Head Lice Showing Up On School Students

School officials in Floydada are asking parents to help combat head lice which are showing up on some students in the elementary schools. One principal was quoted as saying, "it definitely is not at an epidemic stage, but it could certainly get that way if it isn't controlled in a hurry. It isn't a disgrace to get head lice but a disgrace to keep it."

Andrews Ward principal, Bob Copeland, said his school nurse, Mrs. L. B. Cozby, had spent hours picking nits and shampooing hair on youngsters only to have them pop up a few days later with head lice again. "That's why we need the cooperation of parents. We can't cure it all at school. It must be fought in the home as well as in school", Copeland said.

W. P. Nicholson, principal at Duncan School, said students in his school with the insects were just a little above normal, compared to last year. "We have this problem each year and are accustomed to it", he said.

A disinfectant spray is being used on students with the head lice at school along with vinegar and special shampoos and the use of fine tooth combs to get the nits from the hair. An official said if one nit is left in the hair, then a new infestation of the insects begins all over.

It was explained that the nits (eggs) are white and form around strands of the hair. These hatch into the insects and are especially hard to detect in light colored hair. Adult lice vary in size, according to age. The lice crawl and can very easily be transferred from one person to the other, like a communicable disease. Bed linens and clothing should be changed and washed often, and sprayed so as not to become re-infected. There are chemicals on the Telephone growth in Floydada is expected to remain healthy following a strong 1973, says Jim West, manager for Southwestern Bell.

More Telephones In Floydada

"Telephones in the city total 3,500, a four per cent increase over 1972," said West. "That's part of 300,000 telephones gained statewide in 1973."

West said if the energy crisis doesn't cause a sharp decline in economic activity, Southwestern Bell may well need an eight to 10 per cent increase in construction dollars for Texas in 1974 over what the company spent in 1973.

"This year we'll be spending $10 million a week in Texas to expand and improve telephone service, all of which can affect telephone service in Floydada," West added.

Daily calls in Floydada in 1973 exceeded 12,000, a 4 per cent increase over the previous year, West added.

"We think this volume may increase this year, partly because of normal growth and partly because of the energy crisis. People may be calling more and driving less," the manager said.

ALMOST OVER.....

First Title Since 1966-67

By Wendell Tooley
The Floydada Whirlettes left no doubt about who the 1974 District 4-AA champs are as they soundly defeated Tulia 42-28 in the new gymnasium at Valley High School Thursday night.

It was the first district championship for the Whirlettes since the 1966-67 season, and a big thrill for Whirlette coach Sally Miller in her first season of high school basketball coaching.

The gymnasium was almost full, with more fans on the Floydada side, as Lockney and Quitaque were for the Whirlettes. The Whirlette cheerleaders got in the gym early and had signs all over the gymnasium setting the "championship mood."

And you could tell the Whirlettes had come to win... The Hornettes never seriously threatened gaining the lead, as the Whirlette forwards scored enough in the first half to coast through the second half via Whirlette guards who just almost put the Tulia forwards out of business.

At the end of the first quarter the Whirlettes were ahead 12-9... at the end of the second quarter 31-14, the third quarter 35-19. Donette Marble accounted for 16 points, Nancy Puckett 17, and Debby Johnson nine.

Kathy Hinsley, Pauline Cooper, Verna Newton and Sonja Curry possibly played their best defensive game at guard this season. They allowed the Hornettes only five points the second quarter, five the third quarter, and nine the first and last quarters.

The Whirlettes finish this season with a 9-1 district record, having lost to Tulia the first round... overall season 20-6.

COACH'S COMMENTS

"It was just a good team effort by everybody", Whirlette basketball coach Sally Miller said, talking about the 42-28 victory over Tulia Thursday night that gave her team the District 4-AA championship. "I feel that the kids really wanted to win the game, and that was the biggest thing we had going for us," she continued.

The Whirlettes showed a lot of poise in the game, according to Coach Miller, after the very early going when both teams seemed nervous. But—"After we got over the nervous jitters in the first quarter, we really began to play," the Whirlette coach said.

The Floydada girls had an 18-point lead at one time in the contest. Tulia got within 12 points once in the last half, the closest they came to the Whirlettes after intermission.

Nancy Puckett led the Whirlette scoring Thursday with 17 points. Donette Marble was close behind with 16, and Debby Johnson scored nine for FHS. And how 'bout those Whirlette guards? Sonja Curry had seven steals and seven rebounds. Pauline Cooper had five steals and eight rebounds, and Kathy Hinsley had two steals and seven rebounds.

Coach Miller added "We really appreciate the good crowd support we had Thursday night, and we want to urge everyone to go to the game Monday in Plainview." (The Whirlettes meet Olton at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Plainview High School gym for the bi-district playoff.)

Whirlettes, Olton To Clash In Bi-District

The Whirlettes will meet the Olton Fillies, District 3-AA champions, in a playoff game at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Plainview High School gymnasium.

Admission is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students.

The Whirlettes and the Fillies met three times early in the season. Olton won the first encounter 46-32, but the Whirlettes came back and defeated the Olton girls 42-39 in the second game and 32-28 in the third contest. The Olton girls have come on strong since district play began, though, and Whirlette coach Sally Miller says the Fillies have really improved. The Olton team has good height, including Donna Muller, a six-foot post forward and post guard. Susie Culwell, a good outside shooter, is probably Olton's biggest offensive threat. A guard by the name of Cowart helps the Fillies out on the defensive end.

Efficient Use Of Irrigation Water Will Increase Grain Profits

BUSHLAND, TEXAS — Efficient use of limited irrigation water can mean increased grain sorghum profits, according to two agricultural research economists.

The key to maximum water use efficiency, note John Shipley and Cecil Regier, researchers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, lies in applying a single seasonal irrigation at the boot or heading stage of sorghum growth. Data to support their contention was collected from research conducted at the North Plains Research Field at Etter in 1972.

"This is particularly true where irrigation water is extremely limited in relation to the amount of grain sorghum acreage being planted," they explain.

According to the researchers, grain sorghum has the ability to withstand light to moderate stress and yet respond to water received at either of these two stages.

For those farms with limited amounts of irrigation water available at a given time, Shipley notes that management decisions must be made concerning allocation of water to grain sorghum and other competing crops.

Another factor which must be considered, he adds, is scheduling the timing of irrigation applications on large acreages of grain sorghum.

"Increased water use efficiency and increased farm profits can be achieved by spreading the available water over a large acreage rather than intensively irrigating a smaller tract, he says.

"For example, suppose you have one irrigation well that pumps 560 gallons per minute to provide water for 320 acres of grain sorghum. As a rule of thumb, our research data have indicated that dividing the pumping rate in gallons per minute by 7 will obtain the total acreage that could be watered every 14 days under a full irrigation program."

Thus, said Shipley, 80 acres could be intensively irrigated and, since water is limited, the remaining 240 acres would receive only a preplant irrigation. With four irrigations, the intensively irrigated acreage should yield approximately 7000 pounds per acre, compared to 2000 pounds from the acreage receiving only a preplant irrigation.

Says Shipley, "Under this irrigation program, the 320 acres would produce 1,040,000 pounds of grain sorghum."

"The important point is that instead of applying all four seasonal irrigations to the same 80 acre tract, one well-timed irrigation to a different 80 acre tract each 14 days could produce as much as 4500 pounds per acre for the entire 320 acres. This amounts to an increase of about 400,000 pounds of grain sorghum from the half section.

"At $3 per hundred-weight," he said, "this amounts to $12,000, most of which will be profit since the total costs remain approximately the same except for the added harvest expense."

According to Shipley, when a single irrigation is to be applied, it must be properly timed and applied during the boot stage or the early heading stage of growth. To insure that the grain sorghum is in the proper state for irrigation in this system two different maturity hybrids and two different planting dates are involved.

At the North Plains Research Field at Etter, 1972, a medium early hybrid, RS 626, was planted on May 17 and a medium late maturity hybrid, RS 671, was planted on June 7.

Half of the RS 626 acreage received a boot water irrigation on July 10 and the remaining acreage of RS 626 received a heading water on July 24. Fourteen days later, half of the RS 671 acreages received a boot stage irrigation on August 7 and a heading water was applied to the remainder on August 21.

The plot yields ranged from 3900 to 4800 pounds per acre with an average of 4,525 pounds for the four plots, he said. Yields were slightly higher on the plots receiving the boot water irrigation when planted at three to six pounds per acre. Those with six to nine pounds per acre yielded slightly higher on the plots receiving the heading water.

The seeding rate response, Shipley concludes, could vary from year to year depending upon seasonal rainfall distribution.

STOCKS of the four feed grains—corn, barley, oats, and grain sorghum—totaled 288,000,000 bushels in Texas, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

Wheat stocks held in all positions are estimated at 53,000,000 bushels compared with 87,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Grain sorghum stocks are set at 233,000,000 bushels, down 242,000 bushels from a year ago.

Corn stocks at 37,800,000 bushels compared with 25,800,000 bushels a year ago.

Nationwide, January 1 stocks of all grains except grain sorghum and soybeans were below year earlier levels. Stocks of the four feed grains were seven per cent below those of a year ago.

FORTY-FOUR are approved for use of the M-44 cyanide chemical control device. Livestock producers in 44 Texas counties can use the M-44 provided they meet certain qualifications.

Producers in the 44 counties can use the M-44 provided they attend a training school on use of the M-44, and then provide records of experience with use of the device.

Counties which are approved for the experimental predator control program are Cottle, King, Dickens, Borden, Scurry, Mitchell, Taylor, Callahan, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coleman, Crane, Upton, Jeff Davis, Pecos, Presidio, Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Bexar, McCulloch, San Saba, Mills, Stephens, Erath, Brown, Comanche, Hamilton, Bosque, Coryell, Lampasas, Bell, McLennan, Burnet, Williamson, Hood, Milam, Jim Wells, Nueces, Kleberg, Kenedy, Brooks, and Willacy.

Check with your county agent for complete details on a training school in your county if you wish to use the M-44 in predator control.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is in charge of the program on a state level. Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said the experiment will help the $85,000,000 sheep and goat industry in Texas stay in existence. "The project also means more suits, sweaters, and lamb chops for the consumer" he said.

COMMERCIAL slaughter plants in Texas produced 169,200,000 pounds of red meat during December, 1973. This is down eight per cent from the previous month and four per cent below the total produced a year ago.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The failure of the National Cotton Council Board of Directors and the Producer Steering Committee of the Council to oppose the lifting of U.S. import quotas on raw cotton "in no way affects" the position of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., according to PCG President Ray Joe Riley of Hart. "Nor will it reduce our efforts to retain rigid import restrictions," he adds.

The Council's Producer Steering Committee, made up of NCC producer delegates, took a strong stand against relaxation of import restrictions," he adds.

The Council's Producer Steering Committee, made up of NCC producer delegates, took a strong stand against relaxation of import quotas at its meeting in Dallas January 8. But that position was reversed at a subsequent meeting in St. Louis, Mo. January 28, reportedly as a means to secure a commitment from textile mill interests to stop exerting pressure on USDA for cotton export controls. The NCC Board is composed of representatives from all seven segments of the cotton industry, including mills, merchants, warehousemen, ginners, cooperatives, seed crushers, and producers.

SANTOS MARISERAL is shown running a lister over the land of Wayne Ashburn Lockney on Thursday afternoon as the sun came back out after snowing most of Thursday. Mariseral was getting the land ready for planting.

"As an organization dedicated to looking out for producer interests on the High Plains and no other interests," Riley stated, "PCG continues to feel that restrictions on cotton imports, in addition to unlimited access to export markets, are vital to our well-being, and we will present testimony before the upcoming Tariff Commission hearings to that effect."

The Tariff Commission will hold a public hearing on the quota issue February 7 and make its recommendation to the President soon thereafter.

PCG's statement will point out the damage accrued to the cotton industry and the country since their imposition in 1959. It emphasizes that lifting quotas, which would wreck any government price support program that might be in effect at such a time, would exceed short term demand and cotton prices would drop.

The resolution adopted by the NCC and the organization "to work for unrestricted cotton in the world markets" and to "urge the U.S. Tariff Commission in favor of a suspension of import quotas, for a period of months, which would provide the time needed to adjust the cotton market to the new situation," Riley commented, "which is good." Riley noted that import quotas were suspended only for 12 months in 1962 and that such a suspension would prove justifiable. "But in view of the danger that any such suspension would become permanent rather than a temporary measure because we fear the term 'short suspension' loosely interpreted by Washington would continue to work against the cotton industry in any way."

Water Inc. Meet February 16

LUBBOCK—Rank a file members of Water, Inc., will flock to Lubbock February 16 for the regional organization's 7th annual membership meeting. The daylong meeting featuring appearances by top water, planning and economic names in the field of water resource development will be conducted at the KoKo Palace Convention Center and is expected to attract upwards of 500 participants.

"Although this is our official annual meeting of members," said A.L. Black, Water, Inc. president, "we welcome participation by any person interested in the future of water for West Texas and Eastern New Mexico." Black noted that the five dollar registration fee for members and non-members alike, included the luncheon session.

Water, Inc., a non-profit corporation made up of more than 2,000 members who voluntarily contribute dues to finance the organization's work, is building support for a supplemental water supply for the area it serves.

Interest during the membership meeting this year will center around the nation and world need for food and fiber and this area's ability to help meet these needs if we have sufficient water," said Duncan Ellison.

executive director, Water, Inc. "Anyone having a stake in the future of the area will benefit from the program," he added.

Speakers appearing on the program include James Bradley, Amarillo, regional administrator, Bureau of Reclamation; John C. Ball, chief of the planning division, Corps of Engineers; Wayne Wyatt, manager, groundwater section, Texas Water Development Board; and Dr. James Osborne, agricultural economist and assistant dean, School of Agriculture, Texas Tech University.

It takes more than optimism!

The farmer/rancher is an eternal optimist. He must be—to contend with such imponderables as weather, prices and costs.

Yet, it takes more than optimism in today's high cost agriculture. It takes an organization the farmer/rancher knows he can count on. Farm Bureau is such an organization. That's why four out of five farmers in the nation are members of Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau works for agriculture on three broad fronts—

1. TO INCREASE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY—Through effectiveness in Public Affairs (policy development & legislative activities)
2. TO STRENGTHEN FARMERS' COMPETITIVE POSITION IN MARKETPLACE—Through marketing programs, commodity activities, market expansion
3. TO CONTROL PRODUCTION COSTS—Through group purchasing (tires & batteries), insurance protection (fire, life & casualty), group insurance (medical care).

Both the bride and groom are 1972 graduates of Sam Houston High School in Arlington. They are at home at 601 Travis, Ct. #19 in Arlington. Mrs. Young is employed by Coronado Beauty Salon and her husband is employed by Nationwide Paper Co., both in Arlington.

A rehearsal party was given by the groom's mother, on Thursday night, baby's breath of blue and white, tied with blue and white streamers.

Thomas Baker served as best man. Ricky Ivy, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Ushers were Randy Ames and Rusty Phillips, all of Arlington.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white silk organza trimmed in panels of lace with satin inserts and daisies, fashioned with a high neckline and featured full long sleeves. The empire bodice with an A-line skirt swept to a chapel train. Her bridal veil of nylon illusion fell from a satin headpiece of daisies. It was designed and made by her mother. She carried a bouquet of colonial cascade of baby's breath, daisies and pom pom mums with satin and lace streamers.

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Mrs. Ray Young of Arlington, sister of the groom, registered the guests from a white wrought iron table centered with the bride's book and a blue feather pen. The serving table was covered with a floor length white lace cloth over white. It was centered with a formal arrangement of blue carnations and white daisies and three small tapers. A garland of greenery surrounded the punch bowl. The table held the traditional three tiered wedding cake, decorated with accents of blue roses and topped with a bride and groom. Crystal and silver appointments were used in serving. Presiding at the table were aunts of the bride, Mrs. Max Marble of Hart, Mrs. Marjorie Martin of Lockney and Mrs. Jacky Ivy of Arlington.

Blood Pressure Clinic Success

The blood pressure clinic sponsored by the community service committee of the Floyd County Heart Association Wednesday was termed "a tremendous success" by committee chairman Billie Jordan. About 250 people had their blood pressure checked at the clinic. The county courtroom in the court house started filling about 2:30 Wednesday. Mrs. Jordan reported. It was felt that interest was high enough that another blood pressure clinic might be held some time in the near future.

"We hope that the clinic has made Floyd County people aware of the need for blood pressure check-ups," Mrs. Jordan said.

The Heart Association committee expressed thanks to those who helped with the clinic: nursing volunteers Hester Moore, Gladys

VA Urges Questionnaire Return

The Veterans Administration urges Veterans, widows, and parents to promptly return Income Questionnaires received last November, even though the January 15 deadline has passed.

"Each year, thousands miss the deadline because questionnaires are misplaced, forgotten, or lost, causing interruptions or delays of monthly benefits checks," Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Director, explained.

He noted that 907,000 of the 1.2 million questionnaires mailed were returned to VA before the deadline. Information from the questionnaires is used to adjust Pension Benefits. Questionnaires were mailed to Veterans on VA Pension Rolls, widows of veterans drawing pension based on non-service-connected deaths, and parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected deaths of sons and daughters.

Pensioners 72 years old or older who have been on pension rolls during the past two consecutive years generally are exempt. "But they still must report changes in income, and those who were mailed questionnaires must return them," Coker pointed out.

Information on pension and other benefits is available at VA offices, Veterans County Service Offices, and from representatives of local veterans service organizations, he added.

James Cage Selected SWCD Resident Conservation Farmer

James R. Cage, who farms east of Floydada, has been selected as the Resident Conservation Farmer for Floyd County by the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District. Gilbert Fawver, chairman of the board, stated, "Mr. Cage was selected for this award based on the complete program of resource conservation and practices applied on his farm."

Fawver also announced that a summary of his accomplishments has been submitted to the Texas Conservation Awards Program, which is sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, to be judged for regional and state honors.

James and his wife Kay and their two-year-old son Grant live on their farm which is located about sixteen miles east of Floydada.

James has always lived on a farm, and has farmed for several years. By always living on a farm, James was very familiar with all the conservation problems that were present when he bought the farm five years ago. "The sloping land was blowing and washing away. It was blowing because not enough crop residues were produced to protect the area and it was washing because it was so steep," stated Cage.

"Wheat or barley was about the only crop that could be planted," said Cage. Before the waterway was constructed, a gully was waist deep in one of the fields.

James had the farm only two years before he decided to enter into a complete conservation program based on what each acre needed to make the farm a more economic unit and to stop erosion of precious topsoil.

In 1970 James discussed his problems with his District Director to find ways to improve his farm and in September became a cooperator with the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District. Working through the District with the Soil Conservation Service, a field-by-field survey was made to see what practices might be needed to accomplish his goal. A conservation plan was prepared as a guide line for future work.

On September 9, 1970, James entered into the Great Plains Conservation Program. The cost-share program would assist James in a complete conservation program for installing conservation practices over a three year period.

Under this program James installed parallel terraces, native grass and a grassed waterway. James carried out all the essential management practices to have a complete conservation farm. He has provided the land with soil improving crop and has utilized his crop residue on the land to prevent soil erosion until the next crop is to be planted.

Besides working on the farm, James spends a great deal of his time promoting conservation of our natural resources among the farmers of his community. He uses his farm to show what conservation can do for the land, the water, and for the future financial situation of the American farmer.

Santos In Lineman School

COLLEGE STATION — Oscar Santos of Floydada has enrolled in an electric lineman training school at Texas A&M University's Research Annex.

Conducted by the Electrical Short Schools program at TAMU's Engineering Extension Service, the school covers basic theory of electricity, equipment used in the electrical distribution industry, first aid and safety, construction practices, and national, state and local codes.

Ten students have enrolled in the eight-week course.

Mr. R. H. Ford.

The men from Lockney are Dub and Charles Dipprey, Kenneth Edwards, Lonnie Thompson, and Raz Ford. From Tula were Neil Davis and some friends.

All have worked at least one year at their respective companies, according to Ronald L. Jones, head instructor in the program.

Practical application of classroom discussions is performed by the students on the outdoor training field and in laboratory classrooms during the 240-hour course.

Santos is employed by Lighthouse Electric Coop.

PCA Loans Up In 1973

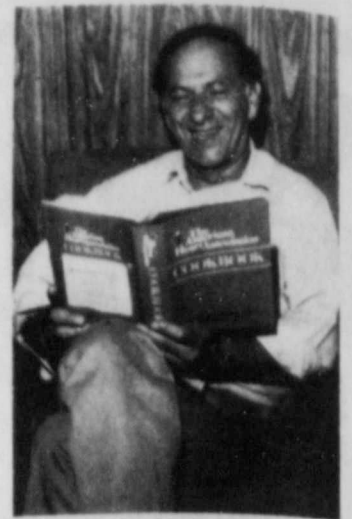

Spiraling costs on the agricultural economic scene were re-emphasized in the Plains area today when Plainview Production Credit

Association reported its stockholders borrowed $208 million in 1973 — $20.7 million more than in 1972.

James Rogers, the association's manager, said loans for production agriculture were up all over the state and were expected to increase even more in 1974. Rogers noted that alleviation of the subsidy programs for agriculture and encouragement of a 15 percent production increase pointed to even greater money needs in 1974.

"In addition, fuel and energy in all forms are going to cost more," the manager predicted. "We are confident that adequate credit for production agriculture will be available in 1974," Rogers said, "but because of higher cost of money and inflationary pressures, the price may be higher."

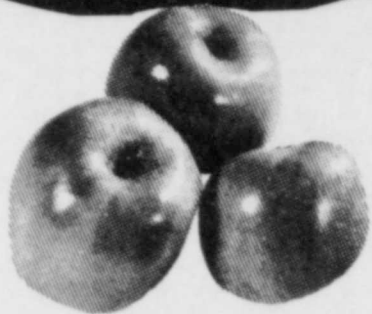

In 1973, Plainview PCA with its 31 sister associations which make up the Texas PCA System, loaned more than $1.4 billion. Plainview PCA's charter territory includes Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Parmer and Swisher counties.
