HAS REUNION WITH DAUGHTER Dreams Of Norman Niederbrach Fulfilled

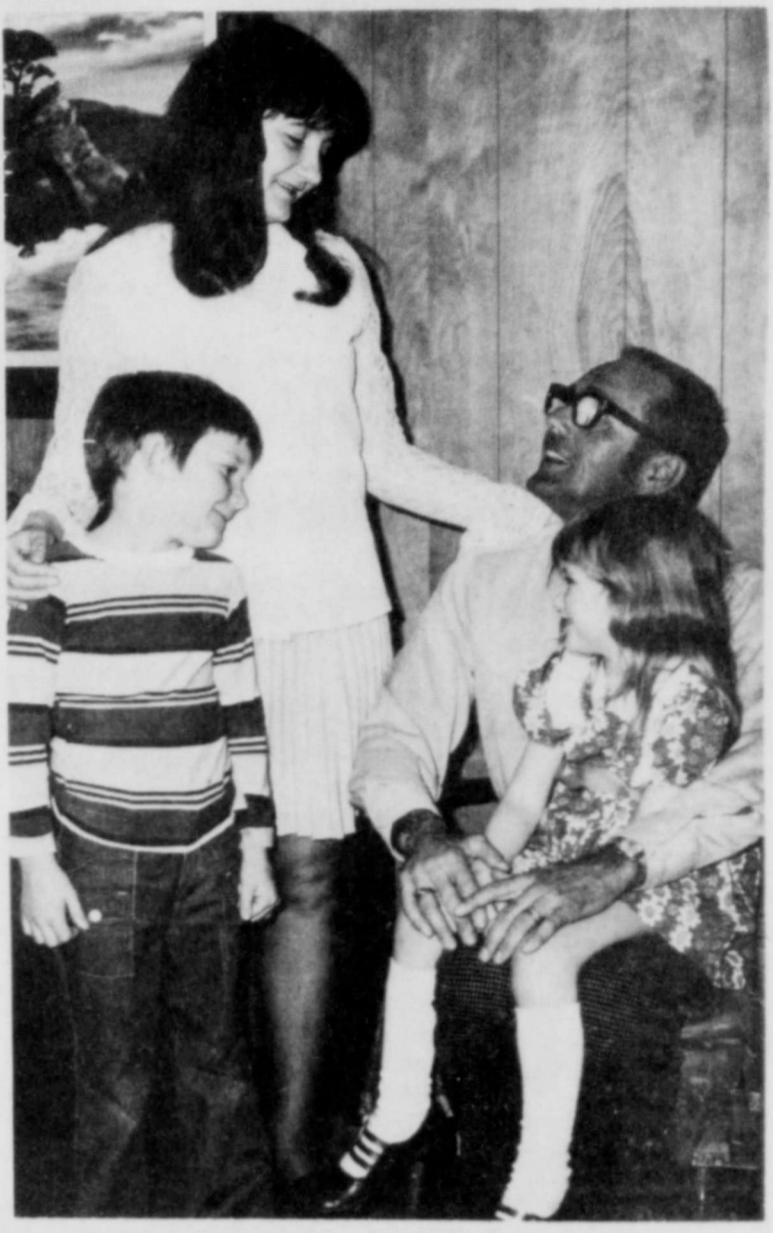

(By Peggy Medley)
The dreams held by Norman Niederbrach of Floydada were fulfilled last week with the arrival of his daughter and her children from their home in Livingston, Montana. The reunion of the family took place at Lubbock Municipal Airport Tuesday after 29 years of separation. Shirley Ann Tinsley said of her father, "I couldn't have ordered one any better than he."

It was last October when Niederbrach's son, Ron of McKinleyville, California, located his father. News of their reunion during the Christmas holidays in California was carried in an earlier Hesperian issue. Norman had told his daughter that he would be unable to meet her plane due to his job, but that his wife would be there and he would see her and his grandchildren later that night at home. Fate evidently stepped in for Norman was able to make his delivery for United Transport, get back home in time for a change of clothes, then drive with his wife to the airport.

"Each day I spend talking to Lucille and asking questions, and each night is filled with talks between my father and me," Shirley continued. "We both are finding we have fond memories to recall. Even though we have been separated all these years, we have many years left to spend together and for that we are thankful. My greatest wish now is that soon the entire family can meet for a reunion."

Since her father was out of town and unable to be interviewed, I asked Shirley about her father's reaction to their reunion. She said, "For a time I think he still thought of me as a small child, as I was when he last saw me, but as our visit continues he sees me now as his grown daughter with children of his own. My daughter is just slightly older than I when I last saw my father. He has missed so much, but maybe in her, he can visualize my growing up years. He is such a happy father and grandfather and has so much love for Ron and me, with plenty left for his grandchildren. Love is the easiest thing to give and the greatest of all gifts so what better for a reporter to end a happy story."

The Niederbrachs, along with Shirley and her two children, Gene, age six, and Teresa, who is four, will be leaving soon for a trip to the state of Illinois. There Shirley will meet relatives of both sides of the family and will visit the town where her father was born and reared.

Complete results of the Floydada Junior High Tournament will be printed in the Thursday edition of this newspaper.

It was still hard for me to believe it was really him. After all it had been 29 years and I didn't even know if my father was alive," Shirley said. After additional telephone calls between the two Shirley said the shock of hearing from her father wore off and her mind

Fire Destroys Trailers, Cotton

A fire at Barwise Gin in southwest Floyd County early Wednesday morning destroyed nine cotton trailers and 28 bales of cotton.

The Floydada Volunteer Fire Department dispatched two units to the blaze, and one truck and two firemen from the Plainview fire department were summoned to help with the fire-fighting efforts.

The Floydada Fire Department answered the call at 1:55 a.m. Wednesday and were on the scene until 4:30 a.m. Fire Chief Bill Marquis said the firemen wet down the burning trailers and moved trailers not on fire.

The fire apparently started from a trailer of cotton brought to the gin yard Tuesday afternoon.

An early estimate put the fire loss at $15,000 but gin manager H. G. Watts told The Hesperian that the loss would probably run about half that — $7,000 to $8,000.

MOSCOW TO MOSCOW

America's wheat is making a historic turnaround

1,000 additional, 100-ton covered hoppers are now being completed to give Santa Fe 11,000 of these giant cars to help move export wheat to Russia

Inspectors checking new hoppers at car builder's plant. Santa Fe pioneered the use of these giant 100-ton covered hoppers for moving wheat and other bulk commodities and has the largest fleet in the rail industry.

Troughs extending length of car roof loading and unloading in 12 minutes or less. Cars at dock facilities for transloading to elevators.

The history of wheat on the Santa Fe started back in the 1870's. At that time, the railway sent representatives to Europe with a view in mind of winning settlers to Kansas. Through their efforts, the Mennonites emigrated from Russia in 1874 and brought with them a few sacks of wheat—red wheat—that thrived and transformed the Midwest and parts of the Southwest into the breadbasket of the world. Today, one of the cities not far from the center of the wheat belt on the Santa Fe, carries the name of Moscow, Kansas. Now, the same type of wheat brought to America by the Mennonites from Russia is going back. It is part of the 400 million bushels of wheat being sold to the Soviet Union. Santa Fe's giant hopper cars are moving it. The company that helped bring wheat to this country is now moving it out, 100 years later. From Moscow and all across Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to Moscow and the vast areas of Russia. Quite a historic turnaround.

Moving huge volumes of wheat requires coordination and cooperation

"Export movements require the greatest teamwork between railroads, port authorities and exporters in the scheduling of railroad shipments to coordinate with the movement of sea-going vessels. The current wheat export program puts this teamwork to the test, and the Santa Fe is prepared to work closely with its customers to handle this transportation challenge successfully."

Will Floyd County Be One Of The 100?

HAROLD HUDSON in The Perryton Herald: A recent survey by regional planning commis-

What about a purely agricultural county whose crop is cotton? How about one of the counties of West Texas which has little for income except oil, and it is produced by automated machinery instead of people?

In our own area, we held our own between 1960 and the 1970 census. We are not listed in the 100 counties destined to shrink but neither are we listed in the areas most likely to grow population, either.

Where the places where population will increase are where the people are now — the metropolitan key to a stable population and a growing industry is jobs. Most of the jobs these days are connected with industry rather than oil or agriculture. Thus the effort needs to be made toward industrial payroll if people are to remain in

There is a federal rural development law which helps with loans for rural industry and business, but no amount of federal or state financial aid can push industry into places where it is not sound and reasonable for industry to be.

Industry locates where there are markets, labor, materials and a demand for its products. If these factors are missing, there will be no industry there.

While a lot of hue and cry is heard deploring crowding of urban areas, out in the rural areas the main streets are dotted with vacant stores, and the scene is different. Rural America needs jobs and payrolls in order to keep folks at home.

IN THE OPINION OF THE COURT

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society

Copyright 1973 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Virginia

Crime, drug abuse, sexual license, contempt for society — on all counts the situation is worse, not better. Why do we no longer hear much about juvenile and parental delinquency?

First, the more common evil becomes, the less it is called delinquency. Lower standards enough and there are no delinquents!

Second, it wasn't juvenile or parental delinquency that caused our plight. It was spiritual delinquency. Millions in our society set their spiritual standards at a level where such delinquency became custom.

The thing to do with an opinion like this is to REVERSE it. That can be done by a Higher Court — such as an aroused citizenry, seeking every spiritual opportunity and fulfilling every religious responsibility that its churches provide and teach.

Breast Cancer

In the United States, one out of every 20 women dies of breast cancer. It is the leading cause of death in women. The cure rate drops to 30 percent when the cancer has spread to the lymph nodes in the armpit. Sometimes X-rays are given following surgery.

HIGH RISK INDIVIDUALS
Although the cause of breast cancer is not known, doctors have been able to determine certain characteristics which place an individual in the high-risk category. These women should have breast examinations by a doctor twice a year and should practice self-examination monthly.

Women who have had cancer in one breast and those who have had close relatives with breast cancer are considered high-risk. Women with other breast diseases, such as cysts in the breast, also have a greater tendency to develop breast cancer. Women over age 35 who have never had children are more likely to develop breast cancer.

Any woman over age 30, whether a high-risk individual or not, should have an annual breast examination and Pap Smear. It takes six to 12 months for the cancer to grow to one-half to two inches, which is the size at which it is usually discovered. It takes six to 12 months for the cancer to grow to one-half to two inches, which is the size at which it is usually discovered.

TYPES OF TREATMENT
There are five basic types of breast cancer, differentiated by their cell type and speed of growth. Methods of treatment vary with the type of cancer, its extent, the age of the patient, and the presence of concurrent diseases. In addition to surgery, hormone treatment, radiation, chemotherapy, and combinations of these are tools used against breast cancer.

Hormones are given to treat recurrences of cancer in the same patient. Chemotherapy is the use of drugs. The fast-growing cancer tumor has a higher metabolic rate than the surrounding tissue. Because of this, the tumor will concentrate more of the drug than the surrounding tissue and will eventually kill itself.

X-radiation is used also as a diagnostic tool. Mammography is an X-ray technique for locating suspicious growths in the breast. Thermography or xerography is a technique similar to mammography that uses heat patterns.

Any diagnostic technique is only useful, however, to the person who takes advantage of it. If all women would have regular check-ups and practice breast self-examination, the cancer survival rate could reach 90 to 95 percent.

One out of every 14 female babies is destined to get breast cancer. This does not mean one out of 14 will die of cancer. Early detection will make the difference.

CARE CENTER CAPERS

By Gaye Walters
I had good crowds at our church this week. Even on Sunday when it was raining, I brought two car loads of ladies from the United Methodist Church and every one enjoyed their singing and singing.

We have some of the faithful people who give devotionals that you can find here.

We are starting on some new activity room. We will make some yo yo are really cute.

Bingo was fun as always. Some of the residents know why we don't stop after a week or two.

A new player this week, W. Anderson, who is a good player. We are always to welcome new players.

Angus and Della played with three games. Other games were won by Pearl Britton, Victoria Best, Bessie Pierce, Bessie Reed, and Myrtle Hansen.

Warren entered a back hospital to undergo surgery this week. We hope he will be back with us very soon and walking much better. We will miss her.

We are happy to have our new player, Laules Parkey after her illness. Her sickness came to our church this week with the help of two of our dear friends.

enjoyed doing things with her hands. Always on Thursday when I would leave work she would tell me how lonesome she was going to be until I returned on Monday. The place where she sat will be a reminder for all of us, of this lovely lady. When we are lonely for them, let us remember that they are gone to their reward, and that we should be happy for them although we shall never forget them.

Lockney 4-H Club Meets

The Lockney 4-H Club had their January monthly meeting Monday, Jan. 29 at Lockney Junior High. The president, Marcia Fortenberry, called the meeting to order. Kevin Turner led everyone in the motto and pledge. The roll was called by David Foster. Each one answered with his project of the year.

Becky Bybee was chosen to compete with a girl from each Floyd County 4-H Club for Jr. Livestock Show Sweetheart. Jim Bob Thompson gave a report on what Group No. 1 has done in the cooking project, and Rise Taylor gave a report on Group No. 2 and Darlene Brosch reported on Group No. 3.

The recreation leader, Greg Taylor read an "unusual story." Yearbooks and calendars were given to those present. New members were: Tye Williams, Kara Carthel, Lara Jane Bayley, and Kent Stansell.

FARM INCOME TAX ERRORS

Economists for the Texas Agricultural Extension list a number of pitfalls for farmers and ranchers to avoid in filing their income tax returns: 1.

- Letting the tax accountant do all the work; 2. Poor planning; 3. Failure to claim investment credit; 4. Poor record keeping; 5. Failure to watch tax changes; 6. Failure to use capital gains fully.

Weather Delays Cotton Harvest

The South Plains cotton harvest was delayed another week to ten days by the rains and snows over the area, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office of the USDA. However, farmers were able to harvest some cotton during the past week. Also, some ginning, sampling and classing continued due to accumulated backlogs of cotton harvested before the unfavorable weather.

Middling Tinged (44) 12 percent. Average staple length was also lower than the previous week. Staples were predominantly 30 to 33. Thirty two percent had a staple length of 30, 21 percent stapled 31, 20 percent was 32 and 12 percent was 33.

Micronaire readings were considerably lower. Only 12 percent of all cotton classed at Lubbock had micronaire readings in the premium range of 3.5 through 4.9, 10 percent "miked" 3.3 through 3.4, 30 percent was 3.0 through 3.2, 35 percent 2.7 through 2.9 and 13 percent was 2.6 and below.

Prices were $10.00 to $15.00 per bale higher early in the week but declined on Friday to their earlier levels. Prices ranged from $2.50 per bale over the loan for low grade, low micronaire cotton up to $55.00 per bale over the loan for high grade, premium micronaire cotton.

Average prices paid for the most predominant qualities in the 3.5 to 4.9 premium micronaire range were: Strict Low Middling (41) staple 31 - 28.65 cents per pound, Strict Low Middling (41) staple 31 - 29.15, Low Middling (51) staple 30 - 27.60, Low Middling (51) staple 31 - 28.05, Strict Low Middling Light Spotted (42) staple 30 - 28.00 and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted (42) staple 31 - 28.40.

Cottonseed prices were steady and farmers received $46 to $56 per ton for their cottonseed at gins.

AUTO LICENSE PLATES ON SALE

Texas motorists can pick up license plates for the faithful family car starting February 1 at the county tax office or substation in the county in which they live.

The motorist may register his vehicle in person at his county tax office or substation by bringing in the entire handy three-part form he received in the mail from the Texas Highway Department. It takes only a few minutes to process the form, collect the fee and send the motorist on his way with new plates.

Drivers also can get new plates by mail if they send in the complete three-part form, the registration fee plus one dollar for each vehicle to their county tax office prior to March 1.

After March 1 it will be necessary to go to the county tax office or substation in person as 30 days are required for mail delivery. In any case, owners will save themselves time and trouble by using the computerized forms.

With the form, a certificate of title and last year's registration receipt are not needed.

FARM REVIEW

Cotton Quality Is Still Good, Expert Thi

Despite abnormally extended periods of moisture-laden weather on the Plains this Fall and Winter, as yet there is no reason to believe field-stored cotton in the area has suffered any serious deterioration, according to Donald A. Johnson, executive vice president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

"Rumors to the contrary notwithstanding," says Johnson, "to our knowledge there are no confirmed reports of rotting or seed sprouting in cotton placed in ricks by rick-compactors in accordance with recommendations."

The relatively new (in modern times, at least) practice of storing cotton on field turnrows until after the rush season at gins spread rapidly in 1972 following research by Cotton Incorporated which led to the development of mechanical rick compactors in 1970. CI research has shown that cotton placed in ricks by these machines retains basic quality characteristics far better than cotton left to weather on the stalk. Several "someone said" reports of severe deterioration in ricked cotton prompted the PCG staff to survey ginners, producers, cotton technologists and others involved in monitoring field-stored cotton. "The results, so far, are encouraging," says Johnson.

No great amount of ricked cotton has been ginned to date, but ginners report that what has been ginned came back from the classing office with grades, staples and micronaire readings comparable to season ginnings from fields.

Dr. Milton Smith, professor of industrial engineering at Texas Tech, says much of the rick development work grant from Cotton Incorporated, has placed the Plains to check for heating. Temperatures ranged from 60 to 70 degrees to around 100 degrees inside the ricks, depending on the weather on different days. Recording three feet of ricked cotton, he says, is fairly constant with variation between daytime readings, which indicate that the outside of cotton are an excellent insulating tend to prevent even in the unlikely event of a few days.

A check of weather reveals that only about 76 days between 10 and January 28 were "fit" for because of excessive snow. "Such weather concerned us all," stated, "but as it appears our field is coming through with no loss of quality, ricked on the farm, these adverse conditions concluded, "we have pretty well."

Rain On Plains Valued At $7 Million Per Inch

A member of the weather modification subcommittee of the Executive Water Committee of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers estimates that an inch of rainfall on the irrigated area within the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 would be valued at more than $7 million.

Frank Rayner, manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, attributed the estimate to a recent report released by the governor's office, and added: "There is no reason to believe that an inch of well-timed rainfall would be any less valuable to all land in the district" and it could be worth more than $100 million.

He stressed that the area applicable to his estimates was only that area within the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, which represents only a fraction of the total High Plains of Texas. The estimate was made during a meeting of the subcommittee held in Lubbock offices of the district. Committee members include Owen Ivie, chairman, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, Big Spring, and Victor Jaeggli, manager of the West Central Texas Municipal Water District, Abilene. A fourth committee member, Walter Wells, general manager of the Brazos River Authority, Waco, was not present.

The meeting was held to evaluate weather modification projects in Texas. Ivie and Jaeggli both gave brief reports on projects in their areas, but Jaeggli concluded that it is imperative that some program be established in Texas to evaluate weather modification projects "if we are ever going to re-

HEARING TESTS TO BE GIVEN IN FLOYDADA TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1973. BELTONE HEARING AID CONSULTANTS WILL BE AT LAMPLIGHTER INN FROM 10 A.M. TO 2 P.M.

The world of silence is a lonely one, unnecessarily lived in by many folks because they resist admitting that they cannot hear. For these people, the restoration of hearing requires only the willingness to accept the fact that they have hearing difficulty and the desire to be helped.

It is often one who uses a hearing aid, already taking advantage of the best means available to overcome a hearing difficulty, who can offer others the most effective encouragement to seek help.

If you have a friend who suspects a hearing loss, suggest to him that he consult with his family doctor or with your hearing aid dealer.

An auditory check-up will determine, first of all, whether the hearing defect is a conductive or a sensori-neural loss. If there is a problem in the transmission pathway of sound vibrations through the ear canal or through the chain of tiny bones in the middle ear, it is called a conductive loss. Sensori-neural, or nerve deafness, as the name implies, resides either in the sense organ itself, which is in the inner ear or along the nerve pathway to the brain. It is entirely possible to be afflicted with both types, in which case the impairment is called a mixed loss.

However, many types of hearing defects cannot be helped by surgery or medication. If the problem is sensori-neural or mixed, a hearing aid may be the most effective means of help. Actually, hearing aids have brought back clear sound to far more people than have all other techniques combined.

Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Jordan will be in Floydada at the Lamplighter Inn Tuesday, Make arrangements now to see them Tuesday, February 6. There is no cost or obligation for the consultation.

FOR FLOYDADA TEAM

Tennis Action Scheduled

Floydada tennis coach Murphy Sales will take about 14 high-school players to the Lubbock Invitational Tennis Tournament Friday and Saturday, February 9 and 10.

Boys' and girls' singles and doubles players will compete for both the team title and individual honors at the Lubbock meet.

Twenty-three teams have been invited to compete in the Floydada Invitational Tournament March 8, 9 and 10, according to Sales. Trophies will be presented to team winners and medals given to individual winners in the Floydada tourney. Some 60 to 100 participants, from class AA, A, and B schools, are expected for the tournament.

In district 4-AA tennis play this year, Floydada will compete in the north zone, along with Tulia and Lockney. Abernathy, Idalou and Ralls will be in the south zone. First- and second-place winners at the pre-district zone tournaments will play in the district tournament in Floydada in early April.

Several dual matches are scheduled for the Floydada netters this year, Coach Sales said, and Floydada tennis players will play in several tournaments, including two at Lubbock, and tournaments at Amarillo, Denver City and possibly Odessa.

An earlier meet at Brownfield was postponed because of bad weather.

A long-term capital gain means that only one-half of the profit is taxed if assets were held for six months or more, except for certain classes of livestock which must be held at least 24 months. "The time spent planning

This will make income tax time less of a burden and may bring a pleasant surprise in the form of a lighter tax load."

Lindon Morris In Calf Scramble At Houston Stock Show

Lindon Morris of Floydada High School will be participating in the 1973 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo calf scramble during the night performance on Saturday, February 24.

Since its beginning in 1942, the calf scramble has paid youngsters well over $1 million to buy more than 6,000 calves to feed and develop. The purpose of the calf scramble is to encourage and further educate 4-H Club and FFA boys in the raising, feed and breeding of high quality Texas cattle. Only half of the 388 boys taking part in this year's scramble will come out winners.

As the fourth event of each 1973 rodeo performance, the calf scramble begins with 24 calves lined up within a square in the center of the Astrodome arena. After the signal is given, the boys race after 12 calves which have been turned loose nearby. Each boy's objective is to place his halter on a calf and return it to the square. The 12 boys who manage this feat receive certificates from area business men for the purchase of the calf of their choice.

In addition to the ever-popular calf scramble, other events of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo prove equally exciting. The show, which runs February 21 through March 4, features top professional cowboys who have come to compete for the world's largest rodeo purse — more than $100,000. Top names in the entertainment world are also on hand for each performance. On Friday, February 23 Charley Pride will star in matinee and evening performances. Sonny and Cher will appear at the matinee on Saturday and Sunday, February 24 and 25. Monday, February 26 through Friday, March 2, there will be evening performances only. Merle Haggard will appear on Monday, Rick Nelson on Tuesday, Sonny James and Donna Fargo on Wednesday, the 5th Dimension on Thursday, Englebert Humperdinck on Friday evening and also at both matinee and evening performances on Saturday, March 3. ### Floydada in the '20's... Home remedies

By Arthur E. Gamble

For some reason, it seems to me that the 20's in Floydada were the years of the laxative — and when you consider that we had no TV to keep up with the latest in bowel preparations, we did pretty well.

Nearly every family had its favorite preparation. I remember that we were of the "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" faith. There was another preparation consisting of a small pink wafer, scored in the middle, called "Feenax Wafers." However it was mostly considered a women's laxative and not strong enough for a good man size job. Other families swore by Epsom Salts, Milk of Magnesia, Citrate of Magnesia, Ex-Lax, and Black Draught. But you could rest assured that everyone had a sure fire cure for whatever ailed you.

I purposely left out of the above list those medicines which were reserved for severe cases only. The chief one of these medicines was Calomel which was a mercuric preparation, and for some reason was always called "a good round of calomel." When I think of how much mercury I must have in my system after the many dosages given me, the recent seafood scare on mercury poisoning is downright funny.

Of course we had some fears of being "salivated" by calomel — it was reported that your hair would all come out, your teeth and gums would slough off (sure signs of mercury poisoning) — so to keep this from happening, the ill victim would get a final dosage of castor oil to clear out the residues.

Now, castor oil was something else in itself. It was a heavy viscous oil with perhaps as vile a taste as man ever forced on himself. Some drug companies tried to give it flavors — usually orange. Mother used to put orange juice in a spoon, put in the castor oil and put some more juice on top — then down the protesting child's throat — that is if she was lucky. Someone with great ingenuity dreamed up the idea of combining the orange juice-castor oil with soda to make it foam. This tasted worse and when you burped you got the taste over and over again. It was many years after I was grown before I could really enjoy orange juice without bringing up those memories. In fact, I still prefer grapefruit even today.

Other home remedies were iodine, Campho-Phenique (borozone was the same remedy by the same manufacturer put in larger bottles at 1/4th the cost for use on livestock), alcohol, Sloans liniment, Baum Bengue', Vaseline, Mentholatum, Vicks Salve, Absorbine for horses, Absorbine, Jr. for humans, Cloverleaf Salve (sold mostly by small boys trying to win a bicycle), hydrogen peroxid (it boiled so you knew it must be good when put on a cut or sore), and Raleigh's or Watkins Liniment.

For a hurting ear — blowing tobacco smoke down the ear was supposed to help but heating a little "sweet oil" and pouring it in the ear would bring more relief. When a filling was lost, oil of cloves put in the cavity seemed to make it bearable until you could get to "ol Doc," whether Dr. Thacker or Dr. Hicks. Boric acid was the universal eyewash. Croup was said to respond to a lump of sugar with kerosene on it and a chest rub of camphorated oil. Lydia Pinkham's or Cardui were good for "women's complaints." There were several good tonics with better than 80 proof alcohol for use in homes where whiskey with its vile connotations would never be permitted.

Babies were not spared from the home medicine chest. A colicky baby would often be given paregoric — and in their drugged state would cease crying. There was even a laxative for babies — Fletcher's Castoria — "babies cry for it" was part of their advertising. Asafoedita was a loud smelling concoction that was said to cure and/or prevent colds. It was sometimes tied in little bags and placed around a child's neck. Since it made everyone keep their distance it may have had its value as a preventative measure.

All farmers had their own cures for various ailments of their livestock. Foundering was treated by bleeding. "Firing" was something done to tendons but I never knew what it was supposed to cure or how it was supposed to do it. Milk fever in a cow was serious and even if the cow survived, she was seldom any good for milking again.

Home remedies were usually tried before wasting money for calling the doctor or veterinarian in. It took intensive education about the dangers of laxatives and appendicitis by the doctors to stop the laxative craze.

It seems impossible today that people would be so obsessed with the subject but resorts sprang up around water supplies — usually springs — with laxative properties. The nearest one to us was at Mineral Wells where the Crazy Water Hotel was located. For 5 cents you could have all that nasty tasting water that you could drink in one hitch. I recall that the small room you hastened to shortly cost 10 cents but who had time to argue over cost. As I recall, they had the water in various strengths to fit your needs. They even evaporated the water and the resulting crystals were sold all over the country to those without the time or means to go to Mineral Wells for its many benefits.

Incidentally, the name "Crazy Water" was supposedly obtained back in pioneer days from a "crazy woman" who had partaken of these wonderful waters and had regained her sanity. We didn't see psychiatrists in Floydada. We knew about them. Why, everyone knew about them. "Jack Amlung" was directly from Mineral Wells. With that kind of education — how wrong?

Letter To Editor

Amarillo, Texas 79106
3810 Center Ave.
Jan. 29, 1973

Dear Sir:

We did not receive a paper of Sunday, Jan. 21, 1973. I do not know why they do not arrive, but we miss it so much. I like to see the plain down to earth recipes that you print now and then. They are the kind poor and old folks can enjoy.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Evelyn Gafford

If You Are Suddenly Left Alone...

COLLEGE STATION
"Have you ever thought about what you would do if suddenly left alone?" It's not a happy thought - but happens to more and more women each year.

Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, stressed the importance of recording your wishes in a will.

"Unfortunately, many women fail to do so. Statistically, most married women become widows sooner or later. Of course, sometimes the men are left alone instead. Still another situation involves the single or unmarried woman.

"Whatever the case, eventually the time will come when someone else will handle your affairs. When that time comes, can important papers be found designating your wishes?"

To insure they are followed as desired, Mrs. Myers stressed becoming familiar with the state laws concerning wills.

"After learning the proper procedures and forms, put personal and business affairs in order immediately.

"First, take an inventory of what you have. Also, check with insurance policies to make sure beneficiaries are up to date.

"Get your business center in order, talking over all business matters with your spouse, next of kin or a very close friend," the specialist continued.

"Consult your attorney about the inventory and your plans to determine what must be done to protect loved ones.

"Making a will while your spouse is alive has a definite advantage - plans can be jointly discussed and made concerning disposition of the estate and plans for the children and grandchildren. Decision-making is more difficult when alone."

Unavoidable hardships can come about without a will, Mrs. Myers emphasized.

"For example, if the husband dies leaving the wife everything, what happens if she dies shortly afterwards, leaving no will? If they had small children, serious consequences could result involving a guardian. Without a will, guardianship may be left for strangers to decide.

"Also, without a will, the couple's joint plans could be defeated. Their property would be disposed of by a court-appointed administrator according to state law.

"Thus, chances are the property won't be distributed as they desired. In addition, the estate might be reduced since probate and administrative expenses would be deducted."

Mrs. Myers also noted a will assures that an unmarried woman's wishes will be carried out in disposing her estate.

Without one, her property would revert to relations - no matter how distant or unknown.

Since a will is so important, why don't more women prepare one?"

"Part of the problem revolves around the idea that the husband's will is sufficient for the family.

"Also, in many cases women feel their property isn't worth drawing up a will. Nevertheless, their estates often include valuable jewelry, paintings, antiques, stocks, bonds, life insurance and real estate," Mrs. Myers contended.

"Hence, the wise family plans together for the future of those left when death claims adult members," she said.
