CAPTAINS FOR THE remainder of the season were... Steve Williams, Kelvin Ratliff and Gary Nixon. (Staff Photo)

The Floydada Whirlwinds had no trouble "levelling... and even lambasting" the Levelland Lobos 39-0 last year and hopefully can come back on the winning trail as they travel to Levelland Friday night.

Levelland has no players over 185 pounds.

FLOYDADA

The Whirlwinds came out of the Littlefield game in fairly good shape although Steve Moore has an elbow injury and Jerry McGuire hurt a knee. Leslie Soto is still out of the running.

They may be purchased at Floydada High School. Students tickets are $1.00.

Levelland is 1-4, having defeated Lubbock 29-28 last Friday night. The Lobos have shown good offense as they made several points even on the games they lost. Littlefield held them to only one touchdown. The Lubbock Westerners are AAAA and Levelland is AAA.

Lobo quarterback Dan Yarbrough is not only a good passer, but has a good record of intercepting passes as he plays defensive back also.

Halfback Bobby Baggett was instrumental in the Lubbock defeat as he intercepted a pass and made one touchdown. Other backs who have been scoring include: Lorenzo Childers (5-10, 155 pound senior) and Gary Cox. Cox alternates as quarterback. Childers is one of two starters returning from last year's 3-6-1 unit.

Rites For Irrigation Promoter

Services for James Artemas Baker, 79, of Pecos, the man frequently credited with bringing irrigation to the Texas High Plains were held Tuesday in Main Street Church of Christ in Lockney with Cline Nall of Lubbock officiating.

and Baker moved to Pecos, where he went to cotton production and irrigation there.

Survivors include his wife, Truce; a daughter, Mrs. Francisco Gonzalez of Lubbock; a son, Kevin of Lubbock; three brothers, France of Lubbock; Norton of Amarillo, and Dorsey of Lockney; six sisters, Mrs. L. M. Honea and Mrs. Dimple McGavock, both of Lockney, Mrs. Lee Seaman of Plainview, Mrs. J. A. Deavenport of Boulder, Colorado, and Mrs. L. M. Gross and Mrs. J. M. Phillips, both of Port Lavaca; and six grandchildren.

$1,100 Made From Spaghetti Supper

The annual spaghetti supper held Friday night netted some $1,100.00 according to reports. In fact, the supper was such a success, more spaghetti and sauce had to be hurriedly purchased and cooked.

Proceeds from the supper after expenses are paid, will go to the Floydada Day Care Center for operating purposes.

All concerned expressed their appreciation to those who helped in any way to make the supper a success.

Newberry Wins Football Contest

W. D. Newberry, 812 Mesquite Street missed only two contests in the football contest last week and will receive the $7.50 first place award.

Gerry Norrell, Rt. 2 with three misses. Most everyone missed the Baylor-South Carolina game and many missed Sonora-Eldorado and Crane-Mason games. Fact is, the contest judge had to call the newspapers in Sonora and Crane to find out who won these games as they did not appear on the AP listing Sunday in the Amarillo or Lubbock newspapers. Many missed the Friona-Hart game.

Also, missing only two games was Carl Burt, Box 143, Lockney, who will receive the $5.00 second place prize. The tie-breaker Littlefield-Floydada game was used to determine first and second place. Both missed picking the winner... Burt picked Floydada to win, Newberry picked Littlefield. So the total score guessed was used to determine winner. Newberry guessed 35 points, Burt guessed 37. The game ended in a 7-7 tie.

Honorable mention goes to the following who missed only four games: Jennifer Paty, Wiley Rogers, Jack Fuqua, Carrie Davis, Rex Rhoten, Joe Trevino, Boyd Lee, Burl Masters, Jerry Gentry, and John Vega.

Third place award of $2.50 will go to

THERE IS A LOVE FUND started at the Floydada First National bank for the Pena family... so you might want to give to this.

I MENTIONED IN this column a couple of weeks ago that Mary Tom and I would direct a tour to Hawaii, Mexico City-Taxco-Acapulco, or the Holyland. And I asked for your comment on which trip there was most interest.

To date, we have 14 interested in the trip to Hawaii, so looks like this will be the trip we will sponsor. Wholesale Tours, the tour company we represent will be sending me brochures on the trip with complete details.

Tentatively, the trip will cost $550. It is a nine day tour of three of the Hawaiian islands. It is scheduled around March 20.

So... if you want to know more about this tour, let me know and I'll give you a brochure.

OUR DALLAS COWBOYS never looked better in defeating the Detroit Lions Monday night. However, most of the game was very close and it seemed at times that the Cowboys wouldn't be able to win. They did a good job of dedicating the Lion's new stadium!

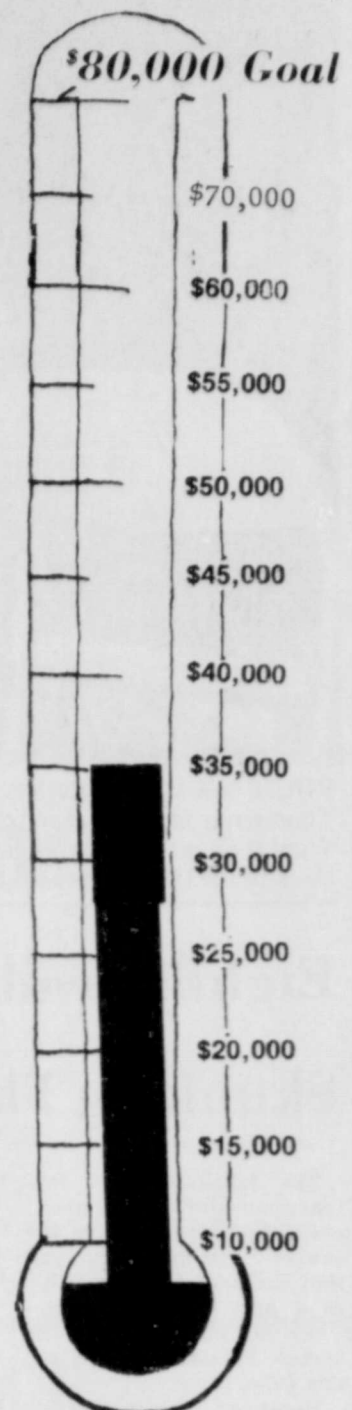

And... while we're on the subject of football, I'm gonna predict the Whirlwinds will take Levelland 20-7. This was my prediction on the Littlefield game. I always get Littlefield and Levelland mixed up... so the guess will probably be about right on this week's game.

IN ORDER TO KEEP my position as the main fishing editor on the Hesperian staff, it is imperative that I go fishing every now and then.

I would just like to report that the fishing at White River is zero now. Monday my father-in-law and I fished almost all the shoreline and I was skunked. My father-in-law caught one little bass which he returned to the water for improvement.

Now, we didn't try any catfish fishing, it might be okay. But, it was a beautiful day and we enjoyed the boat ride.

Monday Wreck

Eighth Grade Breezers Still Skunking Their Opponents

The fabulous (don't let that go to your heads) eighth grade Breezers continue to shut-out all opponents as they lambasted Lockney 36 to 0 here Tuesday night. They of course have a perfect 5-0 season record at this time.

However, coach Mark Vinson says they will meet their toughest foe next Tuesday afternoon at Tulia, who is 4-0 for the season. The coach urges everyone to follow the team to Tulia.

In the Lockney game, it was almost all Junior Arredondo. However, Troy Marquis scored the first touchdown after 7:05 in the first quarter. Troy also ran over the two extra points. Then in the second quarter with 5:57 remaining, Junior scored his first touchdown. PAT was no good. With 2:52 left in the same quarter, Junior ran 30 yards on a reverse play for another touchdown. Troy tossed a pass to Neal Becker for two more points.

At halftime the score was 22-0 in favor of the Breezers. In the third quarter Junior scored his third touchdown with 5:18 remaining in the quarter. Ray Mercado made the two extra points.

Yep, Junior did it again in the fourth quarter as he intercepted a pass and ran some 35 yards for the touchdown. PAT was no good.

Coach Vinson praised his entire defensive team... at one time holding Lockney four plays on the one yard line and six inches from a first down. "This fine defensive team is the reason we haven't been scored upon," the coach concluded.

Wendy Lu Alcott, Stanley Pierce Wed In Hobbs, New Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pierce

Mrs. Wendy Lu Alcott and Stanley Pierce exchanged wedding vows Saturday, September 20, at the First United Methodist Church in Hobbs, New Mexico. Dr. John Carpenter officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Alcott of Hobbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pierce of Floydada.

Steve Pierce, brother of the bridegroom was best man. Kathryn Alcott, sister of the bride was maid of honor. Brad Self, nephew of the bridegroom was ring bearer. Ushers were George Quisenberry, Don Quisenberry and Joe Ramey, cousin of the bride. Betty Willyard of Lubbock registered guests.

Pre-nuptial music was played by Reese Nelson, organist, the traditional processional, "Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin" by Wagner, and the recessional "Wedding March" from Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendessohn were played.

The church altar rail was decorated with green garlands accented by gold bows. Baskets of bronze and gold mums were on each side of the altar rail. Candelabra and greenery were on the altar table.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire gown of white dotted swiss, fashioned with a square neckline, long puff sleeves and tiered skirt. The dress was trimmed in eyelet and lace beading with gold grosgrain ribbon. Her elbow length veil of bridal net fell from a capulet trimmed with satin flowers, ribbons, and seed pearls.

The bridal bouquet was of bronze and gold mums with accents of orange and brown velvet streamers. The bride carried two yellow long-stemmed roses which she presented to her mother and the bridegroom's mother.

For something old the bride wore earrings that had belonged to her great grandmother. Something new was her gown, and something borrowed was her veil. She wore the traditional blue garter.

The maid of honor wore a brown dotted swiss gown patterned after the bridal gown. It featured a square neckline and short puff sleeves and was trimmed with white eyelet beading and brown grosgrain ribbon. She carried a nosegay of yellow carnations and baby's breath. The bride and maid of honor gowns were made by the bride's mother.

The reception honoring the couple was held in the church parlor. A basket of flowers in the bride's chosen colors of gold and brown centered the table which was covered with a gold cloth. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with gold flowers and topped with wedding bells. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Norman Self, Mrs. Steve Pierce, Mrs. George Quisenberry, Mrs. R. F. Garcia, and Miss Christine Criswell.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple is at home at 513 W. Tennessee, in Floydada. The bridegroom is engaged in farming.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Hobbs High School and a 1974 graduate of New Mexico Junior College, and attended Texas Tech. The bridegroom is a 1970 graduate of Floydada High School and attended Angelo State College and South Plains Junior College.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by parents of the bridegroom in the V.I.P. Room at the Holiday Inn in Hobbs September 19.

Scientists Tell Us We May Be Poisoning Our Plants With Water

SCIENTISTS tell us we may be poisoning our plants with water. They say in many parts of Texas the city water is so salty it kills salt-sensitive plants. Common table salt (sodium chloride) and other salts dissolved in municipal water supplies are major factors limiting the growth of many of our most common houseplants. Dr. Ed McWilliams, a scientist in floriculture with the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, says many plants such as ferns, gesneriads (relatives of African violets), prayer plants, dracaenas, orchids and bromeliads are damaged by the salt concentrations typically found in many central, south and west Texas cities.

He says salt can build up in a flowerpot over a period of time as a result of evaporation of water. It is also important to avoid allowing soil to dry out since this concentrates salts in the soil. Dr. McWilliams recommends using rain water or distilled water for your plants, especially in hot summer months when plants are using a great deal of water. Also he says that just a spoonful of epsom salts makes sodium go down.

WANT to know the secret for making a perfect omelet? Use eggs that are at room temperature. Beat them with a fork until fluffy, add one tablespoon of milk or cream per egg. Season with salt and pepper. Use teaspoon of butter to each egg and melt over low heat in skillet until it sizzles. Pour omelet mixture into skillet. Cook slowly... keeping heat low. Just before folding, add the filling you desire. This tip, of using eggs at room temperature, solved my problem of never having a pretty omelet.

The family history will now be carried on by the next generation of the famous chief's descendants.

There are a good many of them around the country. Mrs. Eavenson relates, for the old chief had seven wives and was never divorced from any of them. His granddaughter recalled the story of the white agent who told Quannah that he must choose his favorite and send the others away. Quannah is said to have replied, "You Tell 'em."

Mrs. Eavenson is the granddaughter of wife number five, Aerwuhutakum, who lived to be nearly 100 years old. She relates that Quannah's death occurred before her time, and that she studied about the chief in Oklahoma history during school there. She remembers her father's description of him as being a strong, stout looking man who always stood tall.

In her mother's home today there are three very special relics, according to Mrs. Eavenson. One is a peace treaty co-signed by Quannah Parker and the President of the United States, which is slated to go into the historical museum at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, and companion paintings on silk of Chief Parker and Aerwuhutakum.

Mrs. Eavenson recalls as a child she visited the Parker home place near Cache, Oklahoma, where Quannah built the famed Star House to accommodate his large family. On the roof was painted a large white star for each of his living wives, Mrs. Eavenson said. The home, at that time, was owned by her aunt, Neda Birdsong, and has since been made into a memorial site and moved nearer to Cache.

The Parker family reunions are still held each summer either at Camp Eagle near Lawton, Oklahoma, or at Ft. Parker in Texas.

It is understood that the city of Crowell is preparing to open a museum soon to honor the memory of Chief Quannah's mother, Cynthia Ann Parker.

Mrs. L. L. Clark and Mrs. Jack Whittington were in Santa Fe, New Mexico October 3rd to attend Dane Clark's One Man Show held at Jean Seth's Canyon Road Gallery. Dane is the son of Mrs. Clark. His show was well attended and well received.

Mrs. Clark said the aspen, charmsa and winter daisies in that area are beautiful and at their best for this time of the year.

will be held Sunday, but no formal celebration is planned due to Mr. Jarboe's delicate health.

Planning to be here to help her brother observe his birthday will be Mrs. Jessie Pope of Norman, Oklahoma, who always makes each birthday celebration. Mrs. Pope is the baby of the family and Mr. Jarboe the oldest child.

The Jarboes have resided in the same home 55 years. The house was moved in from the farm when he retired and has been remodeled twice. "He just wouldn't be happy in any other house," Mrs. Jarboe said of her husband.

Even tho no celebration is planned, friends will be welcome to drop by Monday, Mrs. Jarboe said.

ITS funny how boring a person is when you want him to listen.

"SHE told me" Sadie complained to a friend, that you told her the secret I told you not to tell her. "Well," replied her friend in a hurt tone, "I told her not to tell you I told her." "Oh dear," sighed Sadie, "Well don't tell her I told you that she told me."

nation. In this state the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation garners support from the private sector, both individual and business, to support many 4-H activities.

National 4-H Week provides an opportunity to look back at all the success that the 4-H program has enjoyed in the past, points out Herber. It also is a time when the groundwork must be laid to face the challenges that lay ahead. And challenges there are plenty, as 4-H strives to assist youth along the road of life and to prepare them to be the leaders of tomorrow's America.

National 4-H Week Oct 5-11

4-H is as American as baseball or apple pie! This American educational program for youth had its beginning around the turn of the century. In fact, it followed on the heels of a Corn Club organized in Jack County, Texas in 1908. And 4-H has flourished ever since.

During National 4-H Week which is October 5-11, 4-H members throughout Texas and the nation will reflect on the proud heritage of the 4-H program and will look toward the future with anticipation, points out Steve Herber, Assistant County Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Theme of this year's observance is "4-H... Spirit of Tomorrow."

The nation boasts a total of some 7.2 million 4-H youth between the ages of 9 and 19. More than 215,000 of these are Texans. Youth enrolled in the 4-H program in Floyd County total 250, notes Herber.

The 4-H program contin-

Mrs. Reeves had on display 16 dolls dressed in wedding ensembles, all handmade by her, from the bride of George Washington to that of Tricia Nixon Cox. She did research on each of the White House brides and from the description of their wedding gowns, she created each. Mrs. Reeves also had letters and pictures displayed pertaining to some of the weddings, one in particular a picture of President Grant and his bride. Both were shown to be carrying orange blossom bouquets with the words "love" embedded in each.

Mrs. Reeves brought out many interesting facts of the White House weddings, and with her sparkling personality and ready-wit brought history to life for club members and guests.

The American Creed was led by Mrs. Cleo Whittle and Mrs. Dallas Ramsey, president, presided over the business session of the club meeting during which time a new member, Mrs. Rollie Rinker was introduced.

Hostesses, Meses. Doris Field, Bill Womack and Doyle Moore served refreshments to the following guests and members: Meses. Bill Feuerbacher, Noman Hamilton, P. D. Helms, Clay Henry, Pete Hickerson, Alton Higginbotham, Clem McDonald, Pedro Ochoa, Louis Pyle, Junior Simpson, Ed Wester, Aldine Williams, Gene Arwine, Carolyn Cheek, Bob Copeland, Sammy Hale, Adrian Helms, Sunny McDonald, Edell Moore, Ray Morton, John Moss, Hollis Payne, Bobby Rainer, Dallas Ramsey, Rollie Rinker, Johnny Roberts, Joy Smitherman and Cleo Whittle.

Next club meeting will be October 28 which will be a meeting of all Floydada Federated Clubs, for a salad supper in the First United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Mrs. Bill Whitaker and Mrs. Kenneth Bishop will be hostesses for the 1950 Study Club.

Study Club at Lighthouse Electric. Mrs. Glenn Reeves, president of the Modern Study Club in Friona, a civic leader and county chairman and official representative of the Bi-centennial in that city, presented a fascinating program on "16 Brides of the White House." She was introduced by Mrs. Carolyn Cheek.

Homemakers can obtain finest herb flavor by drying herb leaves rapidly in a well-ventilated, dry, dark room, with stems tied in bundles.

Rapid drying away from light is especially important for the tender-leaf herbs—basil, tarragon, mint and parsley. This helps hold their color and flavor and prevents molding.

Less succulent leaf herbs such as sage, rosemary, thyme and summer savory contain less moisture and can be partially dried in the sun without affecting their flavor.

To prepare for drying, cut stems two or three inches from tip. If leaves are gritty or dusty, wash in cold water and drain thoroughly. Tie the twigs in bunches and hang to dry—or spread them thinly over a screen in a dark airy place.

As soon as the leaves are thoroughly dry, separate them from the stems and pack in tight containers away from air. This prevents loss of the essential oils that give flavor and fragrance.

Tight tin cans, sealed waxed cardboard containers or glass jars may be used. But glass jars should be painted black, wrapped in dark paper or stored in a dark place to keep the herbs from losing color.

For drying small quantities of parsley, celery tops and mint, dip the stem and leaves quickly into boiling salted water, shake them dry and spread on racks in a cool oven. When thoroughly dried, they may be powdered and stored in covered glass jars.

Two final thoughts for best results in herb drying:—young leaves at the tip of stems have more flavor than larger, older leaves.

—the ideal time for gathering is when the plant begins to flower.

Clocks Turn Back

October 26

WASHINGTON - Clocks will be set back an hour October 26 as the United States reverts to the regular pattern of six months of Standard Time, six months of Daylight Saving Time.

All special legislation that extended Daylight Saving Time in an effort to help cope with the energy crisis has now expired and no action is expected on further changes, congressional sources said Monday.

The country experimented two years ago with year-around Daylight Saving Time, but then Congress last year restored Standard Time for four months, responding to arguments that energy savings were minimal and winter-time daylight saving was hard on school children and others.

This legislation was not extended. The basic law is now in effect, providing Standard Time in all areas from the last Sunday in October to the last Sunday in April.

Legislation has been introduced to restrict Daylight Saving Time even more, from the last Sunday in May to the last Sunday in September. However, the House Commerce Committee has taken no action on this bill and a spokesman said none is likely.

UNTIL EXPORT RESTRICTIONS ARE REMOVED

GSPA seeks farmer moratorium

A call for curtailment of any further grain sales by producers has been launched by Grain Sorghum Producers Association following an announcement by the U.S. State Department that the embargo on grain sales to Russia would be extended to other Eastern European countries, including Poland.

GSPA president A.W. "Dub" Anthony, Jr. of Friona, Tex., stated, "It is time for the American producers to start speaking the only language the White House apparently understands--boycott." Anthony called on all grain producers to join in the moratorium.

It should be the decision of all farmers not to sell any more grain until the administration gives complete and unqualified assurance that the American farmer has free access to all markets including Russia for the 1975 crop or until farmers are able to sell their grain for full parity, according to the GSPA official. The current parity on grain sorghum is $5.16 cwt. Corn parity is $3.07 per bushel.

Anthony stated, "Producers were given assurance at planting and also at the time of the farm bill veto that we would have free access to all world markets. The current embargo on sales to Russia is a complete reversal of these assurances and farmers should react by stopping all sales of grain until these requirements are met. It is time the administration and American consumers alike be concerned about farmer's problems."

Anthony said, "It is also time that the American consumers see whether the labor unions or the U.S. farmers control the food supply of this country. We have 'cooled it' long enough. At present, this is our only chance of making the farmers' views known."

Elbert Harp, GSPA executive director, recently telegraphed Pres. Ford and Agriculture Secretary Butz, urging them to remove export restrictions.

A White House official responded to the GSPA telegram via letter, but Harp said the response was "less than satisfactory."

The letter said, in part, "We believe additional sales to the USSR will be made but we cannot say exactly how much until we have more precise information on the size of the 1975 U.S. grain crop. Such additional purchases will be considered in terms of the interest of all Americans, farmers and consumers alike."

Family Builds Adobe Home

before, I hadn't foreseen all the possibilities."

And it is more than a little unusual for a designer himself to supervise and participate in the actual construction. "Supervisor" isn't an exact description of David's job since May. He, the Sherman family members, one young carpenter, Jerry Miller, and several laborers are building the house. So far, nothing—not even the adobe block making, the wiring or even the plumbing has been sub-contracted.

The men agree that they have learned to do whatever has been necessary. Just last week, the crew, led by Smith and Sherman, built two fireplaces. "I tell everyone who comes to see the house that this is the best fireplace I've ever built," teases Bill Sherman about his very first fireplace-building effort. He and David now have started the kitchen fireplace which has a rounded design, with the hearth at waist-level so that it can be used for cooking if desired.

David Smith and the Shermans have found a oneness that is uncommon between a designer or builder and owner. Their ideas have often meshed as they labor together on the home the Shermans have so long wanted.

Smith notes there are several unusual aspects of this project. He specifically mentions owner participation while Bill Sherman emphasizes designer participation. The owners are contributing their time and skills which Smith says no regular contractor would allow. Bill Sherman adds that he also had the dirt needed in the adobe-making.

Flexibility for change is another unusual part of the Shermans' home. "In the usual home, change is difficult as a change order must be approved by the architect, the builder, and the owner, and then new costs must be figured. In a way, a home builder probably would rather never see an owner because he might want changes from the original plans," Smith reveals. He concludes, "I couldn't design an unconventional home like this and then turn it over to an uninvolved housebuilder."

Changes of all sorts have developed as the house has been built. According to Smith, "We let the available materials dictate what we do. Books may have the standards for the size and height of steps, but in our staircase, the steps are the size of crossties. And Mary Jo found a railroad bridge timber which we had discarded because it was too rotten to use for support. But it was just what she wanted for the fireplace mantle. Also, we have never used a new piece of wood when an old piece would do just as well."

Working during May and June, the crew made some 20,000 plus adobe blocks, averaging about 800 each day or about 1200 "on a good day." An old feed mixer truck, borrowed from a friend, was used for the actual mixing. Each batch took about two hours to mix and only one hour to pour into the forms. Truck breakdowns and rain delayed the making of the adobes.

Determining an actual "recipe" for the stabilized adobe blocks was a problem. Each block needed to have just the right proportion of sand and of native soil, which contains clay. If too much sand was used, the two-hard block would shrink and crack when dry. Too much sand and the block would crumble because it was too soft. Sherman remembers that what would seem a workable mixture for a single block mixed by hand, would not produce the same results when the ingredients were multiplied for the truck mixer.

Some blocks contain straw as a binder, but fiberglass was found to be more acceptable by the amateur adobe builders, or perhaps the making of over 20,000 adobes qualifies them to be called professionals. The final ingredient was emulsifiable asphalt for water-proofing. "It is an unusual material," Sherman says, "if some got on your clothes, you could wipe it off right then, but when it dried, it was tar." The color of the adobe block was only slightly changed by the addition of asphalt.

Water-proofing was accomplished by the time each block had gotten a little hard (about two to three hours) on the surface so the Shermans lost few blocks to rain. Each block was allowed to set about a day after the form was removed, then it was set on its end to dry another three days. Final curing took place in about two weeks of dry weather as the blocks rested in angled stacks.

The basement bedroom for Mark Sherman was begun June 21. Then the foundation and concrete floors were poured. "We mixed about 10 yards of concrete," laughs David Smith, "then called the cement people. Mixing it yourself is a hard way to save a little money."

Actual building of the stem walls began August 10 with a row of concrete blocks filled with concrete. The adobe blocks are considered waterproof, but it was thought wise to place them above ground level to protect them from standing water outdoors or from possible interior water overflows. The adobe walls continue to ceiling height and have been topped with a four to six-inch concrete beam bond, on which will rest the roof beams, telephone poles in this case. Beams, or "vigas," are a feature of adobe homes.

The roof of the house will appear to be flat, but will have a slight incline to allow for water run-off. There will be a six inch cavity for insulation between the wooden ceilings and decking topped by a built-up roof with gravel.

The adobe walls have been strengthened with barbed wire, at openings reinforcing steel bars were cemented into the concrete blocks. The support beams are securely bolted to the foundation. Once Sherman thought he would replace a corner beam with a more attractive one, but gave up that idea when he found the beam impossible to remove without tearing down a wall.

The blocks are held together with a "mud" made of the same materials as the blocks themselves. Exterior walls on the north, west and east will be 24" thick when plastered. Walls on the south are 14" thick and are set with many windows to receive the sun's heat. Many interior walls are also of adobe blocks, both to hold the warmth or coolness and also for sound-proofing purposes.

The house is designed in an H-shape, with the crosspiece not quite centered. This design enabled the house to rise between a row of trees in the Shermans' pecan orchard. Tall trees growing in both the front and back courtyards lend grace and keep the house from appearing newly-built.

Traditional in Spanish-styled homes are the courtyards, with each room usually having a door onto the courtyard. A sheltered walkway gave access to each room. This idea has been incorporated into the Sherman home with an enclosed galley, or wide hall, which forms the crosspiece of the "H" and runs along the children's rooms. Large windows along the galley allow sunlight to enter to help heat the home.

Also traditional in adobe homes are lintels, or wooden beams which are above the windows to spread the support of the roof over the wall. Railroad ties and bridge timbers have been used for this purpose and for support beams.

Finding railroad ties and timbers which could be used was another challenge met by the Shermans, who found that 28's could be used, but 49's were not dry enough.

Sherman explains that ties and timbers made in 1928 have dried enough that little creosote remains, but this isn't true of some made in 1949 which he had bought.

The north side of the house contains five bedrooms, three baths, and a utility porch. Karla and Kay will have separate rooms but will share a bath. Mack and Billy Bob will share a room and a bath, while Mark's room will be in the basement. On the northeast end of this wing will be the master bath and a bedroom which has the fireplace crafted by Bill Sherman. The utility room is located next to the stairs to the basement.

The south wing of the house will be dominated by a two-story living room supported by massive wooden beams. A balcony will be used as a library and will overlook the living room. An enclosed staircase or "caracol" will lead to the balcony. Crossties form the free-standing spiral steps and continue through the wall to show in the sun room and the exterior wall. The adobe blocks of the "caracol" or stair tower were cemented for a smoother look so that plaster wouldn't be needed. It may have a skylight before it is finished.

The south part of the living room has a curved wall. This one-story area will be on a slightly lower level and will be the sun room.

Also in the south wing is the kitchen, an office, half-bath, a "mud room" and a double garage. Built into the garage wall is an aged, circular piece of wood which has pegs just right for hanging up something. "You don't recognize it as a crossarm from a telephone pole?" Sherman says unbelievably. David Smith adds that if enough of these could be found, they would be used for the floor of the balcony.

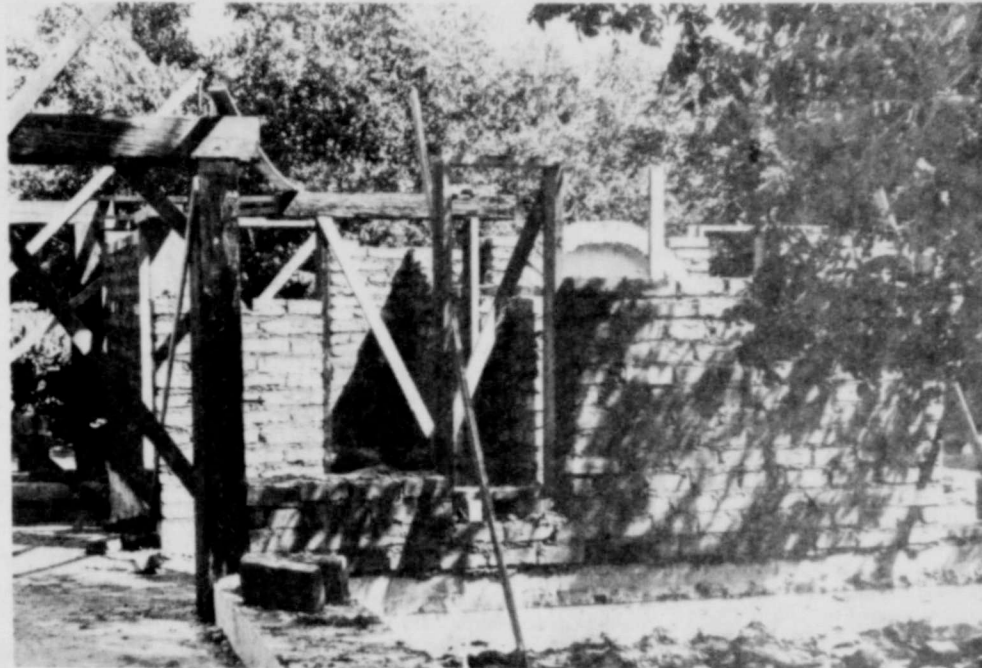

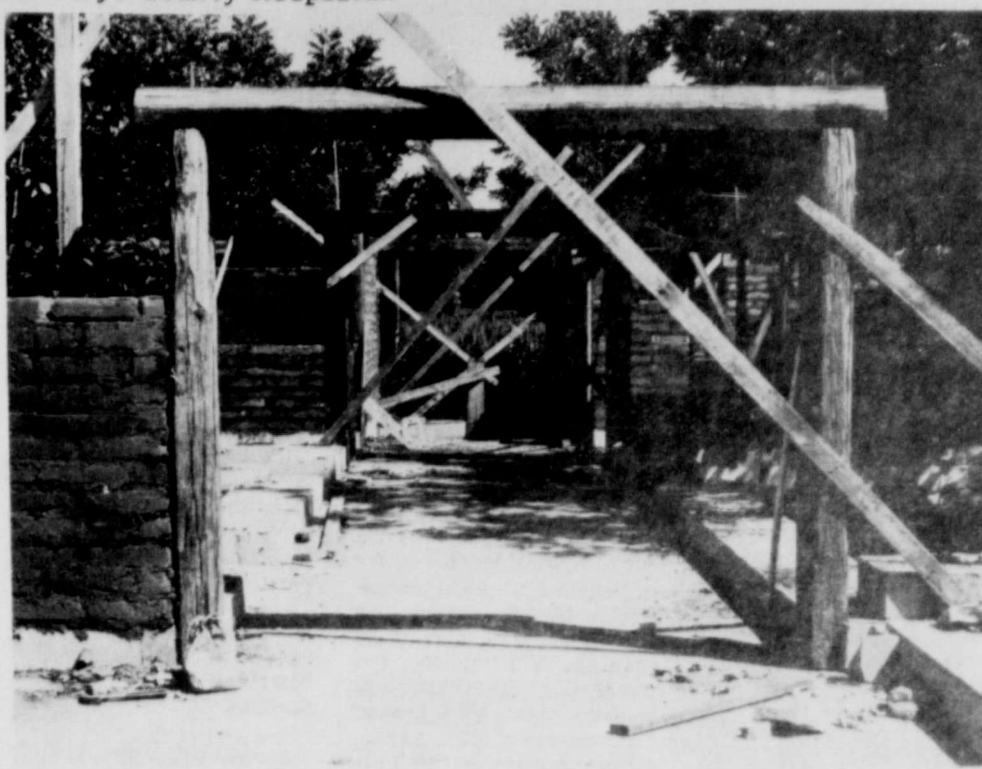

For the present, two energy-conserving heat pumps will serve as the heating and cooling system for the nearly 5000 square foot home. Heat pumps remove hot air in the summer, and reverse to bring warm air inside during the winter. Wiring and space for a supplemental heating system is available if necessary.

Someday, perhaps in several years, the Shermans may be ready for another family project. They would like to build a swimming pool, which would also serve as heat storage for a solar heat system. Ultimately, Bill Sherman would like to have the home self-supporting with a wind-charged generator supplying electricity, and the sun providing the heat. The home itself is a demonstration of conservation with its use of natural materials (dirt and sand) and of used lumber, and its thick walls will hold warmth or coolness as the weather dictates.

Is adobe construction competitive in cost? David

Smith says it is, especially in areas like New Mexico and Arizona where it isn't unusual. In this case? "We'll reserve judgment for a while," he smiles.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Battey were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Huckaby of Dumas - former Centerites. Monday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Julian Edmondson of Phillips and their daughter, Gay Lynn and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kollmar. Freak Accident Claims L

A 42-year-old Crosbyton man died instantly about 7:30 p.m. Monday in a freak accident on the Billy Kirk farm, 12 miles north and one-half mile east of Crosbyton.

Manuel Balanzeal Flores was attempting to free a calf which was hung in wire when a cow charged and struck him. As the animal started to charge a second time, Flores struck the cow with the butt of his .22 magnum rifle. The jolt caused the rifle to discharge, with the bullet striking the victim in the upper right portion of the chest. He apparently was killed instantly.

Mrs. Flores and her sister, Lupe Rivera of Crosbyton, were standing in the field some distance from Flores. The two women rushed to his side when they saw him fall. Mrs. Rivera summoned Crosbyton Ambulance Service, which brought the victim to Crosbyton Clinic Hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

FUNERAL FRIDAY

Funeral mass is scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church here with Father Harold Waldo officiating.

Interment will be made in Crosbyton Cemetery. King Funeral Home is directing arrangements.

WTSU Plays Utah State This Week

CANYON, Texas - West Texas State and Utah State, a pair of football teams that had problems last weekend with a couple of UTAs, try to shake the cobwebs in an inter-sectional football clash Saturday afternoon (October 4) in Logan, Utah's E. L. Romney Stadium.

Broadcast of the game over the Shamrock Network back to the Texas Panhandle will begin at 2:15 with the kickoff set for 2:30, CDT. Warren Hasse will handle the play-by-play.

WT's Buffaloes dropped to 1-3 on the year with a 39-7 loss to U. T. Arlington, while Utah State's Aggies fell 61-7 to U. T. Austin. That also put the Utags' 1975 record at 1-3.

Nine turnovers proved to be too much of a burden for the Buffs in their loss to the Southland Conference's Mavericks. WT coughed up the ball five times in the first half as U. T. Arlington put it away with a 36-0 lead. Freshman fullback Bo Robinson scored the Buffs' only touchdown in the third period on a one-yard plunge. The Buffalo defense, on the field for 19 more plays than the WT offense, was put through its worst night of the season. UTA rushed for an even 400 yards, almost as many as the Buffs had allowed in the three previous games.

This week with Utah State, the defensive task should be even tougher. The Utags boast of the defending NCAA rushing and all-purpose running champ in senior Louie Giammona. Only 5-9, 176 pounds, Giammona gained 125 yards and scored the winning touchdown in USU's come-from-behind 21-16 win over the Buffs last year.

On the Buff side of the ledger, Robinson had the best individual night of any WT running back this year with 79 yards in just nine carries against U. T. Arlington. The performance allowed him to take over the team's rushing leadership with 141 yards in 25 carries, for an average of 5.6 per game.
