Lockney Feedyard 18,000 Strong

One of the biggest industries in Floyd County and one of the most important ones to the area grain farmer is the Lockney Feedyard which is located about five miles northwest of Lockney.

At a time when the "fed cattle" industry has been hit hard by low market and high grain costs many feedlots all over the United States have gone broke or have cut the size of their operations considerably.

Friday morning in an interview with Lockney Feedyard manager Hank Winter it was learned that the feedyard is "holding its own" and is now feeding some 18,000 head of cattle. "We will probably receive some more cattle as they begin to come off wheat next month," Winter added.

The feedyard maintains a good payroll with some 20 people employed. Comparing the economics of his business with a year ago Winter said that the cattle market is lower and the price of grain sorghum is also lower.

Winter is convinced that the people of this area still prefer good grain fed steaks. He was over in Lubbock one day and visited some restaurants. The restaurants serving grass fed beef were nearly empty. The restaurants serving grain fed steaks were doing a big business.

WHAT IS THE HOUSEWIFE BUYING?

Meat markets in Floyd County are selling both grain and grass fed beef. In buying a half beef at the Ponderosa in Floydada you will pay 69c per pound for grass fed beef and 85c for grain fed beef. It seems that grass fed beef is leaner and of course cheaper. Grain fed beef is tastier and probably more tender.

MARKET PRICE

Winter said his grain fed cattle were bringing around 35c per pound and that grass fed steers were bringing around 25c per pound.

Although Winter sells fat cattle to nearby Missouri Beef Packers in Plainview, he said most of his cattle are now going to states east of here.

Mackenzie Lake Lots By April, Maybe

"We should have lots platted and ready for lease sometime in April or May," president of the Mackenzie Water Authority board Lon Davis said in an interview Friday morning.

Davis said that roads around the lake had been built by the dam contractor Gilvan and Terrell of Amarillo and culverts had been installed under the road in several places to keep the road from washing out.

Davis said the State Parks and Wildlife department had built a new $20,000 boat ramp on the south side of the lake near the dam. "This was built at no charge to our water authority," Davis added.

He said the all weather road across the dam had been completed and the lake is about 40 feet deep and stocked with fish. However, no one is admitted to the lake area without special permission.

Davis said the lots would be around 25,000 square feet and larger than the lots at White River Lake. He said the lease per lot per year cost would be similar to that charged at White River.

"REA is cooperating with our overall development plan by keeping electric poles to a minimum and we want to keep the natural beauty of the lake area as original as possible," Davis continued.

Davis also said that the live springs that feed into the lake are maintaining a lake level balance considering the loss of water to evaporation and seepage.

Celebrating George Washington's Birthday On The 17th?

Yes, that's right. Actually, his birthday is the 22nd, but by moving it up to Monday, it makes a long weekend for the government employees.

So...the Post Office, the ASCS, the SCS, the County Agent's office, the Federal Land Bank, the Farmer's Home Administration office will probably be closed Monday.

Oh yes...the bank will be closed too.

The county courthouse and city office will be open.

McAdoo-Motley Basketball Play-off Here

Everyone is invited to see some exciting basketball games in Graves gymnasium Saturday night.

The game for 9-B district championship will be played between the McAdoo and Motley County girls at 7 p.m.

The boys game that will follow is for the second round championship to break a tie between McAdoo and Motley County.

Who Is Responsible?

be very simple if we could w book or if there was a custom to determine who is to organize and pay for service for this community.

not the case. History shows dance service was always of by the local funeral home. for years we have seen a specially in the larger cities of mes dropping the service by and municipal organizing up the responsibility.

the problem is hitting the wn. Lockney, Lorenzo and e solved their ambulance through their volunteer fire Crosbyton a former highway n has set up a private service and he is subsidized payer.

Rose Funeral Home has been king the announcement last they wanted loose from the January 1, 1975. They have without ambulance service intime, but they declared last unty judge J. K. Holmes that soon give it up.

ili be responsible for the service in this community? ock Hospital board, the city and the county commissioners right and at the end of the he Caprock Hospital adminis- need to work out a plan and eate for the hospital personnel e of the ambulance service. is, we think, is feasible and heu the major part of the cost e service is paying the to be ready around the clock, al seemed to be in the best equipped to take on the service. They have qualified people employed around the clock and it would be simple to just pay them extra for ambulance calls.

Who will pay the taxes for the ambulance service? Logically everyone in this community should pay to maintain such a service. If the tax money is taken from both the city and county taxpayer, the city residents will be taxed twice. If the county handles it, the Lockney precinct would not be included, because they have already settled their ambulance problem.

And, we don't feel that the ambulance service should be set up purely as "non profit". Every effort should be made to collect for every call or trip. Tax money should be used only to balance out the cost of operation.

Who will need the ambulance service. Actually, everyone...city resident, county resident...a family from California perhaps on the way through here and involved in an accident.

How many ambulance calls per year for this community? Edell Moore and Alton Rose estimate a total of 240 per year...of this amount 40 would be emergency ambulance calls.

What kind of service are we willing to pay for? If it is me...or if it is you, we must honestly say that we want the best qualified ambulance service to pick us up and bring us to the hospital. We want them there in a hurry, we want them to be trained on how to take care of us properly on the way to the hospital.

Former Floydada Man Show Manager 28 Years

(Hesperian Editor's Note: The following article was taken from the Fort Worth Star Telegram concerning a former Floydada resident, Bill King, brother of Russell King of Floydada. Bill was reared in Floydada and is a graduate of Floydada High School. He also served as an agriculture teacher here for several years. Bill has been show manager of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show for the past 28 years.)

On thousand eight hundred and twenty eight horses, 7,842 cattle, sheep and hogs plus about 3,000 chickens, turkeys, rabbits and pigeons all under one roof makes quite a show.

That is roughly what you will be seeing when you visit the big Fort Worth Stock Show Jan. 24-Feb. 2. I guess I should give you the formal name properly. It is the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show. But to a few hundred thousand folks around the country who will be coming in for it, it will always be the Fort Worth Stock Show.

There are many colorful facts about this big show that always come to mind. The world's first indoor rodeo and still one of the great rodeos of them all, the only parade that I know of that is 100 percent horse drawn, a true western spirit that simply permeates the air and the place where the real cattlemen of the Southwest gather culminate at the show.

The livestock show itself has been managed for the last 28 years by W. A. "Bill" King. Bill actually joined the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce as its agricultural department head in 1945, a position he still holds, but in 1947 he took leave from his duties long enough to manage the livestock department of the big show.

Ever since that time he has annually donned his boots and big hat and moved

In fact the Fort Worth show was one of the first to include a beef carcass contest as a major show feature. Because of these facets of stock show, the consumer will have better beef that has been produced more efficiently.

Another change in the beef steer exhibit is the opening of the show to cross-bred calves, made several years ago. In fact more than half of the beef steers on exhibit this year will be cross-bred. This has encouraged the crossbreeding of animals to obtain better growing calves.

Another big change that Bill King has helped to bring about is the long list of cattle sales. This year there will be sales of Hereford females, Angus bulls, Gelbvieh, Blonde D' Aquitaine, Limousin, Charolais and Simmental cattle. These are in addition to the sales of lambs, barrows and steers in the Junior Livestock Show.

Bill King interrupted my talking about cattle to remind me that similar progress has been made in the show for swine and sheep. Equal emphasis is given to these. And the shows of these animals is a source of pride to everybody.

To manage the big show Bill supervises the efforts of 25 department superintendents. An interesting fact about these men is that many of them couldn't care less about the little pay they get. They are business and professional men who love the show and deem it a real pleasure to spend the time helping out. This is especially true of the superintendents of the Junior Livestock Show.

There is much more to the story, but when you view the livestock at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show you might remember that the man in charge is Bill King. If you should happen to meet him,

George Washington Considered Agriculture Important To The Success Of Every Nation

Everyone knows that George Washington gave seven years of his life without pay to command the Revolutionary Army and eight more to serve as the new country's first president. What isn't so well known is that he would have been much happier "under his own vine and fig tree." By his own admission, George Washington's first interest was farming.

It was because of his interest in farming and his accomplishments as a successful farmer that FFA WEEK is celebrated during the week of George Washington's birthday. In addition, George Washington has been labeled the patron saint of the organization and has come to symbolize the FFA Treasurer.

Actually it was a small inheritance that launched Washington's career as a farmer; he was 11 when his father died. According to custom, Lawrence—as the oldest son—got most of the estate including Mt. Vernon. Washington's small inheritance was only a 280-acre Cherry Tree Farm plus a share of land at Deep Run.

Washington started accumulating land with money he earned as a surveyor. At 16, George had bought 550 acres.

Washington resigned his military commission when he was 26 and soon married Martha Custis, a wealthy Virginia widow. At that time he owned about 5,000 acres of land which included Mt. Vernon's 2,500 acres inherited from his brother Lawrence.

Washington began to take farming seriously! He had a keen business mind, an eye for detail, and a searching curiosity about anything new.

Washington divided his huge estate into five farms. Each farm's overseer made weekly reports which Washington used for his notes, diaries, and account books. He made exacting notes on planting, harvest, and sale—a trait that is recognized in the FFA.

As early as 1766, Washington realized the error in continued tobacco cultivation. He practically abandoned tobacco, the major colonial crop.

Some have called Mt. Vernon one of the earliest "experiment stations" in America. It's true that Washington tried various manure and water applications under controlled conditions. He experimented with countless new seeds, fertilizers and management practices. Washington called the life of a farmer "most delectable." "It is honorable. It is amusing, and, with judicious management, it is profitable," he said.

Perhaps his far-reaching vision and love of farm life are best expressed in his eighth address to Congress: "It will not be doubted that with reference either to individual, or National Welfare, Agriculture is of primary importance. In proportion as nations advance in population, and other circumstances of maturity, this truth becomes more apparent; and renders the cultivation of the soil more and more, an object of public patronage."

The key to success in their search is a sound vocational education program. When combined with an active FFA chapter in which members learn by doing, the program unites youth with career opportunities in agriculture.

In the classroom and in practical experience activities FFA members learn about opportunities in the American Free Enterprise system. They learn too, how to take advantage of their opportunities and select a career.

The vocational agriculture-FFA program of career education strives to match the individual's skills and potentials with likely opportunities which the student may find interesting and relevant.

The expansion of career opportunities in the American agri-complex is not new. Many people are needed to do the millions of "jobs" necessary to keep the agri-complex moving. What is new is the emphasis being placed on the broad spectrum of careers in the total field of agribusiness. Frequently members have the opportunity to put their classroom knowledge to use in an occupational experience program with an agribusiness firm, thus expanding the opportunities available to FFA members beyond the traditional production agriculture.

FFA provides its members an opportunity to develop their personal and career potentials, such as assuming responsibility, taking the lead, speaking out for what they believe, working with others and making decisions.

These and many other ways FFA unites youth with their opportunities.

Proud Past — Bright Future

The FFA began working with Colombia, South America, in the early '60's when the Agency for International Development invited the national FFA organization to send an official to assist Colombians in establishing a youth organization for students of vocational agriculture. As a result of that visit, the Futuros Agricultores de Colombia, FAC (Future Farmers of Colombia) was founded. The organization was patterned after the Future Farmers of America, and even today the organization uses many similar rituals and has the same aims and purposes.

Throughout the '60's the FFA maintained contact with the Future Farmers of Colombia. In 1968 a national FFA officer traveled to Buga, Colombia to attend the National Convention of the FAC. In 1970 the FFA sent its Manager of International Activities, and an FFA member, Alfred Trujillo of New Mexico, to Colombia to learn how the FFA could be of further assistance to the Colombian students. As a result of their visit to schools in both Columbia and Panama, an exchange program for students and teachers was

The desire of those who have been members of the FFA in the past to become involved and join together in a united effort has led to the establishment of the National FFA Alumni Association. Its purposes are to help educate others in agriculture, to

FFA Facts

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization of, by, and for students studying Vocational Agriculture in the public schools. The FFA is an educational, non-profit, nonpolitical youth organization of voluntary membership, designed to develop agricultural leadership, character, thrift, scholarship, cooperation, citizenship and patriotism. One of the requirements for membership is that the students must be enrolled in a high school class of Vocational Agriculture. In these vocational agriculture classes, students are provided an opportunity to secure technical and scientific training in all phases of agriculture. Texas is the largest of the fifty (50) chartered State Associations with over 10% of the national membership. Texas

SALUTING FFA DURING NATIONAL FFA WEEK

Proud Past — Bright Future

One of the best examples of youth in action on the American scene today is the FFA, the national organization for students studying vocational agriculture in the public high schools. It is an organization run by the student-members under adult guidance.

Soon after vocational agriculture became a subject in many of the nation's high schools in 1917, instructors became aware of the need to provide practical training beyond the traditional classroom approach. Their idea was to make the instruction more interesting by making practical work experience, competitive livestock judging, and agricultural leadership development activities part of the instruction. Vocational agriculture instructors and students eagerly accepted the learn by doing principle.

The FFA was founded nationally in 1928 after similar organizations had started in several states. Right from the beginning, the FFA has stressed leadership, cooperation and citizenship — all vital to success in modern agriculture.

Today the FFA has a membership of over 450,000 with chapters in approximately 8,000 high schools throughout the nation. The organization has state associations in all states, except Alaska, and in Puerto Rico.

Vocational agriculture or agribusiness programs are funded in part by the National Vocational Education Acts through the U.S. Office of Education, state departments of education and the local school systems. The FFA operates under a federal charter granted by an Act of Congress in 1950 (Public Law 740, 81st Congress). The charter provides for a national board of directors and a board of student officers elected from the membership.

FFA activities are specifically designed to be a part of the instructional program in vocational agriculture. Members learn through active participation how to conduct and take part in public meetings, how to speak in public, and how to take a leadership role in their school and community.

Each local chapter and each state association elects its own officers each year. In all cases the teacher of vocational agriculture is the advisor of the local FFA chapter and the State supervisor of agricultural education is the advisor of the state association.

FFA members have full opportunity to practice the principles of democracy in conducting the affairs of their organization by exercising their privilege to vote at chapter meetings, serve on committees, and otherwise assist in carrying on the work of their organization. Elected delegates to the state and national conventions, held each year, are asked to decide on major issues facing the organization.

Advancement through the degrees in the organization from the Green Hand through the Chapter Farmer, State Farmer, and American Farmer or Agribusinessman is based on achievement in farming, ranching, or agribusiness careers.

Nearly 8,000 public high schools have FFA chapters. One of the requirements for membership in FFA is that a student be enrolled in vocational agriculture. Students may retain their membership until they are 21.

Competition is a key element of the FFA from the chapter to the national level. Each year the FFA recognizes more than 80,000 members at local, state and national levels for outstanding achievement in activities related to agriculture career and leadership development.

Funds for awards are provided by more than 700 businesses, organizations, and individuals that sponsor FFA programs through the National FFA Foundation, Inc. The Foundation provides nearly half a million dollars to make the incentive awards available to deserving FFA members in the following award programs: Star Farmer and Star Agribusinessman awards, 19 agricultural proficiency awards, public speaking, national chapter awards, national chapter safety, Building Our American Communities Awards, national judging contests, establishment in agriculture awards, and through state initiated programs for improving agricultural leadership. Recent food shortages in this careers in production agriculture, agribusiness or natural resources.

Their goal is to become employed in one of the thousands of occupations that serve consumers by supplying and servicing the nation's farmers, by producing an abundant supply of food and fiber and by maintaining and carefully using precious natural resources.

The optimism of these young people comes from the realization that they will be part of the nation's largest and most vital industry. Today two out of every five jobs are related to agriculture. They know that food produced by the nation's farmers is the backbone in our successful free enterprise system. They know too the pride and accomplishment of working in one of the most modern and efficient agriculture production plants in the world.

Through their membership in the FFA, vocational agriculture students are preparing themselves for the challenges of tomorrow's agriculture. As officers, committee participants, and in chapter business and community service ventures, FFA members learn to set goals, work together and take a leadership role to achieve their goals. It is this training that helps prepare for tomorrow's agriculture and gives members a chance for GROWTH.

FFA... A Chance For Growth!

Members of the Floydada Chapter join with over 450,000 other FFA members in the United States in celebrating National FFA Week which starts February 15.

Throughout the Week the Texas chapters are planning activities to support the theme, "FFA A Chance For Growth."

National FFA Week always includes George Washington's birthday in observance of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices. Washington is considered the patron saint of the FFA and has come to symbolize the FFA Treasurer.

Organized in 1928, the FFA promotes leadership, cooperation and citizenship among high school vocational agriculture students. The FFA Foundation awards program provides chapter, state and national recognition for supervised programs of agricultural production, marketing, processing and service.

DID YOU KNOW?

FFA members are students of high school vocational agribusiness.

Vocational agribusiness is taught in over 3,000 schools in the United States. Its objectives are to prepare students for satisfying careers on the farm, in businesses that support modern farmers, and in forestry, horticulture, and natural resources. Agribusiness education today includes instruction in agricultural production, processing, supply and service, mechanics, horticulture, forestry and natural resources.

Love

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of Angels and have not charity, I am come as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith that I could remove mountains, and I have not charity, I am nothing.

And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing."

You have just read the words of Paul in Corinthians 13 1-3. The message Paul is trying to get across to the Christians is we can have all things going for us but without the Divine Love of Jesus all these other things are of no value to us.

The law of the Bible is love, we as Christians need to ask God to implant in our hearts the divine love of Jesus. Speaking love is not enough we must show love in our daily living. There are nine ingredients of divine love.

1. PATIENCE - no hurry, suffers long, believes, hopes, and endures all things.
2. KINDNESS - never acts rashly or insolently, not inconsistent, puffed up or proud.
3. GENEROSITY - love in competition; not envious or jealous.
4. HUMILITY - love in hiding, no parade, no airs, works then retires.
5. COURTESY - always polite, never rude or discourteous, does not behave unseemly.
6. UNSELFISHNESS - never sour or bitter, seeks on good of others, never seeks revenge.
7. GOOD TEMPER - Never irritated, never resentful.
8. RIGHTEOUSNESS - hates sin, never glad when others go wrong, always eager to believe the best, always enduring.
9. SINCERITY - never boastful and conceited, always honest, does not blaze out in passionate anger, knows how to be silent, full of trust.

HOW IS YOUR LOVE LIFE?

INCOME TAX REFUND NEWS

CHARLES YOUNG of Rogers, Arkansas will be conducting a healing and charismatic crusade at the Floydada Four Square Gospel Church, 202 Marivena Street at 2 p.m. Sunday. The services will continue each night at 7:30 through Thursday. Pastor of the church Gerald Holder said the crusade will be a time to receive miracles and answers from God, persons may be healed and blessed and it will be a time to hear

Time is running out for taxpayers who would like to receive a speedy refund on their income taxes this year, according to Walter Perry, Director's Representative of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for the Plainview area.

Perry said today the IRS can usually get a refund off within four to five weeks if a taxpayer files a correct return by about the middle of February. After that time, he said, the waiting period starts getting longer peaking at ten to twelve weeks for returns sent to the IRS in the closing weeks of the filing season.

Even an early filer may have his or her refund delayed if the return contains mistakes. For this reason, Perry urged all taxpayers to double-check their returns before mailing them to the IRS.

Farm-facts

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Not everything you hear or see about the livestock outlook is bad. There are some heartening signs. Take a look at the December meat production figures, for example, and look, too, at the cow slaughter picture.

Both in Texas and throughout the nation, production of red meats is increasing. In Texas, commercial production during December was up 38 per cent from a year ago, and 13 per cent higher than 1973. Nationwide, red meat production is seven per cent more than a year earlier. Beef production is up eight per cent. Cattle kill is up 13 per cent.

Cow slaughter—the beef industry factory—is also on the increase. Cow slaughter in 1974 totaled 7,600,000 head. It is projected that will increase at least a third more during 1975.

All of this means we are making progress in reduction of beef supplies. But until they decline even more, the livestock picture is not going to be bright.

Per capita consumption of beef continues to increase, too, but unfortunately, beef production is still ahead of consumption. It's estimated that we will produce about 125 pounds per capita of beef while consumption is projected at around 116 pounds per capita.

Beef is now perhaps the best food buy around; look around and you'll see that beef prices to the consumer finally are showing some relation to the price drops suffered by the producer for the past year or so.

OFF-FARM grain storage capacity in Texas as of Jan. 1 is down 33,000,000 bushels from a year ago, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Off-farm storage totaled 719,000,000 bushels.

By regions, West Texas capacity dropped from 445,000,000 to 416,000,000; North Texas capacity dropped from 167,000,000 to 154,000,000; and South Texas capacity increased from 140,000,000 to 149,000,000 bushels.

Meanwhile, farmers should consider locating storage now for grain crops in view of projections of increased acreage, especially for grain sorghum.

RICE stocks and corn are reported to be above amounts on hand compared to a year ago in Texas. Sorghum, wheat, barley and oats are below last year.

Grain sorghum stocks in Texas are down 41 per cent from a year ago; wheat is down 2,000,000 bushels from a year ago; oats are down 9,000,000 bushels; barley is 594,000 bushels below a year ago.

Nationwide, stocks of all grains except wheat were below a year earlier. Stocks of the four feed grains—corn, oats, barley and sorghum—are 22 per cent less than a year ago.

Corn is down 19 per cent; wheat is up 19 per cent; soybeans are down 14 per cent.

COTTON CLASSING LOWEST SINCE 1950

Cotton classing volume was the lowest on the High Plains since 1950, according to Paul R. Dickson, in charge of the USDA's Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock. "We've had two years close to this season's total. The 1967 crop of 1,117,000 and the 1971 crop was 1,121,000," he commented.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported 20,000 samples were classed during the week ending Friday, January 31. This brought the season's total to 1,083,000. On this same date last year the total was 2,418,000 Dickson said.

Predominant grades this season were 41, 51, and 42. Grade 41 accounted for 21 percent, grade 51 was assigned to 23 percent and grade 42 was 28 percent of the samples. Last year the predominant grades were 31 and 41 at 26 and 46 percent respectively.

Twenty-nine percent of this crop was reduced one grade because of bark. Last year's crop had bark reductions on 4 percent.

The average staple length this year was 31.7 thirty-seconds of an inch compared to 31.1 last year.

Micronaire readings in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9 accounted for 20 percent of this crop compared to 81 percent last year.

University, College Station; and an exposition on stubble utilization by Dr. John Ward of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Dr. Bruce Maunder of Dekalb AgResearch at Lubbock will preside over the wrapup session ending the morning program, and Dr. Dale Weibel of Oklahoma State University at Stillwater will be session chairman for the afternoon session on research.

TEXAS SORGHUM YIELDMASTER harvests 9925.45 pounds per acre. Charlie Boedeker of Lockney was recently cited by Dekalb Yieldmasters Club for his 1974 production of 9925.45 pounds per acre of sorghum. Boedeker's yield was mechanically harvested from a solid block measuring 70.567 acres and verified by an impartial, third party. The yield came from a field of Dekalb F-65b. According to Boedeker, the "key" to obtaining his top yield was "proper preparation of the soil before planting and harvesting early to reduce field losses." Boedeker planted the field on May 24 in 40 inch rows and at 9 pounds per acre. His fertilizer program included 155 pounds of nitrogen and 40 pounds of phosphate. Boedeker controlled weeds with Propazine and used Di-Syston and Diazinon for insect control. Boedeker farms 960 acres including 320 acres of sorghum, 160 acres of wheat and 180 acres of cotton. Concerning Dekalb, Boedeker says, "This is the second year that I have planted F-65b. In 1973, it yielded 12,000 plus pounds per acre. It stands well and is quick to dry down — which allows me to harvest early and reduce field losses. I will definitely plant it again this year." The purpose of the Dekalb Yieldmasters Club is to promote an exchange of ideas among the nation's leading grain producers and to recognize them for their outstanding accomplishments as well as their important role in helping feed the world. Through the sharing of this information, the program also encourages farm management and cultural practices that will aid farmers in obtaining maximum profit from each acre.

Floyd SWCD Enters Contest

G. L. Fawver announced this week that the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District number 104 will enter the Texas Conservation Awards Program sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. The Texas Conservation Awards Program is in its 30th year honoring Conservation districts, conservationists and businesses across the state of Texas for their accomplishments in outstanding work in soil, water, and plant conservation activities.

The district will enter the contest for conservation districts and the entry will be judged on a regional and state basis. The Floyd County SWCD is in regional 1 which consists of 51 counties in the South Plains and Panhandle areas.

The regional 1 banquet and awards program will be held at Lubbock May 5 and the state banquet and awards program will be held at Fort Worth at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel May 2, 1975. Fawver also announced that several other entries from the Floyd County SWCD will be submitted this week and the winners will be announced at a later date.

There are encouraging signs that burdensome textile inventories are being worked down, that demand for yarns is picking up, and that a gradual upturn in the demand for raw cotton may be in sight, comments Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

For the first time in many months, cotton yarn spinners in late December, 1974, reported interest in contract purchases, Johnson notes. This marked a break in the hand-to-mouth buying that has dominated the industry of late, as knitters sought contracts for delivery of cotton and polyester-cotton yarns through the first quarter and in some instances through June 1975.

An article in a leading textile trade publication at the time stated, "Yarn buyers are again seeking long-term contracts because their inventories have been depleted and they realize that raw cotton prices cannot go much lower."

"This was the first solid evidence of improved yarn demand we had seen in a long time," Johnson said, "and there have been other encouraging signs since then."

In late January, for example, a high official of Montgomery Ward said that the giant retailer's apparel inventories were in "excellent shape." He suggested that apparel stocks were in better shape than hard lines "because we haven't felt the price pressure to liquidate appliances and hard goods on the same basis."

Johnson also referred to "price pressure." The contract purchases reported by yarn spinners in December were at "greatly reduced prices," and Johnson cautioned that spinners could not continue making large volume sales until prices were high enough to represent a satisfactory margin of profit.

The price element in contract purchases was made as well in Daily News Record of January 27, Johnson noted, under the headline, "Cotton Yarn Production Hits Comeback Trail." The Daily News Record is often referred to as the "Bible" of the textile industry.

The DNR article opened by stating, "The cotton yarn industry... is beginning to restore production." It continued with, "The moderate revival of demand which began last month has resumed after the holiday shutdowns. As a result, producers of all cotton and cotton-polyester yarns have built up fairly good backlogs extending through the first quarter."

"Knitters making Fall 1975 plans have in some cases made yarn commitments extending well beyond the first quarter. But this abandonment of the spot buying policy in favor of intermediate-term contracts... has been exacted at what spinners describe as profitless prices."

Depressed cotton exports and many other factors have affected and continue to affect cotton prices, Johnson concluded, "but these favorable developments on the domestic scene are noteworthy as a step toward a turnaround in the raw fiber market, hopefully no later than the second quarter of this year."

TEXAS TALK

BY DON GRANTHAM

Q: What are some of the characteristics of a good breeding bull not necessarily required for good beef cattle?

A: Most notable characteristics for breeding bulls not necessary in beef cattle include: a masculine appearance, bred markings, constitution and a good weight-to-age ratio.

CONSTITUTION — Usually described as the positive tendency of an animal to perform well and survive during advanced age. Physical characteristics indicative of a good constitution are full development of the forequarters, wide-open and broad nostrils, a strong straight back and good body width and depth.

MASCULINITY — Evidenced by the appearance of the bull. General features to look for are a full neck, strong horns (when this is a breed characteristic), full forehead with good development of chest and shoulders.

EASTER SEAL MAIL APPEAL BEGINS HERE

Easter Seal Appeal letters are being delivered this week according to Miss Lyda Walding, the Floyd County Easter Seal Representative of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. The Representative serves as contact for disabled persons needing Easter Seal rehabilitation services and also serves as Treasurer of the Easter Seal Appeal in the County.

The Easter Seal Society offers physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs, and special equipment loans to enable disabled persons to make the best use of their abilities to overcome handicaps. These services are financed by the annual Easter Seal Appeal and Fall Membership Drive.

The Society finances public education programs, provides scholarships for training of professional personnel to staff rehabilitation centers, and helps provide for National research into the causes and cures of crippling conditions. Miss Walding pointed out that all these programs are important if Texas is going to continue to provide the best in rehabilitation services for its own disabled citizens.

During 1974, the Texas Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services for 20,152 children and adults who were in need of assistance. Easter Seal services are available to any disabled person who can benefit from help provided by the Easter Seal Society, and who do not qualify for any other assistance. Self-mailing requests for Society, and who do not qualify for any other assistance. Self-mailing requests for assistance are available through the Representative.

The Easter Seal Campaign will continue through Easter Sunday, March 30.
