 Yours truly and daughter, Mary Ann, spent Monday and Tuesday nights with her mother, Mrs. John Fortenberry, while the roads were so bad. We didn't have to walk to the pavement last Monday morning, as anticipated, and still appreciate the thoughtfulness of my brother, Robin Fortenberry, pulling the mud to pick us up and deliver us to our car which we had left in front of his house. That, I think, is "brotherly love."

SAYS FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Cities Outsmart Farmers On Ways To Get Federal Aid

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm seems impressed by the way cities are seeking Federal aid.

Dear editor:

No that cities have stopped denouncing farmers for getting Federal subsidies, which occurred about the same time the cities started getting some themselves, I was pleased to read an item I ran across in a newspaper last night.

According to it, an official in a big city has come out with a proposal I could kick myself for not thinking up years ago. His idea is that, since the Federal government wants to help the cities out financially, and apparently every city in the nation needs help, or will take it, which is nearly the same thing, once they get used to it, the best way to handle the distribution most efficiently is to "provide a lump sum to every city based on population," and then—and here's the kicker—"let these amounts be without strings for the cities to use in any manner they deem best in their local wisdom."

Why didn't us farmers think that up? It's one thing to get a check from the government, but invariably there's a bunch of rules and regulations tied to it. You've got to plant this much, or you can't plant that much, or you've got to keep the weeds off the un-used part, etc., etc. How could Washington know better than I what ought to be done out here on this Johnson grass farm? Always insisting on some kind of bureaucratic interference. Then coming around to make sure you've complied.

Depend on the cities to outsmart us. Of course, it should have been done a long time ago, the sensible way is to just turn the money over, whether it's a city or a farm, and let everybody work out his own problems without any outside advice.

The next time us farmers need a new farm program, if we're smart we'll get somebody in town to help us write it.

Yours, faithfully,
J. A.

He Turned His Land to

"SOLID GRAIN"

A new row system plus other new practices helped Joe Chase turn 293 acres of land to "solid grain."

Fertilizer, improved varieties, new row technique, irrigation, and weed control helped Joe Chase turn 293 acres of land to solid grain and to average 7,300 pounds per acre on nearly 300 acres of grain sorghum.

This is Chase's spacing plan to get solid grain. Three rows are drilled 10 inches apart on a "plateau" which leaves a 36-inch "water zone" and 56 inches from center row to center row.

"WHEN I look over a field of sorghum that is just about ready for harvest, I like to see solid grain just like a field of wheat," says Joe Chase of Hansford County, Tex.

Chase is a combination sorghum-wheat farmer in the northern tip of the Texas Panhandle. Several years ago, he decided that wheat and sorghum are similar in a number of ways. Both plants are rather short, both are adapted to his 773-acre farm operation, and both are combined with the same machine.

But there were differences. The most striking was the planting technique used. While wheat was drilled solid, sorghum was typically planted in 40-inch rows and at relatively low seeding rates (6 to 7 pounds per acre). In fact, at harvest it appeared as if half the sorghum field were wasted. After careful consideration, Chase decided to make some changes which would make better use of his irrigated sorghum ground.

One of the major ones was to drop "horse and mule" 40-inch rows. In 1965, the combination of this and several other improved practices helped him average over 7,000 pounds per acre on 293 sorghum acres. His top yield ran 8,300 pounds per acre on a 25-acre field.

Chase started with a good seedbed and then drilled in 13 pounds of seed per acre in three 10-inch rows on a 56-inch bed. Here's the way he looks at the narrow-row technique:

"We knew that the old practice of one row every 40 inches wasn't making the best use of our land. Yet, if you planted 20-inch rows, you couldn't irrigate. Many farmers have put two 10-inch rows on beds 40 inches apart, but this only allows 30 inches for irrigating between the rows, and we like to provide more area for root development. We finally ended up by putting three 10-inch rows on a bed every 56 inches. This gives us a good solid bed for the plants and also allows us 36 inches for irrigating. On a field basis, this figures out to a row of grain every 18 2/3 inches. Of course, with bed planting, this isn't our arrangement in the field. However, at harvest we get the solid field of sorghum heads we were aiming for."

Chase also noted that water and fertilizer utilization is improved with this planting arrangement. By shading of the furrow between the rows, evaporation losses are reduced.

Chase applies fertilizer based on yield goals and soil tests. Last year, he put on 53 pounds of phosphate and 175 pounds of anhydrous ammonia. An aerial application of 3/4 to 1 pint of 2,4-D per acre was used to control weeds. He did not cultivate.

One of the more important parts of Chase's formula for higher yields includes his hybrid selection.

"If you are using the same sorghum you planted five years ago, you're not making the best use of water and fertilizer," says Chase. "We have increased our yield by 50% by putting together all of these improved practices. The Lubbock hybrid that can take it. We can see the improvement in germination, seedling vigor, ability to withstand hot weather stress, and hybrids. The ability to stand up to the heat is important if we get behind on our water top yield this year of 8,300 pounds was of DeKalb F-61, a relatively new hybrid bronze-colored seed."

Solid grain—that's what Joe Chase saw on his sorghum acreage. And that he saw last year. His combination of production factors produced a bumper crop. Here is a list of the basic ingredients that went into his production recipe:

1. Put on enough fertilizer to meet goal and satisfy soil tests.
2. Prepare a good seedbed and irrigate enough water.
3. Select the right population for natural practices and utilize the advantages of narrow rows.
4. Control weeds and insects.
5. Plant a hybrid which will make the most of these cultural practices.

AMERICANS WHOBY MUST

London - A well-known British psychiatrist called Americans "the most worried people in the world." Dr. Joshua Bierer said prosperity and women were at the root of most Americans' troubles.

New Under The Sun

"Something new under the sun" that beautifies homes and makes leisure living more fun is the new look in canvas awnings and shelters.

New colors, new designs, and new fabric treatments have taken the old utilitarian shade devices out of the realm of the merely practical and given home owners a whole new concept in exterior decorating.

Awnings are designed not only to shade windows but to be an integral part of the home's architecture.

Backyard shelters range from simple patio spot shades to elaborate poolside cabanas and privacy shelters reminiscent of the old-fashioned summer house or gazebo.

Colors run from delicate pastels to vivid new decorator tones... in solids, stripes, and florals to suit the most imaginative taste.

Family Tip For Summer Pleasure

Keep a can of push-button insect repellent near every door.

Make it a family habit to spray with an insect repellent each time any member of the family goes outside for an activity that will bring them near biting pests. These nuisance insects will attack you while just strolling through the garden, or when enjoying a family picnic, golfing, even a romp with the dog.

To make sure all members of the family know where the repellent is, keep a can at each door leading outside. The new materials, Kik's Personal Insect Repellent for example, are very attractively packaged so they do not have to be hidden.

Local Santa Fe Station Agent In 4 Week School

J. M. Wade, Santa Fe Station Agent for Floydada, is among seventeen other people in similar positions attending a four-week training course for apprentice station agents that began in Amarillo Monday, May 2.

A similar course, termed Operation "Instant Agent," was offered apprentice agents last year on the Plains division only.
"We felt it was so successful it should be enlarged to include other Western Lines points," J. D. Shelton, transportation inspector, Amarillo, said.
Shelton will serve as coordinator of the course that includes students from various cities on the Western Lines.

"The men will be schooled in routine station work, telegraphy, traffic and other operating department matters," Shelton said. "Instant Agent" should help relieve the acute shortage of agents that we have at the start of every summer, by qualifying the young men for the duties of a station agent fully a year earlier than normally expected."

In addition to operating and traffic department lectures, the heads of the communications, safety, better freight handling, law, passenger and public relations departments will act as "visiting professors" and discuss their operations with the apprentices.

The students will attend classes from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., five days a week in the Assembly Room at the passenger station which has been equipped with dummy telegraph and teletype machines and other instructional equipment. Tours

Singing Meets
Here May 8

The monthly Second Sunday Singing will be held in the Nazarene Church here from 2 until 4 p.m., it was announced by C. M. Lyles, president of the organization.

He also reported that the last singing was an outstanding one with singers and lovers of Gospel music from several counties around here coming to make the meeting a success.

Anyone who enjoys this music is urged to be at the Nazarene Church at 2 p.m. Sunday and join the group in the singing.

The automatic data processing system for individual returns has just been installed this fil-taxpayers had not filed a tax return. They collected $2,000,000.

remedy for the situation. Shortly after the first picture was taken the city installed the cyclone fence nets, and set the posts at the 1/3 marks in the concrete court. To date the nets haven't been destroyed or damaged. (Staff Photo)

LOCAL CHALLENGERS FALL SHORT

Melvin Best, Doug Ehle Best In Floydada Partnership Meet

Melvin Best and Doug Ehle of Lubbock walked off with the top honors at the Floydada Partnership Tournament held at the Floydada Country Club Thursday-Sunday of last week. The local entries that came nearest being challengers were Jack Williams of Plainview and Max Dyess of Floydada who won the tournament two years ago.

The winners posted an 18-under par 270 for the tournament while the Dyess-Williams combination shot 276. Robert McKinney and Sid Wall were tied with T. C. Hamilton and Rick Rogers with 275 for second place. Hamilton and Rogers won the event last year.

The winners walked away from the field in the last 36 holes for they shot 11 under par in the final round. They had a 7 under par for the first 36 holes.

A final rally by defending champions Rick Rogers and T. C. Hamilton gained a tie with Sid Wall and Robert McKinney for second place as both teams had a 275 total. It was too cold for a playoff, so they divided second and third prizes, gift certificates.

Best and Ehle combined for a six-under par 66 during the morning round to go into the final 18 three shots ahead of McKinney and Wall.

Jack Williams and Max Dyess, who won the tourney a couple of years back, finished at 276, but Williams had one of the better shots of the day when he holed out from about 30 feet for a birdie on No. 5.

Farmers, Uniform Planting Date Aids Plains Boll Weevil Control Program

By Joe Wilson
 A delayed uniform cotton planting period will aid the total boll weevil control effort in Floyd County according to Don Rummell, Extension Entomologist who has worked with the program the last 2 years. The entomologist has recommended that farmers in the boll weevil control zone delay their cotton planting until at least May 10 to May 20. Earlier planted cotton allows more time for weevils buildups and usually results in larger weevil populations by mid summer.

Uniform planting will also pay off when farmers control overwintered weevils. When all the cotton in a particular area is planted about the same time, it will reach the proper stage for overwintered weevil treatment at the same time. This would allow entire communities to spray for overwintered weevils in only one or two days. Experience has shown us that community wide boll weevil control is much more effective than each farmer spraying.

Activity Day Winners Named

Last Friday was a day most looked forward to by the students at Junior High School almost as much as the last day of school. That was the annual Activity Day, when a number of events, including boys and girls foot races, bicycle races, broad jump, egg toss, three legged races, wheelbarrow races and sack races were commonplace. Other activities, or displays, included a number of literary events and a display of hobbies in the shop section of the day's events. The winner in the eighth grade division was room 8C with 143 points. The second place winner, 8E had a total of 129 points and 8D, in third place, had 106. The winner in the seventh grade division won easily with 170 points. That was room 7D. The nearest competition, 7E, had 130 points and third place winner, 7C, had a total of 108 points. There was a tie for first place in the sixth grade events between 6C and 6D, each of which amassed 143 points. The nearest competition was 6B in third place with 104 points.

HAYGRAZER
 Largest selling sorghum-Sudangrass hybrid in the U. S.

Golden Acres brand TE Haygrazer takes care of the needs of more livestock at lower cost than any ordinary grazing crop you may have planted before. It's because Haygrazer comes on fast, can be grazed early and then comes back fast to provide a lot more grazing—plentiful pasture all summer long.

If the weather turns dry, you can expect to see good stands of Haygrazer long after ordinary grazing crops have faded away.

Plant Golden Acres brand TE Haygrazer now; you'll get the best grazing—and in a big hurry. Buy your Haygrazer seed now. We have them.

There is only one original Haygrazer, and it comes from Golden Acres. If the name TE Haygrazer is not on the bag, it's not Haygrazer.

that I know of is to know that THE AMERICAN RIFLEMAN and the National Rifle Association are doing all they can to keep our gun laws as flexible as possible at home.

Over here a rifle and a pistol are a part of a person; not just an item of issue with many of us. The .45 automatic I carry was purchased through the National Rifle Association, and I'm proud of it. The M14 that has been issued to me is a part of me, as well. Many of the young soldiers serving over here have for the first time, a year or so ago, become thoroughly familiar with rifles, and now have a desire to use them in activities at home. The NRA through its help in gun legislation at home can guarantee this freedom when we return home.

There are currently many young men facing death over here who would be better off today if they had had a better understanding of weapons in years past. But, beliefs being what they are in some families, these young men weren't encouraged to use firearms. Now these same individuals sleep with a rifle or gun within quick grasp. They eat with that same weapon in hand because their lives depend on it.

Yet some people want to take away our right to bear arms. They also want to draft young men into the Armed Forces who have no prior experience with firearms of any type. These same people are the ones who carry on every time a soldier—who 6 to 8 months before had never had a weapon in his hands—gets killed for lack of proper training. Yes, I am being cynical about this, but yet these things happen and are true.

In years past we were known as a "Nation of Rifleman," but the more restrictive laws dealing with firearms can deprive us of this heritage. The dream of each young boy of owning his own .22 rifle must not be taken away.

We have caused wars and made this same individual go and fight without proper marksmanship training. You don't issue a man a rifle and 8 weeks later tell him that he is a marksman and that he is trained to kill. It just isn't done. To be a marksman takes many hours of dedicated thought and training. You don't learn overnight. It is something that must come of age with a man.

I hope that when my son becomes 8 years of age I have the pleasure of teaching him to shoot and the opportunity to be with him on his first hunt. Yes, I want my son to enjoy the pleasures of hunting and shooting as I have.

A few years ago, to help preserve our right to bear arms, I joined the National Rifle

Rites Held For Mattie Stewart

Mrs. Mattie A. Stewart, 77, wife of R. C. Stewart Sr., 701 W. Crockett, died about 8 p.m. Friday in her home. Mrs. Stewart had been a resident of Floydada some 15 years, moving here from Falls.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday in the Primitive Baptist Church with elders Joe Jackson and Dennis Taylor officiating.

Mrs. Stewart was born in Van Zandt County December 12, 1888. She was preceded in death by a son, R. C. Jr., of Floydada who died in October of 1960. Survivors include her husband; a son, David of Falls; four daughters, Mrs. R. D. Hicks, Floydada; Mrs. Naomi Marr of Abilene; Mrs. Marie Jones of Sanger, Calif.; and Mrs. R. C. Martin of Pantex; one brother, H. A. Sanders Jr., Mangum, Okla.; one sister, Mrs. J. O. Chisum of Casa Grande, Arizona; 11 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren.

Burial was in Floydada Cemetery under the direction of Moore Funeral Home. Grandsons were pallbearers.

Bond Sales Total $9,054 During March

Savings Bond sales for the first three months of 1966 in Floyd County totaled $74,230. Of this amount $9,054 were purchased during March according to a report released by Don Pemberton, Chairman of the Floyd County Savings Bonds Committee.

Sales in Texas for the first quarter of 1966 amounted to $38,640,779 which represents 26% of the state's goal of $147.5 million.

"We are delighted to report that Series E and H Bond sales during the month of March were 12.5% greater than March 1965. This fine sales increase can be contributed to the fact that the interest rate on Savings Bonds was raised recently to 4.15%, compounded semiannually when held to maturity. Also, more American citizens are putting part of their savings in Savings Bonds to help support our fighting men in Vietnam," Chairman Pemberton pointed out.

Association as a Life member. To this day I have no regrets. After I return to the U. S. I hope to have my wife become a Life member. Yes, I feel that strongly about the good work the National Rifle Association is doing.

Get Ready For Summer NOW

NOW, BEFORE HOT WEATHER ARRIVES, IS THE TIME TO MAKE SURE YOUR ELECTRIC AIR CONDITIONING UNIT IS READY TO KEEP YOU COMFORTABLE THIS SUMMER.

A QUALIFIED AIR CONDITIONING SERVICE-MAN SHOULD CHECK YOUR UNIT.
FILTERS OF THE UNIT SHOULD BE CLEANED OR REPLACED FOR MOST EFFICIENT OPERATION.
ANY WORN OR EXPOSED WIRING SHOULD BE REPAIRED OR REPLACED.

THE REFRIGERATED UNIT SHOULD HAVE SUFFICIENT COOLANT IN THE UNIT TO INSURE EFFICIENT OPERATION. IF COOLANT IN THE AIR CONDITIONER IS TOO LOW, IT REDUCES EFFICIENCY OF OPERATION AND INCREASES COST OF OPERATION.

THE COMPRESSOR SHOULD BE IN FIRST CLASS OPERATING CONDITION FOR MOST EFFICIENT OPERATION OF THE AIR CONDITIONER.

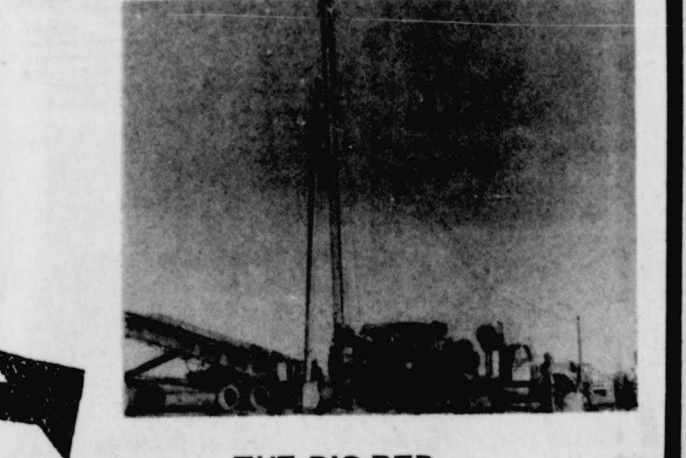

"ELECTRIC AIR CONDITIONING IS A SUMMER BOON, BUT LIKE ALL APPLIANCES, IT MUST HAVE GOOD MAINTENANCE IF IT IS TO OPERATE EFFICIENTLY. AN INSPECTION TO MAKE SURE YOUR EQUIPMENT IS IN THE BEST CONDITION FOR SUMMER CAN PAY YOU BIG DIVIDENDS IN LOWER COSTS OF OPERATION AND IN MORE EFFICIENT COOLING FOR YOUR HOME."

Lighthouse Electric Coop., Inc. Mary Phillips Home Economist TEENAGE FARM SAFETY MAKES SENSE

With the coming of spring, farm operations will be underway and there will be an upswing in agribusiness. Enthusiastically waiting for the activity to begin will be some 800,000 teenage workers under 18 who will be employed on farms and in related activities this year.

The employment of teenagers is an important part of their educational development. It creates initiative, self-respect, responsibility, and maturity. They make good workers and they're willing to work hard and get the job done.

Many of these youngsters will be working around equipment which is potentially dangerous in the hands of an unskilled user. Energetic teenagers, desirous to show that they can do a good job, but lacking the experience and mature judgment required, can injure themselves and others working with them. The annual toll of death and injury to farm employed teenagers has shown an alarming rise.

To say the least, many of the accidents occur needlessly. If you are employing teenagers on your farm or in your agribusiness, remember these helpful points:

1. Employment is new to teenagers and concentration on the job can be difficult.
2. Teenagers may have adult

Ralph Wayne Named Chairman Legislative Council Study Group

AUSTIN — Lieutenant Governor Preston Smith, Chairman of the Texas Legislative Council, named Representative Ralph Wayne of Plainview Chairman of the Legislative Council study committee charged with the responsibility of the preparation of an official brochure for the State Capitol of Texas. Representative Wayne replaces Representative Wayne Gibbens as Chairman of this committee. Representative Wayne demonstrated outstanding leadership and ability as a Member of the House of Representatives, representing District 89 composed of Swisher, Briscoe, Hale and Floyd Counties. Representative Wayne is presently serving on the following standing committees in the House of Representatives: Aeronautics, Conservation and abilities, but they're still young in judgment and experience and may not be as strong as they look. Match them with the job.

3. They are curious and eager to get the job done quickly-- therefore, they occasionally take dangerous chances.

4. You must set safety rules and habits yourself and obey them if you expect teenagers to follow good examples rather than bad ones.

5. Good safety attitudes among your workers are contagious.

6. Show youngsters exactly how to do the job safely. Have them practice the operation while you watch them.

7. Repeat safety instructions and the reasons for them--often! Everybody, including yourself needs reminders so you don't become complacent.

8. Give them continuous supervision, even during rest periods.

9. And be sure your machines are in good repair and safe and make sure no hazards exist on your property.

STRONG CHURCHES Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

DARRELL FAIRES

Devotional of the Month

BY DARRELL FAIRES,
PASTOR FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The planet Earth on which we live revolves at the rate of one thousand miles an hour. This is a fast moving world. Modern man has increased his pace of living tremendously in the last few generations. Some scientists say that if we were to condense all of time down to fifty years we would have this startling order of events: 10 years ago man stopped living in caves; 5 years ago picture writing started; 2 years ago Christianity came into being; 5 months ago the printing press was invented; 10 days ago electricity was discovered; yesterday the Wright brothers flew their first plane; television was invented since this morning; jets came into being 10 minutes ago. The sum of human knowledge doubled itself between the years 1900 and 1930. It doubled again between 1930 and 1950. From 1950 to 1960 it doubled again. Once more it doubled in the years between 1960 and 1965. It almost makes your head swim to think about how fast man is moving today. In Lexington, Kentucky there is a statue of the great race horse, Man of War. On the pedestal there is an inscription, "This is the fastest horse the world has ever seen." Some wag wrote underneath this, "This is the fastest world this horse has ever seen." We are living fast in a fast moving world. But the question occurs to me, "are we living, really living?" We must admit that today we are getting there faster, but where is there? It seems that many persons today have no particular destination in life. Then why the hurry to get nowhere? It is like getting on a merry-go-round. No matter how fast you go, when it stops you're right where you started.

This fast pace of living is evidenced in many ways, many of which are causing crises and revolutions. Every area of life is affected, politics, economics, social relations, education, religion, etc. We need not waste our time lamenting our situation. This is the world we are going to have to live in. However, we do have the opportunity of deciding whether or not we are going to live or merely exist. Jesus Christ came into the world to show men the way to "abundant life." When Jesus said this he did not mean the same thing that the electric company means when it says "live better electrically." The better life is one which has its basis in spiritual values rather than material, in eternal values rather than temporal.

The fast moving pace of life today not only makes your head swim, often it makes your heart sick. In our prosperous and affluent America, enjoying the highest "standard of living" in the history of mankind we also have the highest number of emotionally disturbed people (people who can't live with themselves) and the highest rate of divorce (people who can't live with each other). As a nation we consume aspirin and tranquilizers by the carload. What does all this mean? It means simply that man is a spiritual being and that life cannot subsist on a diet of material things only. What Jesus said many years ago is as true today as it was the day he said it: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God." The abundant life is not nourished by cars and houses and boats and lakeside cabins. True life comes from a different "standard of living." This standard of living is one with meaning and purpose and direction. Christ shows us the way to this life by his teaching and by his example. Christians following in this way have the privilege of enjoying their journey and the added bonus of knowing their final destination.

The warning that all of us need to be aware of in this day of helter-skelter living is given to us by the Psalmist: "Be still, and know that I am God." The temptation to rush through life is pressed upon us from all sides. Christians seek to point the way toward a life which does take time for God, which does seek to keep life in perspective.

The quality of life demanded (and made possible) by the gospel is one which has the dimension of fulness. It is life lived in response to the living, redemptive presence of God. It is life which has depth and breadth. To achieve this kind of life in a materialistic, prosperous culture is not easy. "It is difficult for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven." The growing pains being experienced by the churches today means that they are being painfully awakened to the recognition that the Gospel does require a higher quality of discipleship than has previously been rendered. In a sense the church today is standing at the foot of Calvary and being called to bear up its cross. I believe that the church will continue to be faithful to its God and his calling and will bear that cross. To do this means that each of us must undertake the disciplines of prayer, study and worship. It means we must "be still, and know God." Just as a paragraph which rambles on and on endlessly without any punctuation soon becomes meaningless, so life also needs it punctuation. The Lord's Day is the time to punctuate life with meaning by being in His house.

We exist in a time that demands creative living or meaningless death. Jesus Christ is the way to creative, abundant life. He offers you this way. Choose Him and you choose life rather than death.
