when he takes office: First Catholic to hold the office, first president under 44 years of age to take the oath, and first to enter the White house with a few weeks old baby.

A Man at 44 years has plenty of years on him to be the president of the United States. The country, in fact, is fortunate that a mature young man of fortythree is to be its next executive. It was unfortunate, we thought, that a man who had a full career before he was elected president, in the person of General Dwight D Eisenhower, should have been chosen for the place. Disagreeing with the majority of our neighbors, also, we do not think the country could successfully have taken another four years of the same, promised by the briliant, also able young man, Richard M. Nixon. Mr. Kennedy now has to carve out his career. Only thing we do not like about him is that his hair is set too tight on his head. That type of man, when he gets off on the wrong foot, is to hard to change. Let's hope he seeks and gets good advice.

One Of His Failures. One of the failures of President Eisenhower was that he was not enough of a party man. He needed political guidance, a need of which he was unaware.

Aslo, Mr. Eisenhower is a good man. We mean the kind of good man that the good people call good. He made many of the mistakts that are common to

The Lack Of Humor. Neither the candidates nor any of their supporters made any real contribution to the nation's store of humor in the campaign for the presidency. Except for a bit of the unprintable kind, none of which was realy chuckly, there was lack of wit and humor all the way from July to November. Reflects the scared state of mind. Scared of the pope, scared of Krushchev, afraid of what the nuclear age may have in store. Scared our way of may be taken from us. Few can make a joke under such circumstances. Our forefathers were not so well educated but they must have been better adjusted. Comparable to our present state of mind probably was that period of 1860, a hundred years ago, when anbright humor and sparkling wit will flourish as it did before Razor Thin Race. In the vote for president the closeness of the vote has ator Kennedy's majority is threatened per cent of the vote. Mr. Nixon had a fraction over 49 per cent and the other two candidates between them had about .6 of one per cent. In some kind of an absentee voting arrangement for men ing absentee ballots, which were running for Mr. Nixon and might give him a lead in that state—and might not. In Illinois the perennial hassle over election crookedness has thousands of ballots impounded to be counted in a court battle. Indignant Republicans by the hundreds are mailing in checks to cover the expense of the investigation. The Democrats, of course, will make counter charges before there is a final adjudication.

The Twelfth Time. According to the books this is to be the twelfth time that a president has been elected by a pluring Floyd County but we do not recall Senior Girl, Mary Grace Dunn, homa City, Okla, spent Sunday I. H. Parks returned Friday den ran, Republicans out-finagled the Democrat and bodaciously took the presidency away from him that he had won. There is a hue and cry as always.

He'll Be The First. John F. Kennedy. The most unusual demand we have the president-elect, will be three firsts heard of comes out of New Mexico, where they have three or four election where they have three or four elections where they have the same number of the same and the same and the same and the same elections where they have the same number of the same elections where they are the same elections where elections where the same elections where the same elections where elections were elections where the same electio New York, for instance.
