Some of the outstanding singers who have been invited include: Bill Bailey of Levelland, Hiram Bingham of Seminole, Johnny Gooch of Tatum, N.M., C. B. Robins of Lovington, N.M., and Mr. Kinsfather of Artesia, N.M.

Also invited was Lawrence Deavers, Snyder, president of the West Texas and Eastern New Mexico Singing Convention, which meets at Cloudcroft, N.M. August 18-19.

HISTORY OF CONVENTION
The 15-County Singing Convention was organized in 1933 at Gasoline, Texas, with C. M. Lyles of Floydada as the first president. Tom Stephens was the first vice president of the convention, and Lyles' daughter Verna Boteler served as the first secretary of the organization.

The Convention began with four counties. Those counties are 1 Floyd, 2 Hall, 3 Motley and Briscoe. Other counties were added to make a total of eight counties. Those were 5 Crosby, 6 Hale, 7 Dickens and 8 Childress. Then July 31, 1966 9 Kent and 10 Swisher Counties were voted into the Convention, making it a 10 county Singing Convention. Oct. 30, 1966 voted Hardeman County in, making 11 counties.

At Tulia, Texas September 28-29 Hutchinson County was voted in, making it 12 County Singing Convention. Then at Quanah, Texas in March 29-30, 1969, Wheeler County was voted in, making it 13 County Singing Convention.

Health Care In Floyd County Surveyed

NEW YORK — How well equipped is Floyd County to take care of the medical and dental needs of its people?

How does its supply of trained health personnel — doctors, dentists, nurses, therapists, optometrists and the like — compare with the supply in other communities?

MRS. THACKER'S RITES MONDAY

Mrs. C. D. Thacker of Lubbock, former Floyd County resident, died Friday following a stroke in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock. Funeral rites will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Rix Funeral Home Chapel in Lubbock. Burial and graveside rites will be conducted in the Floydada Cemetery about 4 p.m. beside the remains of her husband who died in 1946 and a daughter, Ruth, who died in 1926.

The Thackers moved to the Plains in 1907 and lived on a farm south of Floydada, later moving to McCoy, then to Petersburg.

Survivors include a son, E. T. Thacker of Lubbock; four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Bobo of Seminole, Mrs. Vera Ownbey of Levelland, Mrs. Louis Rasco and Mrs. Madalynn Biers of Lubbock; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Thacker is an aunt of Mrs. Clyde Bagwell of Floydada.

Although the number of men and women in such occupations has increased, nationally, during the last seven or eight years, following Federal initiatives to expand the supply, there is still a big shortage.

As pointed out by the President, "The United States now spends more than $75 billion annually on health care and, for most people, good service results."

"Yet, despite this huge annual national outlay, millions of citizens do not have adequate access to health care. Our record in this field does not live up to our potential." Details on the number of people in health services in Floyd County and in other communities across the country have been made public by the Census Bureau.

They show that the number in the local area who are so engaged is approximately 124.

They are listed in three categories. The first consists of "physicians, dentists and related practitioners." This includes medical and osteopathic physicians, podiatrists, pharmacists and chiropractors, if any. Locally there are 27.

In the second group are dietitians, registered nurses, therapists, clinical laboratory technicians, dental hygienists, radiologic technicians and such. There are 38 listed locally.

The third group comprises nursing and other health aides, health trainees, practical nurses, dental assistants and lay midwives. There are 59 in this classification.

As to the ratio of health personnel to population in Floyd County, the government's figures show that there is one health worker locally for every 610 people.

Throughout the United States as a whole, the average is one for every 69 and, in the State of Texas, one for 77.

Students Register On August 24

Students in the Floydada Independent School District will register for the 1973-74 school term Friday, August 24, according to school officials. The term begins Monday, August 27.

Students enrolled in either of the two elementary schools and Junior High will commence registering at 8:30 August 24. At high school, seniors will begin registering from 9 a.m. until 10:30; juniors, from 10:30 until 12 noon; sophomores from 1 until 2:30 p.m.; and freshmen from 2:30 until 4 p.m.

Pictures of the three lower classmen will be taken at this time. Seniors are to have their pictures taken at their convenience at Parker Studio.

Teachers will report for in-service duty August 20. Other in-service days are October 26, November 21, February 25 and April 11. Students will have holidays on in-service days as well as November 22-23 for Thanksgiving; Christmas and New Years, December 24 through January 1, and Easter, April 12-15.

Some Real Good Tips On Meat Buying

Beef-hungry consumers can follow seven guidelines to keep meat on the table in spite of the "shrinking buck," a livestock marketing specialist said this week.

Dr. Edward Uvacek Jr. with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, cited careful spending of meat dollars as the key.

— Compare meat cuts on a cost-per-serving basis, rather than price per pound.

"For example, you can get about four servings from a pound of ground beef, but only two and a half servings from a sirloin steak. For them to be equal on a cost-per-serving basis — when sirloin brings $1.49 per pound, ground beef could sell for as much as $2.38 per pound," the specialist explained.

"A brisket at $1.19 a pound will cost as much per serving as a boneless chuck at 99 cents a pound, or shortribs at 79 cents a pound.

"Boneless chuck roast at $1.09 a pound and shortribs at 88 cents a pound have exactly the same cost per serving, but a T-bone steak at $1.59 a pound costs twice as much per serving as liver at the same price."

Uvacek also advised home-makers — when substituting other meats such as broiler chickens for beef — to remember that most of them have very low servings per pound.

"For example, a ready-to-cook broiler at 59 cents a pound is slightly more expensive per serving than brisket or rolled rump at $1.29 a pound."

— Don't pay extra for minor conveniences.

"Pre-formed ground beef patties are pretty — but expensive. The amount of work in making a hamburger patty is pretty negligible."

"Similar types of conveniences — at a cost — are built into such items as tenderized or formed steaks, cubed stewing beef, breaded chicken-fried steaks and precooked cuts. Do the work yourself, and save a bundle," he added.

— Carefully compare prices for beef cuts in different stores.

"All retailers don't charge the same price for individual cuts. In fact, it's not unusual to have very substantial variations in retail prices between stores — even in a small town."

"Shop around. Don't always buy your beef in the same old store, simply because that's where the watermelons are cheaper."

— Get your money's worth in quality.

"Unless you're an expert, the easiest way to insure consistent acceptability and quality is to buy only USDA Choice beef.

"It's either labeled as such, or has a purple shield with the word 'Choice' inside of it, stamped on the outside of the meat cut."

"Look for this before you buy. You could buy U.S. Good beef, but it's not as safe a bet in terms of quality."

— Don't be ashamed to return an unsatisfactory piece of meat.

"Most retailers, particularly larger chains, flaunt a money-back guarantee. Use it. If not completely satisfied, return it. Don't assume your cooking was bad."

"In some cases, cooking can intensify the problem (like well-done steaks), but, in general, you need a good piece of beef to begin with."

— Learn some of the basic cuts of beef.

"Several different names are used for the same cut because of regional preferences. Just a little study will show you, for example, that a rib-eye steak is the same and probably cheaper than a Delmonico."

"Similarly, a rib steak and a club steak are basically the same. Sirloin steak is a much more tender piece of meat than round steak."

"Also, take a little time to learn the recommended cooking method for each cut — which should be broiled, braised, roasted, pot-roasted. It will pay — in satisfaction."

— Buy on sales — usually the weekend sales will save you money.

"Be cautious on double-stamp days and during mid-week, non-sales days."

"Don't be ashamed of buying just the sales items at several stores that might be close to each other. It's your money — so make the most of it."

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Says Russia Needs More Cars If U.S. To Maintain Balance Of Power

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm thinks he has discovered a new international strategy.

Dear editor: Some people can't understand why the U.S. should have spent ten years and 100 billion dollars fighting the spread of Communism in Vietnam and then turn around and sell the Communists in Russia all that wheat, but that's because they don't understand international strategy.

Russia right now, according to an article I read last night, is on the verge of the automobile age. The country now has 2 million private car owners, expects to double that by year after next, and is opening up new automobile plants.

All right. You can't build more cars unless you're well-fed, can you? The wheat deal was sound, although I know a banker or two around here who wouldn't have recommended selling it on credit.

But the point is, if we're going to maintain a balance of power, Russia has got to be overwhelmed with as many cars as we are. How can you have a polluted city with only a fraction of the population driving cars to work? How can you even have a gasoline shortage? How can we maintain our balance of power if two-thirds of the Russians aren't tangled up in traffic jams?

No sir. Anything we can do to keep the Russians building more cars we ought to do. Ship them food, send them some technicians, teach them about assembly lines, and above all let them in on $100 down and 36 months to pay.

Then after they get their cars flowing off the assembly line by the thousands, get some road building equipment to them. There's no place on earth that won't attract a steady stream of traffic if you'll build a road to it. It's a proven fact: the more cars you build, the more highways you need, and the more highways you build, the more cars that'll show up to over-crowd them, from here to the setting sun.

No person in this country should rest easy till Russia is criss-crossed with multi-lane highways backed up with bumper-to-bumper traffic, with radiators boiling over. Balance of power demands it.

Yours faithfully J.A.

Floydada in the 20s...Daredevils

he climbed from one ledge up to the next one which seemed to be located in the end of a hall. Upon safely arriving at the next window, he would hook his foot in something inside, and hang down outside and would wave flags, and such inspiring things. Then after a smattering of applause he would repeat the performance to the next floor. As I recall he went up to the top of an eight-story building which certainly did have danger involved. But I still would like to see someone do it as I had imagined that it would be done.

Another group that would have to be considered daredevils who came by from time to time. Mostly they had old World War I biplanes with their Liberty engines in them. Those frail craft were actually used to take thrill seeking passengers up for a thrilling look at "Floydada from the air." It seems to me that they charged $10.00 for a 3-minute flight which was plenty to see all the sights to be seen. These planes had wooden frames over which cloth had been stretched and "dope" applied to make it tight and rigid. Some barnstorming groups even had "wing walkers" and acrobats who did impossible things while the planes were in flight. I remember that the pilots were very finicky about their gas which was strained through "shammy (chamois) skins" to prevent carburetor stoppage. There was a funny smell around those old engines which we were told was caused by the castor oil used for their crankcases. In my opinion, that is the proper use for castor oil—not for the tender tummies of little boys.

Back in the 20's a company downstate—and for some reason I think it was in Waco—was putting out a new product which was a liquid shoe polish that dyed and shined your shoes at the same time. Since we frequently wore the same shoes all week and on Sunday, such a product was a god-send to us. To publicize the name "Dyanshine," the company sent out a troupe of dare-devils to go around the country and do stunts. They drove cars with their product's name all over them and pulled stunts such as hooking a car to a rope which was attached to the top of the water tower where a "block" was rigged. The end of this rope was attached to a harness on the feet of one of the crew who was in a strait jacket. As he was pulled slowly toward the top of the tower he had to free himself from the strait jacket before reaching the top. Once up there he unfurled banners and did other things to promote his product. They must have done a good job because we all started buying "Dyanshine" and their products are still available today.

Not exactly in the line of dare-devils but more in the line of devilment was the time that some kids released the brakes on a boxcar sitting on a sloping siding in Plainview. The car started rolling and with the aid of a high wind blowing from the Northwest, the car started moving toward Floydada. With a downhill grade and a 40 mile per hour wind pushing, the car got to moving at a pretty good clip. There were some narrow escapes recounted at grade crossing that night as this unlighted car clipped through. In those days the Santa Fe engine and train crew stayed in Floydada overnight. W.L. Holloman (who was later to become my uncle) was on the engine which went out and met the car, coupled on to it, and brought it safely to town.

Massey's pasture on the west side of town was the landing place for the planes back then and as I recall was the site of a polo game that supposedly was being filmed for a movie. I do remember that I went over to watch, got involved in walking the horses to cool them off and later rode one horse and led several more down to the Stovall place in the south side of town. There wasn't much daring about this to a kid who had ridden most of his life but my frantic Mother who didn't know where I was convinced me that it was much better to come home immediately after school.

We were too close to the working aspects of cattle to be amused by men roping calves, riding broncos, and other things that later led to the rodeos of this day.

But the daredevils we had proved that we weren't off the beaten track like the smaller towns and some day would be the true metropolis befitting the "Gateway to the Plains."

Dear Abby

er way of thinking, got a 'whole' man

By Abigail Van Buren

Q: This is concerning "Heartbroken Parents" who have a 28-year-old daughter who was married to a man who had lost both his legs when he was in the Vietnam War. ("She could easily have married him," her mother moaned.)

A: My story? I am also a nurse. At 24, I was a nurse who thought all women should be kept quiet, no matter what their husbands did. I was married to a man who was in the Vietnam War and lost both his legs. I was married to him for 24 years.

Q: What a coincidence! My husband also was in Viet Nam and lost both legs.

A: I was elected president of the student bar and other honors are too numerous to mention. He plays golf, dances, drives a car, and does everything every other normal, healthy man would do. We have a lovely home and three children. The youngest two were born in Viet Nam.

Q: This is for Heartbroken Parents: About a gentleman at a party asked me to dance. I said I had danced with better dancers. That is all I have to say.

Q: To know him, I was amazed to learn that he was in the slums of Philadelphia, and had lost both his legs under a freight train when he was 18. He was a very successful man. He was a very successful man. He was a very successful man.

Q: He is not only a "whole" man; he is a man who is a "whole" man.

Q: "Heartbroken Parents" would classify him as a "whole" man. He is good-looking, beautiful, and he has a good mind. But according to the letter, he is far from whole because he lacks the ability to make a real man. (Kindness, maturity, tenacity, integrity.) His character is rotten, and he is not to be believed.

Q: Explaining, I married him for better or worse. I tell that nurse how fortunate she is to be married to a man who knows to be beautiful on the inside. He makes her much happier than a lesser man.

Q: You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LOWRANCE BECOMING WELL KNOWN

From Art Classes In Floydada To Interior Decorating In California

(By Peggy Medley)

You may have seen some of his works in Kitchens, Baths and Family Rooms, winter issue, or Brides Magazine, June issue. Since then his interior designs are becoming more well-known from coast to coast. More recently the former Floydada man had the distinction of helping a photographer friend re-do the Ted Kennedy home, while they were houseguests of the family in Washington, D. C. On order is a house to re-decorate in the San Angelo area and another in Dallas.

The interior decorator is known in Floydada as Elvis Lowrance, twin brother of Melvis Lowrance, however, both men use a different name now. Elvis uses his first name, Jack, and Melvis has shortened his to Mel. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Lowrance of Floydada.

Mel resides in Red Wood, California where he is a book publisher and editor of Social Students.

Jack resides in Menlo Park, Calif., in an apartment displayed in June's issue of Brides. He is owner of Lowrance Gallery in Menlo Park.

Jack's talent began with art

Franks Family Holds Reunion

The children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great great-grandchildren of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Franks met recently at the Sterley Community Center for a family "get-together". The families enjoyed sandwiches and chips, cake and homemade ice cream. Saturday night, July 21, Sunday a bountiful dinner of smoked turkey, fried chicken and ham with all the trimmings was enjoyed by the 73 attending. After lunch, the men played dominoes and the women enjoyed visiting.

Out-of-town relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nobles of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Ertis Watson and granddaughter, Melissa Pickard of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs.

hearts and yellow and green roses. The table was laid with a white crocheted cloth which the bride's grandmother made, over a yellow liner. Special guests at the wedding were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dean of Snyder and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haws of Oklahoma and Mrs. Don Hall of Plainview.

For traveling the bride changed to an orange and tan knit dress with a waistlength jacket of the same color edged in orange. She wore daisies from her bouquet.

After the wedding trip to the Ft. Worth-Dallas area, the couple will live at 2408 Auburn #152 in Lubbock where the groom is employed by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. He is a 1972 graduate of Floydada High School and is a sophomore business major at Texas Tech University. The bride is a 1971 graduate of Lockney after which she attended Wayland Baptist College for a year. She is now a Junior Education major at Texas Tech University.

classes in Floydada taught by Mrs. E. J. Barker. Following his graduation in Floydada he continued art at Texas Tech where he received his degree.

He says interior design is a fascinating profession because of the endless variety of people he works for and the different work one is asked to do. His favorite clients are those who are not hampered by what others think. "Freedom to express one's self is the greatest asset a client can have," Jack says. He continues he has seen many rooms without soul, rooms that look as if they had never been lived in, rooms that are fashionably boring, and rooms full of expensive status symbols. It is nearly always the personal that inspires and delights one, continued Jack, and he said a few of his clients could turn a railroad station or an old cabin into a lovely home.

Design and decorating should be thought of as a vital part of our everyday lives. Jack says it's a form of pure art and he wants his clients to live among their personal possessions in rooms they love. The total effect should be undecorated-nothing on display as if it were in a museum. Jack says he usually directs his clients away from what is in fashion to what is more permanent.

When he designs a home he thinks first of the home as a beautiful atmosphere for living. He considers the light in each room. Light is of vital importance whether it be natural or artificial. Plants help keep a room more natural. They also add life, colors and freshness.

Jack says you can ask your home to meet either of two psychological needs for you — to excite you for your many activities, inside and out, or to ease you away from all your worldly cares. How? Just spread lively patterns for motivating spirit, or blend everything in solid hues for a more harmonious calm.

In June Brides issue, in which Jack's own apartment is displayed, he used small patterns on walls and windows to make a high-ceilinged living room look more cozy. He used prints to dress up and define a simple dining area; stripes to blend various motifs-all over. He applied figured wallpaper and worked with fabric that can be stretched over fir stripping, backed with special adhesives. Fabric may also be draped in dramatic folds, Jack said, or gather printed fabric from floor to ceiling for a tinted effect. Use solid colors throughout to balance all the action in the patterns. Then, he says, just prepare to accept the whole environment's eager invitation to a happy life.

Jack says a small house plays up its natural glowing warmth through controlled exposure to sun colors and bright patterns.

The redecorated kitchen in the other magazine, done by Jack, was breath taking. He took a drop old kitchen in a cottage in Woodside, Calif., and on a low budget given him by the owner, turned it into a bright yellow creation.

He used the old cabinets, removing the original doors and installing trellis doors. Then to give the kitchen an open look, he used yellow, white and silver as color scheme. He used contemporary foil wallpaper and a mouveau light fixture taken from another room and "Levolor" blinds over the windows.

Jack stressed active patterns for living; soften and dress-up any built-in features you find a bit harsh; spread more prints on the walls; they'll tend to blend any architectural bumps and jags into the background.

The decorator says interior design is not a secret, and today there are many well trained designers. If you have a professional, let him or her help you as much as possible, Jack said. If you are re-vamping and do not have a professional-get one. You'll be more pleased with the results, he continued.

"A home should be a private world also a world one shares with friends," he said.

MRS. ROBERT MOODY stands by the wedding cake she has made for Lockney. The bride, Mrs. Robert Louis Pyle, Mrs. Pyle, Cummings, especially requested her to make the base of the cake.

Mrs. Kenneth Has Creative

(By Gayle Jackson)

To the wedding guest, the wedding cake is pretty, but just part of the entire "lovely wedding". To the bride, the wedding cake is just what she wanted to reflect her happiness. To Mrs. Kenneth Moody of Lockney, the wedding cake is the product of a creative hobby, representing up to twenty hours of her time.

Viola Moody is into her fourth year as baker and decorator of wedding cakes since Mrs. Bill (Mary Ruth) Fewell and Mrs. Cecil (Charlotte) Carthel taught her the art. Mary Ruth and Charlotte no longer make wedding cakes for the general public.

Some brides request an all-white cake and have no particular decorations in mind. Still others have seen a certain style cake that they want duplicated. In fashion now is using the bride's chosen colors to accent the white cake icing. Some brides want icing flowers, hearts, butterflies, etc. to grace the cake. Viola's abilities to perfect the cakes grow, so that she always thinks her latest cake is the prettiest.

She will order the top decoration for the cake if asked to do so, with wedding bells and bride and groom figurines still popular. She reminds the newlyweds of the custom of freezing the top layer to eat on their first anniversary.

The cake size is usually determined by the number of people expected for the reception. She has assembled miniature, tiered cakes to serve 25 people, or spent fifteen to twenty hours creating a large, tiered cake to serve 400 people. Iced cake squares, also baked by her, are used at most receptions to supplement the formal cake. So far, this has been a busy summer with five weddings already behind her.

Naturally, Viola prefers several days notice before a wedding cake is needed, but she has prepared one on short notice because one bride especially wanted a cake baked by her. Viola delivers her cakes to the receptions, sometimes waiting to assemble the large cakes at the churches or homes because the large completed cakes are heavy and awkward to handle.

One night she had cakes ready for two weddings, and luckily both brides had chosen the same colors or "I never would have made it," says the baking artist. When she started to set one of the cakes down on the reception table, "I nearly tipped it over!" Since then she tries to deliver the cakes early in the day so that she could make repairs or even start over if some accident should happen. She also takes extra icing with her to make small touchups.

Another time the Moody's were planning to be out of town on a wedding date, so she and the bride's mother decided that Viola would make the entire cake and freeze it before leaving.

Viola begins her wedding cakes with a cake mix, having found them more reliable, but she adds several ingredients to the mixes to make them more moist and tasteful. She believes that the less time a cake spends in the freezer, the better it will taste, so she does little baking ahead of time. However, she prefers to freeze the different tiers of the large wedding cakes to make

Rotary Governor Looks At Brighter Side

District Rotary Governor Marshall Formby of Plainview, in his annual visit to the Floydada Rotary Club, told the members at Noon Wednesday that it is time Americans quit looking at the gloomy side of everything and took a look at the brighter side.

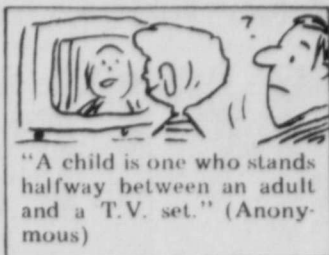

"About all that we hear today is how bad things are going and how tough it is in this country," Formby said. "I think it is time we took a look at how well things are going, and give thanks for what we enjoy in this nation."

He pointed out that America today is the most affluent nation since the dawn of civilization and that we are surrounded by luxuries available to the poorest person that were once beyond the dreams of even the very richest people.

Formby, who serves on the College and University Coordinating Board for Texas, pointed out that some young people today have a flaw in their education which causes them to be ashamed of their country, their parents, and the economic system that has put

America in the lap of luxury. "I want the kids of today to know where the money comes from and to learn that it is not sinful to make a profit on a business transaction," he declared.

Formby complimented the local club for their Rotary activities and urged the continued support and enthusiasm of its members towards the projects of the Club for the coming year.

Coltharps Find Southern Hospitality

(Floydada Junior High School Principal A. W. Coltharp and his wife, Jewell, discovered on a recent vacation trip that there are still "a lot of great people around", as shown in this article submitted by Coltharp.)

Monday, July 23, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Coltharp returned from their vacation tour of the southeastern states. Highlights of the trip were a visit with Jewell's sister, Mrs. Nola Turner, in Siloam Springs, Arkansas; a visit with son Jerry and family in Oxford, Ohio; a visit with nephew Bruce Coltharp in Charleston, South Carolina; and topping it off by meeting brother Ray Coltharp in Florida. There, five days were spent sightseeing in St. Augustine, Daytona Beach, Disney World, Cypress Gardens, and Silver Springs. Each one of these was worth the trip as "tremendous" is the only word to describe each place.

Actually the car troubles on the tour turned out to be some of the most pleasant portions, as it revived a faith in our fellowman, and proved that there are still a lot of great people around.

They had not got to Childress when the water pump went out, nine miles from town. A wonderful farmer came along out of Childress, and wouldn't have anything but to pull the car into Childress to the Smith Ford Co., where it could be repaired. He refused pay for towing the car. His name was Raymond Tucker from Tell, a small town between Childress and Estelline. Incidentally Coltharp's father preached there when Coltharp was an early teenager.

While waiting for the car to be repaired, the shop foreman took them out to breakfast. He was truly the good neighbor.

Very shortly after leaving Cypress Gardens in Florida, a clattering came from the motor. Fortunately, they were within two hundred yards of a rural garage, so they pulled into the station. Two teenage brothers inspected the motor and came up with their personal analysis of the trouble, causing Coltharp to be on the verge of two heart attacks, and wife Jewell to cry. The first stated that repairing the power steering would cost about 300 bucks. The other said a head gasket was blown and would cost from 200 to 300 bucks. About that time the father, a registered mechanic, returned from Winter Haven, and said the top radiator hose had a hole in it. He drove back to town for the hose, and installed it. The motor started, and all breathed a big sigh of relief when no damage was done to the motor. He only charged $6.50 for the entire operation.

There was a very strong belief that the Lord was hovering near during the entire three weeks' tour, and the Coltharps were quite happy to complete the circle at home on July 23.

FARM REVIEW

PARALLEL TERRACES — on H. L. Handley's farm.

Parallel Terraces Boon To Dryland Farmers

Parallel terraces, like the ones pictured on the Harmon Handley farm north of Floydada, are one of the best improvements that can be made on dryland or weak water farms. These terraces are primarily constructed to hold more rainfall on the land and to distribute the water evenly between the terrace intervals. Several other advantages are that the problem of point rows is virtually eliminated. Also, no terrace channels are left to pond water since the intervals are almost entirely leveled. This reduces the "drowning out" of crops caused by concentration of runoff water just above the terrace.

Because parallel terraces are on the level and farmed on the contour, and because side-fall is eliminated in building the terrace, rainfall is contained within inches of where it falls. On terraces already constructed, 1 1/4 bales of dryland cotton and up to 2800 pounds of dryland grain sorghum have been harvested.

Several cooperators in the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District are presently installing a system of parallel terraces on their farms. These include: R. C. Mitchell, Aaron Carthel, and Roy Tinsley-Kenneth Brose. Additional information on this type of terrace system can be obtained at the Soil Conservation Service office in Floydada.

Farm Bill Passes House

The House of Representatives passed its version of the 1973 farm bill with a final vote of 226-182. This concluded two weeks of stormy debate and what, at times, seemed almost impossible odds of passing the bill as recommended by the House Agricultural Committee.

The feed grain section of the bill was passed almost exactly as recommended by the Committee. Under this legislation, as passed by the house, the target price for grain sorghum will be $2.34 cwt. The loan rate will be increased to $2.02 cwt. from the present level of $1.79, if the House bill is allowed to become law.

Elbert Harp, GSPA executive director, has been in Washington two weeks working on the legislation. Harp stated that "Congress voted in favor of the farmers by allowing the 'Escalator Clause' to remain in the bill. This provision requires target prices to move up in 1975 and thereafter in relation to the increased cost of production. The major setback was in the rigid $20,000 limit per person that GSPA has fought for years." Harp continued, "We felt annual adjustments of target prices to cover increased production costs was essential to the bill. The Administration has opposed the Escalator provision and still threatens a veto if it is passed by Congress."

The bill now goes to the Conference Committee, where the Senate and House versions will be compromised.

compromised version will be brought back to each body of Congress for final passage. The bill, if it becomes law, will be effective for the 1974 crop. The House version is a four year bill.

The major differences for grain sorghum in the House and Senate versions are as follows:

Loan Rate — Senate Bill: $1.79; House Bill: $2.02; USDA Goal: $1.79;
Target Price — Senate Bill: $2.59; House Bill: $2.34; USDA Goal, $2.14
Total Payment per person — Senate Bill: $20,000.00*;

House Bill, $20,000.00; unknown USDA Goal.

Term of Legislation — Senate Bill: 5 years; House Bill: 4 years.

Harp said, "We are optimistic that a workable farm program will be passed by Congress and signed into law by the President. A veto of this bill can only be construed as anti-farmer."

*The Senate version provides that the portion of payments, which the Secretary declares for resource adjustment (set aside), will not count against the $20,000.00 limit per person.

Cotton Ginners To Study Management

LUBBOCK — Increased income through improved management will be the target of discussions in a one-day workshop for cotton ginners here Tuesday, July 31, according to Billy C. Gunter, district agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The event, which is set for 9 a.m. at Vann's Catering Service on the Slaton Highway, is sponsored by a task force of the South Plains Development SPD program and the Extension Service.

Participating in the workshop will be cotton ginners from throughout the South Plains area, and representatives and officials of the Extension Service and industry organizations.

"The South Plains is one of the leading cotton producing areas of the nation," says Gunter. "This status is maintained in part by the progressive attitudes of our gin managers who have met the challenges of increased cotton production."

"This workshop is designed to help these managers improve their individual business operations and to continue to meet growing needs of cotton producers in this area."

Among the noted speakers for the event are Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Donald A. Johnson, executive vice-president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of Lubbock.

Also, Roy Childers, Extension area agricultural engineer of Lubbock; Johnny Feagan, Extension economist from College Station; Paul E. Gross, Lubbock County Extension agent; Dr. Wayne A. Hayenga, Extension economist from College Station; Marvin Sartin, Extension area economist from Lubbock; and Kenneth Wolf, Extension economist from College Station.

Their topics will cover business functions and how to plan, improving gin efficiency with the new module break-up unit, internal economic considerations in operating a gin, managing working capital, basic principles of diversifying, labor problems and labor use, and management of time.

Presiding over the morning session will be Paul Gross, with Don Johnson chairing the afternoon session.

ARACBYO ARAUJA was breaking clods Friday morning on the Delton Jack farm south of Floydada. Plans are to plant this land in soybeans at a later date. The land had been a wheat field.

Passage of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act late July 19 by the House in Washington has to be looked upon as a step toward final enactment of a farm program to succeed the Agriculture Act of 1970 which expires this year.

"But we are still a long way from having a farm bill signed into law," cautions Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Johnson, along with PCG President Ray Joe Riley of Hart, was in Washington all of the week preceding the final House vote and during much of the previous debate on the controversial measure.

The House bill, passed amid more than a little confusion by a margin of only 44 votes, 226 to 182, now goes to a House-Senate Conference Committee where the attempt will be made to reach an acceptable compromise between the House and Senate versions. No immediate move was made by House Agriculture Committee Chairman Bob Poage to send the bill to conference and there was no indication at noon the following day as to when such a move might be expected.

Both House and Senate bills are built on the "target price system" conceived in the Senate Agriculture Committee. For cotton the Senate's five-year bill sets the 1974 target at 43 cents a pound, with payments to make up the difference between that price and the average of spot market quotations for Strict Low Middling inch-and-a-sixteenth cotton during the first five months of the marketing year.

The House four-year bill calls for a 38 cent target, with payments calculated as the difference between 38 cents and the average price paid to farmers for all cotton over a 12 month period. So the two target prices are not directly comparable. Acreage prices paid to farmers over a full year can be expected, to average from 1.5 to 2 cents per pound lower than a five month average of SLM inch-and-a-sixteenth spot quotations.

The different House language, according to Johnson, "is something PCG worked for and if upheld by the conferees will be a definite improvement wherever the conference committee sets the target price in cents per pound."

Both Senate and House bills retain the two-way escalator clause which provides for adjustment of the target price after 1974 to reflect production costs and changes in production efficiency. This is the clause which caused Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz to state he would recommend a presidential veto. Administration sources say the escalator clause could cause program costs for the four years to reach as high as $12 billion.

"And there is a distinct possibility that President Nixon will follow the secretary's recommendation," Johnson said.

One of the most debilitating features of the bill in the minds of farm leaders is the $20,000 per person limit on total payments. And this becomes a more serious fault when coupled with the House action banning the sale and lease of allotments, a provision not included in the Senate bill.

"We are bitterly disappointed in the $20,000 limit," Johnson stated, "but it appears now our only hope for partial relief is that the conferees will agree to delete the House's ban on sale and lease."

The conference committee will also be called upon to reconcile a difference in language used by the House and Senate with regard to the level of non-recourse loans on cotton. The Senate would recommend a loan at 90 percent of the three year average of world market prices for cotton, but give the secretary virtually unlimited authority to lower the loan if he thought it necessary to keep U.S. cotton selling at competitive prices.

The House bill, which conforms to recommendations made to the Agriculture Committee by PCG, calls for a loan at 90 percent of a three year average of world market prices for American cotton, with the secretary having only the power to reduce the loan to 90 percent of the current year's world price if he thought it advisable.

"The difference to cotton farmers between the House and Senate loan provisions might mean the difference between a loan at 20 cents or so and a loan at 26 or 27 cents," Riley said, "and we will do all we can to get the conference committee to retain the House language."

Crop Report Looks Good...
Increases and Decreases... Pasture and

All major crops in Texas show signs of improvement. Wheat production as well as oat production is estimated now at two to three times production levels.

Upland cotton acres for Texas this year at 5,700,000 compared with 5,570,000 acres planted in 1972. Harvest of the crop from last year. All of the increase in the upland cotton is in the High Plains and Edwards Plateau.

Grain sorghum acreage this year in Texas at 8,100,000 acres, up 19 per cent from 1972. Harvest of the crop started in South Texas. An excellent crop in Central Texas. Hot, dry weather is needed for crop.

Wheat production is now estimated at 2.5 billion bushels in Texas; this is more than double the bushels produced in 1972.

Yield is expected to average 28 bushels per acre, compared with 22 bushels last year. The wheat harvest for the state is now virtually complete.

Social Security Office Taking Applications For Supplemental Payments

payments will depend not only on the amount of income people have but on the value of their assets," King said. "If you're single—or married but not living with your husband or wife—you can own things worth up to $1,500 and still get Federal payments," he said. "A couple can own things worth up to $2,250 and get payments. Not everything you own has to be counted toward your total assets, however. "A home of reasonable value will not be counted as an asset," King said. "Personal effects and household goods won't count in most cases. Insurance policies or a car may not affect eligibility either, but it will depend on their value."

"Certain income also will be disregarded in deciding on an application for supplemental security income. The first $20 a month of income generally won't affect the Federal payment at all," King said. "In addition, people who are working part time should know that the first $65 a month of earnings won't be included in counting their income and only half of the rest of their additional earnings will be counted," he said. Apart from earnings, other income above the first $20 a month generally will reduce the Federal payment. "This includes social security checks, veterans payments, workmen's compensation, pensions, annuities, and gifts," King said. "And if you live in someone else's household, your basic Federal payment will be reduced by one-third before your payment is deducted." People who need more information to decide whether they might be eligible for the Federal payments should call social security at 293-4371, or write to the office at P.O. Box 1989, he said. The Plainview social security office is located at 1401-B West 5th Street. "A friend or relative can make the call if the person in need isn't able to," he said. "Even though payments cannot start until January 1974, we're starting to take applications now so we can process them ahead of time and avoid delays that might occur if there's a rush of applications right at the end of the year," King said.

KEEPING YOUNG PEOPLE ON FARM BIG CHALLENGE

Unless ways are found to make farming a profitable enough career to attract competent young people, the nation is headed for trouble. This was pointed out recently by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butts in an address to the National Cotton Council. He noted that the average age of today's farmer is between 51 and 52.
