City Sales Tax Collection Down

The City of Floydada has received its city sales tax refund check for tax collected during the first quarter of 1973, city secretary Jimmie Lou Stewart said Friday.

The amount of the check was $10,364.13, down $820 from the same period in 1972, when the city's one-per-cent share of the sales tax came to $11,184.38.

The refund check for the last quarter of 1972 was $11,980.74.

It is thought that the decrease could be due to the exemption of farm machinery after the collection of the local tax began.

Pioneer To Add Transmission Lines

PLAINVIEW, TEX. - Pioneer Natural Gas Company will start work immediately on a construction program designed to add approximately 100 miles of lines to increase the transmission capacity of Pioneer's present system, according to an announcement made here today by K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president.

Speaking before a group of business and civic leaders from the Lubbock area, Watson said, "Upon completion, the total project will represent an additional investment of more than $11 million. This figure is in addition to the more than $2 million company expenditure for gathering lines now under construction or planned for the near future in the Anadarko and Delaware basins."

Watson pointed out that while, "Pioneer continues to enjoy a good position with reference to its gas reserves," the company must continue to seek aggressively new reserves and to improve its system to be able to serve adequately current customers as well as to be able to continue to offer service to new industrial customers throughout its service area. He went on to say, "With the completion of this construction on our transmission system, we will be able to add about 100 million cubic feet of gas a day to our present deliveries."

"Work will start on the first phase of this system-wide project as soon as the materials which are on order, are delivered," Watson said. "The first portion of the project will be the paralleling of about 30 miles of 10-inch line with a like distance of 12-inch high pressure line from a point about 12 miles west of Pampa, Texas, to connect with

Commerce Designates Fix Up Week, Sidewalk Music For Downtown Area

Flynt told The Hesperian that there are still some weeds in the city that should be cut or killed, and homes or businesses that need to have weeds sprayed may contact the Chamber office to arrange for this service.

According to Flynt, representatives of an industry are scheduled to be in Floydada some time during the month of August, and the appearance of the city could be a determining factor in whether the industry locates here. Floydada, the Chamber of Commerce manager said, is one of nine Texas cities being considered for the plant location.

Flynt told The Hesperian that the Chamber was "disappointed" in the turnout for a recent Small Business Administration seminar in Floydada.

but we try to remember the words of the Saviour, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone" and, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

We believe that the proper thing to do under the above circumstances is to get married so that child can have a name, and I am sure any L.D.S. Bishop would be very happy to perform the ceremony and give them a lovely wedding and his blessings.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that I must write to defend those three ministers who refused to marry that pregnant high school girl.

After nearly 40 years as a minister's wife I know something about people who don't want to contribute anything to a church, but they expect the minister and church to help them out when they need something.

Of course, the church does not belong to the minister; neither does it belong to these two immature individuals to use for their own selfish reasons.

DEAR ABBY: My heart ached for those youngsters who wanted to be married by a minister but couldn't find one who would marry them because they didn't belong to his church.

With so many of our young people turning away from religion, you would think a minister would jump at the chance to bring them into the fold.

If they can't find a minister to marry them, they should consider a judge. At least it would be legal. Also, a sea captain has the authority to legalize a union. Have they considered that?

DEAR LOVES: After having been told to go jump in the lake by so many ministers, they might indeed find a sea captain the ideal one to tie the knot.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Homebuilders Hold Meetings

Homebuilders' Demonstration Club met in the H. D. Council room recently with Mrs. Ernie Widener as hostess. Mrs. John Walker presided over the business session. Mrs. Iaan Moore, program chairman, presented Mrs. Elmer Norrell, whose subject was "Consumer Know How". Mrs. Norrell pointed out the ten commandments of careful buying.

Roll call was answered by "How to get the most for my money". Those responding were Mmes. John Walker, Iaan Moore, Raymond Williams, Harmon Roberts, O. G. Mayfield, Elmer Norrell, Ernie Widener and W. W. Trapp.

The second June meeting of Homebuilders was June 26 in the home of Mrs. Iaan Moore. Mrs. John Walker presided over the business meeting during which it was decided to dispense with the July meetings. Beginning in September the club will again meet regularly.

Mrs. Moore presented Mrs. Raymond Williams who spoke on Depression glass (origin, characteristics, manufacturers and patterns). A part of Mrs. Williams' depression glass collection was on display along with pieces belonging to other club members.

The hostess served Jasmine tea, Chinese fortune cookies and sandwiches made from home-made bread, to Mmes. John Walker, Ernie Widener, Elmer Norrell, Raymond Evans, Raymond Williams, W. W. Trapp, Harmon Roberts and a new member, Mrs. Wm. H. Smith.

Too many eye witnesses usually confuse the story.

The hardest job we know is trying to be impartial.

Plantings Cause Weed In West Texas Fields

Their haste in planting sorghum and wet weather in the High Plains area of the pre-plant applications for control-ling weeds will draw attention, based on agronomists' area of the Texas Extension Service may area and Mrs. Robert C. Brown, who says the effectiveness of the herbicides was less than ideal under the conditions. In some instances, the weeds were taller than the sorghum.

Methods such as hand weeding and spraying are the real solution, says the Extension Service. The best method is hand weeding and precise application of herbicides. Usually, the weeds are a half inch tall and a half inch wide. In some cases, the weeds are taller than the sorghum. The weeds are a half inch tall and a half inch wide. Better Eating Promised By Current Research

Tomorrow's consumer will probably find his beef more tender and his pork a lot leaner as the result of animal technology now being developed. Research is currently being centered on crossbreeding and other genetic modifications to improve the cutability and feed conversion in beef cattle. And breakthroughs already are being made with selective crossbreeding in hogs to produce pork with a lower fat content. In the past 25 years, the amount of fat on a hog carcass has been cut by 15 to 20 pounds. Further reductions are expected between now and 1985 as technological improvements continue.

FARM REVIEW

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Farmcast

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

No Doubt About It... Wheat and Diesel... Still Number One... Milk Production Dips.

If there were any doubts about it at all, a report from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will dispel them regarding cotton and Texas.

During 1972, Texas produced about a third of the nation's cotton crop. Normally, the report on Texas cotton would have been completed much earlier, but the 1972 crop harvest wasn't completed until March of 1973.

The crop for 1972 totaled 4,246,000 bales compared with only 2,579,000 bales produced during 1971.

Yield per harvested acre averaged 408 pounds compared with 263 pounds in 1971. This is the second highest yield on record, being exceeded in 1968 with 410 pounds per acre.

The 1972 upland cotton crop is valued at $446,000,000, compared with $329,000,000 in 1971.

Nationwide, a total of 13,702,100 bales was produced, which is 31 per cent above the 1971 crop. The average 1972 price is set at 26.60 cents per pound compared with 28.07 cents per pound in 1971.

WHEAT harvest continues in Texas amid reports of fuel shortages. As of the first of June, harvest was only five per cent complete compared with 25 per cent in 1971.

Fuel shortage reports continue heaviest in the wheat harvest areas. Custom combine operators apparently are having the most trouble in locating fuel supplies.

Farmers who run short or out of fuel should report that fact to their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office or the Texas Department of Agriculture.

PEACH production based on June 1 prospects for Texas is forecast at 271,000 bushels, which is less than half of the 604,000 bushels produced in 1972. Peach harvest is now active and quality is reported good to excellent.

RANGE and non-irrigated pasture conditions are six per cent better now than a month ago. Conditions are generally good to excellent throughout the northern half of the state with some exceptions.

TEXAS continues its honor as the number one cattle feeding state in the nation. As of June 1, cattle on feed in Texas totaled 2,252,000. This is 10 per cent above a year ago, and four per cent above a month ago.

Number of cattle on feed in the seven major cattle feeding states—Texas, Iowa, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas—totaled 9,455,000. This is a one per cent increase from a month ago and four per cent more than a year ago at this time.

Placements into Texas feedlots during May total 492,000 head. These placements are 12 per cent below May this year but 91 per cent above the previous month.

Marketings of fat cattle during May totaled 403,000 head, which is 12 per cent above a year ago and 14 per cent above marketings for April.

Cattle producers are continuing to expand production, contrary to some claims by some consumer groups that the cattleman is purposely holding back production in order to keep his price high.

MILK production in May in Texas is the same as May of last year, but is one per cent below a month ago. May milk production totaled 305,000,000 pounds in Texas.

Nationwide, milk production is two per cent under a year ago. Production during the first five months of this year is two per cent less than last year.

The May milk-feed ratio at 1.37 is the lowest since 1965. Huge increases in feed costs are the reasons for the decline in the ratio. It is 19 per cent below a year ago.

HPRF Offers Wheat Following Tips

Farmers facing a decision on what crops to follow behind one of the best wheat harvests in several years can rely on information in past research reports at the High Plains Research Foundation.

Dr. Doug Owen, senior agronomist and soybean breeder for the High Plains Research Foundation, advises farmers interested in late planted soybeans following wheat to choose varieties that are best adapted to their area.

He said that earlier maturing varieties such as Patterson and Clark 63 have produced higher yields and matured earlier than the Hill, York, Hood and Lee 68 varieties when planted June 20 or later at Halfway.

Varieties such as HP 963, Columbus, Oksoy and Kent mature seven to 14 days later than Patterson and Clark 63 but generally will mature prior to frost when planted as late as July 10, he said.

Dr. Owen cautioned farmers to realize that research has shown that for each 10-day delay in planting after May 20, yields will be reduced approximately three bushels per acre. Therefore, farmers should not expect 40 or 50 bushel yields from late planted soybeans regardless of which variety they plant. A more realistic estimate would be 20 - 30 bushels per acre following wheat," he said.

Offering tips for highest yields with short season varieties, Dr. Owen said varieties should be planted in narrow rows or double-rowed where practical and irrigated early to force as much vegetation growth as possible before blooming. "Otherwise, these varieties will set pods so close to the ground that the combine can't get under them and as much as five to 10 bushels per acre may be left in the field after harvest," he said. He reminded farmers that four beans per square foot left in the field adds up to a bushel per acre loss.

In areas south of Halfway, especially Lubbock and south where irrigation water may be short, the later maturing determinate varieties such as York, Hill, Hinn, Hood and Lee 68 probably will mature before frost and take better advantage of any late rainfall than earlier maturing varieties. "However, these varieties cannot be expected to yield up to full potential when planting is delayed so long after their optimum planting date," he added.

Grain sorghum production lacks enough production history at the Foundation to relate any information as to what early maturing varieties might be best for planting following wheat.

J. Joe Wright, assistant agronomist, said that on June 25 the Foundation planted 30 varieties entered in a grain sorghum variety production test. "This is the first time we've had a test like this. Always before the early maturing varieties were listed along with the late-maturing varieties and due to its reduced yield potential, placed so low in the total test, that some companies just stopped entering these varieties in tests. We checked a number of research stations and couldn't find any with information on early maturing sorghum, so we set this test up after last year. "Frankly, I was surprised at the number of entries," Wright said.

The early maturing variety test will be conducted like the regular grain sorghum variety production tests, each plot will be replicated five times and the results will be listed in the Foundation's annual research report.

Junior Angus Field Day July 27-28

Members of the Texas Junior Angus Association have made final plans for their 1973 Texas State Junior Angus Association Field Day to be held at the Richmond Hale Ranch near Canyon on July 27-28.

The event is scheduled to get underway at 1 p.m. on July 27 with the junior Angus heifer show followed by a picnic and party, the 1973 Texas Junior Angus Queen Contest, beef judging contest, and various educational programs during the two day event.

Max Stapelton, Haskell County Agent, has been selected as judge for the junior show.

Juniors entering the heifer show must be members of the T.S.J.A.A. Memberships may be obtained by sending $2 to Jo Ann Adams, Box 5, Tahoka, Texas, 79373.

Entry fee for the heifer show is $5 per head and the entry deadline is July 13.

THE PROCESS OF FEEDING CALFS using a milk machine was being done Friday on the Donice Casey farm northeast of Lockney. In the picture is Casey, Tim Meyer, Dena Casey. Casey had a number of calfs which does make for a long process. However, the process is shortened with the use of two machines.

Dryland, Narrow Row Cotton Shows Promise

LUBBOCK — Irrigated, narrow-row cotton production was said to be a severe test of the capabilities of West Texas soils when the new system began taking root in the 1960's. Now, an even stronger test has been applied, with promising results, according to an engineer with the Agricultural Research Service — USDA.

Dryland, narrow-row cotton studies over a three-year period from 1970 to 1973 out-yielded the conventional 40-inch row pattern under three different moisture conditions, says Elmer Hudspeth, Jr., based at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center north of Lubbock. Some questions remain unanswered, but the results look good, he adds.

"The development of the storm-proof, short-season variety cotton, together with effective herbicides and efficient harvesting systems, enabled us to consider dryland production," he says.

"We have known for some time that narrow-row cotton would yield more than the conventional row, as long as it was irrigated. What we did not know, however, was whether the South Plains soils could handle the narrow row system without irrigation."

"Our primary goals were to reduce production costs while conserving the underground water supply," Hudspeth recalls.

In the studies, conventional patterns carried about 50,000 plants per acre in 40-inch rows. Hudspeth's research sites carried 100,000 in 16-inch rows. If the new system could be handled by South Plains soils, the new pattern had to yield more than the conventional.

"It happened," the ARS engineer says, "that during those three years, we experienced three completely different moisture conditions at the Experiment Station. This was enough to substantiate our belief — that in years of normal rainfall, dryland, narrow-row production is possible."

According to research data from the studies, the 1970 dryland crop was produced mostly with moisture already in the soil. Rainfall after the cotton came up was so insignificant that it had no effect during the later stages of growth. The opposite happened with the 1971 crop, the report shows. Little moisture was available at planting time. Rainfall after planting literally made the crop. Both weather conditions were present in the 1973 season. Moisture in the soil profile was adequate for normal growth, and additional rainfall during the growing season aided production of the crop.

Soil conditions, climate history and the grower's ability to take the risk are prime factors to think about.

"Nothing is certain these days," Hudspeth points out. "This method may work like a charm for three years and then in a severely dry year, may fail completely. We just don't know yet."

"Based on our research thus far," he concludes, "producing cotton on narrow rows, without irrigation, can give good results and it should conserve some of our underground water supply."

According to research data from the studies, the 1970 dryland crop was produced mostly with moisture already in the soil. Rainfall after the cotton came up was so insignificant that it had no effect during the later stages of growth.

The opposite happened with the 1971 crop, the report shows. Little moisture was available at planting time. Rainfall after planting literally made the crop.

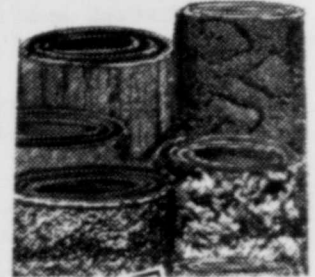

Both weather conditions were present in the 1973 season. Moisture in the soil profile was adequate for normal growth, and additional rainfall during the growing season aided production of the crop.

Says Hudspeth, "It is important that yields were not decreased in the narrow-row and high plant population system during those three years. This means that unless a severely dry year occurs, dryland production and narrow rows is possible."

The scientist recognizes that cotton producers will need to carefully consider many factors before thinking seriously about converting to the dryland, narrow-row system.

Make Church - Going a Habit

BOY---then

MAN

That's my son, Jerry, literally two feet off the ground last Saturday in the top half of the ninth. His team was ahead by one run and the bases loaded when he caught the fly that ended the game.

Whatever else good happens to Jerry, I know he'll never forget that sweet thrill of victory.

Years from now, when faced with a tough situation, that memory could be the inspiration for another triumph. The things that happen to a boy do shape the man.

That's why I've always taken Jerry to our church. I want the smell of candles on the altar, the blend of voice and heart in hymn and litany, to be a part of his life. I want for him the joy that comes from understanding God.

My father did the same for me.

How about you?

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Gets All Tangled Up In International Affairs

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets off into international affairs this week, we suppose.

Dear editor:
I guess at the top of a long list of things I don't understand and never expect to see in international relations, especially summit meetings.

As I recall the events of the past few years, President Nixon first went to Red China. Then, to keep things in balance, he went to Communist Russia. Russia and China are nervous about each other and you can't visit one without visiting the other.

Last week Chairman Brezhnev visited the U.S., and as soon as he left, Washington announced Kissinger would go to China to reassure that country everything is still all right.

When he left here, Brezhnev went to Paris to assure President Pompidou that Russia wasn't making any deals with the U.S. at France's expense. Now won't he have to come back over here to assure us he didn't make any deals with France?

This thing could go on forever, with leaders circling from summit to summit reassuring each other everything is like it was the last time around.

As a sidekick I have been keeping score on the gifts exchanged at these summit meetings and so far I believe Brezhnev is ahead. That is, when Mr. Nixon went to Moscow he brought Mr. Brezhnev a two-toned Cadillac. Mr. Brezhnev gave him a small 27-foot boat. In China Mr. Nixon gave those folks some porcelain birds, four redwood trees and two muskoxen. When Mr. Brezhnev visited the U.S. last week President Nixon gave him a Lincoln Continental and a $12,000 hand-made rifle. If Mr. Kissinger on his trip of reassurance to China takes say a box of Christmas cards, a few firecrackers and a calendar, the Chinese may start scratching their heads. When Mr. Brezhnev visited France, Mr. Pompidou gave him two cars, a Citroen-Mazerati and a Renault 16, whatever those are.

As I say, I have no idea what the summit meetings have resulted in, especially if one country or the other loses the papers they've been signing, but so far the score is: Mr. Brezhnev, four automobiles; Mr. Nixon, a small boat; the Chinese four trees and two muskoxen; and France, a pat on the back. The tenses you are the more you get.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

AMATEUR SPORTS

BY PETE FRITCHIE

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Senate Commerce Committee recently held hearings to determine how the federal government could bring order and efficiency to amateur sports in this country.

Badly needed is federal authority to stop the endless squabbling between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union, to set up an organization to give all amateurs a chance to compete in Olympic trials.

Also needed is funding for various amateur groups and clubs, which sponsor tournaments, elimination events and other contests which attract amateur athletes.

The United States, which once won the Olympic Games regularly, now comes in second to the Soviet Union regularly—because the nation lacks an efficient, well-funded organization to put together the best possible American team from open competition.

Four sports bills are before the committee; enactment of a good one, this year, is a must if this nation is to have an amateur sports program the equal to those in many other countries today.

Early Cotton Plants Were Decorative Shrubs

The first cotton plants were believed to have been tropical shrubs similar to crepe myrtles or lilac bushes. Over the centuries, annual forms evolved that could produce a crop in a single season.

Pick-Your-Own Produce Proves Profitable To All

If you're all thumbs when it comes to do-it-yourself home repair jobs, you might try your hand at picking your own fruits and vegetables.

Pick-your-own operations are growing in popularity with farmers and homemakers all across the country. And with good reason—everyone saves money.

The farmer saves on labor costs, and the homemaker reaps the benefit of paying a lower price directly to the grower for fruits and vegetables.

This type of operation is proving successful even in areas some distance away from urban centers. City dwellers have been known to drive as far as 50 miles to pick their own produce. They find the day in the country is enjoyable

Floydada in the twenties.....Funerals

By Arthur E. Gamble

Funerals and the customs surrounding them in Floydada in the 1920's were pretty well like most other small towns of the Southwest. To a small boy who had virtually no contact with death (having lost only one beloved aunt while quite young), the memories are more of hearing and observing rather than feeling.

I had heard my father and others telling about having help "lay out" someone which meant the actual preparation for burial. This had been the case back in the teens and the early part of the century. I have heard how that one doctor, the undertaker, and Dad were among the few that did not catch the "flu" during the big influenza epidemic of 1918-19 and how that he had helped both of them.

In a small town, the loss of a citizen was a matter that affected everyone in the community and in some measure almost everyone did something to help the bereaved family. I never heard the term "mortician" or "funeral director" until many years later - we all knew him as "the undertaker."

I have never understood just why being an undertaker seemed to fall on the furniture dealer in the town but such was usually the case. Since it was necessary that a stock of caskets be maintained at all times, then it was probably because they usually had some warehouse space where the caskets could be stored. In my memory, Frank Harmon was the undertaker and in those years, was also in the furniture business. He was a fine man and highly respected by the entire community.

There was no such thing as a "funeral parlor" in those days but after a body had been prepared for burial it was taken to the deceased's home. Funerals were normally held as soon as possible unless delayed by the arrival of a relative from afar.

It was an honor to be asked to "sit up" with the deceased and shifts were maintained from the time of the body arriving at the residence until burial. We did not know anything about the "Irish Wakes" but this was somewhat akin to that custom since it was considered fitting and proper to sit up with others "sitting up" and to recall the happy times you had with the deceased. Even a chuckle at some happy remembrance was considered proper.

A custom that has survived even to this day, was for the good ladies of the church to prepare and serve the meals to the many family members and friends. It is wonderful that this custom has continued since it helps the family and at the same time allows friends to physically show their love and care in a time of sorrow.

To me, one of the highest honors that can be accorded is to be asked to be the pallbearer for a deceased friend. This is a direct carryover from our earlier days because I have been told that in the larger cities of the Eastern U.S. they are furnished by the funeral director and in some towns are unionized with strict rules as to pay, dress, etc. However, we are still far from that custom in this country.

Nowadays, the florist has a truck at the back of the church to clear the flowers from the sanctuary and rush them to the cemetery prior to the funeral procession's arrival. Back then, there was no such arrangement - chiefly because there were no florists with facilities to handle such a service. The feminine equivalent of being a pallbearer was to be a flower girl who carried the flowers out to the hearse. Usually the flower girls formed a lane from the church steps to the hearse. Nearly all churches had high, steep steps that endangered the life and limb of every person using them. The casket was carried down these steep steps to the hearse, then each girl's load of flowers was placed in the hearse for the trip to the cemetery. At the cemetery, the process was reversed.

Floydada's cemetery in those days belonged to the Cemetery Association. Mr. Harmon served as Secretary-Treasurer for many years and used the funds donated each year by the public to maintain the facilities. Some years, a work day would be organized (as a Boy Scout I got to participate) when the weeds and grass were cut and heavy maintenance work done.

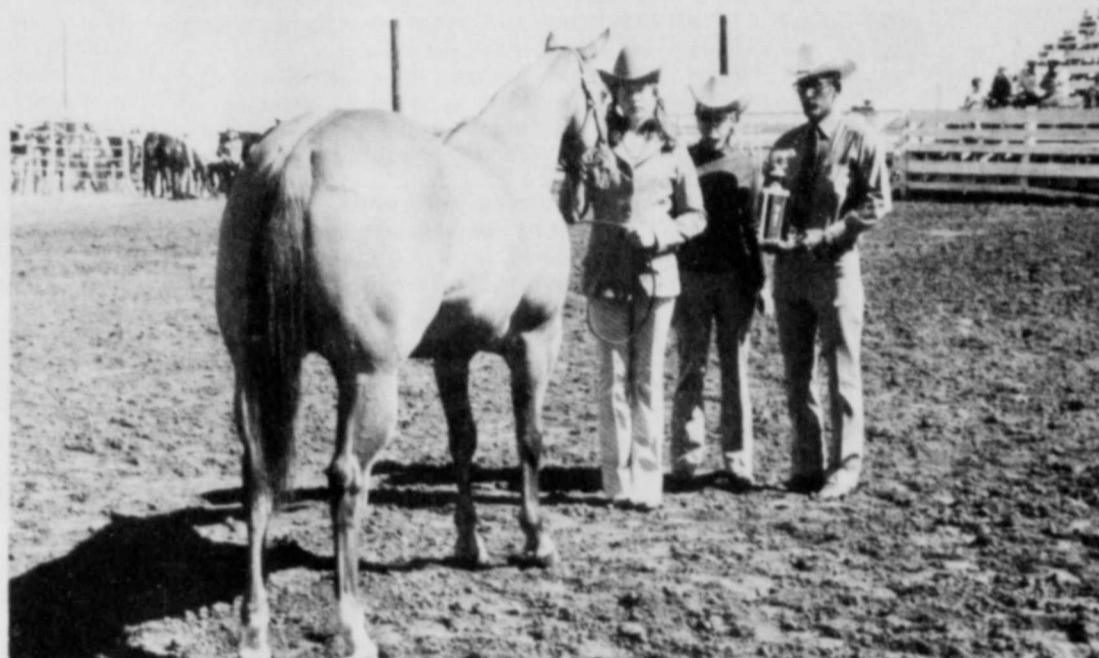

In an earlier day, friends dug the graves but in the 20's, Mr. Harmon had some men who dug the graves as needed. However, it was the custom of the time that after the final rites at the graveside, the family withdrew to their cars, the casket was lowered into the grave, and friends took care of filling the grave from the pile of dirt stacked nearby. It was a matter of pride for the younger fellows to shovel as fast and as hard as they could - then pass the shovel on to others waiting their turn. Back in those days when a man said that he "had helped bury" someone, he most likely meant it literally.

Graves in those days had mounds of dirt on the full length of the grave and those covering the grave filled the grave until the mound was of the proper height, the flowers were placed over the mound, the family and friends then paid their last personal respects to the deceased around the mass of flowers.

Funerals were a part of our life in those days - just as the certainty of death is a part of life. They attracted people to church who seldom ever darkened the church door any other time. One man was reputedly an "infidel" but he never missed a funeral of a friend. It was many years later before I understood that this term was used whenever they may have meant an "agnostic", "atheist," or perhaps "doesn't believe like the rest of us."

It was our custom to pay respect to the deceased whether you knew the person or not. Often, the entire town closed down their businesses during the funeral. When you met a funeral procession, you pulled off the road, stopped and removed your hat as a measure of respect. If you were on the street, or perhaps working near the road, you customarily stopped and doffed your hat to show respect.

Funerals are never easy on the bereaved but I like to think that our aid to the family and our small measures of respect did help to let them know that we cared and perhaps in some small way made their sorrow a little easier.

If It Floats, Have A Lifesaver

AUSTIN - If it floats, you're in it, chances are you had better have a Coast Guard-approved life saving device with you.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement officials say any vessel designed for transportation is subject to Personal Flotation Device (PFD) requirements, and this includes canoes, kayaks, pedal boats, rubber rafts and foam pontoon boats.

An example of a vessel which has no PFD requirement is the innertube. It is not designed as a means of transportation.

Each person on board a vessel designed for transportation must have a PFD. If the vessel is less than 26 feet long and powered by a motor children 12 years of age and younger must wear a vest-type PFD.

Otherwise, a Coast Guard-approved boat cushion fills the legal requirement for passengers 13 years of age or older on all recreational boats until Oct. 1, 1973. However, department officials say life vests are more effective than cushions and would probably be a wiser choice.

Installation Set Saturday Night

Master Masons, their families and friends are invited to attend the installation of officers of Floydada Lodge #212, AF&AM, Saturday, June 30, at 8 p.m.

Lightning Injures Former Plainview Resident

Kim Huddleston, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Huddleston, formerly of Plainview, now living in Beaumont, was injured this past weekend when she opened an aluminum screen door as it was struck by lightning.

She received serious burns across her arm and chest. Her physician reportedly told her family that the girl was lucky and the door apparently took most of the electrical charge.

Kim is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones of Providence community.

What One Person Can Do

SIGNERS OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

If you had been in Philadelphia on that July day when the Declaration of Independence was signed, what would the future have looked like? Would you have had the courage to lend your name to a document that could have been your death warrant?

Jefferson, Adams and Franklin are names familiar to us. Consider for a moment what happened to some of the lesser known of the 56 signers of that historic document:

Richard Stockton of New Jersey was denounced, dragged from his bed and thrown into prison. His extensive library was burned. He died prematurely, his health broken by mistreatment in prison.

Lyman Hall of Georgia had his property confiscated. George Walton of the same state was imprisoned.

Caesar Rodney of Delaware left what everyone thought was his deathbed to cast the decisive vote. Afflicted with a cancer that covered half his face, he rode 80 miles through a thunderstorm from Dover to Philadelphia.

John Morton of Pennsylvania died eight months after signing, ostracized by friends and relatives. His dying words were: "Tell them they will live to see the hour when they shall acknowledge it to have been the most glorious service that I ever rendered to my country."

Thomas Nelson of Virginia put up his entire fortune as a security for loans needed to continue the struggle for freedom. After the war, he paid them back out of his own pocket. He died a poor man.

"Our lives, our fortune and our sacred honor" were not empty words to these men.

Show gratitude for their courage by taking steps to protect the inalienable rights given by God to all men - especially the poor, the aged and the defenseless.

Professional Pattern Clinics Set At Bealls

WILLIAM CRAMER

"Every woman who sews has at one time started garments that were never finished or, finished some she wouldn't wear," says pattern expert William Cramer, who is here to conduct pattern clinics at Beall's Department Store in Floydada.

For one thing, Cramer said, no two patterns in the same brand and size fit the same, so alterations used on one pattern will not work for others.

For another, the alterations illustrated in all the sewing books won't work. They look good in theory, but when used, the pattern won't lay flat on the cloth. Sometimes one correction makes two other problems that are worse. That is why I have perfected my own system that I guarantee will improve the fit in both appearance, and comfort by a thousand percent. Even for those who have arms like tree trunks, or bust size "DD".

On top of this, he claims, "I've never met a woman yet who was taught the right way to sew shoulders, or side-seams - let alone sleeves and collars."

They all sew the side seams in a way that the "feed-dog" will "ease" the front into the back on one side, and the back into the front on the other. It has to come out warped, and often with a piece left over.

They sew in sleeves so that the "feed-dog" will "ease" the smaller arm-hole into the larger sleeve cap.

To make matters worse, the sleeves are two full for the arm-hole by about two inches. As a matter of fact, none of the pattern pieces match properly, otherwise, they wouldn't need notches, "pinning", "basting", or "easing".

Small wonder they get the "Home-Made" look. That's why they are afraid to cut cloth in the ten to twenty dollar price range."

All it takes to make the best, is, good workmanship, proper fit, and top quality material.

My clinics last two hours and cost only $3.00 to attend any one.

Anyone not satisfied will get her money back. A special manual is given out to record all instructions.

By attending just one of the clinics you can learn how to properly select pattern sizes. How to fit, and alter them so they fit properly; how to make the pieces match, so that "pinning," "basting," "easing", and matching notches is eliminated. How to cut sewing time to a fraction of your present time. How to copy any style there is regardless of price. How you can draft your own patterns in minutes - that fit.

In general, how you can make clothes at home that look and feel better than any garment you could buy - no matter how much you spent!!!

Beall's sponsors the clinics as a service to you. They pay for the ad, and provide the facilities and retain none of the proceeds. If they did the cost to you would be $5.00.

Clinics will be conducted Thursday, July 5, at Beall's Department Store in Floydada, at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.
