EDITORIAL VIEWS AND COMMENTARY

Vacationers, Be Alert. Remember that the roads are full of drivers who have mapped out too ambitious plans for the time they have. As a result they try to make up for the time by driving too fast, driving too far in a day, and oceasionally disregarding traffic laws. The careful vacationist will be well rewarded for constant vigilance. One must drive, on occasion, not only for benself. but also for the driver behind him as well as for the man ahead. The road has a hypnotic effect on the over-tired driver. Such a one may be in any car on the highway.

State budget balancing, ballyhooed as the major issue in the Texas legislature this year, is likely to have a competitor for the Number One spot in re-districting. Every census is supposed to be followed by re-aligning districts to fit the changes in population. Members from growth areas will go for more representation, extra representatives, state senators and congressmen, while the others will try to hold on to as much as they can, writes Vern Sanford in his "Highlights" column from Austin. One prediction is that at least 12 rural districts will be swallowed up in the changes.

Rural Communities find it particularly galling to be tied on as the tail of a kite to bigger and more populous communities adjacent. Since the legislature is required by the constitution to re-define districts after the census is taken and announced, something quite likely will be done about it. Should it fail at this first session a board takes over. Sanford concludes that the legislature will re-district - some way somehow, as it did it ten years ago.

The Democratic Ticket. Senator John F. Kennedy, of Massachusetts, who abetted National Democratic Chairman, Paul Butler, Chester Bowles, Walter Reuther and others in hammering out a platform that builds eastles right on up to the air, is the standard bearer for the Democratic party, as is well-known by most everybody. And his running nate, whom Paul Butler and people of the minds wanted to demolish politicalwill be Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, candidate for vice president.

Many Texans Won't like the ticket on account of LBJ, many more because of the Massachusetts senator. But the inbetweeners seem to be either satisfied or mollified. More of them will be when Mr. Kennedy gets around to exercising he kind of charms he used to capture the fancy of West Virginians. He is a camaigner who likes it rough and tough, and he doesn't soft pedal the religious How he manages is well illustrated by his last day convention management. Texans, who had been so mad they could hardly see over the manner in which they thought Mr. Butler studiedly mistreated them in the convention, over the platform, and over the quick licking they got in the first ballot for the nomination, quickly reversed themselves and almost cried on his shoulder when they learned he had to have Senator Johnson for a running mate.

It Is Evident Now that Senator Johnson had had too many brushes with too many Democratic mmbers of the senate to gain their affectionate interest in his selection as a standard bearer for the party. Also the labor hierarchy felt they could not claim him as their man. pursuits while combating it.

"COW POKES"

And the illiberal liberals could not support him in any event. So it had to be somebody else, a Kennedy as it turned

Our side, fortunately, will not be caught short of funds to carry on a campaign. If the national committee cannot find the wherewith Mr. Kennedy could pick up the tab. Also our own Lyndon B could pay for an airplane flight or so.

It seems to us probable that Texas will be one of the battle grounds. We have indicated the belief that it is doubtful whether a Catholic can carry the state under any circumstances. This belief, is based on the 1928 debacle when Al Smith was beaten by Herbert Hoover in this state. Our flat-footed surprise on the Wednesday morning of that fateful fall came on the heels of a campaign, in which the religious issue was not publicly raised. Democrats just quietly went fishing or scratched the party's candidate. This year there will be open opposition unless we are mistaken. For that reason we expect to see Mr. Kennedy become a well-known personality in Texas before the first Tuesday in November. He will be charming Texas peole into the belief that he, not the pope, will be the president.

relations. Which, if either, can get our scanagraving) country out of a groveling attitude before the world. As D. E. Scott has his short-suffering neighbor saying recent-ly: "He is tired of the craven image the world has got of Americans, who safely can be insulted, shot at, robbed and On Vacation hornswoggled." Our own well-being, indeed, is tied up in what means we can devise to meet this problem successful-
