texas State. And he had Mrs. Graves for his supervising teacher and observed her speech classes for several weeks.

Perhaps Lonnie, too, will be a winning teacher like Mrs. Graves.

Home Economics Classes Humming

(By Estella Wyatt)

The home economics lab in FHS has been a busy place during the past weeks.

The students in second year class have been very successful in making breads and butter cakes. Sue McClung gave a demonstration on decorating cakes and turned out a lovely cake for the class.

Home Ec III classes have also been baking some tasty treats including chiffon cakes and pies. Chiffon pies made in fifth period class were served to some visiting teachers and student teachers recently. The dining table in the home economics department was arranged beautifully. Tea and coffee were served with the strawberry, mint-apple, and lemon pies topped with whipped cream.
