WEDNESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Max Bogusch was hostess to her bridge club, Saturday afternoon at her home. Four games were played. Mrs. Dave McLymont, making high score received first prize, Mrs. F. B. Carter second prize, and Mrs. W. T. Carpenter the lucky winner of consolation prize.

The George Washington decorative design and colors were beautifully carried out in the tallies and napkins, and a favor to each guest was a tiny cradle with a hatchet and cherries, ever suggestive emblems of Washington.

A delicious luncheon of fried oysters, crackers, celery, piment salad, cherry pie with whipped cream and coffee was served to Mesdames F. B. Carter, J. C. Green, James Kerr, Dave McLymont, H. R. Lawrence, G. J. Meckel, J. Stovel, W. T. Carpenter, J. W. Happle, Misses Sybil McKee, Naomi Wells, and Elsie Pearl Swift.

Beezley—Robertson

Friday night of last week, February 16, Frank Robertson and Coleta Beezley sprung a surprise on their friends when they were united in marriage at the Presbyterian church. A revival meeting was in progress and the wedding took place after church services, Rev. Adams officiating. After the ceremony the young couple went to the Princess theater where the B. of R. T. were holding their annual dance, and as the newly married couple entered the dancing ceased and the band struck up the wedding March.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Chas. Beezley and has lived in Sanderson for several years, where she has a large number of loyal and sincere friends.

The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Robertson, and is an employee of the G. H. & S. A. Railway at this place. He is a young man of steady and industrious habit and has a large circle of friends.

The Sanderson Times joins with friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Commissioners Court

Commissioners Court met in regular quarterly session on February 13, and transacted the following business:

Received and approved the County Treasurer's quarterly report.

Ordered that $1700 be transferred from the Courthouse and Jail Fund to the Sinking Fund.

Ordered to instruct M. A. Cavender to build posts at the following street corners: Drug store, Kerr's store, depot, and Bohlmans; and to install electric lights on same; posts to cost at rate of $17.50 each. Electric current to be furnished by the Sanderson Ice, Water & Light Co., and Terrell county to keep up expense of said lights.

Ordered that the salaries of the County Judge and County and District Clerk be increased.

Get them when they are cheap. Potatoes, 10 pounds for a quarter or $2.25 per sack, Monday only, at Smith & Eldridge, the Store of Quality.

Presiding Elder Coming

Presiding Elder, Rev. S. E. Ellison, of the El Paso District will be in Sanderson Saturday, March 3rd, and will preach Saturday night at 7:30 and Sunday at 11:00 a.m. Everybody invited to come out and hear this great speaker.

Rev. Joe W. Bickley, Pastor.

Mexican Boy Drowned

Monday afternoon about 1:30, Miguel Lopez, a Mexican boy 15 years old, was accidentally drowned in what is known as five-mile tank on Frank Harrell's ranch.

From the best information obtainable, it seems that several Mexican boys accompanied by Miguel Lopez went out to five-mile tank to hunt. The Mexicans got out of the car on arrival at the tank and all went off across the hills hunting, except Lopez who stayed by the car. When the boys returned to the car Lopez was missing and on search his dead body was found in the tank. Lopez was subject to fits and it is supposed he had a fit and was accidentally drowned while in this helpless condition.

Miguel Lopez was well known around town, as he had spells of fits on the streets occasionally and would draw the sympathy of a large crowd through his misfortune and suffering.

Returns From Western Trip

B. F. Purl returned last Saturday from a business trip through New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Purl stated that the fine rains which have fallen over Texas during the past few weeks did not reach New Mexico and Arizona. He said however, that those states got a pretty good snow. Mr. Purl was loud in his praise of Tucson, Arizona. He said it was a city of some 20,000 or 25,000 people, had broad well-paved streets, fine buildings, and lots of business going on. Outside of Tucson however, he did not see any town in either state that was ahead of Sanderson. During his trip Mr. Purl stopped off at Lordsburg, New Mexico, and while there met up with our esteemed former citizens, Mr. and Mrs. John Whistler and children.

Potatoes, 10 pounds for a quarter, Monday only at Smith & Eldridge, the Store of Quality.

Runaway Boys

Three small boys ran away from their homes at Marathon on Friday of last week. The boys were bound for New York City and had visions of seeing "Broadway," "Coney Island," "The Bowery," "Greenwich Village," and all the other great sights. But alas! they got no farther than Sanderson when Deputy Sheriff Tom Parsons took charge of them on telegraphic orders from their parents. They were held here until Monday noon and were then sent back to Marathon on No. 101.

Guy Nations Back From Hospital

Guy Nations returned Monday morning from San Antonio where he had been in the Santa Rosa hospital for three months. Mr. Nations was suffering from a severe case of typhoid fever and had a very hard struggle for his life; pulling through only with the help of his strong constitution, his indomitable will power, careful nursing, and a competent physician. Mr. Nations says he is feeling fine now, and he looks to be in the pink of health.

Hot Piece of Steel in Eye

Jim Blanton, a negro who is working for J. M. Bassett at Dryden, was brought to town Tuesday night by Joe Farley. The negro had been doing some blacksmith work and while hammering on a piece of red hot metal a small flake flew off and struck him in the eye. Dr. Robertson removed the piece of steel which had burned a dent in the negro's eye about the size of a flax seed.

Bob Gatlin was in from his ranch Tuesday, on business.

Chicago's Biggest Bogus Liquor Plant Found

Chicago police have just discovered probably the largest liquor distilling plant in that city. From the basement of the place a tunnel ran to a garage where the fake whisky and gin, in counterfeit bottles and with counterfeit labels, was loaned for distribution. The illustration shows the inside of the bottling room, and a case of bogus Gordon gin starting through the tunnel.

PROCEEDINGS OF TEXAS LEGISLATURE

Many Measures Now Before Both the Senate and House.

Friday's Senate Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—By a vote of 23 to 1 the senate Friday passed finally the medical practice bill following an entire day of debate that ran over into a night session of more than an hour and a half.
 As amended and passed finally the bill, which was introduced by Senator Couzens and jointly signed by Senators Holbrook, Thomas and Strong, makes provision for Christian Science practitioners, but is without provisions for the practice of chiropractic. Christian Science practitioners would not be permitted under its provisions to charge, directly or indirectly, for their ministrations.
 The amendment exempting Christian Scientist practitioners from the provisions of the bill, offered by Holbrook and adopted by viva voce vote, after motion to table it had lost, 10 to 5, with five parts, reads as follows:
 "Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect or limit in any way the application or use of the principles, tenets or teachings of any church in the ministrations to the sick or suffering by prayer without the use of any drug or material remedy, provided sanitary and quarantine laws and regulations are complied with."
 To this amendment was tacked the provision, offered by Witt, prohibiting pay for such services, the Witt addition being, "provided no charge is made, directly or indirectly."
 Amendments were adopted taking cancellation of license out of hands of the medical examiners' board and placing it with district judges, and to prevent injunction before hearing on proceedings to cancel license.

Friday's House Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—The house Friday ordered submitted to the voters of Texas the proposition of holding a convention at Austin in May, 1925, for the purpose of revising, altering or amending the present state constitution or of the framing of a new one.
 By a vote of 77 to 43 it adopted the Rountree-Quad concurrent resolution after accepting three amendments dealing with the number of convention delegates and the manner of their selection.
 The first amendment, offered by Mr. Rountree, provides that the proposition of calling the convention shall be submitted at the general election of 1924 and in the event of a favorable vote that the delegates will be chosen at a special election in March, 1925. The vote on the amendment was 5 to 21.
 The house finally passed the bill by Mrs. Wittmans of Dallas county court of domestic relations for trial of divorce cases. The vote was 76 to 16, with many members not voting.
 The Wittmans' bill for creation of the Dallas County district court of domestic relations was finally passed by the house Friday by a vote of 75 ayes, 16 noes and 14 present and not voting.

Thursday's House Proceedings.

Austin, Texas.—The house Thursday adopted a senate concurrent resolution calling upon the governor for return of senate bill No. 52, limiting private banks, which already has been passed by both the house and senate. Complaint against the measure has come from Houston, and a hearing upon the bill is contemplated.
 By a vote of 72 to 26 the house Thursday engrosses the bill by Carter of Coke reducing the amount of the bonds required of depositories of independent school districts. Under the present law their bonds are twice that of county depositories.
 Favorable reports were made by the house judiciary committee Thursday upon the following bills:
 Providing that clerks shall be paid only a certificate fee in cases where they do not actually provide the transcript of cases, but only certify to it.
 Providing that copies of the opinion of the appeals court shall be furnished free to each of the parties litigant and intervenors.
 An unfavorable report was made upon the Faubion bill which sought to make articles printed for the exposure of fraud privileged matter.

Wednesday's Senate Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—By vote of 20 to 7 the senate Wednesday, after a spirited round of debate, passed to third reading the house bill by Carpenter of Dallas known as the publication bill and providing for maximum fees to be charged for the publication of legal notices. The bill specifies that newspapers printing such notices shall do so at the lowest rate charged for commercial advertising.
 The senate Wednesday passed to third reading the bill by Westbrook, passed by the house, allowing the raising of funds for permanent buildings for the University of Texas by permitting the board of regents to pledge the interest and income from the university permanent fund for a period of fifteen years in order to raise funds for new buildings at once.
 Efforts to limit the time the income may be pledged to four years were defeated. The bill was amended, however, to limit to four years the time for which university lands may be leased.

Wednesday's House Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—Eleven senate bills were finally passed by the house Wednesday, including the group of bills enacting the changes in the state banking system that were recommended by the convention of 700 bankers at Waco last June.
 With one exception, these bills were passed as they came from the senate. The exception was made in the bill which sought to provide that state banks shall not in the future be organized with less than $35,000 capital stock. The house amended this bill by adoption of a graduated scale. This scale permits banks of $15,000 capital and of less than 1,000 inhabitants; $25,000 banks in those of 1,000 to 10,000; $50,000 banks in those of 10,000 to 20,000; and $100,000 banks in all places of 20,000 or over. The amendment was adopted, 91 to 29.
 Other senate bills finally passed by the house were:
 Marking highway intersections.
 Defining self-raising flour.
 Validating the title of the Michael B. Menard survey in San Jacinto County.
 Reorganizing the courts in Limestone and Freestone counties.
 Establishing the ninety-sixth judicial district in Tarrant County.

Tuesday's Senate Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—Proposed legislation of particular interest to hotel operators of the state came in for attention in the senate Tuesday when the bill by McMillin, requiring the posting in each hotel room of rate schedules, was passed finally.
 Senate committees made favorable reports on the following bills:
 By Patman—Bill for codifying statutes and appropriating $15,000.
 By Watts—Requiring county depositories to make sworn statements to county auditors when requested.
 By Pollard—Exempting publishing concerns operated by students from the gross receipts tax.

Tuesday's House Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—Baker's school bill, requiring the use of the general curriculum of the public schools in private and parochial schools, was killed in the house Tuesday by striking out the enacting clause, 72 ayes to 53 noes.
 It was only after a lengthy debate that the bill met its demise. The question of religion entered into the discussion.
 The house revenue and taxation committee cleaned its docket Tuesday when it adversely reported the Dinkle income tax by a vote of 9 to 4, and killed the bill to tax all kinds of soda water, mineral water, near beer, ginger ale, ice cream, sherbets and other frozen refreshments.
 Two bills designed to reduce the danger of grade crossing accidents were reported favorably Tuesday by the house committee on roads, bridges and ferries. One bill authorizes county commissioners courts to install a safety device which requires the slowing down of cars before reaching a track. The other requires all vehicles to come to a stop thirty feet from a track before crossing.
 The bill requiring the stop was reported favorably with an amendment that failure to observe it shall interfere with the right of persons to collect damages for accidents.

Monday's House Proceedings.
 Austin, Tex.—The Melson bill levying a 3 per cent tax on sulphur produced in Texas, was finally passed by the house Monday, 101 to 14, under suspension of the constitutional rule.
 The Melson bill, originally calling for a 5 per cent tax, was passed to engrossment Monday after adoption of a committee amendment reducing the tax to 3 per cent. An effort by Representative Smith of Travis to have the tax further cut to 1 1/2 per cent was lost. The only record vote was on final passage.
 The Wittfree bill for the licensing of public indoor recreation places was killed in the house today by adoption of a motion postponing its consideration indefinitely. The vote to postpone was 70 to 42.

Camp Fire Work Indorsed.
 Testimony to the growth of the Camp Fire movement, as well as tribute to its efforts in the direction of better citizenship, is found in the fact that 12 universities and colleges in various parts of the country now have courses in Camp Fire work, for which academic credit is given. In addition, many cities have officially recognized the program by definitely correlating it with recreation work in the public schools and by giving the instructor the same status enjoyed by other teachers.

IF SICK, BILIOUS! START YOUR LIVER
 Don't Take Calomel! "Dodson's Liver Tone" Acts Better and Doesn't Grip, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee!

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.
 Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated, or you have headache, distension, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson Liver Tone tonight.
 Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the mule of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

FORLORNAIVER

SYNOPSIS.—Some gold in the desert. "Cameron solitary prospector, forms a partnership with an unknown man whom he later learns is Jonas Arren, father of a girl whom Cameron wronged, but later marries back in Illinois. Cameron's exonerations appease Arren, and the two proceed to the Forlorn River. Their refuge from a sandstorm is a cave. Cameron discovers gold but too late; both men are dyed. Evidence, in the cave, of their discovery of gold, and personal documents. Richard Gale, adventurer, in Casita, Mexican border town, meets Grege Thorne, lieutenant in the 9th cavalry, old college friend. Thorne tells Gale he is there to save Mercedes Castadena, Spanish girl, his affianced wife, from Ross, Mexican bandit. Gale "roughs" Ross and his gang, with the help of two American cowboys, and he, Mercedes and Thorne, escape. A bugle call from the left orders Thorne to his regiment. He leaves Mercedes under Gale's protection.

CHAPTER III

A Flight into the Desert.

Thorny and startled, Gale turned his ear to the soft wind. Presently he heard, or imagined he heard, low beats. In a moment he was certain the sounds were the padlike steps of hoofs in yielding sand. The regular tramp was not that of grazing horses. In the instant, made cautious and stealthily by alarm, Gale drew Mercedes deeper into the gloom of the shrubbery. The sounds of hoofbeats grew louder. Gale made out a dark moving mass against a background of dull gray. There was a line of horses. He could not discern whether or not all the horses carried riders. The murmur of a voice struck his ear—then a low laugh. It made him tingle, for it sounded American. Eagerly he listened.

"It shone was Laddy, it shone was" came a voice out of the darkness. "Rough house! Laddy, since wire fences drove us out of Texas we ain't seen the like of that. An' we never had such a call."

"Call? It was a burrin' roost," replied another voice. "I felt low down. He vamooseed some sudden, an' I hope he an' his friends shook the dust of Casita. That's a rotten town, Jim."

Gale jumped up in joy. What luck! The speakers were none other than the two cowboys whom he had accosted in the Mexican hotel.

"Hold on, fellows," he called, and strode into the road.

The horses snorted and stamped. Then followed swift rustling sounds—a clinking of spurs. Then silence. The figures loomed clearer in the gloom. Gale saw five or six horses, two with riders, and one other, at least, carrying a pack. When Gale got within fifteen feet of the group the foremost horseman said:

"I reckon that's close enough, stranger."

Something in the cowboy's hand glinted darkly bright in the starlight. "You'd recognize me, if it wasn't so dark," replied Gale, halting. "I spoke to you a little while ago—in the saloon back there."

"Come over an' let's see you," said the cowboy, curtly.

Gale advanced till he was close to the horse. The cowboy leaned over the saddle and peered into Gale's face. "Then, who? He belongs to the sheathed the gun and held out his hand. Gale met a grip of steel that warmed his blood. The other cowboy got off his nervous, spirited horse and threw the bridle. He, too, peered closely into Gale's face.

"My name's Ladd," he said. "Reckon I'm some glad to meet you again."

Gale felt another grip as hard and strong as the other had been. He realized he had found friends who belonged to a class of men whom he had despised of ever knowing.

"Gale—Dick Gale is my name," he began, swiftly. "I dropped into Casita tonight hardly knowing where I was. A boy took me to that hotel. There I met an old friend whom I had not seen for years. He belongs to the cavalry stationed here. He had befriended a Spanish girl—fallen in love with her. Rojas had killed this girl's father—tried to abduct her. . . . You know what took place at the hotel. Gentlemen, if it's ever possible, I'll show you how I appreciate what you did for me there. I got away, found my friend with the girl. We hurried out here beyond the edge of town. Then Thorne had to make a break for camp. We heard bugle calls, shots, and he was away without leave. That left the girl with me. I don't know what to do. Thorne swears Casita is no place for Mercedes at night."

"The girl ain't no peon, no common Greaser!" interrupted Ladd.

"No. Her name is Castadena. She belongs to an old Spanish family, once rich and influential."

"Reckoned as such," replied the cowboy. "There's more than Rojas' wantin' to kidnap a pretty girl. Shore he does that every day or so. Must be somethin' political or feelin' against class. Well, Casita, ain't no place for your friend's girl at night or day, or any time. Shore, there's Americans who'd take her in an' fight for her, if necessary. But it ain't wise to risk that. Lash, what do you say?"

"It's been gettin' better round this Greaser cerial for some weeks," replied the other cowboy. "If that two-bit of a garrison surrenders, there's no tellin' what'll happen, an' bein' across the U. S. line a few inches or so don't make no h—l of a difference. My advice is, don't let Miss Castadena ever set foot in Casita again."

"Looks like you've shore spoke sense," said Ladd. "I reckon, Gale, you an' the girl ought to come with us. We know people who'll take care of the senorita till your friend can come for her."

Dick warmly spoke his gratefulness, and, inexpressibly relieved and happy for Mercedes, he went toward the clump of cactus where he had left her. She stood erect, waiting, and, dark as it was, he could tell she had lost the terror which had so shaken her.

He led her into the road up to the cowboys, who now stood bareheaded in the starlight. They seemed shy, and Lash was silent while Ladd made embarrassed, unintelligible reply to Mercedes' thanks.

There were five horses—two saddled, two packed and the remaining one carried only a blanket. Ladd shortened the stirrups on his mount, and helped Mercedes up into the saddle. From the way she settled herself and took the few restive prances of the mettlesome horse Gale judged that she could ride. Lash urged Gale to take his horse. But this Gale refused to do.

"I'll walk," he said. "I'm used to walking, I know cowboys are not."

Once started with protection assured for the girl and a real objective point in view, Gale relaxed from the tense strain he had been laboring under. How glad he would have been to acquaint Thorne with their good fortune! Later, of course, there would be some way to get word to the cavalryman. But till then what torments his friend would suffer!

It seemed to Dick that a very long time had elapsed since he stepped off the train; and one by one he went over every detail of incident which had occurred between that arrival and the present moment. His meeting with Thorne, the wonderful black eyes of a Spanish girl; her appeal to him; the hate inspired by Rojas, and the rush, the blow, the action; sight of Thorne and Mercedes hurrying safely away; the girl's hands pressing his to her heaving breast; the sweet fire of her kiss; the fact of her being alone with him, dependent upon him—all these things Gale turned over and over in his mind, only to fail of any definite conclusion as to which had affected him so remarkably, or to tell what had really happened to him.

Had he fallen in love with Thorne's sweetheart? The idea came in a flash. Was he, all in an instant, and by one of those incomprehensible reversals of character, jealous of his friend? Dick was almost afraid to look up at Mercedes. Still he forced himself to do so, and as it chanced Mercedes was looking down at him. With a quick, graceful impulsiveness she put her hand upon his shoulder. Like her appearance, the action was new, strange, striking to Gale; but it brought home suddenly to him the nature of gratitude and affection in a girl of her blood. It was sweet and sisterly. He knew then that he had not fallen in love with her. The feeling that was akin to jealousy seemed to be of the beautiful something for which Mercedes stood in Thorne's life. Gale then grasped the bewildering possibilities, the infinite wonder of what a girl could mean to a man.

The desert began to lighten. Gray openings in the border of shrubby growths changed to paler hue. In the east a white glow grew brighter and brighter, reaching up to a line of cloud, defined sharply below by a rugged notched range.

"Senor, I am cold," said Mercedes. Dick had been carrying his coat upon his arm. He stopped the horse and raised the coat up, and helped Mercedes put it on.

"I should have thought of you," he said. "But I seemed to feel warm. . . ."

The coat's a little large; we might wrap it around you twice."

Mercedes smiled and lightly thanked him in Spanish. He was about to start when he observed that Ladd had halted and was peering ahead in evident caution. Mercedes' horse began to stamp impatiently, raised his ears and neigh, and acted as if he was about to neigh.

A warning "hiss" from Ladd made Dick put a quieting hand on the horse. Lash came noiselessly forward to join his companion. The two then listened and watched.

Presently Lash went to the rear and Ladd started ahead. The progress now, however, was considerably slower, not owing to a bad road—for that became better—but probably owing to caution exercised by the cowboy guide. At the end of a half hour this marked deliberation changed, and the horses followed Ladd's at a gait that put Gale to his best walking paces.

His steps were halted by Ladd's actions. The cowboy reined in his horse, listened a moment, then swung down out of the saddle. He raised a cautioning hand to the others, then slipped into the gloom and disappeared. Gale marked that the halt had been made in a ridged and cut-up pass between low mesas. To the right, up under the ledges some distance away, stood two square black objects, too uniform, he thought, to be rocks. While he was peering at them, uncertain what to think, the shrill whistle of a horse pealed out, to be followed by the rattling of hoofs on hard stone. Then a dog barked. At the same moment that Ladd hurriedly appeared in the road a light shone out and danced before one of the square black objects.

"Keep close an' don't make no noise," he whispered, and led his horse at right angles off the road. Gale followed, leading Mercedes' horse. As he turned he observed that Lash also had dismounted.

To keep closely at Ladd's heels without brushing the cactus or stumbling over rocks and depressions was a task Gale found impossible. It was no easy matter to lead a spirited horse through the dark, winding lanes walled by thorns. Dick saw that the travel was fast, but by no means noiseless.

The pack animals at times crashed and ripped through the narrow places. It seemed to Gale that anyone within a mile could have heard these sounds.

Presently Ladd led out into a wider lane that appeared to run straight. The cowboy mounted his horse, and this convinced Gale that they had circled back to the road. The march proceeded then once more at a good, steady, silent walk. When Dick consulted his watch he was amazed to see the hour was still early. He asked Mercedes if she was cold, and she answered that she was, speaking especially of her feet, which were growing numb. Then she asked to be helped down to walk awhile. At first she was cold and lame, and accepted the helping hand Dick proffered. After a little, however, she recovered and went on without assistance. They had reached the summit of what was evidently a high ridge sloped with much greater steepness on the far side. It was only after a few more forward steps, however, that Dick could see down the slope. Then full in view flashed a bright campfire around which clustered a group of dark figures. They were encamped in a wide arroyo, where horses could be seen grazing in black patches of grass between clusters of trees. A second look at the campers told Gale they were Mexicans. At this moment Lash came forward to join Ladd, and the two spent a long, uninterrupted moment studying the arroyo. A hoarse laugh, faint yet distinct, floated upon the cool wind.

"Well, Laddy, what 'r you makin' of that outfit?" inquired Lash, speaking softly.

"Same as any of them raider outfits," replied Ladd. "They're across the line for beef. But they'll run off any good stock. As boss thieves these rebels have got 'em all beat. That outfit is waitin' till it's late. Nothin' to it but head south for the Rio Forlorn. It's on the border line, but it's country where these rebels ain't been yet."

"It's a hike to Beldin's ranch. An' if we get there in daylight some Greaser will see the girl before Beldin can hide her. It'll get talked about. The news'll travel to Casita like sage balls before the wind."

"Shore we don't ride into Rio Forlorn in the daytime. Let's slip the packs, Jim. We can hide them off in the cactus an' come back after them. With the young man ridin' we—"

The whispering was interrupted by a loud ringing note that whistled up from the arroyo. One of the horses had scented the travelers on the ridge top. The indifference of the Mexicans changed to attention.

Ladd and Lash turned back and led the horses into the first opening on the south side of the road. The packs were slipped, securely tied and hidden in a mesquite clump. Ladd strapped a blanket around one of the horses. His next move was to take off his chaps.

"Gale, you're wearin' boots, an' bein' liftin' your feet you can beat the cactus," he whispered. "But the—the—Miss Castadena, she'll be torn all to pieces unless she puts these on. Please tell her—an' hurry."

Dick took the chaps, and going up to Mercedes, he explained the situation. She laughed, evidently at his embarrassed earnestness, and slipped out of the saddle.

"Senor, chapparejos and I are not strangers," she said. "Deftly and promptly she equipped herself, and then Gale helped her into the saddle, called to her horse, and started off. Lash directed Gale to mount the other saddled horse and go next.

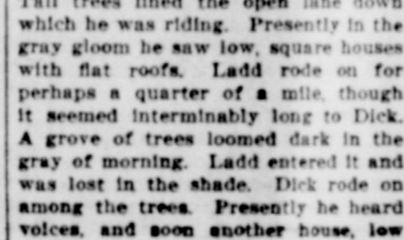

Dick had not ridden a hundred yards behind the trotting leaders before he had sundry painful encounters with reaching cactus arms. The horse missed these by a narrow margin. Dick's knees appeared to be in line, and it became necessary for him to lift them high and let his boots take the onslaught of the spikes.

Ladd pursued a zigzag course southward across the desert, trotting down the aisle, centering in wide bare patches, walking through the clumps of cacti. Gale became chilled to the bone, and his clothes were damp and cold. His knees smarted from the wounds of the poisoned thorns, and his right hand was either swollen stiff or too numb to move. Moreover, he was tired. Mercedes must be made of steel, he thought, to stand all that she had been subjected to and yet, when the stars were paler and dawn perhaps not far away, stay in the saddle.

So Dick Gale rode on, drowsier for each mile, and more and more giving the horse a choice of ground. Once when he, thinking to fight his weariness, raised his head, he saw that one of the horses in the lead was riderless. Ladd was carrying Mercedes.

It seemed that hours passed, though he knew only little time had elapsed, when once more he threw off the spell of weariness. He heard a dog bark. Tall trees lined the open lane down which he was riding. Presently in the gray gloom he saw low, square houses with flat roofs. Ladd rode on for perhaps a quarter of a mile, though it seemed interminably long to Dick. A grove of trees loomed dark in the gray of morning. Ladd entered it and was lost in the shade. Dick rode on among the trees. Presently he heard voices, and soon another house, low and flat like the others, but so long he could not see the further end, stood up blacker than the trees. As he dismounted, cramped and sore, he could scarcely stand. Lash came alongside. He spoke, and someone with a big, hearty voice replied to him. Then it seemed to Dick that he was led into blackness like pitch, where, presently, he felt blankets thrown on him, and then his drowsy faculties faded.

"Senor, Chapparejos and I Are Not Strangers," She Said.

"Dad, I shall fall in love with your new ranger. I will—I have—"

Easy Arithmetic.

Everybody knows that learning the tens in the multiplication table is as easy as "pie," and that the fives are not much harder. But slight as is the mental effort required in multiplying any number by five, it may be lessened still more by discarding the multiplier entirely and substituting a divisor instead.

This may sound paradoxical, but by experimenting you will find that dividing by two will bring the same results as multiplying by five, providing you add a cipher to the quotient if the dividend be an even number, or five if it be odd. For instance, if you multiply 2,734 by 5 the product is 13,670. What is still easier, divide 2734 by 2, which is done almost instantaneously. Then tack on your 0, and you have 13,670.

GOOD STALLION MANAGEMENT

Many Promising Animals Have Years of Usefulness Reduced by Neglect in Winter.

Many promising draft stallions have their years of usefulness greatly reduced through neglect during the winter months. The ideal method of handling a stallion is to give him daily work to do in order that he may eat his feed with relish and keep his body and muscles in trim. Where such a method is practiced the animal, accustomed to daily handling and control, does not become unruly and hard to manage. Furthermore, he is groomed at least once daily when in use.

Unfortunately for the horse business, the common practice in stallion management is to put the horse in a shed, out of sight and hearing of other horses, where he is fed at irregular intervals and seldom groomed at all. Even though a small yard is sometimes provided, it is very often so filthy as to be more of a damage than an advantage.

No horse, however sound, can stand such treatment long without injury. A good, vigorous stallion needs at least six miles' travel daily or its equivalent in work.

The amount of feed to be given depends upon the exercise given, the condition of the horse and his ability to make use of the feed he gets.

The Kansas experiment station suggests the following as good combinations:

1. Oats, timothy or prairie hay.
2. Oats four parts, corn six parts, oilmeal one part, timothy or prairie hay.
3. Corn seven parts, bran three parts, oilmeal one part, timothy or prairie hay.

STEER SHOULD BE DEHORND

Animals Fatten Faster and Sell Better—Work is Easier When Calves Are Young.

Steers usually fatten faster and sell better if dehorned. Calves can be dehorned any time after weaning, usually in the cool months when there are no flies. The work is easier when the calves are young; a neater job can be done; the shock is not so great and the calves are easier to handle. The aim should be to take the ring of skin off with the horn to prevent a stub growing out. A little pine tar over the wound helps to stop bleeding and keep away flies. Clippers do good work with all young cattle and are quicker and more humane than the saw. If the clippers are kept sharp they will handle any ordinary horn without crushing it, though it is not as easy to cut close to the head as with the saw.

HOUSE FOR FARROWING SOWS

Animals Should Be Separated and Given Ration High in Protein and Rather Laxative.

A sow which is soon to farrow should be separated from the other hogs at least a week before her date, and during this time she should be given a ration high in protein, and rather laxative in nature; in other words, a feed very similar to that which is given while suckling the pigs, and as the farrowing time approaches the ration should be reduced somewhat. This will bring the sow up to farrowing time in good condition, and she will not be feverish and restless; hence, less danger of her injuring or killing her pigs when she farrows.

HOGS IN LIMITED QUARTERS

Success May Be Had if Quarters Are Kept Clean—Divide Pasture Into Desired Areas.

Swine can be raised when they are confined in limited quarters if the quarters are kept clean, but they will do much better and stay in better health if they have plenty of pasture. Dividing the pasture into convenient areas, so that the hogs can be shifted from one pasture by plowing and reseeded.

International Conference to Strike at Production of Opium at Its Sources

By DR. R. S. COPELAND, U. S. Senator From New York.

The consumption of opium, from which most of the drugs branch, is amazing. Records show that 730,000 pounds were consumed in one year, equivalent to 6 grains to every man, woman and child in America. We need only between 30,000 and 50,000 pounds for legitimate purposes.

An international conference to strike at the opium production at its source is the surest, swiftest and, in fact, the only effective step to be taken to stop the narcotic drug evil.

I am in favor of the President of the United States calling such a conference at the earliest possible moment. Without all important nations participating in such an agreement the plan would not be effective. And in striking at the evil at its source the plan should include restriction of the acreage devoted to the growth of the poppy in such countries as China, India, Persia and Arabia.

In addition, the United States must limit use of narcotics in this country. The government must supervise rigidly their manufacture and must limit the sale of such drugs to properly licensed drug stores and only on the prescriptions of reputable physicians. The United States further must prohibit exporting narcotics and stop smuggling of these same drugs back into this country.

There is a vast distinction between alcohol and drugs. An alcoholic, deprived of alcohol, is a disbrag. He is insane only while he is using it. A drug addict becomes insane as soon as drugs are taken from him. An addict will plan and execute a crime so atrocious that it cannot be conceived by sane persons.

In our New York list we found that about 10 per cent of the addicts were operators of vehicles. No wonder people are killed. I would recommend that no license be issued to any driver without proper physical examination to make certain that the applicant is not a user of drugs. I feel sure that this would reduce automobile accidents.

America Is Cursed Today With a Lot of Spineless Would-Be Reformers

By SHERIFF W. E. ROBB, Former A. E. F. Chaplain.

The state has established that the man is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt; that he murdered without cause; that he showed no mercy; that he was a menace to life—therefore it has decreed he must die, for that is the law of the state as passed by the will of the people. The law is the will of the majority and the death penalty for murder the people have imposed upon themselves as a method of restraint.

Brainless men and women who have no ability to think, who believe in free license and rebel against all law—those will condemn and rage and shout as usual.

Unthinking religious fanatics will plead and pray and forget that God is a God of justice and mercy and that judgment is as much a duty of love as mercy is the delight of love. They forget that love, while the greatest of all laws, is the most perfect in its working and the most exacting in its demands.

America is cursed today with a lot of spineless, unthinking, cowardly, would-be reformers, editors, speakers, who crave approval more than they crave to be right.

They with one accord will all condemn a minister of the gospel for performing the duties of the state. They think of a minister as a sexless, spineless creature.

Taking another's life, hurling some one over the precipice into eternity, is the most terrible of all tasks. I am going to hang Orrie Cross because it is my duty and because there is no way to evade that terrible task except the way of the coward. The memory of it will be with me always. I would to God there were some way out of it, but there is none.

The Ice-Covered Antarctic Continent the Fourth Largest in the World

By WILHELM FILCHER, German Explorer.

The north polar region consists mainly of water. The Antarctic is chiefly land. That is one reason why the latter demands much more interest than the former. Another is that explorers have agreed that there lies a new continent. The shore of this huge stretch of land is near or within the polar region, that is to say, in a latitude corresponding to Drontjem, Norway, and Thomsen in the northern hemisphere. This new continent has, according to present calculations, an area equal to that of Europe and Australia. It would therefore be the fourth largest continent of the world.

The great new land has high mountain chains and in the interior extensive high plains covered by an ice shield from 300 to 600 feet in thickness. The "inland ice" shows great gulfs and glaciers. The only visible landmarks are rocks and mountain ridges penetrating the cover of ice.

On both the Pacific and the Atlantic sides of the continent there are deep bays. On the Pacific side the Ross sea penetrates the land in a shape like the contour of France. On the Atlantic side the Weddell sea penetrates the land. The area of this sea is as large as the Baltic, the Black and the North seas.

College Graduate Expects to Be Made Foreman at the End of Six Weeks

By THOMAS A. EDISON, American Inventor.

The main objection I have against a college graduate is that he objects to work, especially if it is dirty.

The college graduate doesn't want a job with work in it, and when he does get a position he expects to be appointed foreman at the end of six weeks. Meet men working for me never attended college. The college men I have usually show lack of imagination. They scarcely have any suggestions to make in their daily routine which might lead to improvement in their various departments.

College is a good place for a man who wants to work, but, unfortunately, there are very few of this type nowadays. Yet, if a man wants to succeed it is not necessary for him to go to college. He will broaden himself without it. We have enough lawyers, doctors and literary men. Also we have many $100,000 jobs with no one capable of filling them. The main quality for success, in my estimation, is ambition with a will to work.

SENATE APPROVES BRITISH DEBT BILL

Congressional Action Virtually Complete—Few Adjustments to Be Made.

Washington.—Congressional approval of the British debt funding settlement virtually was completed Friday when the senate passed the house funding bill.

By a vote of 61 to 21 the senate rejected the amendment of Senator Hitchcock, democrat, of Nebraska, to fix the British interest rate at the same rate as paid on United States bonds. The vote was 70 to 13.

The bill was returned to the house for adjustment of amendments not related to the plan for funding the British debt of $4,604,000,000 over a term of sixty-two years at reduced interest, but providing that settlement with other debtor nations must have the approval of congress instead of the president.

The opposition consisted of four republicans—Senators Borah of Idaho, France of Maryland, La Follette of Wisconsin and Norris of Nebraska—and nine democrats—Senators Ashurst of Arizona, Garry of Rhode Island, Hefflin of Alabama, Hitchcock of Nebraska, McKellar of Tennessee, Reed of Missouri, Trammell of Florida, Walsh of Massachusetts and Walsh of Montana.

Forty-six republicans and 24 democrats voted for passage of the bill. The republicans were Ball, Brookhart, Bursam, Calder, Cameron, Capper, Colt, Couzens, Curtis, Dillingham, Ernst, Fernald, Frellinghuysen, Gooding, Hale, Harrell, Johnson, Jones (Washington), Kellogg, Keyes, Lenroot, Lodge, McCormick, McCumber, McKinley, McLean, McNary, Moses, Nelson, New, Oddie, Page, Phipps, Poindexter, Reed (Pennsylvania), Shortridge, Smoot, Spencer, Stanfield, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend, Warren, Watson, Waller and Willis.

The democratic supporters were Bayard, Brossard, Caraway, Dial, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harrison, Jones (New Mexico), King, Myers, Overman, Owen, Pittman, Pomerene, Randall, Robinson, Sheppard, Smith, Shields, Stanley, Swanson, Underwood and Williams.

The attacks in the final debate, as well as in previous discussion, centered on the reduced interest provided in the British settlement. This is 3 per cent for the first ten years and 3 1/2 thereafter. Opponents rallied finally upon the amendment of Senator Hitchcock, democrat, of Nebraska, proposing that Great Britain should pay the same rate paid by the United States upon its securities, averaged each year. This was rejected 61 to 21 and ended the interest fight.

Fourteen democrats and seven republicans supported the Hitchcock amendment. The democrats were Dial, Gerry, Harrison, Hefflin, Hitchcock, McKellar, Reed (Missouri), Smith, Stanley, Trammell, Walsh (Massachusetts) and Walsh (Montana). The republicans were Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, France, Johnson, La Follette and Norris. Eighteen democrats joined the majority of republicans in opposing the Hitchcock amendment.

Greatest War Hero Dead

St. Louis.—Michael B. Ellis, declared one of America's greatest war heroes, was married Wednesday to Miss Catherine Krzyzanoska. Ellis captured 53 Germans and 10 enemy machine guns single-handed, while serving in France, and for his valor was decorated by America, France and Italy. General Pershing bestowed the congressional medal of honor on him after his return from France. Ellis was a sergeant in the 28th Infantry. His bride was an American Red Cross worker in France.

Beaumont, Texas.—The Temple Lumber company's plant at East Mayfield, about 60 miles north of Beaumont, was destroyed by fire Thursday.

Warehouse Act Enlarged

Washington.—Without a roll call the house passed Thursday, a senate bill amending the federal warehouse act so as to include within its provisions all agricultural products, to remove the one year limitation placed on licenses of warehousemen, to license persons to inspect and sample products within warehouses, and to enlarge the scope of offenses which a warehouseman might commit and for which he might be punished. The bill now goes to conference.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

No "Fairy Godmother Wand" for Harding

WASHINGTON.—President Harding believes there is a mistaken idea, more or less prevalent in the United States, that the American government can wave a wand at the nations of Europe to which they will respond.

It was made clear at the White House the other day that the President hopes this feeling will not grow stronger, because the Washington government is not going to wave any magic wand at Europe in the present reparations mess, and is going to make no proposals either to France or Germany until proposals for assistance are sought.

The administration's firm attitude against intervening in Europe now appeared to be making an impression in the senate when the foreign relations committee, after brief consideration of reparations data furnished by Secretary Hughes, decided to take no action that might tend to complicate the delicate international situation.

Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), however, is planning to revive his proposal for a world economic conference. Another development was the introduction in the house by Representative Chalmers (Rep., O.) of a resolution requesting the President to call a new world peace conference.

The attitude of certain members of

Picture Brides of Hawaiian Japanese

Continued importation of "picture brides" into Hawaii threatens to give Japanese full control in the territory and menaces United States security. Secretary of Labor Davis was told by a special commission, which has just completed an investigation in the islands.

The traffic in "picture brides," coupled with the present policy of "parental adoption," has defeated the purpose of the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" between Japan and the United States.

"The menace from a military standpoint," its report stated, "can be fully verified by referring to the records of related federal departments. The question of self-defense submerges all other into insignificance. 'If these islands are to remain American, the assured control of the islands must also be American and the

To Take Teeth Out of Railroad Act

PREPARATION of a bill emasculating the transportation act of 1920 for introduction during the present session of congress has been begun by Senator Brookhart (Rep., Ia.), who was elected on an anti-railroad platform last November.

Reduction of the net valuation of the railroads to approximately $12,000,000,000, as compared with the valuation of $18,900,000,000 tentatively fixed by the interstate commerce commission, is probably the principal object of the Brookhart bill.

It would also abolish the United States railroad labor board and wipe out the section of the transportation act directing the interstate commerce commission to prescribe rates that will yield a fair return on the value of the property devoted to transportation.

The "fair return" is now designated by the commission as 5 1/2 per cent, but the railroads have never earned but slightly in excess of 4 per cent in any year since the act was passed in 1920, and that was last year.

Senator Brookhart would reduce the valuation on railroad property by

National Guard to Be 250,000 Strong

Before submitting its report, the committee received the written views and recommendations of corps area commanders and the adjutants general of several states. Adjutants general or representatives from the following states appeared before the committee: Illinois, Alabama, Connecticut, Colorado, District of Columbia, Georgia, Missouri, Minnesota, New Jersey, Michigan, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Texas.

The strength above indicated, 250,000 men, will permit of the maintenance of the following organizations at peace strength within the United States which should be developed in the order of priority stated:

Eighteen infantry divisions. Four cavalry divisions. One hundred and thirty companies harbor defense troops. Twelve infantry regiments, special allotments.

Steps to incorporate the Texas Farm Bureau Fig Growers' Association, embracing Galveston, Harris and Brazoria counties, were taken at the meeting of the Galveston County Farm Bureau at Dickinson last week, when a report of a committee was made, and seven fig growers of the three counties were elected to comprise the board of directors.

Farmers in Milam County see in the visitation of the swarms of blackbirds great good this spring and summer in destruction of crop pests. The birds are everywhere in immense numbers, swarming over the plowed fields and industriously gathering in the insects. Much land was put under through December and January, and the late freeze softened it so that the birds find it easy to harvest their insect food.

There will not be a shortage of tomato plants in Texas caused by the recent freeze, according to reports received by the department of agriculture. Car lot shipments of vegetables from the lower Rio Grande Valley from Oct. 1, 1922, to Feb. 8, 1923, inclusive, are reported as follows by the department: Beets, 71 cars; potatoes, 7; cabbage, 258; spinach, 16; carrots, 98; tomatoes, 11; lettuce, 74; citrus fruits, 38; mixed vegetables, 254 cars.

It was decided at the meeting to close the submission of exhibits and data in behalf of proposed sites by April 20. Thereafter the board will make study of the matter submitted and start its rounds about the first week in May. The board hopes to proceed on a strictly business basis, with entertainment features frowned upon.

A large number of requests are received daily at the office of the federal prohibition director in Austin from physicians and druggists in various portions of the state requesting emergency allowances of prescription books and whisky, supporting their requests by statements that there is an epidemic of influenza and pneumonia in their respective communities, and in some instances providing certificates of local health officials that these diseases are prevalent.

The attorney general has approved Conroe Independent District bonds, serials, 6a.

A building program of approximately $500,000 was carried out in Temple in 1922, according to reports just made available. Building permits to the amount of $435,000 were issued during the year. Inasmuch as the completed contract usually exceeds the amount named in the permits by at least 20 per cent it is indicated that the actual amount of building was close to the $500,000 mark.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick and unable to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonials about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GRACIE W. BURCHILL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Amos Rusie Was Green

A friend of Amos Rusie recalls this story, as told by Rusie, when he first became a member of the New York baseball team. Rusie said he was green. The Giants went by boat to Boston, the first time Amos had ever been on an ocean-going vessel.

Ready for bed, Mike Tiernan, Giant rightfielder of those days and roommate of Rusie, began to put on a life preserver.

"You had better put on one of these," said he to Rusie. "The boat might sink and, with this on, you'd be safe."

Rusie put on the life preserver. The lights went off and of course Tiernan's life preserver.

"After wearing the preserver for some time and being punished by it Rusie, according to the story, yelled:

"This old boat may sink, but I'm not going to wear this any more."

NICK ALTROCK MAKES ONE CLASSIC REMARK

Capable of Doing Other Stunts Than Clowning on Field.

When Coaxed by Companions to Permit Gypsy Dope Out His Future, Nick Replied That His "Future" Was Behind Him.

Nick Altrock can do other things besides clowning on the ball field. At that particular stunt he is a star. His act goes big with the fans.

In his day Nick was a great pitcher. He never had the stuff of Rube Waddell, but he had a great half balk motion that made it suicide for a base runner to take much of a lead off first base. To use the words of Nick, he pitched to first base as well as the batter.

Today Nick is still of much value to the Washington club in coaching the young pitchers. As a coacher at third base he has one of the toughest jobs on the ball field.

However, the present-day fans do not take Nick in a serious light. To them he is merely the clown or comedian of the ball field.

Nick has always contended that he was born about fifteen or twenty years too soon. When he was a star he received in the neighborhood of $3,000. Ordinary ball players get that much today.

Evidently Nick was thinking of the old days, as the idol of the Chicago fans, when he pulled the following bit of repartee, which is a bit of a classic in its way:

While waiting for the train in the Washington station a couple of gypsy fortune tellers tried to induce some of the athletes to let them dope out their future by reading their palm.

Naturally, the players had the gypsy queens concentrate on Nick. One of the bush league players yelled:

"Come on, Nick; loosen up with a quarter and let the lady tell you your future."

"Young man," replied Nick, "my future is behind me, and with it a lot of loose quarters."

HAS MUCH FAITH IN TIGERS

Boss Scout of Detroit Team Refuses Offers to Manage Clubs in Minor Leagues.

Eddie Herr, boss scout of the Tiger tribe, has so much faith in what Detroit is going to do in the 1923 pennant race that he has turned down several good offers to manage minor league clubs or to scout for other major clubs, and will remain with Detroit. As Herr puts it, he has done his part in building together what he believes is a pennant-winner, and he's not going to leave the club just at the stage when it should come through. He is at least one man connected with the Tigers who is predicting pennant—maybe he is just saying what Cobb thinks but declines to admit.

ROADS RETAIN GOOD OPERATING INCOME

During 1922 Decrease in Income and Expense Accounts Are Shown.

Austin, Tex.—Practically all of the income and expense accounts of Texas railroads decreased during the eleven months ending Nov. 30 last, as compared with the same eleven months of the preceding year. However, the carriers still show a healthy income from operation. These are figures compiled by the railroad commission and were given out this week.

As compared with the 11 months of 1921 and the 1922 accounts for 11 months show as follows:

Freight revenue $128,757,579; decrease $21,661,685, or 14.40 per cent.

Passenger revenue, $33,861,965; decrease $6,515,292, or 16.14 per cent.

Mail revenue, $3,084,637; decrease $282,285 or 8.38 per cent.

Express revenue, $4,968,823; increase $886,421, or 21.71 per cent; other revenues, $4,528,223; decrease $988,728 or 17.92 per cent. Total operating revenue, $175,201,368; decrease $28,561,479, or 14.91 per cent.

Maintenance of way and structures, $31,432,469; decrease $4,095,576, or 11.5 per cent; maintenance of equipment, $34,622,930; decrease $4,469,943, or 11.29 per cent; traffic expense $37,112,131; decrease $72,595, or 1.92 per cent; transportation expense, $66,162,327; decrease $14,197,200, or 17.67 per cent; miscellaneous expense, $759,856; decrease $49,449 or 6.11 per cent; general expense $7,223,710; decrease $483,908 or 6.28 per cent; transportation for investment, credit, $529,352; increase $297,487 or 128.30 per cent; total operating expense $143,294,671; decrease $23,606,256, or 14.14 per cent, and net revenue from operation, $31,907,297; decrease $1,953,221, or 13.44 per cent.

The ratio of operating revenues to operating expenses was 81.79 per cent last year against 81.91 for the previous year.

COFFIN OF EGYPTIAN KING IS FOUND AMID TREASURES

Luxor, Egypt.—Opening of the mortuary chamber in the tomb of King Tutankhamen Friday showed the sarcophagus of the pharaoh to be still in the same position in which it was placed by his mourners more than 3,000 years ago.

A canopy jar, which probably contains the heart and other internal organs of the king, was found inside the canopy.

A magnificent statue of a cat, richly painted, has stood sentry over the dead pharaoh through the centuries he has lain there. The chamber is filled with splendid furniture, in orderly array. It also holds several superb gold chariots, an exquisite ivory and ebony box and many beautiful alabaster vases.

Gift to German Babies. Coblenz.—Major General Henry T. Allen, former commander of the American troops in the Rhineland Thursday approved using the 10,000,000 marks profit made by the Amarc News, the American soldier newspaper, for the German children's milk fund.

To Investigate Carload Weights. Washington.—State railroad commission of Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma, and Texas have agreed to cooperate with the interstate commerce commission in an investigation to determine whether minimum carload weights now fixed by railroads on interstate shipments of hogs throughout their territory are reasonable.

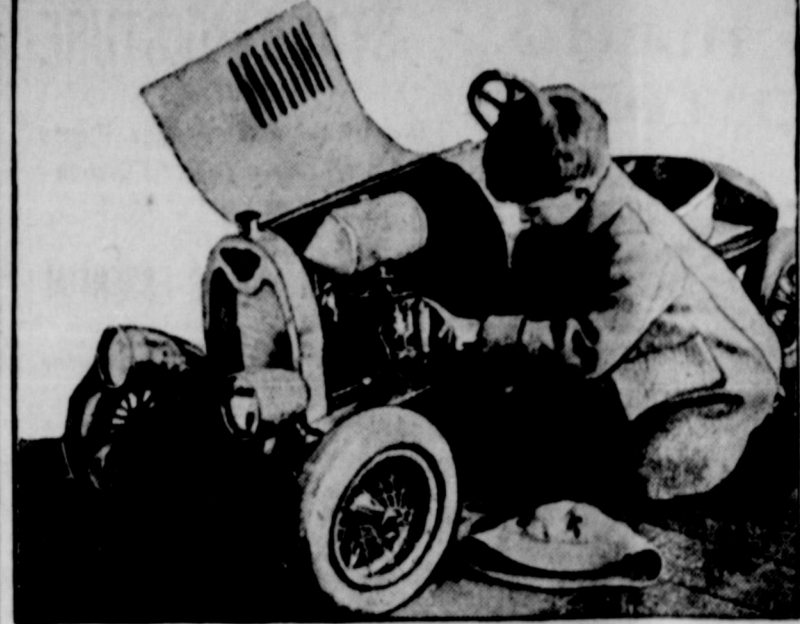

Put a Good Season in Soil. Smithville, Tex.—The recent freeze caused the loss of a number of cattle and has put the roads in bad condition, but the fine season in the ground will greatly offset this. Most of the farmers have all of their land broken.

Extension of Time on Taxes. Washington.—The commissioner of internal revenue Wednesday announced an extension of time until June 15 of the final date for filing tax returns of domestic corporations for the calendar year 1922.

Flotonia Fair Announced. Flotonia, Tex.—M. Fernan, secretary of the Flotonia Fair Association, announces dates for the fair at Flotonia as Sept. 19, 20, 21 and 22 at the Fair Park.

TAKES INTEREST IN AUTOMOBILES

Here indeed is the lad of 1923 who doesn't take a live interest in automobiles—here is a new English car for children that is the real thing, a regular gasoline driven motorcar, the miniature of an expensive roadster. And this lucky kid loses no time in finding out "what makes it go."

The committee met and organized by electing Representative Teer of Granger as chairman, Senator Lewis of Conroe vice chairman and Representative Satterwhite of Carson secretary.

The three citizens named are Dr. W. B. Bialock of Woodlawn, Harrison County, physician, farmer county merchant, president of the State Glinners' Association, member of the state democratic executive committee, and former member of the legislature; Lee Simmons of Sherman, banker, stock farmer and actively connected with the Sherman Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. W. C. Martin of Dallas, active in club circles and civic undertakings, and who has personally supervised and directed the installation of schools, community centers and been active in other similar matters. The resolution provided that one of the three citizens should be a woman.

Members of the committee other than those named are Lieutenant Governor Davidson and Senators Wood, Bledsoe, Fairchild and Ridgeway, Speaker Seagler and Representatives Patterson, Pate and Lackey.

This committee will visit the Harlem farm site recommended by Governor Neff, as well as other sites that may be suggested or considered.

BILL APPROPRIATES SUM TO COMPLETE AUSTIN PAPERS

Washington.—The sum of $14,741 will be appropriated under terms of a bill introduced Monday by Senator Sheppard to cover the cost of completing by the government printing office of the Moses Austin and Stephen F. Austin papers. The publication is to be made under the supervision of the American Historical Association, which is manifesting a deep interest in preserving the papers, and with illustration of the important aspects covering the period in the lives of the two men from 1790 to 1836. The compilation would include the valuable and original details of the colonization and settlement in Texas from the United States. The Austins carried on operations in Virginia, then went to Massachusetts, from whence they went to Texas.

GREEKS ARE BLAMED, TOO

New York.—Both Greeks and Turks were equally guilty of atrocities during the hostilities in Asia Minor, Miss Susan D. Orvis of Dubuque, Iowa, declared this week upon her return on the Italian liner Giulia Cesare after three years as a relief worker in the Near East. Miss Orvis directed the exodus of the last group of orphans to be deported by the Turks from Cesarea, in the heart of Anatolia.

SUPPLY OF POTASH FOUND

Washington.—Enough potash to supply the needs of the United States for nearly a thousand years, based on present importations, is contained in the green sands of New Jersey, the geological survey announced this week. Moderate estimates place the quantity of potash in that belt at 256,953,000 short tons that could be mined from open pits.

HEARNE POSTMASTER NAMED

Hearne, Tex.—Charles J. Hostrasser has received the appointment as postmaster at Hearne, succeeding Floyd Easterwood, whose term has expired. Mr. Hostrasser was postmaster for 16 years under the Roosevelt and Taft administrations, and was succeeded by Mr. Easterwood in 1914.

FRUIT TREES NOT MURT

Gollad, Tex.—Orange trees that had fruit the size of small egg have withstood the heavy coat of ice during the recent freeze.

Why Farmers are Turning to for Economical Transportation

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

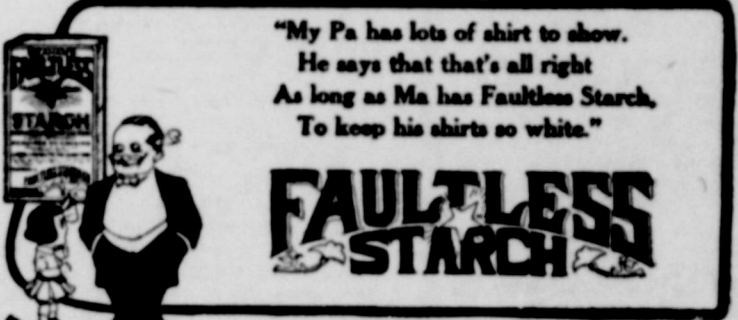

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

Nervous Baby Cried Almost All the Time

Babies have nerves just the same as grown people, and sometimes a very slight ailment will make them fretful. They can only express their feeling by crying, which often becomes very distressing. Mrs. Ernest Compton, Route 1, Kennesaw, Ga., had such a baby, and says:

"My baby was very nervous and restless and cried almost all the time till she was six months old. Then I began giving her Teethina and she is now as good and sweet-tempered as she can be."

Teethina not only relieves stomach and bowel troubles, but quiets the nerves without the use of opiates or other narcotic drugs.

FARMERS BUY LARGE PART OF FOODSTUFF

Survey Shows That 30 Per Cent Is Brought in by Railroads.

More Prosperous Sections Seem to Purchase More Than Those Isolated—Smallest Volume of Home Production is in East.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farmers should grow more of the food they consume and buy less of food produced outside their immediate locality is the consensus of opinion of 25,000 farmers in all parts of the country recently questioned on the subject by the United States Department of Agriculture. The survey showed that of the food consumed by farmers and their families 70 per cent is produced locally, and nearly 30 per cent is brought in by railroad. In the judgment of the farmers 70 per cent of the food they consume could be economically produced locally.

In a general way the survey indicated that the more isolated farmers produce more of their foodstuffs than the less isolated, and that the more prosperous sections seem to buy more than the less prosperous. The thought back of the survey was that inasmuch as high freight rates have had a tendency to reduce the prices of products which farmers sell, and to increase the prices of the things they buy, they might economically produce more of their home requirements and thus become less dependent upon the railroads and the outside world.

By sections of the country the East South Central states, including Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, led in the volume of production for home consumption with 75.2 per cent. The smallest volume of home production is in the New England States, including Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut with 58.1 per cent.

FIELD INSPECTION SERVICE

One-Reel Film Released by Department of Agriculture Pictures Different Operations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Guarding live stock health," a new one-reel film recently released by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows the operations of the field inspection service of the bureau of animal industry. Attention is called to the large number of animals entering the big stockyards each day, and the fact that many of these animals are returned to farms as stockers and feeders. Should some of the animals be diseased they would serve to spread infection through the country. Therefore a thorough search for traces of disease is made.

Cleaning Up and Disinfecting Yards Where There Has Been an Outbreak of Disease.

The film may be borrowed from the department for limited periods or copies may be bought at the cost of printing.

MUTTON SUPPLY FOR MARKET

Production Expected to Be Many Thousands of Pounds Over Figures Given for 1922.

Sheep feeding is booming and will result in the production of many thousands more pounds of mutton chops this year. Almost a third more sheep were in feed lots on January 1 than were there at the same date in 1922, according to government estimates. The largest increase in operations was in the irrigated region of the West, though the corn belt shows a gain of 14 per cent over 1922 feeding. Relief in financial conditions among farmers is considered largely responsible for this increase, which will put the country back on a 1921 basis in mutton production.

SCABIES CAUSING MUCH LOSS

Federal Inspectors Pass on Health of Nearly 25,000,000 Head of Sheep in 1922.

Last year inspectors from the bureau of animal industry passed on the health of nearly 25,000,000 head of sheep with special reference to the presence of scabies, a parasitic disease that causes a great deal of loss to ranchers if it is allowed to gain headway in flocks. More than 8,000,000 of these sheep were dipped to destroy the parasites. The disease is quite prevalent in a number of the western range states, but the work of livestock health officials is resulting in improvement.

Pretty Things that are made at Home

RIBBON novelties may come and go, but the ribbon shopping bag goes on forever. It goes on being made of the new enticing ribbons that reflect the mode, and it goes on wearing out, to be replaced by a new one. It is a bit of elegance—and sometimes a bit of magnificence—that appeals to the love of finery and luxury that is born right in us, and it is something which most women can make for themselves.

These attractive bags, shown in the picture, do not appear to require more than the average knowledge of sewing to make them. One of them is a combination of brocade ribbon with a plain satin ribbon, having a narrower ribbon, in a contrasting color, stitched to it. The lengths of ribbon are machine stitched together, the raw edges of the seam turned under and sewed down. A narrow hem along one edge forms a casing for ribbon hangers and the other edge is drawn up to form the bottom of the bag. Two very handsome silk tassels decorate it.

A plain heavy satin ribbon makes the pretty tailored bag at the center of the group, which depends on a narrow pin-striped ribbon and neat tucks for its embellishment. This pin-striped ribbon will not keep us from anticipating it by the purchase of a hat for Easter, which falls this year on the first day of April.

Nothing more beautiful or desirable in millinery will follow these first displays and it is good business to make an early selection while materials are at their best; for sometimes manufacturers undertake to cheapen them as they grow in popularity. It is a season of many fabric hats—as may be gathered from the models that make up the group pictured here. These are either all fabric or fabric and braids combined. They are a cheerful company in which color and lustrous surfaces combine to make brilliant millinery. There are two all-black hats among them, but all-black in gleaming materials that cannot be somber.

One of these appears at the top of the group in which taffeta is laid over a braid body, and decorated with braid stitched over it. Two loops of handsome mottre ribbon fall over the brim. The little poke shape at the right is made of taffeta also, in blue and tan, changeable weave, with silk flowers repeating these colors.

A lovely wide brimmed hat, at the is doubled lengthwise to form the handles. A celluloid mounting is used for this model, which is lined with soft satin. It is pretty in brown with tortoise shell mount. The remaining bag, of black mottre, is lined with changeable taffeta and has a strap that fastens with a snap fastener. The hangers are of heavy black grosgrain ribbon.

Along with the appearance in the North of the joyously welcomed pussy willow, comes the survey of accepted styles in spring millinery by the women who are to wear it. Many of these styles are the survivors of that buoyant fashion promenade that is passing in review in the southern resorts where their record of success for yesterday presages a further triumph for tomorrow. The weather man may do all he can to discourage the belief that spring is anywhere near, but that

SOY BEANS WILL STAND MOISTURE

One of the Best Forage Plants Among Legumes and Exceeds Others in Yield of Seed.

PREPARED SOIL IS ESSENTIAL

Application of Fertilizer on Fertile Land Usually Is Not Profitable—Crop Is Greatly Benefited By Lime.

The soy bean is one of the best forage plants among the legumes and it exceeds any of the others in yield of seed, says W. C. Etheridge, of the Missouri College of Agriculture. It does not require a particular kind of soil. It will withstand a great deal of moisture and succumbs only when water stands on the land for a considerable time. On the other hand it is decidedly drought-resistant.

For its best growth, the soy bean requires better preparation of the land than is necessary for cowpeas, because it cannot compete with weeds and grass so well as cowpeas.

Fertilizer Not Profitable. The application of fertilizer to the soy bean crop on either fertile or highly fertile land usually is not profitable.

Cultivating a Field of Soy Beans.

But on poor land good returns will nearly always follow a light application, 100 to 150 pounds per acre, of acid phosphate; or a light dressing, 5 or 6 loads per acre, of stable manure. There is seldom any profit in applying commercial nitrogenous fertilizers to soy beans, for this crop gets nitrogen from the air through the aid of nitrogen-gathering bacteria on its roots.

Although the soy bean will grow on sour, poorly drained land much better than red clover and alfalfa, it is greatly benefited on such land by lime. In fact, under nearly all conditions a moderate application of lime will usually give good returns.

Inoculation Will Benefit.

Although on fertile soils inoculation is not necessary for a thrifty growth, it will usually benefit the crop, and on poor land it is essential for even moderate growth. For sections into which the crop is newly introduced, regardless of the type of soil, artificial inoculation will nearly always give good returns. Inoculating material, and instructions for its use may be secured at cost from the Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo.

The best date for planting soy beans will of course vary with the locality, but it is a safe practice to put in the crop about two weeks later than the average time of planting corn. The depth of planting is an important point. The seed must be planted shallow or poor stands will result. Experiments have proved that two inches is the most favorable depth.

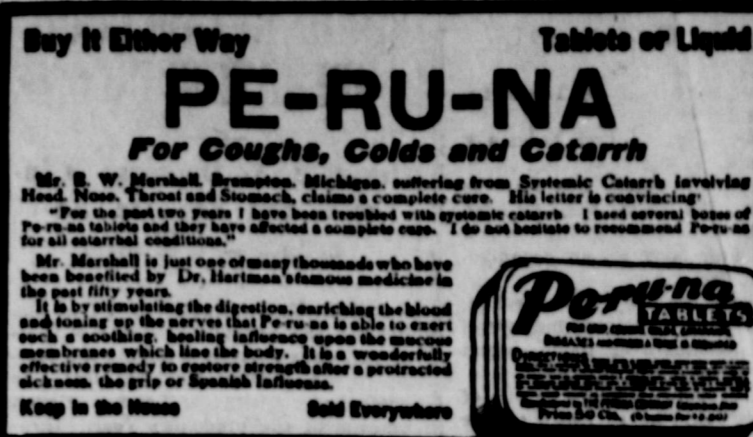

For a crop planted in rows three feet apart—the best method where a seed crop is desired—15 to 20 pounds of seed will be required to the acre. A broadcast or drilled crop—for hay—will require 90 to 90 pounds to the acre.

OVERCROWDING CAUSES ROP

Dipping Affected Fowl's Head into Common Cattle Dip Is Most Successful Cure. Prevent rop by not overcrowding birds. In treating individual cases, best success has been obtained by taking a gallon sirup can, into which put a tablespoonful of the common cattle dips. Dip the affected bird's head, with mouth open, into this solution. Be sure to hold the bird's head downward while so doing. This treatment thoroughly disinfects the head parts, both inside and out. A second treatment may be necessary.

Kansas's Destructive Laugh. In the days when horseflesh was in flower one of the hardest things in town was to get horses accustomed to Job Hoffer's laugh. Every time he took off the main hatch and helped himself to a real mastodon gurgle of glee there were two or three runaways down Main street. The horses largely have passed, but Job's laugh has the same devastating effect. Today he became amused at something while in Lem Lump's Ford, and two panes of window glass fell out.—Eldorado Times.

THE SANDMAN STORY

CLEVER MRS. FOX

MR. FOX was trapped, if not caught, he knew it, and so did Mrs. Fox, who had been following her husband as he was chased by Mr. Dog through the fields and down the road to the woods.

Not that Mrs. Fox expected her husband to need her help, but one could never be certain and by keeping behind Mr. Dog at a distance she was pretty sure to be safe.

But here they were in the woods and Mr. Fox had run over some rocks just to give Mr. Dog a hard chase, and before he knew it down he went between the rocks, and while he was not a bit hurt, there was only one way to get out, and Mr. Dog was standing right at that very place barking fit to split his throat.

Mr. Fox began to think of home and Mrs. Fox. He did not know she had been trailing the run he and Mr. Dog were having; he was thinking that he would never see her again, for as I told you Mr. Fox knew that he was trapped, and that at any moment Mr. Man might hear the barking of Mr. Dog and be there with a gun.

Mr. Dog's bark said as plainly as words, "Here is a fox, here is a fox, master; come with your gun," and every time Mr. Fox heard it he trembled—though with Mr. Fox while there is life there is always hope and Mr. Fox was hoping, but every time Mr. Dog barked that hope dropped to the tips of his toes.

Mrs. Fox knew what had happened. She knew just what Mr. Dog was saying as well as her husband, and she was thinking very hard and fast, and

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFER

SMOKING

Observe always that everything is the result of a change.—Marcus Aurelius.

THE question of smoking among women is one that shows just how some customs that are absolutely taboo in one generation gain social recognition and acquire a code of manners in the next.

In our grandmother's day smoking among women was unheard of—excepting for the occasional old crone who puffed away at her pipe. Today many women smoke. Many well-bred women smoke. And so there has grown up a code of rules about smoking for women.

In some of the big city hotels women are allowed to smoke in the dining room. In some of the tea rooms, too, they are. In some, certain parts of the restaurants or tea rooms, like the sun parlor or the palm rooms, are set aside for diners who wish to smoke, both men and women.

Strange to say, at one of the gayest New York restaurants women are even now requested not to smoke. If a woman is seen smoking, the waiter brings a little note to her table, written on one of the check blanks, and turns it face down, next to her escort. This requests the woman not to smoke, as the rule of the house is against it. Her only part, of course, as she lay under the bushes looking toward the place where her husband was trapped her bright eyes saw a tree which had fallen right across the river, which was deep and full of rocks, that ran through the woods.

Mrs. Fox's thoughts began to come fast. She jumped up and ran out from her hiding place straight to the tree and ran along it making a sound that attracted Mr. Dog's attention.

He stopped barking, for there on the fallen tree he saw, as he thought, Mr. Fox, though he had been sure a second before he had seen the tip of Mr. Fox's nose among the leaves between the rocks.

Mr. Dog left the place he was guarding and went toward the end of the tree which was on his side of the river. Then he stepped back and looked between the rocks. He didn't see a thing of Mr. Fox, for at the moment he stopped barking Mr. Fox, thinking Mr. Man was in sight with the gun, had crouched deeper under the leaves.

Mr. Dog was frantic; he thought he had lost Mr. Fox after all his barking to Mr. Man, and if Mr. Man had heard him, and after running all the way from the farm found there was no fox, he would be pretty angry.

Mr. Dog went to the end of the fallen tree and ran along it, while Mrs. Fox stood a little way from the end on that side of the river looking right at him, but when he reached the middle of the tree she gave a leap into the air and down she came on the tree, which gave it a shake, and off tumbled Mr. Dog into the water among the slippery rocks.

Mrs. Fox bounded to the side of the river where her husband was a prisoner and called to him that the coast was clear, and out came Mr. Fox in the twinkling of an eye and away they ran for home, while Mr. Dog scrambled for a footing among the slippery rocks in the river. When he at last got to the bank he did not look for Mr. Fox, for one foot had been hurt when he fell, and as he limped toward his home Mr. and Mrs. Fox were safe in their home laughing at the way they had again fooled their enemy.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

EFFIE

FROM the quaint old-fashioned Euphemia, so rarely heard in these days, comes the popular name of Effie. It is not a diminutive, as is generally supposed, but a full-fledged name with an interesting history. Originally Euphemia meant both fair speech and abstinence from the reverse, so that from an ironical standpoint it signified silence, and was applied to the stillness that prevailed during religious rites.

The first Euphemia who gave vogue to the name was a virgin martyr of Bithynia, whose legend of constancy made her popular in both the East and the West. Russia called her Jevfmija; she was Jena in Serbia, and Bema and Bimale in other lands. Scotland however, adopted the name and straightway called her Effie. Phemie was also Scottish but did not attain the popularity of the former.

However, neither Effie nor Phemie, which have been prevalent since those early times, can ever be forgotten because of the finest works of Sir Walter Scott. Heroines of fiction, written by the masters of literature, find their names as immortalized as heroines of history and Effie is no exception to this general rule.

It was once thought that the Scottish name Euphonia was one of the Greek names brought from Hungary by Queen Margaret. Others believed that it came from the Kettle Auliffe which has fostered so many of our present-day feminine names. Indeed, those so inclined may take their choice of possible sources, though general credence is more often given to the first derivation, since it concerns a religious and in olden days, it would seem that being martyred was all that was needed to perpetuate one's name through the centuries.

In the Scottish Highlands, Effie is called Oighrigh, a name which seems to have no derivation whatever. The Church of Santa Eufemia at Rome gives title to a cardinal and through it the name has spread in popularity in Italy and France.

Effie's stone is the topaz, which has the power of the sun to put to flight all evil and dark forebodings, but it must be set in gold to accomplish its purpose. It promises that no harm shall befall its wearer. Tuesday is her lucky day; 2 her lucky number, and the chrysanthemum is her flower.

"I wouldn't take $10,000 for the good Tanlac has done me," declared W. E. Tucker, 1120 North 28th St., Richmond, Va., a boxmaker for the Allegheny Box Co., recently.

"I thought I would have to give up the job I had been on seventeen years, but Tanlac has built me up eighteen pounds, and I never felt better in my life.

"I was so weak and run down and had lost so much weight and strength I just felt broken down all the time. I got up mornings awfully nervous, with no appetite, feeling like I hadn't slept a wink, and while on the job my nerves were so unstrung that the noise in the factory just tortured me. My liver wasn't acting right, and I suffered so much from rheumatism I could hardly use my arms.

"But Tanlac has made a clean sweep of my troubles, and now, with plenty of strength and energy, I am working and feeling fine."

IMPRESSING HIS BEST GIRL

Plumber Felt He Had a Right to Be Proud of His Important Family Connections.

He was quite evidently a plumber, and as he sat with his "best girl" back of the Woman upon the bus he explained that he had been working a little harder lately—the cold weather made them work harder in those buildings which were unheated and in which they were putting the plumbing. It was different in the summer, when the buildings were restfully cool.

And then the bus passed by the big "mansions" on the drive.

The plumber began to boast. Pride is so curious a thing.

"My dad," he said, "had the contract to put in the plumbing in almost every swell house in this city. Yep," he continued boastfully, "he's got the finest lot of customers you'd ever find."

And the girl whispered happy and proud admiration of the splendid family into which she was about to marry.—Chicago Journal.

SANDERSON STUDENT ON HONOR ROLL

Austin, Texas, Feb. 23, 1923. Out of 3032 students in the College of Arts and Sciences in the University of Texas, 774 have been given special recognition for excellent scholastic averages achieved during the fall term. The object of this honor list is to commend officially one-tenth of the student body whose grades ranked them scholastically above the remaining nine-tenths. The honor students are divided into groups.

The following student from Sanderson was distinguished by mention on the honor list for the fall session, which has just been compiled:
 Myrl McKee, in group five.

Your clothes will always look neat and clean if you have them pressed and cleaned at the Royal Tailor Shop. Phone No. 6, and we will call for your package and deliver when finished.

McKenzie Gets Life Sentence

A. T. Folsom and his brother Clarence Folsom were the defence attorneys for Pete McKenzie who was tried in El Paso last week for the killing of a night watchman named Moseley. The case went against McKenzie, the jury giving him a life sentence. Mr. Folsom and his brother appealed the case.

Deacon Dubbs will be in person at the school auditorium, Friday, March 9, at 8:30 p. m. Don't fail to take advantage of this chance to see a delightful and amusing character.

Damzge Suit

The case of Mrs. W. F. Bohlman against the G. H. & S. A. Railway Company, came up in district court at Alpine Monday. This is a suit in which Mrs. Bohlman is suing the Railroad Company for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, Engineer W. F. Bohlman, which occurred when an engine blew up near Paisano about a year ago.

Up to the time we go to press the case had not been decided. Several persons from Sanderson attended the trial as witnesses.

Phone No. 6, for cleaning and pressing in the most up-to-date and satisfactory manner, and at greatly reduced prices. Clothes called for and delivered.

Through a Glass Window

Doughnuts, a roller coaster, a vegetable wagon and flowers out of wall paper, are unusual dramatic devices that add much to the heart appeal of "Through a Glass Window," the strong human interest story which will be at the Princess Theater, Monday and Tuesday, February 26th and 27th. It is a Realart picture starring May McAvoy. Raymond McKee is leading man.

CLYDE WILSON McCORD.

Fifteen years of pulpit work in city pastorates resulted in an insight into human nature that developed an ability to get next to the hearts of people to a degree rarely found in platform men of today; while eight years of platform and lyceum work have given a breadth of horizon that puts Mr. McCord in a place all his own. Mr. McCord will lecture on our Lyceum course.

At the School Auditorium
 Tonight, Saturday, Feb. 24.

Have you ever seen Deacon Dubbs? If you haven't, you have a royal treat in store for you.

Matt Turner, road foreman, was in town Tuesday on business. He said that the road gang was working now on the turn going out to the Doak place beyond Dryden.

R. N. Allen and family came in from the ranch Tuesday. Mr. Allen returned Wednesday to the ranch but his family will remain in town for several days.

Have you heard the latest? Deacon Dubbs will be in Sanderson in all his glory, watch for the date of his appearance.

We are glad to state that R. A. Stewart, who has been confined to his bed for some time, is now very much improved and will be up again in a few days.

Mrs. Charles Craig of Los Angeles, California is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. R. Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance McLymont spent several days this week visiting friends and relatives in Ozona.

Mrs. Walter Seale returned Monday morning from Marlin, Texas after a few weeks visit with her sister at that place.

Cap Mussey was on the sick list this week.
