Floydada Gets Farm Labor Housing

Official announcement was made Thursday morning, June 27th, by Congressman Omar Burleson, that the Housing Authority of the City of Floydada would receive a farm labor housing loan of $50,000.00 and a grant of $450,000.00 for the construction of 48 units of labor housing. This loan and grant is subject to final plans, specifications, and bid documents being completed.

The loan and grant will be made by the Farmers Home Administration, Alfred A. Harrison, County Supervisor, to the Housing Authority of the City of Floydada, W. Dale Goen, President.

The housing will provide decent, safe, and sanitary housing for farm laborers. It will be managed and operated by the Housing Authority, Russell King, Manager.

The housing will be located on the east one-half of Block 9 and all of Block 10, in the Honerhea Addition to the town of Floydada. This location is approximately one-half block east of the Della Plains School.

Dale Goen stated that work was started approximately three months ago on this project when Truitt Mayes of the South Plains Association of Governments notified the Floydada Development Company that there was a possibility of federal funds being available for labor housing. At that time the Development Company, the Housing Authority, Chuck Holmes (representing the vegetable growers and processors and ginners), Alfred A. Harrison, George Miller, the First National Bank, and city and county officials went to work. James Robison of Plainview was retained as architect.

Chuck Holmes, local farmer, stated this should be one of the most beneficial projects for Floydada and Floyd County in recent years. It should benefit both farmers and business men and give the very badly needed decent housing for our migrant workers. Goen emphasized the excellence of the Farmers Home Administration at local, state and national levels in obtaining this project.

Man Price Explains Cattle Loan Bill

More than a number of current government loan programs including direct loans through the Small Business Administration; Farmers Home Administration farm ownership, emergency, watershed, soil conservation and waste water treatment loans; and for more than the 2% and 3% loans available through Food for Peace and AID programs.

The Price bill calls for a $3 billion revolving loan guarantee fund which would generate some $15 billion worth of credit, the Congressman said. He estimated that more than $15 billion worth of credit would be needed in the coming year.

Price said feedlot replacements alone would need more than $10 billion in credit in the future 12-month period. Some 25.3 million head of cattle were fed for marketing in 1973, and Price estimated the current cost of fattening at an average $409.47 per head; including $213.75 for feeding two and a quarter tons of feed per animal at a cost of $95 per ton and a $186 per head average for current cost of a feeder steer weighing 600 pounds at 31 cents a pound; plus normal vet charges and a 2% death loss.

The Texas rancher said cow-calf credit requirements would be between $6.5 billion and $9.1 billion during the next 12 months. Assuming a 15% annual replacement in the cow herd; the current market value of a bred heifer at $250; and estimating operating expenses including feed, grazing fees, machinery, building and fence maintenance, property taxes, and hired labor at some $115 to $175 per cow, Price said operating expenses come to $150 to $212 per cow. Using the USDA cattle inventory of 42,874,000 beef cows on

Crop Conditions In The Plains

"High Plains crops have been well seasoned this year — peppered with hail, salted with isolated floods and baked to a crisp by the driest year in recent history. They lack the important topping of anhydrous ammonia," said Elbert Harp, executive director of Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board in Lubbock, Texas.

"To make matters worse," he continued, "area crops are being sampled by grub worms and spider mites, with midge and greenbugs standing by awaiting their turn."

Harp painted a dismal picture of crop conditions in an area that normally produces 25 percent of the nation's grain sorghum. He said that much of the dryland area has not yet been planted and is now crowding the planting deadline.

The TGSPB executive stated that irrigated areas have been plagued with grub worms, hail and other problems, making it hard to find a really pretty field of sorghum in the High Plains area.

Harp said, "Unless crop conditions improve throughout the entire area, even irrigated crops will produce far below their normal averages."

Crude oil reserves total 700 billion barrels, enough to last into the 1990's without new discoveries, shale oil, or technological developments, according to the U.S. Geological Survey. More than half, 54 per cent, of the supply is in the Middle East. Africa has 15 per cent, the Soviet Bloc 12 per cent, and the U.S. 6 per cent.

"I feel a reasonable estimate for the amount of revolving loan guarantees and insurance for this bill is then $3 billion," Price said.

Gloom for Cattleman . . . More Sheep Sold . . . More Potatoes Available . . . Wheat Production Down . . . Change on Bee Front

TEXAS HAD about 15,350,000 head of cattle at one time or another in 1973, but, as everyone knows now, the cattleman is in trouble, with high feed prices and dwindling cattle prices. The number of cattle on feed is declining and may mean less beef on retail meat counters later on. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said there were 1,930,000 head of cattle and calves on feed June 1, which is 14 per cent lower than a year ago and seven per cent below the 2,072,000 on feed May 1. During May, 219,000 head went into feedlots, which is 55 per cent below May, 1973 and 11 per cent below placements in April. A total of 361,000 head of fat cattle went to market in May, and that is 10 per cent below a year ago and eight per cent below marketings in April. The same kind of decreases is reported in Iowa, Nebraska, and California, other beef-producing states.

ON THE OTHER hand, sheep and lamb feeding and marketings are up. During May, 45,000 head of sheep were sold, which is 45 per cent more than marketings reported May 1; and in feedlots with capacities of 2,000 or more, 111,000 head of sheep and lamb for slaughter were in those lots. That is 31 per cent above the number on feed May 1, and the same number as of June 1, 1973. There were 71,000 head placed in feedlots during May.

DIGGING OF Irish potatoes in Texas is almost complete, and production is forecast at 92,500,000 pounds, or 10 per cent more than last year. The acreage in potatoes was 7,400 acres which is 10 per cent above last year, but the yield of 12,500 pounds an acre is the same as it was last year and that was 14 per cent more than the per-acre yield in 1972. Irish potatoes are grown all over the State, but commercially, the main crops are grown in the Rio Grande Valley, San Antonio-Winter Garden area, Knox-Haskell area and some in Central and East Texas.

IN ADDITION to the discussion of livestock in the first paragraph, it might be noted that worsening ranges in West Texas are causing some selling of cattle. Some rains in the area helped, but the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that a good general rain is needed over the entire western two-thirds of the State. At that, range conditions averaged 68 per cent of normal on June 1, compared to 60 per cent May 1, and the best pastures are to be found in East Texas. Stock water is said to be short in many areas of the Panhandle and West Texas.

THE WHEAT crop, which was hurt by dry weather, is estimated at 63,000,000 bushels, compared to 98,600,000 bushels last year in Texas. That yield came from 5,600,000 planted acres, compared to 4,600,000 acres last year, but only about 3,000,000 acres were harvested this year, thanks to drought, and about 3,400,000 were harvested last year. The yield this year is estimated to have been about 21 bushels an acre, compared to 29 bushels an acre in 1973.

A CHANGE has been announced by USDA in indemnity payments to beekeepers whose bees are killed or damaged by use of pesticides near colonies. New rates are: $22.50 for a destroyed colony (old rate: $15); $15 for a severely damaged colony; $7.50 for a moderately damaged colony; and $7.50 for each queen nucleus destroyed. Texas bee population is estimated at about 200,000 colonies.

Balance of Trade Records Big Surplus

The U.S. balance of trade ledger moved $1.7 billion into the black in 1973, compared with a record deficit in 1972. The swing from deficit to surplus amounted to $8.1 billion, the largest one year change in history.

U.S. exports grew at a rate nearly twice that of imports in both agricultural and manufactured products.

TIPS FOR BUYING BEEF

Recently I received the following information on Buying Beef. I feel this information may be of help to you in stretching your food dollar and getting the best buy for your money.

Do you buy meat according to its cost per pound? Is the price sticker your only meat buying consideration? If it is, you may be overlooking some better selection criteria — namely, how much you get for your money, the eating quality of the meat, and how much work you have to put into its preparation and cooking. Because all of these factors enter into making a satisfactory meat purchase, smart shoppers buy meat according to its cost per serving, USDA quality grade, and how they intend to cook it.

Since the majority of the red meat you buy is beef, let's discuss how you can get the most for your beef buying dollar:

Different beef cuts have different percentage of fat and bone, so each one doesn't necessarily give you the same number of servings per pound. Some cuts with higher costs per pound also give you more servings per pound, making their cost per serving more comparable to those of the lower priced cuts. Since the cost per serving isn't listed on the label however, you may not have considered this. But you should, because it's a more accurate guide to how much you will get for your money.

To compute the cost per serving of any cut, you need to know about how many servings you'll get from a pound of each different retail cut. Here's approximate number of 3-ounce servings you'll get from an average pound of these following cuts of beef: (information from the National Livestock and Meat Board)

Two Servings Per Pound: porterhouse steaks, T-bone steaks, top loin (club) steaks, rib steaks and roasts, chuck steaks, and blade chuck and arm chuck roasts.

Two and a half servings per pound: sirloin steaks and boneless chuck roasts.

Three servings per pound: tenderloin (filet mignon) steaks, round steaks, flank steaks, sirloin tip roasts, boneless rump roasts, and boneless briskets.

Four servings per pound: ground beef, stewing beef, cubed steak, and liver.

Divide the approximate number of servings per pound into the cost per pound and you'll get the cost per 3-ounce serving for that cut.

Buying according to the cost per serving makes sense. That way you do not buy solely by a cut's price per pound, but rather by how much you get from it.

In the same respect, buying according to the USDA quality grade also makes sense. If the meat you buy bears a USDA quality grade shield, you can be assured of its eating quality — meaning its tenderness, juiciness, and flavor. For a specific cut — sirloin steaks for example — you can expect the following difference among the top three USDA quality grades:

USDA Prime beef offers you the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor. It has abundant marbling — flecks of fat within the lean — which enhances the flavor and juiciness. It is the highest grade available, and most of the more desirable cuts of this grade are sold to restaurants.

USDA Choice beef is very tender, juicy, and flavorful. It has slightly less marbling than Prime, but is still of very high quality. Choice is the grade most commonly found in supermarkets. USDA Good beef often pleases thrifty shoppers because it is usually somewhat more lean than Prime or Choice. It is only slightly less tender than Choice, but because it has less marbling, it lacks some of the juiciness and flavor of the higher grades.

All segments of U.S. society have contributed to current energy shortages, and all must cooperate to work out a solution, according to John Swearingin, chairman of the board. He emphasized the oil short-economy has been geared to provide ever-larger and more luxurious vehicles, more heat in the winter and more air-conditioning in the summer, and a range of power-consuming appliances that staggers even sophisticated Europeans." Standard Oil executive told the Congressional committee. He emphasized the oil shortage is real "for both the short and long term" and warned, "For generations, unlimited supplies of low-cost energy have been taken for granted in this country . . . the whole happened."

WE MAY MARCH TO THE BEAT OF DIFFERENT DRUMMERS . . .

But when our country's been threatened, we've put our differences aside and teamed up to present a united front to the world. Must we always have external threats to unite us, or can we learn in peacetime to keep internal peace? Must we always let another's beliefs, though they be different from ours, blind us? Perhaps if we listened with an open heart and mind we could learn from them and they from us. Then maybe, our well won Freedom would truly be won for everyone.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Tries To Come To The Rescue
Of The Big Cities This Week,
We Think

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm tries to come to the rescue of the big cities this week, we think. Dear editor:

The mayors of the major big cities in the U.S., according to an article I read in a newspaper yesterday, are asking the Federal government for 18 billion dollars to help pay for mass transit systems.

Their argument is that automobiles are choking the cities, that modern subways and other mass transit systems are needed if cities are going to continue to function, and that the cost of building and operating the systems is too great for any city to bear.

Now at first thought you might ask, why should somebody living on a place like this Johnson grass farm out here have to help pay for a big city's subway system? If Boston or New York or Los Angeles people for example haven't got the ability to operate their cities, let them close them down.

Then I got to thinking further. You shut down the big cities and what's going to happen? The people will spread out and ruin the countryside. It's the last thing I'd want to see happen. It's bad enough with all the bottles and beer cans we have to contend with, but you add people too and the countryside is gone.

Up to now, by some crafty propaganda, we country people have managed to keep most of the population cooped up in big cities where everybody thought all the advantages were, and if it takes an extra tax on this Johnson grass farm to keep them from catching on and breaking out, I'm willing to pay it.

Furthermore, if us country people are on our toes we'll start a campaign to keep cities from spreading out. Look at nearly any big city and you'll see rows and rows of houses about three feet apart going up on the outskirts and extending further and further out in the country. Those houses ought to be stacked on top of each other back inside the city limits. I'm not interested in paying for a subway system that goes all over creation.

By the way, a developer came by here the other day asking if I'd be interested in selling my farm. Said it'd make a good sub-division. I'm waiting to see what his offer is.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Fresh Spuds Losing Out

Use of fresh Irish potatoes is on the decline as consumers opt for the variety that's already processed.

In fact, the USDA reports that more than half the nation's potato crop is now used for processing.

Frozen French fries take the biggest bite out of the crop, accounting for 26 percent of the total. Next in popularity are potato chips, dehydrated potatoes, and canned potatoes.

This change in eating patterns is having a big effect on potato growers, says Extension Specialist W. W. Reid of North Carolina State University.

It does provide a more stable market since most processing spuds are raised under contract at a specified price.

But it also means that growers have to choose plant varieties with more care since the potatoes they raise must be the type that will not discolor during processing.

Ocean Burning Of Toxic Wastes To Start in 1975

The U.S. will soon outfit a cargo vessel with two specially-constructed combustion chambers to incinerate toxic wastes, according to a non-profit environmental education organization.

The American Eagle Foundation is largely responsible for arrangements for the ocean-going vessel, modeled after one converted two years ago by a German shipping company.

Expected to be ready for operation from East Coast ports by early 1975, the vessel will be able to burn up to 22 tons of chlorinated hydrocarbons and other hard-to-treat wastes per hour in its incinerators.

Cost of this ocean burning from East Coast and Caribbean ports is anticipated to be $55 to $60 per ton. Land incineration frequently costs twice this amount, according to an American Eagle Foundation spokesman.

Baby Lacks Against Dis

By GAYLE JACKSON Special Correspondent

LOCKNEY — Nine-month-old Mitchell Merrill, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. (Willie) Roberts of Lockney, plays in his bed in Texas Children's Hospital in Houston unaware he is one of fewer than 100 children in the world known to have severe combined immunodeficiency disease.

Mitch has no biological buffer against disease because he has no thymus gland, a tiny gland at the base of the throat that would respond directly and aggressively against bacteria and viruses. His body's other immune system, the bone marrow that produces antibodies, also is impaired. The only known cure is transplant of compatible bone marrow. Samples of Mitch's blood have been sent to bone marrow banks as far away as New York and Copenhagen, Denmark. None of the Merrill family has matching marrow.

Carefully Guarded

For a month, Mitch and his mother, Mrs. Ben (Judy) Merrill of Denison, have stayed in a hospital room guarding Mitch against infection. Anyone entering the room must be in good health, gowned and masked. All of his clothing is carefully cleaned and sterilized, and his baby food, while still in sealed jars, is exposed to infrared rays to further sterilize it.

Mitch's grandmother said he is a very good-humored baby,

Inflation Rated Worse Than Energy Crisis

Worldwide inflation in 1974 may present a greater danger in slowing economic growth than the shortage of energy according to the First National City Bank of New York.

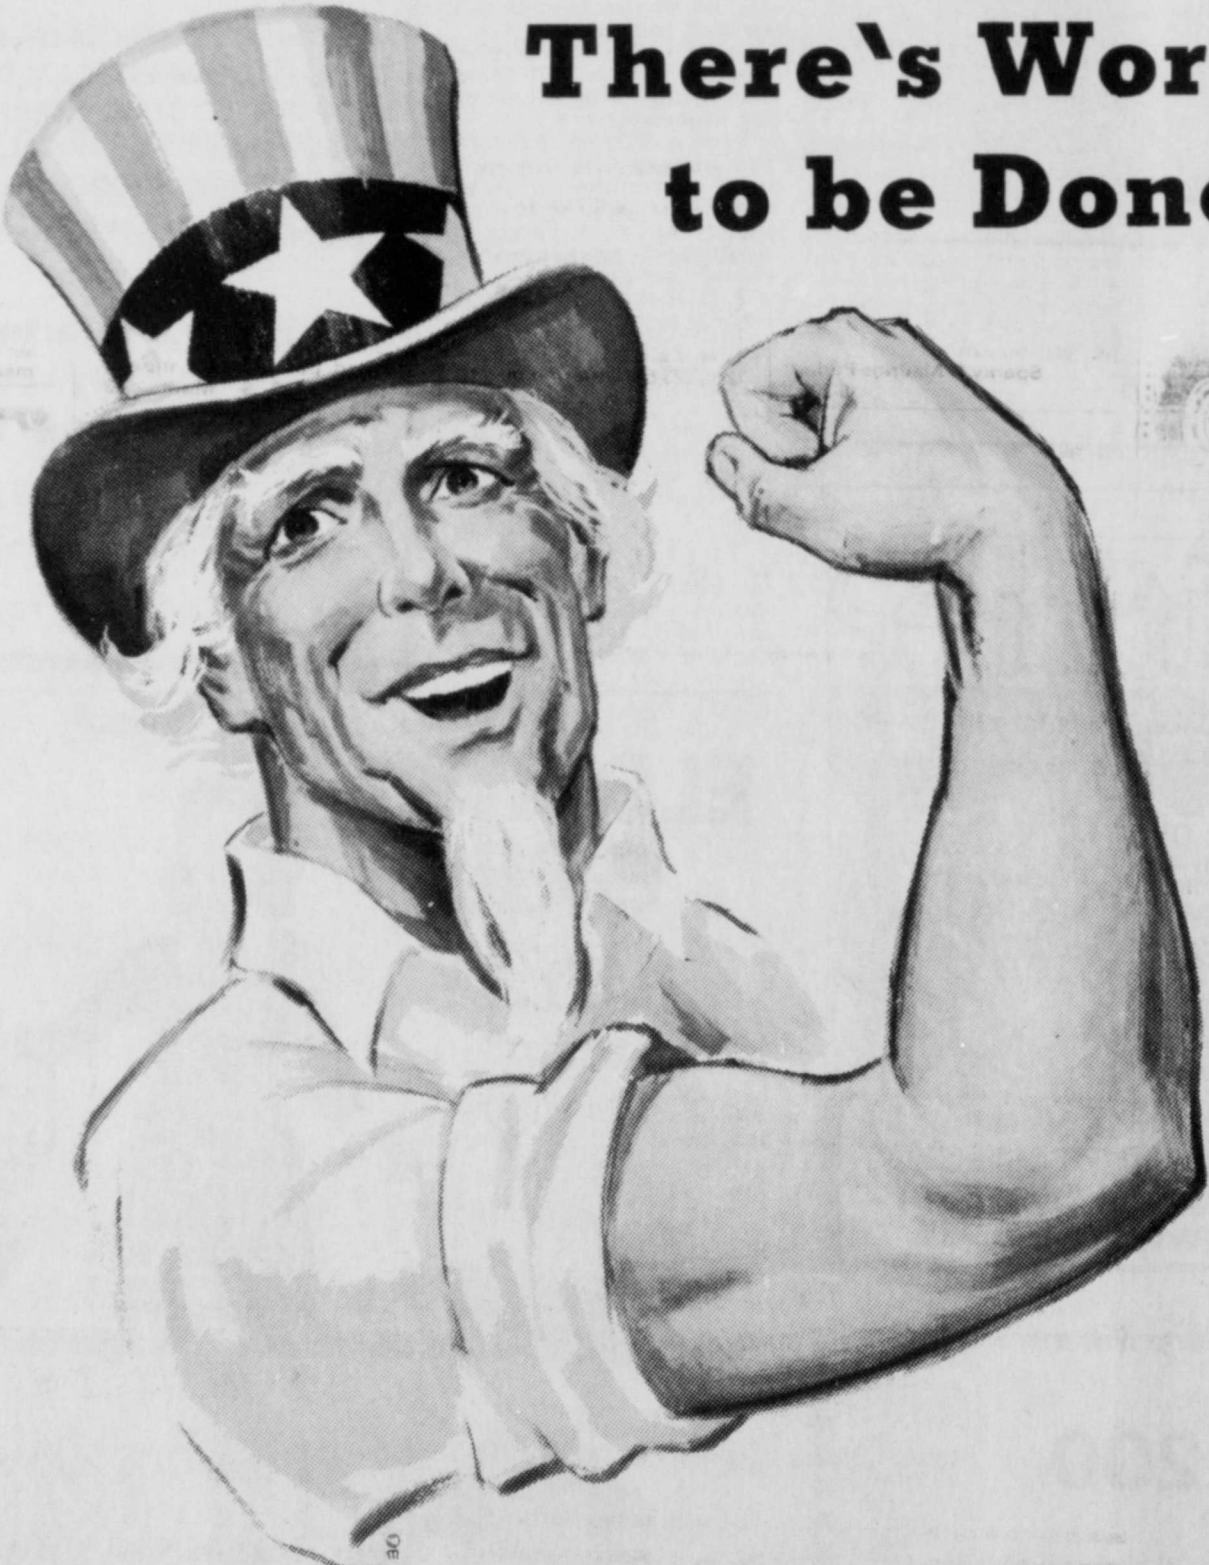

Throughout the world, inflation is slowing the growth of real money stocks to the point where businesses and households may respond by reducing expenditures, Citibank economists warned in a recent issue of the bank's economic letter.

"To prevent inflation from making the slowdown or recession even deeper in the United States, the growth of the money stock would have to be accelerated to a substantially higher rate than in 1973," Citibank economists said.

This confronts monetary policy makers with a hard decision, not only in the United States, but abroad: accept a full-blown recession or pump up the money supply and boost prices even further, the letter noted.

Citibank economists also pointed out that one of the effects of the oil shortfall has been a cutting back in the "dollar overhang"—dollar assets.

There's Work to be Done!

Show your Muscle and Let's Get Going to stay strong. It's taken a lot of good old-fashioned know-how to make and keep this great country proud and productive. It's taken our own ingenuity to live the good life. And. It's good to know we help create more jobs, boost our own economy, keep that dollar sound — all at the same time. A roll-up-your-sleeves job? That's just a good old-fashioned American tradition.

CARDS OF THANKS

It meant very much to have you share our sorrow in George's death. The family contacted us every day and knew of every act of kindness expressed. This was very helpful to all, especially my mother, Mrs. J. G. Shearer and brother Orvus. The memorial service in our home with friends, many former school mates of G.C.'s.

The food, flowers and memorial fund were appreciated. The fund will be used for research to help arthritic children. May we also take this means to thank all for every kind act during Maureen's many surgeries and times of therapy. We ask for your continued prayers. Sincerely,
Sparky & Maurine Parks 6-30c

WHAT ONE PERSON CAN DO

Abigail, housewife
A hero on the run. A drunken villain. And a brave woman. All the earmarks of a classic Western. But the drama took place, not in the Badlands of South Dakota, but 3,000 years ago in the hill country of Judea, near a town called Carmel.
The young hero is David — not yet king — hiding with a band of renegades from the jealous pursuit of King Saul. The villain is Nabal, a brutish livestock owner and a drunkard. Abigail is Nabal's wife, "a woman of intelligence and beauty."
Nabal's herdsmen had wintered in the hills under the protection of David and his men. When they returned to Carmel for the annual shearing festival, David sent ten soldiers to Nabal requesting the customary payment of provisions for having protected Nabal's flocks and servants. Nabal would have none of it, saying that David was nothing but a runaway slave, a nobody.

On David's angry command, "Every man buckle his sword," 400 men set out determined to take by force what Nabal was unwilling to give.
Abigail learned what had happened. Fearing the worst, she ordered food prepared and sent on ahead. Without telling her husband, she set out to find David.
They met on a mountain trail. David was seething, vowing revenge. She begged him to forget Nabal's insult.

She implored him to spare their household and servants. It would be unworthy, she argued, for a future king of Israel to shed blood needlessly. David relented and told her, "Go home in peace." The next morning after a night of heavy drinking, Nabal learned of his close call and suffered a stroke. Ten days later, he had another stroke and died.
Shortly after, David proposed to Abigail and they were married.
Every age needs its Abigails — people who possess the vision and the strength to prevent violence.
