More Floyd Families Headed By Women

NEW YORK, May 23 - In Floyd County, as in most other parts of the country, more families are headed by women than ever before.

In the absence of husbands, for one reason or another, they have taken over the responsibility of earning a living, maintaining a home and bringing up their children by themselves.

In 1970, when the last census was taken, it was found that 158 local families, amounting to 5.7% of the total, were headed by women.

Since then there has been a general increase throughout the country, according to a sampling survey made by the Department of Commerce.

In Floyd County, as a result, it is estimated that the proportion is now approximately 6.6%.

Elsewhere in the United States, by way of comparison, the average is 12.4%. Among the white population it is 9.9% and, among the black, 34.0%.

There are now over 6.6 million families headed by women, 1 million more than in 1970.

Why the sudden increase? The Institute of Life Insurance has an explanation for it.

It states that in 1968, for example, being widowed (46% were) was the principal reason for women moving into the leadership role. The second was divorce or separation (44%).

Today, divorce or separation has jumped into the lead (50%), well ahead of widowhood (37%). The number of single women heading families has also increased, going from 10% to 13%.

More and more, as a result, children are being brought up by their mothers alone. The Census Bureau reports that 14% of all children in the United States under the age of 18, or 1 out of every 7, are now being raised by their mothers.

In Floyd County, according to the latest Government figures, 90 of the families with female heads have children under 18 and 35 of those have children under age 6.

The changes in household composition and family structure are attributed to such factors as changing attitudes towards marriage and toward separation and divorce. Better job opportunities for women has also been a factor.

1976 PRESIDENT OF FLOYD COUNTY PIONEER ASSOC...is a native of Floyd County, S.V. Adams. He was elected during the business session of the association May 24th. Adams is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Adams, pioneers of the county who settled in the Lakeview Community in the 1890s. (Staff Photo)

Summer Evening Courses Offered At Regional Occupation Center

The first summer Regional Occupational Center will be June 2 through July 11, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. All registration will be June 2 p.m. All registration will be at the Regional Occupational Center Building, on the College Campus, 708 S. Main.

The Regional Occupational Center is a joint effort of the Central Plains Higher Education Authority of Plainview, Wayland Baptist College, and South Plains College in Levelland.

The ROC was formed to provide technical, vocational and occupational education in the Plainview area. The classes are offered to persons who are high school graduates or who possess the GED certificate. Persons without the GED may apply for probationary enrollment.

The complex of buildings housing the Center includes the Clay and Maudie Muncy Building which includes 5,000 square feet and houses five offices, three classrooms, storage and other facilities. The Muncys are from Lockney and are principal donors of the building.

The $135,000 project also includes an 8,400 square foot shop building in which automotive mechanics, welding, electronics and other courses are offered. Additional buildings and programs will be added as public response increases. The staff is employed and supervised by the administration of South Plains College.

Those interested in training for management and vocational skills are encouraged to take the instruction. Cost is $58 for three hours, $64 for four hours, $70 for five hours, $76 for six hours, and $85 for seven hours. Mize TV To Open Monday

Wilbur Mize of Mize Pharmacy and TV in Lockney announces that Mize TV in Floydada will open on June 2. Mize TV's Floydada location will be 215 South Main Street (the old John Deere building downtown).

Mize TV will sell and service RCA and Soundesign products in Floydada and will continue to offer the same lines of merchandise and services at the Lockney store.

Vic Tunnell will be moving to Floydada from Levelland shortly after the first of June to assume duties as manager and full-time service man at the Floydada store.

Tunnell, 28, is a Viet Nam veteran. He is a 1964 graduate of Levelland High School and a 1974 graduate of South Plains College, where he completed six semesters of electronics study. He and his wife Vivian have two daughters, Tonya, 11, and Veronica, 7. They are members of the First Methodist Church.

Dates for Mize's grand opening sale in Floydada will be announced later.

Farmers Needing Hot Weather

With hailstones stripping a wide area of wheat in Armstrong, Cottle and Motley Counties Wednesday and Thursday Floyd County farmers are hopefully looking forward to some hot weather to begin wheat harvest in this area.

As one elevator manager said, "This cold weather, if it continues, can do some harm to our wheat crops." The temperature dropped to 54 Friday morning and was in the lower 50's again Saturday morning, following a cold front which moved through the Floydada area Thursday afternoon.

Most elevator men say wheat harvest for this area is about 10 days to two weeks off, that is, if good weather holds.

Moisture over Floyd County, in scattered areas, has also delayed some farmers in planting. Another half-inch of rain fell in downtown Floydada about midnight Wednesday.

A spot check over the county Friday showed farmers in the fields either plowing or planting, with an overhead cloud cover. Weathermen, however, were promising dry weather until at least Monday.

Church Engages Music And Summer Youth Director

O. J. Bryson, 37, head of the Music Department at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, has accepted the position as coordinator and director of the full music and choir program at First Baptist Church in Floydada.

Bryson will commute to Floydada from Plainview each Wednesday and Sunday, beginning this Sunday at morning services.

He has been head of the Music Department at Wayland for the past year and served at Howard-Payne University at Brownwood prior to that. Bryson organized a singing group after coming to Wayland and they have just recently completed an engagement at Disneyland in California.

Bryson and his wife have two children.

Youth Director for the summer at First Baptist Church is Teresa (Tree) Davidson of Albuquerque, New Mexico. She is also a student at Wayland Baptist College.

Miss Davidson is a popular student leader at Wayland and very active in youth and church activities. She will be making her home with Mrs. T. T. Hamilton in Floydada during the summer months and will start her duties with the local church, Sunday, June 1.

Two Year Old In Serious Condition

From Burns

Two year old Angie Carver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Carver of Floydada, is said to be in a serious condition in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo suffering with second degree burns over 40-50 percent of her body.

The little girl suffered the burns Thursday night at the family home from scalding water in an electric vaporizer. A relative said the vaporizer was being used for the Carver's baby son at the time. Angie got out of her bed for a drink of water and evidently tripped and became entangled in the cord to the vaporizer, the relative said.

She was given emergency treatment at Caprock Hospital then transferred by Caprock Ambulance Service to Northwest Texas Hospital about 2 a.m.

Grants-In-Aid Locally Total $1,973,000

NEW YORK, May 16-From a dollars and cents standpoint, how much did Federal grants-in-aid and revenue sharing produce for Floyd county in the past fiscal year?

Did the price it had to pay for these grants, by the taxes allocated to the programs, make them worthwhile financially?

Under the various types of aid available -- there are hundreds of them -- assistance is offered to states and local communities for purposes ranging from welfare grants and child care to road building and education.

The cost to some localities, in the past year, proved to be greater than the aid received. Others got back more than they put in.

A comprehensive state-by-state study of the programs, based upon Treasury Department figures, was made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization that keeps watch over government taxation and spending.

A breakdown of its figures indicates that the amount of aid received by Floyd County was relatively small.

An estimated $1,973,000 went to Floyd county in the year under a variety of aid programs.

In the State of Texas as a whole, the grants totaled $2,119,000,000, the Government's figures show.

The amounts refer only to grants-in-aid and revenue sharing and do not include Federal spending in local areas for goods and services.

As to the cost of the benefits received, the Tax Foundation finds that some $2,273,000,000 of the taxes collected throughout the state went into the aid programs.

Floyd County's share of the cost was approximately $2,111,000, exclusive of matching funds.

Nationally, the figures show, $38.5 billion was distributed in grants-in-aid and $6.1 billion in revenue sharing, a total of $44.6 billion.

In 23 states the costs exceeded the grants received. The other 27 states came out on the plus side.

Indiana was the biggest loser, paying $1.58 for every $1 that was returned. Alaska was the chief gainer, paying only 36 cents per $1 of aid.

The inequity is attributed to the fact that some communities need more aid than others.

gallon-a-minute tank to a 1,000 barrel tank. From here it is released into the trough with a hand operated flow tank. Excess water is piped to a nearby orchard to prevent waste.

Calves are retained in the intensive care lot -- 130x50 feet of which is under a shed and 150x50 feet sans a top -- for 10 to 12 days.

Close scrutiny is kept on the calves during their stay in the intensive care unit. Alling animals are immediately placed in "sick pens." Their temperature is taken "one time a day" with an instant rectal thermometer.

CALVES 'CHARTED'

"We chart the calves, just like they were hospital patients," their owner states.

Normal body temperature for a calf is 102 degrees. Oddly, Brunson and his youthful assistant Wayne Smith declare they had rather see an ill animal's temperature jump from 106 to 109 degrees. This calf, normally, will recover rapidly, although several varieties of medicine may be required.

"If the medicine takes effect, its temperature can drop three or four degrees overnight. If a calf's temperature hangs around 103 to 104, you're in trouble," explains Brunson, whose ranch is situated five miles east of Crosbyton near Silver Falls.

All needles are autoclaved. The sterilization is done in a heated and air conditioned 24x14 foot office, adjacent to the intensive care pen. "The same needle is never used twice," the owner emphasizes.

After being unloaded, the "new arrivals" are given inoculations to eliminate shipping fever and other illness.

PERSONAL ATTENTION

To insure personal attention, Brunson accepts a single load of "about 120" young calves for the intensive care pen at one time. "If we have more, they get away from us," he explains.

Here, again, sanitation is stressed.

When calves leave the intensive care lot, it is disinfected and troughs are cleaned with lysol water. Brunson takes every precaution to help insure that disease does not remain to infect the next group of cattle.

Brunson designed one area for vaccinating, worming, placing his "Z" brand on the animals' left side with a butane brander, and castrating bull calves in a single operation. Bars are welded atop the holding chutes to prevent the cattle from

"rearing up and falling over on their backs." They progress to a squeeze chute where the vaccinating -- for black eg, AD&E, red nose and lepto -- worming, branding and castrating is done.

A crew of two to four men can handle 250 animals in a long cowboy's day.

DIFFERENT PHASES

After leaving the intensive care pen, calves pass through three other phases in the preconditioning lot before "we put them on pasture or go straight to the feedlot." Up to 500 head can be handled simultaneously in four phases. They leave with "about 100 pounds" more flesh than when they entered the intensive care unit 42 to 60 days earlier.

From the intensive care pen, cattle are graduated to larger lots for "around 30 days." There lots are equipped with thermostatically controlled drinking troughs which was washed daily. Then they are placed in "traps" -- tracts ranging from 200-300 acres up to a half section -- on the Brunson ranch. In addition to pasture, they still have self feeders similar to those found in the smaller lots.

Brunson is undecided on the value of two recently installed Donozone machines, which have been used on only "three loads of calves under the worst weather conditions."

CLEANSSES LUNGS

A group of 25 calves are placed in a sheet metal enclosure which houses the Donozone machines and are kept for 45 minutes on three consecutive days. The electrical device is designed to break down molecules and kill virus and bacteria, thus cleansing the young animals' lungs.

Brunson says this operates on the same principal as "a thunderstorm cleans the air." After a treatment, "the cattle like it and want to stand around in here," the rancher says of this barn.

Highly successful in other areas,

the Donozone machine is expected to be of greatest value in the Fall when sickness is more prevalent. "Fluctuating temperatures and moisture spell trouble for us," notes the former "Citizen of the Year" here who was reared on a ranch near Midland.

The preconditioning lot east of Crosbyton has other innovations designed by the owner. One is an electrically controlled loading chute which will "fit the truck, even if it is turned a little crossways." It will accept cattle from the lower deck of a truck or raise for unloading from the top deck.

BRUNSON DESIGNS LOT

Brunson's personally designed layout may have required two years to construct, but it is here to stay. Hundreds of metal posts are buried in concrete to insure longevity. Norman Sterling of Lubbock handled much of the construction work. The office was built by Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. of Crosbyton. Two other local firms played a role in construction: Long's Welding and Williams Electric, which installed the Donozone machines.

A Crosbyton resident since January 10, 1937, the affable rancher sees his preconditioning lot as "basically a year round operation," with some slack periods. He watches the markets and future prices closely. Spring and "August and September" are prime times to bring in young cattle due to more moderate weather conditions.

Two hundred and 72 cattle were being prepped last week. Brunson already has handled "approximately 1,500 head" this year and could easily push that total to 2,500 during 1975.

During busy periods, two horses are kept in a barn at the lot. They are used in the entire operation.

CATTLE DEMAND

Brunson, who has cow-calf operations on his ranches at Crosbyton and Seminole, believes "there will always be a demand for fed cattle, because people are educated to grain fed beef. As long as they're earning a good salary, they will eat good beef, which still is the best buy."

To date, he has put only his own calves -- "we've worked a few neighbors' cattle" -- through the preconditioning lot, but he could in time consider handling some calves on a custom basis.

What is his evaluation of his intensive care unit and overall preconditioning lot?

He closely figures costs and notes that expenditures for "medicine, feed, labor, and electricity (for the well and lighting) run about $25 a calf for six weeks to two months. Some lots have run as low as $16 a head, depending on feed cost."

This is for an approximate 100 pound gain per animal.

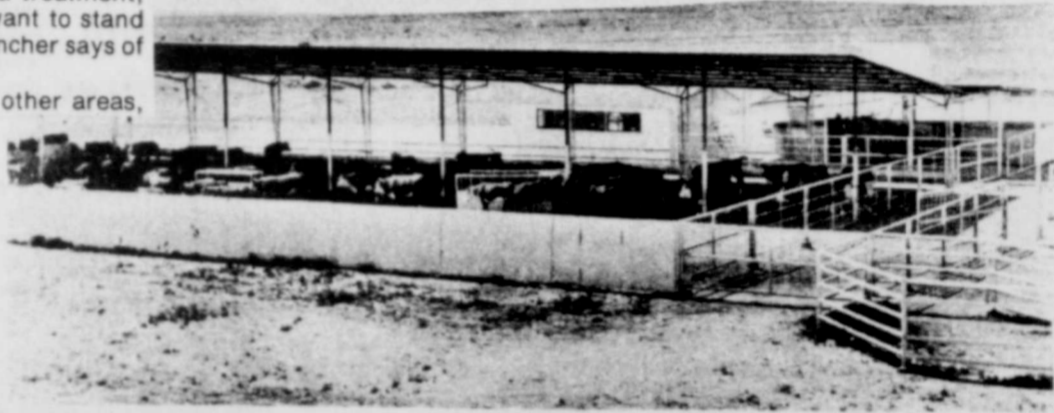

READY FOR FEEDLOT

"I figure our calves come out of the feedlot 15 days earlier than calves not from preconditioning lots. Too, the death loss is less."

The preconditioning lot allows the Crosbyton rancher to carry his own calves -- plus others brought in from near and far -- all the way through the feedlot, ready for the packing plant.

Brunson summarizes the intensive care unit and preconditioning facility as "a nursing lot . . . that's all it is!"

(From the Crosbyton Review)

For consistent control under a wide variety of moisture conditions. Band Lasso on cotton,* corn or soybeans.

Last year, many farmers around here watched dry weather blow their preplant herbicides right off their cotton fields. If they had applied Lasso in a band behind their planter, their herbicide would have been there when needed. And if cotton is hailed out, farmers can go right back in their fields with corn or soybeans. Because Lasso is a three-crop herbicide. And it leaves no carryover.

What's more, you don't have to incorporate Lasso to get effective control of many annual grasses and broadleaves that trouble Texas farmers. Lasso controls pigweed, crabgrass, and barnyardgrass (watergrass). Lasso even reduces competition from teaweed. Lasso controls or reduces competition from more than twenty grasses and broadleaves.

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Ask some of your neighbors who use Lasso if it's everything we say it is, and more. Lasso. The herbicide to start with -- on cotton, corn or soybeans. In a wide variety of moisture conditions.

gallon-a-minute tank to a 1,000 barrel tank. From here it is released into the trough with a hand operated flow tank. Excess water is piped to a nearby orchard to prevent waste.

Calves are retained in the intensive care lot -- 130x50 feet of which is under a shed and 150x50 feet sans a top -- for 10 to 12 days.

Close scrutiny is kept on the calves during their stay in the intensive care unit. Ailing animals are immediately placed in "sick pens." Their temperature is taken "one time a day" with an instant rectal thermometer.

CALVES 'CHARTED'

"We chart the calves, just like they were hospital patients," their owner states.

Normal body temperature for a calf is 102 degrees. Oddly, Brunson and his youthful assistant Wayne Smith declare they had rather see an ill animal's temperature jump from 106 to 109 degrees. This calf, normally, will recover rapidly, although several varieties of medicine may be required.

"If the medicine takes effect, its temperature can drop three or four degrees overnight. If a calf's temperature hangs around 103 to 104, you're in trouble," explains Brunson, whose ranch is situated five miles east of Crosbyton near Silver Falls.

All needles are autoclaved. The sterilization is done in a heated and air conditioned 24x14 foot office, adjacent to the intensive care pen. "The same needle is never used twice," the owner emphasizes.

After being unloaded, the "new arrivals" are given inoculations to eliminate shipping fever and other illness.

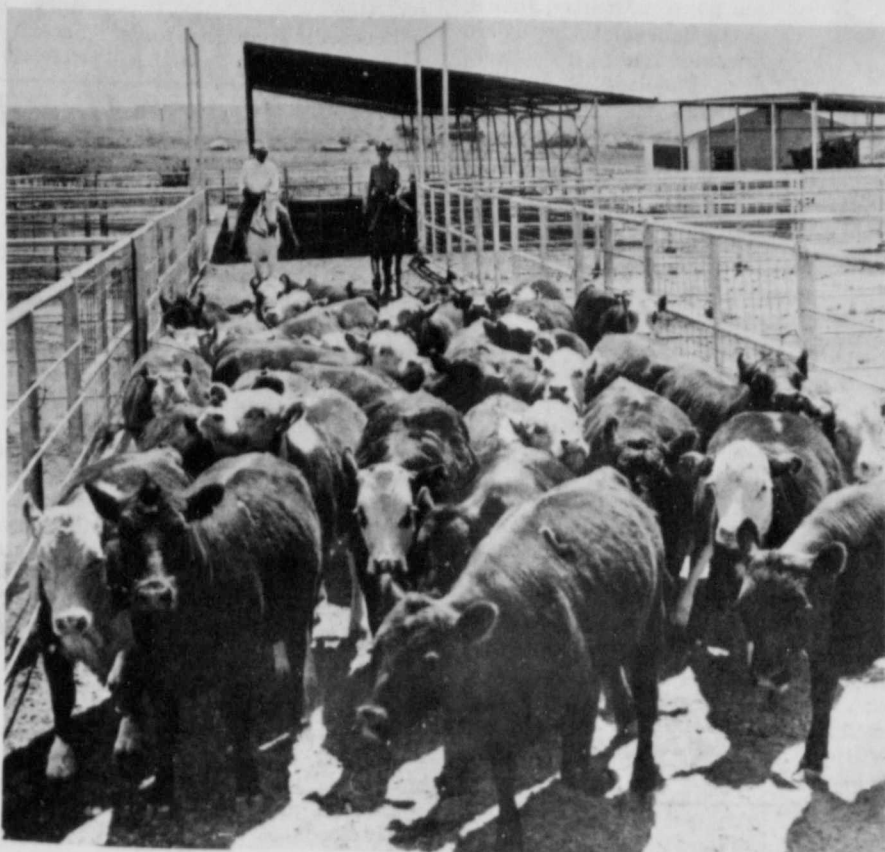

PERSONAL ATTENTION

To insure personal attention, Brunson accepts a single load of "about 120" young calves for the intensive care pen at one time. "If we have more, they get away from us," he explains.

Here, again, sanitation is stressed.

When calves leave the intensive care lot, it is disinfected and troughs are cleaned with lysol water. Brunson takes every precaution to help insure that disease does not remain to infect the next group of cattle.

Brunson designed one area for vaccinating, worming, placing his "Z" brand on the animals' left side with a butane brander, and castrating bull calves in a single operation. Bars are welded atop the holding chutes to prevent the cattle from

"rearing up and falling over on their backs." They progress to a squeeze chute where the vaccinating -- for black leg, AD&E, red nose and leptos -- worming, branding and castrating is done.

A crew of two to four men can handle 250 animals in a long cowboy's day.

DIFFERENT PHASES

After leaving the intensive care pen, calves pass through three other phases in the preconditioning lot before "we put them on pasture or go straight to the feedlot." Up to 500 head can be handled simultaneously in four phases. They leave with "about 100 pounds" more flesh than when they entered the intensive care unit 42 to 60 days earlier.

From the intensive care pen, cattle are graduated to larger lots for "around 30 days." There lots are equipped with thermostatically controlled drinking troughs which was washed daily. Then they are placed in "traps" -- tracts ranging from 200-300 acres up to a half section -- on the Brunson ranch. In addition to pasture, they still have self feeders similar to those found in the smaller lots.

Brunson is undecided on the value of two recently installed Donozone machines, which have been used on only "three loads of calves under the worst weather conditions."

CLEANSSES LUNGS

A group of 25 calves are placed in a sheet metal enclosure which houses the Donozone machines and are kept for 45 minutes on three consecutive days. The electrical device is designed to break down molecules and kill virus and bacteria, thus cleansing the young animals' lungs.

Brunson says this operates on the same principal as "a thunderstorm cleans the air." After a treatment, "the cattle like it and want to stand around in here," the rancher says of this barn.

Highly successful in other areas,

the Donozone machine is expected to be of greatest value in the Fall when sickness is more prevalent. "Fluctuating temperatures and moisture spell trouble for us," notes the former "Citizen of the Year" here who was reared on a ranch near Midland.

The preconditioning lot east of Crosbyton has other innovations designed by the owner. One is an electrically controlled loading chute which will "fit the truck, even if it is turned a little crossways." It will accept cattle from the lower deck of a truck or raise for unloading from the top deck.

BRUNSON DESIGNS LOT

Brunson's personally designed layout may have required two years to construct, but it is here to stay. Hundreds of metal posts are buried in concrete to insure longevity. Norman Sterling of Lubbock handled much of the construction work. The office was built by Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. of Crosbyton. Two other local firms played a role in construction: Long's Welding and Williams Electric, which installed the Donozone machines.

A Crosbyton resident since January 10, 1937, the affable rancher sees his preconditioning lot as "basically a year round operation," with some slack periods. He watches the markets and future prices closely. Spring and "August and September" are prime times to bring in young cattle due to more moderate weather conditions.

Two hundred and 72 cattle were being prepped last week. Brunson already has handled "approximately 1,500 head" this year and could easily push that total to 2,500 during 1975.

During busy periods, two horses are kept in a barn at the lot. They are used in the entire operation.

CATTLE DEMAND

Brunson, who has cow-calf operations on his ranches at Crosbyton and Seminole, believes "there will always be a demand for fed cattle, because people are educated to grain fed beef. As long as they're earning a good salary, they will eat good beef, which still is the best buy."

To date, he has put only his own calves -- "we've worked a few neighbors' cattle" -- through the preconditioning lot, but he could in time consider handling some calves on a custom basis.

What is his evaluation of his intensive care unit and overall preconditioning lot?

He closely figures costs and notes that expenditures for "medicine, feed, labor, and electricity (for the well and lighting) run about $25 a calf for six weeks to two months. Some lots have run as low as $16 a head, depending on feed cost."

This is for an approximate 100 pound gain per animal.

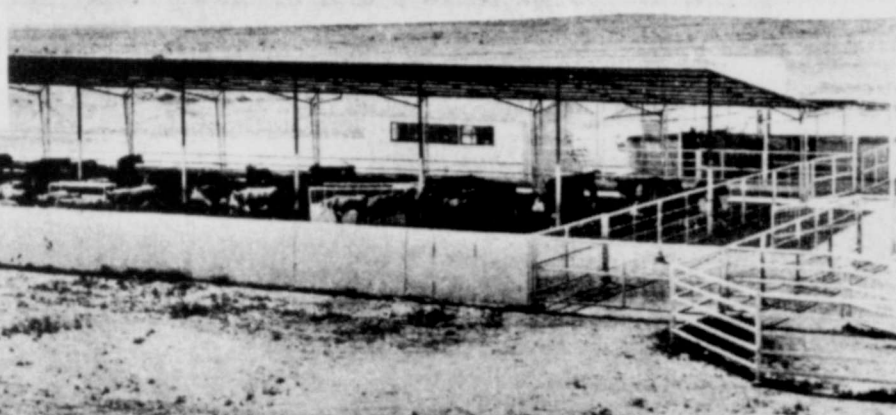

READY FOR FEEDLOT

"I figure our calves come out of the feedlot 15 days earlier than calves not from preconditioning lots. Too, the death loss is less."

The preconditioning lot allows the Crosbyton rancher to carry his own calves -- plus others brought in from near and far -- all the way through the feedlot, ready for the packing plant.

Brunson summarizes the intensive care unit and preconditioning facility as "a nursing lot . . . that's all it is!"

(From the Crosbyton Review)

For consistent control under a wide variety of moisture conditions. Band Lasso on cotton,* corn or soybeans.

Last year, many farmers around here watched dry weather blow their preplant herbicides right off their cotton fields. If they had applied Lasso in a band behind their planter, their herbicide would have been there when needed. And if cotton is hailed out, farmers can go right back in their fields with corn or soybeans. Because Lasso is a three-crop herbicide. And it leaves no carryover.

What's more, you don't have to incorporate Lasso to get effective control of many annual grasses and broadleaves that trouble Texas farmers. Lasso controls pigweed, crabgrass, and barnyardgrass (watergrass). Lasso even reduces competition from teaweed. Lasso controls or reduces competition from more than twenty grasses and broadleaves.

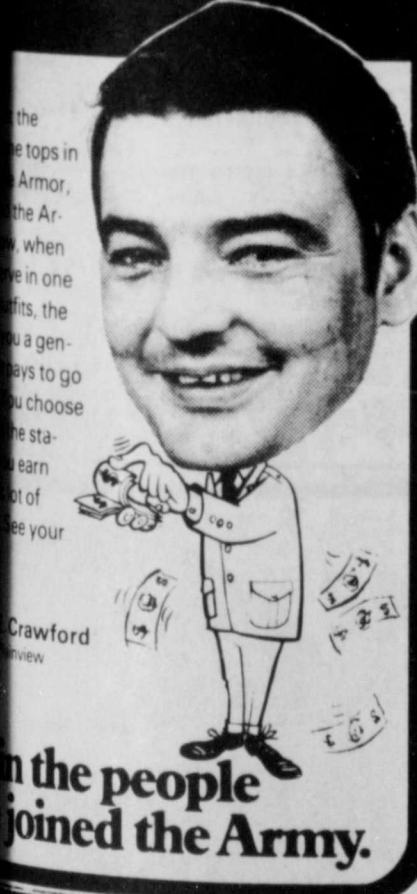

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Ask some of your neighbors who use Lasso if it's everything we say it is, and more. Lasso. The herbicide to start with -- on cotton, corn or soybeans. In a wide variety of moisture conditions.

SEPERATES- PUT TOGETHERS WORK

Separates add up to a lot of put-togethers that really work for late spring and summer. These bits and pieces don't have to be new. A favorite blouse or short-sleeved turtleneck can give welcomed versatility to the new full dresses that are so popular now.

Also, a favorite sheer top can be given new life when left open and tied at the waist; a skinny tube or scarf beneath. The look works well with easy-fitting skirts hitting just below the knee. Caprito has one easy-care polyester version in a bold plaid pattern that becomes a costume when a skinny mock turtleneck and a flattering oversized shawl are added.

Sue Brett takes a soft pastel suit of Acrilan acrylic that splits into multiple parts. The full skirt goes it alone with a halter or shirt while the baseball jacket works well with assorted pants and culottes. Besides stretching the wardrobe, these multi-part put-togethers stretch consumer dollars.

The electrical industry is consistently searching for new ways to generate electricity. According to the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, more than $239 million was spent on research and development by investor-owned electric utilities in 1973

NEWS OF HEALTH YOUR NAILS

What causes brittle nails? Understanding how your nails grow and what causes them to crack or split helps provide a key.

Nail growth occurs from three areas: the matrix, the proximal nail fold, and the nail bed. Lamination or splitting comes from different growth rates in these areas. Good nail growth depends on the metabolism in the nail bed. You can increase metabolism with drugs, but it is more advisable to do so with available food components.

An increase in metabolism comes to some extent after ingestion of any food component. It is greatest, however, for certain amino acids and unbalanced proteins. Un-carnations encircled by sparkle mums and tied with blue and white streamers.

Miss Cheryl Smith, sister of the groom, registered guests at the wedding and at the reception which was held in the church fellowship hall. Reception attendants were Mrs. Danny Durham and Miss Regina Jack.

MRS. CLEM [Hilda Tatum] McDonald of Floydada was inducted into the Half Century Club while attending the 50th anniversary reunion of her Class of 1925 at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater recently. OSU President Robert B. Kamm presented her gold pin.

flavored gelatine is a prime example. It is an unbalanced protein; is readily available as drinking gelatine and has been shown to exert a greater metabolic increase than any other single generally accessible food component.

IT'S A FACT

An adult "right" whale weighs as much as 30 full-sized automobiles—65 tons. Viewed from above water, it resembles a submerged reef or the bottom of a capsized steamer. A big one can reach 65 feet in length with a back that measures 15 feet across.

Where a man grows facial hair a "right" whale has callosities. Callosities are the white patches that grow on the whale's head and are often used to distinguish one whale from another. A lot of people mistake the callosities for barnacles.

Most people think the height of whale slaughter occurred around the end of the last century. The truth is that the greatest 10-year kill took place between 1960 and 1970. During a three year voyage in the 1860's only 37 whales were killed: One whale a month. Today's catches average between one and two whales a day.

Junior Historian Visit Southwest Collection

Junior high school students from across the South Plains are discovering the meaning and excitement of the past by visiting the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University.

Enthusiastic seventh and eighth graders from Floydada were among those recently touring the Tech repository and used its facilities to gather information for school projects.

"Students not only can better appreciate their local area history, but they also can learn of the historical value of materials that are accessible to them, such as letters, diaries, and records," David Murrah, asst. archivist said. "We are always happy to have such groups visit the Southwest Collection."

The Floydada students, active in interviewing pioneer settlers of Floyd County, have demonstrated that historical collecting is an effective means of bridging the generation gap.

"They have a next-door neighbor, or a grandfather, or they hear about someone of historical interest or with interesting and important historical information and they interview him or her," said Mrs. Carol Bell, Floydada Junior Historian sponsor. "Often as a result of the interviews, the students make friends with older persons. I have talked with some of the older people later and they are highly complimentary of these young people."

Several of the students had a special interest in the Southwest Collection, Mrs. Bell said. "One boy's family has papers in it. Another has an interest in the Matador Ranch, and because of the things that are there from Floydada, several students expressed real interest."

Such interest has insured the preservation of much of Floyd County's history, because Floydada Junior Historians have made 18 oral history recordings which have been added to the Southwest Collection files. Additional manuscript material, located by the students, has been preserved on microfilm.

The Junior Historians annually produce research projects for regional and state history contests. While touring the collection, many encountered potential topics.

"In one area the students found a box that was labeled 'Floyd County Newspapers,'" Mrs. Bell said. "That caused an interest. In fact, we have one student who is considering making a study of early Floyd County newspapers."

The tour excited the students about what is available for use," she said. "I think the best thing we did was to show them the importance of old letters, ledgers, and manuscripts, and other materials of historical significance."

Following are more interviews with Floyd County pioneers, conducted by Floydada Junior Historians:

HATTIE MAY McLELAND CUTHBERTSON
Interviewed by Nancy Moran, May 15, 1975

Hattie May McLeland Cuthbertson is a late comer to Floyd County but has been a Texan all of her life. She was born in Hood County, Texas, November 29, 1909, and lived in Oklahoma, Arizona, and New Mexico before settling in Dougherty in March of 1964.

As a child and young person she experienced life in many different types of houses - tin, rock house, dugout, as well as conventional wooden houses. Her father was born in Louisiana and her mother was born in Texas in a covered wagon. Her father drilled water wells with a team and worked on farms. Her first job was chopping cotton.

The Wallace school, located in Briscoe County, was the first school Hattie May attended and her teacher was Miss Bess Simmons. There were about 30 students in the little one room school house.

Breakfast in her family was one of the main meals of the day and usually consisted of hot biscuits, butter, eggs and bacon, cooked on the iron cookstove, using cedar wood as fuel. The family water supply was the windmill tank and their monthly trips, of 15 miles by wagon, to the grocery store kept their staples of flour, salt, sugar and coffee sufficient for their use.

Refrigeration was primitive but adequate; they kept their food cool by running water over it from the windmill. Foods were preserved in glass jars when they were in season and used through the year as they needed it.

Revival Meetings were total involvement in Hattie's younger years. The family would take a wagon with supplies and stay at the meeting for a week. The exciting things she remembers as a child were the Wild West Shows, Ringling Brother's Circus and holidays - Christmas, Thanksgiving, New Years, and July 4. She saw her first movie in 1914 and her family listened to Ma Perkins, Fibber Magee & Molly on their radio that they purchased in 1926.

Hattie Mae McLeland's and William P. Cuthbertson's romance started after they met in 1927, while boring cotton in the cotton fields near Chillicothe, Texas. They dated about 3 times a week until they married February 10, 1928, in Chillicothe, with 7 people at their wedding. She was dressed in a calico dress and they spent their first days as husband and wife in their tent home.

JAMES ZANT SCOTT
Interviewed by Todd Williams, May 19, 1975

James Zant Scott is a native of Floydada, Texas; born here September 29, 1904. His family moved to this area in a covered wagon "looking for a good place to live and teach school." His father was also a native Texan but his mother was born in Georgia.

The Scott family lived as most of the families in the area did, using well water pumped by a windmill and using wood from the brakes, along with cow chips, for fuel. Their mode of travel was by wagon or hack and they usually made a trip into Floydada, the nearest town, about once a month to get food supplies of flour, sugar, coffee, etc.

Most of the entertainment for the children was physical in nature as they played snap, wolf over the river, basketball, baseball, marbles. They walked to school and were kept busy by "lots of work and worlds of fresh food." The family enjoyed singing together. They attended Carr's Chapel in the Harmony community.

Four dollars per day was good pay in 1920 and James earned every penny of it, in his first job, operating a wheat header barge. He attended Harmony and Sandhill schools. His first teacher was Jess Stalcup and later Mrs. Charles Smith was his teacher. Some of his schoolmates were L. E. Williams' boys and the Smith boys.

James Zant Scott and Ruth Johnston met in November of 1927 in Floydada and were married July 30, 1929. Their dating usually involved a Saturday night show date and church on Sunday morning. For their wedding Ruth wore a navy blue street dress with the hemline above the knee and they took a wedding trip to south Texas. Some of their wedding celebrations included a shivaree (a mock serenade made by beating on kettles, pans, etc.) and showers.

Interviewed by Larry Westbrook, May 14, 1975

Henry Love was born November 10, 1889, in Gatsun, Alabama. He moved to Floyd County in 1915, traveling on a train, and lived in a dugout when he first came to the county. There were 4 children in his family and his father was a farmer. Henry's first job was heading maize for $1.00 a load. The family heated their home with a wood burning stove and went to the grocery store about once a week. It was three miles from their home to the store and they traveled in a wagon. Since there were no refrigerators, they kept their food cool by using a water trough (food was placed in a wooden trough where cool water ran over it constantly). Henry's first car was a 1925 Ford which cost him about $400.00. He married Ellen Hammons in 1912 in Jacksboro, Texas. Their wedding ceremony was performed by a preacher, who stood on the ground, as they sat in their buggy.

DELLA MAUDE SMITH
Interviewed by Debbie Harrison, May 20, 1975

My great grandmother, Della Maude Smith, came to the community of Lakeview in December 1905. It was a one-room schoolhouse only at that time. Mam-Ma's daddy, Mr. Hammons, bought some land in the area and when Mam-Ma married, they bought 320 acres from her daddy. She still owns this land. Their house was a two room dwelling with a shed or side room. Mam-Ma carried water in buckets from a well with a pump near the house.

White River, in the canyon, was just a creek but she caught some fish from it. Hacks or buggies were used for the hour long trip to Floydada to get supplies. Before they were able to get electricity, in about 1940, their supplies included kerosene for their lamps. Bathrooms were not part of their architecture, but tubs were brought into the kitchen for bathing and outdoor toilets were used. Coal was purchased from Plainview to use for cooking and heating. In 1918 the weather was bad and it was cold for a whole month. The dust didn't blow like it does now because the land was prairie. My great-grandmother is 94 years old.

Choosing A Lawn Mower

If you're like many people, you know the time has come for you to stop struggling with your old, man-handled reel-type or ancient power lawn mower, to turn over a new leaf and get a new grass cutter that can cut your work in half, but, you may not know what to look for to make sure you're putting the best blades to your grass blades.

1. Be sure to buy a brand of mower that's been around long enough for you to know the company and their product are reliable on sales, and service.
2. Look for heavy-duty construction, so you can be more sure of getting a lawn mower that will last longer.

3. Check out the position of the grass bag. On the side it could cause hang-ups going around corners and into small spaces. You're better off if the bag's in the back, between the handles.
4. Size up the size of the bag. It's a good idea to get one that will hold between 2-1/2 and 6 bushels, depending on the amount of grass you'll have to stash.
5. Don't be a sucker for work. A powerful vacuum action can clean your lawn while you mow, you can stop raking and start relaxing.

bagpipes. That's as far as Teacher's Scotch Information Centre can discover. If you know of others, we'll be glad to hear about them.

The bagpipes were banned by the British Government after Bonnie Prince Charlie's Rising in 1745. It was considered in London that the music of the pipes inflamed the Highlanders to greater deeds of derring-do.

Later, the Government were glad to have the services of Highland regiments and the pipes were brought back into favour. Even today British Army regulations allow a platoon in a Scottish regiment to have one man more than an English platoon. The extra man is the piper.

Most Scottish regiments have a military band as well as the pipes and drums. A favourite question among veterans of World War 2 is, "What was the finest music in the world?"

GREAT! scot!
By Jack House, The Director Teacher's Scotch Information Centre The Pipes Of Peace (And War!)
The only musical instruments ever to be banned as weapons of war are the Scottish bagpipes.

will be in Texas June 2, 3 and 4. National Farmers Union President Tony T. Dechant from Denver will meet with farmers and ranchers at Fort Worth, Roby, Lubbock, and Amarillo during his whirlwind visit to Texas.

Dechant returned last week from Paris, France where he attended an Executive Board Meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers. He serves as vice-president of the organization which is made up of 50 farm organizations from around the world. Dechant will give his first report on the international agricultural meeting while in Texas.

According to the Texas Farmers Union state office in Waco, the national organization president will meet informally with farmers and ranchers at each stop in Texas. Dechant will travel to Lubbock on Tuesday for a press conference and a farm rally Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Plains Cooperative Oil Mill in Lubbock. He will complete his tour with a stop at Amarillo on Wednesday for a press conference and visit with area farmers and ranchers at the Hilton Inn on Interstate 40 at 8:30 p.m.

President Dechant is recognized as one of the foremost authorities on international farm policy. He was born and raised on a western Kansas wheat farm and is still involved in wheat production on the family farm near Hays. He has received numerous awards for his contributions to United States as well as international agriculture. Jay Naman of Waco, president of Texas Farmers Union, has urged all area farmers and ranchers to come by the meetings "to get acquainted with Tony and to welcome him to Texas."

"We are fortunate to have the president of National Farmers Union in Texas for a few days to give us some insight as to what we might do now that we have no farm bill. Tony Dechant wants a "no holds barred" discussion with farmers and ranchers on their views and to give them an overview of what he saw of international agriculture during his recent visit with the farm leaders from around the world," Naman said.

Renaissance Musical Group Coming To Methodist Church

Renaissance, a group of ten college age Christian musicians who combine the familiar with the contemporary, will appear in concert at First United Methodist Church of Floydada on Thursday, June 19, at 8:00 p.m. The group, directed by John Merrell of Dallas, is made up of young people from California, Oregon, Michigan, Texas, and Kansas. They first recorded on the Tempo label as "The New Californians." A subsequent Tempo album earned them a Special Merit Award from Billboard Magazine.

Since its beginning, Renaissance has performed more than 1500 concerts in the United States, Europe and the Bahamas. In addition to their evening concerts, these musicians are active in special daytime presentations including school assemblies and service clubs. They were the feature group on the CBS "Newcomers Show," the summer replacement for Carol Burnett, where they were selected from more than 2,000 professional groups who auditioned.

Renaissance is undoubtedly the only group of its type in the world to incorporate a puppet show into its performances. The puppets participate by presenting some humorous musical numbers, a different view of some familiar Bible truths. The musical stylings of the Renaissance promise re-

Injured In Car-Motorcycle Wreck

Bill Bigham of Lockney remains in Lubbock Methodist Hospital after suffering a compound fracture of his leg in a car-motorcycle accident Sunday afternoon near the railroad crossing on the Lone Star Highway in north Lockney. Also injured were Brian Hayes, son of Alvin Hayes, and Dee Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleatis Hayes. Brian was released from Methodist Hospital Friday after treatment for his leg which was broken above the ankle, and for torn tendons in his heel. The Baker boy is recuperating at home from bruises and cuts.

According to Webster, the word "renaissance" means "revival" or "rebirth." John Merrell says that the purpose of the group is indeed renaissance, not only in music but in the Spirit. Renaissance has one goal; to present the good news of Jesus Christ in such a way that those who hear will be reborn.

The Renaissance concert, sponsored by the Methodist Church and its youth department, is free, and the public is invited.

Bigham's pickup swerved to miss the motorcycle at least once on its side was pinned between the motorcycle and the back of the car. The motorcycle was only slightly damaged. Lockney Police Service is investigating the accident.

Family Land Heritage Program To Reopen Registration June 1

AUSTIN—Registration for the second Family Land Heritage Program, honoring families who have owned and continuously operated a farm or ranch for 100 years or more, begins June 1. Last year 565 families and individuals were honored at ceremonies at the state fairgrounds in Dallas. Twenty families who missed the 1974 deadline have already qualified for 1975. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said applications are available at the county judge's office in all counties that were settled by 1875. He explained that judges in areas of Texas settled after that date did not receive forms. However, if a family in one of these areas thinks they qualify, they may write directly to the Texas Department of Agriculture for an application.

"Applicants must use the new forms if they wish to qualify," White said. TDA sponsors the program. Registration deadline is Aug. 15. White stressed that the land must have been agriculturally productive and owned by family members for 100 years or more. If the land has ever been rented out, it will not qualify.

Persons must live on and work the land, or, if they live off the historic land, they must actively manage and direct the everyday operation of the farm or ranch. Absentee ownership of land devoted to hunting and timber leases and similar operations will not qualify.

"Last year was our first year for Family Land Heritage, and it was a big one," White said. "We were proud and happy to honor some of the first families of Texas, those who have given so much to Texas agriculture and, therefore, its people, for several generations. This year we hope to do an even better job."

Those who qualify will be honored at appropriate ceremonies in the fall. They will receive a certificate suitable for framing and a brief history will be prepared. "Family Land Registry." "Now listen, I can tell me my story the birds."

Prices good thru June 7, 1975. We reserve the right to limit quantities. None sold to dealers.
