Know Your School

(That the patrons may have better opportunity of really knowing their school this column will each week be given over to school news. It is the desire of the school executives that the patrons become better acquainted with the faculty, school methods and school aims.)

In order to establish a basis for a close friendship and to acknowledge a common fellowship that is desired for teachers, pupils, and citizens, the patrons of the school are invited to attend the opening exercises of the Sanderson Public Schools at 9 o'clock Monday morning in the high school auditorium.

The morning program will be of an informal nature, so that every participant will have an opportunity to express his convictions concerning the aims or objectives to be accomplished for the year. The present trend in democratic education gives the public a chance to diagnosis its local school situation and to stress all elements in the situation that need improvement or modification. The faculty of the Sanderson Schools tenders this privilege to all public-spirited citizens.

The three great factors involved in promoting a successful school are the teachers, the pupils, and the public. When these three forces here unite for the production of students representative of the highest type, then Sanderson will develop in its schools a system of education capable of sending out social individuals ready to face the advances of the world's activities.

Malnutrition has been definitely pointed out as one of the chief sources for fatigue in children. To counteract this condition, especially in the younger or primary children, some of our foremost school systems provide a means whereby the child may be properly nourished at school. Since milk is generally considered as the most desirable food for this project, some of our very best schools furnish their children with as much as a pint daily per child.

If this situation prevails where several hundred children are thus provided for daily in one city, this question presents itself to Sanderson educators. Will some community group be responsible for initiating this remedial practice in Sanderson? Where in West Texas is there a school or town that has introduced this plan for making better students physically, mentally, and morally?

To provide milk daily for only a few of the primary children in Sanderson will mark a step forward in a progressive scheme for education in West Texas.

Who wants the job?

Highway Association Meets

A most interesting as well as worth while meeting of "The Borderway," U. S. Highway No. 90 Association was held in Alpine last Friday.

Those from here who attended this meeting were: Joe Kerr, John Stovell, W. J. Ferguson, P. E. Dishman, C. V. McKnight, C. A. Moreland, G. J. Henshaw and O. H. McAdams.

SANDERSON TO HAVE DAY AT EXPOSITION

San Angelo, Sept. 4.—Sanderson is to have a special day at the thirty-fourth annual West Texas Exposition, to be held in San Angelo, September 16-21. Tuesday, September 17 has been designated by officials of the organization as Sanderson Day, it was announced this week.

Because the West Texas Exposition is exactly what its name implies—a West Texas Exposition for West Texans—those at the head of the fair feel that it is nothing but right that each town be given a special day during the fair.

"This does not mean, of course," said L. B. Horton, president, "that West Texans will not be welcome in San Angelo throughout fair week, but it means that each town in West Texas is to be specially recognized, as the fair belongs to each town in the section just as much as it does San Angelo."

Mr. Horton said that the fair officials will be delighted to have these towns take a big part in the fair, and on the special days he said special stunts, delegations, bands or other features to boost the individual town would be welcomed.

"There's one big thing that we want to stress," Mr. Horton said, "and that is that the West Texas Exposition is a West Texas fair, for all West Texas, and that it will not be a success unless every West Texas town cooperates to make it a success."

An expenditure of approximately $30,000 is placing the grounds at San Angelo in perfect shape to take care of the fair crowds. A mammoth grandstand of steel construction has just been completed and in order to take care of the 150 race horses expected for the fair, 120 new stalls have been built within recent weeks. Considerable work has been done on the race track, in order to give the horses every opportunity to demonstrate their greatest speed. Other improvements have been made at the grounds to insure adequate facilities for all visitors.

Bus Line Operators Here On Inspection Trip

J. B. Lee and J. C. Russell of San Angelo were pleasant visitors in our city on Tuesday. Messrs Lee and Russell and Virge M. Bowen of San Angelo are the owners of the Mexican Border Coaches which they hope soon to be put in operation between Del Rio and Alpine. The Railroad Commission of Texas recently granted these coaches a permit to operate between Del Rio and Alpine and then later declared it a mistrial as some Ft. Worth concern had an application in for an operation of a bus line also.

Messrs Lee and Russell were making an inspection trip of the highways and getting acquainted with the citizens on the route so that in case they get the permit they will be better able to be of service to the public. In a conversation with the Editor of this paper they were very optimistic and said they saw no reason why a bus line should not pay. They were very complimentary of our highway stating that it was the best to be found in Texas.

They have just recently returned from the Buick factory and while there purchased two large 7-passenger closed cars of the new 1930 model Buicks which they will drive. Their present plans are to have one bus a day each way and if business justifies they will have more cars in operation.

These men now operate a bus line between Del Rio and San Angelo. The schedule of these buses will be so that connections will be made with all bus lines out of Del Rio or Alpine. In another part of this paper will be found their ad.

TEXAS WOMAN IN AIR RACES ADMITS LOOPING PLANE 22 TIMES IN ROW

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 29.—When Frances Harrell, an entry in several of the contests for women here during the national air races, was asked to tell about some of her experiences as a pilot, she said, "Well, I did something exciting once, but I know it was foolish and I shouldn't have done it." She had reference to the time when she looped a plane twenty-two consecutive times and established an unofficial record.

Born at Del Rio, Texas, Miss Harrell has lived most of her life in Houston. She was credit manager of a furniture store there. On her twenty-third birthday she came into a small legacy and decided to invest it in a course of flying instructions without delay.

She went to Mineola, L. I., a year ago and enrolled for a fifty-hour course in the Curtiss Flying Service School. She has impressed all of her instructors with her exceptional promise as a pilot, and they are expecting much of her.

Already the Curtiss flying service has entrusted her with several ferrying jobs. When they want a plane brought from one part of the country to another they call upon Miss Harrell to do the job as readily as they would call on a man pilot.

Early in the week Miss Harrell went to Kansas City for the purpose of flying back a Curtiss Fledgling, in which Ruth Nichols had toured 11,000 miles in the interest of organizing aviation country clubs.

The above article was taken from the last Friday's issue of the Dallas Morning News and Miss Harrell's friends here will be glad to learn of her success as a flier. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Carter of this city.

Mrs. P. E. Dishman and children have returned from a visit with relatives in Bryan, Texas.

The pen is mightier than the profiteer

TEXAS

A friend has requested me to say something in this column about Texas—a huge assignment for so limited a space. It is also an assignment to which a far more facile pen than mine must needs fail to do justice.

But I must not, cannot, will not fail today a word for my adopted state—my dear old Texas.

Like every other country and come under heaven, Texas harbors within her borders a few slugs, scumps, scoundrels, and muckrakers—just a few, very few. But place a cross section of her citizenship under the microscope of everyday scrutiny and it will show an unusually high percentage of gold and very little lime.

Texas is not in size but vaster still in the caliber of her men and women. Texas is not always right in her moral judgments, but she is far more frequently right than wrong—and when she is wrong she is big enough to readjust her position.

Texas is not the biggest state in point of population, but she is by far the biggest state from the standpoint of real sociability and pure democracy.

In essence, Texas is as varied as the world's wealth, as rich as the eagle in self reliance, as independent as necessity; it conveys an unconquerable sense about in history, mythology and fascinating that follows in time, as far lung as the corpus of civilization—and in future, business with promise.

Texas is a state that is misrepresented by the ill informed, ridiculed by miscomprehenders and fearfully, led about by her enemies, caricatured by the ignorant, lampooned by her inferiors, proscribed by enemies, opposed by the Republicans, governed by Democrats, dearly loved by her native sons, and abundantly favored by the Almighty.

As it looks to me, anyone wishing to make his home in a near ideal state, and who is not quite ready to go to paradise, ought to move to Texas.

And he is hereby known that these lines are written by one who has acted upon his own suggestion!

Don't throw that old suit away, we will make it last for many a day.—The Model Tailors; M. P. Lester.

Snobbery, wherever and whenever practiced, is the product of "small" thinking. No really great person will willfully snub anyone. This same principle holds in the matter of our religious habits. Sunday morning's sermon will bear upon this fact. The subject of the sermon will be, "Snubbing God." Our morning worship begins at 11 a. m. And you are invited.

The evening sermon will have as its subject, "Virages." Very common to the desert are mirages. They are no less common to the experiences of life. That is why we make them the subject of a sermon. We think these sermons will be both interesting and helpful—and solicit your presence. The evening worship hour is 8:15.

And while we are on this subject, we extend you an invitation to the Sunday school. It meets at 10 a. m.

FIRE VICTIM'S AID ACCUSED OF HEXING

Mysterious Killing Baffles Atlantic City Police.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Out of the jumble of theories which followed the death of Joseph London, fifty-eight, who was burned in his home at Con-overtown, near here, there has emerged a story of voodooism in which a mulatto hexed the Gentile wife of his Jewish employer.

The mulatto is Otto Martin, the wife is the London widow, Mrs. Flossie London, half the age of her husband. A short time before London burned to death a break occurred between Martin and London, for whom he worked on shares, Martin collecting waste from the Atlantic City hotels to fatten hogs belonging to London, and the two splitting the profit.

Put Hex on Her. It is along the hex story that private detectives who have undauntedly continued their investigations since County Detective Chief Frank J. Harold unqualifiedly declared it an accident several days ago, are working in their efforts to solve the case, held a murder.

Mrs. London told them how Martin had put a hex on her. Under Martin's influence, her story goes, she did not have the mental strength to tell him to stay away from her home at Con-overtown, as she said she would like to have done. In her mental stress, Mrs. London went to an Atlantic City spiritualist, who gave her a tasteless herb to chew and remove the hex.

This, she says, she did. "It was a real thrill," she said, adding that her will was so strengthened that she found the breaking with Martin easy. She simply told him to stay away and he stayed.

Has Another Story. Martin, however, had another story. He denied Mrs. London's hex story throughout. The son of a Virginia negro woman and an Absecon (N. J.) white man, he insisted he wielded no voodoo powers, and, in fact, knew nothing about such things. The reason he decided to break with London, he said, was a business disagreement with London and his objection to Mrs. London's smoking.

"What right did you have to object to the taste your employer's wife might have for cigars?" Louis E. A. Lodovico, the private detective, asked. "I didn't have any right," Martin replied. "I just didn't like it, so I quit going there."

But the "hex" story remains as the most important clue unearthed by Lodovico in the mystery.

Snail Life in Florida and Cuba Is Vanishing

Little River, Fla.—Snail life in Florida and Cuba is vanishing in many localities as forests are being stripped of the land.

Students of the creatures will have to rely upon material collected years ago, according to C. T. Simpson, formerly of the National Museum and now a private investigator. He has spent more than 30 years studying snails.

"Man has wrought great destruction to the hammocks in which tree snails live," he said, "so that certain forms are almost exterminated in Florida.

"Great areas of forest have been cut recently in Cuba in order that sugar cane might be grown, and it is probable that it will be a short time only when these snails will be wiped out entirely in many localities in that island."

Although Florida is separated from Cuba by a deep channel 90 miles wide, he believes that the creatures are carried on trees and limbs across the stretch.

Name Children After Years of Their Birth

Kinston, N. C.—The Joneses will have no trouble forgetting their ages. The first grandchild of William Jones and his wife, negroes, has appeared at the residence of 1907 July Jones near here. Children in the family have been named for the year of their birth. The new addition will be christened either 1929 July Jones or July 1929 Jones, the parents said.

Nineteen Hundred Jones is now a resident of Baltimore, while the whereabouts of 1908 November Jones is not clear.

Husbands May Get Alimony in China

Peking.—Chinese husbands will have the right to sue their errant wives for alimony, and will have just as much chance of getting a living allowance as will the wives themselves under the new law concerning "equal rights for women," soon to be promulgated by Wei Tao-Min, acting director of the judicial board at Nanking. The new law will permit the judge to decide alimony on the basis of culpability. If the wife is wrong, she pays alimony. If the husband is wrong, he pays.

POULTRY

CARE OF PULLETS DECIDES PROFITS

Mash, Grain and Clean Water Should Be Available.

The care of pullets makes a big difference in next year's profits or losses, says L. M. Hurd, of the New York state college of agriculture. After the pullets are twelve weeks of age both mash and grain should be constantly available in separate outdoor hoppers. Fresh clean water should be frequently provided if there is not a natural supply in the field. Unlimited grass, clover, or alfalfa range and shade, are essential for best growth.

The ability to lay is inherited, and thus depends more on breeding than on feeding; but pullets should be well developed in body before they start to lay. If the pullets seem to mature too rapidly, do not feed them wholly on grain to slow up their inclination to lay; anything that checks laying is also apt to stunt permanently the growth of the birds. Feed a mash along with scratch grain, as it is more complete in protein minerals and vitamins.

For proper fleshing at maturity it is sometimes advisable temporarily to reduce the amount of animal protein—meat scraps, milk, etc.—in the mash, or to limit the amount of mash fed. The former plan is better, as it allows the birds a better chance to obtain more of the minerals and vitamins, which they need. To feed large amounts of scratch grain and mash low in protein for about a month before the pullets normally mature, tends to make them complete their development in better flesh. Experiments at the Cornell university experiment station show that pullets need a substantial reserve of fat when they begin to lay, for satisfactory production later.

Production of Quality Eggs During Summer

Summer is usually hard on the production of good quality eggs. However, there is no reason why good quality eggs cannot be produced and marketed in summer. Commercial poultrymen can do it; owners of farm flocks can, too, if attention is given to a few important points.

All male birds removed from the pens so the eggs that are laid are infertile is the first thing, since infertile eggs will not spoil so quickly as fertile eggs. Clean eggs is the next. It is always a temptation to wash eggs that are dirty so a good appearance will be given. Such eggs, however, are apt to age more readily than unwashed eggs, since there is a more rapid evaporation of the contents of the egg and the air cell becomes enlarged, giving the egg the appearance when candled of an old egg. Production of clean eggs in the first place will help greatly—have plenty of clean nesting material in the nests.

Poultry Notes

Gather the eggs twice a day.

Crowding at the feed hopper stunts the growth of chicks.

Watch for lice and mites. They multiply fast in hot weather.

Keep poultry supplied with fresh, clean water during hot months.

Green feed in the poultry yard make greenbacks in the pocketbook.

Chicks need fresh air as well as heat. Leave windows open at the top.

Hens need water. It is an essential part of the ration, poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college say. A shortage of water causes a decrease in the number and size of eggs.

Use plenty of feed troughs. Start the chicks by nailing a two-inch strip around a nine-inch planked board and provide such a trough three feet long for every 100 chicks. More troughs are needed as chickens grow.

Of the total cost of producing poultry and eggs on most farms, 50 to 60 per cent is feed cost.

Lice and mites breed fast these hot days. And if you don't swat 'em and keep 'em swatted, they'll sap a lot of the growth and profit out of your flock.

A brooder house on clean ground is a profitable investment providing strong, healthy chicks are put into it. Otherwise it is as unprofitable as money in a "closed" bank.

Fresh eggs contain more water than stale eggs. For this reason fresh eggs sink in water when immersed, while stale eggs float.

Bare spots around the henhouse are incubators to breed parasites and disease. It pays to cultivate them up and sow to something green.

Lice and mites are poultry pests which can be controlled effectively. Use nicotine sulphate for lice and creosote or carbolineum for mites. Apply the chemicals on the roosts.

2 ENTRANTS IN 1,200 MILE BOVINE DERBY

Cows Making Long Trip on Hoof to Show.

St. Louis.—When "Tomboy" and "Alice," two pure bred Ayrshire cows, trudge through the streets of St. Louis early in October, this city will witness the finish of what is believed to be the first "bovine derby." Walking every step of the way from their homes in Vermont, the two cows are now en route to the national dairy show to be held in St. Louis, October 12 to 19.

Although it is necessary for the two cows to travel more than 1,200 miles in order to reach their destination, officials of the National Ayrshire Breeders' association, with offices in Brandon, Vt., and sponsors of the hiking cows, are confident that they will successfully complete the journey.

"Tomboy" and "Alice," it has been stressed, will not be interested in attractive vaudeville offers, as the purpose of their derby is merely to demonstrate that the modern pure bred cow has just as much endurance as the old-fashioned cattle that accompanied early settlers on their long overland trips to the Western states. After completing the first 300 miles of their long trek, the cows have proved that they are efficient, producers while en route.

Barn Travels by Truck.

The smaller of the animals, "Tomboy," has milked as high as 50 pounds of 4 per cent milk per day, and is now turning out 46 pounds. "Alice" has made more than 10,000 pounds of milk since last October when she freshened and is now producing about three gallons daily.

Accompanying the cattle is an attractive "barn," mounted on a truck chassis, which serves as headquarters for the attendants as well as a base of supplies for the animals. One pound of balanced ration is fed for every four pounds of milk produced by the pair on their journey. No beet pulp, corn silage or hay is being grazed. The cows are allowed to graze at night and along the roadside as they travel.

"Tomboy" was bred and is owned by L. B. Chapman, who maintains a herd of 200 Ayrshires on a mountainous farm near West Rutland. She is somewhat undersized, and before leaving home had never been fed more than six pounds of grain a day, nor ever enjoyed any legume hay or clover pasture. "Alice" was bred and is owned by the Vermont Industrial school at Vergennes, Vt. "Alice's" aunt—her mother's sister—is the highest record cow in Vermont. Both of the "bunion bosses" are said to be attractive specimens of the Ayrshire breed, and are red and white in color.

Follow Main Roads.

In selecting the animals for this march on St. Louis, no particular effort was made to secure outstanding or unusual specimens. Two breeders conveniently located to the Brandon office were invited to furnish candidates that would measure up to the average of their herds and the breed. One of the cows had been producing milk for only seven weeks when the trip was started. The other had been fresh more than eight months.

Original plans called for a route over dirt roads and the minimum use of hard surfaced highways. Experience, however, has demonstrated that the main paved roads are most satisfactory, and as a result the touring Ayrshires have followed the Cherry Valley turnpike and will follow other main roads.

Leather boots have been provided in the event of sore feet resulting from rough roads, but there has not yet been occasion to use them.

The two cows are traveling a minimum of ten miles a day, with occasional journeys of 13 and 14 miles a day. Attendants expect to walk the animals every day, with the exception of a week's stop at the Ohio state fair. By walking slightly more than 12½ miles a day, "Tomboy" and "Alice" can arrive in St. Louis on October 10 and have a day to rest before the opening of the national dairy show.

Milk weights are being kept and regular advanced registry supervision made while the cattle are traveling.

Angler Cuts Tentacles to Drive Away Octopus

Los Angeles, Calif.—Two men battled a huge octopus off the coast near here and emerged victorious. Capt. Web Monstad, of a fishing boat, fell into the clutches of the devil fish but was saved when Roy Pettibone, another fisherman, went to his rescue.

Pettibone, who was in a second boat, saw Monstad floundering and forced his way through a bed of kelp into which the captain had fallen.

Captain Monstad had disappeared beneath the surface. When he reappeared, Pettibone hacked off one tentacle after another. Captain Monstad fainted as Pettibone helped him into the boat, but was revived.

Doctor Braves Broken Leg to Save Patient

Paris.—Hopping about on his good leg, a young and courageous doctor of Villefranche-sur-Saone saved the life of one of his patients who was stricken with a hemorrhage in the physician's office. He ran downstairs to a drugstore to obtain what was needed and returning slipped and broke his leg. Realizing the need of haste, he got up and managed to hobble back to the office and stop the bleeding.

Now he is in so much better health that I wish every mother could see him and see what those little chocolate candy NR Jrs can do for ailing children."

All drug stores which sell Nature's Kennedy, the safe dependable laxative and corrective, also have NR Jrs. They are just 25c.

Judge Confesses Being "Asleep at the Switch"

Judge Henry G. Hawthorne of Winoski, Vt., enjoys telling at his own expense the tale of how he entertained, unawares, the famous camping party of Edison, Burroughs, Ford and Firestone. The party's chauffeur stopped at Judge Hawthorne's home and asked if they might camp at a particularly delightful spot on the Hawthorne place. He mentioned the names of the men in the party and said they would appreciate a visit from the judge during the evening.

To the judge, however, who had paid scant attention as the famous names were enumerated, it was "only another bunch of automobile campers." He told the chauffeur to tell them to go ahead and asked if they would please be careful not to destroy his bean patch or leave any refuse about.

Next morning he read, with some chagrin, who his distinguished guests were. He says it won't happen again.—Los Angeles Times.

AS IT LOOKS TO ME

By Jack Ainslie

SEEING THINGS

Just the other day, two tourists stood on the brink of the Grand Canyon, looking upon that awe-inspiring world-wonder for the first time. In a few moments one of them, turning away in apparent disgust, remarked, "That's nothing but an overgrown ditch." So impressed was the other with what he saw that he spent the entire afternoon in that one spot, gazing silently and reverently upon what he termed, "This stupendous miracle of nature."

What made the difference in what these two travelers saw before them? Just this: One was looking with the eyes in his head only; and the other through both the eyes in his head and the eyes of his soul.

It takes more than a pair of good eyes to really see things in their true perspective. Optically, one may be as keen-eyed as an eagle, while spiritually as blind as a bat. One person, looking at a gorgeous sunset, sees in it nothing but the end of another day. In that sunset someone else, whose soul is alive to beauty, sees the Supreme Artist at work painting a masterpiece.

All of us, it is true, cannot become patrons of all the arts. But most anyone can train himself in the art of "seeing things" with the mind as well as the eyes. Only when the eyes are focused through the lens of an alert and appreciative mind does life begin to be really lived—and enjoyed.

Seeing things is tremendously worth while.

Announce that owing to unavoidable circumstances in the recent hearing before the Railroad Commission of Texas at which time we were granted a certificate of convenience and necessity for the operation of a bus line from Del Rio to Alpine, the hearing has been declared a mistrial and beginning of operation has been postponed by the Commission until the hearing can be called and the case retried.

We regret this delay and are still ready and anxious to begin operations just as soon as we have permission from the State to do so. Watch the columns of this paper for further announcements.

Respectfully,

But there was another cry from the open door. With a whirl of skirts a slight figure darted in, a knife gleamed and plunged home, and Toutou started back from his victim, his own left arm dripping blood. His face was a queer mixture of rage, lust and puzzled alarm. And before him, knife in one hand, pistol in the other, stood Karaher eyes blazing with passion, breast heaving through the rags of her bodice, her slender body quivering with anger.

ther and I was vain! to your lads. It was plain that 'e should stick by the launch, whilst I—

"Never mind any more," Hugh cut him off, as he disposed of the lost wrappings. "We can talk things over later. Help us to get our circulation back, Rub, man, rub! That's it!"

Presently we were able to walk stiffly. Our first concern was to lower Nikka into the drain. He was so weak that he took little interest in the rescue. We had Watkins go down ahead of him, and Hugh and I, between us, eased him gently through the hole, and Watkins caught him around the waist and steadied him. My instinct was to follow them immediately, but Hugh checked me.

"Did you ever hear of such a thing?" said Betty. "Why, I had no more idea when I climbed out on those rocks—"

"No, I suppose not," I jeered. "Well, children, let me tell you you chose a poor time for this. If you want my congratulations you must help us to make a quick getaway."

"He's right," agreed Betty, tearing herself loose from Hugh's arm. "We are crazy. Jack, you loose the bow line. Watkins, are the sweeps ready? Prepare to cast off astern, Hugh!"

Hugh and I, Between Us, Eased Him Gently Through the Hole.

in her strong young fingers, tugged, twisted with a wrench—and there was an audible snap. Betty stepped back, flushed and trembling.

"There," she said, "it's in place, but I wouldn't do it again tonight for anything."

"Good girl," I said. Nikka opened his eyes and sat up in the bunk, bumping his head.

"Ouch!" he yelled. "Where am I? What?"

Zones in Space Where Silence Is Absolute

When rising from the earth's surface, the air becomes lighter and more rarefied. All of its components decrease in amount; at 30 miles up there is little or no oxygen and the density of the air at that altitude is about one-hundredth that at the sea level; at 50 miles, the nitrogen ceases, and there is practically no water vapor above five miles. Above 25 miles the air is too rare to transmit sound and absolute silence there prevails. As the air is very rare at that altitude, and as no notes or dust are there, the light waves pass almost unobstructed, and there is nearly total darkness and absence of all color; the temperature, too, is very low, probably approaching that of outward space, this region is then one of dark, cold silence. The fact, however, that meteors sometimes become luminous at the height of 100 miles and more, shows that there is an atmosphere of some sort at that height, probably hydrogen, helium or kindred unknown gases.

into an opening in the rocks which we had not hitherto perceived.

"I may say that we later determined in the daylight that it was practically invisible from the adjacent waters, and the hasty investigation I was able to make on my own behalf leads me to the provisional conclusion that we have stumbled upon a genuine archeological find."

"Yes, yes, daddy," interrupted Betty, "but you'd better let me carry on. You see, boys, I heard Watkins squawk when he fell. The only reason Toutou and his friends didn't hear him was that they were so busy with you. I left the boat and scrambled over the rocks—nearly scared dad to death. He thought I was an enemy. Watkins had disappeared into this opening. He thought he was in a cave, and I made dad get in after him and look around with a flashlight. So long as the rope and grapple had come down, there was no way for Toutou's gang to trace us, and I was wondering whether we couldn't make use of a hiding-place almost in the enemy's camp."

"I say, that was clever of you!" said Hugh admiringly.

We all chuckled, but Betty thanked him with a smile.

"Oh, I was a little heroine," she continued. "No movie heroine could have surpassed me. Dad took a look, and announced that it was one of the old sewers, and seemed to run inland beneath Tokaji's house. He wanted to follow it all the way in, but I decided there would be no opportunity for a rescue that night, and I made him and Watkins come back to the Curlew with me. We couldn't think of anything to do for you, short of going in ourselves and setting you free. We didn't know how to get in touch with Nikka's uncle and his gypsy friends. Manifestly, we didn't want to tell the police or the British authorities—although we would have done so had we been unable to get to you tonight. Oh, Hugh, if there hadn't been that opening from your dungeon!" The tears came into her eyes. "To think what Nikka had to stand! And you others would have had it, too!"

"If there hadn't been that there would have been something else," Hugh reassured her. "And now we have a secret way to follow direct into Tokaji's lair."

"But after you get in you will have a pitched battle before you can control the place," Nikka pointed out. "I don't see that you are likely to profit very much by it unless you are willing to put the issue to the proof by cold steel."

There was no gainsaying this argument, and none of us was inclined to advocate wholesale slaughter, not even Nikka, with his aching shoulder and memory of Toutou's brutality. We had hashed over the subject pretty thoroughly by the time the Curlew was docketed, without discovering a solution of our problem, and from sheer weariness abandoned the discussion by mutual consent. In the hotel lobby we said good night—it was really good morning—and went to bed to sleep the clock around.

Twenty-four hours rest made us fit. Nikka's arm and shoulder were still lame, but he had Watkins rub him with liniment that supplied the strained muscles, and declared that he was as game for a fight as any of us, and at breakfast we were able to muster a degree of optimism, despite the difficulties of the situation.

"It boils down to this," said Hugh. "We know that the instructions are correct and that we have a desperate crew of criminals to reckon with. Our job is to trick Tokaji's crowd."

"You can't trick them," snapped Nikka. "They are as clever as we."

"Then what can you do?" demanded Betty.

"Exterminate them. We are fighting savages. I don't want to risk any of our lives, treasure or no treasure, beyond what is essential to our safety. But the fact remains there is but one kind of treatment those people will understand. They are clever, remorseless, merciless. You can—"

There was a knock on the door. Watkins answered it. His back stiffened as he peered through the crack.

"A moment, if you please, sir," he said coldly, refastened the door and turned to us.

FORMAL AND DAYTIME FROCKS SHOW NOTABLE STYLE CHANGES

AS TO just the type of silhouette one will choose for one's very most formal evening gown becomes a matter of individual taste. Since "lines" depend largely upon materials and since fashion smiles as encouragingly upon clinging laces and sheer chiffons as it does on bristling taffetas and crisp moires, couturiers are challenged to tune the silhouette to the fabric. Which being done, the result is a slenderized princess version may be of soft or contrasting fabric, or else the dress or blouse may acquire a lace or lingerie accessory type, but always, mind you, to be smart, originality must be the outstanding theme.

Formal Gown With Quaint Bustle Effect.

here, a bouffant bustle type there, a low, extremely low-cut décolleté for that, and so on.

At any rate, the coming social season is to be an exceedingly picturesque and brilliant one, if the formality, the super-elegance and the amazing versatility of gowns under preparation in ateliers of famous Paris designers are the forerunner of coming events.

Simultaneously with the revival of stiff fabrics comes the reappearance of the quaint bustle influence. The gown in the upper picture which is conspicuously of 1880 bustle influence illustrates the thought in that the hemberg peach colored moire of frock in the picture below. The dress itself is of dark printed crepe de chine, a very likable material for practical daytime wear.

One cannot say enough in regard to the collars, and collars which contribute to style interest present and future. One outstanding feature is the favor shown lingerie types, among which fine white organdy or georgette pailings abound. A fair for traversing surprise openings with sheer white frillings is an outcome of the vogue for lingerie touches on the autumn frock. Also a style message of importance is to the effect that starched linen, pique, organdie and batiste neckwear is coming into vogue.

If you would like to give a this-which it is made inspires its styling.

In accenting this very low cut décolleté the designer carries out a command of the formal mode. Not only is the V-shaped décolletage favored but exceedingly low ruffling contours are sponsored.

In viewing fashion's display of evening gowns one cannot but be impressed with the widely varying moods they express in matter of décolleté treatments. Some are that extreme one gasps at their audacity, but the account is balanced with the presence of contrasting types which play up enchanting bertha and cape-like draperies which flutter and float into air with consummate grace.

And now it is the collared neckline which presents to the stylist a new opportunity to "create." Ever so many of the new daytime frocks are made with a collar of flattering lines. It season look to the navy, black or print frock you have been wearing freshen it up with one of the new youthfully shaped collars of Puritan styling and made of sheerest of white organdie, the same self-lined. The chic thing about these new collars is that they fasten with a conspicuous flat butterfly bow, which also is made of self-lined organdie. Deep flaring cuffs complete the picture. These organdie collar-with-a-bow and cuff sets are a very smart and new note.

Another noticeable feature about the new collars is that many of them are developed along jabot lines. Still others acquire a profusion of tabs and many tie in fachu fashion. This is especially true of the handsome lace collars which abound in rich profusion this season.

FATE BELL IS PURCHASER OF TERRELL RANCH

Hal A. Hamilton Sells Twelfth Unit of Old Osmand Ranch.

Hal A. Hamilton of Del Rio announces the sale of 5,128.35 acres of land, known as the Rock Pens ranch in Terrell County, to Fate Bell of this city. The price was $6 per acre.

This is the twelfth little ranch that Mr. Hamilton has sold in this particular section of the country, coming as the result of dividing the 90,000 acre Osmand Ranch into 14 different ranches. All of these have been sold with the exception of two, and they are under lease at the present time.

In the deal just closed, Mr. Hamilton retained the oil rights to the land.

Something of interest to ranchmen in the section of the country where this ranch is located is the fact that Mr. Bell has drilled on the place, striking water at a depth of 260 feet. This is the shallowest well in that part of the country.

In speaking of the buyers of the 12 different ranches, Mr. Hamilton stated that they are all natives of this country and know something of the land, how much it will produce, and know something of the sheep and goat industry. Mr. Hamilton feels that in dividing the land and selling in small sections, it benefits the country and the small ranch owners.—Val Verde Co. Herald.

The Presbyterian Church.

"Can a man by searching find out God?" That was the earnest, honest, question raised by a good man of the long, long ago. It is a question that many earnest, honest folks still ask. It will be the basis of the morning sermon at this church next Sunday at 11 o'clock. "Finding God in Human Experience" will be the topic.

"Seasonable Speech" will be the sermon subject Sunday evening. Most of us would agree that there are occasions when there ought to be a "closed season" against words. But there are also occasions when speech should have its "open seasons." This sermon will center about that idea.

There is always an "open season" at the Sunday school of this church. It welcomes all "hunters" at 10 a. m. J. A. McMILLAN, Minister.

S. P. TRAIN CREW SAVES WANDERER DYING OF THIRST

An investigation by Southern Pacific officials has failed to solve the mystery of how Wm. Brooks, a Californian, landed in the desert country 25 miles from Sanderson, Texas, shoeless, famished and delirious.

Brooks was found by a passing train crew. He was standing beside the railroad track waving frantically. The conductor gave him a drink of water and carried him into Sanderson, where citizens took up a collection to aid him. When reason returned, after water and food, Brooks could give no explanation of his plight, or how he received bruises on his face. He has been sent back to Oakland, Cal., where relatives have been located, according to S. P. officials.

The El Paso Post is just a little bit wrong in regard to some things in the above item. This young man was cared for here for over a week by Sheriff Banner and only last Thursday was taken into El Paso by deputy Sheriff Jim Mason. His friends in El Paso refused to keep him and when Mr. Mason left the young man was in the county jail and efforts were being made to get him to his people in California.

Every effort was made here to find out as to how he came to be in the condition he is in but local officers did not meet with much success.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Strange and family visited with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilson, Sunday at Sheffield. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson came home with them and returned to Sheffield Monday.

This Week

by Arthur Brisbane Zepplin Beats Record. Britain Must Protect. John Bull—"Shylock" Farming as "Big Business"

"A ROUND the world in eighty days" was Jules Verne's dream of what might be. The exact flying time of the Graf Zeppelin's cruise around the world was twelve days and eight minutes. To mention those figures in scientific achievement is like mentioning ten billion dollars in Wall Street. No need to enlarge on the figures.

The Zeppelin frequently made less than 90 miles an hour. At the Schneider Cup race airplanes were prepared to exceed 300 miles an hour.

They could fly from Tokyo to San Francisco in one day. Who doubts that their speed will be transferred to big bombing planes? We need air expansion, not retrenchment.

Jews in America and other countries, worried about co-religionists in Palestine, may find comfort in the fact, as regards future events, that the British empire cannot allow Arabs to defy British authority.

Let Jerusalem riots get beyond control and the Moslem world become convinced of its ability to defy the British, or convinced that the British have had all the fighting they want, and there will be trouble, serious and widespread.

The Jerusalem riots involved not merely the safety of Jews in Palestine but the safety of the British empire wherever Mohammedans are numerous.

To suppress, with a strong hand, the rioting and murdering in Jerusalem and other parts of Palestine, is not merely a matter of fulfilling obligations solemnly assumed, but of protecting the integrity of the British empire.

The Vatican was reported to be much concerned as to the safety of church shrines in Jerusalem. If Arabs were allowed to get the upper hand indefinitely, one of the first steps prompted by Mohammedan enthusiasm would be the destruction of Christian shrines and churches.

Sir Phillip Snowden, who manages Great Britain's finances, won his fight for a fairer distribution of the German spoils. And suddenly British Tories blared forth in praise of the great Snowden.

It is amusing to see what happens when a shoe is on the other foot. In Italy, France, Belgium, Snowden was represented as a fiend incarnate, a pirate and of course a Shylock, when he asked for only part of the money due him.

That must remind you of some thing that was said about Uncle Sam—"Uncle Shylock" was one name.

An airplane pilot, assisted by a farmer, took off near Bellingham, Wash., and before returning seeded 68 acres in one hour and 40 minutes. The farmer scattered seeds from a sack through a door in the cockpit using about 800 pounds of alfalfa, timothy, clover and orchard grass seeds.

When gigantic machinery plows, harrows and pulverizes the soil in one operation, when another machine harvests, stacks, bales and weighs the crop in one operation, and airplanes do the sowing, agriculture will join "big business."

Henry Ford's interesting statement that he would stop manufacturing automobiles "if booze came back again," causes unnecessary discussion. Mr. Ford, a sincere teetotaler, probably said that hastily. He is as good now as ever. He established his reputation and that of his car, long before prohibition came.

What Henry Ford could do, without the aid of prohibition at fifty, he could do now at sixty-five. He wants to help prohibition, that's all.

When efficient gangsters don't want witnesses to testify, they don't testify. Somebody killed three men in New York's "Hoty Toxy" speakeasy. Two waiters and another man saw the gunman who did the killing. Commissioner Whalen said the three would see nothing more. They were killed to "shut their mouths."

If you think prosperity will continue—as it will unless foolishness interferes—buy your little boy a seat on some stock exchange.

He will make money as a broker, and his seat, while he "aits" in it, may make him rich apart from his own work.

You can't say that of many seats.

A stockbroker has such a "clean" business, buying and selling as ordered, a profit on every transaction. Wise brokers don't gamble. They let the customers do that.

The most important part of civilized man's education is learning to resist germs.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. He gets at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel troubles.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels; gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of herbs, berries and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Facts that prove the Value of The New CHEVROLET SIX

1 Chevrolet's remarkable six-cylinder engine impresses you most vividly by its sensation-smooth performance. At every speed you enjoy that silent, velvet-like flow of power which is characteristic of the truly fine automobile.

2 With their low, graceful silhouette, their ample room for passengers and their sparkling color combinations and rich upholstery—the new Fisher-bodied Chevrolet Six represent one of Fisher's greatest achievements.

3 The new Chevrolet Six is an unusually economical car to operate. Not only does it deliver better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline, but its economy is equal to, if not actually greater than, that of its famous four-cylinder predecessor.

4 An achievement no less remarkable than the fact that it is sold at prices so amazingly low. Furthermore, Chevrolet delivered prices include the lowest financing and handling charges available.

5 In order to appreciate what outstanding value the Chevrolet Six represents, it is necessary to remember that it is built to the world's highest standards. In design, in materials and in workmanship—it is every inch a quality car!
