SIXTH STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST:

The Sixth Street Church of Christ Ladies Bible Class met with Mrs. F. N. Welch on November 14th, with twelve present.

We quilted a quilt, finished hemming one and worked some on pillow cases. We had our lesson—the 2nd chapter of Ephesians, with Sister Isabel in charge. We enjoy her so much as our leader in Bible study. We decided to meet with Mrs. Bates on November 21st, and will work on pillow cases to be sent to one of the Orphans' Homes. We are so pleased at our attendance and interest in the work.

There have been several sacks turned in for use, so everyone come who can. We are glad to have visitors at any time. We missed having Brother Isbel with us last Sunday at church, due to his illness. We hope he is recovered by next Sunday.

Methodist Church:
The W. S. C. S. met Tuesday, November 19th with fourteen members present.

This was a monthly meeting and Mrs. Joe Poindexter was leader of the program, with several ladies giving interesting talks. Mrs. Howard Ford gave the meditation.

We will not meet, Tuesday, November 26th, as there will be a Harvest Day meeting in Amarillo, next week, but the regular meeting will be held the following Tuesday. We urge all members to attend.

Daddy Day Has Situation Well in Hand

The future flag-pole sitter in the picture at the left is young Clayton Day, Jr., of Friona, son of Rev. and Mrs. Clayton Day.

At the time the picture was made, young Clayton was only 6 months old, and he's been performing this balancing stunt since he was 5 months of age—with rest stops in between, of course. His dad, who provides the supporting hand, is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Friona, and vouches for this fact.

ROY HOLLIS IN ARIZONA

Robert Hollis returned Saturday of last week from Phoenix, Arizona, where he had been spending a week with his father, Roy Hollis, who is there resting and recruiting his health following a spell of severe illness which he suffered from during the summer.

Robert stated that his father has, seemingly, really recovered from his illness and is rapidly laying on weight. Roy ascribed his illness to too much continuous hard work in his blacksmith and machine shop.

FARMERS NOW STACKING FEED

Stacking feed now seems to be predominating efforts of our local farmers, who are anxious to get cutting of late feed moved from the fields and ready for winter use.

George Treider, south of town was among the first to get busy at this line of work and he finished stacking last week.

The period of fair and moderate weather following the cutting of this feed has made it possible for the crops to become fairly well cured in the shock, so that it can be stacked in good condition.

The House That Loo' Built

William L. Leonard, 44, shown above with his former wife, Christina, 24, didn't let the housing shortage bother him. He just picked up materials here and there while working as a cement finisher, kept bringing them home, and a year and a half later he had himself the completely stolen three-room cottage shown below, a $10,000 establishment according to the sheriff's inventory. The only thing Leonard furnished was labor, and the only thing the place lacked, it seems, was a bathtub—he couldn't find one he could lift. The Leonards were divorced five months ago, but she didn't leave. He has a criminal record.

all he can with this Republican maelstrom of Republicanism. That is the courses I expected him to take and I think he has displayed good judgment in doing so. It was also stated that the black Republican congress has consented to co-operate with Mr. Truman to the greatest extent possible, and if they both try hard enough along this line, there will be no great occasion for any serious amount of log-rolling, and the less there is of that, the better it will be for the country.

I have not felt the least bit uneasy over the results of the recent national election, largely for the simple reason, that all these men are AMERICANS, and believe when it comes to a pinch, members of both parties will work together for the good of ALL rather than see their country go to the "bow-wows."

Another thing that bolsters my hopes for a fairly amiable getting along together of the two branches of the government, is what Lynn Landrum said in his column one day last week, and that was that the word is coming out of Washington to the effect that Mr. Truman has implied that from now on, he is going to be simply Harry Truman in all his administrative acts. In other words, he is going to conduct the remainder of his administration JUST as HARRY TRUMAN thinks is the proper way, and will pay little heed to "left wingers" or from any other self-interest political influences. That also bodes good for the country.

Mr. Landrum says it is coming out of Washington on good authority, that Harry Truman is not now, nor ever has been a "New Dealer," but has been operating against his own better judgment in order to give the people what he thought they wanted, Rooseveltism, strong and plenty of it. But since the people have denounced those hallucinatory ideas in no certain terms, Mr. Truman apparently thinks he will be justified in being JUST HIMSELF. Personally, I am glad he has taken such a stand, for he will evidently make a much better president, working from that

'Books' Burglaries

William Tefo, bookkeeping burglar, seems puzzled about discrepancies in his account book listing 75 burglaries as he sits in Los Angeles police headquarters. He boasts 85 burglaries, not just the 75 listed. Detroit is the 18-year-old's home town.

Constitution does grant the Senate the power of passing on the qualifications of its elected members, and regardless of such a provision by the Constitution, when such a man is sent from any State, who has been weighed in the balance and found qualified and seated members can smother him with kindness and gag him with rules to the extent that he will be considered as a nonentity, just as they have tried to do on other occasions.

angle, than he has done by acting a "shamitiation" of some other man, and, personally again, I believe him to be a more conscientious and honest man than the man he was shamitiating. True, it is unkind to ask an unwise to expect Mr. Truman to do its full share of that work if either the legislative or the executive department shall accomplish anything, and thus save the entire country from suffering the effects of a "do-nothing" congress. And the newspaper mentioned above stated that the congress had expressed a willingness to so cooperate. That is just what I expect both departments to do. Now, call me a pessimist, will you?

And there is quite a bit being said about the seating in the Senate, of Senator Bilbo, of Mississippi. Ex-Governor Lehman, of New York, who was the Democratic candidate for Senator from that State, stated, so I have read, that, when he was selected, one of the first things he would do, would be to use all the means at his disposal as a Senator, to prevent Mr. Bilbo from being seated; but he was not elected. I have also seen it stated that the new Republican Senate, would take that as one of its first issues. I know that it has been a custom of the Senate to decide, as to who shall or shall not sit as a member of that body, but I do not remember whether or not such a privilege is granted by the Constitution. Anyway, it occurs to me that Senators who choose to waste their valuable time with such matters are, to use a common expression—"Running their shovels where there is no sand." Each sovereign State is allowed by the Constitution, the right to have two members to represent it in the Senate chamber, and if the people of a State see fit to choose a man, who is unfitted intellectually, morally or socially to represent them in that august body, that is their business. And should the Senate refuse Mr. Bilbo a seat as a member of that body, and he is returned to his state as a common citizen, is there any law to prevent the people of his State from re-electing him again and again as often as he may be denied his seat and sent back to them? Do the members of the Senate that come from other states have any constitutional right to deny the people of Mississippi their constitutional right to be represented in that body by two men of their own choosing? It has been quite a while since I have read the Constitution of the United States, and I have heard so many things stated as being in that document, which I knew were not there, that I have become confused as to the reality of many other provisions that I have heard claimed to be contained therein, and beside that, I am not posing as an authority on constitutional provisions. But granting that the

Army Quartermaster Tests Indicate Sausage Keeps Better Minus Salt

Tests conducted at the Quartermaster Food and Container Institute for the Armed Forces at Chicago over a period of nine months have disclosed that fresh frozen pork sausage prepared without salt keeps better than the same product prepared with salt.

The tests were to determine a satisfactory method of preparing sausage for freezing to provide maximum stability, appearance, and palatability. It had been found that fresh frozen pork sausage developed rancidity after relatively short periods of storage at temperatures of 0 and 15 degrees F.

Three lots of sausage from the same initial stock were identically prepared except for seasoning ingredients. One lot was seasoned with sage, pepper, sugar, and salt. Another contained sage, pepper, and sugar only, and the third contained no seasoning. Samples were prepared from all lots, frozen at zero degrees, placed in storage at that temperature, and every 30 days portions were removed from each lot and submitted to chemical as well as taste tests.

At the end of three months it was noted that the sausage which contained salt had deteriorated in appearance, flavor, and odor. Taste tests indicated similar deterioration, and chemical examinations confirmed these indications.

After each succeeding month of storage and subsequent examinations, the samples containing salt continued to deteriorate in all respects and became so gray in color that it was necessary to taste test the three types under red lights to eliminate the ease of detecting the salt-seasoned sample from the two types prepared without salt.

The tests indicated that seasonings other than salt had but little effect on the development of rancidity in the sausage during freezing, storage, and cooking. On the contrary, the type to which sugar, sage, and pepper had been added were slightly more acceptable and had lower deterioration values than

More Milk Needed In Adult Diets Say Scientists

Science is finding out that it takes more than a pint a day to keep the doctor away.

This is the substance of a disclosure today by the department of nutrition service of the National Dairy Council, on the basis of reports issued by nationally known scientists who are determining the amount of calcium required to maintain good health.

Calcium is necessary for the formation and maintenance of bones and teeth, for coagulation of the blood, for normal heart action and for the proper functioning of all muscles and nerves. Of all foods, milk is un-the type which no seasoning had been added.

equaled as the best provider of calcium in the human diet.

The findings were made public by President Milton Hult of the National Dairy Council in the November issue of the Dairy Council Digest.

The Digest, declares after discussing the findings: "It seems obvious that the recommendation commonly made that the average adult should have, in addition to other items of an adequate mixed diet, at least one pint of milk daily to satisfy his calcium need now rests on even firmer foundation of scientific fact than in former years. It should be emphasized that such a quantity of milk would provide for maintenance only and not for a 'margin of safety.'"

"There is need, evidently, for a reconsideration of calcium allowances for the post-adolescent period. Since bone development continues for a number of years beyond adolescence—it seems obvious that the customary pint-a-day adult milk

Venison Sausage Recommended to Wives of Hunters

COLLEGE STATION, November 18.—Opening of deer season in Texas in the immediate future is certain to bring to wives of successful hunters the problem of using less tender cuts of venison. Edith Lawrence, specialist in food preparation for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, offers venison sausage with its variety of uses as a solution.

The shoulder, neck and lower portion of the ribs when boned make good sausage, says Miss Lawrence. Here are the directions:

Grind the meat, using three parts deer meat to one part of fresh pork fat. If a drier sausage is preferred, use four parts deer meat and one part of pork fat. Season with one and one-third cups of salt and three-fourths of a cup of sage may be added to the seasoning mixture, according to taste. (Three-eighths of a cup equals one-fourth of a cup plus two table-spoons.)

If the sausage is to be kept for some time, stuff it in a casing or muslin bag, Miss Lawrence suggests. She adds that the sausage may be smoked, depending on family preferences. Ground venison may be used as any other ground meat—in meat loaf, with spaghetti or in chili, for instance. Sometimes recommendation falls short of providing adequate amounts of calcium during the half-decade or so immediately preceding full adulthood."

even the choice cuts from an old animal prove difficult to cook tender, and in this event they should be ground. In addition to adding seasoning, add some fat, too, the specialist advises, for venison usually contains insufficient fat. That is sometimes a reason it remains tough after long cooking.

Deer season east of the Pecos River is from November 16 to December 31. West of the Pecos it is November 19 to November 24.

Rotenone Is Sure Death to Cattle Grubs Says A & M

COLLEGE STATION, November 18.—Rotenone is proving to be a sure-fire treatment for cattle grubs in West Texas.

With 10 pounds of rotenone-sulphur dust, F. J. Jenkins, Edwards County ranchman, got rid of practically all the grubs on 55 head of beef cattle that were badly infested last fall. Edwards County Agricultural Agent A. A. Storey, Jr., reports that Jenkins' grub treatment was done at a cost of only $7.50. Running the cattle through a chute, he brushed the rotenone-sulphur dust into the loins and backs of the animals with a wire brush. Prior to the treatment, which was given last fall, every animal in the herd of 55 had from forty to fifty grubs. A recent check-up by Jenkins and the county agent showed only nine of the animals carrying grubs, and these were only slightly infested.

akes Over Duties of FSA; Named Loan Supervisor and services by the Farm on and the Feed Loan Administration to all the Deaf the Par-tration, Texas nounce-

Mr. Cappelman also announced the designation of J. E. Burch, supervisor of the Farm Security Administration, as interim-supervisor-in-charge of the FSA office, which is located in Hereford, Texas.

The Farmers' Home Administration, created by the 79th Congress, took over functions of FSA and ECFL effective November 1. The new agency will make production and subsistence loans as well as loans for farm purchases. Facilities are available only to farmers who are unable to get the loans they need at interest rates not exceeding five percent from banks, cooperative lending agencies or other responsible sources in their communities.

The farm purchase loans made by the new agency are similar to those formerly made by the Farm Security Administration. Loans are made for 100 percent of the purchase price of family-type farms, plus needed improvements. Repayment is scheduled over a period of 40 years, and interest rate is 3 1/2 percent.

Operating credit extended by the Farmers' Home Administration under its production and subsistence loan program includes both annual loans and adjustment-type loans at five percent interest.

The adjustment-type credit is similar to the "rehabilitation" loans made by the Farm Security Administration, and is based on farm and home operating plans worked out by the borrower with the aid of FSA supervisors. It is accompanied by on-the-farm management assistance provided by FSA personnel. Loans may be repaid over a maximum period of five years.

The annual loans made by FSA are similar to the "feed and seed" loans made by the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division of the Farm Credit Administration. Farm and home

Tulia-Phillips Battle Slated At Tulia Thanksgiving Day

The Tulia Hornets, representing District 1-A, will meet the powerful Phillips Blackhawks, champions of District 2-A, and defending Region 1 titlists, in a Thanksgiving Day football game on Younger Field at Tulia for the Bi-District championship.

Supt. I. H. Turney of Tulia High school announced the decision this morning.

A limited number of tickets for the Tulia-Phillips game will be placed on sale in Hereford at the Hereford News Stand, probably by Saturday. Tickets will remain on sale, while they last, through Wednesday.

Representatives of the two teams met in Amarillo last night and determined the time and place of the game by the flip of a coin. Tulia won the toss, and will play the title game on their home field.

Game time will be 2:30 o'clock. Plans are not required as a basis for these loans, but they must be repaid within 12 months.

Production and subsistence loans to any one borrower may not exceed $5,000. Veterans will be given preference in all phases of the Farmers' Home Administration program.

next Thursday afternoon. Tickets will go on sale in Tulia tomorrow.

Temporary bleachers are being built at Younger Field to accommodate an additional 1500 people, Turney said today. A crowd of between three and four thousand fans is expected for the big game, he announced.

The Hornets, winners over Hereford's Whitefaces last Friday night in a 14-13 gridiron thriller, are co-champions of

SUNDAY LESSON

How Paul Rebuked Partisanship in The Early Church

The International Sunday Lesson for Nov. 24 Scripture: Acts 17:22-28, 18:1-4; I Corinthians 1:22-25

ATHENS and Corinth were the two outstanding cities of ancient Greece. Athens had back of it a long history of culture, and in Paul's day it was the university city of the Roman world. Corinth, aspiring to rival Athens, was a city of commerce.

The Scriptures give no account of a church at Athens, so the brilliant address that Paul gave on Mars Hill to the assembled philosophers apparently had no permanent result.

But the record, in Acts 17, of his visit to Athens and of the sermon he preached there, is among the most colorful and vital pages of the New Testament. In Corinth, however, Paul made what was for him a long stay, at least 18 months, on his first visit. The fruits of his labors are seen in the two longest of his Epistles, with their intimate picture of life in the church there.

Apparently the church at Corinth was composed mostly of Gentile converts. As the Corinthian church grew in numbers dissensions developed, as is clear from the Epistles. How sharp these were is not so clear.

A part of the trouble arose when Apollos, an eloquent preacher, came to Corinth after Paul had left. He was a good man (Acts 18:24-28), and there was apparently no rivalry between him and Paul, but partisans foolishly made a seeming rivalry between them, some saying, "I am of Paul," and others, "I am of Apollos."

Paul refers to his own presence as being weak, so it is possible that he was lacking in eloquence. In any case, the contrast between him and the eloquent Apollos was enough to occasion the thoughtless partisanship which Paul rebuked most vigorously.

It is not enough to name the name of Christ, or to profess fellowship in His name. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." That applies to churches as well as to individuals.

MARKETS

Cotton took the spotlight at most southwest markets last week as it moved back to the 30 cents per pound level. Also wheat, sheep and hogs made small gains, but other farm products were steady to weak, according to USDA's Production and Marketing Administration.

Cotton went up about 17.50 per bale last week as market activity in cotton textiles increased following the end of price controls. Spot market prices strengthened a little in relation to March futures. However, country buyers' prices were generally low in relation to central and futures market prices.

Turkeys were about steady at 35 to 38 cents per pound for hens and 26 to 28 cents for young toms at most southwest markets last week. Some rural prices were 3 to 5 cents per pound below these. Hens and fryers held about steady too, although demand was weak. Eggs reversed recent trends as expected holiday demand began to strengthen prices.

Cattle prices went up and down last week at most southwest markets despite active trading. However, no great losses or gains were registered. Top quality slaughter classes were steady to higher. Common and medium steers and yearlings brought $12 to $15 per hundred at Houston and $11 to $18 at Ft.

District 1 with the Hereford Bulls, and represent the district in the bi-district championship play-off.

The Phillips Blackhawks ran rough-shod over all opposition in District 2-A to annex the title without difficulty.

The two teams have already met once this season in a non-conference game on September 27, the Blackhawks victorious by a 20-7 score. The Hornets, however, after getting off to a slow start, have been in the win column for the past six weeks, and have lost only one conference game in this district, to the Canyon Eagles 20-14 on October 11.

Admission prices for the game have been set at $1 for adults, 40 cents for students, both prices including tax.

Last week saw hogs move gradually higher under active trading at most southwest markets. Friday's quotations for top butchers stood at $24.50 per hundred pounds at San Antonio; $24.50 to $24.75 at Wichita; $25 at Denver; $25.25 to $25.50 at Oklahoma City and $25.50 at Fort Worth.

Southwest sheep and lamb markets registered increases of 25 to 50 cents per hundred last week as good demand quickly absorbed light supplies. San Antonio quoted common and medium grades of lambs at $12 to $14.50, ewes at $6.75 to $7.75 and goats $5.25 to $6.75. Medium and good fat lambs brought $17.50 to $20 at Ft. Worth. Good and choice lambs realized $23 to $23.75 at Denver and $22.50 to $22.75 at Wichita.

Trading in domestic wool was less active last week due to the advance in prices effective November 11. Decontrol order stimulated buying in foreign markets.

Wheat went up a penny or more per bushel last week while corn lost 3 to 4 cents per bushel, barley 1 to 4 cents, oats about 2 cents per hundred. Bran, shorts and soybean meal dropped $3 to $6 per ton too, but other feeds stood at recent levels. Widespread snow and rain increased the demand for hay and strengthened prices.

Rice continued to sell at top OPA levels with the heavy movement from the new crop unable to meet the urgent demand. Deliveries of farmers' stock peanuts from southwest area was light last week and most sales were at the support level. Citrus, apples and most vegetables brought about steady to slightly stronger prices at southwest markets last week. Only Louisiana sweet potatoes went up as haulings decreased and brought $2.65 to $2.85 per bushel crate.

Why Bert Won First Prize

Folks weren't surprised when Bert Childers won first prize for his corn at the county fair.

Yet the judges admit it wasn't just because Bert had the finest ears of corn. He knew how to display them: neatly arranged, and the husks cleanly trimmed, and the booth white and spotless.

"Trimming's sure make a difference no matter what you're offering—as Andy Botkin, keeper of the Garden Tavern, well knows. Andy doesn't just sell good beer. He sells it in a place that's clean and attractive... in nice surroundings that belong with the enjoyment of a wholesome beverage of moderation.

And Andy, of course, is a whole-hearted supporter of "Self Regulation." That's the system by which the Brewers and tavern keepers themselves make sure that taverns selling beer are clean and orderly.

From where I sit, people like Andy also rate a "First prize." Not just for the quality of the product—but for the "trimming's" too.
