NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS by Sherry Mullin

Our air-conditioned supermarkets tempt us especially at the meat counter, where so many attractive cuts are displayed chilly-cold in refrigerated cases. But meat is perishable. Once it's bagged and put in a hot automobile, it should be rushed home. And from here on, it's up to us to handle it very carefully as our supermarket has. These 5 points tell how:

1. Unwrap fresh meat - leave meat bought at the self-service counter in its wrapper if you plan to use it that day. Other-

★ U. S. Soldier...What A Man ★

Following article from PFC Stanley C. Hulsey, 1966 Tulia High School graduate, in response to an editorial by Editor Danny Cook - "Don't Fight Board" which appeared on the Hornet page 4.

U S SOLDIER
WHAT A MAN HE IS
The average age of the combat GI in many units in Viet Nam is eighteen and a half. And What A Man He Is!

A pink-cheeked, tousled-haired, tight-muscled fellow who, under normal circumstances, would be considered by society as half man, half boy, not yet dry behind the ears, a pain in the unemployment chart.

But, here and now, he is the beardless hope of a free man. He listens to rock and roll - and 105 mm Howitzers.

He just got out of high school within the past year, received so-so grades, played a little football and had a girl who broke up with him when he went overseas or who swears she is still faithful although he is half the world away.

He has learned to like beer by now, because it is cold, and because it is "the thing to do." He smokes because he gets free cigarettes in his C-ration package, and it is also the thing to do.

COOK OUT RECIPE
CHUCK WAGON PEPPER STEAK

1 round-bone arm chuck roast or boneless round roast, cut about 2 inches thick (about 3 pounds) instant unseasoned meat tenderizer

2. Mix vinegar, oil, lemon juice, onion, oregano, and bay leaf in a 2 cup measure; pour over and around meat. Cover; chill about 2 hours, turning meat often to season evenly.

3. When ready to grill, remove meat from marinade. (Save marinade, if you wish, for meat for another cookout.) Place meat on cutting board; pound half the crushed peppercorns into each side with a wooden mallet or edge of a saucer. Place meat on grill over hot coals

It is warm weather to talk about furs but they are being shown at this season for the fall. There is variety in the new coats, dresses and stoles. Different shades of mink are used to fashion garments a darker mink may bind a jacket or be used around the hemline or as a collar. Stoles are still popular and the three-quarter length coat is good. Short jackets are smart.

Limited Range
"Oh, Doctor, I'm so upset," said the woman. "My husband seems to be wandering in his mind."

"Don't let that worry you," replied the doctor. "I know your husband—he can't go far."

think I am a bitter soul when it comes to something mentioned like above. I know there were white people as well as negroes involved in the demonstration, I know the need of someone else's help is something that everyone of us comes face to face during events of our life time. No one is so self-contained that he can honestly say, "I don't need help from someone." Basically, I believe there is in everyone of us the will and desire to help some soul in distress. To me, there is nothing more rewarding than the deep satisfaction that one acquires when a good deed is done, but to try and get assistance in the way demonstrators are going about it is enough to make all mankind bitter.

MANY years ago a missionary followed a coolie pack-carrier over a gorge. Looking at the frayed ropes of the bridge with apprehension the missionary asked, "Aren't you afraid the bridge might collapse?" The coolie smiled and shrugged a slow negative "I never has".

elected president, he had $601 in the bank. These days it takes more than that to become a town alderman, but who wants to go back to the time of Lincoln.

GOOD manners today are something more than just superficial frosting on the cake. The child who is taught to say, "please and thank you, excuse me and I beg your pardon", is not the one who is rude or thoughtless in his relationship with society. Consideration for others goes hand in hand with the speaking of courteous words.

IF anyone has any loose gravel they would like to give away I wish they would give me a ring. I would nearly be willing to haul it from your place to mine in a wheel barrow. It's muddy days that one appreciates paved roads and the dirt ones everyone uses up our way gets deeper ruts each rain shower. I really appreciated the late Virgil Williamson, who kept it so well maintained.

IT was Leo Roston who said, "You can understand people better if you look at them - no matter how old or impressive they may be - as if they are children. For most of us never mature; we simply grow taller."

of Census at 1,187,472. Statewide production in came to 2,721,055 according to the Census re-report for 1967 revealed an average yield per acre for the Plains counties of 473.8 pounds as compared to 1966 average yield of 449 pounds and a 1961-65 average yield was 376 pounds in 1967, compared to the previous five-year average of 362 pounds.

Plains and the State set record per-acre yields in production of 519 and 402 pounds per acre, respectively.

1967 crops of cotton in Texas were far below the average of 2.1 million bales on the Plains and 4.5 million bales in the whole State. Responsible for the drastic drop was acreage under the Food and Agriculture Act which became effective with the 1966 crop, and highly reduced yields on that acreage destroyed in many areas.

1967 cost farmers 185,000 acres on the Plains, according to the 1,403,700 acres originally planted, a report, leaving only 1,218,700 acres for harvest. weather severely reduced yields on that acreage destroyed in many areas.

"abandonment" percentage in 1967 was 10.1 percent, an abandonment percentages are well above normal. The High Plains lost only 5.7 percent to the element and a 1961-65 average abandonment of 7.4 percent.

the loss experience was 7 percent in 1966 and 6.9 percent in 1965. The High Plains, as well as many other areas, will record a high level of abandonment. Best estimates of this writing set losses to hail, and high winds at around 200,000 acres in the 23 counties.

this year signed up to plant about 1.65 million acres of cotton. But normal underplanting would reduce to about 1,625,000. So if 200,000 acres have been weather something like 1,425,000 acres are left to be planted as farmers originally indicated they would plant in 1967 and some 207,000 more acres than were planted last year.

much of this year's crop on the Plains is late above the season to hope for per-acre yields well above the 1967 record last year. Moisture conditions are better than at any time in many years, and the relaxed planting regulations for 1968 should also serve to boost yields in the sections.

of that current acreage is maintained until harvest, yields are equal only to the 1961-65 average of 485.8 pounds production this year would come to 1,442,000 pounds gross weight. The same acreage with a yield of 4.8, the record set in 1965, would produce 1,540,780 pounds.

idea of what can be expected from the Plains this year is available around August 1 when the Plains Cotton Exchange releases their first report of standing acreage and production prospects.

LIGHTHOUSE ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, INC
MARY PHILLIPS, HOME ECONOMIST

Hold it. Drop that appliance plug right there. Before you plug it in, read the instruction manual, or you'll do something foolish like the lady down the road just did. Some of the things she's done have been funny, some damaging and dangerous, and some tragic.

Firemen were called to her house where the kitchen was belching smoke. A brand new electric range was doing a self-cleaning job - but the oven was filled with leftovers from the night before. "Lady," said the fireman, "even I know you're supposed to take everything from the oven before you put it on self-cleaning."

Her electric clothes dryer was a slow-poke, so she called the co-op to ask where she could get new felt pads to replace the old ones. The Power Use Advisor didn't understand, so he came to take a look. During the past three years she hadn't cleaned the lint trap once. The lint was so compressed it looked like a felt pad. "M'am, please read the instruction book."

Clothes came out of the electric automatic washer a tattle-tale gray. The Co-op Home Service Advisor visited to find out if a complaint should be made to the manufacturer. Trying a test demonstration of the machine, the lady interrupted the Home Service Advisor by saying, "But you can get more clothes in the machine when they're wet." Indeed she could. She jammed it so full that the clothes scarcely moved around by the agitator. "Honey, the instructions say 'Fill Loosely to the Load Line.'"

Case histories are full of reports about air conditioners that do not cool because filters are dirty... ovens that won't heat because timers are set on automatic... washers that can't fill because hose connections are kinked... refrigerators that warm up because plugs are loose... pressure cooker contents that end up on the ceiling because of failure to "Cool Before Opening"... and, of course, the unfortunate incident of the teenager who puts her hair dryer on and then tries to take a bath at the same time, when the instructions explicitly say, "Do Not Use Near Water."

Keeping out of trouble through intelligent use is reason enough to take the time to read all instruction books that come with every appliance. Save your instruction books, too.

VISIT

100 S. MAIN ST. FLOYDADA

I BRING you greetings from HemisFair 1968... perhaps not the most spectacular world's fair ever put together, but nevertheless, one of the most enjoyable places to spend a week that it has been my pleasure to visit.

Actually, even without HemisFair, San Antonio is still a pretty wonderful place in which to spend a week... the whole town just reeks with Texas history and is chock full of things to see and do.

One thing I would urge... don't go to HemisFair unless you can spend at least two full days on the fair grounds... you just can't see it all in a day, or even two days for that matter.

They tell you that 83% of the attractions of HemisFair are free... and, to my way of thinking, the old saying, "The best things in life are free," certainly applies in this case.

Perhaps the best 25 minutes spent at HemisFair is the film at the U.S. Pavilion which is entitled "US." I'll not describe it and spoil it for you... just be sure not to miss it.

The one ride not to miss is the Mini-Monorail... it's worth the $1 per adult price-tag and I would suggest it as the first thing to do upon arriving at the fair. They give you a slow, leisurely ride around the fair and this way, you can become oriented as to the general location of everything... this, in itself, takes much of the first day!

Other paid attractions which are worthwhile are the show at Golden Garter Saloon ($1) which features acts which have appeared on Ed Sullivan's Show, the Mercury Water Ski Show (50¢) which has toured the world in addition to appearing on television, and the Sid and Marty Krofft puppet shows, one for adults ($2) and the other for the children (free). Both of the puppet shows are million dollar productions and are unlike anything you've ever seen.

Concerning food... pack a lunch... unless you're prepared to shell out! Every food price is inflated... 45¢ for Cokes, 50¢ for lemonade and $4 plus for a meal in one of the fancy "official" restaurants.

Of the pavilions, see all of them you can, they're interesting but, for sure, see the Texas theme pavilion... you can spend half a day there and still not take in all that is to be seen,

WORLD TRAVELERS - Soon to be world travelers are Sam Henry and Suzanne Guthrie who is pointing out Sweden, where both local high school students will spend a month on a youth tour sponsored by the local and Texas Lions Clubs. The two students leave July 3 and will return about the middle of August after a tour which will also include points in Europe. (Staff Photo) free of charge. All in all, I'd sum up HemisFair in one word... great! Don't miss your chance to see it... like I said, it may not be the best, the biggest or the most spectacular, but it's got a little bit of something for every taste and I can't imagine the person who couldn't have a good time there!

For me, it was a ball... and, I certainly plan on going back at least once more before it closes October 6!

BY THE WAY, I do hope some of you missed my column last week... even if only in the same way that you'd miss a broken leg!

I actually planned to send back something of a report of what I was doing... but, I was having such a good time visiting relatives, attending the TPA meet and taking in the HemisFair that I had little time to get near a typewriter.

And, if I had written it in longhand, the typesetters would still be trying to unscramble it! Although I did brag a lot about HemisFair and San Antonio... it's still great to be back in Floydada.

There's so much that they have that we don't... like crowded streets full of strangers, highways and streets that defy comprehension, and a humid climate that make you a walking dishrag in 10 minutes! Like they say, "be it ever so humble, there's no place like home!"

-WT- VACATIONS ARE great... but, have you ever taken one without having car trouble? I haven't... and, much to my dismay, this one was no different.

Up until my final day, things were just peachy keen... not a bit of mechanical trouble... boy, was I ever feeling great! Then, upon leaving for home, everything happened. I took to the road at 11:30 p.m. Friday night... hoping to be home about noon on Saturday. If finally made it at 10:30 p.m. Saturday night and I was having my doubts about making it at all for awhile!

A chronological diary of my troubles is as follows: 11:30 p.m. Friday - Car broke down on street in San Antonio. 1:30 a.m. Saturday - Still waiting for someone to stop and offer a push or for the service station man which had been sent for to come.

2 a.m. - Give up and walk 1/2 mile to station. 2:15 a.m. - Walk 1/2 - mile back to car with tools to remove dead battery. 2:30 a.m. - Walk 1/2-mile (seemed like 5 miles) back to station carrying dead battery, wait for it to be charged.

3:15 a.m. - Walk 1/2-mile (seemed like 10 miles) back to car with charged battery. 3:30 a.m. - Return to station, return tools, depart fair city of San Antonio at last! 5 a.m. - Stop for nap in Comfort, Texas. Boy, is that front seat hard!

6 a.m. - Truck wakes me up going by, decide to continue, car won't start, pay man $1 to boost battery, continue on my merry way. 10 a.m. - Visit relatives in Voca, Texas. Car won't start. Drive 13 miles to Brady in relatives car to borrow charged battery. Drive 13 miles back, put in car, drive 13 miles back to Brady to have car fixed.

11 a.m. - Man says battery's kaput, have to have new one... $19. 11:15 a.m. - Sorry, it's not your battery, it's your voltage regulator, you'll have to have a new one... $14.95. 11:30 a.m. - Go visit friends while voltage regulator is being installed.

12:30 p.m. - Return, man says its not just voltage regulator... generator also is shot. 12:45 p.m. - Go to dinner and cry while generator is being rebuilt. 1:45 p.m. - Finally depart the fair city of Brady, which, by the way, happened to be the city of my birth. Leave much poorer, needless to say!

3 p.m. - Arrive in Eden (not garden, either) to visit more relatives. Surprise... no trouble here! 5:30 p.m. - Have blowout going around truck on road under construction. Covered with caliche dirt by idiot motorists, none of whom stopped, while changing tire. Thankful just to be alive after almost turning auto over after blowout.

5:45 p.m. - Tire changed, spare almost flat, creep towards fair city of Winters. 6 p.m. - Arrive in Winters. Tire is ruined... must buy one. Cry some more... continue on my merry journey. 10:30 p.m. - Arrive in Floydada.

And, to top it all off, do you know what my horoscope (or should it be horroscope) for Saturday said: "Have fun and stop feeling so sorry for yourself!" Boy, does some stargazer ever have a morbid sense of humor!

-WT- JUST RELIVING the above has made me tired... more to follow next week about some of my experiences and the people I met on my trip... if you're interested, tune me in... if not, go see HemisFair for yourself... then you too can bore people talking about your trip!

prompted Mrs. Johnson to open the new store. She pointed out that this is a locally owned and operated business.

MASONS FROM PAGE ONE John C. Moss; Building - J. K. Holmes, Bob Vickers, Wayland Jones; Public School's Week Observance - Jimmy Willson; Respect for Law & Order - Henry Barber, Walter Hollums, Frank Breed; Sickness & Distress - Wayne Russell, Elmer Biggs.

Light refreshments will be served following the installation and all Master Masons and their families of the area are invited to be in attendance. 7-11, 1968

Mrs. Johnson, who is a native of Floydada, said that orders for any merchandise listed in the current Sears' catalogs may be placed in person or by phone from home. The orders are then relayed to the Catalog Order Plant in Dallas for filling and the merchandise sent to the store here or directly to the customer if desired. Orders will be received in consolidated shipments, thereby saving the customer part of the shipping charges.

The steady growth of Floydada and surrounding areas

CHURCH, FROM PG. 1 Plans include a basket dinner after the morning service. Members of the church are opening their homes to guests who will be attending.

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. All friends of the church are invited to attend, according to Herbert Els, pastor.

LOAN, FROM PG. 1 extensive system improvements. The loan funds are also earmarked to finance installation of a 5,000-kva sub-station at Cedar Hill, Mahon concluded.

According to Lighthouse officials, the distribution lines and improvements will be in an area including all of Floyd County and the eastern half of Hale County with a general "look to the future."

CAPROCK, FROM PAGE ONE THERE IS a constitutional amendment coming up in November, which I hope the people of Texas will approve. It allows a city to vote bonds to help an industry locate in its community.

If and when we get this close to locating a new industry for Floydada, this amendment might be the difference in our being able to secure one here. I hope you will vote for this amendment in November.

PERHAPS THERE is some organization in Floydada who will finance three new "Welcome to Floydada" signs. We note that Lockney has two very outstanding signs, and we notice that the one welcome sign that we have still standing, (out by Louis Pyle's irrigation well) is almost unreadable.

Who will help on this need? SWIPED FROM THE Post Dispatch: "What happened to your last job? Is a question asked applicants for positions in a large New York City store. These are recent answers that merit some form of recognition.

"The boss fired a friend of mine. So I told him I'm fired too." "Every night when I got home I was tired. I just had to quit." "I asked the boss to lend me a dollar, but he only gave me 50 cents."

"I wanted an extra day off to go to a picnic. The boss would not give it to me, so I quit." "Just because I gained 50 pounds while packing candy, the boss insinuated I was eating too much."

"The girl next to me was singing all day long, "How much is that doggie in the window, erf, erf." "I did not want to be transferred to another department - there was nobody to talk to there except some women and girls."

"I was secretary to a big oil man, but his shoes squeaked and he always wore white socks and a red satin tie. I ask you, how much can a person stand?"

"In the summertime the air conditioning blew right in my face, but in the winter a big radiator was boiling behind me. I want a job where it's cool in the winter and warm in the summer."

"I was driving a cab in Florida because my wife wanted to spend the winter on the beach - but she divorced me to marry a life-guard. When they hailed me on Lincoln Road and got in my taxi to go to their wedding, I slammed the door and walked away."

"I was driving a truck for a perfume factory, but they put me inside filling bottles. I went home every night smelling of gardenias and violets. My wife understood, but one night I got in the subway near six other guys. They all sniffed, looked at me and each other with funny smiles. That was enough for me."

THEY HAD two honored guests up at the opening of "Texas" in the Palo Duro last week. Governor and Mrs. Connally were there and Lynda Johnson Robb, daughter of the President.

Mrs. Robb arrived at the theatre just before curtain time on Sunday. At her request she slipped in without special attention. She took time after the performance to visit with the members of the cast and to express her interest in the show.

She was also visiting friends in the area, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Batson. So... if you attended "Texas" Sunday night and thought you saw Lynda Johnson Robb in the audience... you probably did!

I HOPE EVERYONE will take time to read the Independence Day message in this issue of The Hesperian, sponsored by several firms in this community. These firms attest their belief in America, in our way of life, and the importance of our flag.

FLOYD DATA Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Redding and baby girl have moved from Lubbock to Santa Fe, N.M., where he is employed by Tuftwick Carpet Co. Mrs. Redding is the former Carolyn Dunavant.

Korean New Member Of J. E. Waller Family

By Wendell Tooley

Joey Kang' Sa Jung of Korea is a new member of the J.E. Waller home and it took about seven years of effort by J.E. to get Joey to America and Floydada.

J.E. and Joey first met when J.E. was in the armed forces in Korea. This was September of 1961 and Joey was J.E.'s house boy.

The two became close friends and J.E. helped Joey realize a lifetime dream of coming to America.

Joey is learning to drive the tractor and he is anxious to learn how to ride some of J.E.'s horses.....might just become a jockey.

He arrived in America on June 18.....flying by jet from Korea to Tokyo, then on to California.

Joey says, "Texas is a great country.....but I'm more used to sea breezes instead of this hot dry wind we've been having." Joey likes the food here.

Plans are being made for Joey to attend a technical school in Lubbock, and the future looks very bright for this young Korean whose dreams are coming true.

25V holds up longer than any other cotton after the last water - on most soils from 2 to 3 weeks longer.

The important thing to watch is the take-off date, which we recommend generally between July 15th and August 1st.

Start watering as early as you wish, but the first irrigation should be finished before the first bloom.

43% of our cotton this year is May cotton, the remainder was replanted June 5, of which we lost 13 acres, and this was again replanted June 15. We will start watering our 25V about July 5. Considering the year with its set-backs and replants we will irrigate only once, and will finish our 25V by July 25.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Getting Down To The Grassroots For

Answers Not Very Profitable

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reviews some problems but few answers in his letter this week. He's not alone.

Dear editor:

Several times lately I've read in copies of newspapers that have turned up out here on this Johnson grass farm that this or that candidate is seeking to find out what the grassroots opinion is on a given matter.

"A man has got to stay close to the people, to get down to the grassroots," a candidate will say as he boards a plane for another part of the country, but invariably he's standing on concrete and is in the air before the plane reaches the end of the paved runway, where the grass begins.

It is just as well. You might say I live pretty close to the grassroots, in fact so close I could reach them with a hoe if I was a mind to, but any candidate who is planning on coming out here to get my opinion might as well stay at home.

I can list the problems all right:

Viet Nam.
Crime.
Riots.
College students.
Gun laws.
Inflation.
Taxes and debt.
Traffic.
Pollution.

But when it comes to supplying the answers, I can tell the candidates they could as well stay at home and beat their head against concrete as coming out here and beating it against the ground.

While it's preposterous for a politician to try to keep his ear to the ground when he's living in a high-rise apartment building - nobody can lean out of a window that far - still, even if he could, or if he couldn't and toppled, he wouldn't hear a thing.

Out here, we've got far more problems than answers. I had always thought it was Washington's role to have far more answers than problems. Times are mixed up.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Youth Center Fund At $306

Further contributions are still needed to help finance a project underway to convert the old North Ward School into a youth center, sponsors of the project have announced.

A special fund has been started at the First National Bank with $306 presently donated to that fund. A total of $2,000 is hoped to be raised.

Persons interested in helping with the community center should make their donations at the First National Bank or should contact Faris Wilson who is heading the drive.

Plans call for the building's improvements to be completed by volunteer labor with the money needed to supply materials.

Ralph Wayne Appointed To Work On Tax Bill

(Austin, Texas) - Representative Ralph Wayne of Plainview was appointed to the five-member House Conference Committee to work out differences in the final version of the proposed tax bill.

The bill, raising the state's retail sales tax to three per cent (3%) and raising the franchise tax, was passed Thursday by the Senate by a vote of 18 to 13.

The House voted Friday morning to send the $169 million revenue measure to conference committee Monday morning.

"Speaker Ben Barnes has asked all conferees to stay in Austin over the weekend to work on the differences in the two bills.

While no one likes increased taxes it is hoped that we can come up with an equitable bill that will provide adequate financing for the next fiscal year," said Representative Wayne.

INDEPENDENCE DAY 1968

CELEBRATING 192 YEARS OF LIBERTY

THE SPIRIT OF FREEDOM...

It is a spirit that has marched in many lands, under many flags... wherever men have dreamed of a better life. It marched with the American colonists in 1776. It is a spirit as indomitable as man himself for it is one of the "inalienable rights" endowed by the Creator on all men. Today the spirit of freedom is still on the march - let us rededicate ourselves to its cause.

Letter From Germany

Editors Note - The letter below is to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Summers in Floydada, from their daughter, Mrs. Mirell Stephens, who with her husband, is residing in Germany. SP/5 Stephens is serving in the Army. The letter relates a recent trip taken by the Stephens and we felt it would be of interest to all the local readers.

June 18, 1968

Dear Daddy and Mother:

Well - we made it back from our trip safe and sound. We had a WONDERFUL trip. We can hardly wait to tell you all about it in person.

We went to Holland, Belgium, England, France and Austria. We have visited ten countries now. We left here on Monday, June 3rd and drove to Amsterdam in eight hours. We borrowed a tent and camping equipment and camped when we could. We really did enjoy it. They have real nice camping sites over here. We camped in Amsterdam - right close to town. First all we just drove around looking things over. Holland looks a lot like Texas, because it is so flat. We went on a tour of Amsterdam and rode a boat down the canals of the city. We saw Rembrandt's house, Anne Frank's house, and many, many more things. We also went through a diamond factory. Diamonds are cheaper over here, and of course we bought them out. Hal Hal Seriously, it was very interesting. We spent three days in Amsterdam. One Wednesday we went on to The Hague where we went to the small city of Madrodam. It's a small Holland. It was very nice. Then we went on to Rotterdam. We stopped here and did some more shopping. We went on to Antwerp, Belgium. We ate lunch there in a big nice shopping center. They had the most beautiful homes in Belgium. They were big mansions. They had the thatched roof, but they were beautiful.

I forgot to tell you I loved the windmills in Holland. We went through Brussels and saw some of the main highlights. Murell didn't like Brussels. The traffic was terrible. We drove on to Ostend, Belgium where we crossed the English Channel on a ship ferry. It took us 4 hours from Ostend to Dover. We didn't get sick. We saw the White Cliffs of Dover. We went straight on to London. It really was odd for awhile driving on the wrong side of the road, but we got used to it.

There wasn't any camping close to London, so we stayed in hotels. We couldn't get into the Army hotel, so we had to pay pretty high prices for our rooms. The first night it cost $8.00 including your breakfast. Then we found a cheaper and better hotel for $6.00 a night. The English really know how to serve breakfast. We ate every morning since it was included in the cost of our room. We had cereal, orange juice, two eggs, ham, toast, coffee or tea. I really did like the tea too. We were on the go constantly in London. We saw everything including the Queen. She made an appearance and rode a horse at the changing of the guard ceremonies on Saturday morning. We saw the trouping of the colors. There was a huge crowd there. We saw the Marble Arch, Big Ben, Parliament, No. 10 Downing St. (Where the prime minister lives), Piccadilly Circus, The Tower and Tower Bridge, London Bridge, Madame Tussaud's, (The Wax Museum), Buckingham Palace, The Mall, The Horse Guards, Changing of the Guards, Westminster Abbey, Trafalgar Square, Hyde Park, St. James Park, and many, many more things.

We drove back to Dover and camped the last night. Then we got up early and went back across the channel to Bologne, France. Nothing had happened in Paris lately, so we decided to go on to Paris. We knew we would never find another chance to go. We had gas coupons for France, and we wanted to use them. Gasoline in France is a little over a dollar a gallon. We had to buy gasoline on the economy in Belgium and England. It was about $3.70 a gallon. Our coupons were just good for June, because in July, the new fiscal year, France will not accept anymore coupons since they kicked us out of France. Well---we went on to Paris and didn't see a thing. In fact, they had riots in Paris the night we were there, but we didn't even know it until we got home. We camped right downtown in Paris. We just spent that day and night and part of the next day. We saw the Eiffel Tower, The Ark of Triumph, The Louvre, Notre Dame, and many more things. Guess who got sick when we went up on the Eiffel Tower? Murell. I laughed and laughed at him. We drove home from Paris that day. It took 12 hours. We came across the battle grounds of the war around Verdun and saw the many memorials. Murell really did enjoy this. France was also pretty. Some places were flat like Texas, and it wasn't dirty like we had been told.

We got home Tuesday night (early Wednesday morning) slept until about ten o'clock and got up and went to Berchtesgaden, Germany. We stayed there until Saturday. We went on all kinds of tours and saw a lot down there. We went to Salzburg, Austria, and saw where the "Sound of Music" was filmed. We came back through Chimsee. Murell wants to go back there before we go home. I want to go too, because they have a huge castle there I want to see. There is a big lake there too. All in all we had a wonderful trip!

We bought you a couple of gifts while we were on our trip. Murell received his alert orders while we were on leave. We can ship our household goods anytime now. We will wait until the last, so we can ship everything. He will be getting his port call in about three or four weeks. We have 66 days left. We are really getting excited about coming home. We will be just as glad to see yall.

I got me a tea set in England. It's real pretty. It's Bone White China of England, and it only cost $8.00. Murell bought me a real pretty stein for our anniversary. I'm real proud of it. I got him a camera case for his movie camera. We got a few more things from each place we visited. We will just show you when we get home.

We really did hate to hear about Robert Kennedy. We were in England so we kept up with it. We even got to watch it on T.V. at the Army Hotel.

On Memorial Day we went to Ludwigsburg and saw a 400 room castle. It was real nice. The tour took us through 200 of the rooms.

Hope your weather is better by now, and your business is doing real good. We are both looking forward to coming home and being with you once again.

Write again real soon. You know we love to hear from you. Glad to hear Wiggles minds real good. Thank you for training her. We love and miss you very, very much.

Love always,
Frances and Murell

WHO'S SICK?

The recent assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is fresh in the minds of all the people of the nation. His senseless killing by an alien using a cheap revolver certainly brings the gun control controversy to the forefront of the news and to the lips of every politician on the national scene, led by the President.

This is certainly not a timely spot for a publication to rise to the defense of the gun, even one as this that has made its stand known for many months. But some voices must be raised on behalf of sanity in this time of, seemingly, national hysteria.

The echo of the shots that felled the young candidate for president had hardly died before the anti-gun lobby was decrying the fact that ALL arms had not been taken from the people of the nation. In doing so, commentary was pointed toward the "sickness" of a nation that would allow anyone to own a gun.

As a sportsman, this writer resents highly the pointed implication that I am weak of mind, sick, a psycho because I am one of those who still believes in constitutional government - the right to bear arms being a part of that constitution.

I am sick, I will admit, of do-gooders who blame me and those who feel as do I, for the action of crackpots.

I am sick of television news commentators who blame all of the ills of our nation on an inanimate gun and the lack of complete governmental control of same - yet, at the same time see the networks for whom they toil at such fantastic salaries programming shows of such violence that I can't allow my children to see them.

I am sick of politicians who decry the ease of gun acquisition and the terrible violence that grips our citizens - yet sit calmly by as rioters loot and burn our cities, effectively tying the hands of our police until they are powerless to take steps to enforce our laws.

I am sick of the decisions of a Supreme Court that seems dedicated to protecting the criminal against the laws the great majority of our people obey - yet piously editorialize their views and blame lawlessness and violence on the "sickness" of our society.

I am sick of movies that portray violence, sex perversion and crime as so glamorous that children believe Bonnie and Clyde were heroes hounded to death by the terrible police.

I am sick of magazines and paperbacks that go even further - if that is possible - than the movies in lowering the morals of our youths to whom they are peddled and I am even more sick of a court that rules such trash as being freedom of the press.

I am sick of the practice of flaunting of the laws of our country by minority groups.

I am sick of seeing leaders in so-called "freedom" movements stating on television that they will not obey a court injunction because it is unfair - while, at the same time, we members of this "sick" society do obey all laws even when we do feel some are unfair.

I am sick! So sick that I gag when I, and you, are blamed for the ills of a government that coddles criminals, hamstring law enforcement officers, bows to minority groups even though such bowing hurts majorities, condones riots and looting, blames violence on an entire society rather than on themselves for a complete breakdown of law and order brought on by actions and lack of actions of those who make laws, allows desecration of our national capitol by a group which wants the people who work for a living to support them. I am sick!

But I refuse to accept the classification as a member of a sick society - just because I don't believe in losing my constitutional rights.

"OUTDOOR TIMES" Hurley Campbell

WILLIAM C. SELOVER in The Christian Science Monitor: Guns have killed more people in the United States in this century than have died in all the wars it has fought since 1900.

Yet in America the procedures for regulating firearms are, at best, casual; at worst, a shambles. In every other advanced country on the globe, firearms are covered by stringent government regulations.

In the United States it is confirmed beyond any reasonable questions, anyone - a criminal, a juvenile, or a madman - can clip a flimsy coupon from any of several magazines on any corner newsstand, send a few dollars off to a dealer in a distant city and after a few weeks, receive an amazing variety of guns through the mails with no checking.

For some months Congress has been working on the problem of gun control but with little success. The assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy - who with his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, worked so hard for gun - control legislation - may have spurred some action.

The House seemed on the verge of passing a bill Thursday that would ban interstate mail - order sales of pistols.

Meanwhile, several hundred demonstrators marched outside the headquarters of the National Rifle Association, a 980,000 - member organization which has opposed federal control of firearms for years.

Switzerland is perhaps typical of the way other civilized countries of the world regulating the sale and possession of guns.

In that country, which maintains a citizen militia system of able - bodied males who keep their own guns at home, every gun is registered, and the ration of ammunition must be accounted for down to the last bullet. The soldier may not use his gun except with specific permission for military - training exercise.

Otherwise, in Switzerland, a person desiring to purchase a gun for hunting must get a permit from the local police. Permits are denied to people who have criminal records or who are under 18. They are also denied to people who have backgrounds of drunkenness, emotional or mental instability.

In the United States, there is presently no national law which protects society against the purchase of guns by criminals and lunatics. The state laws that are on the books have been circumvented regularly. Some are weak and unenforced. Some are unenforceable because of the proximity of other states or localities where gun laws are lax or nonexistent.

A convincing study conducted by the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee in 1965 showed that of 4,069 Chicago mail - order guns consignees from two dealers, 948 had prior criminal records which would have kept them from buying guns in that city. Thus, one - quarter of the total number of orders sent out went out to criminals.

This experience was repeated in city after city. For example, in Washington, D. C., 25 percent of the mail - order gun recipients had criminal records prior to ordering and receiving mail - order guns.

The commissioner of public safety of Massachusetts has testified that over a 10 - year period the state police had traced 87 percent of the 4,506 guns that had been used in crimes in Massachusetts to purchases outside of the state.

While Massachusetts requires a permit to purchase a handgun, neighboring states have no such requirement. Thus the Massachusetts law was made ineffective.

These statistics make one fact abundantly clear, guns are easily available in the United States.

That fact, says Federal Bureau of Investigation Director J. Edgar Hoover, makes crime figures rise.

"A review of the motives for murder," he says, "suggests that a readily accessible gun enables the perpetrators to kill on impulse."

It is little wonder that reasonable men the world over recoiled in horror at the latest evidence of American gun play.

The world will be watching to see if Americans will finally move to put an end to this wanton mayhem.

Congress and all Americans will have to ponder carefully these statistics in the weeks and months ahead:

Between 1900 and 1966, guns were involved in 280,000 murders, 370,000 suicides, and 145,000 deaths by accident. That comes to 795,000 since the beginning of this century.

In all this nation's wars, since the Spanish - American war to Vietnam, the war dead totals 550,000.

Besides this, many, many thousands are wounded, maimed, or assaulted by firearms each year. In 1966 the estimated figure was 100,000.

In a study done by the Library of Congress, the rate of homicides by guns was found in 1963 to be 2.7 per every 100,000 population.

By contrast, in Britain, the rate was 1-55th the American rate. In Germany, it was about 1-25th the American rate. In Japan, it was 1-65th and in the Netherlands, it was 1-90th.

In fact, for a period of three years in the Netherlands, there was not a single murder by gunfire. The average rate in Britain and Japan in those years was about 30 cases per year.

That's about the number of murders committed in this country by guns every two days.

Furthermore, the suicide rate in this country by guns stands at 5.1 per 100,000 - roughly 1000 a year.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

As we look forward to the coming of a great day of the great nation in which we live, that great Declaration of Independence was signed, July 4th, 1776, I wonder as this day is here, how will we, the United States of America, spend this day. Will we fly the Flag of this great Republic and give it the proper respect we spend our time on the lake, enjoying the fresh air that are afforded by our Great Republic? Will we preserve this Great Republic against those who would take away the God-Given rights and privileges and freedoms that we have. Just what will we do with this day, the 4th of July, on Memorial Day, on days of Robert Settlers day, and then we would see the Flag of our country displayed in front of every business in town and have seen days that the Flag should have been there would only be about 2 or 3 displayed in the Floydada. What is the matter with the people of Floydada. What is our community pride? Where is the Pride of going to sit around and lose this great Republic? Do not like our way of life? Are we going to let these liberals, Marxist, Fascists, Leninists, Communists take away every right that we as Americans enjoy? What are we going to do about it?

There are several things that we can do. We can spend at least 20 minutes each week being patriotic. We can fly the Flag of this great Republic by removing our hearts from them over our hearts when the Flag goes by in some other manner. We can write to the Editor of our newspapers and let the people know that we are patriotic Americans and that we are willing to fight for our country. We can write to the Congressman and Senators, know that we do not approve of the legislation that take the rights of the individual to own property and exercise of religion. We can write to them and tell them we are tired of the way that the Supreme Court of the United States has overstepped its jurisdiction and began to take on legislative functions authorized by the Constitution of the United States of America.

But you say, "I cannot express myself in words is another thing that you can do to convey your opinion that are supposed to represent us. You can do like this or any other article that you feel is like to have things to be handled or to be run, clip them to your Congressman or Senator. He can do something that we have to do is to get our views to them they will know how we think, and that they can be the people in this area. There are some Congressmen that utterly disregard the wishes of the people that should place in the corner of our memory, and that we have an opportunity we can vote against them that will represent the wishes of the people. These are the ways that you can promote Patriotism.

I would like to take this opportunity to say Martin & Co. for the beginning of the daily display before the store. If we would all join him in the flag in front of our businesses and homes, and look to the Flag with pride, and say that this is the Nation and I am proud to be an American, a citizen and Grand Republic.

Patriotically Yours,
Rete Looney

Devotional of the Month

What Is America!

The wisdom of the sages of old insisted that "where there is no vision, the people perish!"
What is America? Land? People? No. Land and people will be there. Yet America is neither land nor people, though without them America would not be. America is a vision, a dream. America is in the minds and hearts of the people. It is something that they think by, live by, and pass on from generation to generation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

There is the beginning of the American dream, the American vision. Inherent in it is a belief in one God, righteous and merciful, unto whom all men are responsible; of the faith of an Abraham who went out not knowing where he was going; of the courage of a Moses who demanded of a tyrant, "Let my people go;" of a morality set forth in the Ten Commandments and expanded in the Sermon on the Mount. Inherent in this vision, this dream, is the insight of ancient prophets who proclaimed that righteousness exalteth a nation and sin is a reproach to any people; who taught men to do justly, love kindness, and walk humbly with their God. In the dream there is the poetry of angels - "Peace on earth, good-will toward men." In it are certain parables of Jesus - the parable of the Good Samaritan teaching charity, and the parable of the talents teaching responsibility. In the American dream is a gospel of redemption and victory which makes of no man's sin a finality of doom, but offers salvation and another chance. The message of the resurrection is in the dream, quickening men to live and die as immortals. The vision of America is a prayer which pleads, "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven," and proclaims in its doxology, "Thine is the Kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever."

By this vision there shall be justice in the land - no child of the nation damned by the color of his skin; by this vision there shall be intelligence, each person entering into his heritage of knowledge so far as he is able; by the vision there shall be physical and mental and social health, diseases shall be conquered, jails and asylums emptied, drunkenness will cease. It is the vision of "government of the people, by the people, for the people." It is the vision of the abundant life for all. It is a vision - truths self-evident - that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Hear the reading of a contemporary parable:

"Of a truth, I say to you, there was a family of three generations. There was the generation of the grandparents; there was the generation of their sons and daughters; there was the generation of their grandchildren.

The grandparents were God-fearing, church-going, Bible-reading men and women. They had worship in their homes and they took their children to Sunday School and church.

What about their sons and daughters? They were honest, law-abiding, respectable citizens. They were God-fearing, but they only prayed in times of emergency. They honored the Bible, but they did not support it. They sent their children to Sunday School, but never went with them.

What about their grandchildren? They gamble, they drink, they are delinquents before the law. They are well known at the sheriff's office. Their parents blame the church for "not holding their children."

What was wrong? The second generation lived to a great degree by the heritage of the first, but did not pass it on. They let it peter out in their own lives and their own homes. They received a Christian heritage but despised it. They lived on a Christian momentum but let it run out. They lived by Christian idealism but held it not up to their children.

What is America? It is a vision in the minds and hearts of the people. It is something that they think by, live by, and pass on from generation to generation.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish!"

Fan Of Zane Grey From England Passes Through Floydada On Horse

Seeing America first... the hard way. That's Bill Webb's style. He passed through Floydada last week on his journey from Scottsdale, Ariz. to Buckhannon, W. Va. ... horseback!

Webb, an Englishman who has been in the United States since December of 1963, is on his way back to West Virginia and settle down as a farmer.

He has no definite date to be there, just as long as it's before Dec. 17 when his visa expires.

His only goal on the road is to make 30 miles per day except when he works to make pocket money for the trip.

An admitted non-conformist, Webb began his eastward trek from Scottsdale April 19. "We (he and his horse) made good time reaching Milesheo, making the 700 miles in 23 days," he said.

Since then he has been working at odd jobs to replenish his cash supply.

"People we have met along the road have been very nice. We have met some that although we've only known them a few hours, it seems we've been friends for a long time."

The 40-year-old Worcestershire, England, native came to the United States to be at the bedside of his mother who became sick while visiting his sister in Bolton, N.C. After she died, Bill explained, he decided to stay in the United States.

He journeyed to Arizona to see some of the country he had read about in Zane Grey novels as a boy in England.

In Scottsdale he went to work at the Arizona Horse Country Club, where he trained and broke horses for riding. It was there he bought his horse for the return trip to W. Va.

Man and horse have been making themselves at home wherever they stop. "We sleep out in the open except when it looks like rain and bad weather. We've spent nights in barns, back of pickups and other places," Webb said.

But again, Webb said the western hospitality has made their journey comfortable.

A Hesperian reporter asked Webb if he were married. "No, I'd rather be happy," he replied.

4-H Horse Show Held

Sam Fortenberry used a pair of his favorite mounts Friday to become high point individual in the fourth annual Floyd County 4-H Club Horse Show.

But "Sam's Blaze" was ridden by young Fortenberry in all but one event. And that will be the horse he uses while representing this county in the District 4-H Horse Show. Sam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fortenberry.

The county show was held Friday afternoon at the rodeo arena here.

County Agent Joe Wilson termed the event "by far the best horse show we have had." Twenty 4-Hers competed for honors.

Claiming runner-up honors was Greg Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor, riding "Paint." Next in line came a pair of cowgirls, Ginger Henderson on "Squeaky Domino" was third, and Diane Williams riding "Little Knot" finished fourth. FISH COOKERY

If you're a barbecue enthusiast, be sure to include fish on your list of foods for charcoaling.

Charcoaling gives fish, just as many other foods, a special flavor that's hard to beat.

When starting the fire, it's best to line the bottom of the fire bowl with heavy duty aluminum foil, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. This gives additional fuel economy by reflecting the heat and makes cleaning easier.

If the bottom of the fire bowl is not perforated, a gravel base will permit the fire to "breathe" and give an even heat distribution. Use enough gravel to make the bed level out to the edge of the bowl. Gravel or crushed stones 1/4 to 3/8 inches in diameter will give best results.

Start the fire far enough in advance to get a good bed of coals before beginning to barbecue. One method, which takes about 45 minutes, is to stack briquets in a pyramid and soak lightly with a lighting fluid. A minute, then light, taking necessary precautions to avoid fire.

When the briquets are covered with a good bed of coals, evenly ready. Make the fire wider than the fish on the grill.

Wood chips give an ant, smoky flavor to chips in water before using, to reduce the maximum not burn too rapidly. If chips flame, use wet chips.

For your next Italian Style Steak, you'll need 2 lbs. steak or other fresh or frozen Italian dressing, 2 lemon juice, 2 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Thaw frozen serving-size portions in a single layer baking dish. Cooking ingredients and ingredients are: Pour sauce over stand for 30 minutes.

Remove fish, sauce for baking, in well-greased grills. Sprinkle Cook about 4 inches. Baste with sprinkle with and cook for 7 longer, or until fully when tested. Serves 6.
