Beedy Boys, Abbott Show Champions

After hours of deliberation, the steer judge slapped the rump of a fine Angus steer, the crowd screamed, the steer became alarmed, young showman Mark Beedy could hardly hang on... and the grand champion of the Floyd County Jr. Livestock Show had been selected.

Steer judge Billy Roach of Snyder, then pointed to another Angus steer, this one shown by Mark's brother, Todd, as the reserve champion of the show. The steers looked like brothers, and so did the Beedy boys, as they wore checked slacks, sweaters, hats, boots that were similar.

The champion was the 1020 pound winner of the Angus heavyweight division and the reserve was the second place heavy with a weight of 955.

Mark and Todd are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beedy.

LARRY ABBOTT SHOWS BEST BARROW

Lockney FFA boy Larry Abbott showed the grand champion barrow, a heavy weight Hampshire. Barrow judge Bob Kropp was of the same mind that a former judge was at Lockney Saturday when Larry showed the same grand champion there. The champion weighed 245 pounds. Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Abbott.

The judge picked the heavyweight Duroc of Jimmy Parker as the show reserve champion. Jimmy is a Floydada FFA boy and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Parker. His barrow weighed 241 pounds.

Sacred Music Festival Set March 16

In an effort to bring to the citizens of Lubbock and the surrounding area the best in gospel music, "Let the Sun Shine Through" will be presented by the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra March 16 at 8 p.m. The second annual Sacred Music Festival, with its all new theme and some of the best gospel performers around, has been relocated in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium and will be emceed by Eddy Nicholson.

Audience participation is a major feature of the Festival in its attempt to bring back the old feeling of community found when people sing together. Featured performers will be Dino, gospel pianist, Richard Campbell, and the Oral Roberts University Singers. The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra will accompany the performers and audience sing-along and conducting will be shared by William A. Harrod, conductor of the Symphony, and Tony Catanzariti, Music Director at Oral Roberts University.

Dino, whose last name is impossible to pronounce and consequently seldom used, comes to Lubbock with a reputation established through repeated appearances with Kathrine Kulman on her TV show. He has recorded several sacred albums, including "The Greatest of Miracles", which was awarded as the best religious instrumental album of 1970. A graduate of Julliard, Dino left the field of classical concert performance to concentrate his talent in the gospel area. Along with Dino will be featured the Oral Roberts University Singers, a group of 40 college students who travel around the country singing gospel music. Their youth and vitality will be well reflected in the Ralph Carnichael arrangements planned as part of their repertoire here. Lubbock and area citizens already know Richard Campbell who has been singing and directing choirs in Lubbock for several years. He appeared in the 1973 Sacred Music Festival and is back by popular demand.

Tickets for the Festival may be ordered by mail through March 9. If ordering by mail, send check, self-addressed and stamped envelope to Lubbock Symphony office, 1721 Broadway, 79401, specifying number of tickets and price range. All tickets must be paid for before they will be mailed. Ticket prices are $4.00, $3.00 and $2.00 (second tier of the balcony only) with children under 12 one half price. After March 9, tickets may be purchased at the Symphony office, up to concert time.

SOMEHOW I never look forward to winter (now that it's over, for a brief time anyway) except that the flies hibernate. I always thought mosquitos did too, and flying ants, but it looks as if some species have survived what man has not been able to destroy. A reader remarked to me the other day that her most hated species of insect was the cockroach. I go along with her on that species but when one considers that the lowly cockroach has survived the eons of time unchanged, to be the oldest insect on the face of the earth, one gains new respect for the small horrible racer. We are told the cockroach is the most primitive of the living winged insects and among the oldest of fossils, so one cannot say that the sophistication of continued development is necessarily what produces the longevity or particular hardness of some species. The curious thing about the cockroach is that although it is described as being primitive, still it encompasses sufficient elan vital to be the subject of the famous Mexican song, La Cucaracha...

JERRY Baker, known as America Master Gardener, has passed along some gardening tips for those who may be interested. He says striking a tree trunk with a stick or a rolled newspaper will stimulate sap flow in early spring; old newspapers make an excellent garden mulch; and to help pollinate flowering shrubs simply rub your petticoat to build static electricity — lay on blossoms of one plant — shake onto another plant, it's called petticoat pollination! Jerry says to use bright tin can lids tied near your strawberry plants to keep the birds away, and for no-mess in watering house plants, just let a few ice cubes slowly melt into the soil. When you're vacationing, a plastic dry-cleaning bag loosely positioned over house plants with hangar frame will retain soil moisture for up to two weeks.

MARCH in this area is the month for springtime breezes. It blows hot and cold and sometimes freezes. Like one poet wrote, "It's the land of sandstorms and sand, where the hot winds blow just after a snow and a land that's a stranger to dry." Today it is fair, dry and windy. Tomorrow, it will be fairer, windy and drier and my forecast for the rest of the week will be the same, only drier, dustier, sandier and windier. But remember when you come to the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hang on. Come to think of it, that might be a good way to keep from blowing away.

Home-Made Ice Cream

Brittle Ice Cream is a scrumptious dessert that any store. Refreshing and not too rich, it's perfect for summer occasion.

Grind whole almonds in many stores, but you can do it yourself. Grind whole shelled almonds — or slivered or sliced almonds — a few at a time, in a food chopper with a fine blade. Use almonds that have not been blanched for deeper pronounced flavor, or blanched almonds for a smoother texture.

Almond Brittle Ice Cream
1/4 cup margarine, softened
1 quart vanilla ice cream
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup almonds
Melt margarine in heavy saucepan or skillet; stir in sugar and almonds until golden brown. Cool. Wrap foil around brittle and smash into a ball. Roll in margarine and almond extract; chill. Allow to harden slightly; stir in brittle mixture; freeze. Makes 1 quart.

Need Volunteers To Aid Newborn

Clubs and organizations seeking new opportunities for community service should place support of programs to cut America's shockingly high infant mortality rate high on their priority lists.

The United States ranks 16th among nations of the world in infant death rates, behind many countries with lower overall standards of living, according to Dr. Arthur J. Salisbury of the March of Dimes Foundation. Of every thousand babies born alive in this country, almost 20 never reach their first birthday; 70 percent of these deaths occur in the first month of life.

To help correct this situation, the National March of Dimes Foundation has launched a program to encourage better prenatal care and upgrade maternity and newborn services nationwide. Working towards this goal, the Foundation supports establishment of regional intensive care nurseries for newborn babies needing extra medical attention. Infants in trouble would be transferred from smaller hospitals to these regional centers. They would receive high-grade medical services and constant surveillance to maximize their chances of survival.

HUMIDITY AND HOUSEHOLD PLANTS

House plants depend on moist air for part of their water supply. For this reason, a home humidifier is helpful to house plants.

A humidifier operates by taking in relatively dry air, adding moisture to it, then expelling it into the room.

If you are choosing a new humidifier, some considerations to check for are the ease of cleaning filter and reservoir.

Is the noise level low and the fan speed adjustable? See if there is a water level indicator and a refill indicator light. Has the humidifier a top air discharge with adjustable louvers, and an automatic shutoff when water level is low?

SOME TIPS ON PRE-PLANT IRRIGATION

borings made by the Soil Conservation Service on many farms indicate of the the largest volume of irrigation water is needed to fill the plant root zone that will be required this year.

Plants such as cotton and grain sorghum secure their water needs from approximately 4 foot depth. Soil borings shows this depth to have much less than 50% of available water now in this zone. Soils hold 2" of water per foot of depth that is available to the plants and will need a pre-plant irrigation application of from 5" to 6" of water.

Another factor to be considered by the irrigation farmer is the available supply of irrigation water and the amount of time it requires to irrigate. The minimum amount of irrigation water needed to pre-plant irrigate a tract of land is three gallons per minute per acre. A producer with 160-acres of land to pre-plant irrigate would need a minimum of 450 to 500 gallons per minute to get this job done before planting season.

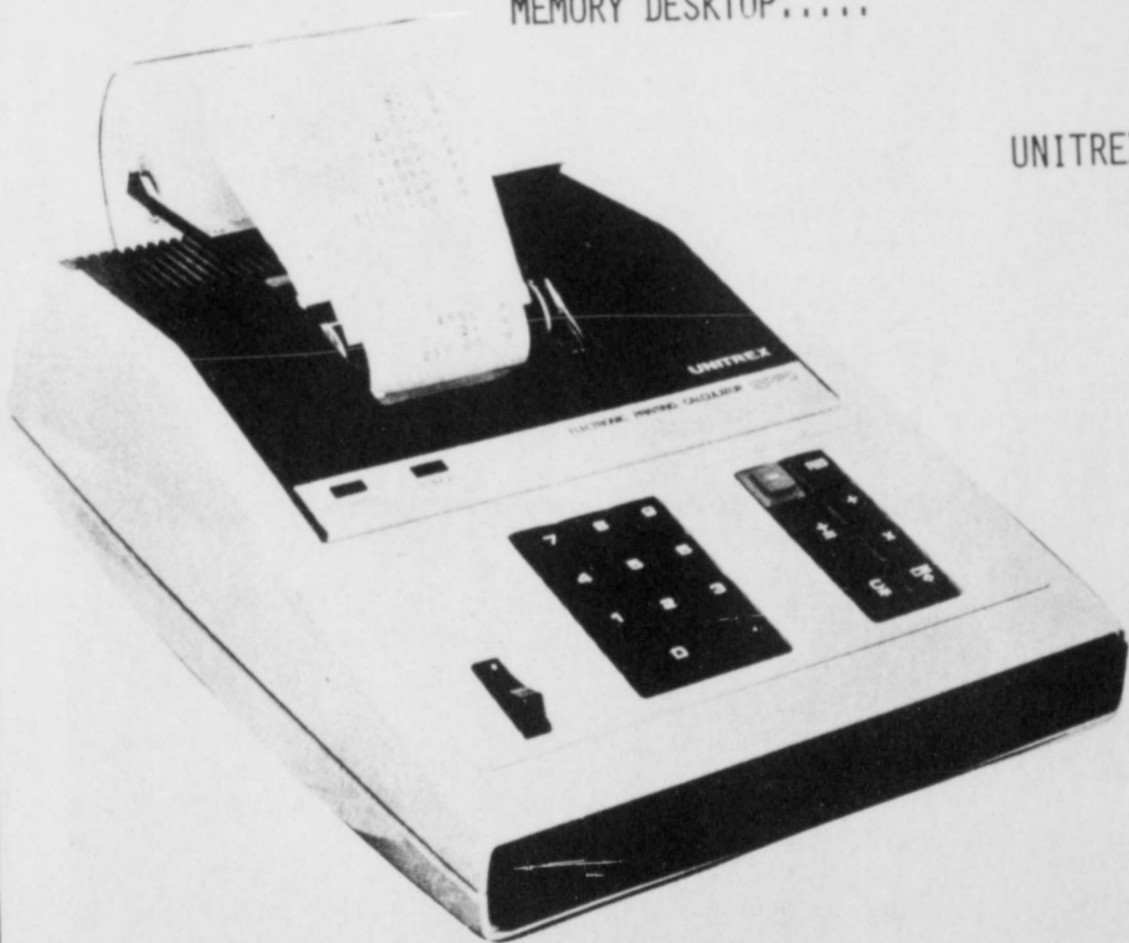

Last but by far the most important factor in pre-plant irrigation is the proper management of the water when the application is being made. Apply the proper amount of water evenly distributed throughout the plant root zone without waste.

Soil Conservation Service technicians working through local Soil and Water Conservation District will be happy to assist you in measuring the amount of water needed as well as the amount being applied.

COTTON TALKS

Tuesday, March 19, is the date set for the seventeenth annual membership meeting of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock-based High Plains cotton producer organization. The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. at Van's Catering Service on the Slaton Highway just east of Lubbock and is expected to adjourn by about 6 p.m., according to PCG President Ray Joe Riley of Hart.

General theme of the meeting will be "Markets for High Plains Cotton", with emphasis placed on what has been, is being and will be done to maximize the advantages of High Plains type cottons in open-end spinning mills and other new textile processing systems under development.

"High Plains cotton producers through FCG have the opportunity to greatly enhance their position in world fiber markets through aggressive research, marketing, and investment in a textile industry right here on the High Plains," Riley said.

The newest commercially proven yarn forming process is open-end spinning, and the opportunities open to High Plains cotton through use of this system will dominate the meeting, Riley announced. He adds, however, that "rapid progress is being made in the perfection of a twistless yarn forming process and a new wave motion loom, and these plus other technological developments still in the experimental stage also hold promise of using shorter staple, lower micronaire cottons more effectively than do systems presently in use."

Texas Tech's Textile Research Center Director James Parker will address the group on how producers through PCG can best utilize the Textile Research facilities at Tech in pursuit of markets for High Plains cotton in open-end spinning mills. TRC has two open-end spinning frames in operation, plus prototype machines for the new twistless or "Twilo" system.

A top-level staff member of Cotton Incorporated will outline CI's plans for product development and marketing efforts in connection with new systems. His address will be entitled "Making Cotton the Optimum Fiber for the Textile World of the Future." Cotton Incorporated is the national cotton producer organization supported by "dollar-a-bale" grower contributions supplemented by federal funds. Cotton Incorporated headquarters are in New York "where textile

FLOYDADA HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT COUNCIL REPORT

(By Jimmie Kay Sales)
The meeting was called to order by president, Marc Smitherman, Jr. representative, Mike Ramsey, led in prayer. Secretary, Darla Milton called the roll.

The council newspaper drive was a success. Due to various complications it took the deliverers five hours to get the 7000 lbs. of newspapers to Lubbock — from Floydada. But it was worth the trouble, as the council made $48.60 from the drive. The council wishes to extend special thanks to Bill Cagle for use of his barn to store the paper; to Beth Stovall, Shelly Armstrong, Blair Davis, Peter McGoldrick, Willis Bunch and Holly Hartsel for their help in collecting the papers; and to everyone who donated papers.

Tuesday, a group of students from FHS will participate in a Student Exchange Program, where a group of students from one school visit another school all day. Those going to Tulia from FHS will be Marc Smitherman, Blair Davis, Peter McGoldrick, Shelly Armstrong, Kathy Hinsley and BraVada Garrett.

Ray Foster, Jr. representative received a $10.37 gift certificate from the Academic National Book Fair Program, which he donated to the council, who in turn donated it to Mrs. Patterson, librarian of FHS.

April 17, at 2:30 p.m., there will be an assembly, open to the public given by a group from Lubbock Christian College, called "Hard Travelers".

 March is here and came in like a lion; I guess if the old saying is right, out like a lamb. Our March birthdays are: Jose Zambrano, 3-17, Simplicio Leal 3-22, and Maggie Payne 3-8, and one employee birthday, Nancy Tucker, 3-6. Happy Birthday to all of you.

The excitement here this last week was the Cub Scout Banquet. The boys had invited all our residents. Those going were Mrs. Nannie Hill, Mrs. Myrtle Burke, Mrs. Elsie Woodall, Jack Harris, Mrs. Johnnie Chaney, Joe Zambrano, Lewis Roberts, Mrs. Jennie Fisher, and Mrs. Lavona Holladay, Director of Nurses. Others had planned on going but colds kept them at home. All those who went had a fabulous time. Said everyone was so nice to them and made sure they had a great time. The cake sale was something else. Our residents really found it exciting. Thanks to Wilbur Mize, James Ferguson, Paul Reece, and Hank Winters for the cakes they bought and gave us. With every bite that was eaten there was another telling about the cake sale and the fun that was had. Soon all of us who couldn't go felt we had been part of the joy too.

Mrs. Mary Pyle of Earth took her mother, Mrs. Elsie Woodall, to visit Mrs. Ellie Hays of Lockney. Mrs. Woodall and Mrs. Hays are sisters. Mrs. Mary Carwile was so very happy to see her grandson, M. L. Carwile of Amarillo get to come down for a visit. It was a great day for her. Also Mrs. Wigington's great-granddaughter of Lubbock got here and Mrs. Wigington is still on cloud nine somewhere. That was the out-of-town company she had been expecting. Donal Wigington and family called from Albuquerque, New Mexico which was a real joy for Mrs. Wigington.

Visiting with Mrs. Joveta Austin this weekend was Otho Smith of Paducah. Also Mrs. Austin's children, Neoma and Jewel Leslie of Paducah and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon and sons of Quitaque. Dub Hodge of Lubbock was down visiting his father-in-law, Mrs. Ribby over the weekend. Shorty Lester was in visiting his Mom, Bettie Lester. Mrs. Mattie Hamilton has been feeling bad and her family have been coming to see her from as far as Sunnyville, Calif., Hooks, Texas, and Arlington, Texas. Some of her family have been here everyday with her, we are very thankful that she is doing better. Frances Graves is still out recovering from surgery. We sure miss her and hope she continues to get well.

This has been a very good time for us. We were glad to welcome Brenda Dennis of Lockney to the staff. Mrs. Dennis and her husband, Darryl have one son, Cody. Mr. Dennis is presently engaged in farming.

All of us were happy to welcome Betty Green of Plainview back over; we've been short on LVN's and she's been helping out. Mrs. Green has helped out before and we're always glad to see her back.

Seems like everyone here at the Center has had some of their family visiting. I wish I had all the names. Mrs. Zanbrano had children visiting from Oregon. Our residents do enjoy all the many visitors, both families and friends, the more the better. We have all been sad and glad for Mrs. Linnie Marshall - sad that she was leaving and glad she would be in Amarillo with her family. We will miss her around here with her sweet ways and smiling face. Mrs. Jennie Fisher has gone home with her brother, Harvey Peek of Lockney. We are already missing her friendly and happy nature and her cheerful ways. But we know both ladies will enjoy being closer to their loved ones.

The devotionals have been very good; seems each week it's just what we were needing to hear. We all love the singing but there's a few like me who never want to stop! We surely thank all who come to share with us in these daily devotionals. Well, what else can I say about activities except maybe work, work, and work! And perhaps talk, talk, and talk! It's great. Till next time...

Highway Maintenance Man Mighty Important

From winter in Grande Valley snow in the backbone of highway Department maintenance men with no check or barometer to show how worn out bridges, trees and trees, clearing and removing animals off roads to the point of neither gloom of men from eyes open and ears due to snow and day maintenance men were not paid for travel to a job site. When there, they worked until the normal workday ended and then traveled home on their own time. Legislature recognized the inequity of this pay system so today, by law, maintenance men receive portal-to-portal pay — that is, their time is calculated from their point of departure to job site to maintenance warehouse when day is done.

The Highway Department's District 5 Office, located at Lubbock, employs 381 persons to staff 18 maintenance sections throughout its seventeen-county jurisdiction.

Some $5.9 million is spent annually to maintain the District's 4700 miles of roads. Economically, road maintenance is a big business asset to the communities the District serves.

James W. King, District Public Affairs Officer, said, "We buy in each community where a maintenance section is located such items as repair parts, fuel, oil, grease, sand, gravel and utilities."

"District wide, our annual fuel and oil expenditures are approximately $168 thousand. Utilities cost around $95 thousand. In addition, when one considers the annual payroll of a maintenance section in a community, that's a pretty good industry for a small — or large — town."

"We spend approximately $3 million annually for maintenance salaries. Consider that there are 25 Districts in the State with a total of 274 maintenance sections and you have got a lot of money flowing into a lot of communities," said King.

Statewide — the Highway Department employs nine thousand persons in maintenance activities to service the State's 68,435 miles of roads. Some $129 million for the 1973-74 fiscal year has been set aside for maintenance purposes.

Based on a summary statement for the fiscal year 1972-73, the Highway Department spent $52 million on regular maintenance. This includes ordinary repair work to shoulders, side approaches, roadside drainage and minor structures.

Also, $58 million was spent for traffic services. Examples include litter pickup, mowing, assistance to traffic in emergencies due to inclement weather and the maintenance of comfort stations and rest areas.

with Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Kate Daniels and others. They also visited Mrs. H.M. Thomas at her home.

Mrs. Frank Pratt and Mrs. Viola Brown attended the funeral Friday morning at Crosbyton for Walter Crawford.

Monte Williams returned home this morning from Houston where he had been a week at the stockshow. He won 15th place on his calf.

Joe Williams spent Friday night with Danny Tinny.

Sunday afternoon Ricky Nichols visited Joe Williams and they went horseback riding in the Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Watson and Deanna and Bill Moore went to Matador Sunday and helped their grandmother, Mrs. W.T. Moore celebrate her 67th birthday.

Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop and Greg went to Lubbock and visited their son, Mike and Scott Simpson, roommates at Tech. All went out for supper.

Mrs. Edmond Brown and her sons, Rex and Scott spent last week in Houston where the boys showed their lambs at the stock show. They won two 2nd places and one third place.

Upkeep of bridges and other structures over 20 feet long cost the department $2 million. Cost of maintenance operations and materials are expected to continually increase.

"These are troubled times for highway maintenance people. Scarcity of materials and resulting delays in delivery make maintenance work hard to plan and execute efficiently, so work is interrupted and delayed," said King.

"Our people literally are caught in a two-way squeeze due to the energy crisis. The Highway Department's source of income for maintenance, as well as construction, is derived from fuel taxes."

"With the shortage of fuels, energy experts expect decreased consumption and a corresponding drop in motor fuel tax revenues for highway construction and maintenance. However, there are no guidelines to foretell the effect of 'gasless Sundays,' emphasis on smaller vehicles and the probable increase in urban driving as rural recreational travel declines."

"So the final effect on Highway Department revenues still is uncertain," the public affairs officer said.

This attitude is also reflected by some Members of Congress, particularly in the U.S. Senate. It is disturbing that there should even be considerations for the reversal of our nine year policy, and particularly at the time of negotiations to yield sovereignty over the Panama Canal to another regime hostile to the United States. Q. reveal that 7.7 of former brush cas is being managed for of wildlife and mas said. "Most nsists of leaving fully designed h provide food and cover for wildlife. Alternating strips are cleared or thinned so choice forage plants can thrive without undue competition from the brush for sunlight and moisture." Thomas said the study does not cover thousands of acres of brush land which is being left undisturbed specifically for the benefit of wildlife. ny brushy areas have become so thick that the woody plants have crowded out the choice forage plants preferred by livestock, deer, game birds, song birds, and other wildlife. Such areas often need reseeding after brush control work. Thomas explained that opening up some areas while leaving adjoining land in brush actually improves wildlife habitat. "Many species of wildlife are what biologists call edge animals," Thomas pointed out.

"That is, they prefer to feed on woody plants in the brush and on forbs, native legumes, grasses, and other plants in open areas along the edge of trees and brush. When danger threatens, they escape to the protective cover nearby. Leaving strips of woody plants near open areas increases the amount of edge available to wildlife." Thomas said his study revealed that 26,000 land users in Texas are managing brush for both wildlife and livestock. "This demonstrates the genuine concern farmers and ranchers in this state have for environmental values," Thomas said. "Most wildlife is produced on privately-owned lands. Wildlife enthusiasts, sportsmen, and others interested in maintaining large numbers of wildlife owe these producers a deep debt of gratitude." SCS biologists and range conservationists in Texas developed the new brush pattern technique in the mid 1960's which is not proving so popular with livestock producers. Through its plant materials center at Knox City, SCS is also evaluating and putting into use native legumes, forbs, and other plants relished by wildlife as well as livestock. Such plants are in strong demand for inclusion in range seeding mixtures. GOOD ONIONS FORECAST

AUSTIN--"Our onions are the sweetest in the country. You can eat 'em like an apple," reports a fan of South Texas spring onions, which will be on their way to market soon. Though apple lovers might disagree with the comparison, Texas onions do have a reputation for sweetness. This year's crop is expected to be high in quality, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. White added that it is too early to determine onion tonnage, but it is expected to be down slightly from last year when 14,900 acres were harvested.

Letter To The Editor

Floydada, Texas
February 20, 1974

Mr. Wendell Tooley, Editor,
THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

Sir: While this is intended (short term) as a local 'letter to the editor,' I would hope that (long term) it later results in considerable national publicity, perhaps resulting from photographs which I am suggesting that you ask one of your staff photographers to come out to my house and snap for your paper along with this letter, as well as for your possible use in releasing the same photos to Associated Press wires.

Now, I happen to be one of those 'special friends' of our many homeless, always-hungry, half-wild, domesticated and undomesticated animals, birds — which cannot speak for themselves and who need help desperately. I observed soon after coming here that Floydada is no different from other surrounding towns and that, in fact, there exists an exceptional huge explosion of unwanted homeless pets here to an extent that worried City Fathers were contemplating hiring an animal warden to go about our city and shoot down wandering dogs, cats to get rid of the situation; while I could understand and sympathize with their problem, I could hardly agree in my mind to such a desperate solution: even most of the City Fathers have pets, love them and you do not kill the things you love except as a last resort. Such is like 'whitewashing' or, just sweeping dirt under the rug to be rid of our true responsibilities. It is not an animal's fault if its owner had to abandon it when said owner was forced to go to a rest home, hospital, move without it or was killed in an auto accident. And so, I had been arguing for some time in my writings that it is the responsibility of all pet owners to see after their own in the form of taxation, using the taxes to provide havens for such homeless ones, the same as much of our taxes are utilized to aid humans. I have further argued that since our government (which is supposed to be the people) is at least partially responsible for this ridiculous inflationary spiral (to an extent that a T-bone steak lately costs $5 up in cafes), it is not altogether pet owners' fault that they are permitting their former cats and dogs to run wild and hungry, especially poor people: they can barely feed their families, much less animals. Also, I've felt that there is not much more of an animal 'explosion' presently than there was in the old days and that if every taxpayer in America was compelled to pay only $1 annually for animal care, our government could use said monies to establish 'animal orphanages' to care for every animal which is able to reproduce and the reproductions, too, as well as hire experts to find a definite need for the animals, such as teaching them to lead the blind wholesale, go on rat-infested expeditions inside heavily ravaged areas and — possibly utilizing cats' and dogs' eyes (corneas) to make blind humans see again.

Anyhow, I soon decided after moving here and observing how many of our pets are silently crying for help, that I would personally do something. I was poor and could not do what one man recently did; (George Whittell, California multi-millionaire miner, who lately willed $47,000,000 of his $101,000,000 estate to animals and birds) but, because I was unmarried and all my relations were independent, I deeded my property here to The Lubbock Humane Society (effective on my death) in hopes it would be used to materially aid animals within the area. (There existed no branch Society in Floydada and when I first investigated the possibility of deeding my place to Floydada City, I was advised by a lawyer in the area that, because Directors change over the years and due to his feeling that some such might not be depended upon to use the money derived from my property as per my specific aim, I should deed the property to an already established Humane Society like Lubbock's, which might later even benefit animals in towns surrounding, as well as their own.)

In the meantime, I constructed a 'lean-to dog & cat house' at the back of my home, with holes to crawl inside a warm place, commenced putting food there, not only for my own pets, but for 'those wild ones' which continually prowled about. Out front, I constructed a sort of bird haven, encouraged our bluejays and sparrows to come there by scattering waste milo about which granaries permitted me to garner from waste around their loading docks.

Soon, twenty or more dogs and cats, mostly homeless, commenced beating a path to this 'haven' and about five hundred birds from around town also congregated at 'their feeding spot', made themselves at home. For the past few months, I've spent $10-$20 weekly, just furnishing animal food inside these wild ones' 'haven' — which somehow has always managed to 'disappear' somewhere...

The point I would make is that this — a one-man local project, — is 'small potatoes' compared with what I would like to do but which is, I feel, on the right track, if just about every pet lover in America would put himself out a wee bit, — do more than his true share. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link and if organized groups spend millions to plant beautiful trees, build orphanages for humans, send money by the barrel to save souls across the seas, — but fail to feed and see to our very own domesticated pets which roam wildly, — we're a weak nation, full of weakly Christians, who deserve to be eventually taken over by the commies, according to blueprint.

Because I recently became suspicious of the Lubbock Humane Society's Directors (whom I discovered are not even doing for homeless animals there what I felt they should, I have recently decided that I made a mistake, giving them a right to 'free-wheel' my life savings at my death and so, I have employed a lawyer who thinks he can show fraudulent intent upon the Directors' part, get repossession. Hence, I would advise (after this mistake which I felt I made in good faith) that no one ever give any charitable institution anything without drawing up iron-clad specifications regarding one's true wishes as to the gift's disposal.

Meantime, (as per one of my published poems) I am being as true to my little local dogs, cats, birds as a friend could be while I'm yet amongst them, permitting them the privilege of 'beating crooked paths from across town to their 'haven'.' As Robert Burns once sang, after uncovering a mouse in the cold Scottish fields: 'I guess and fear' (what the morrow will bring to man and beastie).

But, until then, — we local needy ones shall eat!
Sincerely,
Gerald Street

Floydada Young Farmers

Dinner March 11

Everyone is reminded of the Floydada Young Farmers dinner at King's Restaurant in Floydada Monday night. It will begin at 7:30 and Craig Edwards extends an invitation to everyone to attend.

ANIMAL LOVER — Gerald Street estimates about 300 birds come to his yard every day to feed and water. In the top photo he knocks some ice off the top of a watering pan on a recent cold morning. The bottom picture shows how homeless cats and dogs have literally "beat a path" — several paths, indeed, to a shelter behind his house, where they always can find food.

"Big Textile Push in Texas" is the title of an article in the February issue of America's Textiles Reporter-Bulletin "which ties in perfectly with the theme of our upcoming annual meeting," notes Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The "big push" is exactly what we have in mind on the High Plains, Johnson said, "and while the move is already underway we expect it to gain additional momentum with the full airing of the area's textile potential at our annual meeting on March 19." The meeting is to be held at Van's Catering Service just East of Lubbock on the Slaton Highway. The program is built around the creation of new markets for High Plains cotton, primarily in open-end spinning mills both on the High Plains and elsewhere.

The Reporter-Bulletin article points out "...an influx of textile mills, to locate cheek by jowl with the sprawling cotton fields, would provide encouragement and solidity to the cotton growing community as well as some very real advantages to the mills themselves." It goes on to say that Texas growers, particularly in the High Plains area around Lubbock, have been most anxious to develop additional end uses for the particular type cotton that flourishes in the High Plains.

Recent research information has found that High Plains low micronaire cottons produce a stronger more uniform yarn when processed by open-end spinning than when processed by conventional ring spinning, and the yarn from High Plains cotton is said to be especially suitable in denim production.

In agreement with what PCG has been saying all along, the textile magazine article stated "Confirmation of these findings could open the door to huge new markets for High Plains cotton in coming years."

Market demand for denim fabric for use in jeans is expected to continue strong both in the U.S. and abroad for some time to come. Textile analysts have projected there will be a 42 percent growth in the sales of jeans and jeans-cut trousers between 1971 and 1977.

One textile mill using open-end machinery, Southwest Textiles, is already in operation at Abernathy, and two other such mills are in advanced planning stages.

The Reporter-Bulletin article singled out labor availability, proximity of suitable raw materials, availability of less expensive natural gas, the Texas Right to Work Law, and nominally priced real estate and tax concessions from local governmental authorities as a few of the assets which fly kites safely...

AWAY FROM POWERLINES

- The kite flying season is now in full swing. Sure it's lots of fun, but kite flying is not as safe as it looks. A kite string can be a deadly conductor of electric current if it touches power line. If a kite should catch on a power line, let go at once. Don't pull!
- And, you should always use dry, cotton string — never use wire or metallic string. Don't use metal in the construction of your kite, either. Metal conducts electricity and can be dangerous.
- You should also pick a spot away from busy roads and highways.
- For safety's sake, fly kites only in the wide open spaces, safely away from power lines and highways.
