Advertising Force For Democracy

By Ann Lander, 17 Year old Thomas Jefferson High School student from Dallas, Texas

Advertising is the bulwark on which many of our freedoms are built. Some of these freedoms are as small as the choice of a tube of tooth paste, and some are as large as the exploration of outer space — but, large or small, they are the open gates through which we can constantly expand the scope of our lives.

Advertising makes possible the marketing of goods and services, encourages competition among businesses, and assures the people of free countries a choice between competing products.

Advertising gives us freedom of enjoyment, because the makers of competing products must price their goods as low as possible — and when the cost of necessities is held to a minimum, people have money left over for recreation and entertainment.

Advertising gives workers freedom from much exhausting physical labor—and a greater choice of ways to earn a living. Advertising, by increasing the demand for products, makes mass-production methods possible, necessitates the use of gigantic machines to carry tremendous weights, and creates a labor market in which intelligent "man hours" are more vital than "horse power."

Advertising gives jobholders security by sustaining a demand for products and giving financial stability to the company which makes them.

Most important of all, advertising gives us freedom of knowledge. Every public means of communication in the United States is supported by the advertising it sells.

Without the several thousand trade publications which cover individual segments of our industrial fields, manufacturers would not know of new machinery and techniques available, retailers might never learn of new products available for their stores, and doctors would have to leave their patients and return to medical school to keep abreast of modern medical research.

Without radio and television, we would be unable to hear the voices of our national leaders. During the political campaign, the men for whom we vote can become almost as familiar to us as our families, and we choose our candidates confidently, because we know them—thanks to advertising media.

Without newspapers and magazines we would have no knowledge of important events which take place half-a-block or half-a-continent from our homes. Newspapers, often sold for less than the cost of the paper and ink, can give us facts from all over the world in a matter of hours. Magazines, published at a more leisurely pace, but still supported by their advertising pages, can utilize their staffs and freelance writers to find "the long-range trends, or to explore subjects which will interest and teach their readers. Advertising has been strongly criticized, and sometimes weakly defended. Perhaps the greatest commentary on advertising as a force for democracy is that there is no advertising industry behind the Iron Curtain.

Dictators have much to hide—and nothing to advertise.

She noticed the house afire about 9:30 a. m. but it was too late to save any of its contents. The hired hand lost all of his personal belongings and furnish-ings, most of which belonged to the Pooles. The house carried no insurance, Mrs. Poole said. The Dougherty couple are taking this means of thanking the fireboys of Floydada and their neighbors for their interest and help in fighting the fire.

Electric lighting gives a farm an atmosphere of friendly hospitality and comfort and pays dividends in more enjoyable living. What's more, good lighting on the farm is of great practical value. In the home, for example, better light for reading, sewing, studying and household tasks aids vision safeguards precious eyesight. Also, a well-lighted home lessens the danger of accidents and it is easier to keep clean. In addition to lamps for lighting, many special lamps are available that have special uses on the farm. Infrared heat lamps are used for brooding chicks and pigs and warming cold motors and thawing frozen pipes in the winter. Germicidal lamps help combat harmful mercury bacteria, etc. The new mercury-vapor yard lights provide a well-lighted yard and discourages thieves and prowlers.
DUST ROBS THE LIGHT:
Dust can rob you of light you are actually paying for. If dust is allowed to collect on lamp bulbs, diffusing bowls or shades, it can shut out considerable light. So it is economy, as well as good housekeeping, to dust lamps and fixtures as you do furniture. When bulbs and bowls need washing, as they do when a greasy film has collected and attracted dust, turn the switch off and remove from the fixture of the lamp. Then wash like any glass ware. Bulbs and fluorescent tubes should not be immersed in water but should be cleaned when they are cool with a damp soapy cloth and then wiped dry. Make sure they are dry and that your hands are dry before you replace them.

When the bulbs or tubes are dark looking after they have been cleaned, they are deteriorating and need to be replaced. Other-wise, you are paying for light you are not getting.
Dispose of old bulbs carefully so they will not be broken and will not be a hazard to children especially. Besides the danger of cuts from broken glass there is chance of harm from materials used inside some fluorescent tubes.

An unofficial representative of the overlooked set sat on the curb one day last week facing the schoolhouse across the street. Next to him stood a little red wagon on which had evidently been overhauled by the older children during the summer, with an improvised wagon bed made from an old orange crate. On one side were scrawled the words, "Jim and Bill." A small dog nearby reflected his master's listless mood. The youngster, about three years old, was leaning through an upside-down comic book which he substituted for the school books on "Love Thy Neighbor" after which Mrs. Jean Law read the Calendar of Prayer.

Gifts of Love that could be put beside the empty packages were spoken of by Mrs. Willie Brunch, "The Bible," Mrs. Russell Strain, "History," Mrs. Charles Craig, "Money" and Mrs. Joe McBrien, "Service". Wheat Production
Wheat baking quality premiums are a part of 1962 Loan Program. This is a new feature in the program that farmers and elevator operators should consider.

The Government has announced that premiums for gluten "strength" quality in hard red winter wheat will be used for loans on 1962 wheat.

This is done to encourage farmers to raise more of the quality wheat used for commercial bread bakers and to cut down on those of "weaker" baking qualities.

Weather, soil fertility and moisture can affect quality of wheat as well as the variety planted. Under irrigation, it is very important that proper fertility be maintained so that good quality wheat can be produced.

Below are listed the varieties of wheat and their baking quality or gluten strength:

- Group 1. High quality - Aztek, Comanche, Tascosa, Kaw;
- Group 2. High quality under most conditions - Ponca, Concho, Crockett, Westar;
- Group 3. Acceptable when produced under good conditions - Wichita, Triumph.

All of the wheat that is put in the loan will be tested for protein and bread making qualities.

Grain Sorghum
Sorghum Midge is an insect that is causing some intensive damage in parts of Floyd County. The adult midge is an orange-colored fly, about 1/8 inch long. It overwinters as larval in the seed husk of sorghum grass, Sudan grass, roll grass, Johnson grass, and probably some wild grasses.

The adult emerges in the spring half about the time that Johnson grass begins to bloom in Johnson grass. The adult midges may be noticed on heads, from just after boot to bloom. The eggs hatch and the larval or maggot feeds on the internal content of the seed.

It requires about 14 to 16 days to complete a life cycle and the female usually does not live much longer than a day.

The adults usually are more noticeable during early morning when they crawl over the developing grain heads. Infected sorghum heads appear blighted or blasted.

Control of this insect with insecticides is very critical in time wheat used for application - insecticides must be applied before the female lay their eggs. This could be from just after boot until blooming.

Early planted grain sorghums usually have less damage than late planted sorghums.

This will be an insect to watch for in succeeding years.

Swine and Cholera
Hog cholera causes more death than any other swine disease. It is one of the easiest to contain. Several herds have had the disease and suffered heavy losses. If you have hogs and they are not vaccinated it may pay you dividends to start a control program as Hog Cholera tends to spread over an area.

The Cholera virus can be spread by birds, animals, and humans, so certainly no particular area is isolated enough to be immune.

Store Summer Clothes Properly
Right storage will increase the life of your summer clothing and make garments more wearable next season. Take time to sort taking the 8th graders from Spur and store garments carefully as you "take them out of circulation" for a season. Here are some suggestions that will help protect your wardrobe. Mend any ripped seams, tears loose buttons or other damage. A few stitches can lengthen the life of the garment.

Wash or dry clean all clothing before storing.
Store clothes of cotton and linens unironed. Make certain that all starch is removed. It can cause fabric to deteriorate and may attract silverfish.
Dry garments thoroughly and store them in a dry place to prevent mildew.
Store clothing in large boxes or trunks to make room in closets for fall and winter things.
Don't Feed the Garbage Can
Is your garbage can a heavy eater? How much does it cost to feed it for a year?

The four common causes of food waste in the home are: lack of good planning and buying which result in overbuying, poor preparation and serving of food, poor use of leftovers, and improper practices of preservation and storage.
What to do about them? Plan your buying and preserving so that food can be used or stored promptly before it loses freshness or flavor or spoils.
Serve food when it reaches the just right stage. It loses texture, flavor and food value if overcooked or if it stands too long before it is served. Use leftovers promptly in soups, salads, stews or sandwiches. Keep all food clean, cool and covered until you use it; check food often and keep it moving.

Suggestions for planning meals: buying, preparing, serving and preserving foods are given in the Extension Bulletin, "Eat Well For Less." You can get a free copy from my office.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — Hurricane Carla had this year for windstorm and rain its impact on the State Capitol, damage in the seacoast territory. But not like it did on the coast, will have substantial losses to pay. Refugees camped on the Cap above their income from this itol grounds the first night of the source.

MORE SALES TAX RULINGS — Comptroller Robert S. Calvert reached Austin. Several giant is still issuing rulings on how the trees on the Capitol grounds were new state sales tax applies to blown down, and the Board of specific sales situations.

State officials were busy too. New ruling declares that the Gov. Price Daniel's on-the-scene repairman is the consumer of the inspections led to several coast-tangible personal property which ter areas. Thus they became elig- ble for Federal aid.

State Insurance Chairman Thomas Ferguson announced that several hundred insurance adjust- ers had moved into the coastal areas to begin estimating dam- ages to insured properties.

So far no one had any estimate of the total damage Carla did to Texas.

One sure thing is that insur- ance companies, which had taken in about $15,000,000 in premiums with no exemptions. Major item for the special ses- sion is the enactment of legis- lation to license lenders and reg- ular of the sales tax, and substi- tution of an income tax which he said "you pay just once a year, instead of 15 times a day."

WHAT'S A FARM TRAILER? The new revision of the law which used to exempt farm trail- ers from license fees has lots of people in a swivet. The law was revised twice during the spring sessions of the Legislature. Governor Daniel vetoed the first bill by Rep. Grainger McElhany, which was passed again in modified form.

It now requires owners of oil-well servicing and drilling equipment to have license plates if they are to be moved over the highways.

Oilfield servicing companies brought suit to set aside this interpretation of the law. License plates based on weight, would be staggering, they claim as they maintain that the legislature did not mean to tax them when it wrote in an exemption for the water well drillers.

Rural legislators report some farmers aren't happy about hav- ing to pay $5 to be exempt.

CLUB TAX REVENUE HEAVY — Another new act on the legis- lature which took effect Sept. 1 levied a tax and license require- ments on the "private clubs" where mixed drinks are served.

Texas Liquor Control Board has little idea how many such clubs there are, and how many mem- bers they had. In the first two weeks, the license-fee receipts at the Liquor Board came to $420,000, and returns are still coming in.

This would indicate a private-club membership of about 210,000, since the tax is approximat- ily $2 per member per year. Clubs operated by veterans organiza- tions and fraternal organiza- tions are exempt from the tax and license requirements.

The new law was pushed by the hotel and restaurant people who wanted to get the private clubs legalized and out of the ex- no-man's land where they have been operating for several years.

Regulations require them to have food available to serve their mem- bers and guests in order to be eligible for a license.

MORE ELECTIONS — Special elections will have to be held in Bexar, Grayson-Cooke, Galveston and Potter counties to fill vac- ancies before Governor Daniel can bring the Legislature back into the special session he plans for it this fall. If he sets the special session for late October, or early November, as many think he will, the elections will have to be called soon, to have the new lawmakers ready to go to work when the session opens.

Senators Preston Smith of Lub- bock, Crawford Martin of Hill- boro, Robert Baker of Dallas and Speaker James A. Turman of Geber are among the officehold- ers considered likely to run for lieutenant governor.

Don Yarbrough of Houston, who gave Ramsey his closest race- expected to run.

Maury Maverick Jr. of San Antonio is another potential candidate year-end report of Comptroller Calvert gives Texans an idea of how big their state government has become.

During the state fiscal year which ended Aug. 31, the state government took in $1,210,107,355 and spent $1,192,509,099. Of the spending $370,000,000 went for high- ways, $463,000,000 for education and $183,000,000 for public welfare.

Those three big items total $1,000,000,000, leaving less than $90,000,000 for all other activities of state government, including the executive department, the courts, the legislature, safety, health state mental hospitals and cor- rectional institutions.

The figure on state spending will be substantially larger this year, mainly because of the in- creases in the school-aid pro- gram and the improvements in higher education. Biggest source of state money is Federal grants for highways, education, welfare, game and fish, health and other programs. They add up to $288,000,000 a year. The new re- tail sales tax will be the third biggest source of money this year. It is estimated to bring in about $150,000,000, which will put it ahead of the oil production tax, the present third-place source of money at $122,000,000 a year, but still behind the motor fuel sales tax, which brought in $177,000,000.

NEW OIL POLICY MAKER — Lieut. Gov. Ben Ramsey became Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey in ceremonies Monday, and went right to work at the state- wide oil prororation hearing held Tuesday.

Ramsey leaves behind a record that probably will never be broken — election to six terms as lieutenant governor. Some earlier holders of that office had won as many as three terms, but there had been few of them.

Ramsey's salary goes up from $4800 a year and an apartment in the Capitol to $17,000 a year, but he will have to pay his own rent.

Senator Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi assumes the duties of lieutenant governor until the special session opens. Then the Senate will choose another senator to preside over its meetings. Choice lies between Senators Culp Krueger of El Campo, Charles Herring of Austin and Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio. All three came to the Senate on the same day in 1957.

GUSTA LEE WILLIAMS

CELIBACY AND SERVING GOD

Some would teach that in order to serve God in a most holy way, it is desirable or even necessary to refrain from marriage. Scow of chastity, poverty, and obedience are taken by some who enter an order and wear robes. In the New Testament, we find a description of the early church but no hint is given that the apostles taught any such doctrine. Peter and the other apostles were married men (I Cor. 9:5). Paul, the unmarried apostle, recognized the biological necessity of marriage for most men, though not for himself (I Cor. 7:7-9). He said "Because of fornication, let each man have his own wife, and let each woman have her own husband" (I Cor. 7:2). Paul advised postponing marriage only for the time of "distress that is upon us" (of persecution) (I Cor. 7:26). He explained that a woman could serve God better during times of persecution without the added obligation of married life (I Cor. 7:25-40). Paul saw no peculiar holiness to celibacy. For him marriage was holy (Eph. 5:22-33).
God provided marriage in the beginning because, "It is not good that man should be alone" (Gen. 2:18). God's ideal career for the Christian woman is, "That the younger widows (women) marry, bear children, rule the household give no occasion to the adversary for reviling" (Tim. 5:14).
Marriage is an absolute requirement for those men who serve in Christ's church as elders and deacons. They must be fathers of well-behaved children. "If a man knoweth not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?" (I Tim. 3:5).
Of course, marriage is not required of any Christian who does not wish to marry. A single person may serve God faithfully in many ways but cannot qualify as an elder or a deacon.
Anyone who encourages and requires Christians to abstain from marriage and builds an order out of such persons as teaching some thing unauthorized by God's word. In fact, the Scriptures state plainly that teachers of false doctrines shall arise forbidding marriage and the eating of meat (I Tim. 4:3).
God's ideal career for the Christian woman is that of the good wife and mother (I Tim. 5:14). Let us honor all those faithful women who are serving God in the way that He has directed.

Wednesday: Pinto Beans with Ham, Asparagus with Cream Sauce, Lettuce Wedge with French Dressing, Hot Cornbread with butter, Peanut butter Date Cake, 1/2 pint milk.
Thursday: Hamburgers, Lettuce, Tomato, onion, dill pickles, potato salad, Apple cobbler, chocolate or plain milk.
Friday: Chicken fried steak with cream gravy, creamed potatoes, green beans, tomato wedge, Yeast Baking Powder Biscuits with butter, fruit jello, 1/2 pint milk.
