New Mayor, Councilmen Take Office

Ralph Johnston Re-elected President

A regular session of the City Council, held Tuesday night, Mayor Leonard Matsler, and two new councilmen, Louis Williams and John Smitherman, took the oath of offices and the remainder of the council, Roe Jones, C. B. McDonald, H. Simpson, Jr., in handling the night's business. Mayor Matsler defeated incumbent S. W. Ross, and Don Davis, Jr., Williams were replaced by Anderson and Smitherman at the April 6 election. Davis was not seeking re-election.

During the course of business the councilmen decided to hire a consultant engineer, from the Caldwell, Wentworth and Associates firm, to help in the solving of some electrical problems confronting the city.

The members accepted bids from four local auto dealers for a Police Special patrol car and from three dealers for a 1/2 ton pick-up. The council voted to award Reed Ford Sales the auto contract and Cline-Rainer the pick-up contract. Reed's bid was for a Police Special Ford sedan and Cline-Rainer submitted a bid on a GMC pick-up.

The group also voted to change the purchasing procedures in the $50.00 to $2,000.00 range. Purchases in this amount range must now have the approval of the City Manager. Formerly approval of the City Council was necessary for such purchases.

Overtime pay for employees who work more than 40 hours per week was approved. Overtime pay is the same rate as the regular hours, however.

In other business, the council canvassed and accepted the April 6 election results. A city health officer, Dr. A. E. Guthrie, and an official newspaper, The Hesperian, were appointed.

The City Manager was authorized to advertise for bids for a refuse packer body and also advertise for bids on leasing the City Swimming Pool for the coming summer months.

Mayor pro tem, W. H. Simpson, Jr., was selected by the councilmen. In case the Mayor cannot make a council meeting, Simpson will act in that capacity.

The group voted to pay the election judges, clerks and other bills.

Teepie, Yeary And Pritchett Come Off Suit

According to a report from the district clerk's office Esley Yeary and E. P. Pritchett have signed motions to get off the suit entitled "Rene Yeary et al vs Caprock Hospital District."

Mrs. Leighton Teepie has also authorized The Hesperian to publish the fact that Leighton Teepie's name should not be on the suit.

The suit alleges that farmland is not valued at market value and several other points of county tax evaluation methods.

Rain! ..Rain! Wonderful Rain Blesses County

"We sure missed a good opportunity for rain today," was heard on the streets of Floydada or wherever a group of farmers gathered during the past two weeks that have seen the county experience heavy downcasts more than once.

Then, Tuesday night, the county "had another opportunity for rain" and took advantage of it. About 9:30 p.m. the clouds hit the Floydada vicinity, there was a minor electrical storm, then slowly the raindrops began

LHE Stockholders Name Two Directors

Two directors were named by the 360 stockholders who attended the 26th Annual Meeting held at the Floydada High School last Saturday. A gala array of prizes was awarded to the various stockholders at different times during the all-day session.

Henry Scarborough was re-elected as District 7 director, and Chloma Williams was named to replace Riley Deague in District 6 as director.

A few people that normally eat with the group were scared away because of the sandstorm that came up during the morning. However, around 1:30 p.m. the storm, but were served the meal inside and ate at various places in the high school. People could be found to cover the ground and before long the area was enjoying one of the best rains that has hit the area in about nine months.

The rains amounted to as much as two inches in some places and were general over the county.

Until Tuesday night the county had received only .66 of an inch of rain during the entire three and one-half months of 1965. However, the moisture has come at such times that it would give the almost dying dryland

Baseball Sign Up Set Next Tuesday

The sign-up for the Summer Baseball Program has been set for next Tuesday, April 20 in the Community Room of the First National Bank from 7 until 9 p.m. Boys age 8-18 are eligible for the program.

A more specific explanation of the ages could be stated as follows: those who are 8 or will be 8 on or before August 1, 1965, through and including those who are 18 and will not become 19 until August 2, 1965 or thereafter.

A parent is requested to accompany the boy or boys that will be signed for the program. The parent is also requested to have the registration blank found on page 2 of today's Hesperian filled out, and have a check or cash to cover the $2.50 registration fee for each boy.

The sign-up meeting was called by Orville Marler, president of the Baseball Program.

Easter Egg Hunt Slated Saturday

The first annual Easter Egg Hunt, being sponsored by Producers' Coop Elevator has been scheduled for Saturday morning and afternoon at 10 a.m. and at 2 p.m. The event will be held just west of the Floydada High School.

Children who are toddlers through five years of age will hunt eggs beginning at 10 a.m. and those who are five years through 10 will begin at 2 p.m. Realizing that a lot of out of town visitors will be in the city over the Easter weekend, Bill Cagle, manager of the elevator, extends an invitation to all visitors to Floyd County to bring their children and let them participate in the egg hunt.

In case the Easter Egg Hunt has to be called off because of rain, it will be held the next day, Sunday, at the same place, beginning at 2 p.m. A sandstorm will not cause postponement of the event, however.

Grandmas and Grandpas are also invited to bring the youngsters and enjoy the fun.

Comparing the interest rate with the last bonds sold by the school (which were on the Della Plains school) Johnston said that this bid was lower than the interest on the Della Plains school.

The bonds will mature on a schedule from April 1, 1966 to 1993.

The present advertising program was discussed and it was the general consensus of the council members that the present program isn't getting the results it should for the amount of money being paid for the services. The group considered cutting all agency advertising except that on the billboards. The City is under a one-year agreement for the billboards.

right of way, Taylor said. On April 7 at the same intersection a 1959 Chevrolet pulling a two-wheel trailer going east on Missouri, was struck by a 1960 Dodge when the driver was attempting a left turn. The Dodge struck the trailer. A citation in failing to yield was given to the driver of the Dodge. Names of the two drivers were not available.

On the 9th a 1965 Ford driven by Rotha Bennett was in collision with a 1952 Chevrolet driven by James Lewis Coppell. Taylor said the Bennett girl was backing from the curb on East California into the lane of traffic. A citation for failing to yield was issued the Bennett girl.

Vickie Hadamek, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hadamek, was admitted to Peoples Hospital Sunday suffering from bruises and a back injury the result of an accident on North 12th Street. The girl was a passenger in a 1960 Buick driven by Barry Lane Hale, Taylor reported.

Hale was traveling north and was attempting to pass a 1959 Chevrolet driven by Glen Douglas Attebery who was making a left turn onto Missouri. Passengers with Attebery were his wife and young son, Jerry. They were not injured Taylor said. It was understood the Haley youth was later taken to Lubbock for a check-up.

A citation for attempting to pass a vehicle within a 100 feet of intersection was given the Hale boy, Taylor reported. Approximately $975 damages was reported on the Buick and some $525 on the Chevrolet. Tuesday in front of King Tire on Highway 62 a 1960 Diamond T truck driven by Raldo James and belonging to H & S Butane was in collision with a 1961 pickup being driven by Charles Patterson. Taylor said a citation was issued to James for improper turn out of a wrong lane. The truck was damaged approximately $75 and the pickup some $150.

In case of a storm and in areas where sirens are not heard the city police will drive through that area of town with automobile sirens in operation.

If a tornado strikes in the city of Floydada the Civil Defense committee headed by supervisor S. W. Ross and director Bill Feuerbacher, city manager, will be in charge.

In case of a threatening storm observation personnel will be dispatched to their points to begin 10 miles from city limits, and will narrow distance from the city if threatening cloud develops within the ten mile area. If a tornado develops within the 10 mile circle around town and is confirmed by observation points then the tornado warning siren will be sounded.

Auto Accidents

Seven auto accidents have been reported in Floydada the past week with only one injury but heavy damages reported to the vehicles involved, reported Bill Taylor, chief of police.

The first of two on April 6 occurred at the intersection of 2nd and Missouri and a few hours later the second accident was near the same intersection.

Taylor said a 1959 Ford driven by William T. Cooper of Plainview, heading north, made a left turn off of 2nd onto Missouri Street into the path of a 1950 Ford driven by Johnny Wayne Summers of Floydada, who was traveling south. Taylor said a citation was given Cooper for failing to yield right of way.

The second mishap involved a 1958 Oldsmobile driven by Carroll Kinney Cowan, also of Plainview, and a 1960 Chevrolet driven by Oran Cross of Floydada. Taylor said Cowan drove his vehicle from the drive of Mae's Gulf Station onto Missouri Street, striking the Cross car. The Cross car was damaged to approximately $175 with no damage reported to the Cowan vehicle. Cowan was giving a ticket for failing to yield

Crazy People Don't Wear Clothes

With the summer heat coming on, the clothes are coming off. Christians seem to be no exception although the Bible says "abstain from every appearance of evil." There is something wrong with a Christian young lady who always has the shortest shorts, the lowest cut dress, and scantiest swimsuit, and is frequently found in public places in such attire. It is a sign of Psychological inferiority for grown women to dress in abbreviated clothing. It attracts attention unto themselves.

The present day practice of bathing suit competition, "vital statistics" and short skirted gyrations, reduces womanhood to the level of animals, and is no different than its ancient ancestor - "Sun Worshipper", the Roman orgy. When Adam and Eve ate of the forbidden fruit of "knowledge" they learned they were naked and clothed themselves to observing eyes. This knowledge has never left mankind - some just ignore it. Jesus once met a man who "had a devil a long time and WORE NO CLOTHES, nor abode in the house", but when Christ cast the "devil" out of him he was found at the "feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind." (Lk. 8:26-36). When the Devil leaves a Christian he will dress "in modest apparel", but those who are "Possessed of demons" and "crazy" don't wear clothes.

Jesus said, "whose looketh on a woman to lust, has committed adultery," (Mt. 5:28). Criminal assault is no greater sin than the careless or deliberate scantiness which provokes it. God did not design people to behold the semi-nude displays of others and "not be burned," (Prov. 6:27; I Cor. 7:9). Lady Godiva, wife of the Earl of Coventry, rode naked through the streets of London to campaign against high taxes. A man named Tom, peeped at her and lost his eyesight - who was actually at fault? What are so many modern mothers and

Starkey Club Has Meeting

Starkey Home Demonstration Club met Thursday, April 1, in the home of Mrs. L. T. Dycus. Roll Call was answered with "A time saving hint" by the following members: Mmes. Bill Hendrix, Weldon Becker, Mike Lowrance, George Smith, J. K. Holmes, H. S. Waller, Glen Ferguson, Cora Lee Shipley, Leon Ferguson and Mrs. Dycus. Two children were also present, Neil Becker and Susan Hendrix.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Lowrance. After the business was discussed the program was presented by Mmes. Glen Ferguson, H. S. Waller, and Mrs. J. K. Holmes.

Mrs. Ferguson gave a talk on Health and Safety. She stressed the need for care for the mentally ill as well as the physically ill. The safety rules of driving were also reviewed. And it was pointed out that safety in the home cannot be stressed too often. We should always keep poisons and insecticides out of reach of small children.

Mrs. Waller talked on Civil Defense. She showed pictures of fall-out shelters and stated the need for food supplies for the family for 2 weeks or longer. Now that tornado season is here, we should see that our shelters are in good condition in case of storms.

Mrs. J. K. Holmes gave a talk on shingles, a very painful illness. Mrs. Holmes also gave the council report. Each club member is to bring three garments to the council room before April 23, for the council rummage sale. The Harmony H. D. Club will be hostess to a County-wide meeting May 27, at 2 p.m. at the Harmony Club house. This is to be an "All Cotton District Show." The T.H. D.A. District meeting will be in Tahoka this year, April 27.

The next meeting will be at 1:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Shipley. It is to be an oven meal demonstration. Everyone bring a salad.

Harmony Club Program On Oven Meals

Harmony Home Demonstration Club met in the Community Center last week with Mrs. Glenn Pool as hostess. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Glenn Curtis, president and the devotional was read by Mrs. Pool. Members answered roll call by telling of their favorite wild flower.

Mrs. Everett Miller and Mrs. Sherwood Ramsey had charge of the program, oven meals. They prepared three different and complete meals to be cooked in the oven including breakfast. They passed out recipes for these and other complete meals. These were later sampled by the members.

A thank you note from David Parks from Lubbock was read for the gift the club sent him in appreciation of his demonstration for the members. Also a card from Estelle Gary Turner was read. She expressed her thanks for the thoughtfulness of the community members at the time of her father's death.

Members were reminded of the council rummage sale in June. Each is asked to donate three articles for the sale and to bring them before sale date. Mrs. Curtis read an article in the Plainview paper of the Curtis family. They were elected farmers of the month. Curtis is chairman of the community meetings held each Thursday night. The regular meeting will be held tonight at which time games of 42 will be played following the business session.

Mrs. Zant Scott, educational expansion chairman, told the group how they could get teflon and line or relin their pots and pans. Mrs. Monroe Schulz had the share a idea program. She had two lovely pillows made from wash cloths and a fringe around them was made from matching wool thread. She also showed several pictures from magazines to encourage the group to make pretty items.

Mrs. R. G. Alexander showed a hair wreath picture in a shadow box. The hair once belonged to relatives of hers dating back to 1890. It was in perfect condition and a beautiful picture.

Mrs. Scott showed a unique plaque made from yarn using various colors to make flowers. The design was on numbered pegs, which were removed leaving the flowers.

Recreation was led by Mrs. Bruce Davis. Attending the meeting were Mmes. Glenn Curtis, Walter Hanna, Bob Ertjen, Bob Hopper, Mather Carr, Monroe Schulz, Zant Scott, Glenn Pool, Bruce Davis, R. B. County Goes Over Goal in Heart Drive

A report this week indicates Floyd County went over their goal in the American Heart Fund drive during the recent campaign. Of this total Floydada collected $1,104.09 and Lockney gave $738.31. The total is some $300 above last year's drive.

The Heart Association last week issued certificates of Appreciation for outstanding service in the drive to Mildred Wylie, Peggy Medley, Sherry Mullin, Frances Ellison, Sue Lovell, Floydada Hospital Auxiliary, who sponsored the drive in Floydada, Floydada 4-H Club, Floyd County Hesperian, which received a Certificate of Merit, and Alma Holmes and KFLD broadcasting award.

Awards also went to Mrs. Forrest Mickey, Lockney chairman, Max Jordan, Wilbur Adams; the Lockney Beacon, Certificate of Merit. Service pins were given to high school boys in Lockney for their help in the drive.

(Continued from page 1) people of the district and they voted to approve the bonds and build the needed school and other improvements.

Due to a terrific increase in property evaluations in the school district a group of patrons of the school district filed a suit against school officials protesting the methods of evaluating property and the assessment of personal property.

Over a period of almost two years thousands of dollars have been spent on lawyers, court costs, temporary schoolhouses while the suits have been heard, appealed and re-appealed.

OFFICERS ELECTED

In the Tuesday night meeting, Johnston was re-elected president of the school board, Jack Stansell vice president and Newell Burk, secretary.

Outgoing board members Ernest Lee Thomas and Buster Simpson canvassed the school board election votes and declared that they were correct. New board members Burk, Shirley Irwin and re-elected Dennis Dempsey were sworn in by signed oath of office certificates.

Superintendent A. E. Baker told the board that W. M. Massie had deeded the school approximately eight acres in the northwest area of Floydada as a gift for a building site of the new grade school.

The school board went into an extensive discussion about the size of the new grade school. A recent correspondence from Washington has not approved the "attendance by choice" method of integrating Floydada schools, and it is possible that "total integration" will have to go into effect in this school system.

This means that there would be a complete turn-over of students attending five schools in various parts of the city. Superintendent Baker outlined several alternatives and the board will have to make this decision before it will know what size new grade school to build.

It is possible that both negro and white eighth and ninth graders would be schooled in the Della Plains school. The high school would be totally integrated (this would mean AAA rating) and grades one through five would be schooled in the present Andrews Ward school and the new school to be built. Grades six and seven would be in the present Jr. High School.

Baker said all of the above changes are about two years off and proof of intentions to "totally integrate" would insure the government's continued help in school lunches, vocational agriculture, home economics and distributive education programs next year. If the schools are considered totally integrated the government will also help on about 50% of the equipment for the science department.

Baker said out of approximately 800 schools in the state who have been using the "freedom of choice" method of integration only about 25 have been approved by Washington officials in charge of government help for schools.

In other business the board approved the reading of meeting minutes, the current bills, and drafted a note of appreciation for the good work of Thomas and Simpson on the board.

Architect Stiles said that building costs were up over 2% over 1963 when the board first entered the building program before the suits stopped it.

The board also voted to invest the $800,000 in interest certificates that will make money until needed for construction.

Local Effect Of Governor's And TSTA Pay Raise Plans Compared

Much interest is being generated in two proposals concerning teacher pay raises currently before the Texas Legislature.

They are Senate Bill 4 and House Bill 5, identical proposals commonly referred to as the TSTA (Texas State Teachers Association) Bill and Senate Bill 124 and House Bill 446, which are identified as the Governor's Bills.

Under the TSTA plan teachers would get a raise in base pay amounting to $405 for the nine month term; the governor's proposal would give varying raises based on length of service, but would average out to about $184 per teacher, according to Floydada School Superintendent A. E. Baker.

The Governor's proposal is graduated with yearly increases however, and at the end of a 10 year period, assuming that there are no changes in legislation during that time, the plans would be about equal.

Total statewide cost of the TSTA plan for 1965-66 would be $42 million, 80 per cent from the state and 20 per cent local. Cost of the governor's plan is $19.1 million, but it is divided 70 per cent local and 30 per cent for the state.

The pay increase would help the districts that want to increase salaries but have no more funds available. Texas now ranks 32nd in teacher pay rates, and has been dropping behind.

Baker was asked his views on the teacher pay proposals and the possible effects of each proposal to the Floydada School System in event of passage by the Legislature.

He explained Floydada receives money from the state under two financial funds, the Per Capita Fund and the Foundation Fund. The Per Capita Fund, based on eligible school children enumerated on the census roll, would remain the same as far as local schools are concerned under either of the salary proposals, he said.

Funds would vary. However, Baker pointed out, the amount of Foundation Fund money would vary considerably under the two proposals.

For the coming year, if neither plan passes the legislature, the local district's share of the Foundation program would be $105,408. Under the TSTA plan the amount would increase to $114,342 and under the Governor's plan to $117,901.

The latter would give the teachers an average raise of $184, put aside 20% for the

Field And Kitchen News

The 26th Annual Membership meeting of the Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc., was held last Saturday, April 10th, at the High School Auditorium in Floydada. The wind and sand did blow, 'tis true, but when friends are together it is always a good day, so, again it was "one of the best" annual meetings. A large crowd came for the day's activities - business, entertainment and many nice attendance prizes along with the delicious barbecue lunch at noon served by The Jetton Catering Service of Fort Worth, and the opportunity to say "Howdy" to old friends you hadn't seen since annual meeting time last year - all went together to make it a wonderful day.

Friday afternoon I met with the Wake Club in the home of Mrs. Weldon Seigler. A film, "Song of the Salad" was shown to club members and guests. Mrs. Seigler served delicious refreshments to the group. Suggestions for Easter were carried out.

As Easter approaches we are reminded again of the beautiful story, "The Legend of the Dogwood". It seems the author of this lovely old story is unknown. At the time of the Crucifixion the dogwood attained the size of the oak and other forest trees. So strong and firm was the wood it was chosen as the timber for the cross. To be used thus for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree and Jesus nailed upon it, sensed this and in His gentleness for all sorrow, said to it, "Because of your regret and pity for My suffering I make you this promise: Never again shall the Dogwood tree grow large enough to be used for a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and shall be bent and twisted, and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross - two long and two short petals. "And in the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nail prints. And in the center of the flower, brown with rust and stained with blood, will be a crown of thorns - so that all who see it will remember it was upon a dogwood tree that I was crucified, and this tree shall not be mutilated nor destroyed but cherished and protected as a reminder of My agony and death upon the Cross."

With spring in the air these days our thoughts turn to house-cleaning and getting everything in readiness for the summer activities just ahead. So, right now with things just in the planning stage be sure to make the most of your "electric servants" - if you are having a casserole dish for dinner, make an extra one and put half of it into your freezer for one of those meals when you are too busy to cook. Bake some extra cookies and make some extra desserts and put into the freezer to have ready for any emergency.

Check your vacuum cleaner and its many attachments and see that it is all ready to go. And of course your washer and dryer will be among your best helpers. Check through your instruction book and be sure you know how to wash and dry such things as spreads, curtains, drapes, rugs, etc.

In grandmother's day the farm kitchen was the center of activity. And no wonder - with all the old fashioned equipment she had to use, she was all but chained to it. Today, it's still a cozy inviting room - and the modern homemaker takes pride in it because of the cleanliness and efficiency of her modern electrical appliances. Her up-to-date electric range steps up efficiency, cuts down on time and gives added safety, while eliminating sooty grime from old-style stoves.

And certainly the electric refrigerator and freezer saves time and money for the family, as well as provide fresh foods out of season. With gallons of hot water ready for use at the twist of a tap from her electric water heater and water system, the homemaker finds all her work easier. Definitely the modern kitchen is not what it used to be - and today's homemaker is glad of it -- I feel sure!

Greens Report While On Trip

CENTER, April 12 - The J. E. Greens left Wednesday for a visit with some of their children and other relatives down state. They spent Wednesday night in Big Spring with their son, Don Clark and wife and Donnie. After they got off the Plains at Caprock it got warmer - no coat needed. We had a grand time at Don Clark's.

Thursday we went on to Coleman. There was a good rain between Colorado City and Sweetwater the night before, and on Coleman we visited some of J. E.'s relatives and enjoyed the overnight stay with the Zolan Meltons and Mother Melton and D. I. Bolding. (Uncle D. I. has not forgotten Floydada yet.)

Thursday we went leisurely on toward Texas City and the home of the daughter, J. M. Ryman Jrs. Now the landscape got greener and greener - where there has been rain in contrast to "The South Plains." The highway and pastures were lined with beautiful wildflowers, red, white, yellow and blue, the "Texas blue bonnet." Weather was perfect for driving - cool with a solid gray overcast.

We reached Margaret's at 6 o'clock and met the new grandson, a beautiful baby a month old. This morning we are soon to take off for church - perhaps Dr. Ryman will have to go to the hospital.

How we do sympathize with the John Key West family in the tragic loss of a dear son last Tuesday evening! Again we are moved to ask "Why does such a thing have to happen and to such fine, Godly homes?" Only the All Wise can console us in such hours of sorrow.

DOLLARS & WAR DEBTS It has been suggested the U. S. could conserve its gold by refusing to accept dollars in exchange for gold from any country that is in debt to Uncle Sam. France, for example, has purchased more than $400 million worth of U. S. gold this year with American dollars, although it owes $650 million on a World War II debt and $6.5 billion from World War I.

Survivors include: sons, Quin Jr. and Houston; daughters, Mrs. Richard Baker and Mrs. Helen Baughman; and a ruling elder of the Presbyterian Church at Quannah.

Funeral rites were in Truth or Conscience Mex., where Mrs. Baker resided, on Saturday. Survivors include: three children, 25 grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

"I'm sure we can't do the postmaster's office. That's a federal thing. You any idea who's sending these letters?" "Oh, come!" said the man. "It's none of your business from the Internal Revenue!"

Farm Bureau Facts & Faces

APRIL 20, a special study on "Agricultural Laws" will be provided for County Farm Bureau leaders and Young People's Chairman in District II. Beginning at 5:00 p.m. at Holiday Inn East in Lubbock, the study will continue until 8:30 p.m. with a break at 6:30 for a "dutch" dinner. This is the first of a series of three meetings under the supervision of a very capable teacher, Bill Wedemeyer, Director of Information for Texas Farm Bureau.

EACH CONGRESS for many years has added to the laws dealing with and affecting agriculture producers. Today there is not only a large volume of these laws, but they are quite complicated. The average producer does not have the time or opportunity to make a study of these laws. Yet, the producer is required to make decisions that require a knowledge of these laws. Errors can be expensive.

YOUNG PEOPLE from District II met recently in Lubbock to discuss the young people's program and make plans for the District Queen's Contest, Discussion Meet, and Talent Find. Counties represented were Hale, Lynn, Hockley, Terry, Cochran and Floyd. Mrs. A. C. Pratt, vice-chairman of TFB Young People's Committee led the discussion. Deadline for county contests was set for August 6, 1965.

FIELD REPRESENTATIVE, Gerald Bedenbender, was in Floydada Monday, April 5. He met with County President, Louis Pyle, and had lunch with the A. C. Pratts. The field representative is responsible for coordinating activities over the district. He meets with County Boards whenever possible.

As the policeman helped the bruised man up from the pavement in front of the bar, he said: "Can you describe the man who hit you?" "That's what I was doing," was the answer, "when he hit me."

the decline of ground water levels. He believes they are now at the point where they need a formal government organization to proceed with the project.

Bill J. Waddle, speaking for the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District in Lubbock, said they have no objection to the bill, since it protects private ownership of ground water, and actually would result in conservation of ground water. Opposition came from David Belew, Jr., Fort Worth attorney for the D. M. Cogdell and C. M. Flowers interests. They are landowners in the area. He wanted to make sure they could not condemn ground water rights. He also wanted a limit put on the size of the reservoir. He indicated that the amendment suggested by Wayne would solve the ground water condemnation.

Only three people testified before the legislative committee. They were Dent, Waddell and Lon Davis, president of the authority.

HONEY-Honey today has all the qualities that have made it a favorite sweet for centuries. In addition, beekeepers and honey processors have new ways of handling and packaging honey that make it even more appealing to the taste and more convenient to use.

In addition to enjoying one of Nature's treats, those who eat honey and honey products are indirectly helping to assure the country of continued supplies of 50 or more important crops which are almost entirely dependent on the honeybees for pollination. If the keeping of bees to perform this valuable agricultural service is to continue, producers must have a ready market for their honey crop each year.

So, we as homemakers should give some study to honey in our diets, its value as a food, and ways of using it in preparing meals for our families. The flavor, aroma, and color of honey vary with the kind of flowers from which the bees gather the nectar to make the honey. As a rule, the lightest colored honey produced in this country is light-colored, mild flavored Sweetclover, Clover, or Alfalfa honey.

Probably the darkest table honey produced is Buckwheat honey. Much of the honey on the market is a blend of different floral types. By blending, the producers and processors are able to keep their honey brands as uniform as possible in color and flavor.

Honey may be bought in the comb or out - most of the honey marketed in the United States is extracted honey; that is, honey that has been separated from the comb. The greatest share of extracted honey is sold in liquid form, however, crystallized honey is becoming increasingly popular. Honey is crystallized form is called "creamed", "candied", "fondant", or "spread"; it has a fine texture, spreads easily, and doesn't drip.

Comb honey is sold as section-comb, cut-comb, and chunk honey. Section-comb honey comes in the wooden frames in which the bees stored the honey, usually weighs a pound or just under a pound. The wooden sections may be in paper or cardboard cartons or in transparent wrappers. Cut-comb honey has been taken out of the frames, cut in pieces, and each piece wrapped separately. Chunk honey consists of pieces of comb honey in a container with liquid honey filled in around them. It is sometimes called "bulk comb".

About four-fifths of extracts honey by weight is sugar, mostly in the form of simple sugars, which are easy to digest because they are already in the form that can be absorbed by the body. Most of the remaining weight is water. There are, in addition, small amounts of protein, minerals, and vitamins. Extracted and comb honey keep best in covered containers in a dry place at room temperature (70 to 80 degrees F.) The cover is necessary, because honey loses aroma and flavor and absorbs moisture and odors readily when exposed to air.

Creamed honey may be kept at room temperature or in the refrigerator. Keep in the refrigerator if the temperature of the room is very warm. Creamed honey may partially liquefy if stored at too high a temperature.

Honey that has been diluted with water or other liquid should be kept covered in the refrigerator. Like other thin syrups it may ferment or mold quickly if not kept cold.

Honey kept for many months may darken slowly and become stronger in flavor but will still be usable.

Honey may crystallize as it gets older, or if kept at refrigerator temperatures or lower. Crystallization is a natural process and does not injure the honey in any way. To bring crystallized honey back to liquid form, place the container of honey in a pan of warm water until the crystals disappear. If further heating is necessary, raise the container of honey off the bottom of the pan by putting a rack under it, and set the pan over low heat.

Be careful not to overheat, too much heat causes the honey to change color and flavor. Honey is at its best uncooked. Use it as a spread with bread, toast, pancakes, waffles, or other hot breads - serve honey "as is", or mix with equal parts butter or margarine for honey spread. A delicious spread is made by mixing honey peanut butter, and butter or margarine. Swiss honey is made by mixing equal parts honey, butter or margarine and whipped cream.

Honey makes a delicious simple topping for fresh fruit, fruit salad, fruit cup or ice cream. This is best done by holding a container of warmed honey a short distance above the food and letting the honey drop in a fine stream over the food. Whipped cream sweetened with honey makes a good topping for plain or fruit ice cream or gelatin desserts.

To make honey hard-sauce cream the honey with one-half as much butter or margarine until well blended. This is delicious on hot or warm desserts.

Honey may be used as a sweetener on either hot or cold cereals.

To use in beverages dilute the honey with equal parts of water. It is delicious used with grape juice, lemonade or orangeade, hot spiced tea, and many others.

The following directions for cooking with honey are given by the Human Nutrition and Research Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

COOKING WITH HONEY:
Honey may be used, measure for measure, in place of the sugar in preparing puddings, custards, pie fillings, baked apples, candied and "sweet-sour" vegetables, salad dressings, and cinnamon toast. Brushed or drizzled on ham during the last half hour of baking, honey adds flavor and gives a golden glaze.

Cakes and cookies made from honey remain moist on storage. Some are improved in flavor and texture when aged a few days. Crisp cookies, however, are likely to lose crispness on standing. Some honey candies and frostings may stay too soft in humid weather.

For cakes and cookies made with honey, you'll get best results if you use recipes developed especially with honey as an ingredient. However, you can use honey for part of the sugar in other recipes as suggested below.

In cakes, honey can replace as much as one-half of the sugar without making it necessary to change the proportions of the other ingredients in the recipe.

In cookies, the amount of honey that can replace the su-

Price Calls "Tomb of Ligeia" Most Terrifying of Poe Films

...the most terrifying ever made,' actor Price says of 'The Tomb of Ligeia,' the new American International Pictures production based upon the stories of Edgar Allan Poe.

...previous AIP films based upon Poe's works.

Brilliantly and imaginatively directed by Roger Corman, the new cinematic version of the Maryland poet's terror tales introduces English actress Elizabeth Shepherd in the title role of a beautiful, voluptuous woman whose will is so powerful, so evil, that it survives her own death.

VINCENT PRICE

Her determination to exert her will upon the living brings a strange delight to her surviving husband and naked horror to the girl he later falls in love with and marries.

In the end, Ligeia's evil brings both to the point of madness and into a situation from which death would be a welcome relief.

Filmed in Color and Scope largely on location in and around a sinister, 1000-year-old Abbey in Norfolk, England, the supporting cast of 'Tomb of Ligeia' includes John Westbrook, Derek Francis, Oliver Johnston and Robert Adam.

"Tomb of Ligeia" will show at the Palace this Friday and Saturday.

Hesperian Editorials

A Word Of Appreciation

As S. W. Ross, Aldine Williams, Lon Davis, Buster Simpson and Ernest Lee Thomas go off of the city council and school board the Hesperian takes this means of offering a word of appreciation for a job well done.

During the years that "Woos", Aldine and Lon served the city of Floydada many steps of progress and change are noted. They had to make many decisions, decisions that today have put the city in a good financial condition. Today our city residents enjoy many more services and a larger city due to the work of these good men.

Ernest Lee Thomas has served on the Floydada school board for 17 years. Buster Simpson served for three years.

Serving on a school board that had the most unpopular decision of all, that of re-evaluation of property and the increasing of school taxes, they displayed courage and a desire to do what had to be done in the face of terrific opposition.

Actually, we can look back and see that the board on which they served was a victim of circumstances. They had to raise taxes to meet the extreme needs of a growing system of schools. . . . there was no putting it off longer. They were victims of circumstances created by school boards who served in the past ten years who should have been gradually raising the taxes and likewise gradually keeping the school buildings in a good state of repair and adding other facilities as the needs arose.

The Hesperian expresses its thanks and appreciation to the above men for a job well done.

As we acknowledge the good work of these men we look to the men who take their places; new mayor Leonard Matsler; new councilmen John Smitherman and Louis Anderson; new school board members Shirley Irwin and Newell Burk, returning school board member Dennis Dempsey and we express our best wishes to them as they shall serve us all.

The Hesperian pledges to work with the city and schools for the continued progress of both. . . . we look forward to printing the news week by week of continued growth. . . . of a better life for our adults and our young people.

An honest commercial

(From the Arlington Journal)

A DOCTOR in Cleveland, Ohio, may not know it yet, but he has made the boldest pronouncement since the USA called Russia's bluff in Cuba.

This man said in public that one aspirin product or related compound is about as good as another. He actually said that:

"They're all good medicines, I suppose," he said, "but all of these combination products are probably no better or no worse than aspirin alone."

Anyone who has been exposed to the claims for various "aspirin products and related compounds" in the television commercials has to shudder for the good doctor.

One product as good as another, indeed. As television viewers know, each product is incomparably better than the other. In fact, all the others are — ough.

Doctor, you'd better bolt the doors, shut off the phone, go to bed and take plenty of — well you decide which one. We're chicken!

Races only for the rich?

(From the Ochiltree County Herald)

AFTER reading some of the expense account blues of politicians, we wonder if maybe the place for LBJ to start his Anti-Poverty program is with the people seeking elected office in this country.

It is quite apparent by now that politics is no place for the poor.

Although there has been little evidence to support this romantic illusion, still the notion persists that a poor man can run for political office with some chance for success.

This just isn't so any more.

Some of the winning candidates in the recent elections have been asking themselves: "What price victory?"

Maryland's new senator, Joseph Tydings, reported $142,000 in unpaid campaign bills. Senator Robert Kennedy, whose papa can afford to help him out, spent $1.2 million to unseat Kenneth Keating in New York and the total cost of this bitter Kennedy-Keating campaign is reported to exceed $4 million, far out of proportion to the salary of a U. S. Senator.

In Texas political circles, it is believed to be a conservative estimate to say that it takes $250,000 to make a vigorous state wide campaign and there are no state offices here that would allow any office holder to finance such expenditure out of his salary.

It takes a lot of money to run a district race, too. Several thousand dollars were spent by Walter Rogers and Bob Price in seeking the 18th Congressional seat.

It even takes some money to run for county office, although this is peanuts compared to a lot of other places.

Although the tradition of the poor boy in politics dies hard, the fact is clear by now that one of the first requirements for winning is to have money. We haven't had a poor man for President for some time and it is unlikely that we ever will have one.

What Will Be Next?

For years, the taxpayers have been putting up for low cost public housing to provide low rent accommodations.

Now it seems that the cost of public housing has climbed to a point where some people are unable to afford it.

It is reported that another group of families are too rich to qualify for public housing and too poor to afford private housing.

Now--you've guessed it, it is proposed that builders of cheap privately financed housing be paid by the government on a monthly basis to supplement payments of tenants too rich for public housing but too poor to pay going rents.

"It would not be a small program. . . . And so a new federal subsidy seems about to be born. . . . And we will still have with us those too poor to afford the public housing built for the poor," says the Portland Oregonian.

The public has not been told what this will cost taxpayers who are still trying to keep a roof of their own over their heads after paying federal and local taxes. (EARTH NEWS)

Yarborough New sletter

Dear Fellow Texans: Assuming a continuation of current consumption and practices, there will not be enough usable water to meet the water requirements of the State of Texas by the year 2,000.

If we are to meet the challenge that the demands for water in the near future will require, we must exert efforts not to waste time, talent, and finances, but must take immediate and appropriate steps to insure that effective measures are taken.

For this reason, I have been a firm supporter of the Water Resources Research Act, and have offered amendments to expand its coverage so that it can adequately fulfill its objectives.

Under this Act, Congress has authorized grant matching, and contract funds for assistance to educational institutions in addition to State land grant colleges, to competent private organizations and individuals, and to local, State and Federal agencies in undertaking special research in water resource problems.

The amendments which I have supported would raise the $1 million ceiling per year to $5 million, increasing by an additional $1 million annually until it reaches $10 million in the fifth year.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall has notified the Senate that in the short life of the Office of Water Resources, 36 research proposals have been received, totaling $1,750,000. This experience indicates clearly that the original $1 million ceiling is inadequate and the larger amount is justified.

In addition, this bill encourages research by water resources research institutes, since the previous provision restricting support from them has been deleted.

This proposal has widespread support in Texas. Six proposals from the Texas Water Resources Center have already been submitted. These involve research into the water cycle, water and land management, and into qualitative, economic, and institutional aspects of water resources research.

The whole future of the Southwestern part of the United States is vitally dependent on water. No sounder investment of public funds can be made today.

John Tower Newsletter

This Congress has been called by some the "Conservation Congress." A number of bills relating to conservation of our natural resources have been introduced in this session, and some have already passed the Senate. This includes two bills, S. 21 and S. 22, which I co-sponsored in the Senate.

I have co-sponsored some other water conservation measures which I also expect to see enacted into law in this session, including a bill to expand our saline water conversion program.

Because of the fact that I am deeply concerned with conservation in all its phases, I am somewhat troubled about proposals by this Administration to curtail the amount of money going into soil and water conservation activities on privately-owned land in this country, and the amount of money going into control of predators and rodents.

Both these functions are vital to our state. Proper control of predators and rodents has a beneficial effect on our wildlife population, in addition to protecting the herds and flocks of our farmers and ranchers.

The Administration recommends that $20 million be cut from the money now going into technical services for our soil conservation districts. It recommends also that Congress cut back cost-sharing through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service by $100 million.

This cutback would be very costly to the State of Texas. It would mean, for instance, that each of our 183 Soil Conservation Districts, which virtually blanket the entire state, would lose valuable technical assistance and cost-sharing funds. Each District in Texas would lose an average of $7,000 in funds for technical assistance for those farmers and ranchers who are trying to conserve their land and water for future generations. And all our districts would lose in the neighborhood of $10 million in cost-sharing funds.

This may not seem like big money when we are accustomed to hearing of foreign aid funds running into the billions, or welfare programs costing billions. But it is extremely important to the individual farmers and ranchers involved, and to future generations of Americans. If they have to hire civil engineers to come out to the farm and advise them on how to run a terrace, or build a waterway, the job just will not get done. There is simply not enough money in farming--and I speak here of the small family farm--to take care of expenses like that. The result will be that the erosion of our land will be accelerated, the topsoil will be lost to the rivers, and the rivers to the sea.

When that happens everyone suffers. As our population expands there is a reduction in the amount of land available for production, and a greater demand upon that land for production. If the available land is ravaged still further by erosion there can be only one result. Eventually prices of farm produce will become higher and higher to the consumer. So it is just good business for everybody to become concerned with conservation.

Presently our private landowners put about $5 into soil and water conservation programs for every $1 spent in this field by the federal government. I do not want to see conservation efforts curtailed, and I will oppose the Administration's moves to reduce expenditures in this field, particularly when it is spending millions and millions of dollars in welfare projects of questionable value.

In the area of rodent and predator control, the Administration recommends that spending be cut from $206,000 in Texas to $175,000 -- a cut of $31,000. Again, this does not seem like a lot of money, when we are conditioned to think in terms of billions. But it is important, nevertheless. Conservationists give the rodent and predator control program credit for assisting in the comeback of the Texas wildlife population, particularly our wild turkey and deer. It is of extreme importance, of course, to our ranchers and farmers. In fact, the Texas Senate adopted a concurrent resolution deploring the proposed reduction, and I placed that resolution in the Congressional Record, with my concurrence and approval.

In the general area of conservation, I believe the situation was summed up quite well by the Menard County Soil Conservation District Supervisors when they pointed out that "an eroded gully detracts from the beauty of America as much as an auto graveyard." Truly an eroded gully does detract from the beauty of America as much as an automobile graveyard. And it is far more wasteful.

I do not wish to see the long years of hard work, on the part of these ranchers and farmers who really care what happens to their land, ruined by false economy at a time when the goals they have sought are in sight of achievement.

Local Cancer Deaths Above U.S. Average

NEW YORK, Apr. 10 - A report just released by the U. S. National Health Service, reveals a 0.7 percent increase in cancer deaths in the United States in a period of four years, but in a more favorable light.

Even so, there have been gains, according to the National Health Education Committee. It reports that more people than ever before are going for regular medical checkups and that as a result, many cases are being detected early and cured. It claims that a fourth of those who died of cancer could have been saved had there been a timely diagnosis and proper treatment given.

Significant progress has also been made by medical research teams, despite insufficient funds available for their work. The committee states that only $154 million a year is provided for cancer research as compared with $482 million spent in the United States for greeting cards and $347 million for chewing gum.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Guest were in Fredrick, Okla., last Thursday to attend funeral rites for Arthur Pace, district manager of Chickasha Cotton-Oil Co. Pace was killed Monday afternoon in a highway accident north of Jacksboro.

For four years was a draftsman and surveyor for the Lubbock Engineering Co. Bill's hobby is playing chess and oil painting. The latter is especially enjoyed, Bill said, possibly from his drafting experience.

Holy Week services at the San Jose Catholic Church were announced this week by Rev. Paul Link, pastor. Everone is cordially invited to attend the services, the pastor said. Following are the times for the various services:

Final tribute to 26 year old Winfred West was paid Thursday afternoon as numerous friends and relatives from the area attended his funeral held in the First Methodist Church. The young farmer was accidentally electrocuted last Tuesday evening while attempting to get a rabbit out of an irrigation pipe. As he lifted the pipe it struck a high line. West was pronounced dead on arrival at Lockney General Hospital.

ceiving more attention than other forms of the disease. Nationally, it accounted for 16 percent of all cancer deaths. Locally, it was responsible for only one of them.

Had it not been for this branch of the disease, which registered a 26 percent rise in the United States in the four-year period, the cancer picture as a whole would appear in a more favorable light.

School Boards Favor $45 Plan

AUSTIN - The Texas Association of School Boards asserted Saturday that 92.3 percent of school boards answering an association questionnaire said they favor an across-the-board $45 monthly pay raise for public school teachers.

The association said 312 of the 1,000 Texas school boards answered the survey.

Gov. Connally has presented a plan to raise teacher salaries gradually over the next 10 years, with the biggest raises going to veteran teachers and those with advanced degrees.

The governor's plan requires school districts to share textbook and teacher retirement costs under the minimum foundation program.

LOOK OVER RECORDS—Jack Parks, J. S. Hale, Jr., and Bill Price look over Hale's Flame Cultivation records. Parks is the Flame Cultivation Engineer for the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway. Hale farms about 9 miles southeast of Floydada and Price is a Flame Cultivation specialist with Western Farm Supply in Floydada.

Flame Cultivator Worth More Than Other Farm Equipment

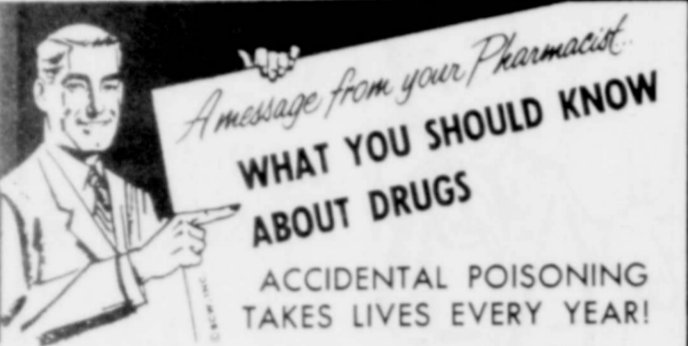

J. S. Hale, Jr., a farmer from south of Floydada, Texas, has been using flame as an economical weed control method since 1962. In tribute to the effectiveness of the use of flame cultivation, Jay told Jack Parks, Flame Cultivation Engineer for the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway,

Texas, that if all of the farming equipment he had was his knife planter and his flame cultivator, he would still make money.

Hale has been using flame cultivation on his Floyd County farm since 1962 with the objective in mind of total weed control. Working closely with Hale has been his local L.F.G. Dealer from Floydada, Bill Price of Wiley Butane. These two have put into practice on the Hale farm the research developed by the Foundation and have CUT THE WEED CONTROL COST.

One of the original supporters of the flame cultivation research program at the Foundation, Hale says of flaming, "I just cannot understand why other farmers will not use flame cultivation. I am in this farming business to make money and flaming does it—it works!"

Jay's wife, Kay Hale, is a trained bookkeeper and keeps full records on all of the expenditures of the farm. When Hale speaks of the saving he has received as a result of the use of heat, he gets down his record books for each year and looks it up. This is not guess work farming, but a well-planned business.

From his records, Hale told Parks that in 1960 he spent over $10.00 per acre to hand-hoe his cotton. In 1961, his cost was in excess of $18.00 per acre, and in 1962, the cost of hand-hoeing his cotton was $10.20 per acre. Compare this to his 1964 cost of 76¢ per acre by using flame cultivation. This cost included: operator's time, fuel cost, cost of repair to the equipment and depreciation.

The 1962 weed control cost in grain sorghum was $8.00 per acre and Hale said that he still has not recovered from the shock of this high cost on certified seed plots. His flaming cost in 1964 was $1.28 per acre for his first flaming and $1.02 for the second. This cost includes fuel and operator only.

Hand hoeing in onions in 1961 cost $28.55 per acre to control the weeds. In 1964, his flame cost for weed control in the onions was $1.36 per acre. This is the cost of fuel only. Jay Hale does not limit his modern farming to flaming, but is also a strong worker in his area for water conservation and is a member of the Floyd County Water District. On his farm south of Floydada, Hale has leveled large areas that once were sloping land. Along with all of this, he has also used a 120 acre lake as a tailwater irrigation pit from which he has irrigated one field of 320 acres.

The cost of the flame cultivator is spread out on the Hale farm through using the high clearance machine for several different jobs. These include: flaming of crops, defoliating of cotton; non-selective flaming around barrow ditches; and broadcast flaming of onions. "The flame cultivator is making me more money than any other piece of equipment I have other than my irrigation well." So says J. S. Hale, Jr., a farmer from Floydada, Texas, who uses flaming as a means to control weeds, and MAKE MORE MONEY.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER THINKS:

LBJ Referred To Him When He Mentioned Disorderly Planet

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses orderliness this week, a topic rather far afield for him.

In his speech on television the other night, President Johnson said sort of in passing that this will be a disorderly planet for some time to come, though it doesn't have to be that way forever.

What I want to know is, who told him about this Johnson grass farm?

To an outsider, this place may seem disorderly, and if it was located in some other country I'll admit it probably would be recommended for foreign aid to bring it up to 20th century standards, but one trouble with me and some foreign countries is that we're satisfied, in a backward sort of way, with the out-moded system we're using.

For example, say I need my pipe wrench. I don't have to go hunting all over the place for it. All I have to do is remember where the last pipe busted, and that's where the wrench is.

Or why walk yourself to death putting your hoe in the tool house when you know the place you're going to need it again is in the garden? If I pass by the garden and notice a weed, chances are it'll stay there if I have to walk back to the tool house to get a hoe. When the weeds get so tall you can't find your hoe in them, you don't need it anyway. It's too late. Let it stay there and try for a garden again next year. This doesn't feed a hungry world but it doesn't depress the price of vegetables either.

I don't know anything about this phase, but I've been told that sometimes the business man with the cleanest desk has the emptiest mind, but that's out of my territory and I have no way of knowing. I've never seen your desk.

But speaking of disorderliness on this planet, people may come first in this line, but I'll put the weather second. Some weather experts think it follows a pattern, but up to now they haven't been very successful in telling us longer than 10 hours ahead of time what the pattern is. As a result, they're a lot better at telling you what the weather was yesterday than what it'll be tomorrow. The next time you listen to a weather forecast on television, see if the forecaster doesn't spend nine-tenths of his time telling you what happened yesterday, and then hastily just before he ducks out of sight tell you what to expect tomorrow.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Lloyd and Mrs. L. B. Stewart Sr., spent the weekend in Tuba City, Ariz., visiting Mrs. Stewart's daughter, Carolyn who teaches school there. The Floydada people reported heavy snow fall in the Tuba City and surrounding area while they were there and very hazardous driving the first part of their return trip.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Even in these days of big boats and fast runabouts, there still is a place for the fishing boat.

But, there are extremes even in fishing boats. For example, the kayak. Yep, we said the kayak.

For years Lyndsay Phillips, manager of the Durant Chamber of Commerce, has been a kayak fisherman. He made his own kayak of marine plywood. It is so small and so light that he can hoist it to the top of his automobile alone.

His is a shallow-draft boat. It has only enough room for Phillips to sit in the bottom. With his legs outstretched and the sides of the boat fitting close to his hips, he maneuvers his rig around some of the hottest bass fishing spots of Lake Texoma.

Fishing is particularly good in the spring of the year. That's when the big black bass get back into shallow water, off sandy points. And those are the very spots Phillips heads for.

With his rig he can move into spots where others can't even get within casting distance.

Phillips' kayak is painted battleship gray. It is pointed on both ends like a cigar. A brace or arm, extends out from the back side. To this is attached a small Mighty Mite motor. This little motor is very effective in moving Phillips' light rig anywhere he wants it to go.

Fishing with the Durant man is quite an experience. Actually, you don't fish with him, you fish alongside him or near-by.

One day a couple of our mutual friends were in a 16-ft. aluminum boat on Lake Texoma. As these fishermen started out, Phillips ran his little kayak alongside the larger craft. He lifted the little Mighty Mite's prop out of the water, caught hold of the larger boat, and went piggy-back across the big lake.

When Phillips got into shallow fishing water, he shoved off. Before his boat had stopped gliding, his little gas motor caught and he was on his way into water that the larger boat couldn't even enter with the motor raised.

Phillips, who is adept with a paddle, keeps two short oars in the boat. He places one on each side of the kayak so that he can use either one if and when he wants it.

Phillips' gear consists of a 9-ft. glass rod and a Shakespeare President reel. His casting from that little boat was like poetry. With just a little flick of the wrist, his lure sails out to the foot of some brush or beside a protruding rock.

He works the lure easily, then reels it in for another cast. One thing for sure, he always works out his spot well before abandoning it.

On this particular day he and his party were fishing in the Peach Orchard area, just below the Roosevelt bridge. And from what we're told, Phillips knew the addresses of a lot of big ol' bass around those stumps.

Actually, my fishing friends spent more time watching Phillips than they did fishing. He was like an artist at work.

Once he gets a strike and sets the hook, he moves the bass in quietly to the side of his boat. Thanks to the kayak, he doesn't even have to bend over to run his fingers through the fish's gills. He sits on a level with the water anyway.

Phillips makes a mental note of the size of each fish he lands. Invariably, when he lifts the fish from the water, he holds it alongside his rod handle for a size comparison. If it doesn't please him, back the fish goes into the water.

One of Phillips' tricks is his use of an anchor. He has a small weight attached to a heavy piece of trolley cord wrapped around a length of broomstick. When he finds a spot where he wants to fish, he plays enough of the line over the side of his kayak to set the anchor. Then he drops the broomstick to the bottom of the boat and holds it down with his foot. When he gets ready to move on he carefully winds the line back on to the broomstick handle and goes on his way.

That's how one man does it. Phillips formerly lived in Stephenville. He went to Durant nearly ten years ago to retire. Then he started fishing - and it has made a younger man of him.

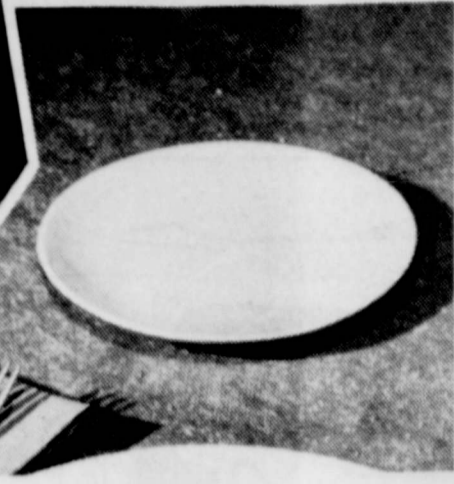

Changing Times
"I hear that the Administration is trying to stop necking."
"Is that so? First thing you know, they'll be trying to make the students stop, too."

CONFUSING RECORDS
Charlotte, N. C.—Spencer Furr has served in the Army, drives a Queen City Trailways bus, smokes big cigars, and is married, but he has not been able to get his birth certificate changed to show that he was born a boy—not a girl. The discovery was made when he went into the Army in 1940.
