Training Center To Locate Here!

With 100 Jobs Per Week

The Texas A&M University Directors has announced the West Texas Regional Training Center of the Extension Service at the site of the former West Texas State University campus. President Jack K. Briscoe is authorized by the Board of Regents to acquire a site for the center. The center will provide training for approximately 100 persons per week in various technical areas as well as for municipal employees in several fields.

It is expected that this number will grow to 300 per week by 1980," Bradley added.

He said the West Texas Regional Center represents a major step for the extension service as it expands its operation to provide greater assistance to cities, utilities, groups and industries.

"The regional concept is an integral part of our endeavor to take the program to the people, rather than take the people to the program," Bradley explained.

President of the Floydada Development Company Bill Hale made the following statement at press time yesterday:

"We wish to express our sincere appreciation to Texas A&M University, their president, Mr. Jack K. Williams, the board of regents, especially Mr. H.C. Bell Jr. with whom we met officially, dean of the College of Engineering Fred T. Benson, Mr. James R. Bradley, director of the Texas A&M engineering extension service; assistant director of Business Affairs E. A. Wentreck and Mr. E.W. Kerlick, supervisor of electrical training.

We also want to thank Lawrence Stovall, who works in the electrical training department. He was especially helpful in Floydada's efforts. Alton Higginbotham was most instrumental in all phases of this project from beginning to end.

Also Mayor Parnell Powell and the city council, Kinder Farris and the First National Bank, Tommy Farris and the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Ophelia Goen, Lon Davis, Jim Word, Clarence Denton, Doug Frazier, O.M. Watson Jr., George Miller, and Bill Feuerbacher worked diligently on this project."

Hale said the school would meet temporarily in the Floydada Fire Department building until a training center building could be built on the Goen land at the east city limits.

Senator Ray Farabee's office phoned the Hesperian just before press time and also confirmed the locating of the training center in Floydada.

Hale said the Floydada Development Company would meet at 9 a.m. Saturday morning to begin working out plans for locating the center here.

THANKS COMMUNITY

"Our entire community is 100% behind Texas A&M's decision to locate this branch of their Engineering Extension Service Vocational Training School in Floydada. We want to assure A&M that their decision was the right one because Floydada will back them all the way.

"This school should give a real economic boost to our entire community and we feel especially fortunate that this economic boost comes from such a fine source as Texas A&M University," Hale added.

Spencer Recalls Visit With Russians

Bobby Spencer

By GAYLE JACKSON
"We met with one dealer, Bob Spencer, in Texas. A thinnish youth in a red jacket and wide-brimmed hat, he resembled a sportsman."

Though Bobby Spencer of Lockney isn't a youth or the owner of an implement dealership, the description that was printed in the July 15 issue of Farmland News was close enough for Lockney residents to recognize Spencer.

Farmland News correspondent Jay Richter was quoting from articles written about America's farming practices by N. Osychkin, a Soviet reporter. After visiting the U.S. with a group of his fellow citizens who are members of a joint U.S. - Soviet committee working toward exchange of more information on agriculture between the two countries, the Russian wrote his articles for the Russian newspaper, Rural Life.

The article continues about Bob Spencer: "Bob was at first overwhelmed by meeting Soviets, but then he began to speak enthusiastically about his business. He has seven mechanics, 11 tractor specialists and two metal workers. They repair 300 to 400 machines per year."

Bob Spencer admits he was slightly flustered when he found out that he was the only Tillerson-Fish International employee who had time to speak with the Russians. "They were riding on a bus through Plainview when they saw the business from the highway, so they stopped to ask questions. My bosses were in Chicago at a dealers meeting where Sec. of Agriculture Earl Butz was speaking, so I had to talk with them through their interpreters."

According to Spencer, the Russians, whose visit was about Dec. 18 of last year, were very curious about the capabilities of Tillerson-Fish's repair shop. "They couldn't believe we could tear a tractor down, overhaul it, and deliver it within a week. One Russian said that a year was about how long repairs took over there, and that sometimes they had to wait as long as three years for parts."

Spencer, a salesman, also said that the Russians were hard to convince that Brooks McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company, was not owner of the tractors and other machines setting on the Tillerson-Fish lots. "One man, who said he was the head of Russian agriculture, told me that he had met Mr. McCormick several years ago at a meeting," Spencer continued. "He just knew that either Mr. McCormick or the government had to own those machines."

Farmland News noted that the Russian article reported "Traveling along the roads of the small towns in the U.S.A., it is impossible not to notice the light, scrupulous buildings surrounded by rows of tractors, combines, automobiles and other machinery. This is the industry of dealers — the middle men between machinery-building corporations and the farmers. They deal in technology, repair machinery, sell spare parts."

Spencer remembers that the Russians thought it highly unusual that the repairmen at Tillerson-Fish owned their own tools and that so many spare parts were available.

"They asked questions so fast I could hardly answer them all." The Russians presented Spencer with a medallion from the Soviet Union's agriculture department. They invited him to come to see them.

Would he like to tour Russia? "No, I have no desire to go over there. I don't believe in the way they do."

Bobby Spencer met the Russians, then forgot about them. But the story in Farmland News brought the incident back to mind. The medallion? "We can't remember where we put it."

The Farmland News correspondent was given the articles by sources in the USDA-Foreign Agriculture Service. Lockney citizens might be interested to know what the Russian writer said about Texas: "There is no other state in the U.S.A. which values tradition and the customs of its ancestors as does Texas. Although proud and daring American cowboys can now only be seen in the movies, their amazing wide hats with their unique brims have not succumbed to changes in fashion. Texans wear them at any time of the year; they stand in store windows, and are presented to the most important guests."

New Hog Herd Hit

By Cholera

AMARILLO, Tex. — A second herd of hogs infected with hog cholera has been destroyed, the State - Federal Cooperative Task force on Hog Cholera said Thursday.

A spokesman for the task force said the 29 infected hogs were discovered in the Hereford area.

Agriculture Department officials announced the initial discovery of hog cholera in the Texas Panhandle July 4.

Attempts to trace the origin of the infection have led investigators into some New Mexico herds.

The spokesman said the situation was under control and there was no danger of the disease spreading.

Farm Priority For Gas Use Wins Approval

By KETH HENLEY
A-J Farm Writer

The office of U. S. Representative George Mahon of Lubbock was notified Thursday that administrative law judge Curtis L. Wagner of the Federal Power Commission has ruled that irrigation gas should be classified as process gas and placed appropriately in priority No. 2.

Wagner's decision followed 39 days of testimony on irrigation gas priorities for El Paso B Natural Gas Co. in Washington, D.C., Phoenix, Albuquerque and Lubbock, and two days of oral arguments.

He concluded there is no answer for the irrigation farmers in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas in the foreseeable future except natural gas.

The judge's initial decision now will be placed before the Federal Power Commission which will modify, concur, or reject it. The commission has placed no limit upon the time with it has to make a final decision.

A spokesman for Mahon quotes Wagner as saying:

"It is clear beyond any doubt that any curtailment would be disastrous, not only in the sense of crop damage but also in that it would make it impossible — if farmers did not have the gas — for many farmers to obtain the necessary financing to put the crop in to start with."

Mahon's office said the judge "thinks the record strongly supports a separate classification for irrigation pumping gas, immediately below that for domestic usage in El Paso's curtailment plan."

Wagner ruled that irrigation gas is a process gas and should be placed in priority No. 2 in El Paso's curtailment plan. He also suggested that perhaps it would be appropriate for the FPC to instruct El Paso Natural Gas Co. to place into effect a separate classification for irrigation gas, immediately below that for domestic use.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has the authority to extend outstanding producer loans on 1974-crop cotton. But USDA announced on May 23 this year that loans would not be extended.

Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., a long time advocate of an 18-month cotton loan, has been urging USDA to reconsider that decision. But to date the PCG requests have fallen on deaf ears. A letter from USDA, written July 9 in response to a request from Congressman George Mahon, purports to justify the Department's refusal to authorize an extension. And, strangely enough, some of the reasons given for the refusal are the same reasons used by PCG in asking for the extension.

The loan program was designed as a mechanism to facilitate the producer's need to hold agricultural commodities off the market during times of burdensome supplies and unacceptable prices—the exact condition in which cotton finds itself in 1975. Heavy cotton stocks in the U.S. and abroad, coupled with slack demand for textile products around the globe, have driven prices to a point well below the cost of production.

But the situation appears to be improving. The worldwide recession appears to be bottoming, textile demand is showing a little life, and 1975 cotton production is almost certain to be below that of 1974.

USDA's letter to Congressman Mahon points out that U.S. supplies of cotton should be "more than adequate" to meet projected domestic and export requirements for 1975-76. It also agrees that "the economy and textile consumption are beginning to recover."

But the USDA letter concluded by saying "Extending the loan could flash the wrong signal by creating an impression of shortage not actually existent, withholding supplies at a time when sales could be made, encouraging a larger production than otherwise, building up hopes for much stronger prices ahead, and eventually piling crop-on-crop as each new season gets underway."

Had USDA announced a loan extension back in May, there is a possibility that larger production might have been encouraged. Even that is doubtful, and certainly such an argument is no longer valid in July.

As for producers "withholding supplies" when "supplies are more than adequate" and therefore "building up hopes for stronger prices," that's explicitly what the loan is supposed to do.

So behind all the verbiage USDA appears to be saying it doesn't want producers to have hopes for stronger prices and will not authorize a loan extension for fear the loan would then serve the purpose for which it was intended.

WILL OUR CHILDREN HAVE LESS?

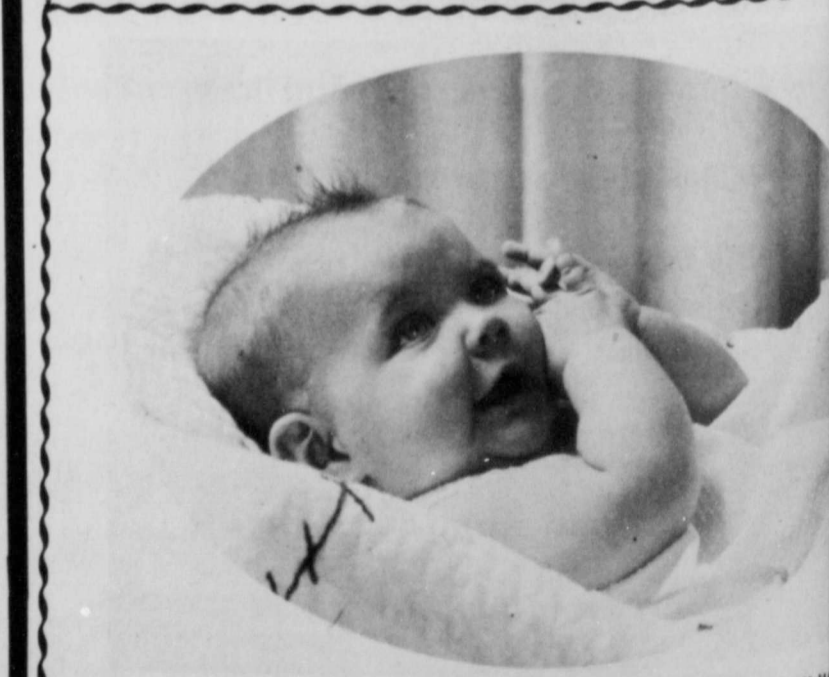

Ten years from now, there will be almost 20 million more Americans between the ages of 25 and 35 than there are today. Will they have to settle for less than the life-style we enjoy today? If they are to live as comfortably as we do, our ability to produce many things required by our standard of living today must be more than enough energy, to need more as today's children go to work, lies of their own.

Lockney Care Center Capers

by Maria Arellano

Our appreciation to Thelma Burt for her thoughtfulness of our needs. She gave us three big sacks of material scraps. Thanks to Virginia Taylor and Mrs. Nicholls of South Plains for the egg cartons. We try to utilize some or all of the items brought to us, by making useful things. However the idea is to make idle hands, busy hands. For we have a large group who are active and enjoy working. So thanks again for all of you who care and share with us. At times like this I can clearly see and feel that, "The greatest need in the world today is love — more love for each other and more love for God above!" When you come to visit our residents and share with them I can truly say Praise the Lord for each of you. Mayme McGhee came Tuesday and played the piano. We love you for coming. Our thanks also to the cute little blond who brought us fresh vegetables. Our residents enjoyed them and for the times she plays the piano for us too. Thanks also to all church groups who come each day for morning devotionals. We are proud to have Mr. McAda back on Wednesdays.

Our prayers to our friends Eula Thornton and Lavell Edwards who are in the hospital. Get well soon.

Thursday night we had the honor of having Art Ratzlaff, Norman Garrett, and Dwayne Wilson playing and singing for us. Art does a great job on the electric guitar, Dwayne on the piano and bass, Norman is a great singer, piano player and horn player. Thanks for the enjoyable evening. Hope to have you back real soon.

Visitors from out of town: Lena Schmidt, and Lucy Boedecker of Plainview visited Anna Dietrich; Ellie and Mildred Reagan from Clovis visited Leola Fortenberry, so did Pauline Van Hoose of Floydada and Eula Mae

Wilson of Ralls; Lola Turner, Flomot and Mr. and Mrs. Price, Petersburg, visited Dora Harris; Mr. and Mrs. Louie Kitchens of Silverton, Mr. and Mrs. George Weast, Floydada, Stella Davis, Anne Bryant, Nellie Bryant, all of Silverton, visited Alpha Kitchens; Birdie Joyce of Andrews, J. A. of Lubbock visited Elsie Woodall; Elizabeth Settle of Lubbock, Maureen Griffith of Plainview visited Bettie Lester; Matt Norrell visited James Turner; Yvonne and Art Ratzlaff visited Lola Grider; Ruth Roberson, Olton, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brown and Nanette of Garland visited Alice Ormand;

Mr. and Mrs. Smallwood, Matador; Mrs. Emma Peak, Matador; Brenda Greene visited Ola Rogers; Baldo-mero Martinez of San Antonio visited Jose Zambrano; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ortiz of Quitaque visited Simplicio Leal; Clyde Frizzell, Ethel Warren, Floydada, visited Leo Frizzell; Mrs. Edwin Dickerson, Silverton, and Mrs. Nora Shinault of Phoenix, Ariz., visited Louis Roberts. And many other visitors whose names we didn't get. And everyone from Lockney who visits us so faithfully.

Thanks to the boys and girls of Flomot First Baptist Vacation Bible School who came Friday morning to visit each of our residents. And brought each of them a beautiful decorated soap bar. You really are the fruit of love. Thanks again and to Bro. Crowder and Mrs. Crowder for the beautiful service and their singing. Each day we have had beautiful messages in devotionals. So thanks to all church groups. May each of you have a nice weekend.

Coming To the Floydada Methodist Church!

Johnny Ray Watson will be guest speaker and singer at the Floydada Methodist p.m. All area youth are invited to eat, play, and worship with the Methodist youth each night.

ABOUT JOHNNY RAY
Johnny Ray Watson began his singing career when he was only 8 years old by singing in his home church choir. He was born with an ear for music, and today plays and writes most of his own songs.

Johnny had an outstanding career at Lorenzo High School where he was all District Basketball player for three years as well as on several all tournament teams. High school was highlighted by being elected Caprock ABC Tournament most valuable player. In his senior year Johnny had the honor of being named to the 1st team Class A all State Team and played in the Coaches All Star Game in Fort Worth.

He participated in numerous talent shows winning several. He continued to use his God given talent during his years in college. Johnny Ray also was leading rebounder in 1970 and 1971 in McMurry College basketball and leading scorer and most valuable player in 1971.

In all of his singing, Johnny Ray still knew that there was something missing in his life. In December of 1972, this emptiness was filled, by rededicating his life to Christ. Johnny is now a true witness for Christ through his songs and testimonies.

Johnny has appeared in many concerts and revivals such as Bro. Edd Robbs - Abilene and Lubbock Tex., Lamesa and Lorenzo's High School, Andrae Crouch & the Disciples, Rev. Cleophus Robinson Recording Artist; 1st Methodist - Shallowater, Tex., 1st United Methodist - Denver City, Bruce Parks as pastor, San Jacinto United Methodist Church in Amarillo and 1st Methodist - Hart Tex.

Johnny's singing and witness for Christ is well known around parts of the West Texas and New Mexico areas.

He will be touring the states of Kansas, Nebraska and Alabama soon.

Johnny and his wife, Brenda, plan to go to Japan in 1976.

He has recorded one album to his credit, "The Straight and Narrow Path." A second is to be made soon. Five of the cuts on the album are his own compositions.

Scenes For Rogers Film To Be In Matador

Excitement ran high in Matador last week when representatives of the T. Penland Productions of Fort Worth were in that city making arrangements to shoot several scenes of the movie "Mackintosh and T. J." starring Roy Rogers.

Setting for most of the production will be the 6666 Ranch in King County. After visiting several area towns, Matador was selected for certain scenes. Places of business selected were C. R. Davis' Conoco, Matador Variety, Household Supply, Bob Stanley Pharmacy, Cowboy Boot Shop and Matador Hotel. A street scene will also be shot on Dundee Street and will feature a duplex dwelling owned by the late Mrs. U.L. Willie, just west of the First State Bank building.
