City Turns Down County Commissioners' Offer

Floyd County commissioner's court its request for financial help in maintaining its fire department and help on purchase of a new fire truck.

Then Monday, the council met with the commissioner's court and heard the commissioners make a counter offer that was far below the city's request.

The city council had made an extensive five year study of what it cost to maintain a fire department, also made a study of how much service the fire department had given to fires outside the city limit, then determined that the county should pay its fair share of costs for fire protection outside the city

The study revealed that around 44% of the fire department's calls had been made outside the city limits in the past five years. Therefore the city requested that the commission-

Then, the city requested the commissioners court to pay 44% of the money that will be needed to purchase a new fire truck, around $11,000.

The commissioners court said that they would up their payments to the Floydada Fire Department from $1500 per year to $2100, and that's all they felt they wanted to pay. COUNCIL REJECTS

Cattle Placed In Blanco's New Feedlots

Three pens of cattle-containing 160 to 180 head per lot - have been placed in expanded facilities at the Blanco Feedlots near Sand Hill.

Owner Kelton Shaw says that the expansion project is expected to be completed "in about 30 days." It includes 16 new pens plus landscaping improvements.

Blanco Feedlots will have a capacity of approximately 4,000

This is a conservative figure, the management states, since some pens will contain about 125 head to allow for "designated tonnage" in each lot. This will enable a certain number of cattle to be ready for market at one time.

He will be living with the Clay Henry family in Floydada and attending Floydada High School as a senior.

He will arrive in New York on August 18 and should be in Floydada around the 22nd. In his application letter Peter said.

"I was born at May 19th, 1953 in Wels, where I have lived until today. I attended Nursery School until I began to attend the Popular School in September 1959. After the fourth class Itook the examination to the High School and entered her in Wels in autumn 1963. I have attended her since more than five years and now I am in the sixth form. Except of the first form I was always outstanding qualified to advance to the next class. This year I will

Why I want to go to Ameri-ca? Well, I think this wish lives in me since I was six or seven and able for the first time to understand a globe. But the reasons have changed a little: First there was an image of cowboys and Indians, settlers and sheriffs, wide prairies and ghost-towns. Now well, there is a little more I think. First there is to get to know a grand country and a great people. A great country because of its various types of countrysides: Lovely Idaho. sunny California, wide Texas, overcrowded New York - each of them a beauty of her own. I have seen a lot of movies about America and the wish to see this country with my own eyes grew more and more in me. I can imagine that it must be great to stand under the Nia-State Building, but also to look at the red rocks of Grand Canyon or to visit Yellowstone National Park.

A great people - because I have got to know many Americans during the last years, the most ones on my trip to England this year. And Idid not see any arrogance or uncivilised behavior on them, but wideopen heart to all people, a good point-of-view, independence in the little as in the big events of life and all of them invite you to visite them and there

The next is that I am interested to attend an American High School for a year. I think it would be very interesting to learn after quite a different school system. I hope to get a wider horizon and a better cassation especially to Ameri-

I also want to improve and perhaps to perfect my knowledge of English, As Iremarked yet I have been in England this year for four weeks and I have improved there my English a lot, but - four weeks are too little a time to perfect a language.

If it would be possible for me to live in the United States for a year, I would hope to support the idea of world-wide communication of the people and world-wide peace in the way that the American Field Service bestrides - I think with sucpitched for the Cubs.

STITCHING For most fabrics, 10 to 12 stitches per inch are satisfactory. Studies show that if the sewer applies tension to the fabric while she is stitching, she can reduce seam puckering. This is done by applying slight tension to the fabric behind and in front of the needle, being careful not to pull the fabric through the machine. Sewing at a moderate, even pace with few stops and starts is best. SEWING THREAD

The type of sewing thread is an important consideration. Threads containing nylon or 'Dacron' are recommended. Seams sewn with these threads have a neat appearance and will perform well throughout the life of the garment.

A Paramount color film, "If," has been called a highly controversial film in that it portrays boys in their most formative years. The film is set in an English boarding school and attempts to show some of the fears, frustrations and dreams young boys experience away from the adult world.

Robert Swann's performance is excellent in his portrayal as the perfect example of youth until he becomes the "Whip House Leader." Boys are under their dominance until they become seniors and only a privileged few become a "Whip."

laved by Malcolm McDowell David Wood and Richard Warwick. While this film deals with young boys, it is not recommended for the very young and immature.

Jeffrey Hunter, 42, died recently while undergoing brain surgery reportedly from a fall sustained at his home. Hunter is best known for his portrayal of Christ in "King of Kings."

A Bridge To Russia?

Scientists tell us that Russian Siberia was, millions of years ago, linked to Alaska-and it is via this landward passage that Siberians supposedly found their way to North America. We later called them Indi-

Now a famous engineer has suggested a bridge across the Bering Strait to reconnect the two continents. Such a bridge would be fifty miles long. T.Y. Lin, of the University of California, says it is feasible. He estimates the cost at a billion dollars. The Soviet Union, he says, might contribute toward its construc-

In Europe the Strait of Dover has long separated England from the continent. Now a tunnel project is underway which will allow motorists to drive from London and other places in Great Britain to Belgium and France and other European countries.

A bridge over the Bering Strait would enable motorists in America to drive to Moscow, presumably, and then on into western Europe. Of course, that would be quite a lengthly drive-if the Russians permitted it. But it might bring about better understanding between Americans and Russians over the years and may well be built at some time in the future.

More Readers?

A recent Gallup Poll indicated Americans-notoriously poor readers -are beginning to show slight improvement. In the latest test about one out of four Americans replied they had read a book within the past month. It's the highest level of indicated reading by Americans in eleven years.

But with this slight hint of improvement one must reconcile the startling fact that over fifty per cent of all Americans say they've never read a book from cover to cover. One can understand the reaction of foreigners on learning of such a "pioneer" intellectual average in the richest country in the world.

A second encouraging factor noted in the recent Gallup Poll is that young people in the United States

Those in their twenties showed a 44 per cent yes to the question whether they had read a book in the last month. The percentage dropped to 26 per cent for those in the thirties and forties, to 19 per cent for those Curiosity (the urge to learn and know more) is the basis for wisdom and intelligence; reading is the surest way to attain these virtues and a sure sign of curiosity. Thus Americans who have ignored books and improving their mind and store of knowledge in favor of other pursuits are, thankfully, becoming a shrinking percentage of the population of this relatively new United States of the country, at college after college, is that centers of higher learning are primarily theoretical, idealistic think tanks. Intellectuals and administrations in these isolated communities

What is being demonstrated across are not hardened in the business of maintaining law and order and are often easily intimidated.

Yet these schools belong to the nation and what goes on on campuses is of interest to every citizen. In fact, the lawlessness and disorder now sweeping universities is one of the best justifications Communists have in suppressing freedoms in countries like Czechoslovakia.

Freedom, as we have enjoyed it in the United States, carries with it responsibility. The use of firearms and physical intimidation have no place in this society, where change must come through legal and democratic processes.

The small, hard-core of well-trained and well-prepared militants violating the law and occupying buildings and offices at universities across the nation is a serious enemy of democracy. Leaders are using the same tactics as Hitler's brown shirts and SS youths of the thirties. Some of the hard core are Communists and would destroy our society.

With these revolutionaries capitulation by faculty groups or administrations, or by presidents of universities, does not end the turmoil. It merely encourages the militants to make greater demands. Recent events have shown how ill-equipped intellectuals at our universities are to deal with anarchists and revolution-

The nation is facing a major challenge to its institutions of higher learning and state legislatures and perhaps eventually Congress will have to meet the challenge. Unfortunately, the process of abuse has gone so far that only a few showdowns, with force meeting force and severe penalties meted out to offenders, is likely to restore relative calm and reasonable order.

On College Endowments

An interesting report was recently issued by the Ford Foundation concerning college endowments and the current squeeze on most colleges and universities to find sufficient funds to meet educational needs.

The major contention of the 82page legal study was that colleges should not consider capital gains as money only to be added to endowment principle. The study holds that this is legitimate, spendable

In the case of richer colleges and universities, if such gains were spent millions would often be added to operational and expansion funds and annual budgets. For the nation the total sum of money made available would be a large one, which would greatly ease the financial dilemma of many of the nation's schools of higher learning.

In the past colleges and universities have, almost without exception, applied earnings of their endowments such as capital gains to endowment principle. If the new concept were followed, earnings other than interest could be spent and the endowments would thus grow at a slower rate, mainly from gifts and inheritance additions, rather than from these sources and capital gains.

Thanks Folks

In behalf of Explorer Post 357, we would personally like to thank everyone who helped in making this trip possible. Eleven boys, and our advisor, Tom Snead, made the trip, and each of us has experiences that he will not forget. We would especially like to thank the Floyd County Hesperian, KFLD Radio, Parker Studio, Stewart Printing, Parker Furniture, Fred Martin, Ray Reed, Jimmy Willson, Oden Chevrolet, and our Lions Club, for their special help to our efforts. We would also like to thank the town's people for their continued interest in our project, by buying cards, tickets, and fertilizer, and by participating in the womanless wedding, by cast or attendance. The town's interest, has helped our post to get on its feet, and we certainly solici-

Rev. McAnally intersection of U.S. 87 bypass and the old U.S. 87 highway just Injured In Auto Mishap

The Rev. Russell McAnally started off his new pastorate at Petersburg on a bad note. The former Lockney Methodist pastor was returning from Lubbock last Sunday after attending the annual Northwest Texas Methodist Conference in Lubbock, when he suffered head injuries in an accident which occurred about 4:30 p.m. at the south of Plainview.

Just hours before, Rev. Mc-Anally had heard in appointments that he had been assigned to the First United Methodist Church of Petersburg and Carr's Chapel United Methodist Church, near Petersburg. The McAnallys were moved to Petersburg last Thursday by members of the congregation there. The pastor still was hospitalized

This is the first time that the Carr's Chapel church and During his 30 years in the ministry, Rev. McAnally has served numerous churches, including Lockney, Olton, Kress, Friona and the Trinity United Methodist Church in Plainview where he was assigned for the past three years.

Coincidentally, he was licensed to preach at the Lakeview Methodist Church, west of Petersburg.

He and Mrs. McAnally are parents of Mrs. Keith Jackson, Providence. They also have three sons, Gerald of Corsicana, Devin of Albuquerque, N. Petersburg have had the same M., and Danny who is stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army.

Commodity Credit Corporation has under consideration new and higher service charges to be paid by producers for the preparation and handling of cotton loan papers. This is according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., who is vigorously protesting the move. The new schedule of charges was sent recently to Don Anderson, PCG President and Chairman of the Beltwide Cotton Producers Committee, by George V. Hansen, Deputy Administrator for State and County Operations in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Washington, D.C. Hansen's letter stated "The CCC Board of Directors has determined a loan service charge will be collected which will result in collections approximating the actual loan making cost," and requested Anderson's views and comments on the new pro-

The new fee system would call for a charge of $2 for loan documents containing from one to ten bales, $3 for those with 11 to 24 bales, plus $3 for each additional 24 bales or fraction thereof.

Producers under the new procedure would be required to pay these fees to CCC on all loan documents, even those initially prepared by CCC approved loan clerks outside county offices. Fees in the past, charged only by "outside" loan clerks, have been: 1 bale, 25 cents; 1 to 6 bales, 25 cents plus 15 cents for each bale over 1; and 7 bales and over, $1 plus 10 cents for each bale over 6.

There has been no charge for loan documents prepared in county offices,

Under the new proposal, outside loan clerks would still be authorized to charge fees in accordance with the old schedule, but producers using them would still be required to pay the CCC charge set by the new schedule.

To avoid this double charge, Walter Wells, Office Manager of the Lubbock County ASCS, thinks virtually all producers would bring loan papers to the county office for preparation. For Form G loans to cooperative associations of producers, the associations have been bearing the cost of preparing loan documents for their producer-members. In most cases the loans have been disbursed for CCC by banks under CCC agreements, with CCC paying the servicing agent banks a fee. The new procedure would call for cooperative associations to reimburse CCC for 30 percent of the fee paid for the bank's service. CCC estimates that this percentage will cover CCC's cost of checking and making the loans, Anderson is in Kampala, Uganda, Africa, serving as the cotton producer advisor of the official U.S. delegation to the International Cotton Advisory Committee meeting. In his absence, Johnson replied to Hansen's letter, strongly urging "that the proposal outlined in your letter NOT be put into effect." He made six points in support of his contention that the proposed procedure would be unwise, He said "after discussing the proposal with various county ASCS office managers, farmers and other officers of the BCPC, I respectfully submit the following observations on behalf of our organization and the BCPC.

"1. The total charge outlined in the schedule would be in addition to the fees now being paid by producers, ranging from a minimum of 12.5¢ per bale up to $2.00, and if producers choose to use a loan clerk outside the ASCS office they would be paying twice for a single service. Consequently virtually all loan documents probably would be prepared in county of-many instances office space, if long delays are not to be experienced by producers in getting money for their crops. Some office managers in our larger cotton producing counties state that they could not efficiently supervise sufficient loan clerks in their offices to prevent substatial dleays.

43. The additional people, equipment and space needed would occasion a significant outlay of government money, offsetting to a large degree or perhaps eliminating any economic advantage that might otherwise be gained.

"4. Delays experienced by producers in exchanging their cotton for money would cost them added interest on production loans, probably amounting to far more than the service charge On $5,000 worth of cotton (about 50 bales), a delay of only 15 days would cost the producer $16.66 (at 8 per cent), or about 33 cents per bale.

"Add this amount, the interest cost on what some office managers estimate would be the minimum delay, to the minimum additional service charge, and the producer's additional outlay over previous years would be almost half as much as he is putting up for research and promotion through the CPI program and three times as much as he is paying on the Plains to sup-

"5. The added cost of putting cotton into the government loan, plus the probability of a costly delay in getting money for it, would be a considerable inducement for farmers to sell cotton into the market at or even below the loan price, creating more downward pressure on already depressed cotton prices. "6. On the other hand, those who seek to buy equities on cotton that does go into the loan would find them more expensive as producers attempt to recover their higher cost," Johnson's letter concluded "We recognize and appreciate the need for making government program paper work pay its own way wherever possible, and the BCPC and PCG would welcome the opportunity to work with you in devising a procedure that would as nearly as possible accomplish this purpose and yet prove less expensive to producers and less disruptive to your county offices,"

Air Traffic Control Applicants Needed

U.S. Civil Service Commission officials in the five-State Southwestern Region of Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana, are actively seeking qualified persons to replenish their supply of AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL applicants. Stepped-up hiring of controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration during the past few months has greatly depleted the Commission's list of candidates.

According to a Commission spokesman, applicants are needed to insure adequate availability of control personnel to man the numerous towers, Flight Service Stations and enroute centers dotting the Southwest. A cool head, common sense, and the ability and desire to learn are the prime requirements. Legal prerequisites are experience and/or college plus, in the absence of control experience, completion of a Commission-administered aptitude test.

Mark Estes And Louis Cardinal At Boys State

The twenty-ninth annual American Legion Boys State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of the University of Texas, got underway today as 750 high school boys from all parts of Texas began registration, Robert P. Walsh, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Floydada were Mark Wesley Estes and Louis Reid Cardinal, who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties - the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party; he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

Highlight of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol on Friday morning where each elected Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day, followed by the Governor's Ball

Friday evening.
Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 14,154 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

You And Your Health

A few weeks ago we talked about the tendency towards aggressive attitudes, apparently on a constant increase in our society. We explained how aggression may turn against the individual, and cause him mental and physical harm of which he is sometimes unaware, at least, unaware that he himself is basically the cause of his ulcers, his rashes or his tiredness. Nevertheless, even violence if appropriately applied, has sometimes a beneficial effect. Since time immemorial, man has used the means of artistic expression to manifest violent or dramatic episodes, and by these means, searched a way to delve into the fundamental problems of existence. One of the main features of the alienation, the strangeness and loneliness of our everyday world, is the creation of a manmade satisfy everyday needs, artificially patterned to the urges of the simple everyday actions, and deprived of time for any of the more profound needs of humanity, these of facing the exaltation of a perfect moment of happiness or love, or of delving into the depth of loneliness and fear, know the fallacies of both extremes, and be able to face what the truth is, behind them.

Man does not, as we said, delve sufficiently in these many mportant fundamental things, but the problem exists, and is lurking, at all times, to some to surface. In primitive societies, even many thousand years ago, even before the biblical times and the era of written history, man used art and religion to express these unknown features of his own self. In caves we see paintings done in paleolithic times, in the early stone age, where man showed the excitement of hunting. The greeks, used their ritualistic dramas to carry man away from his routine of daily chores to a higher and more "human" level of thought. The wording and setup of these events, was very different from our nowaday movies. It was directed towards the public's higher self, it was not a "show to be consumed," with simple wording and lots of action, but, on the contrary, an episode to be lived and pondered, with prolonged dialogues of profound meaning, where all the problems of human existence were aired, and, the one that they were least concerned with, opposing our modern trends, was that of sex, magnified by our society, because it is much more simple, to make a big issue out of a simple, biological and individual feature of existence, than discussing intelligently the intricate puzzles of human relations, politics or education. At those times there seemed to be more manifestation, expression and discussion of certain problems, maybe less of the superficial everyday chatter that really rather masks, than expresses our feelings, but men apparently delved in the realm of their own selves to reap a rich crop of knowledge and happines ...

Religions have different rituals that are in essence, another approach to the discussion, analysis, and attempt to solve the basic human conflicts. But, in our speedy 20th Century society, men have replaced all these elaborate and profoundly superior ways, with other means, where, instead of dealing with the drama of human existence, they live it spasmodically, by means of "kicks", such as horror movies, crowding around an accident, and listening to passion or violence soap operas. Yet, since this is mere superficial action, and not intelligent analysis, there is no beneficial effect derived, and the problem will remain the same, only aggravated by its repetition. The person continues carrying with her her heavy burden, and wondering what makes, yes, literally makes her back hurt, her legs pull, and gives her that tired and exhausted feeling. It would be a blessing if humanity would gravitate towards a better understanding of these spiritual facts, or if these facts could be made manifested so that we could weigh them in pounds and ounces, or measure their sourness, or their degree of bitterness. Maybe many of our health problems would vanish most of them do not exist in primitive societies, and we would be better prepared to grapple with those tricky feelings, those "blahs" that give us so much trouble.

See you next time. DR. SNEAD

Damage High As Homes Hit

18 Persons Injured As Twister Nicks City; Other Rains Spotty

A TORNADO, 70-mph winds and golfball size hail that fell like cannonballs smashed Plainview with the force of a battering ram Tuesday, damaging a drivein theater, the country club, at least 200 homes and scores of automobiles as a squall line the length of the South Plains erupted ahead of a slow-moving Pacific cold front. Damage was expected to range into many thousands of dollars.

Eighteen persons were injured either by the storm or in a rash of traffic accidents that occurred when the thunderstorm sneaked up on the Hale County town about 9 p.m. Some of those injured in wrecks said they were running away from the storm.

Damage Extensive In Plainview What the U.S. Weather Bureau and Department of Public Safety said was a twister nicked the southwestern edge of Plainview, unroofing a portion of Plainview Country Club and demolishing a portion of one of two screens at Twin-Vue Drive-in theater. Another report indicated that virtually every tree was stripped of leaves. Electrical and telephone service was out in some parts of the town and fringe of the Hub City and the glass breakage was not confined to any one particular area. After the storm passed, hundreds of motorists drove out to see the damage, complicating the cleanup. Hale Center, 12 miles southwest of Plainview, also was hit by 70-mph winds, hail and .50 of an inch of rain but damage was comparatively light there. That storm lasted two minutes. Covered Wide Area The squall line that swept

The Twin-Vue drive-in theater had a portion of its screen destroyed by the tornado. One center also was damaged. Several spectators at a Little League ball game reportedly were "bruised up a by the hailstones before they could reach shelter.

Officers said the 30-man force was "taxed to the limit" by the rash of traffic accidents.
