

It's Your Opportunity

"Texas Public Schools Week" is your golden opportunity to get a first hand view of the Floydada school system. Doubtless you have heard much about condition of buildings, equipment and facilities in last year... and now you have the opportunity to see the situation. Open house at your schools means you have the opportunity to visit with the school principals, teachers and your children in the place where they spend several hours each day. If you are really interested in Floydada schools... and certainly their future, you'll plan now to visit them next week. Our public schools train the youth of today for citizenship tomorrow... you can see Democracy in action when you visit your schools. Of course your schools are open for your visit any time of the school term, but this is the one time in the year when school teachers and officials are ready to take time out to visit with you about your children's school. Are strangers teaching your children?... this is the opportunity for you to get acquainted with the person who spends almost as much time with your child as you do. A complete listing of the open house schedule is listed in this issue of The Hesperian... make your plans now to visit your school next week!

Area Schools Slate Open House

A week full of activities has been planned by the principals of the various schools around the county for Open House which is held each year during Texas Public Schools Week, March 1-5. The officials at each of the schools in Floydada and in the rural areas urge all the parents in the districts to visit the schools sometime during the week while classes are being conducted and also return for the open house activities that are slated at each of the schools on Thursday, March 4. The rural schools, South Plains, Dougherty and Lakeview have scheduled open house from 2 until 3:30 p.m. Thursday afternoon, at which time the rooms will be opened for touring purposes. The Della Plains, Floydada Junior High School, and Andrews

Ward officials will host their open houses from 2 until 3:30 p.m. also. Classes will be dismissed at all the mentioned schools, plus high school, at 2 p.m. Thursday and no school will be held Friday. The annual Teacher's meeting will be held in Lubbock on that day. At the high school all parents are urged to visit that school any day and eat in the lunch room, according to Principal Charles Tyler. The high school will be a little short-handed, student wise, Monday and Tuesday of that week, for a number of the 4-H Club members and FFA boys will be involved in the Floyd County Fat Stock Show those days. Wednesday, the National Honor Society will have an installation of officers, and will host a luncheon, at 11 a.m. in the cafeteria, for parents of members in the group. At 12:15, Wednesday, a debate will be held in the auditorium, or in Room 102 with the subject "International Control of Nuclear Weapons." Thursday, classes will dismiss at 2 p.m. and open house will begin at 6 p.m. From 6 until 7:30 the rooms will be open, and the exhibits for the Science Fair will be shown in Room 113 of the high school. From 7:30 until 8:30, the public is invited to attend a program presented by the high school band and chorus in the auditorium. It was considered that the school have lay teachers in the classrooms during the coming week, and this was finally left entirely up to the individual teachers. Such a thing may be done on a broader scale during Teacher Education Week in April, however. The Student Council members will act as ushers and will be in charge of registration during the Thursday events. The committees in charge of planning the activities at the various schools are as follows: Dougherty—Henry Hinton, Jack McIntosh and Carmel Eastham. South Plains—Raymond Upton, Glen Wood and Roy Biedsoe; Lakeview — Fred Jones and Travis Jones; Floydada—Charles Tyler, Henry Barber, A. W. Coltharp, W. P. Nicholson, B. A. Robertson, Jack Stansell, A. T. Hull, Wendell Tooley and Jimmie Willson. Governor John Connally spoke of the need for the emphasis of education in his proclamation recently concerning the Public Schools Week. A portion of the statement follows: Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish our tomorrow's leaders with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge. THEREFORE I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of March 1-5, 1965 as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in Texas.

Child Apparel Needed By Clothing Center

According to reports from some of the workers at the Floydada Clothing Center, the organization is in bad need of clothing for toddlers and small children. The supply of clothes of this nature has been almost exhausted for some time. Although most of the winter months have passed, the season center is expected to be used most, one cold snap after another has hit making the need for clothes more obvious. During the first three months of the year is the time most of the migrant workers are without employment because of the slack in the agricultural activity. Most of the workers rely on field work for their livelihood.

Hesperian Goes Offset

The new look in the Floyd County Hesperian begins today. This issue and all others that follow will be printed by the "Offset" process. Although this issue is not as neat, nor near the quality the staff at the Hesperian hopes to give you, it is still an improvement over the paper that has been published heretofore. With this issue the staff working without the use of several devices to make the composition easier and neater that should be installed before the next issue is printed. Look this paper over critically and let the Hesperian staff know what you think of it.

Nichols Plans New Convalescent Home

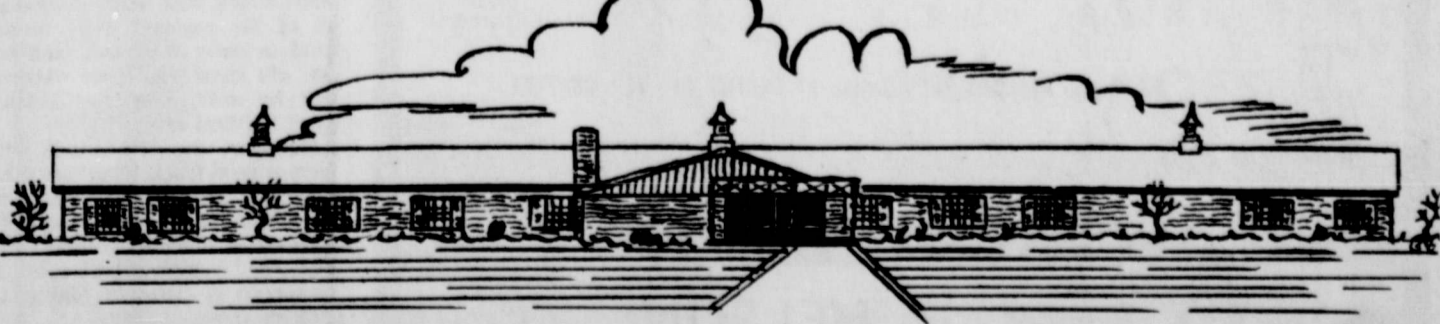

Building permit at the City Hall this week showed that John Nichols, who had previously stated his intentions to build a convalescent home in Floydada, has taken out a permit for the purpose of pursuing the project. The planned brick veneer building will include 12,100 square feet of floor space, and will cost approximately $140,000. The planned location of the property is at the corner of White and Crockett streets, land formerly owned by W. A. Massie. Nichols presently owns similar installations at Crosbyton and Jayton, and formerly owned one at Spur. The Spur home was moved to Crosbyton in recent years. Another home is being planned by Jerry Miller of Plainview. Construction of this convalescent home is expected to start sometime next week, if the weather should turn off good, according to Miller. The location of the latter building is just west of the planned site of the proposed hospital on West Crockett Street.

Cold Fronts Bring Floyd No Moisture

Two cold fronts that came through the area the first part of this week, and another that was to have hit the area round midnight Tuesday, did nothing but bring wind, dust, and a low temperature as far as Floyd County is concerned. Although at least two of the fronts were to bring snows and rain to the High Plains, all of the moisture had played out before hitting this immediate area. Late Tuesday afternoon, snow flurries could be seen blowing in the air as one of the cold fronts moved through but the wind was too high to allow any of it to settle on the ground. One forecast Tuesday called for the rain and snow to cease before nightfall (as though it were coming a blizzard) and another called for another cold front to move in from New Mexico and dump snows on the Panhandle and South Plains, however, it failed to do so. The total moisture for the county this year stands at .42 of an inch, according to the ASC office in Floydada.

Re-Election Sought By Councilman A. Williams

Aldine Williams, presently serving on the city council, has filed his intentions to run for re-election at the same position. That makes two men who have filed for councilmen, and one that has filed for Mayor, for the same number of position. The first to file for councilman was John Smitherman, a few days later Mayor S. W. Ross filed his intentions to re-run for Mayor, and a few days ago Williams filed for re-election. Lon Davis, presently serving on the council, will not seek re-election.

Today, nearly one billion servings of fruit and vegetable juices are consumed weekly in the United States. Yet, only a half century ago, a glass of tomato juice, grapefruit or pineapple juice was a luxury item. There's a galaxy of choices today—familiar or exotic—for the increasingly sophisticated palates of our population. Some of the new ones include cranberry juice, quince juice, pear nectar, loganberry and boysenberry juice.

When our marriage is in danger of falling apart, too busy with the routine of "getting ahead" to care for our children need the love and guidance that only we can give, we are too busy with our "problems" to be trivials.

When our churches are housed in bigger buildings, better furnishings than ever since Solomon, we are too busy to attend its services and join in soul saving programs. When our nation is rotting from within of moral decay, we are too busy having a good time to clean up our spiritual and the nation.

When Jesus invited people to his supper, all that was lacking of desire to receive his beneficence. We are too busy at making excuses — for anything, we do not care to do! But we are never too busy to do that which has eternal interest. Why not give God a place in your life?

I'm Too Busy

At the launching of the "I'm Too Busy" campaign, the night of her maiden voyage, passengers aboard, the giant ship warned repeatedly to watch out for the final warning about the ship's fate before its fatal collision, was "I'm too busy!" That night 1500 lost their lives because one man without fear of God, was too busy.

AMA Pledges Its Support For New Eldercare Bill

Congressional drive was made for a broad new program to provide elderly persons with medical services they receive under federal controls. The Eldercare Act of 1965 (S. 3727) was introduced by ranking members of the Ways and Means Committee, Reps. A. Sydney Herlong (R., Mo.) and Thomas B. (R., Mo.) They said their measure would provide benefits more than the Administration's King-Anderson program and would not tax workers who would receive hospital benefits for which they are able to pay through their employers.

Sen. John Tower (R., Texas) promptly introduced the bill in the Senate. Early sponsors were Reps. F. Broyhill (R., Va.), Tim Wirth (D., R., Ky.), Paul (R., Ill.), and Durward (R., Mo.).

Sen. Donovan F. Ward, president of the American Association, termed the bill "a historic step in the drive to provide for the elderly with a wide range of services to meet their individual needs."

Dr. Ward asserted that the bill would help the health care of the aging now before Congress. It will assure more care at less cost to the taxpayer, "Shut out any other measure that would cost more and who need it most cannot pay for it."

Ward pointed out that the bill would provide for sound financing of the program. He said that the bill would provide for the utilization of the machinery of the establishment system — Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and health insurance companies.

Blue Cross Paid: The AMA noted that the Eldercare bill would cover payment of care, surgical and hospital charges, as well as hospital nursing home charges.

Dr. Ward said, "In contrast, the King-Anderson program would cost more than a hospital nursing home, plus limit the number of days in a hospital nursing home, plus limit the number of days in a hospital nursing home."

He continued, "Eldercare offers better medical care, and that is the reason we are supporting it. We are not supporting the King-Anderson program, which would cost more than a hospital nursing home, plus limit the number of days in a hospital nursing home."

Eldercare Bill would provide for sound financing of the program. He said that the bill would provide for the utilization of the machinery of the establishment system — Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and health insurance companies.

is not the time for hasty action to embrace legislation like Medicare simply because it has been hanging around for five years."

The Eldercare Bill provides that elderly individuals whose income falls below limits set by each state would have the entire cost of their health coverage paid for by the government.

Sliding Scale: For individuals with income between the minimum and a maximum would pay a part of the cost on a sliding scale according to the individual's income.

Individuals with income above the maximum would pay the entire cost, but would have the benefits of an income tax deduction for such payments, as well as statewide bargaining for non-cancelable health care policies.

Persons under 65 years of age also would be given an income tax deduction for the amount of premiums paid on non-cancelable health insurance policies to become effective upon retirement.

States could administer the program under state health departments if they so chose. The Kerr-Mills program now is administered by state welfare departments.

First Business: Both Herlong and Curtis are members of the House Ways and Means Committee which has made health-care for the elderly legislation its first business of this session and began on Jan. 27 deliberations on it in closed meetings.

In a joint statement, Herlong and Curtis said: "Our legislation is designed to provide elderly persons all the medical services they require, in contrast to the limited benefits in the King-Anderson social security tax bill. Under our bill, workers would not be taxed to pay for hospitalization of those who are financially able to pay for it themselves.

"This legislation would not endanger the solvency of the social security fund or permit control of local hospitals by a federal bureaucracy, as the King-Anderson proposal could."

"This bill goes to the real problem: helping those who need help in financing their health care. The problem would still remain if the limited benefits of the King-Anderson bill. Why levy a new tax and set up another federal bureaucracy when it will not do the full job?"

Tax Deductions: The Eldercare Act also contains provisions liberalizing federal tax treatment on medical expenses. There would be no limitation on deductions for medical costs paid by individuals 65 and older. Deductions would be allowed for out-of-pocket costs for medical expenses of dependents over 65, and for that portion of health insurance payments that would provide benefits after 65.

Meanwhile, Rep. John Byrnes (R., Wis.), top ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, introduced a separate proposal patterned after the Federal Employees Health Insurance Plan for retirees. Under the Byrnes bill, which is broader than the Administration's proposal because it includes physician's fees, social security recipients would make a contribution based on their ability to pay, an estimated $6 a month average per person. About $1 billion would be raised from this source. Another $2 billion annually would finance the benefits out of general federal revenues.

Choice for Beneficiaries: Social security beneficiaries would have the choice of higher cash benefits or signing up for a national health insurance policy, about two-thirds of the cost of which would be borne by the federal government.

The Social Security Administration would operate the program. Benefits include full coverage of the first $1,000 of hospital (or nursing home) room and board and 80% of any balance; 80 percent of other hospital, surgical and medical fees after a $50 deductible.

County Officials Attend Texas A&M Conference

COLLEGE STATION — County judges and commissioners from 160 Texas counties attended and participated in the seventh annual County Judges' and Commissioners' Conference held on the A&M campus, February 16-18. The attendance of 400 set a new record for the conference.

Attending from Floyd County were Judge J. K. Holmes, Sr., and Commissioners Bob Jarrett and Bill McNeill.

As in past years, the program was developed around problems of current concern to the county officials. The primary purpose of the conference was to give the participants a better understanding of the many problems which they must handle in discharging their responsibilities. A feature of this year's conference was the Tuesday morning address by Gillis W. Long, assistant director, Office of Economic Opportunity, Executive Office of the President, on "The Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 as another Resource for Counties."

The three-day conference was sponsored by the County Judges' and Commissioners' Association of Texas and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

SANTA FE NEWS

Santa Fe Railway, which has been supporting the Future Farmers of America educational program since its inception nearly 40 years ago, will continue its national and Texas state aid during 1965. E. S. Marsh, president, announced today.

As in the past, the railway will provide 18 college scholarships of $500 each to educational award winners throughout the system. Two of this number will be awarded to Texas Future Farmers and will be included in a check from the railroad for $3,125. This sum will provide for the scholarships and 17 general educational awards to Lone Star state members.

Officers of the Santa Fe aided state leaders in the organization of the FFA at Kansas City in 1928. They have continuously worked with state FFA leaders and officers of the organization yearly. Scholarships alone, since 1955, have amounted to $66,150. In addition, several times this amount has been invested by the railway in general educational recognition.

George H. Hurt, state FFA advisor, and Clemon Montgomery, executive secretary, both of Austin, with other leaders of the Texas agricultural education agency, have complimented President March and other officers of the Santa Fe for active cooperation in progressing FFA.

Lighthouse Electric Co-op., Inc. Nancy Morckel, Home Economist ARE "STRUNG-UP" CLOTHES-LINES ONE OF YOUR PROBLEMS?

This is the season when clothes are strung up here and there over the house in order that you may get clothes dry without having to get out in the wintry weather to hang them "on-the-line". Maybe you have even resorted to a maid to hang out the wash... the way to have that maid... is to install an automatic electric clothes dryer.

If you don't own an automatic electric clothes dryer you are missing the chance to wash any time it is necessary. With the season for cold, cloudy, weather comes the season for dingy, half-dry clothesline clothes. But with an automatic electric dryer you have carefree cleaning and peace of mind. There is no worry whether the weather will hold out, whether you have time to wash during the day, whether or not the supply of clean linens will last through the week. An automatic electric clothes dryer automatically does away with these worries. You have 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 52 weeks a year—just pick the time and place to wash.

You are missing better health. Lifting, carrying, stretching, walking from warm indoor temperatures to cold outdoor temperatures and back again is certainly not good for health. Repeat this for each load and for carrying loads in and each time brings you closer to bacterial infections and colds.

You are missing perfect drying. The sun dries in only three variations, damp dry and stiff or faded. It wasn't designed for drying clothes—just giving light. But the new electric dryers are automatic, and have been designed for drying clothes scientifically—to just the right temperature for the type of clothing or material. In fact, some of the new man-made fibers require a dryer to fluff the wrinkles away and re-bloom the article to its original shape. The perfectly controlled heat and temperature non-faded, non-worn clothes which means you save money.

An electric clothes dryer can even sprinkle the clothes—and much more effectively than any sudden shower which sprinkles everything—regardless of whether you intend to iron it or not. You are missing perfectly clean clothes. Let's face it, you may not see what's in the air but any boy fever victims' can tell you the air is not clean. And that "not all-clean air" goes right through your clothes—along with dust, pollen, dirt and anything else that happens to be passing along. And air isn't the only hazard. There are birds. (Does your clothesline just happen to be close to a tree?) There are frisky dogs, playing children, and even an occasional stray cow, horse, or chicken. There are rust stains from the clothesline or clothespins and sometimes even snags. Obviously these are no aid to perfectly clean clothes—unless you count being washed twice an aid to cleaner clothes.

But an electric clothes dryer will dry your clothes away from all these problems. No pollen, dust, rust or stray incidents get to them. Just in case a child gets the door open, most of the electric clothes dryers shut off immediately. And if you are one of those who think they will miss the fresh air smell, there is even an injector that places the aroma of fresh air in your clothes.

You are missing fluffy clothes. Heavy-napped fabrics that hang on the line either get whipped to their threadbareness or dry flat and matted. But in an automatic electric clothes dryer, wrinkles are fluffed right out, heavy naps puff up, even towels are lighter and fluffier—many models have special fluff cycles for drying those hard-to-fluff items. You are missing less running. Those endless test runs to the clothesline to check the clothes can get tiring. Many electric clothes dryers signal when clothes are dry by means of a buzzer or light.

An automatic clothes dryer is just like having your own private washwoman and maid. As it does all those little jobs you wish someone else would do. There is the no-heat setting for fluffing clothes, dusting curtains, drapes, throw rugs and bedspreads. And heavy wet blankets and quilts no longer have to be carried out to the clothesline. There is an air setting on most models for clothes that have been completely dried out but need to have the wrinkles removed. And, too, an automatic electric clothes dryer can even do the awful chore of starching!

You are missing 20 extra 8-hour days a year that you normally spend hanging clothes on a line. Just think what you could do with an extra day-and-a-half a month!

You are missing a lovely yard—maybe—a place to set lawn chairs and tables, flowers, and electric lights. But who wants to light up a yard just to show off their clothesline? Join the carefree circle of women who don't mind washing even in winter weather. Talk to a friend who has an automatic electric clothes dryer. Visit your electric appliance dealers and find the automatic electric clothes dryer that best suits your need. You will be amazed that you can hire a good dependable full-time "maid" so cheaply.

Wheat Growers Comment On Farm Situation

Resolution Highlights, Farm Programs: NAWG said, "We favor an extension of a certificate program similar to the 1965 wheat program for a period of not less than 4 or 5 years with modifications to improve grower income." The growers pointed out that production costs are continuing to rise . . . taxes are up . . . income is down a little in 1965 compared to 1964 . . . There is a great need to improve wheat farm income.

In the market development field, NAWG said the U. S. should aggressively compete for a "fair-share" of the world's commercial wheat and flour market.

GATT and IWA: NAWG supports a one year extension of IWA to provide a reasonable period of time to clarify what actions are needed to improve the U.S. competitive position from the standpoint of both comparative price and credit terms.

Most of the address given at our convention dealing with wheat programs for 1966 and beyond were encouraging about the possibilities of a simple extension of present programs . . . but rather discouraging about the possibility of increasing farm income.

The President's State of the Union Message with a brief but pointed reference about the high cost of farm programs spread still another bit of gloom over the convention. Many varied and widespread interpretations of his reference to agriculture have been made in the press during the past week. My guess is that much has been read into the statement which was not intended to be there. Certainly we hope this is true.

The battle of the budget has been going on for some time. Budget Director Gordon seems to be convinced the two places to cut expenses are defense and agriculture. He has suddenly become an expert on farm policy and farm income . . . and wrote an article which appeared in last week's issue of the Saturday Review of Literature, entitled "The Challenge of Prosperity: How Much Should Government

Do?" Senator McGovern in the January 7th issue of the Congressional Record says that Mr. Kermit Gordon stated that 2.5 million of our 3.5 million farmers . . . do not now and cannot in the future be expected to operate successful farms in the future. He contends they should be moved off the land. Might one conclude that this is the Budget Bureau's formula for filling up the new job corps? Or is it a formula for converting rural poverty into urban poverty?

When Mr. Gordon talks about the 1 million farmers who sell $10,000 or more in products and then refers to their $9,500 average income, Senator McGovern again takes him to task: "Now I am sure that there is no Senator who believes the cost of producing $10,000 worth of farm commodities is $500, and that 95% of the return is net income." Sure would be nice to find a farm like that. In visiting with Bob Poage, Vice Chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, the other day, he made this statement to me: "I am terribly disturbed over the apparent lack of understanding of the seriousness of low farm income in high places in government. Farmers simply can't let the administration overlook the depressing effect on the national economy of any further drop in farm income, or overlook the fact that we must maintain farm prices if we are to maintain farm income?"

We agree completely . . . when everything a farmer buys in order to produce is increasing year by year and his price per bushel is slowly coming down . . . there is only one direction for net income to travel . . . down.

Harold Cooley, Chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, has, along with Bob Poage, spent many years working, studying, and sponsoring farm legislation to maintain farm income and keep our supply in balance with our needs. In referring to Budget Director Gordon's statement that one million farmers can produce all we need and let's assist the other 2 1/2 million farmers in the painful transition to non-farm jobs, Cooley says: . . . such a transition for 2,500,000 farmers and their families would move perhaps 7,500,000 farm people out of rural areas. Where would they go, except into the poverty programs into the cities? Thousands of main street towns would become ghost towns. What would become of all the businesses and all the people who populate our rural towns?

Mr. Speaker, I am confident that the President of these United States has greater wisdom than to follow such a course. Chairman Cooley points out that without farm programs these top one million farmers would soon be in serious trouble . . . feed grain prices would drop 1/5 . . . cattle prices would go down. He continues:

I am troubled because to suggest that the top million farmers no longer need income protection is like saying that the top 27% of industrial workers can now be deprived of union protection, because they are so well off. It is like saying that the top 27% of bank depositors should be deprived of deposit insurance. It is like saying that investors in the top 27% of U. S. corporations should all be deprived of the protection provided by limited liability under the law—by anti-trust legislation, and countless other legal protection.

In defense of agriculture programs, Cooley continues, "In the world today American farmers have not only exported food, they have exported hope." He further points out that the average family buys food for less than 19% of its take-home pay—compared with 23% in the early 1950's. . . if the 23% had continued to this day, Americans would now be spending each year — for every man, woman, and child—better than $95 more for food than we are now spending. For a family of five, almost $500."

Just think about that. Because the efficiency of the American farmer has increased so rapidly in the past 12 or 14 years and because farm prices compared to prices in other segments of our economy have been low . . . the grocery bill of the consumers of the United States is $18 billion less than it would have been. Yes, indeed, food is a bargain.

We can say this in another way. If all the costs of the farm price support programs and all the costs of the Food for Peace program had been added to the cost of food in 1964, the American family would have spent less than 1 percent more of its disposable income for food, or about 19.8%.

Senator McGovern to Introduce Wheat Bill
It is my understanding that sometime next week Senator McGovern will introduce a bill to extend indefinitely the Wheat Certificate plan with an amendment to increase the support of domestic wheat to 100% of parity. This would mean an approximate 50c per bushel increase in the domestic certificate value over the 75c announced for the 1965 crop.

Senator Aiken stated in the Record January 12th, referring to President Johnson's statement on agriculture that he did not believe the President contemplated drastic action in the farm program field.

He asked the question, how important is agriculture to the welfare of the United States? You will be interested in his answer. We have 6.5 million workers on the land itself.

Now, add 6 million more workers who produce the supplies and equipment which farmers use. Ten million more people are engaged in transporting, storing, processing, handling, and selling the products of agriculture.

Add these together and we find that 3 out of every 10 persons employed in private industry look to the farm for their income.

Farmers spent over $3 billion last year for tractors, motor vehicles and equipment, or more than three times as much as the entire iron and steel industry spend for new equipment and new plants.

Farmers spent over $3.3 billion for maintenance of equipment and fuel and lubricants with which to run it.

He says: "Let those who would trade off agriculture in return for petroleum markets abroad stop and realize that the best market in the world for petroleum products is the American farm."

The American farmer uses billions of dollars worth of fertilizer, lime, spray material, rubber tires, and hundreds of other items, the production of which keeps 6 million workers busy.

Except for agriculture, the transportation systems of America would find themselves in the red were it not for the business of hauling supplies to the farm, and crops from the farm to the consuming centers, processing plants and shipping ports.

exporter of farm commodities, spent to benefit the general public rather than the farmer. Only $3,318 million was spent to stabilize farm income.

Processing and packing plants for meats, milk, grain products, and fruits and vegetables alone employ well over a million non-farm employees.

The total value of agricultural assets amounts to $226 billion, or two-thirds the value of the current assets of all the corporations of the U.S. put together—and nearly 2 1/2 times the value of all U.S. investments in the rest of the world.

In a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, we note the following: "Corporate profits have made the great leap upward: from $22 billion after taxes in 1961, to $25 billion in 1962, to $27 billion in 1963, and in 1964 to well above $30 billion. This is a major breakthrough."

From 1961-1964 net corporate profits after taxes up almost 40 percent, and during this period all of agriculture is struggling to maintain a net of $12 billion."

Aiken states further: It should be clear to everyone who reads, listens, or thinks that any serious decline in the volume of our agricultural production of the income of our farm people would be the surest way to bring on a national economic depression. It has happened before. It could happen again.

How to Reduce Agricultural Costs
Senator Aiken further points out that the budget for agriculture in 1964 was $7,926 million . . . but over one-half of this was

In Loving Memory Of The Man In The Green Beret

The following is a letter written in remembrance of Tommie Douglas Emert, born July 27, 1943, and died in Viet Nam December 13, 1964 while going beyond the call of duty as a Sergeant in the U. S. Army's 1st Special Forces (Airborne), as he participated in a combat river crossing on the Song Re River near Gia Vuc, Viet Nam.

In giving his life, he saved the life of a Vietnamese Soldier or Counterpart.

January 26, 1965

Dear Son,
Perhaps I should not even write this letter, for I know you will never read it. But I just want to write you one more time. There's so much I'd like to say to you — some of it you knew — some you didn't.

We were so proud of you. You knew that, but did you anticipate being "home" for Christmas when you left in August for your overseas assignment? I doubt that you did — not in the way you came at least.

The Sergeant who came with you from California was really a nice fellow and helped us a lot. He said there were 12 other servicemen who came back from Viet Nam the week you did. He was quite young himself — he was 23 and you were 21.

You never did even vote in the National election did you? I know Dad got your poll tax exemption slip, but you didn't have it with you for I found it among some of your things you left at home.

Christmas this year (1964) was quiet different, son. As we sat in the funeral parlor in Floydada, Christmas Eve and watched them roll in the grey steel casket and drape it with our nation's flag I wouldn't say we were feeling Christmas joy. But our hearts were full of the "peace that passeth all understanding." You would have been proud of your sister, she took it like a real soldier.

We never dreamed before leaving Houston that we would be able to open your casket for it had been so long—but son we did! and I was so glad . . . you looked so good.

The Scripture says, "greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." You gave your life December 13, 1964 in the Song Re River in Viet Nam while helping others . . . especially a Vietnamese counterpart. You were on a combat patrol but you went beyond the call of duty. We know God's will has been done though we cannot understand — we must accept it.

You would have been happy to know that the 7th Special Forces Group from Ft. Bragg, N. C. conducted the Military Honors. General Yarborough arranged for them to be there himself. He said, "the Special Forces take care of their own." So you see, son, you were right — Special Forces men are "special."

Son, you knew you were recommended for the Bronze Star, but you didn't write us about it. It was first recommended that you receive the Commendation Medal and then Headquarters upped it to the Bronze Star and Valor. I think it was marvelous the way you stayed by that Vietnamese woman's side for 20 hours. Your 1st Sergeant wrote us about it. He said it was raining and no aircraft could take her out and kept her alive for 20 hours without leaving her. He said you felt like you had failed when she passed on — even though she had been shot through the head—from side to side. His stated opinion was that he felt you had performed a miracle—keeping her alive that long.

I understand the Vietnamese awarded you their medal with valor too, and you never mentioned that either. You are to receive, post-humously, the soldiers medal for your action in the river and also the purple heart for injuries resulting in your death. And son, Sergeant West says the Camp Commander in Viet Nam is placing a nameplate marker in front of the flag pole in front of the Camp in your memory.

They had a Memorial Service for you in Okinawa December 21, 1964 and some of your Catholic friends had a Special Mass said for you January 23, 1965 and they have enrolled your soul with a group of Fathers that will pray for your soul for one full year. Although we do not believe the way they do, I feel this is the highest tribute they can pay to your memory.

Seems everyone loved you and son — remember the last words of that poem I wrote you last April:

"Keep up the good work, my son carry on.

For in the hearts that know you, you carve a name of your own."

I believed that when I wrote the poem and now I know it to be true. Even the Vietnamese village Chiefs, as backward as they are and knowing nothing of religion, came to the Camp on Christmas Day to pay their respects and say how sorry they are that the BAC SII (Doctor) is gone. In the short time you were there, they learned to love you, too.

Your beloved medical books will be placed in the Special Forces Advanced Medical Training School Library at Fort Bragg. General Yarborough said there would be an acceptance ceremony and a permanent commemorative inscription placed in each book. You probably spent hours in this very library yourself as it is available to the medical personnel in their final phase of Special Forces Medical Aidmen training as well as the aidmen assigned to the local Special Forces units. I feel there is no place you had rather your books would be, for I know you loved the Special Forces and had decided you wanted to become a Pediatrician after you were discharged from the Army. I'm glad for all these tributes, my son, but there's something else I treasure more . . . Remember that little tan colored notebook in your footlocker? You wrote the very thoughts of your heart upon its pages. The most cherished thing of all is where you wrote (speaking of your thoughts), "as usual they always turn to God. I remember I was raised up at home going to church and seemingly I have loved Him always."

The Scripture says, "train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Son, as the words of the song that was sung at your funeral say: "I'll Meet You in the Morning" — but until then, I'll just say good night.

Love,
Mother

P. S. Enclosed is a poem your sister wrote for an assignment in English at school. Needless to say, she wrote about her hero. Here it is:

MY BROTHER

God gave me a wonderful brother,

A brother brave and bold!

And dashed his hair with sunshine,

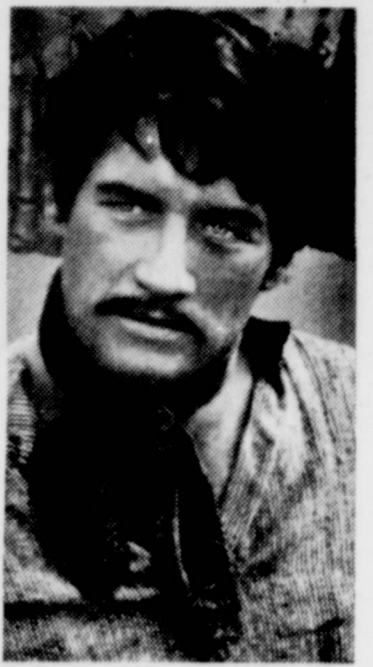

And placed him among the stars,

For all the world to see:

None could be like my brother —

He gave his life for me.

Management Principles Greatest Water Saver

To talk about losses and decline irrigation water is one thing to do something about it is another.

Many factors are involved in water losses but management principles used in irrigation can contribute greatly to the amount of water used and the amount lost.

The above picture taken on the Gregory farm south of Floydada shows one principle that can be used effectively for control and proper utilization irrigation water.

A 20 acre project on the Gregory farm has just been completed where the slope of the land extended that which was conducive to the saving of water. The amount and placement of soil a change in row direction in a project will not only give control of irrigation water but will also provide a means where the rainfall can be beneficial. The benefits do not end without considering the amount of soil saved.

John Tower Newsletter

Recently, President Johnson at his Agriculture message to Congress. The message itself covered a variety of subjects related to the agricultural community.

The President said that the objective which should guide us in managing our agricultural policies are these:

An abundance of food and fiber at reasonable and stable prices for the people of the United States.

Effective use of our agricultural resources to promote the interests of the United States and to bring peace through trade and a favorable balance between supply and demand at lower prices to the Government;

Opportunity for the efficient farmer to earn parity of income from farming operations;

Equality of opportunity for all the people, including new opportunity for small farmers.

These are objectives that I believe all Americans can support.

What is the cost? The cost of installing such a project should not be the real concern, but rather the benefits through savings of water and soils should be the determining factor to correct such problems existing in Floyd County.

See your local Floyd County Soil Conservation District for assistance in planning and installing needed conservation measures.

I know I can, and if the President's specific proposals, when they are sent to the Congress, truly meet the objectives set out in his message to Congress we will see almost unanimous approval. The key factors will be, however, whether the specific proposals truly meet these objectives, or, in meeting them, whether they free the agricultural community from some of the red tape with which it is now bound.

I am particularly pleased that the President called for a "Commission on U. S. Food and Fibre Policy." He said he intends to conduct a "fundamental examination of the entire agriculture policy of the United States."

I have advocated this for several years. In the last session of Congress, I co-sponsored a resolution that would have created a bi-partisan commission to do just that. Because of political opposition it did not receive favorable action. We have introduced essentially the same resolution again in this session. (S. J. Res. 20), and now that the President has endorsed the idea, perhaps we can expect it to be passed.

We simply must, in my opinion, conduct non-partisan studies into the problems of our farms, and act upon the findings of those studies in a non-partisan manner. We will never achieve real success in this field until we do.

It is my hope that out of all this there will come a blue-ribbon panel to conduct this study — that persons familiar with agricultural problems and who share the hopes of freedom that run throughout our farm community will be called upon to serve. I sincerely hope a commission will not be formed that is weighted in favor of the same unworkable programs of the past.

The President said the cotton program of 1964 should be extended and improved, and that cotton be made competitive with other fibres in the world market. He said further that "we must adopt measures to reduce the cost" of the cotton program and the level of cotton stocks now on hand.

This, too, I agree with and have said on many occasions. I hope, again, that we will receive specific proposals to achieve this end.

The President spoke with favor of a "long-term cropland adjustment program". He said the purposes of the cropland adjustment program "will be served if much of the land is permanently removed from production."

Obviously there is much merit in this. It would seem far more sensible, for instance, to retire land from production and allow it to grow soil-building cover crops, than it would to encourage the production of food and fiber with subsidy — only to see that produce become a sword of Damocles over the head of our farmers in the form of market-depressing surpluses.

Philosopher Amazed To Learn Some Shop Keepers In Russia Cheat Their Customers

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discovers something new about Russia this week.

Dear editor: I was out here working on plans for a drive-in window for barber shops — why not, you can buy nearly everything else without getting out of your car — when I stopped to rest my mind and pulled out a newspaper which I always carry around for that purpose and got to reading an article about Russia.

According to it, the Russian government has a drive on to crack down on the cheating of customers in stores and restaurants, by short-changing, short-weighting, diluting, misrepresenting, etc.

This was news to me. You mean to say Russians cheat each other?

You mean one Russian would sell another Russian a 15-year-old horse and pass it off as a 9-year-old? I thought the state owned all the horses anyway. Or would a Russian used-car salesman sell you a car with a busted block, if they had any cars to sell?

You mean to say one Russian will lie to another Russian? I thought they were trained to be 100 percent honest with each other and 100 percent dishonest only with foreigners.

But there was an article, reporting the government has ordered the courts to bear down with heavier penalties for cheating. I had thought for a while that Russia had stamped out human nature, but I guess I was wrong. I had thought the reason you didn't hear anything about Russian teenagers stealing hub caps was because there weren't any delinquents over there, but it was really because there weren't any hub caps.

Human nature is hard to whip, and I now suppose it's fair to say a man dining out ought to count his change, regardless of what form of government he's eating under.

Forty Years A Long Time To Be In The Cafe Business

In a business where the average time of existence is six months, a local man stayed in that business in Floydada for forty years.

He is L. G. Withers, who with his wife, Lena, operated Withers Cafe in Floydada for over forty years. The last location of his business was where the Merry-Mac Cafe is now located.

"Can you reach the deans, or may I reach them for you?" is an expression that almost anyone that patronized Withers Cafe heard over and over again.

A person could enter the cafe, discuss politics, or any other touchy subject, even find a good debate while in the cafe from a person who had different views about a subject, and both were welcome.

Withers said recently in an interview, "My wife and I made a vow when we opened for business that we would not argue religion or politics with our customers, unless they were our friends." We advertised, after we had made several friends, that at Withers' a person could get a meal and an argument all for the same price."

He feels he entered the cafe business at the right time. When his father was in the business, a person living in the country would hitch the team to the wagon and the entire family would come into town to shop and spend the day. During the course of the day they would go to the cafe and eat.

As time progressed, and the automobile came into being, the man would come into town, and stop at a hamburger stand for a snack. Eventually, the automobile got a little faster and people could come to town and return home for lunch, or wait until after lunch and come to town.

At that particular time, the cafe business appeared bleak, but as the war came along, rationing accompanied it, and people came to town to work. At that time, the plate lunch became popular because it was economical, easy to fix, and gave a person their fill all in a short time.

In 1924, before coming to Floyd County, Withers operated a fish market on the east side of the square in Vernon and sold it to come to Floydada. At the time of the sale he was clearing $100 per week, which would compare to around $400 per week today.

After moving here, in '24 Withers first bought the Floyd Pester Advertising here and operated it as well as a small cafe. In 1929 the Withers took over a poultry business here, also, and continued with the cafe. In 1937 the couple moved to Kerrville and entered the grocery business, but shortly thereafter, also in 1937, "we became lonesome for Floyd County people so we sold the grocery store and returned," Withers said. "We also promised that if the Lord was willing, we would never leave the county again."

He mentioned that of course there have been good years and bad years, but there was always a mixture of both, one just outweighed the other.

The best year he ever had in the business was in 1928 when he cleared $1,000 in the fall of the year. Some of the worst years were in '39-'40 under the New Deal.

"I made less money under the New Deal and the days that followed than I made in '32 during the dust bowl and just after the depression," Withers said.

In 1940 he moved his family to the present location of their home just on the south edge of town. There he could keep chickens and cows and get eggs and milk for the defense of the country, which was just on the verge of World War II.

"Several times I came in from the cafe at 1 a.m. and would have to milk the cows after that," he said.

During the depression and the years that followed, several farmers were unable to make a living off the land, and several left, but in 1937 those that stayed were glad. That year Floyd County produced 5 million bushels of wheat and the crop sold for $1.25 per bushel. Most of the farmers paid out of debt with that crop.

Withers said the best helper he ever had was John Fawver. He said, "John is the only man I could hire that could do as much work as I could and eat as much."

"Never did I have to remove anyone from my premises because of unruly conduct. I always demanded respect in my place of business and I got it," he said.

Withers mentioned that he did not know if a person could say he had been a success financially or not, for he has always supported his family, but he feels that he and Lena have been successful in other ways. They reared four fine daughters in Floydada.

One thing people could be sure of when they entered Withers' Cafe, and that was they were as likely to run across bankers, lawyers, doctors, and people from all walks of life in a discussion in the establishment.

People in Floydada will long remember entering Withers' Cafe and hearing the words, "What'll ya have?"

25 Years Ago

Feb. 22, 1940 in Floyd County

Swept by one of the worst blizzards in years last Friday and Saturday the Plains area was storm bound for more than three days as drifted snow blocked all highways and railroads in this section, stranding hundreds of travelers and virtually halting communications. Snowfall was estimated at between six and seven inches whipped by a 40 mile an hour wind. Drifts in places were from six to eight feet.

A veritable "Child of the Storm" is the two day old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dunn. The mother was rushed the 18 miles to Floydada over the snow by a Model A Ford drawn by a span of mules. The modern type car would not go through the drifts. After it was learned the mother had to reach the doctor and soon, neighbors Wesley Hay contributed the Ford and Ralph Warren the mules. The trip took four and a half hours to reach the hospital and the baby arrived fourteen hours later. The parents need a name and are open to suggestions. Maybe they will call her "Snowdrop."

Pat Frizzell Named Lockney Outstanding YF Lockney

Pat Frizzell, 31, Lockney area farmer, was named Lockney's Outstanding Young Farmer at the Fifth Annual Young Farmers Chapter awards banquet Saturday night in Lockney.

Frizzell also was installed president of the Young Farmers Chapter.

Honored as the outstanding Lockney FFA chapter member was Jerry Bigham, president of the chapter, while Belvred Jack was named outstanding green-hand member of the group.

H. M. Buggarby, editor of the Tulla Herald, spoke to the group on the rise of the farmer since the 1930s.

He said, "The farmer is no longer deficient in any way. He is now a leader in society. Agriculture must be controlled if the farmer wants to keep his place in society. Under federal controls the farmer has reached his highest peak in history."

Tailwater Can Carry Nutrients

What losses does a farmer experience when he allows irrigation tailwater to escape from his farm?

One definite loss, discovered from tests conducted by the High Plains Water District, was the loss of fertilizer. A number of irrigation tailwater samples was collected and analyzed to determine if any beneficial chemical compounds were being lost.

The analysis indicated that beneficial quantities of nitrate nitrogen were being lost in the samples examined.

The average of the samples tested, revealed that approximately 30 pounds of nitrate nitrogen were being lost per acre foot of water. Other primary elements discovered to be lost in an acre foot of tailwater were calcium, 145 pounds and magnesium, 188 pounds.

The value of fertilizer lost in irrigation tailwater is estimated at 5½¢ per pound plus 1¢ for application cost. It would cost approximately $1.95 to replace the soil nitrogen lost in an acre foot of tailwater. (Anhydrous ammonia is normally 82% pure, so it would take 122 pounds for each 100 pounds of pure nitrogen).

By re-circulating the tailwater, much of this nitrogen is left in the soil.

STRONG CHURCHES

Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

Strange sight? Not really! We're getting used to seeing pictures of our own earth. We're getting used to the concept of a universe instead of a world. We can believe that the moon's soon to become a landing place.

Does this familiarity with space — does our thrust into the physical unknown — make the basic facts of life and death any simpler to us? Certainly not! Man is in a peculiar position, today. The more he explores, the more vast he finds what lies ahead of him. The more he learns, the more he discovers how infinitely much there is to know.

More than ever before, man realizes how great the hand of God has been in fashioning this world, this universe, we live in. That's why people everywhere — including scientists, astronauts, space pioneers — are men of religious conviction. Go to church this Sunday, and see for yourself.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Philosopher Puzzled By The Travel More Drive

Editor's Note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm apparently is not very travel-minded, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

According to a news item I read last night, Washington officials are suggesting we put a sort of tariff on tourists leaving this country every summer, in the amount of $100 a head.

As I understand it, American tourists are spending over a billion dollars a year visiting abroad, and apparently on the theory that they're going to spend everything they have on them. Washington has suggested we tax them $100 just before they leave, which would be $100 they sure wouldn't spend over there. At least we'd keep some of the money in this country.

I don't have an opinion on this proposal, as that's one tax that sure wouldn't hit me, as I ain't going.

Understand, I don't quarrel with anybody who wants to visit abroad, let him go if he wants to, but my theory is that it's time the Europeans came over here and looked at us. After all, when you come to think of it, the hand holding up Buckingham Palace in London is not one year older than the land in this Johnson grass farm. I estimate they were constructed at about the same time. One is just as ancient as the other, and both are equally favorable toward government support.

And while I can't imagine any Englishman spending his money to come over here and look at me and this farm, neither can I imagine me going over there to look at him and his. Of course I know travel is supposed to broaden a person, enlarge his horizon, but I have seen some Americans who have traveled abroad and I can't always tell that the job was accomplished.

Another purpose of the proposed $100 head-tax on tourists going abroad I understand is to encourage more Americans to travel in this country, but I don't know about this. Nearly every state is now promoting itself as a tourist attraction, and if it works, won't the thing balance itself out? If Texas lures 100 million dollars worth of tourist money from New Mexico, won't New Mexico lure the same amount from Texas?

Who's going to come out ahead on this deal, outside of filling stations? Wouldn't it be like everybody in town trying to make money by taking in each other's washing?

Your faithfully,
J. A.
