TED ALLEN
Ted Allen Announces Candidacy For Commissioner's Office

Ted Allen this week authorized The Hesperian to announce that he will seek the office of Commissioner of Precinct 4, subject to the May Democratic Primary.

In his announcement he states: "I feel that I am qualified for the Commissioner's office, as I have done nothing except serve the people of Floyd County and surrounding area since 1936. Either by being in the automobile or garage business, working on and servicing automobiles and equipment.

I would do my best to keep on serving to the best of my ability. I feel that this is important, plus the fact that I should and would do my best to please the people I serve, be as conservative and fair as possible to everyone. I would do my best, and cooperate with the Commissioners' Court for the betterment of Precinct 4, as well as Floyd County.

I would appreciate your vote and influence in the May election."

Interested young people may obtain an official entry blank from their school or the offices of Lighthouse Electric

Lubbock Fruit Trees Hit, So Floyd Can Expect The Same!

Although it is not known how many fruit trees were in full bloom when cold weather hit this week, the following report from Lubbock indicates the freeze damage was considerable:

Temperatures which sagged beneath the freezing mark for several hours Thursday left most of the area's budding vegetation severely damaged, according to the National Weather Cooperative. The deadline for submitting entries will be March 29, said Higginbotham.

Contest winners will travel by chartered bus to Washington, D.C., where they will spend four days visiting places of interest.

Service at Lubbock Regional Airport. Oliver H. Newton, agricultural meteorologist for the NWS at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Service here, said a survey of fruit trees in the Lubbock area Thursday indicated a maximum of three percent of the fruit blooms survived the prolonged freeze. The NWS recorded a low of 29 degrees at 9 a.m.

SMALL FRUIT KILLED

"Those trees that had bloomed out and started forming small fruit in the bloom were essentially all killed," Newton said. Further studies will be made to determine the full extent of the damage.

Rainfall recorded by the NWS from the cold blast was .23 inch, bringing the year's total to 1.65 inch.

Forecasters said another mass of cold air pushing through Nebraska Thursday was expected to reach the Texas Panhandle late Friday, bringing a slight cooling of temperatures. Saturday's high is forecast for the upper 50's with no chance for precipitation through at least Sunday.

Skies will remain partly cloudy through Saturday across the state as southerly winds return, bringing a warming trend to make spring's official arrival Wednesday more evident.

Lynn Becker Signs With ACC

Lynn Becker, a two-way all-state end for Floydada, has signed a football agreement with Abilene Christian College, Wally Bullington, ACC athletic director and head football coach, said.

Becker, 6-3, 185 pounds, is the ninth new player to sign with the 1973 Lone Star Conference and NAIA division one national champs.

Becker will be played at both tight end and defensive end at the start of fall drills before concentrating on one position.

"We think a boy who has played both ways and earned this kind of recognition both ways is a very good prospect," Bullington said. "He has the frame to grow to become a college-size player. He could be a big kid."

Becker earned two football letters for coach L. G. Wilson, former ACC football star, and three track letters. He helped his team to the District 4-AA title (7-4 record) with 25 receptions for 499 yards and three touchdowns and 115 tackles, two blocked punts and six quarterback sacks.

He was captain, all district both ways, all-South Plains on offense and all-state both ways as selected by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

He owns best track marks of 130-0 in the discus and 52-0 in the quarter.

Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Becker, Route 1, Floydada, plans to study agriculture at Abilene Christian.

Style Show Held By 34 Club

The 1934 Study Club met in the home of Mrs. A. L. Wylie, Jr. Tuesday night for program on Fine Arts. Mrs. Floyd Lawson, president, led the Club Collect, and roll call was answered by each member telling of a new or old fashion fad.

In the business session the date of the proposed garage sale was changed to April 26 and 27, and is to be held in the A. L. Wylie, Jr. garage. Mrs. William Bertrand was named as captain of the Friday work team, and Mrs. Garland Foster the captain of the Saturday work team.

"Middle age is when you begin to wonder who put the quicksand into the hour glass of time", thus did the club spring style show begin, narrated by Mrs. Orval Newberry. Models wearing their own creations were Mrs. Newberry, in a 3-pc. pastel blue pantsuit, with a beige shell; Mrs. Foster in a 3-pc. black and white ensemble of a sleeveless long vest, skirt, and blouse; Mrs. J. S. Hale, Jr. in a 2-pc. dress of white polyester lace, featuring a flared skirt; Mrs. L. B. Stewart, Jr. who modeled a sleeveless vest and skirt of red and white print, topped with a red blouse, the buttons on the skirt being of the same material as the blouse; Mrs. Lawson showed a 3-pc. coral plaid suit, with a solid coral blouse; Mrs. Kyle Glover modeled a tan and beige 2 pc. suit, accented with a long sleeve white blouse; Mrs. Dennis Dempsey's ensemble was a polyester knit dress, topped with an unlined coat, with split side seams; Mrs. Bertrand excited the group with the showing of a mint and white printed polyester dress, trimmed in white, with a hand-made pleated skirt; Mrs. Wilson Bond wore an electric blue and grey creation. The dress skirt and sleeveless long vest were of blue and grey printed polyester knit, with the dress top of a coordinated solid blue; Mrs. Leon Ferguson modeled a lovely navy blue and white check dacon dress, accented with a narrow red belt, red top stitching on the dress front and sleeves, and red buttons on the deep sleeve cuffs; Mrs. Allen Bingham displayed a tunic and beach cover-up of a floral print in perma-press poplin, accented with burnt orange ball fringe, and a self-tie belt; and Mrs. Wylie showed a pink beach topper to be worn over bathing suits. Each model carried or wore appropriate accessories which accented each costume.

Mrs. R. G. Dunlap gave out brochures on Cotton, "Button Talk", and Rib Trim. She showed slides from the Celanese Company in New York, showing spring's new fashions and fabrics, which stressed, as Mrs. Dunlap said, buttons, buttons, and more buttons. Drop sleeves, waist lines, big collars, small close fitting hats, and sling back shoes were some of the changes she spoke of, with the statement that the platform shoes were out, and that shoes would be more practical. Pantsuits are still in, with pant silhouette variations from slim to full.

Mrs. Wylie served cake and coffee to the following members: Mmes. M. J. McNeill, J. P. ## What One Person Can Do

Susan Bellinger, Social Worker. If people didn't have problems, there would be no need for social workers. Susan Bellinger of New York knows this. Although her record of accomplishment as a social worker is impressive, she admits: "It can be awfully frustrating. Sometimes I feel I'm just giving out Band-Aids."

Ms. Bellinger, 34, grew up in Harlem and is no stranger to city life. Working in a small clinic that serves up to 300 people a month, her goal is "to help people see that they have some jurisdiction over their own lives."

One family she helped consisted of an overwhelmed mother with seven children, all in some degree retarded. Ms. Bellinger got the most deprived child into a therapy group and obtained a wheelchair for his crippled 16-year-old sister. The children are now eating solid food for the first time.

Another client was a widow whose health had been gravely impaired by heavy drinking. Several of her children had been arrested for various offenses. Susan Bellinger coordinated 13 agencies to salvage this "multi-problem family."

The mother's life was saved by treatment for her liver condition. She stopped drinking. Those children with crime symptoms were placed in special homes, and the oldest daughter was trained to help care for the younger ones. The mother secured a part-time job which supplemented income and greatly improved the woman's feelings about herself.

Susan Bellinger has also aided seven welfare recip-

Gas In A Can Is Dynamite

Trying to beat the fuel shortage by storing gasoline anywhere besides the fuel tank of an automobile is playing with dynamite, the Texas Safety Association warns.

Whatever "insurance" against running out of gas is gained by storing gasoline in the trunk of a car or around a house is worthless in comparison with the extreme hazard such practices present, according to TSA.

Noting that State Fire Marshall Charles Meadows warns strongly against transporting gasoline even in so-called "safety cans," TSA points out that the explosive power of one gallon of gasoline can be compared to the explosive force of 14 sticks of dynamite.

Gasoline vapors expand to fill the available space in which they are confined. The expansion can split the seams of an unvented can or plastic container and cause vapor leakage from a vented safety can. Sparks from a light switch, car ignition or a short in tail light or brake light circuits will then trigger an explosion.

The home garage is one of the worst places to store gasoline. It provides the kind of enclosure where fumes can collect, ready to explode whenever a stray spark is introduced—the kind of spark that could easily result from starting an automobile engine.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Comes To The Defense Of Congress
In Its Problems With A Pay Raise

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes to the defense of Congress this week, perhaps.

Dear editor:
According to the polls, members of Congress are held in rather low esteem these days, only 26 percent of the people saying they approve of them, although it is well to keep in mind that another poll shows that about 35 percent of the people don't even know who their Congressman or Senator is, meaning I guess you don't have to know a politician to dislike him.

Nonetheless, members of Congress do have a hard job and I'd like to point out a recent example.

Under a new idea developed awhile back, members no longer are put in the awkward position of having to vote themselves a raise. A commission decides if a raise is in order and, if the President approves, the raise is automatic, unless the members vote it down. What could be neater than getting a raise and being able to go back home and tell the voters you didn't vote for it?

Well, such a situation arose last week. A raise from $42,500 a year to $47,700 was approved, with a second raise running, the salary up to $52,800 year after next. No vote necessary, just sit tight and it'd be automatic.

What's so hard about that, you might ask. Nothing, if the newspapers would leave Congress alone. But newspapers started pointing out that by not voting to stop the raise, Congress actually was voting to get it. People who could remember who their Congressman was started watching to see what he'd do. Congress started feeling itchy. It's no easy job deciding between a big raise and a mad voter, this close to income tax paying time and an election coming up in the Fall.

By a 3 to 1 vote, the pay raise was declined in the Senate and a vote never got to the House. Members aren't so dumb. They know the first rule of office is to stay there.

Personally, I think they ought to have the raise. You ever tried to get by on $42,500 a year and still keep a clear head for the critical problems facing this nation?

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

J. D. Vincent, comptroller for the Lockney Cooperatives, has been in Lockney since May, 1973. He came here from Plainview, where he was office manager for Cloverlake Dairy. Originally from Seymour, he is a graduate of Bomarton High School near Seymour.

He was married in January 1944, and in September 1944 joined the Armed Services and spent three years in the 20th Air Force.

Vincent and his wife Jean have two children at home: Christy, 15, a high-school freshman, and Mark, 13, a sixth-grader; and two married daughters, Barbara Hunter, who lives in Arlington, and Cindy Miller, who lives in Lubbock and is a Texas Tech senior.

Vincent is currently helping set up Lockney Cooperatives' new computer program. The Co ops are switching to a fully-computerized system for billing, payrolls, inventory and control, and should be 100 percent on computer within six months, Vincent says. The computer program should help the Cooperatives to offer better service to their patrons, according to Vincent.

Governor Wants Texans To Vacation In Texas

Governor Dolph Briscoe announced today he is inaugurating a comprehensive plan to encourage Texans to take fuel-saving vacations within the State this year.

"Vacationing in Texas will not only provide Texans with the opportunity to see some beautiful country while conserving fuel, but it will help to protect the jobs of the 600,000 Texans employed in this $2.2 billion industry," the Governor said.

"In Texas we aim to save energy — to save jobs. Tourism is one of the industries most sensitive to the gasoline shortage, and by encouraging fuel saving vacations within Texas we will help to preserve the livelihoods of those who serve the traveling public, and to protect the nearly $4 billion investment that the private sector has in tourist-serving facilities in Texas," Governor Briscoe added.

"At a time when conserving fuel is so important, I want to remind all Texans of the many fine vacation opportunities that abound throughout our State." The Governor pointed out that "Texans can visit mountains, Gulf beaches, forests, lakes, deserts and a tropical valley without leaving the boundaries of our State."

The Governor said the

National Foster Children Week Coming

Foster parents are a group of earnest people who are engaged in the supreme task of bringing up other people's children. Caring for foster children is a big responsibility.

March 31 through April 6 marks the nationwide observance of National Action for Foster Children Week. The Hale County Child Welfare Unit in Plainview has the responsibility for the foster child's wellbeing in Hale, Floyd and Motley Counties but foster parents have a large share in this responsibility through their day-by-day care of the foster child. Foster care is unique, partly because it can be accomplished only when it can be shared on a teamwork basis; with the foster parents being vital members of this team. The Hale County Child Welfare Unit is responsible for Floyd County and in the past year, five children from Floyd County have been placed in foster care. There is one licensed home in Floyd County but the need for more is great.

seventeen years of age. In order to have a foster child in your home, it is necessary for a study of the home to be made and a license issued for you to provide foster care for a foster child. An application, housing space, sanitation and fire inspections, general physicals and tuberculosis and VDRL test is required of all prospective foster parents. Parents must be between the ages of 21 and 70 and when they receive a child after being licensed, they are paid $2.50 a day for board and lodging; other needs of the child are provided by the welfare unit, the Medicaid program and the Health Unit.

Taking a child into your home, who is in need of affection and a stable family life situation, can be a very satisfying and rewarding experience for you and your family. Those who would like to know more about being a foster parent or who would like to ask questions should contact the Hale County Child Welfare Unit, 3rd Floor Courthouse, Plainview, Texas, or phone 293-1309.

Child And Disabled Expenses Can

PLAINVIEW - Plainview area taxpayers may reduce their taxes through liberalized federal income tax deductions for the care of children and disabled spouses or dependents, Walter Kelly, Administrative Officer for the Plainview area, said today.

Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes of $18,000 or less may be able to deduct as much as $400 a month for household and dependent care expenses. Those who earn more than $18,000 a year must reduce the deduction 50 cents for each dollar over $18,000, Perry said.

To qualify for this deduction, according to Perry, taxpayers must be employed, must provide more than half the cost of maintaining a household for a dependent under 15 or disabled spouse or dependent of any age, and must make the payments to persons other than relatives or dependents.

Perry pointed out that this deduction may include household expenses paid for the usual services of a housekeeper, maid, or cook.

Additionally, he said, expenses performed outside the home for nursery school or day care for dependents under 15 may be included as part of the deduction if they are necessary to enable the taxpayers to work. However, he added, these expenses are limited to $200 a month for one dependent, $300 for two dependents and $400 for three or more. According to the law, such expenses cannot include educational costs for a child in the first or higher grades.

Mr. Perry also said that deductions for care of disabled dependents over 15 years of age must be reduced by the amount that the dependent's adjusted gross income and any nontaxable disability payments exceed $750. The expenses paid for the care of anonymous witnessed a similar incident in Plainview Tuesday morning. But instead of "Streaking", they viewed a young lady "Stripping."

He said, "The girl with the baby got into a parked car, the other began to take off her blouse. Not paying much attention to preliminaries I turned around and looked the opposite direction. As I looked in her direction once again, I found myself staring square into the face of a "stark naked lady," said the observer. Her clothes were laying on the sidewalk, he noted.

"As I called to another person to come see, the strip-tease artist began running to the car where the other lady was waiting. I hollered at her, while she was making a dash for cover and told her she had dropped some of her threads. She casually walked over and picked them up then another quick dash to the car and they were gone," the witness exclaimed.

Asked several times by inquisitive persons, if she removed everything, the witness was reported to have said "Everything, Everything, Everything!"

Area Assured Fertilizer Distribution

W. D. Beasley, president of the legally ensnared Farmers National Chemical, Inc., of Plainview, said Thursday 100 percent of his firm's anhydrous ammonia production will go to West Texas fertilizer dealers.

The action comes after Tuesday's action in U.S. District Court in Lubbock in which Judge Halbert O. Woodward set aside a bankruptcy court ruling by referee Frank R. Murray.

Murray's ruling said the firm, which sought financial shelter in bankruptcy court until it becomes solvent again, must channel 35 percent of its production to an out-of-state holding company which claims 50 percent of the firm's stock.

CROP CRISIS FACED
The Avalanche Journal earlier reported that nearly all of the Cincinnati-based firm's 35 percent quota was taken by rail cars to out-of-state points. The bankruptcy court agreement left many South Plains farmers without enough nitrogen fertilizer to plant their grain sorghum crops.

And, due to a nationwide nitrogen fertilizer shortage, farmers were unable to find alternate sources of fertilizer.

In a prepared statement, Beasley said, "... acting as receiver in Chapter 11 proceedings in the bankruptcy case of Farmers National Chemical, Inc., of Plainview, acting under what I consider to be the authority of the U.S. District judge's order of March 18, I will allocate all production of the Plainview plant to West Texas dealers who have placed orders with me." A spokesman for the Ohio holding company said his firm favors long-term "take-or-pay" contracts with "large established companies" rather than agreements with local dealers.

Beasley, president of the firm and one of its three board members, said the 100 percent allocation to the local area "certainly is going to improve the situation". He also indicated the production capability of the $5 million anhydrous ammonia plant "is increasing daily."

Lubbock attorney Carroll Cobb, representing Foster Fertilizer Inc. of Lubbock and Castro County Grain Co. of Dimmitt, asked Judge Woodward to rule only on the bankruptcy court's jurisdiction to enforce the 65-35 production agreement and the legality of contracts made by the company.

The firm, however, remains under the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court with regard to its financial situation, officials said.

A move by N-Ren Corp., the Cincinnati holding company, to pull the company out of bankruptcy court touched off a power struggle for control of the company and ultimately, control of its production.

Meanwhile, Murray said an 11 a.m. hearing today to determine if Farmers National will be released from bankruptcy court has been delayed for another 30 to 90 days. The motion to dismiss the firm from bankruptcy court originally was presented Feb. 4.

Objections to dismissal of the firm from bankruptcy court were lodged by the two South Plains fertilizer dealers and a Holland equipment manufacturer.

Do You Have A Late Blooming Apricot

LUBBOCK — The locations of late blooming apricot trees on the South Plains are being sought by a Texas Tech University horticulturist whose goal is to develop trees which will produce five out of six years. If anyone on the South Plains has an apricot tree that still has 25 per cent or more of its blossoms, Dr.

George Elle is interested. He asks that these owners write him in care of the Department of Agronomy, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409.

Elle will get in touch with the owners at a later date to obtain bud wood which will be evaluated in Texas Tech orchards.

"I have heard of people in the area who have trees which make crops five out of six years," Prof. Elle said, "and I am interested in the trees which have produced crops for three or four years out of the last six."

The average trees, he said, produce crops only one out of five years.

Elle said he hopes to circumvent the problem of late killing frosts common to the area. While Elle usually can find out-of-state stock for research he is convinced that the only solution to finding the right apricot trees for South Plains weather is to work with seedling apricots, which have come from seed planted in West Texas.

"If we can develop late blooming apricot trees," he said, "The public will be the beneficiaries. Our immediate goal is to find the right trees. We will develop a supply of them for the public to plant, harvest and enjoy."

With the release of the Spring planting intentions report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture March 14, High Plains observers are stepping up calculations and speculations as to how much cotton may be planted in the 25 county area surrounding Lubbock.

As of March 1, the USDA report showed farmers intended to put 14, 718,300 acres in cotton, a sizable 19 percent increase over the 12,416,100 acres seeded in 1973 and a small rise from the 14,505,000 acre planting intentions reported by USDA as of January 1.

In Texas farmers indicated to USDA that 5,900,000 acres would go to cotton production. That's up 9.2 percent from the 5,400,000 planted in the Lone Star State in 1973 and a 100,000 acre increase over plans revealed to USDA January 1.

The major part of the national increase, if farmers carry out March 1 plans, will occur in the Mid-South, where flooding reduced 1973 plantings, and in the Far-West states California and Arizona.

Current thinking on the High Plains, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, is that producers in the 25 PCG counties may raise planted acreage by about the same percent as Texas, perhaps as much as 10 percent. An increase of that magnitude would put between 3 and 3.1 million acres under cotton on the Plains.

Official 1973 planted acreage figures for all counties on the Plains have not been released, but information from Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices indicate that just over 2.8 million acres were sowed last year. The December 1 final estimate of "acreage for harvest" from the joint PCG-Lubbock Cotton Exchange estimates committee, which allowed for acreage planted but later abandoned, was 2,709,836 acres.

"Over three million acres planted to cotton on the Plains in 1974 is a definite possibility" says Johnson, "but at this juncture there are any number of factors that could greatly alter the picture."

The biggest of these factors of course is rainfall, he says, pointing out that one-third or more of the area expected to go into cotton is totally dependent on timely rain to make planting possible. Most of this "dryland" area lies South and West of Lubbock where heavy planting in 1973 left little room for expansion this year.

As one observer put it "Dryland farmers last year planted their back yards to cotton and unless they plow up their front lawns they can't plant much more cotton in 1974."

A sizable increase, in some areas as much as 25 percent, is now indicated in the sections lying generally North and East of Lubbock where irrigation water is more abundant. "But even here a large increase is not assured," Johnson cautions.

Cotton must compete for irrigated acres with grain sorghum, corn and other cash crops, he points out, "and much will depend on the action of prices for the various commodities between now and planting time and on producer evaluations of price prospects at harvest."

"So 3 or 3.1 million acres will be planted to cotton on the Plains only if moisture is forthcoming to permit full planting of dryland farms and only if prices, the availability of fertilizer and other factors do not upset present plans for irrigated acreage between now and planting time."

"And these are big 'ifs,'" he concludes.

Russia wants to trade for U.S. grain

"Russia cannot produce grain as efficiently as the United States due to the geographical location of Russia in comparison to that of the United States," stated Dr. Evgeniy V. Bugrov, Counselor for Economic Affairs, Embassy of USSR, Washington, D. C. Dr. Bugrov spoke to the members of the USFGC at their Mid-Winter board meeting in San Antonio last month.

Dr. Bugrov said, "Since Russia cannot grow grain as efficiently due to the weather conditions as the U. S., it only makes good sense for Russia to trade what it does have such as oil and gas for the products that it can buy from the U. S. more efficiently than it can produce its own. He went on to say, "Russia has an expanding demand for meat, milk, butter and eggs which requires additional supplies of feed grains."

Bugrov frankly stated that Russia resented the adverse publicity they received with last years wheat purchases. He continued, "You had wheat that you wanted to sell and we needed it. Why wasn't it a good deal for both of us?" He indicated this was a reason for not buying again this year.

Agriculture's outpost on Wall Street

Most farmers and ranchers don't realize the Federal Land Bank gets its loan funds from the sale of bonds to investors. There is no government money in the Land Bank system. The quality of Land Bank Bonds, plus the skill with which the Farm Credit System's own Fiscal Agency works on behalf of agriculture, means a constant flow of low-cost financing from the nation's money market. Come in... and let's talk over how Land Bank money is bought—and sold—at a fair price to the borrower.

"Produce And Protect" For Home Gardeners

Reducing food bills is just one good reason for having a home garden, according to a local soil conservationist.

"Many young people, and adults too, have never had the satisfying educational experience of cultivating soil" Jon J. LaBaume, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service said.

"Children are pretty sick these days of being told that they are living in a pre-packaged, quick frozen world - even if it is true. A small garden can teach a lot about soil-plant relationships, soil and water conservation, and an appreciation for the productivity of the earth," LaBaume continued. "This is a good enough reason for having a home garden." "Another thing you hear a lot about these days is 'quality of life,'" LaBaume said. "And it is my view that the superb flavor of your own fresh wilted-lettuce salad, corn-on-the-cob, and homegrown tomatoes improve your quality of life. This is another good reason for having a home garden." When you put in your garden, don't forget the need for soil and water conservation.

Butz Sees No Crop Failure

By BERNARD BRENNER WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, flatly rejecting proposals for a government-owned food reserve, said Thursday a major U.S. crop failure is virtually impossible and he sees no prospect of widespread starvation abroad.

"I hope and pray you're right," Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., replied as Butz testified before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee considering legislation to set up a domestic grain reserve. "But what if you're not... that's what I worry about," Humphrey said.

Butz said he favors grain and food reserves, security against the threat of real hunger around the world. But he said all nations should share the burden of holding stocks with U.S. farmers, millers, processors and traders holding this country's reserves rather than the government.

Former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, who also testified, disagreed sharply.

"I think the world is in a critical, dangerous position," Freeman testified.

Dear Abby

'Doggie bagger' takes the cake (and carrots)

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Can you explain why a wealthy woman, when eating out, always takes home the leftover dinner rolls, carrot sticks, crackers, and anything else that's served and isn't eaten?

This lady is very generous where charity is concerned. We are four women who meet once a week for bridge and lunch, and her conduct puzzles me.

I can understand a "doggie bag" for leftover portions of meat, but what about taking home every morsel of edible food on the table?

On occasion we all meet with our husbands, and when this woman asked my husband for his leftover carrot sticks to take home, he thought she was kidding. Yet her husband seemed indifferent. How do you figure this? AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: The lady can't bear to see anything wasted. [There are many people who, if they had the courage, would collect all the leftovers.] There is nothing wrong with it. If she were poor, she'd be "chintzy." But since she's rich, she's "eccentric."

DEAR ABBY: My wife passed away three months ago. She was 52, and a wonderful woman. My children are married and have homes of their own. My mother-in-law is constantly plying me with advice. Example: "Don't ever marry again. All women are gold diggers. All they want is your money."

Abby, my life seems so empty. I don't know anyone I want to date, but my mother-in-law's constant harping on the subject has made me think about it.

How long a mourning period should be observed in my case? How soon is "too soon" to seek female companionship? Would my dating before a year be considered disrespectful to the memory of my late wife?

Our marriage was a happy one and we had 30 good years, but I think 55 is too young to resign myself to a life alone. What do you think? LONELY

DEAR LONELY: It's your life, obviously not that of your departed wife or certainly not that of your mother-in-law, that counts. If you dislike living alone, do something about it and don't worry about what others think. Who named them as your judge?

DEAR ABBY: My son and his wife have been married for three years. They are both bleeding heart liberals and miss no opportunity to announce that they have no children because they don't want any!

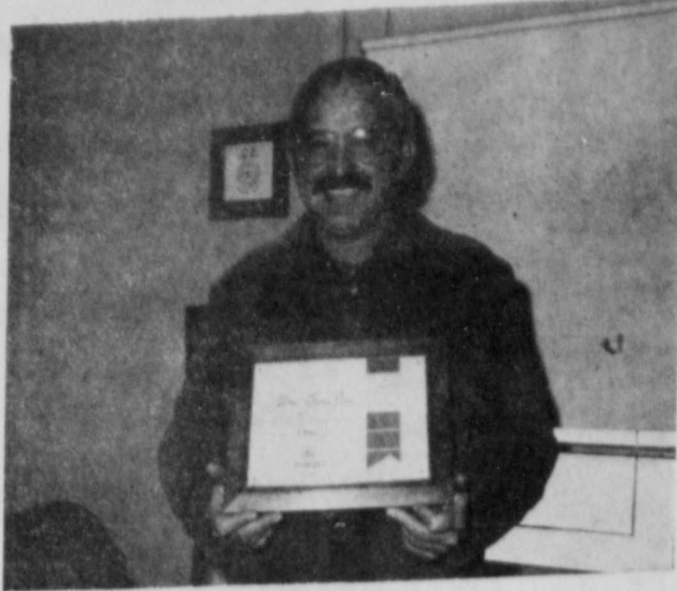

I believe their decision to have no children is a very selfish one. The Good Book implores us to "Go forth and multiply." Our son is an only child, and my heart is broken because he is depriving us of the pleasure of being grandparents.

Do you blame us for feeling... DEPRIVED

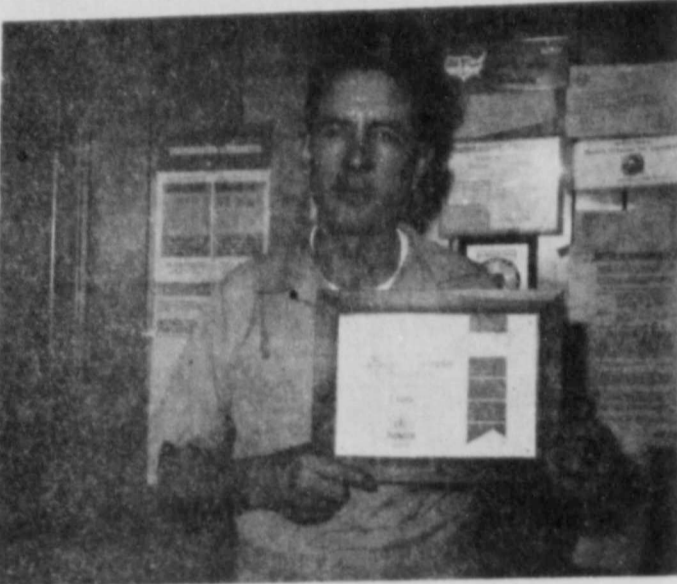

DEAR DEPRIVED: I don't "blame" you, but I don't agree that your son and his wife should have children because you want to be grandparents.

Couples who remain childless by choice shouldn't be made to feel guilty. When the writers of the Good Book implored us to go forth and multiply, the world needed more people. Not so today. Quite the contrary.
