Floyd County Hesperian

FLOYDADA, FLOYD COUNTY, TEXAS 79235

THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1972

April 1, Floydada residents will vote for three city councilmen (the race is uncontested); residents of the Floydada Independent School District will choose two school board trustees from three candidates; and Caprock Hospital district residents will elect three directors.

In the city election, the name of Johnny Sue, Frank Goen and the ballot. The terms of present councilmen Sue, Wayne Russell and Ricky Burns expire in April.

Flo Davis, seeking re-election, Lawrence Stovall and Gene Arwine are the three candidates for two school board trustee terms which expire in April. Trustee Bill Hale is not seeking re-election.

Three hospital directors' terms - those of E. J. Kinslow, Bill Cagle and Dr. Andrew McCulley - expire.

At press time, there were "seven or eight" who had presented petitions seeking the Caprock Hospital directors' positions, but the petitions had not been screened by the board. Names of the candidates could not be released, the Hesperian was told, until the Caprock board had certified all of the ing is being put in.

R. A. Dyson this week announced the sale of his shoe and western wear store on the west side of the square to Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sims, who have been employed in the store for several years.

Dyson had been in business 22 years here and made the decision to sell his business in order to better care for his wife, Winnie.

In a note of thanks printed elsewhere in this edition of The Hesperian, Dyson expresses his thanks to the people of this community for helping him and his wife.

Dyson has sold his picture framing business to Don Cheek, who this week announces opening of The Arts and Treasures business. He will continue to do saw and scissors sharpen-

Sims said he would continue to sell western wear, boots, and offer repair work on shoes, boots, and other leather goods.

ARTS AND TREASURES. . . Don Cheek looks at a western painting by Sonny Timme, one of several western artists featured in Cheek's gallery, "Arts and Treasures," which opened this week in Floydada. The "Arts and Treasures" also specializes in custom frames and antiques. Cheek said the paintings in the gallery are all by artists he knows personally. They include Timme, Jack White, Alberto Meza, Palmer Chrisman, Robert Carver, Al Miller. and local artist Ted Bell, and lithographs by Dalhart Windberg. The gallery is located at 126 W. California St., former location of Alma's Gift Shop. (Staff Photo)

CAP Schedules Practice Mission

The Floydada Civil Air Patrol will hold practice Search and Rescue (SAR) recovery mission Sunday afternoon, The purpose of the practice mission is to test the unit's operational efficiency in preparation for a national SAR test.

The public is invited to the exercise, which starts at 2 p.m. at the Floydada Municipal Airport, according to unit commander Richard Thomas.

The second portion of the Sunday-afternoon test will involve Civil Defense work, Thomas said. A radioactivity decontamination area will be set up at the airport.

Starting April 6, a standard first-aid course will be taught to CAP members and the general public. The only cost for the course, to be taught by CAP squadron commander Richard Thomas, is $1 for the firstaid book. Time and place information for the course will be available later.

Chester Mitchell Urges For To Conserve Underground

Chester Mitchell, and his wife, Alice, of Lockney, attended the 28th annual convention of the Texas Water Conservation in Fort Worth, on Feb. 24 and 25. Mitchell is vicepresident of the Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1. He had served for six years on the District's Floyd County Committee before being elected to the District's Board of Directors in 1964. In all he has served the District in an elected capacity, continuous for nearly 15 years.

Mitchell noted that repeatedly throughout the convention that the discussion turned to the new, "Proposed Principles for Planning Water and Related Land Resources". The "Principles" are now under review by the Federal Water Resources Council pending their submission to President Nixon for his adoption. Mitchell reported that attorneys at the convention reviewed parts of the "Proposed Principles" and found that if they were adopted they would: 1) limit federal participation to water development projects costing less than 10 million dollars; 2) require that projects be discounted 7 1/2 to 10 percent; 3) require that project construction be commenced

Wheat Growers Urged To Set Aside Before March

Wheat growers in Texas have an opportunity to strengthen their own income and that of wheat growers nationwide through use of set-aside provisions of the 1972 farm program, according to Leo Witkowski of Hereford, president of the Texas Wheat Producers Association. Witkowski urges all Texas producers to heed the appeal for program participation of National Association of Wheat Growers president, Gene Moos of Edwall, Washing-

Moos says, "Wheat growers should consider the long-range advantage to each individual producer and to the wheat industry if they sign up some wheat acreage in the new setaside option in 1972."

Moos, who has 300 acres of winter wheat planted, says wheat producers who anticipate more than an average yield on wheat already planted will be tempted to gamble on price at harvest time and not use the new U.S. Department of Agriculture offer to pay 94¢ per bushel for an average yield for up to 75% of a farm's dom-

Neighborhood Board Plans New Year

The Neighborhood Center Advisory Board met Monday night and began making plans for the next program year.

Programs that are in progress at the center were reviewed by the chairman, Olin Watson and Aide John Campbell. Plans were presented to set up special committees to work on five priorities of importance in the programs.

Special attention was given to an Urban Renewal Program which is being considered by the board. Points of interest on FHA homes were outlined and discussed by the FHA representative. This discussion revealed the lack of understanding in making application for low income homes on the part of some low income residents.

Education and budgeting money were the two most important things the people need a better understanding on.

Recognition of new board members from the target area along with general community meetings that are being held was given by the chairman.

The coming May primary election was talked on briefly, and the hope of getting all eligible voters to register to vote. The board felt the meeting was the best one held this year.

Club Meets In Lubbock With Mrs. Henry

Members of the 1922 Study Club journeyed to Lubbock Thursday to meet with Mrs. Bessie Henry, who is now a resident of Sherick Memorial Home. Mrs. Henry and her daughter, Mrs. Alton Strickland of Lubbock, served a refreshment plate along with coffee and tea to Mrs. J. H. Barnard, Mrs. P. W. Bell, Mrs. Wilson Kimble, Mrs. Noel Troutman, Mrs. Ben Whitaker and Mrs. J. M. Willson.

Mrs. Kimble was leader for the program and roll call was answered by members naming a prominent woman in Texas.

The program, presented by Mrs. Bell, was on "A Cherished Texas Heritage". The quote was given from the club book, "Next to our God and family we have this land of ours, Fair Texas with her chanted woods Her prairies decked with flowers."

Mrs. Bell gave an interesting history of Texas dating back to when the plains were desolate, nothing more than a desert. She spoke of the dugout homes, the prairie fires, the first wind mills, the coming of many more settlers and eventually irrigation for the land of milk and honey.

Members enjoyed a visit with Mrs. Henry and her daughter, and also a tour of the home eparting for Floydada. Next club meeting will be March 16 with Mrs. Noel Troutman.

Good Response For Annuals

Helen Patterson, Floydada High School librarian, reported this week she had received good response in the request of old school annuals. There are, however, still a few she doesn't have.

Mrs. Patterson is trying to complete the school library with issues of every Hesper and Whirlwind annual. If you have an issue printed before 1922 or in 1926, 1928, 1931-1936 and would like to donate the annual, please contact Mrs. Patterson. Nell Swinson has promised a 1936 annual and Vera Meredith, a 1923 annual.

Applications are still being accepted for the Miss Texas-Teen Ager Pageant to be held at the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio on July 28 and 29, 1972. In order to be eligible, girls must be residents of the state of Texas, ages 13-17, and must still be 17 on Sept. 1, 1972, and they also must be U.

S. citizens. Judging is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality, and appearance. Talent or bathing suit competition is not involved. The pageant is recognized by civic, educational and political leaders across the country as a very worthwhile, outstanding pageant for teenagers to recognize them for their scholastic abilities and civic-mindedness.

The winner for 1972 will have her expenses paid to the National Finals in Atlanta, Ga. on Aug. 26. This includes her food and lodging at the beautiful Mariott and Regency Hyatt House in Atlanta, plus plane flight round trip for 4 day holiday. Also, the top 3 contestants from each state will receive scholarships.

Theme of the National Finals will be "What's Right About America?" and each state winner will be asked to write a theme on this subject as part of the national judging. Finals in Atlanta will be held at the Memorial Arts Center. Judging is handled by well-known educational and civic leaders both on a state basis, and at the national finals.

At the state finals in San Antonio, trophies will be awarded to the winner, and five runnersup, and there will be a Congeniality Award and Citizenship Award given.

Applications may be obtained by writingOfficial Certification Headquarters for the state of Texas, 126 Bunn Drive, Rockton, Ilinois 61072.

Krista Simpson Crowned "Miss Floydada"

Krista Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Simpson, was crowned Miss Floydada Saturday night before a star - spangled setting on stage at Floydada High School. Judges had a hard decision to make in selecting one of the 15 entries. First runner-up was Cindy Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Simpson, and cousin of Krista. Karen Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Willis was second run-

Miss Floydada was crowned by Lisa Gregory, last year's winner. She was presented a bouquet of red roses by Macyl Roberts, in behalf of the senior class, sponsors of the annual event.

The top three contestants also received chaim bracelets. Miss Simpson is a member of the basketball team, track team, serves as 2nd vice president of the Harmony 4-H Club, has received several honors in the Floyd County Fat Stock Show, was twirler

Hale place, leaving big cottonwood trees uprooted and sheared off in the canyon bed. To this time it's still a mystery; approximately 800 acres of rich grazing land lay charred this week after a prairie fire in the Vance Campbell pasture; thirty girls enter Miss Floydada Pageant.

JOHN Connally talked about going home to Texas last week, but refused to close the door on political future. "I can't say what I'd do if the vice presidency were offered me because it hasn't been offered and I don't expect it to be. I just don't want to say anything to cast myself in a political light right now," he commented.

THE Nixon Administration has put out word the valueadded tax, an infamous form of tax now levied on helpless populations in many European countries, might be a good thing here, perhaps next year. It might, it's said, bring down property taxes for the homeowner, eventually.

MANY Americans feel the death penalty is obsolete as a form of criminal punishment; the controversy has indeed been so intense that executions in all states in recent years have been halted pending a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court, expected to be forthcoming before summer. The California Court, however, recently ruled executions were a violation of that state's constitution. Thus those on death row in California have been reprieved. Even a U.S. Supreme Court decision upholdThe 17 year old miss answered the question, "What is your most important character trait with, "friendliness." Miss Simpson is a member of a Blanco community farm family and has two sisters and two brothers.

Macyl Roberts, president of the senior class, gave the welcome and introduced Mrs. Keith Buhrman, who narrated the pageant. Piano selections were played by Miss Penny Bertrand and intermission music was furnished by the "Road", a group comprised of Kirk McIntosh, David Battey and Shawn Feuerbacher.

installation, central GAS air conditioning will be quietly and efficiently cooling your whole house. And another benefit of installing now is you have the time to consider the advantages that GAS air conditioning has over the other kinds. A GAS air conditioning system is ruggedly built and operates on a simple principle. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. There are fewer major moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. It's this simplicity that gives GAS air conditioning its low operating costs, its long life with no loss of cooling capacity, and its easy maintenance with few repair bills. GAS air conditioning also filters the air to reduce dust and pollen.

Phased English Successful At FHS

(By James Huggins) Now in its fifth year of operation at Floydada High School, the "Phased English Program" (also called a "non-graded" or "continuous progress" program) has brought enthusiastic response from both teachers and students. Over 90 percent of the students who were 'in on the change' from conventional to phased English instruction levels in 1937 reported that they favored the new system; and the teachers -Anne Swepston, Polly Cardinal, Frances Puckett and Roseva Ford - developed the idea, understand it, and believe in it, and they have helped to "sell" the idea to the students. Mrs. Ford is the Phase-One Instructor, the only one who teaches the same students the full year.

Floydada was the second high school in Texas to adopt the phased English plan. Anne Swepston, now head of the FHS English Department, had talked to teachers at Seminole, the first Texas school to try the system, and became interested in it. A conversation with FHS principal Charles Tyer (who had read about such a program in a Florida school) resulted in a trip by the Floydada English teachers and principal to observe the process in action at Seminole. The Floydada teachers liked the idea: during the summer of 1967, they, along with librarian Helen Patterson and guidance counselor Emily Potts, worked for two weeks after school was out, "getting the bugs out" of the system, formulating a plan they could "sell" to the Texas Education Agency and Floydada School Superintendent A. E. Baker.

Both the TEA and superintendent Baker approved, and in the fall of 1967, FHS's "Phased English" went into operation. PROVIDES INDIVIDUAL LEARNING LEVELS

"The program was originated basically because we felt the need to reach each student at his individual learning level,' principal Tyer explained. For example - "Why try to teach 'Lassie' to a child who can understand 'Hamlet'? - and conversely, why try to pound more advanced concepts into the mind of a student who just can't understand them?

The placing program works like this: the school reviews each incoming freshman's eighth-grade records (LQ. is not a factor determining placement, but reading ability B) and makes recommendations as to which phase each student should be in (Phase L, II, III, or IV). The recommendation is not binding, however, and a student chooses the phase in which he enrolls. Many ninthgraders are enrolled in Phase III English from the start of their high-school careers; they may stay there (or in ANY phase) for all of their high-school years - or they may move to another phase at any time. Such phase changes involve some rearranging of schedules, but it can usually be done with a minimum of trouble, according to Tyer.

So: a twelfth-grade student may be a Phase-One English student for all his high-school years. Or a ninth-grade student may receive Phase-Three instruction and move to Phase Four his sophomore year, where he might remain through the 11th and 12th grades. If a student "oversteps the mark" and gets in too "high" a phase, he may step back.

YEARLY PROGRAM CHANGES But even if a student stays in the same phase for all four of his high-school years, he'll learn something different each year, because the program is changed every year. During the initial "phase" year, 1967-68, English instruction at FHS was divided into four areas - composition, English Drama, English Poetry, and the foreign novel. The next year, FHS students studied the American novel, short stories and poetry, and composition and rhetoric. During the 1969-70 school year, the areas taught included nonfiction, 20th-century drama, linguistics, and mythology. Last year, the studies in the Floydada English program were vocabulary, grammar, Afro-American literature, and world literature. This year, the areas of study swung back to English literature and composition, going back to the original after four years of change.

Each student in Phase II, III, or IV is instructed by all three higher-phase teachers during the course of the school year; thus, after one year of high-school English, each teacher knows each student's capabilities and can better make recommendations as to the phase in which he should receive instruction, PHASES DESCRIBED

The phases are described by the school like this: 'Phase I - The work on this level will be remedial reading along with a low level study of the subjects which are used in the other three phases. The achievement level is well below average; the students working in this phase are generally below with thirtieth percentile in achievement on national standardized tests. These classes will be smaller than the regular classes of English, and the instruction will be somewhat individualized. . .

"Phase II - these classes are concerned with the development of the basic skills. The achievement level is below average with students generally ranking between the 30th and the 55th percentiles on nationally standardized tests.

"Phase III - These classes are designed for those students with an average background in English, Normally, students on this level will rank between the 55th and 90th percentile on nationally standardized tests.

"Phase IV - These classes are designed for extremely well prepared students desiring education in depth, Students working in this level will generally rank above the 90th percentile on nationally standardized tests and will be quite mature in their attitude toward education. Although the units of study will be the same as those in phase three, the depth of study will be much A Phase Five, also defined by the school, has not yet been put into operation here, but would consist of courses "for students who are willing to assume responsibility for their own learning and pursue college level courses while still in high school." However, in any phase, a student has the opportunity to do what is called "independent study" -that is, he is "on his own" with minimal teacher supervision, doing, perhaps, library research, for maybe an entire nine-weeks period.

(The Floydada schools' nine-weeks periods, by the way, replaced the traditional six-weeks periods for all subjects in 1968-69, after proving successful in the initial year of the phased-English program.)

SYSTEM IS FLEXIBLE, CHALLENGING The phased-English system is flexible, individualistic and challenging to both students and teachers, say Floydada administrators. Challenging to students because it gives them the incentive to move up when they feel that they are able, and the incentive to make better grades because they CAN make better grades at their correct level of study; challenging to teachers because they have to study, too (unlike the days of the standard textbooks, when teachers might slip into complacency after a few years), and flexible and individualistic because of the choice and variety offered.

CONSIDERED BY OTHER SCHOOLS At least "four or five" other schools in Texas are considering adopting the plan, Tyer told the Hesperian reporter. Why haven't more schools used the plan, if it's so great? Well, teachers sometimes back away when they see how much work is involved, Tyer said.

"We have probably one of the finest English staffs in the state of Texas," he said (admitting that he might be prejudiced), "and we have strengthened them by letting them work in the area they prefer." (Each teacher instructs in the area in which she is best qualified.)

DROPOUTS DOWN, COLLEGE GRADES UP Tyer credits the phased-English program, along with several other innovations - remedial and accelerated math, distributive education, remedial science, and expanded vocational instruction - with lowering the percentage of failures and drop-outs at Floydada High School. The reason - the individual student being able to progress at his own rate, compared to the "old system" or the conventional grade-level plan where a student might be "socially promoted" into a level of study he just couldn't comprehend.

Among F HS students who continue their schooling, significantly higher college grades have been documented since the school initiated phased English, and it is believed that the two are directly related.

NUMERICAL EQUIVALENTS GIVEN If a numerical grade equivalent is needed for phased-English grades (a C in Phase II, III or IV is better than an A in Phase I), such as for college-required grade transcripts, it comes out like Phase IV - A is 95; B is 94; C is 93. Phase III - A is 90; B is 86; C is 82. Phase $\Pi - A$ is 79; B is 77; C is 75. Phase I - A is 73; B is 72; C is 71. All "D" and "F" grades are failing.

What about the stigma that might be attached to a student in Phase One English because it might be considered a class for 'dummies''? Tyer answered this question with the statement that the student has the final choice of his placement, and in any phase, the student can succeed, if he is correctly placed and will try.

"We feel it is important to stimulate growth in a child," Tyer said, "and we feel that through the phased-English program and other similar programs, we can do just that."

FAVORED BY TEACHERS Miss Swepston said of the FHS phased-English program: "All of us agree that it's the best system we've ever had. We can meet the needs of all students through (phased English's) allowances for differences in ability, and the broader program avoids repetition of work."

Mrs. Cardinal and Mrs. Puckett echoed Miss Swepston's acceptance of the idea. "We feel that it's harder on the teachers, but we think we're doing a better job." (Since the change to the phased system.)

All the teachers agreed: "We wouldn't change." "We're sold on the phased-English program," Tyer main-

Carl Daniel

Carl Daniel, 76 year old Floyd County rancher, were conducted Tuesday in the First Baptist Church in Silverton. Daniel died Monday morning in Lockney General Hospital where he had been a patient for the past three days. He was a patient in an Amarillo hospital prior to being moved to Lockney.

Born November 24, 1895 in Missouri, Daniel moved to Floyd County in 1907, residing in the Lone Star and South Plains communities. He had been residing in Amarillo the past two years.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. L. N. (Charlene) Johnson of South Plains and Mrs. Walter (Elizabeth) Burgess of Dumas; two brothers, Floyd Daniel of Colorado and Warren Daniel of Dallas; and eight grandchildren.

Rev. Sealy Smith of Weatherford, former pastor of the South Plains Baptist Church, officiated. He was assisted by Goree Applewhite, lay minister of Lone Star. Burial was in Silverton Cemetery under the direction of Carter Funeral Home in Lockney.
