Over Half Floyd Cotton Crop At The Gin

When the Texas Employment Commission manager Bob Hambright made a gin by gin county Wednesday of every gin in Floyd County, he came up with 72,611 bales weighed across the scales.

With a new estimate of 140,000 bales to be harvested in Floyd County this year, it appears that the Wednesday tally is a little over half.

Of course, as much as three-fourths of the crop could be harvested, because so much is in ricks, still in the field.

Prices remain good, with much of the crop bringing in the 50 to 60 cent range.

Weather has been good, and yields are very good.

The following South Plains report is also optimistic:

"Hefty yields in some of the big producing counties have strengthened prospects for an all-time high cotton output on the High Plains, agricultural and trade officials said Wednesday.

The joint December crop estimate of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., released Wednesday, is for an output of 2,725,000 bales.

This is up 18,000 bales from the November forecast and compares with the existing record production of 2,443,900 bales in 1961 and last year's crop of 2,242,850 bales.

With harvesting and ginning continuing at near peak activity, receipts at the U.S. department of Agriculture's four area classing offices totaled samples from 1,249,000 bales Tuesday, compared with only 270,000 a year ago.

The offices have classed 1,074,000 bales of 1973-crop cotton and have a carryover of 145,000 bales, about a three-day supply at the current rate of classing.

Receipts have dropped slightly to about 41,000 samples a day, down from 50,000 late last week. The decline is believed due primarily to a labor shortage at gins.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service said prices have advanced $5 to $10 per bale for the longer staples on the Lubbock Market this week.

Demand was strongest for cotton stapling 31-32nds-inch and longer but also was described as strong for 29-32nds and 15-16ths-inch staples.

Prices were reported ranging from 29 cents per pound over government loan rates for short staple cotton to 44.50 cents over loan levels for long staples.

Typical lots were said to be bringing an average of 37 cents over loan rates and were selling in a price range of 50-60 cents per pound.

Micronaire, a measurement of fiber fineness or maturity, is beginning to drop slightly, but officials pointed out this has been the highest "miking" crop in history.

Staple length hasn't changed much this week, officials said, adding, however, that it may have shown small improvement. The bulk of the cotton is in 15-16th, 31-32nds and 1-inch staples.

Grades also have shown no significant changes. Middlings and strict low middlings are by far the most predominant grades, followed by middling light spots and strict low middling light spots."

COTTON RICKS AS FAR AS YOU CAN SEE — Grady Walker of Floydada looks over some of the 14 ricks of cotton on his farm south of town. Walker estimates he has about 300 bales of cotton already stripped and stacked in ricks, like these, in the field. Walker used the ricking method last year, when it was just in the experimental state in the area, and says his cotton graded about two grades higher than it would have otherwise.

Freezer Spirit Great!

Floydada Junior High School not only have great school spirit, but also have an abundance of spirit. Their love and others have been evident throughout the school year.

Students working on projects placed memorial books in the library in memory of those who have lost their lives in this fall. As the Christmas season, the Student Council has started Cal Farley's Boys Ranch Gift drive. Several years ago the faculty and students voted to discontinue the practice of exchanging gifts at Christmas time. Instead, a week is set aside in early December during which free-will offerings are taken up each morning in homeroom period.

Enthusiasm for the project is generated by making it a contest between homerooms. This year's winners are Homeroom 7-B with $21.18; Homeroom 8-E with $17.09; and Mrs. Lavada Garrett's Vocational Resources Class with $40.50. All together $150.08 was contributed for this very special gift.

This year Mr. Louie Hendricks from the Boys' Ranch Administrative Office in Amarillo was here for the kickoff on November 28. He brought a film made by WFAA, a Dallas TV station which gave insight as to the importance of Boys' Ranch in the lives of the 370 boys now at the ranch. He also answered many questions asked by the students. The faculty and students wish a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to everyone!

ALL SOUTH PLAINS

Two Floydada Whirlwinds, quarterback John Cagle and end Lynn Becker, made the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's Class AA All South Plains football team, announced Friday in the A-J Whirlwind tackle Mike Hatley received honorable mention on the A-J's dream team, the Lubbock newspaper's selections as the best players from districts 3-AA, 4-AA and 5-AA.

Cagle picked up 483 yards rushing and seven touchdowns on 104 carries in the 1973 season, and added 1,085 yards and six TD's passing (70 of 124). Becker caught 25 for 499 yards and three TD's.

John Clark of Lockney made the first-team defensive unit, and Longhorn tackle Steve McPherson was selected to the first-team offensive line. Martin Stoerner, Robert Delgado and John Mathis of Lockney received honorable mention on the All-South Plains unit. Littlefield players receiving honorable mention were quarterback Terry Bryson, running back Pat Henderson and defensive lineman Randy Cook.

Kiwanis Club Turkey Shoot Winds Up Sunday

The Floydada Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a turkey shoot Saturday and Sunday, December 8 and 9, at the Gun Club Range north of Floydada, starting at 1 p.m. each day. It costs $2 per flight to shoot. Gift certificates redeemable for groceries will be given as prizes. Ammunition will be available at the range.

A RETURN TO RATIONING? — The possibility of gasoline rationing prompted a request in Thursday's Hesperian for left-over gas ration stamps or coupon books from World War II, and the request was answered. Several people brought in "War Ration Books" from the forties. Mrs. Edd Muncy, top photo, even had a special leather holder for her ration books, made by her daughter Jo (now Mrs. John Oechsner of Dallas). Mrs. Muncy still has several ration books, gasoline stamps, and some small cardboard-like tokens marked "OPA Red Point" and "OPA Blue Point" — anyone remember what these were? Mrs. G. M. Armstrong, bottom, came to the office with some ration books that were still in very good condition, one dated May 5, 1942. (Staff Photos by Jim Huggins)

QA&P Purchase Revealed

FROM THE LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

By Howard Swindle

The president of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, in Lubbock Wednesday to confer with South Plains employes, confirmed the sale of more than 100 miles of track which will provide an alternate route to the tunnel-ravaged stretch between Lubbock and Quitaque.

Paul F. Cruikshank said Burlington Northern, Inc., parent company of the Fort Worth and Denver, has negotiated to buy 104 miles of track between Floydada and Acme from the Quanah, Acme and Pacific Railway, a subsidiary of St. Louis San Francisco Railway (Frisco). The agreement still must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

Reports indicated the negotiation involved 87,700 shares of Burlington Northern common stock which closed Tuesday at $41.25 each.

The Fort Worth and Denver has been using the Lubbock-Floydada-Acme route since Aug. 4 when a 95-car freight train derailed in a tunnel about 10 miles southwest of Quitaque. The tunnel, believed to be the last rail tunnel in the state, has been boarded up, Cruikshank said.

The Fort Worth rail executive cited the high costs of repairing the tunnel as a factor in choosing the alternate route.

Cruikshank said, however, Quitaque and Turkey still will be served by the Fort Worth and Denver from the Childress end of the line.

"A large delegation from there (Quitaque and Turkey) met with me about three to four weeks ago and I assured them they would have rail service," he said.

Cruikshank said the Fort Worth and Denver has been using the Floydada route on an agreement with Frisco. The line is the main freight artery between Lubbock and Wichita Falls, he said.

The August derailment involved 13 cars, loaded primarily with cottonseed oil, cotton and wheat, rail officials said. Several of the cars were buried by an avalanche of debris when key supports inside the tunnel buckled.

The tunnel, built in 1927 by a Colorado construction company using Irish and Swedish labor, was carved out of red and gray sandstone. It was the larger of two tunnels built on the same line. The other met a similar fate about six years ago and was "daylighted" to make the line passable.

Cruikshank said the Fort Worth and Denver will lease the new stretch of rail from Burlington. The Fort Worth-based railroad operates one freight daily between Lubbock and Wichita Falls.

Floydada High School Student Council Report

(By Jimmie Kay Sales)

The meeting was called to order by the president, Marcsmitherman. Sophomore representative Royce Chadwick led in prayer. Darla Milton, secretary called the roll.

In an earlier meeting, the council voted to order 500 pennants to sell in order to raise enough money to have an American Field Service student next year. These pennants have arrived. They are being sold by council members and at the basketball games for $1.00 apiece. Each council member is to sell 10 pennants apiece. So, help the council get an AFS student for next year, and please buy a pennant.

If you went to the game

Danny Bradford; Drama Club — Leslie Simmons.

Basketball season is here. The varsity boys stand at 1-1, the freshman team 1-0. The varsity girls 4-2, the Jr. varsity, 4-2, and the freshmen at 5-1. Let's go all out to support these fine teams. Let's support the Green all the way.

SWPS Enters Power Pool

The Southwestern Public Service Company has become a member of the Southwest Power Pool, according to H. O. Hodson, vice president of engineering and construction for Southwestern Public Service Company.

The Southwest Power Pool is an organization of approximately 32 electric utilities in Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, and Louisiana and is one of nine power pools covering the nation. Transmission facilities of the SPP member companies are intertied so that electric power can be moved back and forth within the pool area and to the other 7 power pools serving the eastern one-half of the United States.

"Our membership in the Southwest Power Pool is an outgrowth of our 230,000 volt intertie with the Public Service Company of Oklahoma and will afford our customers even more electric power should the need ever arise. In addition, through membership in the pool, Southwestern Public Service Company will make available any surplus capacity it might have to help other parts of the country with electric power in the case of emergency," Hodson said.

Holiday Chit Chat

By Elsie Hawkins

The main topic of conversation at this time of the year is "What to buy each person for Christmas." Christmas is just a merry jingle away but when Santa's sleigh rattles with empty spaces, it's not such merry holiday music to his ears. Coming up with gift ideas can be a problem even for St. Nick. Just in the nick of time, the Jewelry Industry Council has come up with a jewel of a Yule solution.

parts made of molded plastic in nontoxic, child-pleasing colors. One such collection is Mattel's Tuff Stuff toys. They are even guaranteed for five years.

These toys that look, sound, move, and feel like real all have smooth surfaces, reliability-tested parts, all-weather, color-fast durability and no need of batteries. The Tuff Stuff collection by Mattel includes a play mixer, sewing machine, drill saw, Pound-a-Truck Shoppin Basket, and a truck with a shovel.

A person purchasing these sorts of playthings, pleasant, protective, and appropriate, can present them to anyone's offspring and feel pretty sure his presents will be welcome for many years.

Rings are the things to stuff stockings and socks with. Hers should be berry bright with colored stones, sparkling with diamonds, lushly gold warmed and polished with silver.

There are thin golden and silvery chains spaced out with beads, mobile necklaces, Zodiac pendants, ropes of pearls, and precious stones of every description.

Earrings button up great classical styles, dangle with precious stones for holiday eyes. Bracelets can be thin bands or high domed geometric cuffs. Egyptian flavored circlets, weighty link-ups or finely intricate braids.

Another very impressive Christmas gift...especially for the "elite"...could be collector's items. Although most of us can't afford such things, it might be fun to take a look anyway. How about it?

If you had bought a procelain American eagle by Boehm in 1957 for $150, you could sell it today, only 16 years later, for $18,000.

Such phenomenal profit on this lovely sculpture is realized because the bird was brought out in an edition of only 64 pieces and then the mold was broken. So much is mass produced today that rare objects are prized, and a collector's fancy is snatched up quickly when a small number is offered at a reasonable price.

Pins are perky gifts that bring lots of holiday cheer. Feminine, graceful shapes are traced with stones for evening wear, and gold is shaded yellow, gray, pink, and green for extra merriment.

Getting gifts for youngsters doesn't have to be hard. Many grown-ups run into trouble only because they get carried away. When it comes to picking presents for the kids on your Christmas list, it's best to bear in mind that shopping for a child, once he's out of the crib, is pretty much like shopping for anybody else. If you buy to please him, not yourself, you can't go far wrong.

Limited edition may be "limited" by several factors: the relatively small amount produced, signed, dated and often numbered so you know which in line yours is. Or it can be seasonal, the dated object sold only during a certain season. Christmas, for instance, or it can be run in a series.

Besides sculptures and plates other items produced for collectors and investors are mugs, paper-weights, medals, coins, commemorative objects, and novel bottles.

While every child is different, here are some suggestions that should see you safely through some sticky situations in selecting toys for tots.

Every child in the house ought to have a wardrobe of toys to appeal to all his senses, so creative environment can be established. Some things should aid his physical development, some enable him to play at being an adult some encourage him to work with his hands.

At the other price extreme is Royal Worcester's series of bone china equestrians.

This year Princess Anne on Doublet joins the previous editions of Napoleon and the Duke of Wellington. The model is produced in an edition of only 750, and costs $4,250.

Limoges are making a beautiful procelain reproduction of the famed Unicorn Tapestries to sell at $35. The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York produces a dated silver snowflake in a different shape each year, lovely to

On the other hand, it isn't wise to overwhelm him with too many toys at once. That way he won't enjoy any of them fully.

Gifts don't have to be exclusively for girls or boys. There's nothing wrong with a young boy clinging to a beloved doll, or a girl who likes sports or science sets.

The most important factor in selecting something for small fry, however, is safety. Little ones don't know when they're playing with danger. If an item can be easily swallowed, if it can break into pieces or cut tender skin, if it's painted with poison, a parent is taking a big risk presenting it to his child.

Removing chewing gum from fabrics is not as sticky a problem as it might seem. Put the garment (even a shoe) in a plastic bag and let it freeze. Then the gum will come right off with a flick of the fingernail.

The safest type of toys have rounded edges, and World float to be entered in the 1974 Rose Parade. Ladies Rebekahs are sending donations to help finance the float to be people's Odd Fellow and Rebekah organizations of California. Riding the double-tiered heart at the front will be a boy from Montana, members of the young people's group float is an intricately designed filigree covered with thousands hang on the tree or around the neck. They also offer this year a limited reproduction of an early yellow slip vase. Royal Worcester has dated procelain holiday mugs in two sizes, the Hammacher Schlemmer will offer a limited, signed, dated and hand-painted line of enameled cookware whose initial prices will keep most people from ever cooking in them.

Some of these items can be found in specialty or fine department stores around the country, others must be ordered by mail.

The chance to collect an object that not everyone can have and hope it may become immortal is what the limited edition fad, delighted in by young and old alike, seems to be all about.

DID YOU KNOW... Chocolate stains are hard to remove unless you use glycerin (available at drug-stores.) Rub it thoroughly into the fabric and wash with plain water. If it doesn't come out completely the first time, additional applications will do the trick.

Removing chewing gum from fabrics is not as sticky a problem as it might seem. Put the garment (even a shoe) in a plastic bag and let it freeze. Then the gum will come right off with a flick of the fingernail.

Star Telegram Cuts Editions

According to a news story from the Amarillo Times, Panhandle and West Texas readers of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram daily editions no longer can find the paper on newsstands.

State circulation manager for the Star Telegram said the paper has discontinued its one-star early edition and no longer circulates in the area west of Abilene and north of Wichita Falls. He said, however, the Sunday editions of the paper still will be circulated.

The critical shortage of newsprint forced the discontinuance of the early edition, according to the news story, and there are no plans for resuming publication of the early edition of the paper.

Tomorrow's Housekeeping

By Samantha of Lestoil Homemakers Service

Do you realize how many nasty household chores will almost do themselves if you'll just let them? The secret is all in that beautiful word "soak" -- plus a heavy duty cleaner like Lestoil to do the grimy, hard work for you while you relax.

cover the blinds. After they've soaked about half an hour, rinse them with clean water and let them drain right in the tub until enough to be hung back up.

Here's the easy way I let my stove clean itself, for instance. Burners, grill, drip pan, racks (everything that isn't plastic) soak for half an hour in a four-to-one solution of hot water and Lestoil. Its special grease dissolving ingredients do wonders to float away burned-on grease and food.

Last, but far from least, I wouldn't attempt to get the heavily soiled family laundry clean without a pre-soak period. No-iron clothes are great work-savers themselves but stains, especially those

And here's a tip for keeping drip pans and burner parts clean longer and postponing the next all-out attack on the stove. Just place stove parts in the laundry tub when you're doing your wash and let the hot soapy water gushing from the overflow hose flush away grease and grime before it hardens.

Another monstrous task that no longer haunts my dreams is cleaning the Venetian blinds. For some reason, I used to think I had to wash, rinse and dry each individual slat. Not only did it take hours... I always finished with sliced cuticles, bruised knuckles and permanently curled fingers. Now, I leave it to Lestoil, letting them take a bath in the tub with one to two cups of this heavy duty liquid cleaner and enough warm water to with a greasy base, often cling stubbornly to permanent press fabrics. And since we've all sworn off phosphates in laundry products, I'm doubly grateful for Lestoil. Applied directly to the stained areas and allowed to soak for three to five minutes, it gets out the really tough stains that soap powders alone can't budge and it does away with the soap film that clings to clothes making them look dull and dingy. Lestoil, of course, contains no phosphates or enzymes and is biodegradable, too.

Soaking is just one of many ways to outsmart household drudgery.

AN OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS AT THE MUSEUM—Brownie Girl Scouts of Floydada Troop 250 work on their Christmas service project for the community, decorating the big Christmas tree at the Floyd County Historical Museum. The third-graders are making paper chains, stringing cranberries and popcorn, and making old-fashioned decorations out of construction paper and Christmas cards. ## Dear Abby

suit suit and Scotsman?

By Abigail Van Buren

ABBY: I am planning my wedding, and a problem. My fiance's best man is a native Scotsman, and he wears his kilt on all formal occasions. I would like to have a formal wedding in a church, and we would like it to be an insult to the best man if he does not wear his kilt, but to dress like that at the wedding party.

Your inquiries are so outlandish one sometimes wonders if they are sincere, but be assured mine is a sincere inquiry. Thank you.
BRIDE TO BE

BRIDE: In Scotland the wearing of a kilt is a tradition, but Robert Burns, one of Scotland's greatest poets (who probably rarely if ever wore a kilt), wrote in his poem "The Twa Dogs" about this very topic:

Some Power the giftie gie us to see oursel's as ithers see us.
Frae monie a blunder free us,
and a foolish notion;
That airs in dress an' gait wad leg' us
As 'e'er a' devotion."

You feel that a kilt would be out of kilter with the occasion, ask the best man to wear a suit. And if he's a Scotsman, it will suit him.

ABBY: I am the mother of three children, 6, 9 and 12. I am divorced from their father, and the children love me. I am now married to a man who loves me and they love him.

I want to know if you think I ought to buy Christmas cards for my "ex" from the children—and put their names on them?

For none of the children have mentioned buying cards for him. If I go ahead and do it on my own, he will think I care for him, which I do not. Also, when we were married, he hardly looked at them. And even now, he looks at them as much as the law allows.
EX WIFE

EX: Children can be thoughtless, so ask them if they want to remember their father at Christmas. If they cooperate. Otherwise, don't go thru the phony bit for them.

ABBY: We have a heated double garage. We have a car and our married son who lives near us keeps a car in the other one. He also uses it when he has to fix. He pays us nothing.

We are in our middle seventies. My husband has had a stroke and has trouble getting around. Also, he has arthritis in his hands and can't do any of the repairs around the house. He has never lifted a finger to help us. I couldn't get him to fix a leaky faucet. I would like for him to get out of our garage so we can rent it out and use the money to get things done around here.

My husband says I shouldn't mention it as it would only hurt him. Am I right or wrong?
OLD FOLKS

You are right. You owe your son no money. Tell him you want to rent out your garage for the extra income, so he shouldn't be any more. Period.

TOYS-- YESTERDAY AND TODAY

For centuries, the types of toys children favored frequently reflected the sort of adults they would become.

In warlike ancient Sparta, boys were only allowed to play at war games, and even the girls were toughened up in physical fitness programs. The youngsters of old Rome played at toy chariot races and fought with fake swords. The offspring of Renaissance men had miniature ocean galleons and crossbows. When England was empire building, British boys were brought up to be amused by toy soldiers.

The world of toys has always been a model of the world of grown-ups, according to child psychologist Dr. Ann Margaret. It provides an opportunity for the child to explore and learn, in the security of the game, what he will be when he grows up. Today's parents want their tots' toys to teach them to be well-adjusted human beings, able to deal with the modern world. And so, as America becomes less concerned with gun-toting frontier traditions, and more wary and weary of war and violence, the toys that young people play with are also changing.

The militaristic soldier doll is being replaced by a strong anti-violent and sturdy outdoor hero type of toy for all action-oriented girls and boys. One member of this new breed of he-man figures is manly, muscled and movable. He can even flex his biceps to pop a muscle band. He has many different sports and adventure outfits and accessories, camping equipment, even a wood-chopping set, so children can act out all sorts of exciting fantasies. FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Shortage Will Be Overcome

Employment Of The Human Mind

The Floyd Philosopher on grass 'arm tackles the energy wreck, we guess you'd say.

nobody has acted like it, knows there's just a certain amount of oil left inside the earth that's all she wrote, so everybody is interested in steps we've got until we can be invented.

European countries for example don't have professional football Sunday driving, in the U.S. all cars are now required to stay in an hour and the rule may be everybody, schools in colder have shorter hours and longer country may go back to daylight the year around, airlines are their flights, homes and offices are their thermostats down 6 winter, etc.

Year of all this and am wondering buy stock in a company making long-handles, but the plan far enough I mean, there are where man can save enormous fuel without just wearing more I'm going to think again before stock. You're going to run into trying to get women to wear with mini-skirts.

But let's move on. For example, take tanks. Huge tanks lined up on the desert fighting each other consume thousands of gallons of fuel, whereas you could get the same results with just as many casualties and prisoners at a 100 percent saving of gas and oil if you used armored knights riding on horses.

For the price of probably half a dozen tanks the U.S. and Russia could equip 5,000 knights on both sides with horses, armored suits and all the swords and lances they could lug, and the battle could start whenever the referee blew his whistle. The Humane Society might object to the damage to the horses, but the television crews could use the same rule used in filming Westerns — show a man being shot, but never his horse.

This is just a start. Put your mind to it. There must be hundreds of other ways to save fuel, without of course banning the use of lighter fluid. I just don't believe civilization has advanced far enough for a man to light his cigarette with a flint rock.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

P.S. This is off the subject, but I just read that some people now believe that the world is coming to an end. I don't hold with this but it's something to think about. I mean, it might be the only solution to the situation we've got in Washington.

County Agent Reports On Farmer Tax Shelter Plan

"This may be the year when many Texas farmers, ranchers and other agribusinessmen want to start on a tax sheltered retirement plan," says Doyle G. Warren, County Extension Agent.

"Farmers and other self-employed individuals can take advantage of a 1962 Congressional law which extended the advantage of the same tax sheltered pensions and profit-sharing plans long enjoyed by corporate employees. They do this by enrolling in a self-employed retirement plan, commonly called a Keogh plan, that is available through many major banks, insurance companies and mutual funds."

Under the law, a self-employed person can set aside a certain portion of his income in a retirement fund. Earnings on the accumulated money are not taxable until the individual retires. Then the money may be taxed as a capital gain or ordinary income, depending on the method of withdrawal.

"The plan is completely voluntary and any self-employed person is eligible. Under the law, up to 10 percent of earned income or $2,500, whichever is less, can be invested each year in an approved retirement plan," notes Warren.

For example, a farmer with a gross income of $50,000 and $20,000 expenses could defer about $900 in taxes by putting $2,500 into an approved retirement plan.

There are several retirement options a self-employed farmer can select depending on his situation. The contribution to a retirement plan may be based on a fixed number of dollars per year or may be expressed as a certain percentage of net or gross farm income which would avoid a fixed dollar commitment each year.

"Before starting into a retirement plan, a person needs to file a proposal with the Internal Revenue Service. The proposal names the individual to be covered under the plan, the investment schedule to be used and the proportion of earned income to be contributed to the fund," Warren adds.

The decision to participate in a retirement plan depends on your age, financial goals, present income, expected future income, number of employees, and investment policy.

Before making any decision to participate in a retirement plan, check with a banker, attorney or investment counselor, advises Warren.

The Best and The Worst... Cotton Deadline Extended... Now Down To Two.

Texas agricultural producers are finding that 1973 has and is turning out to be a year of some of the best prices they have seen, but are also finding that this year has presented them with some of their worst times, too.

Farm prices were at record highs this past summer; now, farm prices have dropped as much as a third for beef cattle and broiler prices have been cut in half.

Making plans for 1974 is now uppermost in minds of Texas agricultural producers. And they look ahead and see complete confusion and uncertainty over availability of inputs for 1974.

No one knows yet how severe the energy crunch will be to farm production. But farmers also face severe shortages of fertilizer, some top quality planting seed, implement repair parts, labor, and new equipment.

Farmers are also finding that next year's crop production costs are going to continue to increase, and some economists are already talking about the price-cost squeeze hitting again at the farmer's pocketbook.

Farm income next year is already being forecast at levels below this year's record pace. Uncertainties over exports of U.S. farm production is also causing some farmers to wonder about 1974 production plans.

Agricultural producers are beginning now to put together plans that will determine the extent of food and fiber production next year.

COTTON stalk destruction deadlines have been extended in most areas of the state due to the weather conditions. Texas Department of Agriculture personnel will be checking those areas to make certain that all harvested fields have been cleared of stalks and debris which could provide hibernation headquarters for cotton insects.

Early cotton stalk destruction is perhaps the best weapon farmers have to control insects for the next year's crop.

Even though you may be in an area which has an extended cotton stalk destruction deadline, it is wise to destroy as soon as possible cotton stalks. Production of next year's cotton crop will be greatly enhanced by cotton stalk destruction now.

ONLY two counties in Texas are now under cattle scabies quarantine. They are Hansford and Bailey.

Recently, Castro and Deaf Smith counties were removed from the quarantine area.

Scabies is caused by tiny, parasitic mites that puncture the skin of cattle and feed on the body fluids released through the wounds. Heavy infestations result in the formation of large, crust "scabs" on the skin. Although the animal's meat is not affected, scabies can cause loss of weight and decreased feed efficiency.

What One Person Can Do

Dawn Ann Kurth, Concerned Citizen

It's a long way from the fifth grade a Meadowlake Elementary School in Melbourne, Florida, to a subcommittee of the United States Senate. But Dawn Ann Kurth, an 11-year-old television critic, made it.

Like most grammar school children, Dawn Ann used to watch Saturday morning kiddies' shows. And she would ask her mother sometimes to buy the products advertised. After her sister ordered a phonograph that didn't work, she began listening more closely. Later, as a special school project, she conducted a poll of 1,500 other youngsters. The replies uncovered many complaints about the quality of the products offered by sponsors.

Dawn Ann sent her findings to Washington and received an invitation from Senator Frank Moss (D, Utah) to testify before the consumer subcommittee of which he was chairman.

The 11-year-old warmed up under a nervous start. She cited misleading claims for products, vitamins disguised as candy and cereals that were little more than sugar. The youngster added that, by the age of 10 or 11, children grow cynical about

GSPA EDITORIAL

'74 sorghum planting should be restricted

Fuel and fertilizer shortages are two good reasons why farmers should not increase their acreages in 1974. With allocations of fuel to be based upon 1973 consumption levels, producers should exercise caution to stretch the available fuel supply to cover the whole year's farming activities. If we do not conserve our fuel, serious problems in cultivation and harvesting may develop.

Until agriculture is assured of ample supplies of fuel, it will be essential to conserve your fuel allotment every way possible. It is impossible to anticipate all the adverse weather conditions which could increase the amount of fuel you may require. If such conditions occur, the annual allotment of fuel could be used early in the year and farmers would be left without enough fuel to finish the crop or harvest it.

It will be difficult to make fuel stretch adequate above the 1973 level.

The fuel and shortages, as they are, may be a catalyst from overproducing surplus farming.

Farmers can be the best of the by using wise practices.

Her conclusion: "I hope now that I can tell every kid in America that when they see a wrong that needs to be right they shouldn't just try to forget about it and hope it will go away. They should begin to do what they can to change it."

One person can make a difference - provided we don't just close our eyes to wrongs in the vain hope they'll go away. With God's help, we can make them go away.

Longhorn Football Banquet December 21

Longhorn football banquet has been set for Friday, December 21, with guest speaker to be Richard Bell of Lubbock, who is head defensive coach for the Texas Tech University Red Raider Football Team.

Bell is a former football star at University of Arkansas where he was graduated in 1958, and also completed his masters degree requirements there while serving as an assistant freshman coach. Bell then moved to Walnut Ridge, Arkansas High School as head coach for two years, to VMI as defensive line coach for two years, and then to Georgia Tech to coach defensive ends and line-

The arrival of two open-end spinning frames at the Texas Tech Textile Research Center during the week of November 25 gives added hope that the recent announcement of three commercial open-end plants on the Plains is "just a beginning," says Ray Joe Riley of Hart, president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The open-end system is being hailed as a major innovation in the textile industry. Riley states, "and it could be the means for turning an already promising future into a brilliant future for the production of High Plains cotton."

Open-end spinning of cotton yarns, in addition to being three or four times as fast as conventional ring spinning, does not require or even favor raw cotton with micronaire readings in the premium priced 3.5 to 4.9 range. On the contrary, testing to date has shown that low micronaire cottons, normally in abundant supply from the High Plains crop, may well produce yarns on the open-end system superior to those made from higher micronaire cottons.

"These tests are conclusive enough to serve as one of the reasons that an existing mill on the Plains is switching much of its production from ring to open-end spinning, and two other such mills are on the way," Riley notes, adding that "PCG will be doing additional, more extensive research on the two machines at Tech, with the results used to encourage both the establishment of other spinning mills on the Plains and the use of High Plains cotton in open-end operations around the world."

Careful plans are being laid by PCG, the Textile Research Center and others toward these ends. A meeting at the PCG offices November 30, for example, drew research recommendations from PCG, the Textile Research Center, the South Plains Research and Extension Center, the Federal Ginning Laboratory at Lubbock and from principals in the existing and planned commercial operations.

"PCG is also looking ahead to possibilities for other new and perhaps even more revolutionary yarn forming methods yet to be proven commercially," Riley states, "as well as considering research of new weaving and finishing techniques."

"The objective," he continued, "is to make sure our cotton's ability to perform on these new systems is recognized far and wide."

The existing mill to which Riley referred is Southwest Textiles, Inc. of Abernathy. The plant is replacing some of its ring spinning with seven open-end frames (1400 spinning units). Three of the frames should be in operation before the end of this year and the other four in place by the Spring of 1974.

One of the two mills mentioned as "on the way" is Feather Fabrics, Inc., a joint venture between Lubbock area investors and Nijverdal-Ten Cate, the Netherlands' oldest and largest integrated textile firm. This plant will be located in Lubbock, will begin with 2400 spinning units, and should be in production by the Fall of 1974.

The other mill slated for the Plains will be known as Daiwabo Texas, Inc. and will be jointly owned by two Japanese firms, Daiwa Spinning Company and the Marubini Corporation. A specific site for the plant has not been announced but it has been confirmed for the High Plains area. It is expected to be in operation by late 1975 with about 4000 spinning units.

Mackenzie Search Bares Archeological Treasures

What began as a routine investigation of some weathered bison bones may prove to be one of the most important archeological discoveries of recent years.

The several bison, it soon was discovered, are of a gigantic species which has been extinct for about 10,000 years. Found among the fossils were several spear or dart points left by the hunters who killed the animals at least that long ago.

According to Dr. Jack T. Hughes, professor of anthropology at West Texas State University, director of the project, the stone projectile points are of a type not yet classified and represent one of the oldest cultures of prehistoric man yet known.

Site of the excavation is located in Tule Canyon about 8 miles northwest of Silverton in an area that will be flooded when the Mackenzie Dam and Reservoir are completed. The area is being searched for archeological sites by a team of scientists and volunteer workers in an effort to rescue valuable antiquities before completion of the dam.

A grant from the Texas Historical Commission makes the rescue effort possible. Co-operation from other sources — including a financial contribution from the construction company building the dam, Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., — has aided in the program. Members of the Panhandle Archeological Society and the South Plains Archeological Society as well as students from West Texas State University and Texas Tech University are assisting in the work.

Supervising the excavation is Billy Harrison, curator of anthropology at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, Canyon.

Seven bison are represented at the kill site. The male specimens are much larger than the existing species with horn-cores three to four times the size of those of living bison.

Five spear points have been recovered, three in perfect condition and two broken. One is crafted from petrified wood, two from Edwards Plateau flint from Central Texas, one of Tecovas (Quitque) jasper and one of alibates flint from the Canadian River quarries northeast of Amarillo.

The flaking technique, eared base and fluting of the artifacts are similar to techniques of the Clovis culture, the oldest recognized prehistoric people in North America. In addition, the points are notched, a feature not normally found in weapons of so remote an age.

State Archeologist Curtis Tunnell of Austin and Dr. Vince Haynes of Southern Methodist University, a leading authority on the Clovis culture, have visited the site and agree that the culture represented appears to be from 10,000 to 11,000 years old.

This would indicate the unknown culture to have been approximately contemporaneous with the celebrated Folsom culture.

"We suspect that this culture, like the Folsom, is an outgrowth of the Clovis culture," Dr. Hughes said. "It and the Folsom evolved somewhat differently, however. It is possible that these points are the forerunners of some points found in the Eastern United States that are thought to be of great antiquity."

"A fuller understanding of the early kill site and the new culture will follow the detailed laboratory analysis of the excavated materials by Pat Willey, project archeologist, over the next couple of years. We will have to do a lot of work before we know the answers to many of our questions."

By Elsie Hawkins

Someone's birthday or anniversary this month? How about flowers with the "extra touch?" FTD florists have a special Forget-me-not bouquet for those special days. And this month has been special for many reasons over the years.

Dec. 1... Boys Town founded for good boys gone bad in 1917, by the everend Monsignor Edward J. Flanagan in Omaha, Nebraska.

Dec. 3...The first human heart transplant was accomplished in Capetown, South Africa by Dr. Christian Barnard in 1967.

Dec. 5...Prohibition repealed by President Franklin Roosevelt in 1933, just in time for Christmas and New Years celebrations.

Dec. 15...Police and Firemen Appreciation Day.

Dec. 16... American patriots disguised as Indians threw three ships' cargo of tea into the Boston harbor at the Boston Tea Party in 1773.

Dec. 17... Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful flight in a heavier-than-air machine at Kitty Hawk in 1903.

Dec. 21... The pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620 and established their colony in the New World.

Christmas morning is the favorite of almost everyone. It's a family time for young and old...and often spent at Grandmother's. The youngsters are alive with anticipation, the oldsters filled with happy memories.

Christmas morning at Grandmother's brings visions of old-fashioned homemade goodies from her overflowing recipe box. A favorite is Breakfast Puffs. A new version of these simple muffins, Surprise Breakfast Puffs, has convenient, flavorful Concord grape jam baked in the center of each muffin, and chopped walnuts are added to the batter. After baking the light and fluffy muffins are rolled in batter, then in a cinnamon-sugar mixture. Easy to serve, Surprise Breakfast Puffs are ready to eat without any extra butter or jam. They're particularly good with shirred or scrambled eggs.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, eggnog is an ideal breakfast drink. A new version, Grapenog, is festive and flavorful. Mix eggs, brown sugar, vanilla and cinnamon combine with sweet tasty Concord grape juice to make this unique flavored nog.

Whether you're visiting Grandmother this Christmas, or she's visiting you, try Surprise Breakfast Puff and Grape-Nog. Here are the recipes for both.

Grape-Nog

- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrated Concord grape juice, thawed and unluted
- 3 cups milk
- 4 eggs
- 2 Tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- Generous dash ground cinnamon

Combine all ingredients in blender. Blend several seconds until mixture is smooth and well blended. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Concord Surprise Breakfast Puffs

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts
- 1/4 cup Concord grape jam
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

Combine shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, and egg; blend thoroughly. Stir in flour, baking powder, salt, and walnuts alternately with milk.

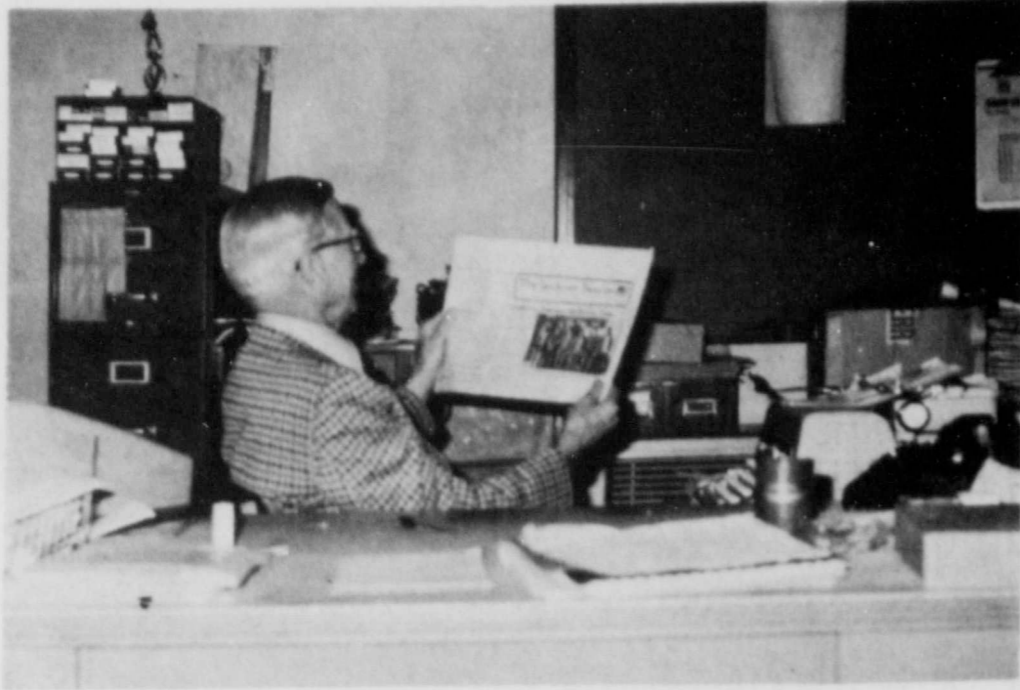

Fill greased muffin cups 1/3 full; drop about 1 teaspoon Concord grape jam into each muffin cup. Add batter to fill cups 2/3 full. Bake at 350 degrees 20 to 25 minutes. Mix remaining 1/2 cup sugar and cinnamon. Immediately after baking, roll puffs in melted butter, then in cinnamon-sugar mixture. Serve hot. Makes 15 muffins.

These two great breakfast recipes should start your Christmas off to a great start. Why don't you try them...I intend to.

MARINES DEVELOP COMPLEX FOREIGN LANGUAGE SKILLS

A few good Marines have a word for it -- in nearly any language.

The select few are developing complex linguistic skills at the Defense Language Institute, a school run by the Department of Defense for the military services and government agencies.

Cpl. Henry E. Lowery, for example, is studying Arabic to become a linguist and will be stationed in Cyprus. The 22-year-old Marine from the San Francisco area has had an aptitude for languages since his first courses in high school Latin and Spanish. He earned an A average in each language.

Sgt. M.J. Fors is also studying to be a linguist.

His language is Russian and he is taking a 47-week course. He has been interested in Russian for three years and may use his skills later to get a job with one of the new U.S. industries going into Russia. He began studying Russia and its culture while attending a Minneapolis high school. Sgt. Fors says young men interested in improving their language and other skills should talk about opportunities in the Corps with Marine recruiters.

IGNORING A HEARING PROBLEM WON'T MAKE IT GO AWAY!

Many people suffering the frustrating symptoms of mild NERVE DEAFNESS try to ignore the impairment...try to pretend that they hear as clearly as ever, even though they're gradually losing sensitivity to certain sounds.

Ignoring nerve deafness won't make it go away. In fact, there is no known cure for it. But for many, many of its victims, there is help available in the DAHLBERG MIRACLE EAR hearing aid.

This tiny electronic hearing helper fits all-in-the-ear, discreetly, with no cords, tubes or wires dangling. And for many it's the ideal answer. Don't ignore the difficulty you may be having understanding words and certain sounds. Instead... see your Doctor... then try Dahlberg; manufacturer of the world's original, patented all-in-the-ear aid, the Miracle-Ear.
