Hesperian Editorials

The Miracle Of Rain And Snow

In this irrigated section of the great state of Texas, it is very easy to become farm-sufficient on irrigation wells . . . and take the good Lord's snow and rain for granted.

Snow fall not only benefits the farmer with moisture, but brings much nitrogen into the soil.

Although man has made amazing scientific achievements, Nature still puts on the greatest show on earth and exhibits miracles, every day, which put man's best efforts to shame.

Some people fail to recognize the miracles which occur around them every day, for example, take the occurrence of rain, upon which event the hopes of millions of farmers, and others, are hinged.

A farmer, with a hundred acres of planted crops, must have, of all things, a plentiful supply of water. If he receives a rainfall of one inch, which often occurs during the planting season, nature has dropped 2,714,300 gallons of water on his crops. And Nature can accomplish this in just a few minutes.

Scientists, who attempt to compute the tremendous forces involved in such an operation as a heavy rain, are constantly amazed at the power of Nature and the ease and gentleness which she usually does her job. If the reader will think about it, he too will be constantly amazed at the miracles which take place about him every day, which are accepted as common-place occurrences.

Business Bust

The fear that we were heading into a recession — a lively topic and even conviction among many economists just a few months ago — is almost completely dissipated today.

The majority opinion is now that we are headed for neither a boom or bust in 1963. On the other hand, if Congress passes a tax decrease of the size President John F. Kennedy has recommended, business may move up smartly in the next two years.

This possibility may be one of the big reasons the stock market has recovered much of its steam in recent weeks and months. Whatever the reason the economic outlook at the moment is not bleak. Business in the last two months was better than had been predicted in most lines and the recession which a majority of economists were predicting in August and September is not developing.

For this we can all be thankful. In the long run under the Kennedy Administration philosophy, business should expand and economic progress should be achieved, even though the dollar may lose even more of its strength in the process. Inflation is the prospect over a period of years, not deflation.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Union Bigger Than Government

An old saying tells us that the best things sometimes come in small packages.

That can be applied to a four-line editorial which appeared in a recent issue of Editor & Publisher, under the apt title "Power."

Here it is: "Congress couldn't do it. The President of the United States couldn't do it. Even the courts can't do it. Only a striking union abetted by other unions can close the newspapers in the nation's largest city, not to mention the newspapers in the nation's eighth largest city."

The New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes prove once again, that unions have achieved a monopoly power that cannot be countenanced in a free nation. The strikes were conducted at a tremendous cost to the publishers — some of whom were finding the going rough at best — and to merchants and others who pointed on newspaper advertising to spur their all-important holiday trade. They deprived millions of people access to news coverage that newspapers and newspapers alone can give. Efforts by government arbitrators and others to find avenues to a fair settlement of differences were arrogantly rebuffed.

This was power — naked power, that demonstrated contempt for the public interest. And it is the kind of power no nation can afford if it is to survive in freedom.

WINTER! THE NORTH WIND DOTH BLOW . . . and we shall have snow!

Freezing temperatures, snow, and cold winds demonstrate the need for an electric clothes dryer. Supporting Your Town

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers Magazine, as it might give you a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building your town.

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned; if you do not use more than a two line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live wide-awake advertising business man."

SOCIETY

A GRIPPING MOMENT of decision is faced by actors (l to r) Edward Waddy, Derrick Sherwin, Carol Marsh and George Cormack in the drama "Music at Midnight" scheduled for one performance in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium, Tuesday, February 19. The play, co-starring Nora Swinburne and Walter Fitzgerald, has been brought direct from London for its current American tour.

Drama "Music At Midnight" To Be Presented Feb. 19

"Music at Midnight", an intensely moving drama which played over 200 performances in London, will be presented in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium Tuesday, February 19 at 8 p.m. One performance only is scheduled. A story of twenty-four hours of political and personal action on both sides of an "iron curtain" is presented with telling force by an outstanding cast of British actors headed by Nora Swinburne and Walter Fitzgerald, both well known to American audiences through their many appearances on Broadway and in films.

The handsome production, flown directly from England for its American tour, premiered in Los Angeles last month. It was met immediately with enthusiastic acclaim from critic and audience alike and drew an opening night attendance the likes of which hadn't been seen since the glamorous days of early movie premieres. Great names of industry, civic affairs, society and cinema had rubbed shoulders with the theatrical public and all responded with accolades to the play's excellence. At a subsequent performance in Palm Springs, the cast was honored by the presence of General and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"Music at Midnight" was written by one of England's best known playwrights, Peter Howard. Until a few years ago, he was considered the most influential political writer on the London Daily Express. Appalled by the lack of awareness and indifference which historically leads to the decline and fall of nations, Howard turned his writing talents to politically inspired dramas. He determined to demonstrate that heroes are men and women of today as they have been for centuries and to urge action and resistance to decadence and defeat, even as people of all suppressed nations are doing now behind the iron and silk curtains which imprison them. It is a powerful, captive drama played in the finest tradition of theatre at its best.

Tickets for "Music at Midnight" can be obtained by mail from Lubbock Municipal Auditorium, P. O. Box 5101 and are priced at $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, and $5.00. Make checks payable to "Music at Midnight" and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for the return of tickets.

Each member was given an envelope in which a secret pledge of weight to be lost by the Thursday before Easter and $1.00 was sealed in. On that night the envelopes will be opened by the weight recorder. If the pledge was met and the weight lost the $1 will be returned. If not it will go into the chapter fund. After the conducting of business a five minute period of exercise was held. The meeting was adjourned with the following thought for the week.

What are your cotton needs?
I am representing Lubbock cotton which has produced the best cotton in the world.

CHEVROLET TRUCK QUALITY
You can see the difference wherever you look
If you believe various makes of trucks are pretty much alike, you aren't doing justice to your pocketbook. There are differences.
A Chevrolet truck welcomes comparison. Look at the little things on it—latches, hinges, stitching in the upholstery. Notice how strong the tailgate is, the rubber encased chains that keep it from sagging.
The body floor is made of select wood to eliminate the rust problem and give you better footing. The lower side panels are double-walled; you might dent the inside but it won't show through.
Chevrolet designs suspension systems to fit your need. The light-duty type is strong on comfort. Another kind for heavier trucks stiffens up as you increase your load and vice versa. Make sense?
If you are going to need a new truck this year, you should look at the quality Chevrolet has to offer. May we bring over a new '63 so you can examine it?

Dougherty Homecoming Plans Are Progressing

Plans for the Dougherty Community Homecoming are progressing by enthusiastic leaps and bounds. Interest is high among the local residents, and well over 200 letters will be going out to out-of-county ex-students within the next two weeks. Local residents and former residents should keep an eye out for further information in the Hesperian.

Response from the first Hesperian article has led to several additional contacts of ex-students. In this issue we would like to give the final list of names the committee needs to locate. If you know the present address of any of the following, will you please call either Roy Crawford, YU-2792 or Ruth McIntosh, YU-3658.

Inflation can be whipped if all of us buy only for cash.

Parallel Terraces Conserve Moisture, Prevent Point Rows

By Joe McEntire
Work Unit Conservationist

A new conservation practice for the Floyd County Soil Conservation District has been laid out on the Walton B. Wilson farm in the Fairview Community. It is a parallel terrace system using the standard size level-closed end terraces but each terrace is parallel to the one above it. This type of layout enables the farmer to prepare his land without having point rows which is objectionable to a lot of farmers, especially when their cropping systems includes row crops. While a parallel terrace system is not adaptable on all fields there are quite a few in Floyd County where a system of this type can be installed.

The system on Mr. Wilson's farm is for moisture conservation and is designed so that dryland leveling may be carried out at a later date. Dryland leveling carried out on terraced fields in Floyd County showed from moisture penetration checks during the month of December to have 100 percent more soil moisture than adjoining areas on which this practice was not carried out. A comparison in depth of moisture showed the dryland leveled area to have good soil moisture to a depth of 44 inches and the unleveled areas adjoining in the same field to have only 22 inches of soil moisture. This could mean the difference between a wheat crop and failure on dryland areas.

All terrace systems on slopes of less than one foot fall per hundred feet can be designed to include dryland leveling. Cost share is available under the Great Plains Conservation Program and the Agriculture Conservation Program for this practice. Your local Soil Conservation Service technicians will be glad to assist you in planning a terrace system on your dryland crop land.

Better Erosion Control

By Truman Gregory
Soil Conservationist

Erosion control is the basis of sustained high production of all crops. Together with soil management and mechanical practices we can hold our losses from erosion to a minimum.

The value of level closed-end terraces on dryland with less than one foot fall per 100 feet has been proven by the Spur Experiment Station. From tests conducted over a 23 year period on cotton land they have found that the increased returns from level closed-end terraces amounted to more than $15.00 per acre per year for the 23-year period. Results from other research show that farming operations on terraced land are no more expensive than rows running straight down the slope.

Soil Conservation Service Technicians state that most hardland soils in the Floyd County Soil Conservation District take water at the rate of one-fourth inch per hour. This is considered a very slow intake rate as compared to sandy soils which take water in excess of three inches per hour. When hardland soil reaches its moisture holding capacity the remainder runs off and is lost unless a structure is placed on the land to hold the water, giving it more time to soak down. Level closed-end terraces can mean the difference between no crop at all and a fairly good crop in a year of low rainfall.

Many farmers are becoming alarmed since gullies are beginning to appear on their farms. Not all terraces have to be built at one time. By starting at the top of the slope the farmer can install one or more terraces as he is financially able. Dryland farmers are encouraged to make plans to terrace their land now. According to Pat Frizzell, who operates a dryland farm south-east of Lockney, his terraces more than paid for all construction costs the first year.

Bad Soil Washes Controlled

By Lewis McQuiston
Soil Conservationist

Milton Harrison, a Floyd County Soil Conservation District co-operator since 1945, recently bought a farm just east of Floydada. The farm had several bad "washes" developing on a steep slope. His first idea was to install a diversion terrace to intercept runoff water from above this area. He contacted the Soil Conservation Service, and after looking closer at the problem, SCS technicians pointed out some advantages of a complete system of standard terraces. One diversion would help the situation but would require a grassed waterway. It would take a year to get a waterway established before the diversion could be built. That would allow another year of costly erosion. Standard terraces would not need a waterway and could be installed as soon as the cotton came off.

With our predominately tight soils, moisture penetration is a problem. For that reason, it's a good idea to keep rainfall on the land as long as possible to allow more time for water intake. Level, closed-end terraces do just that. They are level from end to end and are partially blocked on each end to hold about 8 to 10 inches of water before it runs around the block.

These things were considered along with other alternatives and Mr. Harrison liked the idea. The Great Plains Conservation Program was discussed and cost share considered. To enter into the program, a complete conservation program would be to including a conservation system, contour farming and crop residue management. He was already planning these things so a contract developed.

The terraces were completed last week and are easily seen from the highway 2 miles from Floydada.

Another system of terracing have recently been completed on Leon Elliot in the north-east of the county.

Construction of level closed-end terraces on Milton Harrison farm east of Floydada with maintainer. Wide bases for these terraces will enable use of 4 row equipment after terraces have settled.

Contractor Kenneth Bishop and Soil Conservation technician, Fay Gooch inspect completed terrace on Milton Harrison farm east of Floydada.

Terrace systems may be constructed with an elevating terracing machine as shown in this picture. Level closed-end terraces constructed in the Floyd County Soil Conservation District are wide enough that four row equipment may be operated on them without slippage after the terraces have had a chance to settle.

Terraces on dry and with crops on the contour. These terraces were installed for erosion control and moisture conservation. Cost-share for the installation of the terraces under Great Plains Conservation Program administered by the Soil Conservation Service was $2.10 per hundred feet.

and accepted the Green's invitation to spend the night.
Several other vehicles were stalled Sunday night but it seems all passengers made it to shelter. Three cars and two trucks were stalled during the night east of town on the Maador highway and had to be towed in the following morning as did many others both north and south.
Family Marooned
After being marooned practically the entire night Sunday the Manuel Vallejo family, who is employed by Gerald Lackey at Cedar Hill, and Greer Lackey, have realized no ill effects from their experiences.
The snowbound group was rescued about 9:30 Monday morning, a little frightened and hungry but otherwise unharmed.
In talking with Greer Monday he told the following story to a Hesperian reporter:
"The Manuel Vallejo family, consisting of the husband, the wife, who is expecting a baby sometime next month and four children had come into Floydada over the weekend to visit with Mrs. Vallejo's parents. The family, all but one boy, who spent the night with his grandparents, started for their home in Cedar Hill about 9:30 Sunday night. A short distance from the Greer Lackey home, about midnight, during the blinding snowstorm, the Vallejo car skidded into a ditch breaking an axle. Manuel labored in trying to free the car but finally walked to the Greer Lackey home for assistance.
Greer said Manuel woke him about 2:15 a. m. Getting on his two way radio to Gerald Lackey, Greer asked him if it were possible to get the Vallejo family to their home by pick-up by another route. Gerald told him he thought it was if they came the east route.
After the Vallejo family rested a bit and warmed they went with Greer in his pickup for the trip home, approximately two and one-half miles.
After leaving the highway and turning the corner Greer said there appeared to be little snow but traveling about the length of a telephone pole the pick-up hit snow which measured on the level about 30 inches deep. Greer said "I know it was every bit five inches and the snow reached my knees".
The pick-up became stalled about 3 o'clock Monday morning. Greer said he was able to keep in touch with his wife and also with Gerald Lackey by his two-way radio. He informed them they were all in the pick-up with motor running and plenty of ventilation. He felt the two-way radio hookup possibly saved others from getting out a search party for the stranded group.

Greer said he would report in to his wife at intervals, then to Gerald.
With three adults, one expectant mother, and three children, ages ranging from two to five, the cab of the pickup was packed. The group had two blankets for protection and Greer said the gas tank on the pickup was full so he had no worry of getting cold. One of the youngsters became ill a brief time from carbon monoxide, it was thought, but the window was lowered more and he suffered no additional sickness.
The youngest of the children is still nursing a bottle, Greer said and she became fretful before morning, with no bottle, which was left in the Vallejo car earlier. Greer said he found a small amount of candy in the pickup which had been left there by his children and this was divided with the Vallejo children and the mother.
Greer said he felt like he could have walked out and made it home on foot, but he knew the children and Mrs. Vallejo couldn't and he was afraid to leave them alone, so he had no choice but to stay with the family.
As soon as day broke Gerald proceeded to get assistance for the marooned group. Bud Doss, who lives about four and one-half miles from the stranded pickup, started out with a maintainer to rescue the party, but about two and one-half miles from his house the maintainer became stalled.
In the meantime word of the stranded group had reached the Cedar Hill store. There a Flash O-Gas truck out of Lockney was unloading butane. The driver, along with Gerald in a pick-up, got through to the Vallejo family and Greer, by going through the Lackey field.
Both truck and pickup tied on to the stalled vehicle and started owing. The pickup being pulled went into a ditch and stalled again. Finally the weary group gave up, loaded the stranded family into Gerald's pickup and took them to the Lackey home where they were cared for.
Later in the day Greer's pick-up was pulled to safety by a maintainer driven by S. Yearoy of Cedar Hill.

ANOTHER important week begins Sunday as the Future Farmers of America observe their special week on a statewide basis.
Gerald Thompson and the FFA boys were really painting up their welcome sign out in front of our house the other day and doing a good job. We noticed that sign of welcome when we were considering moving to Floydada and we like to see it kept bright and newly painted for the newcomer and the tourist. Our best wishes go with the FFA boys for a job well done on this and many other worthy projects.

with the group's being able to obtain changes which resulted in restoring farm income through the 9 cent per hundred increase in price support which was announced by Secretary Freeman on December 10, 1962. In reporting this, Nolan Chandler, Agricultural Assistant of GSPA, went on to point out that the Association is carrying on vigorous programs both at home and abroad leading to more orderly expansion of grain sorghum's use and availability. He mentioned specific examples of needed attention if additional markets are to be had in the Arizona-California cattle feeding area, and the vast poultry feeding district of the Southeast United States.
Tom Hutchings of the local ASC office was present and gave a detailed explanation of the new grain program for '63 pointing out that the program differed from the one in '62 in that the maximum payment was on the 20 per cent reduction in acreage instead of the 40 per cent.
Other officers of the Floyd County group for 1963 elected at the meeting are Joe Foster of Lockney, vice-president and J. K. West, of Floydada, Secretary-Treasurer.

H. Newton Explains Sorghum Midge And Boll Weevil Control

Presented the following slides along with slides and a color film showing the life history of the sorghum midge. The midge is a small fly, about 1/8 inch long, with a dark body and long legs. It is found in the grain heads of sorghum. The midge lays its eggs in the grain heads, and the eggs hatch into larvae. The larvae feed on the grain, and the midge returns to the grain heads to lay more eggs. The midge is a major pest of sorghum, and its control is essential for a successful crop. H. Newton, a specialist in entomology, explained the life history of the midge and the methods of control. He said that the midge is most active during the summer months, and that the best time to control it is when the grain heads are beginning to form. He recommended the use of insecticides and the removal of infested grain heads as the most effective methods of control.

infestation to check and see if the weevils had survived the recent extreme cold. In answers to questions he said that the weevil migrates by flying. He also said that indications were that sorghum midge overwintered in grain sorghum heads and in weeds and trash. After reviewing the life history of the midge, it will be easier to understand our current recommendations for sorghum midge control. The midge population increases rapidly during the summer and heavy populations may be present in August and September. If grain sorghum is planted at a time so that blooming is completed by the middle of July (this would mean planting by May 15 for the more common hybrids), midge infestation should be considerably less than in later crops. Also, uniformity of planting time over an area is important. In general, most farmers who are planting grain sorghum as the first choice will play pretty close to the same time. Perhaps other farmers will plant grain sorghum as a last resort after losing two or three stands of cotton. This crop will be considerably later than the majority in his area, and this farmer is just inviting severe midge infestations since emerging adults from several scattered, earlier fields may converge upon his field and become locally heavy in his particular field. Since we do not know, at the present time, an accurate method of predicting midge populations, a spray program must be of a preventive nature. The 2 or 3 dollar per acre cost of an insecticide application would be money well spent to prevent midge damage. Timing of application is critical, however. The materials must be applied no later than 4 days following the emergence of 90 per cent of the heads from the boot. One day following this degree of emergence would actually be more effective. Sprays control only the adult midges and the eggs are deposited. If you have had midge damage in previous years, it will probably be good insurance to make a preventive application of insecticide at the critical time. We do not know for certain whether midges overwinter in large numbers in this area. We suspect that at least a small number is capable of overwintering. One theory that has been promoted is that midges are blown in from more southerly areas by the prevailing winds. This seems rather unlikely since the females seldom live more than one day and the males only a few hours. A more satisfactory explanation, considering the possibility that they do not overwinter, is that they "hedge-hop" from one field to another since they normally become active earlier farther south. With each generation the adults fly short distances to later planted fields farther to the north, and by August they may be to the top of the Panhandle. This is why we say that earlier planted crops can be expected to suffer less damage. Presently recommended materials include endrin, toxaphene, and Sevin MP-339, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Grain and Forage Crops," lists these materials and the rates at which they should be applied. Restrictions and cautions regarding the use of these materials is also given in this publication.

Farmers Union President Likes Farm Message; Dislikes Cotton Proposal

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman applauded the general principles and objectives sought by the President in his farm message, but expressed disagreement with one of the specific proposals concerning cotton.

In commenting on the President's program, Naman said,

"The President's farm message shows that this administration continues to manifest understanding of the problems facing the nation's farmers, and concern for the solution of these problems. To back this up, the President is proposing a positive program for dairy and feed grains; and, he is exerting the influence of his office in an appeal to wheat growers to accept the certificate plan for wheat in the spring referendum."

"We support the President in his efforts to relieve the situation which now faces the domestic cotton mills, and certainly agree that a trade incentive should be provided to equalize the price between the domestic and foreign cotton mills, and give them the opportunity to compete effectively with foreign textiles. By enabling domestic mills to buy our cotton as cheap as their foreign competitors, more U. S. cotton will be used domestically, and at the same time a healthy textile industry will provide an impetus to the sagging economy in the textile manufacturing areas."

"The great majority of cotton farmers in Texas do not want any legislation providing for a choice or election by the farmer to exceed his allotted acres. They realize that although the farmers who plant the excess, pay the penalty in the amount of the export subsidy and must depend on the world market for the sale of this cotton, it still amounts to additional cotton available for sale. Whether it is in farmers' hands or the government's, it still is more cotton than the market needs, and it will still affect carryover, which in turn depresses prices and necessitates acreage reductions."

"We do not feel that any type of 'choice' plan or other legislation allowing cotton acreage beyond the present allotments is sound. We know that in the long run any benefits which might derive to growers who take advantage of such a plan will have to be paid for by the growers who plant within their allotments. The growers in Texas and the other traditional growing areas will suffer the acreage and price support reductions that will unavoidably result from any cotton produced from additional acres."

"Of course, the growers of the reclamation areas of the western states want the opportunity to grow more cotton. Indeed, they would like to establish a larger permanent allotment. But, until the utilization of cotton is expanded, allowing an outlet for more cotton at a profitable price to the producer, any expansion of the acreage in these areas will necessarily work a hardship to and will be made at the expense of growers in the traditional cotton producing areas."

Chivalry's not dead yet! Bonnie Helms, FFA president, is being shown that there are still a few gentlemen around as Allan Adams, 1963 beau, offers to open the door for her.

Homemakers Choose Allan Adams 1963 FFA Beau

Floydada Future Homemakers of America have chosen Allan Adams, senior, as 1963 beau. Their "dream man" is 18 years old and 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 162 pounds, has blue eyes and light brown hair. Recipient of the "Fighting Whirlwind" award this year in football, Allan is active in Future Farmers of America. He is treasurer and has been on the junior chapter conducting team one year and senior chapter two years.

Mr. Miss FHS Call For Run-Off Election

Run-offs were needed for the highest honors in the school, Mr. and Miss Floydada High School. Results of the popular vote will not be revealed until the annual is distributed in May. Darryl Lindsey and Fred Thayer, and Rita Colley and Janice Trapp were in the run-off's for the titles.

"I like to build model cars because it is relaxing and gives me time to think," the manly boy said. He said he thinks a friend should be friendly, courteous, and nice to everyone in general. And those traits seem to fit Allan himself. Perhaps that is why he was elected FFA beau.

Spellers Get Set For Competition

One hundred and twenty words will be given at the district spelling contest. Rate will be six words per minute. The papers will be graded not only on spelling but also handwriting. Three spellers trying out are Janice Trapp, Billy Stanforth, Daniel Padilla, and JoAnn Jameson. They meet each day for practice in Mr. Charles Baumgardner's room. Words will be taken from the League spelling lists and seventh and eighth grade State adopted textbooks. Two of the spellers will be chosen as district spellers. The third person will be alternate.

Love Is A Sacred Thing

A time and a place for everything and affection should not be openly exhibited. The majority of us teen agers know it is wrong to show affection in public—here at school, on the drag, in church, at the drive-in or movies, at sports events, or on school sponsored trips. A minority degrade and disgrace us by imitating the lovers they see and read about, primarily to prove they are grown up, masculine, popular, sociable, or glamorous. Many cheap, sexy books, magazines, and movies have caused some teenagers to form the wrong concepts of right and wrong. Love and marriage are sacred, pure, and clean. And the Bible is very explicit about the limits we are to go with our affections in our before-and-after marriage relationships. In FHS, we have so many teenagers from good Christian homes that set good examples in their boy and girl relationships by restraining themselves from too much affection both in public and private. These pure, wholesome students have decency and morals. They are the ones to be honored for standing up for their convictions of right and wrong.

A Forsaken Activity

Every year our school fails to come up with a debate team at the literary meet. Why? Perhaps we are lazy as students, or maybe we excuse ourselves by saying we do not have the time. In a school of 365 students, surely there are two people who are smart enough. Surely we have two intelligent females and two intelligent males to form two teams. Even one team would suffice to get us started in this intelligent pursuit of knowledge. According to the "Interscholastic League" from The University of Texas, debate teaches a person how to reason—just as does science and mathematics. Debate calls for reading, research, and persuasive speaking ability. And debaters must be above average in intelligence. FHS needs debate teams this year more than ever since we will be competing with such strong schools as Canyon and Tulia. First place at the district meet would give us 20 points, the same number as the one-act play contest. Runner-up gets 15 points. The last time we had a debate team was in 1945—13 years ago. The debaters won a first-place trophy for our school. Early-day graduates will tell us debate was important here. Two of our oldest trophies in the trophy case were won by debate teams. To point out that debate is on its rebound in IL events, debate materials in Austin have been exhausted. Interested persons can still order debate kits from Dr. Bower Aiy, Box 5152, University Station, Eugene, Ore. Our speech instructor, Mr. Joe Peterson, wants to have a debate team this year. The subject is: "Resolved that we shall have a common market." Let's revive an important event in our curriculum that has been neglected and forsaken.

Juniors had four, while seniors trailed with three for the third period. For the semester the sophomores had six; juniors, four; seniors, two; and freshmen, two. Ann McIntosh, sophomore, led individually with six A's the third period and semester. Fourteen girls led the boys who had eight for the third period. Eight girls and six boys were on the semester honor list.

Speech Causes Students To Respond By Starting Pen Pal Correspondence

"Communism can be partly stopped in America if the young people will write to a foreign student and explain the United States to them," Dr. Kurt Singer, Southern Assembly lecturer, told the student body earlier this year. He is a noted author of "I Led Three Lives" and is touring the country, warning of the onslaught of Communist infiltration. After his speech at FHS, the Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, and Student Council have been working together to acquire foreign pen pals. One method of corresponding with a foreigner does not cost anything, according to the SC. One does not have his preference as to country, age, or sex, however. An application blank must be secured from a SC representative. Then the blank is to be mailed to this address: People-to-People, Box 1201, Kansas City 41, Missouri. The second plan of obtaining a pen pal costs 25 cents. The student gets his preference of country, age, and sex. Craig Edwards will mail the selection to get the pen pal. The male or female may be from 12 to 24 years of age.

PHSPA Meet Scheduled For March 2 At WT

Journalists converge upon West Texas State College when they meet for the annual Panhandle High School Press Association meeting March 2. Sectional meetings will be held for both newspapers and yearbooks, and trophies and certificates will be given to top papers and annuals. Newspapers will be judged in the classification of printed mimeograph, and community page. Individual contests will include newswriting, editorial, feature, general column, sports column, sports story, and photography. In the individual contests, no more than one entry for each student and no more than five entries for each school may be entered. Each school may submit one candidate, along with his career work and a letter of recommendation from the sponsor, for the Dorinda E. Bond award, which is given each year to "the outstanding journalist of the Panhandle."

Sorry Julian Sponsor 'Goofs'

In the last edition of the Whirl, the eight students making 1963 Who's Who had all their achievements listed with the exception of Bruce Julian. The sponsor of the Whirl was to blame because he wanted the story to be kept secret, and he typed the story himself but forgot to include Bruce. So here are Bruce's achievements.

Speaking Events Are Explained

Many students do not know the difference between extemporaneous and persuasive speaking, and the "Interscholastic League" has compared the two. The newspaper from The University of Texas says, "The major purpose of extemporaneous speaking is to inform, while the persuasive speaking seeks to persuade the audience." Further comparisons are that extemp speaking will generally derive from three basic questions: what, how, and why? These questions help the contestant to prepare a speech, letting people know vital information. Persuasive speaking topics are stated so that the speaker must take a stand for or against a proposition. The student must help the audience form opinions on a certain topic. "Preparation on a speech is very important. Each contestant should hear and watch newscasts on both radio and television. He should read a daily newspaper if possible," the paper emphasized. The two contests are essentially the same, but they are also different. They both use the extemporaneous delivery, and they deal with current events. Students that may be interested in entering these events may contact Mr. Joe Peterson, speech instructor.

Chorus Readies For Contests

Preparations are underway for the Interscholastic League chorus contest March 9 in Lubbock. "Everyone is enjoying the selections that are available this year," Mrs. L. H. Christensen, director, said. Jeanie Jones and Sharon Nelson will compete in the solo competition Feb. 23 at Texas Tech. Mrs. Christensen said all the contest songs are sung in three-part harmony and acapella. The numbers are "Merry as the Bells," a very lively tune by Guinness, "Let us Break Bread Together," and "Glorious Apollo." A more sedate and tuneful piece is "Japanese Lullaby" by Roff. Girls who will participate in the IL contest are Sheila Patterson, Eileen Thrasher, Joyce Noland, Barbara Hunter, Jeanie Jones, Sharon Nelson, Sandra Stapleton, Linda Owens, Jeanette Roddam, Jean Jones, Pat Neff, Nancy Campbell, Linda Duncan, Martha Warren, Linda Robertson, Rose Villarreal, Linda Lewis, Charlotte Pierce, Deliece Gilly, and Nancy Robertson.

LaJuana Rimmer, senior, was in Plainview Hospital last week. An assembly will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. with Dr. Kaye of Lubbock Christian College speaking on communism.

Wanted-A Horse

By JANICE TRAPP
When Sigurd Waage, Norway exchange student, walks down the hall, one hears a jingle, jingle jingle. And the sound is not made by coins in his pockets. Sigurd received some spurs from the Floydada Lions Club recently to wear on his boots. However, he is not completely satisfied because he is unable to move very fast — without a HORSE. Brown, black, white, or spotted it makes no difference to him. He would probably take a common work horse if someone would supply it. No horse to donate? Then why not volunteer yourself for this purpose. After all, Sig needs to experience what many FHS students have never done. Do not tell him this, he thinks every Texan rides horses. Ouch! Sigurd must be practicing on some innocent student again. Someone needs to inform him that he must hang up his spurs until he can practice on a real horse. So come to the aid of the foreign student. Have mercy on fellow classmates, and join the march to acquire a HORSE. No particular qualifications are needed. Contact Fred Thayer or phone Yukon 97321. NOTE — Actually Sigurd really does not want a horse to take home—he wants a fast plane!

SC Makes $444.50 On Money Drives

The Student Council is well on its way to reaching its goal of $650 for next year's foreign exchange student after three successful money-raising campaigns. Main project to finance the second exchange student was the Powder Puff Game that made $250. A car wash brought in $65, and a bake sale netted $64.50. Twirl Week netted $65. Another bake sale Feb. 2 added about $50 to the fund, and another Twirl Week should suffice in reaching the desired goal. First semester projects undertaken were painting the curbs for school, SC leadership assembly, monthly and semester citizenship awards, volleyball tournament, $10 for Olton and Idaloua memorial funds. Also $50 to Mrs. Mather Carr for needy Floydada children; two color days, night bonfire, and car decoration contest; public safety assembly; Thanksgiving assembly; Christmas room decoration contest, collection of clothes and toys for needy, tree for needy family, and assembly; get-well and sympathy card mailing; fire drill; and clean-up project. Also memorial books donated to library; welcoming and thank you letters to opponents during football season; new American flag purchased; new boys' and girls' victory flags; and library scrapbook prepared for this year.

Persistence Necessary In Number Sense

"A person does not have to be a deep thinker but a quick one to be good at number sense. Persistence is the key to be a winner," says Mr. Ira Colley, number sense sponsor. The test is ten minutes in length, and a contestant has only one chance. "One usually has to get a score of 160 at the district and regional meets. At the State contest, one must get better than 300," Mr. Colley added. A typical problem is: (22 x 17) plus (11 x 13). Students who have practiced for the forthcoming district contest include Clinton Fawver, Fred Thayer, Lon Miller, Dennis Deavenport, James Norrell, Dwight Teeple, Jimmy Oden, Kenny Custer, Kenneth Huckabee, Larry Brand, Tommy Watts, and John Calahan. Practice sessions have been held during the noon hour.

Most Okey Recording

"The First Family," Vaughn Meader's Columbia release, has already sold over a million copies in the United States. At the same time it has aroused much controversy. The humorous, satirical record about President John Kennedy, his family, friends, and problems, brought forth different reactions from FHS students. Here are some of their sentiments. LUCY COGDELL—"It was funny when it first came out, but now I am tired of it." ANNA SELLARS—"I think it's corny!" LINDA OWENS—"We should be proud that we have a President that we can poke fun at. Mr. Khruschev?" JIMMY ODEN—"I don't like it because it doesn't make fun of DeGaulle." LANA DAVIS—"It's not very funny after the first time." JAN STANSELL—"It was pretty good, but it's not very funny any more."

Activities Lined Up For Texas History Students

Texas history students will know more about their native state after this semester. Each student is required to give an old legend or folklore about Texas. Many have given oral speeches about the capital building. Others have told about Pecos Bill and heroes of the Lone Star State. Everyone is required to have a Texas road map with him at all times while in class, according to Mrs. Helen Patterson, instructor. Dale West Takes Top Council Without Opposition In Election

For the first time in the Student Council's history, the president's office had only one candidate this year. Dale West, vice-president, will automatically succeed Fred Thayer, present officeholder, as next year's president. Ballots were cast last Thursday in an all-student body election for SC vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Whirl and Whirlwind editors were also decided by popular vote. Ralph Johnston and Vernie Moore were candidates for vice-president with Vernie coming out on top. Lana Davis took the secretary position after defeating Jody Campbell. Nancy Holmes won the treasurer's office with Dorothy Edmiston and Ann McIntosh as her opponents. Vying for Whirl editor were Sue Johnston and Susan Simpson with Simpson winning the position. Jackie Yeary will be next year's Whirlwind editor after being opposed by Phyllis Bradley. Campaign speeches were conducted in assembly last Thursday. Office seekers were limited to three minutes and their campaign managers had the same amount, along with skits, which had to be approved by the SC. No senior holding an office could be a campaign speaker or manager for a person seeking his office this year. All aspirants for office were required to go before a Board of Review to answer questions. Themes and petitions were also required. Newspaper and annual candidates did not have to submit themes. Posters were displayed in the halls and homerooms up to the time of election. Many had the Hesperian print cards to distribute for students to wear, advertising different candidates. Miniature ballots similar to real ballots were printed for students to cast their votes.

They were then officially pronounced Thespians. After the meal the Chef's Special was served. Craig Edwards presented a skit. He portrayed a person singing "Does Your Chewing Gum Lose Its Flavor?"

Floyd Philosopher Finds Something To Worry About In Population Figures For World

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has found a new problem to worry about, his letter this week reveals.

Dear Editor:

I know people are worried about Cuba, Canada, De Gaulle, Russia, China, Congress, etc., but I have run across a problem that worries me more than all these put together.

According to an article I read last night in snatches during television commercials and station breaks, the population of the world will double in the next 40 years. It took from the start of time to 1830 to reach one billion. But it took only 100 years to reach two billion in 1930, and only 30 years to reach three billion, which is what it is now, assuming the count was accurate in the African and Australian brush country and the Siberian prison camps. In other words, the world's population is like the national debt. The bigger it is, the bigger it gets.

Consequently, in a few more years, the world's population will double again, and we'll have six billion people on earth. There's no way of estimating the national debt at that time, but I have confidence it will keep pace.

What worries me about this is another set of statistics. In 1890, if a farmer supported himself, he was considered doing his job satisfactorily, but in 1900, with more people moving to town, he was supporting himself and four city people. By 1963, the thing had got all out of hand and he was raising enough for himself and 23 people in town. Furthermore, as the population increases, the number of farmers decreases, and it doesn't take a mathematical wizard to see what a burden this puts on us farmers.

As I calculate it, in 40 more years, if the trends continue, one farmer will have to produce enough for 46 people in town.

Now you may think what's worrying me about this is that I'll have to work twice as hard to carry my end of the load.

You're wrong. What's worrying me is how those 46 people are going to get by on half of what they're getting now.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Attend Church This Week - Your Church Needs You!

DAVEY AND HIS DOG

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our neighbor has a firm opinion about children and pets: "When a boy is old enough to assume responsibility for the care of a dog, it's time enough for him to have one."

But our Davey is growing up with his dog — his frolicking playmate today, his faithful friend and protector tomorrow.

Our neighbor has an opinion also about children and God: "When my son is able to weigh the claims of religion with a mature mind he can decide for himself whether he wants to go to Church."

What heritage would men have of Truth and Right and Freedom if each generation had not imparted its blessings to the next? It is the faith of our fathers which is ours to cherish, and to teach our children.

Let them grow up with that Christian Faith and it will have its rightful place in their lives.
