Rush in Oil Leases In Terrell County

The particular area in the vicinity of Sanderson, Terrell County, Texas, is receiving a big play in the path of oil and gas leasing, and developments due to the fact several wells are drilling in the county.

Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, which is situated about eight miles south of this city, seems to be leading in the limelight toward future drilling operations. Several geologists are now in the field using the Geo-Physic method. The records in the Court-house here reveals the fact that Geo. A. Kroenien, Carl Aune, F. B. Crawley, Roy A. Reynolds, and other leading present day geologists have acquired oil and gas leases on the outskirts of a wonderful structure on which Stansell and Jones own the mineral rights, situated in Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey. These men have left a nice open drilling block which will in all probability be turned to some major oil company, or independent company to drill in the near future. The Darby Petroleum Corporation of Tulsa, Oklahoma, owns all alternate sections of land in Blocks 149, 150, and 153, T. & St. L. Ry. Co. survey, adjoining Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey on the North. The National Drilling Company of New York owns a half section of land in Block D-11, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, adjoining Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey on the West. The Keyokla Oil Company owns two sections of land situated on the west side of the structure. The Monarch Royalty Corporation of Ft. Worth, Texas, owns some land on the structure adjoining the Stansell & Jones lands on the north east. The Burton-Bates Royalty Company of Seminole County, Oklahoma, owns an interest in section 140, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, in Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co., adjoining the Stansell & Jones lands on the South. A few miles further south just over the line in Brewster County, the Peerless Oil and Gas Company, and the Humble Oil and Refining Company own leases on considerable lands. The Kisk Oil Company of Wichita Falls, Texas, has land leased on the east side of the structure. The Peerless Oil and Gas Co., of Indiana, Penn., owns an oil and gas lease, and quite a bit of royalty under lands adjoining Stansell & Jones lands on the south-east. Geo. F. Sideman of W. T. Waggoner Bldg., of Ft. Worth, Texas, owns quite a bit of land in fee on the structure adjoining the Stansell & Jones lands on the south. Quite a few independent operators and major companies have endeavored in the past to lease the lands owned by Stansell & Jones, and also the lands owned by Stansell & Stansell. The log of a water well drilled on section 166 in Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, shows beyond a shadow of a doubt that the structure heretofore mentioned carries petroleum. The depth of the well is only 580 in the Edwards limestone.

Dr. C. E. Hill, the father of the geology of Texas, is coming to see J. C. Stansell of this city in the near future, and make several inspection trips over the same country that he worked a great many years ago, while the oil game was yet in its infancy so far as the area west of the Pecos River and south of the railroad was concerned.

The records at the courthouse here shows that many individuals have purchased lands in fee in Block D-10, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, namely: H. C. Garrett and Stella Garrett, Box 917, Jacksonville, Fla., Dr. J. C. Galler, 1456th 12th Street, Milwaukee, Wis., E. B. Griggs, 2500 Leonard Street, Corpus Christi, Texas; T. A. Hardgrave of 2633 Jeffries St. Dallas, Texas; Margaret Hasey of 1014th 13th St., Denver, Col.; J. E. Helms of 25-95 W. 2nd St., Miami, Fla.; Levi Hinds of Del Rio, Texas; Harry

To My Friends And Patrons

I take this opportunity of thanking my friends and patrons who have been so loyal in assisting me in every way possible in the publication and upbuilding of the Sanderson Times. I feel that it is only with your help that this paper has kept its standard, for without the help of the community as a whole it would be an uphill undertaking, and especially so in the newspaper work.

I want to say to the advertisers, to those who have given me their printing and to all others that have given me work and sent work my way, that I appreciate all of this business a great deal more than I am able to tell you. I believe I have given all a fair deal and that I have worked to their interests as well as my own at all times. Of course I have been unable to get all the business that should go to a home paper, but I have gotten as much or more than the average newspaper gets.

I wish to make this statement to all readers of this paper that the business firms in your town, not only the merchant, but all other wide-awake advertising firms donate every day to some good cause for your town and the community in which you live. It is your duty to patronize these firms, not go out of town to trade or buy from some mail order house, as many do. I wish to thank those who have handed in news items, church affairs, club meetings and our school column, all these things help to make your paper worth while reading.

In leaving Sanderson I leave new friends as well as the old friends which I knew here in 1919 and 1920, at which time I edited this paper, and it is with regret I leave Sanderson. I will be leaving here immediately after the 1st. day of April for my home at Buenavista Texas. Mrs. Addie Lee Boling, who owns this paper and who is no stranger to its readers, has been among your midst since her early school days and having edited this paper for several years, previous to the last year, will be heartily welcomed back into the newspaper business by her many friends in Sanderson and in all of Terrell County. My wish is for her success and that the business firms in Sanderson, the readers of this paper and all others do their utmost to help make this paper better in every way.

Mrs. Bessie M. Darling.

W. M. S. Meet

Mrs. W. C. Carson of Sierra Blanca, District president of W. M. S. met with the Baptist W. M. S. Monday evening from 2 to 3 o'clock where she made a very spiritual talk.

After the meeting which was held at the church all went to the home of Mrs. John O'Dell for a social hour, where Mrs. O'Dell served lovely refreshments.

Roy Joseph Hurst Jr. Drowned In River

Last Saturday just before noon a still hush settled over the community when the news of the sad death of Roy Joseph Hurst Jr. was brought to town from the school outing party on the banks of the Rio Grande south of Dryden.

A party of young people of the 7th. grade accompanied by four of the teachers left Sanderson about 5 a. m. Saturday morning for an outing along the river which ended in the sad death of Roy about 9:30 in the morning. The body was not recovered until about 11 a. m. Sunday morning, though every effort was made that it might be located. John Clark, M. P. McLester, James Smith and a number of others worked in every conceivable way all Saturday and Sunday night and it was not until Mabrie Ogle of Del Rio who had been sent for and arrived Sunday morning, after untiring efforts finally found the body under about 30 feet of water in about 100 feet of where Roy first disappeared. Mr. Ogle was given and deserved lots of credit for his efforts which proved successful. Mr. Clark received and also deserved lots of credit from the entire community for his headwork in directing the faithful divers as well as diving himself during the entire time until the body was located.

The Doran Undertaking Co., of Del Rio embalmed the body and prepared it for shipment.

The body of Roy was shipped to El Paso Monday morning on train No. 103, accompanied by the parents, sisters, brother and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burrows.

Funeral services were conducted by Bishop A. L. Pearce of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints from the Mortuary of Kaster & Maxon, El Paso, and interment made in Evergreen cemetery at 4 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, March 25th. H. J. McGovern, J. W. Horton, H. F. Gaul, T. H. Butler, M. I. Taylor, and W. E. Cotermarch, all of El Paso and members of the B of L F E No 135 were pallbearers. The beautiful and most abundant floral offering from friends showed the every respect which floral offerings can give.

Roy was born in El Paso Nov. 15th, 1917 to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Joseph Hurst of Sanderson. Other than father and mother, Roy leaves to mourn his departure from this life a younger brother Daniel Earl, three younger sisters, Florence, Mildred Bettie Jean, relatives and a host of friends.

Mother and a sister of Mrs. Hurst of Colonia Dublan, Chia, Mexico, a sister from Duncan, Arizona and a number of other relatives along with friends and the immediate family paid last respects to the beloved departed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burrows returned from El Paso Wednesday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Hurst and family accompanied by Mr. Hurst's mother of Provo, Utah who did not reach El Paso in time for the funeral returned to Sanderson today.

Throughout the entire community of Sanderson words of sympathy for the Hurst family are heard.

My lease on The Sanderson Times with Addie Lee Lemons expires April 1st. All parties owing accounts please settle with me before the above date.

Memorial Service At High School

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the body of Roy Hurst was being committed to the ground in Christian burial at Evergreen cemetery, El Paso, Prof. B. J. Brannan and the Sanderson school faculty assisted by Rev. I. E. Griffith, Rev. B. M. Stradley, Mrs. H. D. Johnson and O. H. McAdams led in the conducting of a very impressive Memorial service in the high school auditorium with a large congregation gathered in attendance.

Rev. Griffith local pastor of the church of Christ gave a short Memorial address, Mrs. H. D. Johnson led the congregation in prayer, and Miss Noble and Prof. Sandifer rendered very impressive memorial musical numbers. The 7th grade of which Roy was a member with bowed heads placed beautiful flowers upon his school equipment in memory of his class days. Rev. B. M. Stradley closed the Memorial service with the apostolic benediction.

Roy leaves a great host of young people in school to mourn his early departure.

Sanderson To Have Base Ball Team

Tuesday night of this week the American Legion met at their regular meeting place for the purpose of discussing the organization of a baseball team for Sanderson. There was lots of enthusiasm over the project and after some discussion it was decided to go ahead and the following committee was appointed to complete the organization: Tom Breeding, Al Creigh Jr., C. V. McKnight, Bill Vaughn.

During the summer months a baseball club is needed here to help furnish clean amusement for our citizens, and there is plenty of good material here for a REAL ball team. Lots of ball fans would like to see back on the diamond again such old timers as "Stumpy" Duke, "Bull" Bodkin, "Shorty" Robinson, J. L. Newton, Carlton White, and several others that at one time made Sanderson famous as a baseball center.

Children's Hats Can Be Made at Home

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

Here are two attractive hats for children which can be made at home very easily from a small amount of material. An old coat or dress might be used for the beret, and parts of an old raincoat or any garment made of water-resistant cloth, for the rainy day hat. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, which designed these hats, will be glad to furnish measurements and sketches for making both of them.

The rain hat is not only becoming to small boys and girls, but it is constructed so as to shed rain, and is made of water-repellent cloth. The brim can be rolled back or left down in front, while the long back covers the back of the neck and protects it from rain. Many children of three to six years of age wear rain-proof play suits made of the same sort of material, and with this hat may play out of doors in any weather. The crown is made with six sections. The brim is double and is slightly stiffened with several rows of stitches about a quarter of an inch apart. The lining is cut from the same pattern as the crown and is slip-stitched in. The hat requires half a yard of material and a quarter of a yard of lining. It the band is shrunk by pressing under a wet cloth.

When a head covering can be made so easily and inexpensively at home, a child may possess several of different colors, to suit the occasion or the costume being worn. Children enjoy a change from "the same old thing" in their wearing apparel, and a bright new beret is a simple means of gratifying this entirely normal feeling. For wear while riding in an automobile, especially on long trips, a beret has no equal, as it stays on the head well and keeps the child's hair back out of his or her eyes. When the rest of a child's outfit is neutral in color, a beret of bright color such as red or orange or green, is really a safety precaution, making the child crossing the street noticeable from passing automobiles and other vehicles.

Child's Rain Hat of Shower-Proof Fabric.

is designed for a 20-inch head size but may be made smaller by taking in the seams.

A beret is always a satisfactory head covering for a child of three or more, in fact, for a school child of almost any age. A boy's beret is made slightly smaller than a girl's, but otherwise from the same design. Cotton suède was used for making the beret illustrated, but any soft woolen fabric which will allow fullness to be smoothly gathered in will do. For spring wear, the beret should be light weight. If new material is used, half a yard of woolen fabric and a quarter of a yard of lining are sufficient. Berets, however, are very successfully made from parts of adult's clothing that is no longer useful.

The beret consists of four crown sections, a bias band, and a lining. The curved outer edge of each of the four crown sections is gathered until it measures five inches (one-fourth of the head size required, which in this case is 20 inches), and then stitched to the bias fold that fits around the head. All fullness along

Easy to Learn Machine Embroidery

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Have you learned to embroider the sewing machine way? No? Well, it's easy—easy to learn, easy to do—and the work goes so quickly you can initial a dozen napkins, monogram a tablecloth, smock a frock, or embroider fancy designs or monograms on guest towels in no time at all. The new art is called trim stitch, and requires no other equipment than a suitable trim stitch cotton, a very coarse machine needle, the machine itself, and electric or foot power.

The thread used is firmly twisted and heavy in comparison with the thread in general use. You can get it in bright colors, such as you would expect to find in embroidery silks and cottons. You will require a machine needle capable of carrying a 20 to 30 six-cord thread. Secure bobbin fast colors, so that they will go through the laundry without injury. For outlining, monogramming, initialing, or stitching, use the trim stitch thread on top and in the bobbin. For the most effective work, the stitches should run from eight to ten to the inch. Two contrasting colors, such as blue or green on top and yellow or orange in the bobbin are effective.

Smocking is beautiful for dress yokes, for sleeves, for holding skirt fullness, for smocks, and for fine dresses of sheer fabric. For this work, adjust the stitch to seven or eight to the inch, and have an ordinary tension. Use size 24 white, six-cord thread in the bobbin. As these bobbin threads are the ones you will have to pull when it comes to the shirring, they will need to be strong. Group your trim stitch colors as you would for hand smocking, and stitch the rows true, so that when shirred up they will be perfectly even. When all the rows are in, stitch across one end to hold them securely. Then, from the opposite end shir the stitching up, pulling the bobbin threads only, drawing them up at the same time.

For tablecloths and napkins, this machine embroidery way is an easy method of initialing or monogramming. In initialing bath towels use large initials and stitch twice around each line. For table linen, use white trim stitch, with from two to six rows of stitching close together. Whenever a tailored stitching line is desirable, as on the edges of the collars shown in the sketch, several even rows of one color or of contrasting colors are effective.

Use of Electricity on the Farm

It is generally recognized, both among rural communities and by electrical leaders, that no economic question today has more significance for all concerned and for the nation at large than the proposition of making electricity available economically for the American farmer. The arrival of the time when this will be accomplished is likely to be hastened by providing electrical training for young men with farming knowledge and sympathies.

Evening Fairy Tale for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I have heard," said Mr. Meadow Mouse, to his friend Mr. Mole, "that the farmer around these parts has said that he was being very much bothered by the members of the meadow mouse family and the mole family."

"The very idea," said Mr. Mole. "He should be flattered that we like his things."

"Yes, and pleased too! Don't you agree with me, Mr. Mouse?"

"I can't quite say that I do agree with you," said Mr. Meadow Mouse. "I don't suppose he can be pleased to have creatures eat up the things he digs and plants in the ground."

"I suppose that's so," said Mr. Mole. "Well, what shall we do, then?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Mr. Mole.

"Just then I thought I heard a sound," said Mr. Meadow Mouse suddenly.

And the sound came clearer and clearer and this was what a voice was saying:

"I advise you not to stay. You had better move away. For some day when the farmer passes, He'll chop your heads off with the grasses."

"Oh, what could that have been?" asked Mr. Meadow Mouse. And the voice went on:

"I'm not being seen, But I'm the Fairy Queen. I've brought you a warning This nice, bright morning."

"Well, if that is so," said Mr. Mole. "we had better do as she said, and move away."

"I would hate to have my head chopped off."

"So would I," said Mr. Mole. "I wouldn't like it at all. I'll get my family and you get yours, and we'll go to the next meadow."

"There are good seeds of grain and other nice things over there. And I believe there are other goodies in the field."

"How do you know?" asked Mr. Meadow Mouse.

"Listen and you will hear," replied Mr. Mole.

And again they heard the voice of

The Sound Came Clearer.

the Fairy Queen, sending them a helpful suggestion:

"There are goodies for you to try In the meadow just nearby. Better hurry up and go Before the farmer starts to mow."

Food For the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"Among the most thoroughly self deluded people in the world are those who think that in the multiplication of things and possessions, happiness and contentment lies."

In these days with hundreds of varieties of soups that come to us canned and ready to reheat and serve, one is hard to suit one to serve for any occasion. For those who prefer to prepare their own soups, as most cooks do, except in emergency, the following good ones will warm and satisfy:

Tomato Bisque.—Cook three cups of tomatoes with one bay leaf, four cloves, one-half onion, two teaspoonfuls of sugar ten minutes, then strain, add one-fourth teaspoonful of soda and two cups of white sauce. Serve at once with croutons. To prepare the white sauce take one and one-half tablespoonfuls of vegetable oil, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of milk and pepper to taste. Cook (stirring over a low heat) the oil and the onion, add the cornstarch and stir and cook for three minutes, then add the milk and cook for five minutes. Strain and add to the hot soup.

Baked Bean Soup.—Take three cups of beans, three pints of water, two stalks of celery, bring to the boiling point, then simmer for 30 minutes. Rub through a sieve, add one and one-half cups of stewed and strained tomatoes, one tablespoonful of chili sauce and salt and pepper to season. Cook one tablespoonful of minced onion in two tablespoonfuls of vegetable oil three minutes, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch and cook three minutes, stir into the soup, boil up and serve with croutons.

Home-Made Noodles.—Beat two eggs, add salt to season, with enough flour to make a stiff dough. Knead it, then roll as thin as possible. Cover with a towel and then set aside to dry for a half hour. Spread very lightly with flour and roll like a jelly roll. With a sharp knife cut strips about one-eighth-inch thick. Unroll and dry again. Then drop into boiling broth or well-salted water and cook 15 minutes.

Lemon Bavarian Cream.—Take one-half cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, two egg yolks, one tablespoonful of gelatin, one tablespoonful of cold water, two egg whites and one-half cupful of cream. Put one-half of the sugar and lemon juice into a double boiler; when heated pour over the egg yolks which have been beaten with the remaining sugar. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add gelatin soaked in the cold water, beat until cool. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and add the beaten cream.

Spaghetti Plate.—Cook one-half pound of spaghetti until tender. Drain. Mix two cupfuls of chopped cold meat, one-fourth cupful each of carrot and celery finely minced. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour to one cupful of milk and cook slowly until well cooked. Add one tablespoonful each of lemon juice and chili sauce. Arrange the spaghetti around a platter with the center filled with the meat. Garnish with a sprinkling of chopped green pepper or parsley.

Mushroom Spaghetti Sauce.—Peel and slice one-fourth of a pound of mushrooms and cook in two tablespoonfuls of butter for three minutes, remove the mushrooms and add two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir and cook until smooth. Add one cupful of liver stock, stirring constantly, add cooked spaghetti and one-half cupful of cream; season to taste. Heat hot and fill the cases or timbales. Garnish with crisp bacon and sprigs of parsley.

A good many people have an idea that the best place for meat in the refrigerator is in the compartment with the ice. They also have a notion that the way to keep meat or poultry as it comes from the market is to leave it wrapped up in the paper bag in which it was delivered, and put it right on top of the ice. Neither of these practices is desirable.

Scientific studies of refrigerators of all kinds have been made by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. These have included testing the temperature of different parts of the refrigerator, studying the bacteriological condition of meat and milk after it has been kept for different lengths of time at various temperatures, finding out the effect of icing with small and large pieces of ice, and a number of other points.

Uncooked meat is a ready medium for the development of bacteria that cause spoilage. A temperature of 47 degrees Fahrenheit or below is recommended for keeping meat in the best condition. Unwrap meat as soon as it is delivered and place it on a clean platter or dish in the coldest part of the refrigerator—next to the

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught off and on for twenty-five years," writes Mr. Dave Stewart, of 1812 E. 2nd St., Austin Texas. "They used it in my father's home for many years and it was our general family medicine. My health was good, and that is about all I ever took. I used it for constipation and bilious sick headaches. It is a fine medicine to take when a man gets up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish. After a course of it I feel fine. It rids the system of poison which comes from constipation."

"I held notes on him as security for business that he transacted through his office—properties I could not afford to have in my name. He thought I would not dare to sell his notes, he having so much information about me. No use going into the ugly details. He woke up too late to find out that his transactions were with me—the company he was dealing with was mine—he sold my property to me. It was I who bought from him what he had no right to sell. I stopped payment on the checks he held. I had his notes, and he was holding—the bag."

"But how could you? That's not right. You couldn't do that."
"Why not?" asked Pastano. "I was cleverer than he. What could he do? What could he say? I called in his notes. Either he had to pay me, or I would sell them to his bank for discount. He put in his stone stock—sound property—and recovered his notes. Then he found all his debts due on the same day. He lost seven accounts in one afternoon—business taken right out of his office. He sold his car and yesterday he mortgaged his house. And today—unless it's stopped—he's going to be indicted."

Ernestine got to her feet. "But, Ruby—how can you do this to Loring? He does know things about you—"

"Very little," answered Pastano evenly. "Fragments—nothing whole. Part of this deal—part of that. His own activities will shine much worse in court than his connections with me. No you think I am fool enough to put myself in jeopardy with a man like Loring?"

Ernestine made a little moan, and he began to speak quickly, vehemently, with a strange sternness and justice in his face.

"He came to me—he sought the connection—he was eager for my work. He offered to do things for me that I wouldn't let him do. He was well paid, and he didn't play the game. His fees were big—business was thrown to him from a dozen directions inaccessible to him five years ago. He sat where he wanted to sit—in the lap of city politics, and he grew weary of his mistress. He wished to exploit her—desert her. So he schemed and planned. But you cannot get into the whirlpool and then out again—"

Ernestine, looking at her, felt the sucking breath of the vortex. "But what have I to do with this?" she asked. "What can I do for Loring? You haven't told me this without some purpose."

"First let me show you why I can do nothing for him myself—it is easier to start a landslide than to stop it. It was my intention—no, my determination—to ruin him, to have him debarred, disgraced, sent to the penitentiary, if I could. It seemed necessary. Here, all about me, are these young men—lieutenants—gangsters, if you like the newspaper word better. They are my army. We must have loyalty in any army. We must have obedience. Loyalty and obedience, first, because they have confidence in me, that I am wise, that I will take care of them while they stay with me, that I am competent to meet all situations. But if a man is disloyal, all the rest must see what becomes of him. Loyalty, first, because of confidence; second, because of fear. When admiration fails, fear remains."

"But you are not going to ruin Loring now?" she said eagerly. "You have changed your mind—you have some plan?"
"No," he said slowly. "no, not I. I have no plan to save Loring Hamilton. I have no desire to save him. I would not lift my little finger for Loring Hamilton. It is inevitable that he should fall, should be punished. Even if I wanted to do something for him now, I could not. His treachery is known to others as well as to myself. Money is needed. If I should withdraw money from my own private sources, or if I should withdraw money from funds that are available for gifts, when it is necessary, it would be instantly known. No—in the first place, I don't want to help Loring. If he were my own brother, I would feel that he must follow his course alone. Nor could I help him, even if I liked, but—he looked at her intently so that for a moment it seemed that she was lost, hypnotized by his great dark eyes—"you can help him, if you like, Ernestine."

"Tell me," she whispered. "What can I do?"
He put his hand in his pocket and took out his big silver watch. Laying the flat of his palm upon it, he twisted it, unscrewed the back of the watch and took from between the outer and inner cases a small piece of paper, folded once across. He sat, his disremembered watch in one hand, and the piece of paper in the other, and said to her:

"I know that you have your own standards of honor—I have exposed myself, in this talk, knowing your code. But now, I must ask you if you are capable of secrecy. No one but I will know of this. He must know."

"I promise," she said at once.
He put the folded paper in her hand, and kept his finger upon it, so that it remained closed.

"There is a name here. This afternoon, within an hour after this bank is closed—before four o'clock, to be exact, twenty thousand dollars, in cash, must be placed in the hands of this person, and the indictment against Loring will be dropped."

Ernestine was very pale. "A bribe?" she said, her throat dry. "But that's—wrong."

He was very gentle. "Wrong, yes—no doubt. But we are at a place now—where it is the lesser evil, which must be chosen—not right or wrong. A bribe—ugly word. Yes, there is a regular scale of prices for indictments. This money must be spread. It will take twenty thousand dollars to do it. You have the money. I take a great risk upon myself—this talk, this name, this opportunity, but I wished you to have it."

He beamed upon her now—pleased as a child who has been good and waits for praise. Ernestine was very agitated.

"How do you know I have this money?"

"I am a director in this bank—you have it—here."

"But that money is for Will. I've been saving it for nearly two years.

"He Was Well Paid, and He Didn't Play the Game."

I can't give that money for Loring. It's Will's."

"I'll not pay for Loring," said Pastano sternly, and he shrugged, his face altered, hard. "Why should I? You can—if you won't, he's sunk—that's all."

"No, no," cried Ernestine, "not that—not Will's money. I won't do it, Ruby. I can't. Loring will have to go down in his own wreckage. Why should I pay a bribe for him? Why should I rob Will of his very chance, for Loring? This isn't just money—this is Will's future—his peace, his happiness—this is my marriage—this money."

He was silent. He stared at her. She could feel in him disappointment. He was disappointed in her! He, monster that he was, dared to judge her!

"You see," she said desperately, "Will isn't always going to be a cartoonist. He's going to do something else. He hasn't any sense about money. I learned about money, when we were poor, but Will has never learned. He's extravagant, foolish. I found out long ago that if he had fifty cents in his pocket, or fifty dollars, it was all the same to him. And then—I discovered that Will wanted to be an artist, that he wanted to work in colors, that he hated the cats. And I began to save. I've kept up a front on a small amount of money. I spent less than twelve thousand dollars last year, and Will earned thirty thousand. But it's been for Will. I'm not naturally economical, or close, but I did it for Will."

"Perhaps Will would want you to do this—ask him."
"Perhaps he would. It would be like him to throw away his chance for Loring. But Will doesn't know I've got this money. Nobody knows, except the bank clerks. I thought a savings account was a private matter. Will has a studio down near here—if he could study—if he could go to Paris."

"I know," said Pastano. "He rents his workroom from me. I've seen some of his stuff. Well—Loring can go to jail then, for all of me, and if you are subpoenaed into court, to testify about things that happened at Langley lake three summers ago, don't say I didn't warn you."

He sighed. His eyes were sad and tired. The tears sprang down Ernestine's cheeks.

"Don't think I don't appreciate this—I know that you endanger yourself—your very life—by talking to me. I know enough about all this to know what you are doing—It's generous, but, oh, Ruby, it is Will I love—Will, all the time."

"Your sister—" he objected.

"Why should I sacrifice Will for Loring and Lillian?" she said passionately. "It will take me a long time to accumulate this money again. And simply to give it away—to send it out blindly, and not even know where it goes! Loring has always hated Will—he tried to harm him. And now you ask me to give up Will's chance. He can't wait forever. His gift will die, he'll go stale."

"Loring has loved you, Ernestine." She stopped her incoherent speech. She looked at him with dark eyes, and her face grew very pale.

"That time," Pastano said, "when you were ill—when Elaine was born, we would not have found you, if it had not been for Loring."

"But Will found me," she quavered.

"Yes—after Loring had torn the town up—had organized a search—had warned me. Will would still be wandering about Sheridan Park. And after Will found you, what did he do? You might have died there, without proper care. It was Loring's practical energy and ability—his decision and his efficiency which saved you."

He got up and moved about restlessly. He seemed almost to plead with her.

"That's why I couldn't sleep last night. It came to me all the time—he loves our Ernestine, fool and traitor that he is. He would give everything he has—for her. It is her sister, her family, her family name. She is mixed in it—she will be hurt by it. So this morning, I came to town. I have seen the bank ledger from time to time. I have watched your private fortune growing with much interest, and known, or thought, that Will was ignorant of it. So this morning I came to town, and carefully I have made this possible. And now, you do not see it."

He was putting his watch together as he spoke, but he left the slip of paper in Ernestine's hand.

"It's one o'clock," he said. "The bank closes at three. Suppose you go and talk to Will. A woman ought not take a step like this, anyhow, without talking to her husband."

"I'm not going to give Will's money to Loring," Ernestine said despairingly.

Mr. Pastano opened the door for her, but did not answer her low "good-by."

Ernestine went swiftly down the stairs and out into the brightness of the street.

"I'm not going to ask Will," she thought stubbornly. "He'll just tell me to do what Pastano wants. I'm not going to do it."

She ran for a car going north and boarded it. She rode as far as Belmont avenue. Jumped up suddenly and got out of the street car. A taxi stood before a drug store across the street. Ernestine ran across through the traffic and got into the taxi.

"Please hurry," she said, and gave him the address of the old office building near the river, where Will led his secret life.

She felt that she could not get to Will soon enough, now she was started. She paid the taxi driver at the door and went quickly into the dim and dusty doorway.

Chinese Leaders Split on Educational Plans

China, unlike most nations, has nothing that can really be called a national sport. Japan, in much the same circumstances, adopted baseball; but baseball in China has never caught on to any great extent. Mission schools and Y. M. C. A.'s, however, have done much to teach forms of sport to elementary and middle school students, with the result that basketball, tennis and football are beginning to prove fairly popular, but only among an extremely small percentage of the nation's many millions of youths. As far as the revival of folklore (which is being considered by the social education department of the ministry of education) is concerned, it is expected that the ministry will encounter difficulties. China is rich in folklore, but while with one hand the government is trying to encourage its revival, with the other hand the government is launching a bitter campaign against superstition. Much of China's ancient folklore deals with supernatural beings, and with historical and mythical characters endowed with supernatural powers. What is needed, according to educational leaders, is the development of a critical faculty among students and the populace which will enable them to dissociate themselves entirely from the million and one popular myths which form the basis of their mental texture, if not of their religious beliefs.

Unfounded Popular Belief

That a fire caused by lightning can not be extinguished with water is an old popular belief which still survives in many parts of the country, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. Fire is no matter how started, whether by a match, spontaneous combustion, or a flash of lightning. A fire produced by lightning has the same physical properties as other fire and can be extinguished in the same manner.

Divide Hatching Duty

Among the true ostriches of the old world several females lay their eggs in the same nest and the male sits on the eggs during the night while the hens take turns at the job during the day.

Large Trees Killed by Drought Are Good

Excellent Plan to Cut Material for Farm Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

What to do with large trees killed by the drought is a question asked by many farmers who own woodlands. If the timber can be salvaged economically, the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, advises cutting it now. If a market cannot be found for this material, it is better to cut it for future use on the farm than to let it go to waste in the woods. Many mature trees have succumbed in some of the drought-stricken sections, and if they can be used now it is better to cut them before they begin to decay. Trees containing saw logs may be good for lumber, and crooked or diseased trees can be used to augment the fuel-wood supply.

"There is always on every farm a need for construction and repair materials," the extension forester of Virginia points out, "and here is a chance to salvage those dead trees and at the same time provide a supply of repair material for years to come. There are many sawmill operators who would be glad to do a little custom sawing. Some of them would take their pay in logs. There are an almost every farm the tools, wagons and work stock necessary to do the logging and hauling."

"Properly stacked and roofed over with the common boards, lumber will keep almost indefinitely. Why not cut those trees this winter and have them turned into inch boards, 2x4s, 4x6s, and other sizes needed for the upkeep of the farm?"

Increased Use of Skim Milk Powder for Fowls

Skim milk powder is somewhat cheaper than it was a few years ago and also easier to get. It is carried in stock by most feed merchants, particularly if these feed merchants are in a section where there are a number of poultry farms. Practically all poultrymen are now using more or less milk powder in their mashers. Because of lower cost and availability, more and more dairymen are using skim milk powder in calf feeding, this of course applying only in sections where whole milk is sold. This powder is mixed with water in the proportion of one part of powder to nine parts of water. When brought to a temperature of 95 to 98 degrees, the solution is fed exactly as skim milk would be fed. Some farmers say that, after calves have been well started on whole milk and have learned to eat grain and hay, the skim milk powder can be mixed with the grain rations and save the trouble of mixing with water and heating.

Good Heavy Oats Useful for Fattening Lambs

Recent tests in Indiana indicate that good heavy oats are equal in value to corn for fattening western lambs. Three feeding trials were conducted involving 150 lambs. Oats, cottonseed meal, clover hay, and corn silage were fed in comparison with shelled corn, cottonseed meal, clover hay and corn silage.

With the oat ration 577 pounds of oats, 51 pounds of cottonseed meal, 261 pounds of hay, and 284 pounds of silage were required for each 100 pounds of gain. With the corn ration 367 pounds of corn, 51 pounds of cottonseed meal, 462 pounds of hay, and 454 pounds of silage were required for the same gain. It is noted that the lambs on the oat ration consumed considerably less roughage which offset the value of the oats consumed.

Farm Hints

All-mash feeding permits greater sanitation in handling the chicks.

Leeks are spectacular subjects for the fall shows. Plant a row and hill them up carefully as they grow.

Hardy strains of alfalfa have averaged from 474 to 651 pounds more hay per acre each year than common varieties in experiments at the Pennsylvania state college.

No other hay equals alfalfa for feeding purposes and few crops are better for swine pastures. It also ranks high as a part of the mixture for pasturing other kinds of live stock.

The chick is handicapped by becoming infested with many parasites early in life. An earlier hatched chick gains resistance with age before the parasites become so numerous.

Treble barley, though a high yielder, has weak straw and is susceptible to "spot blotch." Trials with pigs indicate its feeding value is somewhat lower than that of other kinds.

From breeding time forward to lambing time the ewe may be in a gradual gaining condition. In which case a strong lamb may be expected and a full udder to nourish it with.

Do not spoil a good job of house-cleaning by dumping the poultry manure and other material cleaned out of the house in a place where the chickens can scratch in it—just as well not clean the house.

Naturalized
"Tay Pay" O'Connor's last visit to Washington was during the Wilson administration. He called at the White House on a hot summer's day to pay his respects, dripping with perspiration.

"You have a wonderful city here," he said to Secretary Tumulty, "but I hope it's nothing like this in the hereafter."

The secretary took him to a clothing store and fitted him to a Palm Beach suit, sending his heavy London clothes to his hotel. Then the two walked down Pennsylvania avenue. Tay Pay delighted with his suit and still wearing the price and size tags which the clerk had forgotten to remove.

Varying Beauty Standards.
The standards of beauty vary greatly in different parts of the world. While femininity of the Western world is engaged in starving herself for the purpose of defeating any possible accumulation of fat, the ladies of the eastern countries are adopting an entirely different regime for the purpose of making themselves as attractive as possible by piling on every ounce of flesh that it is possible to acquire. In China and Japan the women punish themselves to keep their shapes within bounds, for there is no place for adiposity. African women distort their lips to hideous proportions with the idea of making themselves beautiful.

Clean-Up Notice.

In the interest of the civic and health program of Sanderson, Texas, I, Dr. A. P. Utterback, County Health Officer and an interested citizen of Sanderson, do hereby ask for the co-operation in ridding our city of all unsanitary conditions.

I ask that all rubbish and refuse be collected and reduced to ashes.

Tin cans, broken glass, etc., should be collected and buried or hauled away. Wagons will haul all rubbish collected and put in sacks or tubs. Put these in an accessible place in your alley so time will not be lost in loading.

Vacant lots should be cleared of weed. Horse and cow lots relieved of manure, then filled and drained.

Surface toilets cleaned and disinfected with lime or strong disinfectant.

No standing water should be allowed on premises, have places filled or drained to prevent mosquitos breeding. Flies and mosquitos will grow anywhere in Texas if filth and stagnant water abound. Every house should be screened against these enemy tormentors.

To insure good health for yourself and family is your greatest civic duty.

Screen up and clean up!

In doing these things we place our city on higher standards of cleanliness in our community life.

DUAL BANK SYSTEM FAVORED BY BANKER

State and National Institutions Supplement Each Other in Serving Country's Varied Financial Needs

RECENT suggestions that all banks in the United States be under Federal jurisdiction, doing away with the chartering of banks by the various states recalls the opposition to this plan presented at the recent convention of the American Bankers Association by R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, Chairman of its Economic Policy Commission. Mr. Hecht said:

"There are just as good reasons why there should be state as well as national banks, as that there should be state as well as a national government. I do not think that analogy is far-fetched. The states should not surrender all political jurisdiction to the central government, and the local business life of the states should not be made to surrender all control over financial functions to national financial instrumentalities. There are many variations of business conditions from state to state and there are special fiscal requirements of the various states.

"It is entirely logical, therefore, that the states should retain the right to charter banks so as to mold and direct their affairs in accordance with the states' governmental and business requirements and keep them adapted to localized sentiment and conditions.

"The argument is sometimes advanced that the dual system jeopardizes the life of the Federal Reserve System because under it there is a large group of banks that are free to remain out of or to withdraw from the system. Facts and figures prove that this is a specious argument.

"It is true that there has been some shifting from national to state charters especially in cases of mergers of large national banks with banks operating under state charters. However, the Federal Reserve System was not weakened in this process because the merged institutions almost universally retained their membership in the system on a voluntary basis. Moreover, the records show that state bank members are just as good members of the system as national banks and the ratio of state bank resources in the Federal Reserve System is constantly growing. In 1922, national banks held about 65 per cent of the resources of reserve members, and state banks about 35 per cent, while in 1929, the nationals held only 60 per cent and state banks 40 per cent.

Banking Systems Help Each Other

"Reciprocally the state and national banking systems have helped each other. If the national banking law has served in some respects as something of a model code toward which state banking laws more and more have approached year by year, so have the state codes developed valuable reforms which have suggested improvements for the national laws. A great many undesirable competitive inequalities have been wiped out by this mutual evolutionary process and further progress along the line of uniformity so far as is desirable is anticipated.

"However, I do not believe that it is a disadvantage to have two banking codes that differ in some respects. It is quite probable that the state banking code in many instances represents a closer adjustment to local conditions than could be had under the national banking laws, and this is a situation that should be retained. There should, however, not be competition between the two banking codes. Competition should be between banks themselves and not between the laws under which they operate. The effort to offer too great allurances in one code as against the other could lead only to weak banking laws. But I do think that there should be the alternative opportunities that now exist which banking institutions and local business interests may choose, so that they can function or conduct their business relationships under that banking code which best meets the conditions of the times and of the place as they see them.

"This has been illustrated in both directions. In states where such un-sound measures as the guarantee of deposits were operative state banks had the opportunity to escape the baleful effect of such laws. On the other hand, when a court decision was handed down in Worcester, Massachusetts, which rendered uncertain the position of trust assets acquired by a national bank through a merger with a state bank, it was a real advantage for national banks affected to take out and operate under a state charter, either on a temporary or a permanent basis, as circumstances make expedient.

"In my opinion, bankers, national as well as state, should combat the thought that conceives of depriving us of the vitalizing benefits of our dual system."

Finance Fights Erosion

Farm terracing to stop erosion is of major importance in Noble County, Oklahoma, the county agent said, and so one of the county's national banks bought five farm levels to be loaned to farmers without charge. The machines were immediately put to use and the farmers are showing keen interest in terracing. Two terracing schools were started for adults and 4-H Club boys.

Must Be Done in Time

A Portland letter writer says that pedestrians who stand correctly are not likely to be run down by automobiles. He says you may know that you are standing correctly by "marking the center of the ear, the shoulder and the hip, and dropping a plumb bob through the center of these marks." That is highly interesting and very valuable information, but would you have time to attend to it before the auto hit you?

She was afterward connected with other forward steps in medical education, both here and in England.

Comprehensive

"By and large" has about the same meaning as comprehensively, on the whole, or everything considered. For instance, Mark Twain says in "Old Times": "Taking you by and large, you do seem to be more different kinds of an ass than any creature I ever saw before."

Towns With Short Names

Two towns in the United States are easy to remember. They are Al, in Georgia, and Uz, in Kentucky.

Legal Precedent

One legal authority says: "In the Anglo-American legal system a decision by a court, made on a question of law arising in a case and necessary to its determination, is an authority, or binding precedent, in the same court or in other courts of lower rank, in subsequent cases where the same question is again in controversy." This is called the doctrine of precedent, or "stare decisis et non quieta movere," which means "to stand by the decision and not disturb what is settled."

Hobbies Benefit Children

Encourage your child to develop a hobby. No matter that the hobby does not interest you, if it will develop initiative, artistic or construction ability, something that the child will grow along with, encourage him in it. Wholesome hobbies like carpentry, photography, billiards, chess, radio and modeling keep the youngsters off the streets and at home where they belong.

Early Cooking

The old-fashioned outside oven had a domed chamber built of brick and heated by means of light wood and sticks were burned inside. When the bricks were well heated, the ashes and embers were raked out and the floor swept and the food to be cooked introduced by a flat, wooden shovel with a long handle and the door was then closed.

Myrtle in History

Medicinal virtues are attributed to the myrtle, and its oil had a place among the drugs of the apothecary in the days of chivalry and incessant warfare. Now, however, it is esteemed chiefly for the beauty and sweet fragrance of its foliage, and as such is planted freely about the palaces of eastern potentates, as has been the rule from remote antiquity.

Above All, Be True!

He that is habituated to deceptions and artificialities in trifles will try in vain to be true in matters of importance, for truth is a thing of habit rather than of will. You cannot in any given case by any sudden and single effort will to be true, if the habit of your life has been in sincerity.—F. W. Robertson.

Fratricide

A fraternity lad who had been suspicious of a brother's maneuvers was calling on his regular date. The small lad of the household, who was entertaining him while his sister put on the finishing touches to her toilet said: "I see you have a pin just like the guy who comes when you're not here."

Horehound Candy

Horehound candy is flavored with an extract from the leaves of the plant known as horehound. This plant belongs to the mint family and was called horehound or hoarhound because of the white, downy appearance of the stem and leaves, suggesting hoar frost.—The Pathfinder.

Ringling It Up

A Westinghouse scientist says one horse can be used to silence another. The little bell on the cash register, for instance, stops the sound of moaning.—Los Angeles Times.

Age of Soldiers

According to statistics compiled by the Veterans' bureau, out of 500,000 United States officers and enlisted men serving in the World war, the average age was 24.95 years.

Indian Castes

It is not known definitely just when castes originated in India. Records are not available until the Vedic Arya period, about 1200 B. C. Castes were then in existence.

Synthetic Widely Used

Ninety per cent of all the pipe stems, imitation woods, beads and early-colored automatic pencils are made of a synthesis of formaldehyde and carbolic acid.

PAINS

No matter how severe, you can always have immediate relief

Bayer Aspirin stops pain quickly. It does it without any ill effects. Harmless to the heart; harmless to anybody. But it always brings relief. Why suffer?

The Boyhood of Famous Americans

Henry Morgenthau
The English language was not easy for the ten-year-old boy who had just come to this country from southern Germany. He had his greatest difficulty pronouncing the diphthong "th".

So he said over and over again, day in and out for weeks: "Theophilus Thistle, the great thistle sifter, sifted one sieve-full of unsifted thistles through the thick of his thumb," in order to overcome the handicap.

This method, together with hard and conscientious study, enabled him to gain a command of the language rapidly and to keep up with his class in the New York public schools. It was characteristic of Henry Morgenthau as a boy to do things thoroughly and leave nothing in his power undone that he might master his immediate task.

The trait helped him in gaining a fine education in the land of his adoption, to become a commanding figure in the real estate and financial worlds and to achieve a signal success as a diplomat when he was named as ambassador to Turkey.

He was born in Mannheim, Germany, in 1856. He little thought, when as a youngster he was thrilled at song festivals and exhibitions of gymnasts, that he would grow to man's estate and gain fame in a country across the sea. His father was a wealthy cigar manufacturer and the boy, Henry, was the ninth of eleven living children.

He was a good student as a lad in Germany, helped in his studies by a cultured mother and father. He knew the works of Schiller and Goethe as a little fellow. But perhaps his greatest achievement in the place of his birth, in his own opinion at the time, was when he successfully passed the swimming test tried by youngsters of athletic tendencies. He breasted the Rhine current for half an hour in qualifying for the coveted title of "Rhine Swimmer."

Not long after this the elder Morgenthau's prosperous business met with reverses through an American tariff law. The family came to this country. The Morgenthau's arrived in 1866, after an eleven-day trip. They took up their residence in Brooklyn. A few months later they moved to Manhattan.

The young newcomer to America soon grasped the intricacies of the language of his adopted country, thanks to his perseverance and his novel methods. He had a natural aptitude for arithmetic and by strict application to his studies he was able to reach the highest class in his school in short order. Then he qualified for admission to the City college, standing well up among 300 successful candidates in the group of 900 applicants.

He got his first job as an errand boy in a law office during the vacation months. The pay was $4 a week. Part of his duties consisted of copying and serving papers. He joined a good library, took special courses in debating and elocution, devoted much time to grammar and composition and read widely of good literature.

He didn't finish his course at City college. His father had met with further financial reverses in this country and young Henry had to put his shoulder to the wheel, helping the family as much as he could financially. His father wanted him to enter a civil engineer's office and study that profession, but the fifteen-year-old boy was convinced that he lacked proper foundation in mathematics to make a go of it.

So he became an office boy, agreeing to help with the books, in an insurance office in 1871. Here he drew a weekly wage of $6. After a few months he went to work in a wholesale house at $10 a week. The next year saw him back in a law office.

By this time his mind was made up to become a lawyer. He systematized his life so as to get in a maximum amount of work and still have time for study and exercise. His recreation consisted of walking and reading.

He was up every morning at six o'clock and took a walk, or exercised at home. Then he rode on a horse car to reach his work. The journey to downtown New York from his home was a slow one. The lad devoted the time to the reading of good books.

He kept accounts of his expenses in those days. A typical entry was: "Car fare, 10 cents; dinner, 15 cents; sundries, 2 cents."

He was nineteen years old when he entered the Columbia university law school in 1875. He got a job teaching night school at $15 a week. He spent all the time he could spare in libraries. He attended as many lectures as he could and listened to the famous preachers of the day. He made notes on what he heard. He was a wide reader of the newspapers.

He was admitted to the bar in 1877. Later he became interested in real estate and did much to develop New York into the metropolis it is today. He has given liberally of his wealth to social service and other philanthropies.

Old Fertilizers Coming Into Use

Many Less Common Elements Considered Non-essential Find Favor.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNE Service.

Although fertilizers have generally been considered complete with only the principal plant food elements, nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, the United States Department of Agriculture has found that many of the less common elements heretofore considered nonessential or present in the soil in sufficient quantities may deserve a place in the fertilizer bag.

Deficient in Elements.
In large areas in the United States some of the soils are deficient in manganese, sulphur, iron, magnesium, and chlorine. Experiments in the greenhouses have shown beneficial plant-growth responses to applications of copper, boron, iodine, zinc, arsenic, barium, nickel, and other less common elements.

The everglades and east coast regions of Florida, where trucking is the chief form of agriculture, have been found deficient in manganese and have been made highly productive by application of about 50 pounds of manganese sulphate an acre. Within the last two years this new fertilizer has come into general use. It has been credited in some cases, with improving the yield of tomatoes by 175 to 450 crates an acre, the yield of beans by 34 tons an acre, the yield of cabbage by 42,107 pounds an acre, and the yield of potatoes by 180 bushels an acre. It has trebled and quadrupled the size of carrots and beets and doubled the size of cauliflower.

Chlorine Helps.
On light sandy soils in some tobacco-growing regions an application of 20 to 30 pounds of chlorine per acre, in the form of muriate of potash, improves the yield, quality, and drought resistance of the crop.
A large proportion of the light sandy tobacco soils are deficient in magnesium and at least 10 to 20 pounds per acre of this element must be included in the fertilizer if a normal crop is to be obtained. Magnesium deficiency produces characteristic symptoms in the plant and the condition is popularly known as sand down.

Sweet Clover Pastures of Important Benefit

"All in all the benefits from sweet clover under pasture are largely due to the unclean residues left on the soil, to roots left in the soil, to the general improvement of the physical condition of the soil and to the suppression of weeds by pasturing," states H. L. Walster, in charge of agronomy work at the North Dakota Agricultural college.

"Under pasturing there is a considerable return of nitrogen through both the liquid and the solid manure left in the field by the live stock. The liquid manure, however, is subject to rapid nitrification and leaching so that it is unlikely to be of any material benefit to the succeeding crop, while the solid manure is unevenly distributed and some leaching losses take place in it, also."

Just what are the effects of pasturing as compared to the effects of other treatments upon the soil moisture conditions is not known, Dr. Walster says. It seems likely that a closely pastured sweet clover field does not draw as much water from the soil as when two crops of hay are taken.

Starve the Rats Best Way to Control Pests

The best way to control rats is to make it "unhealthy and unpopular" for them—and this can be done in a number of different ways, says State Veterinarian Dr. Homer A. Wilson of the Missouri state board of agriculture.

The first and best thing to do is, when building, construct in a rat-proof way. The extra cost amounts to little, and the protection thus obtained will many times pay for the trouble and additional expense.

Rats must have food and shelter, and if the buildings are rat-proof they will be handicapped. This is a year when we should try to starve the rats!

Consumer of Lamb Not Interested in Weight

The consumer of lamb is not interested in whether a lamb can be made to weigh 100 pounds in 100 days or if it weighs 50 pounds. He is, however, concerned about the size of the various cuts. The quality, flavor and appearance of the meat are matters which do concern him very much. The economy of the feed yard only affects him as it is passed on in the price he must pay for his chops or leg of lamb. The same parallel might be drawn for wool. The consumer knows and cares but little about the breed, but he knows what he wants in wearing apparel and pays accordingly.

Standard Crate

To make a standard potato crate have slats 17 and 14 inches with 12-inch posts, says Prof. E. V. Hardenburg of the New York State College of Agriculture. With 1-inch square posts and 3/4-inch slats, the inside dimensions are 16 1/4 by 14 by 12 inches deep. Such a crate holds a legal bushel of 60 pounds; for estimating bin capacity it occupies 1 1/4 cubic feet.

REVIEW: JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

GOLDEN TEXT—How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Busy Doing Good.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Busy Doing Good.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus the World's Savior: Preparation and Popularity.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus the World's Savior: Preparation and Popularity.

Since the lessons of the quarter center in one person and have one theme; namely, the world's Savior, the best method of review for senior and adult classes will be to refresh the mind with the principal facts and leading teachings of each lesson. Assignments should be made a week ahead. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for January 4.
John the Baptist was a great preacher. He had a great heritage in his godly parents. Much can be expected from a son of such parents.

Lesson for January 11.
Jesus, as to personality, was divine and yet his human nature developed in the normal way. He waxed strong in body, was filled with wisdom, and God's grace was upon him. Though conscious of his deity, he lived a life of filial obedience.

Lesson for January 18.
John the Baptist came in fulfillment of prophecy, calling upon men to prepare for the coming of the Messiah by repenting of their sins. Baptism was the appointed sign of their repentance. With fine humility, John turned the attention of the people from himself to Christ.

Lesson for January 25.
Jesus was led into the wilderness by the Holy Spirit to be tempted of the Devil. His temptation was Messianic. The purpose was to demonstrate the reality of the incarnation. Jesus went from the place of anointing and heavenly recognition as the Son of God to meet and to spoil the enemy of God and man (Heb. 2:14).

Lesson for February 1.
Jesus demonstrated his power over various diseases and over demons, thus displaying his Lordship. Even while demonstrating his mighty power, he operated through benevolent channels.

Lesson for February 8.
Jesus made clear to the disciples that they would be hated and opposed as they went out into the world with his message. Those who follow Christ must expect opposition and suffering.

Lesson for February 15.
Jesus is the friend of sinners. There is no one so steeped in sin as to be shut out from him. Christ came into the world "to seek and to save that which was lost."

Lesson for February 22.
Jesus' supreme mission was to make known the good news of salvation to a lost world. In spite of the good seed sown by him, only a small portion brought forth full fruitage owing to the unfavorable condition of the soil.

Lesson for March 1.
The greatness of the harvest—man's lost condition moved Jesus to ask the disciples to pray the Lord to thrust out laborers. The real force back of missionary endeavor is prayer. When the church begins to pray about missions, there will be missionaries and money to sustain them.

Lesson for March 8.
The parable of the Good Samaritan shows who is my neighbor and what being a neighbor means. My neighbor is the man needing my help, whether next door or across the world. Being a neighbor is the most important thing for me. To be a neighbor means to be on the lookout for those in need and to give sympathetically the needed help.

Lesson for March 15.
The Bethany home was always open to the Lord. Jesus will come into such homes as will give him welcome. The inspiration of the Bethany home must have greatly helped Jesus as he went out to meet his foes. It is the inspiration of the home which gives men courage to go out and fight the battles of life.

Lesson for March 22.
The parable of the rich fool shows the peril of allowing the heart to be set upon even the fruits of legitimate toil. To seek gold and thus forget God is to play the fool.
The next quarter continues the lessons from the gospel by Luke.

Our Love to God
Our love to God brings us a gleam in earth's darkness to show us whither we are going. It keeps us in sympathy with God's work everywhere. It is our enlistment in the army of good will toward men.—Isaac Edwards.

Men of Genius
Men of genius are often dull and inert in society, as a blazing meteor when it descends to earth, is only a stone.—Longfellow.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child, Castoria—made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.
That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there are disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Plenty of Thrills in This Airplane Runaway

Several years ago one heard of runaway horses. Today we have runaway airplanes—at least at the Ciampino airfield, near Rome. A huge Caproni machine was basking empty in the sun, all set for a trial flight, when its mechanic, who had set the motor going slowly, was surprised to see the plane moving forward.

A few more seconds of awed hesitancy and the machine began to slide along the ground more rapidly, covered about 100 yards, gently rose from the field and headed straight for the barracks. Bewildered spectators foresaw an inevitable collision, but the robot Caproni made the grade, rose a bit higher and began a series of acrobatics which the most daring stunt birdman might have envied.

After a few moments the wind caught it and it was seen to turn on one side and dive to the earth in flames. Aviators, in discussing the incident, conjectured that the mechanic accidentally opened the petrol lever as he was jumping out of the cockpit.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are best for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.—Adv.

His Last Name
A primary teacher was enrolling the names of her pupils. One lad said his name was Bobby. The teacher inquired what was his last name. "The kids called me 'Smart Alec,'" replied the lad.

"BACON AND COFFEE ALWAYS UPSET MY STOMACH"

BACON and coffee—what a delightful combination—but they often cause heartburn, indigestion, gas—the "umey" feeling. Most everyone has some favorite foods that disagree. Here's a pleasant new way for quick relief. Just eat Tums, the delicious new Antacid mints that neutralize acid conditions—sweeten breath—and heartburn, sour stomach, gas, acid indigestion. Munch a few Tums after meals and stop trouble before it starts. Get a handy roll today. At all druggists. Only 10c.

Where It Was
Bobby—Button, button, who's got the button?
Jimmy—The laundryman.

No one will be tolerant toward an opinion that he thinks dangerous.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.
Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.
I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at the present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drugstore in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back—Adv.

SORENESS ALL OVER

"I was in a run-down condition and suffering with my back and sides," says Mrs. M. M. Cook, of Fort Payne, Ala. "The pain in my side was so great it caused a soreness all through my body. I was reading the newspaper and saw Cardui advertised. I thought it might help me. After my first bottle, I felt better. I took another, after which I was greatly improved, so much so that I have recommended Cardui since."

COLDS ARE CATCHING—get rid of yours by taking S.E. Joseph's Lax-ana (double strength). Overnight results. Combines best medicines with effective laxatives. For sale at drug stores everywhere.
