Marijuana Found Growing In North Floyd

Floyd County sheriff Bud Rainey has reported discovering some marijuana plants growing in the yard of a north Floyd County resident. He is still investigating and no arrest has been made.

These plants were about two feet tall, and on maturity reach six to eight feet.

District Attorney George Miller said the charges for growing marijuana vary according to the size and amount of matured leaves. If the leaves weigh over 4 ounces, it is considered a felony. Less than 4 ounces is considered a misdemeanor.

A third degree felony conviction would give the grower of marijuana 2 to 10 years in prison and up to $5,000 fine. A misdemeanor conviction means up to one year in prison and or $2,000 fine.

Sheriff Rainey said it was possible that an arrest would be made, and this newspaper will publish the complete story next week.

Folk Singer Featured Soloist For Crusade

Lela Mayfield, blind, nineteen-year-old Folk Singer-Ventriloquist, will be the featured soloist during the Eddie Martin-led Spiritual Crusade to be held August 4-11 at Wester Field in Floydada.

Miss Mayfield has turned what appeared to be a handicap into an asset for God. She was born legally blind and without a nose. It took nine operations to get the cute little nose she now has. She says, "It smells good, it blows good, and even looks pretty good."

Traveling with her is her excited little friend "Tony." Lela is also a Gospel Ventriloquist and uses her little doll to get across short Bible stories to the children in her audience.

She accompanies herself on the guitar and her singing has moved her audiences to tears. Blind from birth, she tells her listeners, "Just think, the first face I will ever see will be the face of Jesus."

Miss Mayfield travels by plane all across America. She will come here via Lubbock Airport. Lela delights in saying, "One advantage of being blind is having a stewardess meet me at the gate and actually transport me in a wheelchair to the airport limousine." How many travelers get that kind of service?

Dale Bullock New Ag Teacher

Dale Bullock, graduate of Newcastle High School and East Texas State College at Commerce, Texas is in Floydada and ready to assume duties as agriculture teacher.

This is his first teaching job. He was reared on a farm in an area where wheat and cattle dominate agriculture. His major is ag-education. Bullock said he looked forward to becoming a part of the Floydada school system and this community.

Floydada Records .06 Inches Of Rain

Floydada received .06 inches of moisture in a thunderstorm which moved through the city after midnight Thursday, according to the rain gauge at Producers Elevator. Weathermen promise more of the same.

Roaring Springs Gets Industry

The dream of every small town in West Texas, is becoming a reality at Roaring Springs. It is not promised an industry, it is getting one.

The Crestline Furniture Company of Albuquerque, New Mexico, is moving to Roaring Springs.

The firm will occupy the Roaring Springs school building. It is expected that work might start within 30 days. Oscar Hardin, formerly of Roaring Springs, attended school with J. M. (Buzz) Thacker about eight years. Last summer the Thackers visited the Hardins (the Thackers have a son living in Albuquerque).

Mrs. Hardin is the former Betty Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Sanders when they lived at Roaring Springs. Mr. Sanders is deceased and Mrs. Sanders lives in California.

Thacker and Hardin talked a long time and Hardin came back to Roaring Springs to see. They looked at several buildings, and the empty grade school was mentioned.

Other talks revealed that Roaring Springs would not have a school this season. A verbal agreement was worked out. The new industry will occupy all the school property. The firm expects to employ about 12 people to start with and will be needing some help. Interested persons are requested to write the Crestline Company at Roaring Springs. It will be picked up at the post office (79256).

Crestline has established a quality of products. Several items (made in Albuquerque) are on display now in the furniture department of Thacker Supply Co. in Roaring Springs and may be seen anytime.

All equipment in Albuquerque will be moved to Roaring Springs.

FLOYDADA MAYOR URGES CRUSADE ATTENDANCE

"There's only one way...the pastors cannot bring revival, the evangelist cannot bring revival, the singer cannot bring revival. But, if every Christian will earnestly and eagerly seek revival, make the revival an object of secret and public prayer, invite the unsaved and unchurched to attend, God will send a revival. Bring your neighbors and friends to the Crusade, August 4-11 in Wester Field at Floydada."

Safety System Needed To Stop Farm Accidents

COLLEGE STATION — Since family members themselves are the victims in most farm and ranch accidents, farm and ranch operators should consider developing a "safety system" to eliminate these accidents.

applications of phosphate, where soil test values are in the very low range it can be a major contributor to vigorous early growth of high quality forage and can also contribute to increased grain yields," the county extension agent explains. "Unlike nitrogen which can be effectively applied anytime before tilling, phosphate must be applied in the

Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests the "Three E" approach to such a system: engineering (elimination of hazards), education (obtaining knowledge) and enforcement (supervision of workers.)

Keese cites figures by the National Safety Council which show that 89 percent of all farm and ranch accidents happen to family members while only 8 percent occur to employed farm workers and the remaining 3 percent to family guests and other visitors. Thus he cites the need for a safety system for family members to reduce farm and ranch accidents which cause more than 500,000 disabling injuries and 6,000 deaths each year.

According to the Texas A&M University System specialist, the "education or knowledge" factor of developing a safety system is of utmost importance as it is based on locating accident hazards and then correcting them.

Almost two-thirds of the injuries of farm and ranch families are work-related. About 20 percent occur in barns and other structures around the home, 15 percent in home yards, 14 percent in both barn yards and fields, 10 percent in homes and 8 percent on public roads. Farm machinery is involved in 20 percent of all injuries, with tractors having a hand in one-fourth of these accidents. Power and hand tools and motor vehicles each cause 12 percent of all farm and ranch accidents, and animals are involved in 11 percent of the injuries.

"Start your farm and ranch safety systems by inspecting your complete operation and eliminating any and all hazards," advises Keese. "Eliminating such things as trash, litter and junk in and around the home and other buildings can prevent many injuries."

"Also, be a stickler for the safety features on various power tools and equipment. Keep all guards and shields in place and observe the safety rules listed in the operator's manual for each piece of equipment.

"Of course, involve all members of the family in developing the safety system. After all, their safety and well-being is at stake," warns Keese.

Three High Plains farmers from the section of the high and rolling plains most severely affected by the prolonged drought are personally taking to Washington their case for more equitable administration of farm program disaster provisions. Heading up the delegation will be Dawson County farmer Donnell Echols of Patricia, member of the Executive Committee and past president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. He will be accompanied by Donovan Phipps of Welch, also in Dawson County, and C.A. Daugherty of Fluvanna in Scurry County.

The trip was planned for the week of July 22 at Chamber of Commerce sponsored meetings in Snyder and Lamesa July 16 and 18 involving some fifty farmers, PCG, the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association of Stamford, and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 provides that farmers prevented from planting or making less than two-thirds of normal yields because of drought or other adverse weather conditions will be paid 12.67 cents per pound times the difference between normal yields and actual production. Farmers who were not able to plant this year, generally, are happy with the way this section of the law is being administered. They will be paid 12.67 cents per pound times their allotted acreage times the farm's established yield as the law intended.

But for those who planted and either didn't get a good stand or got a stand and lost most of it to the drought, sand or hail, there are problems.

ASCS is using Federal Crop Insurance Corporation procedures to "appraise" the potential production of remaining plants on these farms, and those procedures do not permit economically sound appraisals.

A sample is a field with what the FCIC appraisers say has 18 percent of a normal stand. The farm's established yield is 544 pounds per acre, so the current procedures set potential production at 98 pounds per acre (18 percent of 544), without regard for the size and condition of plants, lack of soil moisture, the economics of trying to farm 18 percent of a stand, or the fact that such a crop couldn't be machine harvested even if it realized it's full "potential" under ideal conditions.

The determination that the field, if left to maturity would produce 98 pounds per acre, leaves the farmer with two choices. He can plow up the remaining cotton and lose over $12 per acre of his disaster payment, or he can leave the cotton until Fall to prove it won't produce, foregoing in the process any possible soil conservation or other alternative use of the land. Either way, in comparison to his neighbor who did not plant, he is being penalized for having made the effort to produce a crop.

Another gross injustice is encountered by the farmer who plants and subsequently loses cotton on more than his allotted acres. A case reviewed by PCG shows that if a farmer, with a 100-acre cotton allotment and a 100-acre feed grain allotment, planted 110 acres of cotton and no grain sorghum he would get almost $3,000 less in disaster payments than if he had planted only 100 acres of cotton. This example assumes a 600 pound established yield for cotton and a 30 bushel yield for grain sorghum.

These matters, plus other examples of misadministration, have been and continue to be called to the attention of Washington ASCS officials by PCG and others. And the trip by Dawson and Scurry County farmers is welcomed as one more step toward getting the program administered in a manner that will be fair and equitable for all farmers.

Credit Bill Signing Asked

WACO — The Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors has asked President Nixon to sign into law an emergency livestock credit bill just passed by Congress.

The legislation provides up to $250,000 credit for individual livestock producers. Eligibility would be limited to bona fide farmers and ranchers, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Here is the text of the telegram which was signed by TFB President J. T. (Red) Woodson of Gober:

"The Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors, representing 152,380 family members, urgently requests that you sign H.R. 15560 (livestock credit legislation).

Fertilizer Problem

most commonly deficient of nutrients in wheat producing soils.

"Keep in mind, however, that the heavier soils can accumulate nitrate following application rates that are above the amount removed by crops," he adds. "If you fertilized for 50 bushels of wheat last year and for some reason produced much less, chances are you have a very significant level of nitrate in the soil for the next crop. In this case, you can decrease your nitrogen rate."

Nitrate nitrogen testing in the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory in Lubbock has proven over the years to be very helpful in determining nitrogen need for wheat and other field crops, he says.

"Phosphorus is the second element of most concern. While much of the hardland area does not respond to

Boll Weevil Program Begins

FLOYDADA — The High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program begins its 10th year of service to the cotton growers of the High and Rolling Plains this 1974 crop season.

A joint effort of growers who are represented through the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and APHIS of the United States Department of Agriculture, the program's objective is to prevent the migration of the boll weevil into the High Plains and other western cotton producing states, according to County Extension Agent Doyle G. Warren.

Under the program a control method is being employed in an eight-county area at the junction of the High and Rolling Plains, east of Lubbock, Warren says. This approach consists of a schedule of insecticide applications directed at destroying diapausing weevils in cotton fields before they move to overwintering habitat.

"In general," he adds, "The program has prevented economic infestations below the Caprock and has substantially reduced the number of weevils moving into the Plains."

Warren explains that the life blood of this program is the continuing search for ways of improving it. "These activities," he says, "may range from experiments with a new boll weevil suppression method to the refinement of a survey technique."

"One technique which has received considerable attention in the last couple of years has been the use of trap crops to suppress overwintering weevils as they emerge in the spring," the extension agent reports.

Warren says trap crops to lure and aggregate boll weevils, in itself, is not a new idea. In the 1930's, Dr. Isley at the University of Arkansas recommended spot treatment of older, lush growing cotton, site of heaviest weevil activity, to control weevils. Today, the idea behind the use of trap crops is unchanged; that is, to attract, aggregate and destroy weevils before they can build in sufficient numbers to cause economic losses. "One can readily see why program officials are intensely interested in working out a practical means of using trap crops."

Today's trap crop systems with their many components are more complex than the one suggested by Dr. Isley, according to Warren. First, varieties selected for a trap crop planting are generally of a determined type which will grow off rapidly. Second, the trap crop is planted considerably earlier than the regular crop with a systematic insecticide applied in-furrow. And third, the attractiveness of the cotton in trap crop plantings is further enhanced by the addition of grandlure bait stations. These stations are placed at regular intervals within the trap crop and baited weekly. Grandlure, a synthetic bait, is an aggregating substance similar to the one manufactured by the weevils themselves to attract others of its kind. This combination of components is the same trap crop system as used in the pilot boll weevil eradication experiment in Mississippi.

"Trap crop method of suppressing overwintered weevils has met with variable success in different areas of the cotton belt. In general, the method has variable success in different areas of the cotton belt. In general, the method has been most effective in the more southern portions of the cotton belt where rainfall is plentiful and the growing season is long.

"In the northern portion of the Rolling Plains of Texas," he continues, "the trap crop system, as used in Mississippi, has been difficult to set up. The major portion of this area is dryland cotton production having a short growing season with just adequate rainfall. Therefore, producers generally have a very short period in the spring when they have enough moisture for planting. As a result, establishing trap crops which are significantly ahead of the farmer's cotton which are significant head of the farmer's cotton is nearly impossible."

Program officials now are testing variations of the trap crop in the High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program. 1974, two variations are being tested against the standard trap crop system of the pilot boll weevil eradication experiment, says Warren.

"One of the new approaches consists of using farmer planted cotton," he explains. "Areas within his cotton field with the lushest growing plants an or nearest to favorable overwintering habitat will be designated as the trap crop. These trap crop areas will be baited with grandlure and treated with ULV Malathion by aircraft."

"The other variation consists of planting the trap crop prior to the farmer's regular cotton. These trap crop areas will be baited and treated weekly by APHIS personnel who handle the operational aspects of the High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program. Jeeps mounted with mist blower-type insecticide applications are being used to treat and bait these trap crops. Weevil populations in all cotton fields with trap crops are being monitored by survey personnel to evaluate their effectiveness."

Mr. Carl Hatchett and Mr. Roy Mortiz of the local APHIS office report that hail and rain have reduced the size of this year's test, according to Warren. However, he said, they joined Mr. Ed Dean, Director of Field Services for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., in expressing optimism about the outcome of this year's trap crop test.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilson are parents of their second son, Bradford Scott, who was born Sunday, July 21 at 8:15 a.m. in Lockney General Hospital. The young man weighed seven pounds, four ounces at birth. He has an older brother, Jerry Don, age six. The father is an electrician in Floydada.

Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Cotton Wilson of Floydada and Mrs. James Biggerstaff of Lubbock. Great grandmothers are Mrs. John Galloway of Floydada, and Mrs. W.E. Biggerstaff of Lubbock.

They were very proud and hardworking.

We attended a Russian circus (much of it was acrobats), a ballet telling a Russian folk tale, the Kremlin, many beautiful cathedrals and several impressive museums and exhibitions on Russian achievements.

We visited a Pioneer Youth Camp where children ages 9-14 are allowed to go for 2 to 4 weeks vacation. They greeted us with songs, roses and applause. We played games with them, placed in a small village near the German border on the Rhine River.

The Austrians are a proud people also but they remain humble and hard working. They, like the Danes, tried to make us comfortable in every way. Our homestay families took us to Salzburg to shop and we visited several interesting monuments there.

Paris was the group's next stop and it was a very short one. We saw the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre, the Palace of Versailles and much of the downtown area of Paris.

Paris people are very easy-going and very pleasant. We did not get much chance to meet many, though.

We went back to Amsterdam to reassemble with other groups before flying to New York on our last leg of our trip. We went through customs, flew to Dallas and got to Lubbock on July 23 at 11:25.

The trip was an exciting and unusual learning experience for us all but we all learned to appreciate America much more for the advantages it provides.

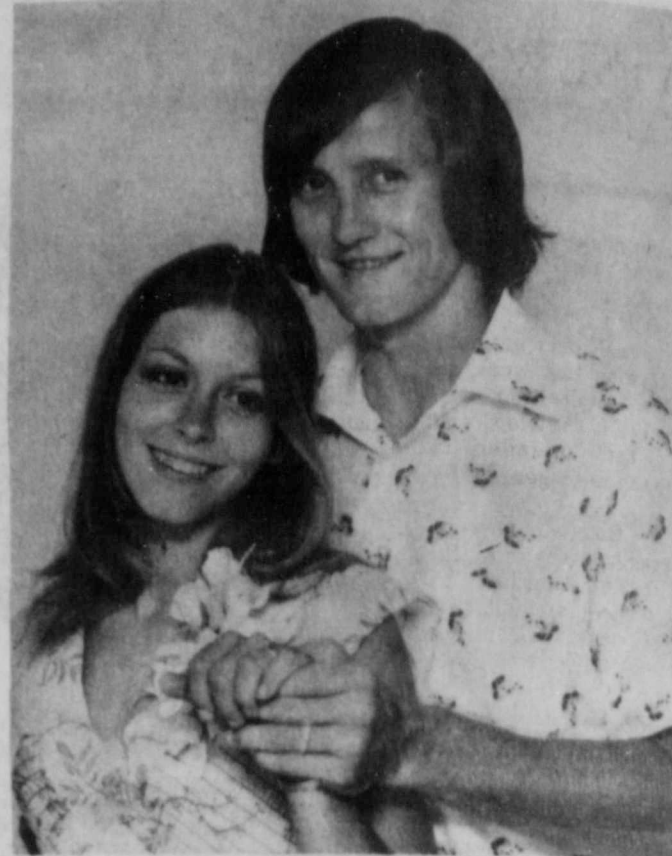

Mrs. Charles Craig, sponsor of the group, gave her viewpoints of the trip as follows:

We found the people in Austria very generous, warm and friendly and when our time came for departure there were many tears. In Denmark and Netherlands, their lifestyle was something similar to ours. In the Netherlands, however, their mode of travel is mostly by bicycle, very few cars due to the crowded populace. In England, their homes are smaller, but comfortable.

On our entire trip we saw nor ate green beans. English peas are popular in England, Austria and Denmark where there are plenty of fresh vegetables. In Austria there

People To People Tour Group Returns

(By John Willson)

The People-to-People tour group, NA 157, consisting of several Floydadites and surrounding inhabitants began their 38 day tour July 15.

The group arrived in Washington, D.C. for a two day orientation session given by the U.S. State Department on governmental function and policy. Most of these sessions were held on the George Washington University campus.

From Washington, the group flew to Amsterdam, Holland by the Royal Dutch Airline. The time difference of six hours left the group tired so they first afternoon was spent resting. Everyone walked around the city and rode the trolley cars that evening.

We saw Rembrandt's painting, "Nightwatch", the home of the character, the Ann Frank house, a colorful street market and "Maduro Dam", a miniature city, complete with small cars, planes and people, donated by a family in memory of a son killed in WWII.

Our homestays were quite good and we found the people to be hard working and extremely neat. As in other countries visited we were given a party as a group. At this one, the Dutch tried to barbecue chicken for us.

London came up next on the tour agenda. We enjoyed it in spite of the ever-present British rain. We visited Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Tower of London and Westminster Abbey. Some of the group shopped on Carnaby Street and the group ended up the day by attending a theater production entitled "Billy."

Most of the group enjoyed England in spite of bad rainy weather and the people were reserved, but nice to us.

We flew to Copenhagen,

Denmark on June 30. Our hotel here was an old passenger steamer used on the St. Lawrence seaway. The group visited the Little Mermaid statue in Copenhagen harbor, Tivoli Gardens and amusement park.

The Danes are a friendly people, ready and willing to accept the situation for what it is. They were always eager to make us comfortable and include us in all activities.

We visited Hamlet's Castle, the Danish beaches and some of the group enjoyed a ferry boat trip to the coast of Sweden.

Moscow became the next city for our visit. We had a long wait at the Russian customs office and it left everyone pretty tired. The hotel accommodations were adequate but sparse in the luxuries we were accustomed to.

We found the Russians mainly indifferent about their feelings toward us.

CARPET OF CLOVER - The J. M. Hicks' yard, with its lawn of clover, was chosen as Yard of the Week by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce. Hicks' residence is located at 908 South 4th in Floydada where he has resided for the past 14 years. Mr. Hicks does his own yard work. A spokesman for the Chamber committee said his yard was chosen for its neatness the year round. Shrubbery is always well trimmed and in the front a small but pretty array of mixed flowers in red, pink and yellow enhances the driveway. Along the south side of the home are also flower beds of mixed flowers. The committee woman said this simply was a well relaxed yard with beautiful pleasing colors but not over-done. Hicks is pictured above in his spacious yard. [Staff Photo]

Basketball and back-rubs make her easy to love

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I met a guy who says he loves me. When I ask him why, he says it's because I have a pair of pro basketball season tickets and can pilot an airplane to take us to out-of-town games. He says it's also because I give fabulous backrubs.
I care for him very much, but am wondering if this relationship can last. Strange as this seems, it's true.
UP IN THE AIR

DEAR UP: You sound easy to love. The relationship should last as long as you can get those pro basketball tickets, can fly him to out-of-town games, and provide him with backrubs.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 22-year-old sister who has been married a year and has a small baby. Her husband is a professional shoplifter. He says he's been in the business for 20 years. He rips off everything from a package of cigarettes to an $8,000 houseboat. He brags about it. She has a two-carat diamond and a houseful of furniture which he has obtained through shoplifting. It's unbelievable what this man can pick up.

I am worried about my sister. She lives in another state. When I saw her last I told her she was foolish to live with a man who might be sent to prison. She just laughed and said he is too smart to get caught, and besides all he could get is a $100 fine.

Is she mentally sick? I am 28, married to a good man and have a fine family, and I am worried. Is there anything I can do?
BIG SISTER

DEAR SIS: Tell your sister that she is mistaken if she thinks all he can get is a $100 fine for grand larceny. And if she just "laughs" when you try to set her straight, she could be mentally sick.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé is a divorced man. His "ex" calls him once a week without fail "to talk." They have no children, so I don't know what they have to talk about. (She is still unmarried.)

My fiancé says he doesn't mind her calling him because he appreciates knowing that she is okay.
He is very good to me, but these calls from his "ex" every week irritate me. I would like your opinion.
"R"

DEAR "R": In my opinion, your fiancé appears to be a very kind and considerate man. He's not married yet. If his "ex" continues to call him, and he continues to "not mind" after he's married to you, write again, and I may have a different opinion.

Field Day

September 12

The 18th annual Field Day and Open House at the High Plains Research Foundation has been scheduled for Thursday, September 12, 1974. This important agricultural event is traditionally held on the second Thursday in September. A large equipment show, along with other farm-related products, will also be on display. Anyone interested in displaying materials on this day should contact the High Plains Research Foundation, Olton Route, Plainview, or call 889-3315, Halfway, Texas.

Field tours will begin at 1:30 p.m. and continue throughout the afternoon on 20 minute intervals. There will be no stops on the tour this year, in order to allow interested persons to view as many of the research projects underway as possible. A weekly series of articles will be released to give area citizens a preview of what will be seen on the field tours.

Facilities to eat lunch will be available, and a shaded rest area will be set up for the convenience of visitors. Other information concerning Field Day will be available weekly.

The Fading Out Of God

How has God faded out of the mind of many of this age? Well, the age, like thoughtless children, believed that the toyland of material wealth was a sufficient world; then God faded out, smothered by preoccupation. One man and his wife came to the small town where they had grown up, he said to her complacently, "Well, that's where we came from, dear." And she replied with an unexpected answer: "Yes, and I am just wondering where we got to." She felt the emptiness amid the plenty. Another said, "I never consciously gave up a religious belief. It was as if I had put my beliefs into a drawer, and when I came again to look for them the drawer was empty."

The thing has happened to this generation that happened to the three generations of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. "...the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Isaac....Genesis 31:41. God was "God" to Abraham, he was his "friend" — he was intimate, first hand, and real. But in the next generation God was not but somewhat "faded and secondhand."

The same things have happened with many today. Many of our fathers were godly minded men, but now it's kinda a "fading faith," the afterglow. Thus you have decaying morals and decaying civilization. Our loss of God is working out in moral decay. Many are going to pieces morally, for they have gone to pieces religiously. They have lost God and have thus lost the basis of morals. Jacob met God on Jabbak's banks and wrestled with him long hours and emerged a new man. Unless we find a moral renewal in finding God, we are done for.

If you aren't close to God...guess who moved. Some people will starve to death because they are not sure there is any relationship between eating and living...no not physically, because most of us eat more than we should — at least at times, but I'm speaking of spiritual matters.

God Himself became a Man, in the person of Jesus the Christ, to give us all a concrete, definite, tangible idea of what to think of when we think of God. God is like Jesus. Jesus was like God. Jesus was God incarnate in human form. His appearance on the earth is the central event of all history. The Old Testament sets the stage for it, and the New Testament describes it.

As a Man, Jesus lived the most uncommonly beautiful life ever known. He was the kindest, tenderest, gentlest, most patient, most sympathetic man that ever lived, while at the same time revealed God's displeasure and wrath toward sin. He loved people, he hated to see them in trouble. He loved to forgive, as well as help. Multitudes of weary, pain-ridden and heart-sick people came to him and found healing relief. It is rightfully said of him and of none else, that if all the deeds that He did were written, the world couldn't contain the books.

Then: He died, on the cross, to provide salvation from sin for all, to become the Redeemer and Saviour of the world. Then: He arose from the dead, and now is alive making intercession at the right hand of God. And now it's all recorded in God's final divine revelation, the Bible, that man might Believe, and Understand, and Know, and Love, and Follow that Christ.

Christ is the center and heart of the Bible, the center and heart of history, and should be the center and heart of our lives. Our acceptance, or rejection, of him will determine for each of us, Eternal Glory, or Eternal Ruin: Heaven, or Hell; one, or the other.

The most important decision anyone is ever called upon to make is to settle, in his own heart, once and for all, the matter of "what will I do with Jesus." On this depends everything.

It is a glorious thing to be a Christian, the most exalted privilege of mankind. To believe and follow Christ as the Lord and master of your life, and to strive sincerely and devotedly in the way of life which he taught, and is the most reasonable and satisfactory way to live. It means peace, contentment, forgiveness, happiness, hope, life, and a life that shall never end.

How can anyone be so blind, or so unintelligent, as to go through life, and face death, without the hope offered in and through Christ? Apart from Christ, what is there, what can there be, either in this world or the next, to make life worthwhile? It seems like every human being would welcome Christ and his salvation with open arms, and consider it the proudest privilege of his life to wear the name of Christ. Why is it that we have to beg, plead, and what ever else to get people to surrender their will to his will and live for him in his divine way of Truth?
