Wife Admits Poisoning Her Husband

A TERRELL COUNTY PRISONER PROVES TO BE MAN OF MANY ALIASES

Committed Thefts In Texas and Ark.

Robert Wells, who has been confined here in jail for several months for the theft of a Chevrolet sedan from Seth Breeding, has been identified and connected with several other car thefts, and also has been using several aliases according to information given out this week by Eugene Parker, Department of Justice agent from San Antonio.

The Department of Justice has been working on this for some time and upon the arrival of Mr. Parker from San Antonio last Thursday, he presented new evidence before county attorney Creigh. Wells was then confronted with Parker and made a statement before both Creigh and Parker. He admitted his true name to be Ivey Rankin Bostick and he was born in Romney, Eastland county, Texas, on January 10, 1913. His parents now reside at Aransas Pass and are prominent people. Since he has left his home on June 15, 1930, he has stolen cars in Victoria and Pine Bluff, Ark., and was held for investigation at McCamey. The Ford roadster that he stole in June, 1930, at Victoria was sold about a month later to a J. E. Bean in Elk City, Okla. He was tried in Weatherford for the stealing of a Chrysler coupe, this being the car he stole in Arkansas. He was tried under the name of Ivey Johnson and was given a five year suspended sentence.

He has used the alias of Ace Rankin, Ivey Johnson and Robert Wells, the name he gave when he was caught with the Chevrolet sedan of Breeding's that he stole here on the night of February 22.

During the short period of his crime career, he had become an expert, and knew how to give bills of sale to his stolen cars. He claims that his occupation is that of an auto mechanic.

Claude Elliott, claiming Boise, Idaho, his home, who was with Wells when the Breeding car was stolen, also made a statement. He told of meeting up with Bostick or alias Wells, at Del Rio and of the two riding into here on a freight train and going to a cafe to eat. He stated that Wells told him of stealing cars and that he had made out two or three bills of sales. He also told Elliott that he had been finger printed once at Rankin on suspicion of a post office robbery but was released and did not state where the post office was located. This is the first time that Elliott has been in trouble so he says.

After stealing Breeding's car here the two men went to Girvin where they broke into a filling station for gas, then to McCamey, Rankin, and finally to Kerrville and from there to Leakey where they were caught.

Miss Bess Chyle Leath spent the week-end in Alpine visiting relatives.

New Law On Auto Sales In Effect

Three Copies of All Bills of Sale is Required

A new law, effective April 1, concerning the filing of bills of sales and transfers of automobiles by dealers and individuals, is now in effect.

After April 1, three copies of sale, and applications for transfers must be made out. One copy goes to the tax collector, one to the State highway department and the third to the purchaser of the vehicle involved.

If the bill of sale or transfers are filed within 10 days from date of transaction, a fee of only 25 cents will be assessed. Thereafter and before 20 days from date of transaction, the fee and penalty will be $2.50 and the fee and penalty after 20 days from date of transaction will be $5, the tax collector explained.

Under the new law, bills of sale and applications for transfers must be signed before a notary public. In the past, signatures of two witnesses only were required but this has been deleted in the new law.

Although the new law affecting bills of sale and applications for transfer of cars or vehicles became effective April 1, due to lack of new forms in the tax collector's offices all bills of sale and transfer applications dated before April 1 will be charged at the old rates of $1 fees. All sales after April 1 will be accepted at the new 25-cent fee if they are presented within 10 days. After that period has elapsed, the 20-day penalties will be assessed.

All people having bills of sales dated before April 1 should have them filed immediately to avoid paying penalties as these will be assessed after the new forms are received.

Baseball Team Assured Sanderson

American Legion Backed By Business Firms to Sponsor Team

The regular monthly meeting of the Clarence Hallie Mulkey Post of the American Legion was held last Thursday evening at the Court House.

At this meeting the Post decided that they would be sponsors for the baseball club and appointed committees to act. Bill Vaughn was appointed secretary and treasurer for the ball club. C. V. McKnight, Tom Breeding and Fred Yeates will have full charge of arranging for games, advertising the games and to see that transportation is provided for the players when they play away from here.

Some time ago the various business firms and interested individuals pledged financial support and enough was subscribed so that a pitcher will be hired. Most all of the other players will be home boys.

In the past Sanderson has had good ball teams and they have always had the support of the town people. This year should be no exceptions and all fans are looking forward to a good team. The season was well started when Sunday the home boys played their first game, playing Ft. Stockton and winning 9 to 0.

The Legion Post also decided at this meeting that they would hold their regular monthly dance tomorrow night, Saturday May 16.

Band Gave Last Concert Friday

On last Friday afternoon at the Kerr Park the Sanderson high school band gave their last open air concert for this school term. The large crowd out enjoyed the concert very much and at the close of the concert many expressed to Mr. Sandifer their appreciation of what he has done in the band work this year.

This is Sanderson's first year to have a band and Mr. Sandifer has certainly proved his ability as a director. It is with regret that he is unable to stay for the summer as now with the fine progress that the boys have made it seems a pity that they can't carry on their concerts during the vacation.

Our first band is one to be proud of as well as its first director, M. K. Sandifer.

Baccalaureate Services Last Sunday

Baccalaureate services for the senior class was held Sunday morning at the high school. One of the largest crowds ever to attend services were out that morning to hear the program and the sermon as given by Rev. Ira Harrison pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The following program was carried out: invocation, Rev. Stradley; responsive to invocation, Ladies Choral Club; song by congregation; scripture reading; song by girl's glee club; benediction, Rev. Griffith.

In a very forceful manner Rev. Harrison delivered his sermon to the graduates and stressed to them their opportunities that lie before them. His sermon was well to the point and enjoyed not only by the senior classes but by the audience as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Landon Rose and son Hugh who ranch near Dryden spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lowe.

Broadcasting Station at Villa Acuna

The regular monthly meeting of the commissioners court met on Monday and Tuesday of this week and attended to the regular monthly bills and business that came before the court.

They also met as a board of equalization and approved the renditions of the tax assessor, Jim Nance. The following valuation was set by the commissioners at this meeting on lands and live stock: Land north of the G. H. & S. A. track, $150 an acre; all land south of the track, $1.25 an acre. Mineral rights, 15c; mineral lease, 10c. At their June meeting they consider any protest against any raises that they have made in renditions of property, stock, etc.

Students Win Recognition in Piano

Miss Myrtle Harrell, accompanied by several of her music pupils, her mother, Mrs. J. B. Harrell, and Miss Martha Vernon Robinson, motored to Alpine last Saturday where a piano tournament was held. This tournament marked the close of the observance of music week.

Bess McAdams, one of Miss Harrell's advance pupils won first place in high school Bach event, and second place in modern composition. In the grade school Dorothy Llewellyn won second place in Schumann event. Marie Milam and Mary Ferguson won honorable mention. In the contest which Mary Ferguson entered she had to compete with pupils that had seven to eight and one-half years of music.

Miss Martha Vernon Robinson was one of the judges.

The towns of Sanderson, Alpine, and Ft. Davis were represented. Both Alpine and Ft. Davis won several events.

Keck-Pecos People to Resume Drilling

The Keck-Pecos test well situated near Lozier canyon in the eastern part of this county and which has been shut down for some time, will resume operations again in about two weeks.

August B. Thunberg, secretary and treasurer of the newly organized company, The Trans Pecos Development Company, was here last Thursday on business connected with the well. In an interview with the editor of this paper, Mr. Thunberg stated that all indebtedness on the well had been paid, and that all of the old officials connected with the Keck-Pecos Trust Company had been dismissed. A new set of officials and board of directors are now in charge and have ample funds to drill and make tests. He stated that if necessary they will drill to a depth of 6,000 feet and have all faith and confidence in the well. The new company believes that oil is there and are willing to spend money to get it.

The new developers of this well are the ones that recently brought in the wells at Creigh-hagen Hills, Calif.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE DRAWS A LARGE CROWD

The Mother's Day program by the music committee of the First Methodist Church, and directed by Mrs. Kathrine McLymont Sunday evening at the Methodist Church, drew an overflow crowd, many being turned away because of there being no standing room.

The special music numbers were: A male quartet, directed by Carlton White; a duet by Miss Noble and Mrs. McLymont; a solo by Miss Noble, a solo by H. C. Goldwire, and a trumpet solo by Prof. Sandifer.

The junior board of stewards of the Methodist Church presented both the Senior Mother and the Junior Mother of the church morocco bound testaments and Psalms, Mrs. J. W. Savage being the senior, and Mrs. A. L. Utterback the junior mothers.

While these two mothers stood at the altar, Allen Owen led 160 voices in singing Mat Bradley's poem, "Mother," to the tune of Rock of Ages.

Rev. Stradley preached on the dedication of childhood and home consecration, which message reached the hearts of the homes of Sanderson, as the fathers and mothers present came forward after the service to shake his hand with "God bless you, this is what Sanderson needs."

This was one of the most telling Mother's Day services ever held in Sanderson, and one which will long bless our community.

Young Mother Tells of Giving Strychnine

Is Held In County Jail Without Bail

What seems to be another Snyder-Gray murder case was brought to light here when late last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Bessie Mae Rivers Sharp, 20, and the mother of a 19 months old son, and Willie Burleson, 30, both of this county, were charged with the death of Mrs. Sharp's husband, W. Telefus Sharp, which occurred here Sunday a week ago.

Their arrest followed word from Austin that Sharp had been poisoned. Following the death of the boy, and from remarks overheard by relatives, they decided to have the viscera of Sharp sent to Austin to determine if he was poisoned.

Three Poison Doses

According to testimony given to the district attorney, Julian LaCrosse, and County Attorney Al Creigh and other officers, during the all night session wherein she confessed Thursday night, the first dose of poison was administered on Tuesday, April 28, when she placed about a half teaspoonful of strychnine in a cup of cocoa. However, Telefus only tasted the drink and would not take any more as it was so bitter. He was sick from this and it was the next morning that she again gave him another dose, this time putting it in castor oil. He was rushed into town several hours later for medical aid. He responded to medical treatment by Dr. Utterback and by Saturday was able to be about town. Sunday he and Mrs. Sharp returned to the Big Canon Ranch where Telefus was employed. That afternoon he asked her to give him a dose of salts. Preparing the salts she then slipped in another half teaspoonful of the poison and soon afterwards he became very ill. He was again rushed into town but failed to rally to medical aid and died about 11:30 p. m. that night.

Wanted Freedom

The motive for the murder according to the confession, which was very lengthy, was to clear up an illicit love episode of several months standing between Mrs. Sharp and Burleson. She maintains that Burleson suggested that strychnine be used as the swiftest method of getting rid of her husband. Burleson however denies this, saying he wanted her to get a divorce. He did admit that he conducted illicit relationship with her.

As she related the administering of the poison to her husband, which ultimately killed him, Bessie Sharp seemed very cold and utterly unemotional. In fact she has never showed to be the grief stricken woman that she appeared at his funeral.

On Friday she went with the officers to the ranch and carried them to the spot where she threw the bottle that had contained the poison. Still she held the calm reserve that she has had since her arrest.

Examining Trial For Burleson

Examining trial was held for Burleson Tuesday afternoon. Only two persons were put on the witness stand, these being H. Q. Sharp and county attorney Al Creigh. Sharp was put on

Chicken Chop Suey Is a Welcome Dish

Chicken Chop Suey Is Quite Delicious.

Perhaps you have always thought of chop suey as a dish that is too unusual and foreign to prepare at home. As a matter of fact, chop suey is unknown in China; it originated in Chinatown in San Francisco, in an attempt to give visitors something out of the ordinary. It is made with such Chinese ingredients as water nuts, bamboo shoots, bean sprouts, soy sauce and often dried mushrooms, as well as chicken or pork, but a very good dish closely resembling the original chop suey in flavor may be made with vegetables that are common in most American localities. Soy sauce is sold in a great many groceries, and the chop suey will be almost perfect in flavor if you can get it. If not, Worcestershire sauce will do. Soy sauce contains a good deal of salt, so the amount of salt needed in your chop suey will depend on which kind of sauce you have.

Why not invite your friends or family to try a Chinese supper some evening? If you have any Chinese accessories or decorations, so much the better. At least, you can make chicken chop suey and rice the main attraction, with preserved ginger for dessert. The Chinese do not use bread and butter, because they have the rice, but you may serve it if your family prefers. The vegetables on which we depend for vitamins are incorporated in the chop suey-onions and celery. The recipe below is from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

- 1 fowl, weighing 4 to 4 1/2 lbs.
- 1 cup of shredded onion-tops.
- 1 cup of shredded celery.
- 1 green pepper, shredded.
- 1 cup of chicken broth.
- 1 tsp. cornstarch.
- 2 cups sliced Jerusalem artichokes.
- 4 the soy sauce.
- 2 the fat.
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt.
- 1/2 tsp. sugar.
- 1/2 tsp. pepper.
- 1/2 cup cold water.

Put the fowl on a rack in a kettle, half fill with boiling water, cover tightly, and simmer until the meat is nearly tender. Let cool in the broth, remove the meat from the bones, dis-

Hints for Housekeepers

Dried fruits are some of the best confections for the children because the sweet is less concentrated.

Prevent rusting in the oven by leaving the oven door ajar for an hour after baking to allow any moisture to vaporize.

Pastry improves by chilling, so after the dough is mixed, wrap it in waxed paper and keep it in the refrigerator a few hours.

Mattresses will last longer and be more comfortable if they are turned frequently, sunned and cleaned with a brush or vacuum cleaner brush attachment.

Story for the Children at Bedtime

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"What in the world is the trouble?" asked a squirrel with a bushy tail, who happened to be near a place in the woods where he saw a little girl was crying.

"My name is Mahalla," said the little girl, "and I've lost my—oh, oh, oh, I've lost my—then she sobbed and sobbed and couldn't say another word. Pretty soon one of them said: 'Let's ask our old friend, Mr. Giant, to suggest some way of stopping Mahalla from crying.'

"Oh," said Mahalla between her sobs, "he may eat me up and stop my crying that way. But I've lost—" and then she burst out crying again.

"Dear me, no," said the squirrel, who had suggested the giant. "He is the kindest giant you can imagine."

All the other squirrels who had come around, too, to see what was the trouble, said:

"Bushy Squirrel is perfectly right. What he says is so. The Giant is very kind."

"Yes," continued the first squirrel who had spoken to her, or Bushy Squirrel, as he was called, "he is our best friend. He lives in a cave just a little way off, and whenever we go to call on him he gives us nuts to eat and sends home nuts to our mothers and fathers.

"He tells us wonderful stories of his adventures. He's as big as the cave but he can curl up way inside where none of the real people will bother him.

their apparent simplicity no matter how sophisticated, in reality, that simplicity may be. And so the style-wise graduate will be receiving her diploma gown in quaint dotted swiss of crisp organdie or fine embroidered batiste this season.

organdies which to see is to covet. For the graduating frock we can think of nothing prettier than white, or if preferred, flesh-colored allover embroidered organdie. Of course it must have a full neckline with fitted hip-line, however, for that is the "trick" in dressmaking this season, to accent a slender silhouette with a sprightly flare commencing above the knees. The normal waistline of this youthful gown will be defined with a girlish sash. The sleeves will be either little puffs or perhaps a ruffle or two or suggested by a bertha or capelet.

Later this charming dress will go dancing in the moonlight or, topped with a wide-brimmed sunnery hat, it will appear at garden parties.

It is rather difficult for the girl selecting material for her graduating frock to choose between embroidered and plain organdie which is lace-trimmed, the latter to be worn over a taffeta slip. Clever things are being done with lace and organdie, one of which is posing the crisp transparent weave over a lace foundation slip. The graduating frock being white would be mounted over white lace, but for the party dress the organdie is apt to be any lovely tint and the lace underneath should be a perfect match.

The attractive organdie gown pictured has a simplicity about it which tunes in charmingly to the graduating scene. This dainty dress features bands of lace artfully inset so as to form a front panel in the skirt, the double cape repeating this trimming.

Doughnuts and Refreshments Popular

Good tender doughnuts, freshly made, are useful for innumerable occasions where simple refreshments are called for. At church societies and other community gatherings something inexpensive but popular is usually served, and doughnuts, with a beverage of some sort, answer this need admirably. When a chance caller comes during the late afternoon, doughnuts with coffee are much appreciated. After the evening "four-some" at cards, doughnuts and a fruit drink are appropriate.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below for doughnuts. The ingredients given make about 40.

- Doughnuts.
- 1 cup milk.
 - 1/2 cup sifted soft-wheat flour.
 - 1 tsp. fat.
 - 2 eggs.
 - 1/2 tsp. baking powder.
 - 1 cup sugar.
 - 2 tsp. salt.
 - 1/2 tsp. cinnamon.
 - 1/4 tsp. nutmeg.

Place the fat in a warm place until it becomes soft, though not melted. Combine with the sugar. Stir in the beaten egg yolks, and add alternately the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, and the milk. Add around, and down behind a fern was the missing basket with the strawberries.

Then the Giant and all the squirrels set to work and gathered many wild strawberries so that Mahalla's basket was filled when she left them.

She loved wild strawberries almost better than any fruit and she was very happy about having such a lot of them.

The giant was happy because he had proved to one more little girl that a giant could be a dear, friendly soul, and the squirrels were happy that they had been the ones to bring all this about.

So you see, although the story began with tears, it ended very happily.

Good Things for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"Suppose that this here vessel," says the skipper with a groan, "should lose her bearings, run away and bump upon a stone. Suppose she'd shiver and go down when we've ourselves we couldn't!"

The mate replies, "Oh, blow me eyes! Suppose, as 'in, she shouldn't."

—Wallace Irwin.

There is no dinner dish that is more popular, if we except chicken, than Baked Ham—

Soak a ham over night. In the morning put it into a kettle with one onion, one carrot, six peppercorns, one bay leaf, six cloves and water to cover. Simmer for three or four hours until tender. Remove the skin and stick with whole cloves; bake in a roasting pan, basting with the ham liquid and elder, using half of each. When the ham is well done stir some brown sugar into the elder sauce and spread all over the ham and brown. Serve hot with the liquor from the pan for sauce.

Deviled Lobster.—Cook three tablespoons of onion, one tablespoonful of green pepper, three tablespoonfuls of butter very slowly until tender. Add one and one-half cupfuls of lobster meat and sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful each of mustard, salt and paprika to taste, with a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a cupful of cream. Cook a minute or two. Place in ramekins or shells and bake well covered with buttered crumbs.

Fig Cake.—Beat three egg whites with one-half cupful of sugar and add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat three egg yolks with one-half cupful of sugar, the grated rind of an orange, a teaspoonful of baking powder sifted twice with a cupful of flour, add three tablespoonfuls of orange juice and fold in the egg mixture. Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a cakepan, add one-half cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of chopped figs and a sprinkling of broken pecans. Pour over this the cake mixture and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. When done turn upside down and serve with whipped cream. Stewed apricots, canned pineapple or any fruit desired may be used for this delicious cake dessert.

Deviled Chicken.—Prepare a sauce of salt, pepper, dry mustard, parika, grated lemon peel, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of tabasco sauce. Add a lump of butter when the sauce is at the boiling point. Now add cubes of cooked chicken and serve when well heated through.

Vienna Steak.—Take one-half pound each of veal and beef finely chopped, season well with salt, pepper and onion juice, with a grating of nutmeg and a little lemon juice. Cook over coals or under gas from eight to ten minutes. Serve with creamed butter and paprika spread over each steak. Parsley may be used if preferred. A very hot frying pan if lightly greased may be used instead of the broiler.

Stuffed Dill Pickles.—Take two large dill pickles and core the long way with an apple corer. Fill the centers with seasoned cheese and use them as a garnish for a canape.

To cream butter easily scald the bowl before using.

Vegetable Stew Makes Complete Meal

A substantial stew made of several different vegetables is liked for change once in a while. When it is served on toast it is almost a meal in itself. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture recommends the method of make it described below. The children will enjoy a savory vegetable stew for a mid-day lunch, and it will be good for them.

- 1 cup diced salt pork
- 2 cups diced potato
- 2 cups diced rutabaga
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 small onion
- 1/2 tsp. sage
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Fry the diced salt pork until crisp. Remove the pork and some of the fat from the skillet and brown the onion and rutabaga in the remaining fat. Add the potato, salt, sage, and water. Cover and simmer until the rutabaga is tender. Remove the cover and cook until the stew has thickened somewhat. Add the browned salt pork, pepper, and more salt if needed. Serve with crisp toast.

Gingersnaps That Will Retain Crispness

If the family likes ginger snaps you can make them sometimes at home by the recipe below, from the bureau of home economics. These ginger snaps should be kept in a tightly closed tin to retain their crispness.

- 1 cup molasses.
- 1/2 cup butter or other fat.
- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour.
- 1/2 tsp. soda.
- 2 lbs. sugar.
- 1 to 2 the ginger.
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt.

Heat the molasses to the boiling point, and pour it over the fat. Dissolve the soda in a tablespoonful of water. Add this and the sifted dry ingredients to the molasses and fat. Mix well and make into a long roll as large around as the cookies are to be. Wrap this roll of dough in waxed paper and put in a cold place to chill for several hours or overnight. The dough must be cold through and through to cut properly. When ready to bake, cut the roll into very thin slices with a sharp knife and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until lightly browned. Remove from the pan while hot.

Believe It or Not
Truth is stranger than fiction. Ripley, the cartoonist, has proved that. The great success of his newspaper feature is no doubt due to the fact that people enjoy unusual information. The fact that "St. Joseph's" is now the largest selling genuine pure aspirin in the world for 10¢ is of decided interest to people everywhere because they immediately realize that it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more than this price for twelve tablets of genuine pure aspirin. More than nine million boxes of St. Joseph's Aspirin have been sold in a single year with the result that the medical profession as well as the public fully realize that "St. Joseph's" is not only genuine aspirin but is also as pure as money can buy, meeting every government standard. When you buy aspirin, ask your druggist for St. Joseph's Genuine Pure Aspirin in the orange and black striped St. Joseph's package.

'THE LONG ARM'

By FANNIE HURST

THE long arm of coincidence pokes its way into human destinies and does strange things.

There is something always a little unconvincing about a story based on the uncertain sands of coincidence, yet life is filled on all sides with striking examples of such circumstances.

Coincidence undoubtedly played a major role in the lives and destinies of old Colonel Harbor, his son Raymond and a lively young woman named Shirley Lang.

When Shirley was twenty-two, married to a young engineer named Robert Lang, and living with him in a small city in Pennsylvania, she took a short trip to a nearby resort known as Brown's Glen.

It was therefore true to form that on her visit to Brown's Glen Shirley Lang should meet and become interested in the gentle and sagacious personality of old Colonel Harbor.

Like most old people, he took an immediate fancy to Shirley Lang. She did not treat him with the usual kind of deference that ground into his consciousness the fact that age had slanted him to life's sidelines.

When Shirley's husband came down week-ends, she showed him off proudly to the old gentleman and he in turn never tired of taking her into the confidence of his own story.

It was with real regret that the old colonel and young Shirley saw the placid weeks at Brown's Glen come to an end.

Unfortunately, these well-meant intentions were never to be carried out beyond the two weeks following the visit of the new-made friends to Brown's Glen.

old gentleman and a young girl which had taken place during a pair of weeks in a quiet old country spot among the foothills of Pennsylvania.

The long arm of coincidence, its moving finger seeming to write, now swings through time and space.

Ten years later, a trim, capable, alert-eyed woman in her early thirties is seated in a restaurant in a busy business section of New York city, lunching with another alert young woman of her same type.

Life for Shirley has been a quick panorama since those days which she spent in recuperation at Brown's Glen. Her marriage, which threatened, toward the end, to turn into disappointment, was abruptly spared what might have been disruption by the sudden death of her husband in a motor accident.

Two tables removed, a youngish man, dining with one considerably older, forces, with a reiteration that is annoying, his bold dark glance against the eyes of Shirley Lang.

Shirley Lang, whose experience along these lines has been a long and bitter one, meets his eyes with a cold glitter in her own. She is annoyed, even a little disgusted.

Her annoyance is so apparent that the young man, laughingly invited by a nod from Shirley's companion, crosses over in the mood of apology.

It was all so simple. Of course, according to the writing finger of the long arm of coincidence, the man was Raymond Harbor.

The wooing and mating of Shirley and Raymond is not the point of this story.

So much for the pattern of the situation. Scarcely the one to catch up the thread of these two lives into the same fabric. An old colonel at peace in his grave might have chuckled at the weaving fingers of time.

A pair of lives had drifted together in much the fashion that most human beings find out their mates, and yet the fact that Shirley had known the father of Raymond, back in the days when an old man delighted in her youth, makes the meeting seem a little unreal.

Just any two, glancing, quickening, uniting after a glance or two in a public place, is romance, Shirley and Raymond, glancing, quickening, uniting after a glance or two in a public place, is coincidence.

But in any event, none of these considerations were to mar the meeting. It all came about quickly, rightly, and with the irrepresible velocity of a gale.

Machines That Are Almost Human

By E. C. TAYLOR

The Thought Transmitter

DO YOU believe in mental telepathy? In the power of one individual to transfer his thoughts to the brain of another, without speaking the words?

Science has approached such a phenomenon. A device has been perfected that enables speech, not thought, to be projected into a chosen brain by the mere pointing of a finger.

Scientists call the device a thought transmitter, however, since it is the speaker's thoughts that are transmitted, although they are put into the form of words before they are conveyed to the other person.

In any vast crowd, enveloped by an immense silence, it is possible for an operator of the electrostatic projection machine to put words into the mind of a chosen subject merely by grasping the handle of the machine and pointing his finger at the ear of the subject.

The device has been demonstrated to scientists and others throughout the country by Sergius P. Grace, assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

At the New York demonstration Doctor Grace hooked up the machine, grasped a terminal and pointed a forefinger at the subject's ears.

In Chicago, Doctor Grace, before 1,000 members of the Illinois Manufacturers association, spoke into a telephone transmitter and by means of an amplifier what he said could be heard all over the room.

After being stored four and a half seconds, this electrical current was transformed to high voltage and passed into Doctor Grace's body.

This amazing feat, Doctor Grace explained, was due to the ear drum and surrounding tissues being made to act as one plate of a condenser receiver, the resulting vibrations of the ear being interpreted by the brain as speech.

This electrostatic projection apparatus in its present rudimentary form, however, is still only a scientist's plaything, Doctor Grace explained, but it opens a wide field for useful machines built on the same principle.

Another device, demonstrated by Doctor Grace at the same two gatherings, has since been placed in use in telephone exchanges.

Carrying a telephone into the room, Doctor Grace requested a member of the audience to dial any number. The spectator dialed a number and two seconds later a loud speaker in the room, in a clear, human voice, spoke the number and exchange dialed.

The device "scrambles" any speech sent over the radio apparatus. This "scrambled" speech is ordinary speech with the frequencies, or tones, reversed, so that the high frequencies become low and the low frequencies become high.

Another newly invented device attached to the radio receiving apparatus at the other end "unscrambles" the reversed speech and it is heard in the form in which it originally was spoken.

Plan Prevention of Soil Erosion

Nationwide Fight Against Evil Is Now Taking Definite Form.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture J.—WNU Service.)

The United States Department of Agriculture's nationwide campaign against soil erosion is now taking definite form in the practical erosion-prevention work of the first regional erosion stations which have been established in widely separated areas from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Doctor Knight visited the erosion stations of the department at Bethany, Mo., and at Pullman, Wash., where the necessary equipment has been installed and where sheet erosion or run-off is being measured on experimental plots.

The need of soil erosion prevention, says Doctor Knight, has been forcibly brought to the attention of Utah farmers by a recent cloudburst which cut great canyons in the old lake shore of Salt Lake and covered a considerable acreage of fertile irrigated land with debris, sand, and boulders.

Doctor Knight visited the state agricultural experiment stations in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Washington, Montana, and in North Dakota and South Dakota.

Substitution of Ground Wheat for Corn or Milo Wheat for corn or milo in the laying mash and of ground or rolled whole wheat for honying feed, milo chop or ground barley in certain dairy feeds was approved by the Texas college feed conference board in session at the A. and M. College of Texas recently.

Substitutions approved for dairy feeds were listed as follows: 1. Nineteen per cent protein dairy feed with limestone-ground or rolled whole wheat may be substituted for honying feed, milo chop or ground barley in amounts not to exceed 20 per cent of the mixture.

Annuals and Biennials of Weeds Hard to Kill An immense quantity of seed is produced by some weeds, especially by annuals and biennials, the resulting pollution of the soil requiring years of cleaning, even if no more plants are allowed to go to seed.

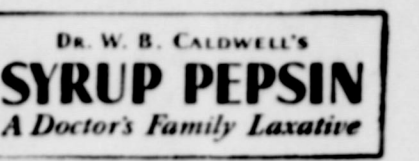

Legume Inoculants Recent tests at the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., indicate a wide variation in the quality of legume inoculants on the market.

More Truth Than Poetry

The editor of one of our exchanges very truthfully remarks: "An editor can always write cheerily on the business interests of his town when his columns are liberally filled with the advertisements of local business firms. No editor can advocate the doctrine of buying from home merchants unless these same merchants show they are interested in catering to home trade by advertising in the columns of their local newspaper. It is also depressing to the editor to find business men patronizing every advertising fake scheme that comes along when at the same time the names of those business men are rarely, if ever, seen in the advertising columns of the local newspaper." — Greenville Advocate.

The ranch country in Terrell and Pecos counties is soaked so thoroughly that springs have opened on the hillsides and clear water trickles down wheel tracks like it comes from a garden hose, says J. C. Cunningham, just back from that territory. Physical conditions never have been as good as now during the six years he has been in the Girvin and Sheffield country. Three thousand sheep have been sheared on Mr. Cunningham's Terrell county ranch, which is operated by his brother, Dick Cunningham. Shearing of about 3,000 sheep on the Pecos county ranch near Girvin will start about May 20. Mr. Cunningham's son, Winfred, is in charge of that place. — San Angelo Standard.

TERRELL COUNTY OIL AND MINING NEWS

This county is receiving quite a play along the line of drilling developments with seven test wells going down for oil and gas, with one of them already having a tremendous flow of natural gas with such a rock pressure that the oil is in all probability being held back in the sands.

A geologist from the state of Oklahoma just arrived from making an inspection trip on the J. Calvin Stansell ranch in this county and brought in lots of fossils and fragments of rocks and minerals which has been classified by paleontologists of considerable reputation as follows: Calcite, gypsum, iron concretions, copper, native and carbonate; fossils: Washita division of lower Cretaceous; Pelecypods, Exogyra Costata, Exogyra Ariantina (common in Del Rio), Lima Wacoensis, Pecten Texanus, Gastropods, Tylostona (Lunatic) piederanlis, Echinoida, Memiaster bexari, Enallustexanus, and some limestone rocks and shale with some asphalt.

The University of Texas, Bureau of Economic Geology at Austin, Texas, has given a local citizen an opinion on a sample of finely powdered limestone coming off of the E. W. Hardgrave ranch in this county as being Calcium Carbonate and states that it is useful on acid soils.

A small pebble of igneous origin which may have been transported from a long distance was recently found along the Rio Grande river bed on the G. J. Henshaw ranch, which was submitted to a famous paleontologist of the state of Oklahoma, who reports that this sample contains some black mica or biotite, and further states in order to determine all of the other minerals accurately would require a thin section which would take considerable time and be expensive. Another paleontologist who is visiting in this city at the present time states that after inspecting a piece of the iron, magnesium, potassium and aluminum and possibly other minerals. There is probably enough of this float along the Rio Grande river bed to be mined in commercial quantities.

POWELL PITCHES A FOUR HIT GAME AGAINST MARATHON

Last Saturday the Marathon Methodist Community Church and the First Methodist Church of Sanderson, with a few special invited guests from each community, met mid-way between the towns for an afternoon of fellowship, ending with a barbecue.

Between two and three hundred people attended. The first main attraction of the afternoon was a baseball game between the junior Sunday school class of Sanderson and the intermediate class of Marathon, the Sanderson Sunday school team averaging eight years in age, and the Marathon Sunday school class averaging 14 years in age. Rev. R. E. Griffith, minister of the Church of Christ of Sanderson, managed the Methodist boys while the Methodist pastor, Rev. B. M. Stradley, umpired the game.

The pastor of the Church of Christ showed his master hand by working the bases clear each time with pinch hitters, while the Marathon boys were always left on bases, therefore, the little boys won by a score of 10 to 9.

Stokes Sharp, Loyd Utterback and Bennie Stradley, along with Capt. Bobbie Lea, starred for Sanderson. Utterback and Stradley pilfered three bases each, scored two runs each, and played air-tight in the outer garden. Capt. Lea received four put-outs at second without a bobble. Sharp at third made five lightning assists and long pegs to nail his man every spot. The Methodists in these four boys have a trio difficult to cope with on the diamond, for they are dynamic on the offensive and foxy on the defense.

In the second game, W. A. Powell let the hard hitting Marathon team down with four clean bingles and no earned runs, but his support was ragged at all positions, his infield alone making nine bobbles, and Rev. B. M. Stradley umpiring, called strikes too quick when Powell's fast ball carried a quick hop so it was evident the umpire missed a few which gave Powell a rather hard break.

The Marathon team played without a bobble and Earl Parker on the mound using nothing but a straight ball and a slight change of pace, has what all pitchers crave, viz: perfect control and nerve at all times, mixing them and cutting the corners. Marathon won this game 11 to 0.

The third game was the old-timers, with Dr. J. A. Ludlam on the mound for Marathon, and Dick Arnold behind the bat; F. S. Garrison on the mound and John Nichols behind the plate for Sanderson.

Sanderson got one man on first base on a perfect bunt, but Marathon never got a man on base, as with Garrison's curve ball snapping the corners it was three up and three down, both pitchers ending strong, striking out the last three men on nine balls.

This pitching feat is something to make the hair of all fans stand straight, and when Dr. Ludlam struck out his last man on a sweeping outside curve ball all horns of the 18 Marathon cars were honking. Then when Marathon put in three pinch hitters to face Garrison in the last half with the score nothing to nothing, the 18 Marathon auto horns began to toot and the Marathon fans began to yell, "here goes this old ball game," but Garrison, with his broad smile and rattleless upper member, struck out the three pinch hitters on nine balls, and when Mr. Umps yelled with thumb out to the last man "you are out," 38 auto horns went into action, and the two to three hundred people piled out to shake the hand of the old-timer with his foxy old soup bone still working.

The baseball tournament ending tied: Sanderson won 1, lost 1 and tied 1; Marathon won 1, lost 1 and tied 1.

The afternoon fellowship was enjoyed by all. At 6:30 p. m. it was a beautiful sight to see between two and three hundred regular church attendants, along with the preachers of the various denominations as special invited guests, around the barbecue and picnic spread.

Rev. B. M. Stradley umpired all three games and gave satisfaction with the exception of calling Powell's snappy curves which snapped just a little too quick for the near-sighted preacher.

LITTLE THEATRE PRESENTS PLAY

The Charm School was the title of the play that was presented last Thursday evening at the high school auditorium by the members of the Junior Little Theatre.

The play, which was a difficult one to give, was well played. Each one in the cast showed that they were well trained and played their parts fine. The play dealt with a girl's boarding school and a idea that a school should be more than just the three R's.

Miss Fieta Bell Jernigan was the director.

GLEE CLUB RECITAL

The Girl's Glee Club under the direction of Miss Martha Vernon Robinson and with Mrs. Sims Wilkinson as pianist, gave a well rendered and entertaining musical program consisting of classical, religious and popular songs at the high school auditorium last Friday evening. Bess McAdams also gave two well rendered piano solos and the audience enjoyed the trumpet solo given by M. K. Sandifer as well as the vocal solo by Cecil Bradley.

The Girl's Glee Club has appeared in public on several different occasions and each time their programs have been enjoyed. Miss Robinson has been an able director and Sanderson is fortunate in having her as one of our teachers the past two terms.

BOY SCOUTS ARE URGED TO OBSERVE HEALTH AND SAFETY RULES PROGRAM

With the camping season just around the corner and outdoor activities beckoning to all, we take this means of urging folks to observe the common, average, everyday rules of health and safety.

It has been our sad duty to report three very sad accidents that have happened to people living within the Southwest Texas Council, three very fine boys having lost their lives by accident. The latest of these was the case of Perry Lancaster, son of the Methodist pastor of Hondo, Texas, who was visiting his grandmother at Brownwood. He accidentally shot himself while handling a pistol. This lad, twenty years old, leaves a heartbroken family and a great circle of friends.

Twelve year old Scout Chester Stallings of Crystal City, a fine lad from a fine home, having just passed his Tenderfoot test, undertook to clean and oil a new twenty-two rifle, given to him as a birthday present; and while in the home alone, accidentally shot himself. The circumstantial evidence was that in dragging the run from either its rack on the wall, or across the foot of the bed, it was discharged. And what a host of sorrowing friends and saddened Brother Scouts he left in the community.

Roy Hurst, aged 14, on a picnic with his classmates of the 7th grade of Sanderson high school, and chaperoned by proper adult leadership, wading in the edge of the treacherous Rio Grande River, stepped off into the deep, swift water, and was never seen alive by his companions again.

Three promising young men, with most of their lives out in front of them, all of them probably destined to fill definite places of leadership in their respective communities, and we have lost them. Shouldn't this tragic lesson be enough to cause every Scout to "stop, look, and listen," at every street crossing, to be careful with that car, have nothing whatsoever to do with any kind of a gun, or at least be extra precautions with the "unloaded gun," and last of all stay out of swollen streams. We may be expert swimmers, and every Scout is taught to care for himself in the water, but there is hidden danger in swift, muddy water. It is one of the great sources of nature. Fellows, we cannot observe the Scout Oath and Law, and think of the other fellow unless we help to prevent accidents both to others and ourselves.

Every Scout and Scout parent in the Area will be glad to know that our own Mabry Ogle, Red Cross Life Saver at our camp for the past three years, Eagle Scout and Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop No. 24 of Del Rio, was summoned from a point one hundred and seventy-five miles away to rescue the body of young Roy Hurst from the treacherous sands of the Rio Grande. He rushed to the scene of this fatal picnic, and in the early morning hours, knowing full well that he was on a dangerous mission, but a Scout is brave, he dove into the cold water, searching the bottom of the stream for 150 feet until his body became numb and cold. It was necessary that he rest awhile, and then after another hour of diving in thirty feet of water, he located the body, but at that depth, he was unable to bring it to the surface, so carrying a cord to the bottom, he tied it securely around the boy's body, raising it out of the sand on a three foot ledge. He gave the hoist away signal to those on the bank and the body was floated and raised to the surface.

Mabry accepted this as his good turn to the sorrowing family. It has hardly been mentioned in the news items of this section. Mabry has asked for no recognition, no publicity, no reward, and that is the spirit of Scouting and service to others taught in our program. Mabry Ogle directs our swimming activities at camp each summer, and under his direction, and the methods used in Scouting, accidents like this are prevented in our camps. We repeat that the parents of Southwest Texas should recognize Mabry Ogle as the most competent of waterfront directors.

Scouts, write Mabry a note in care of his sister, Mrs. W. Denning, Del Rio, Texas, telling him you appreciate this good turn.

They Also Served and Died

Above—League of Coast Guard Women placing a wreath before the monument erected in Arlington National cemetery to the members of the United States Coast Guard who gave their lives during the World War.

Below—The cenotaph in Arlington National cemetery commemorating the 23 army chaplains of all faiths and creeds who lost their lives in the World War.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

MEMORIAL day is a day for decorating the graves of our warrior dead. Established originally in memory of those who lost their lives during the Civil war, it has been made the occasion for recalling those others who died in other wars, and since 1918 the day has had a deeper significance for more Americans than ever before.

When we speak of our World war dead, we usually think of the soldiers, sailors and marines, the fighting men who gave their lives on the battlefields of France or in the fathomless depths of the Atlantic. But there were others besides soldiers, sailors and marines who also served and died for their country, and it is fitting that they, too, should be honored on Memorial day.

The title of chaplain brings to the mind the picture of a man of peace rather than of a man of war. Yet, written in the annals of the great conflict of 1914 to 1918 is the record of more than one example of heroism in battle, of indifference to danger and of unselfish devotion to duty by these "soldiers of the Cross." And in Arlington National cemetery stands a cenotaph which recalls the fact that 23 chaplains of the United States army, men of all faiths and creeds, gave their lives for their country. On the bronze tablet affixed to this stone marker are inscribed these names:

Albert D. Bell, Aurenus T. Howard, John G. Boone, Michael W. Keith, John G. Breden, John C. Kerr, Thomas M. Bulla, John F. McCarthy, Patrick P. Carey, Arthur H. Marsh, H. A. Chouinard, Timothy A. Murphy, William B. Cornish, C. E. O'Flaherty, Walton S. Danker, Charles D. Priest, William F. Davitt, Wilbur S. Sewell, John A. Deaver, Daniel S. Smart, Harry Delman, William H. J. Wilby, Herbert P. Doyle.

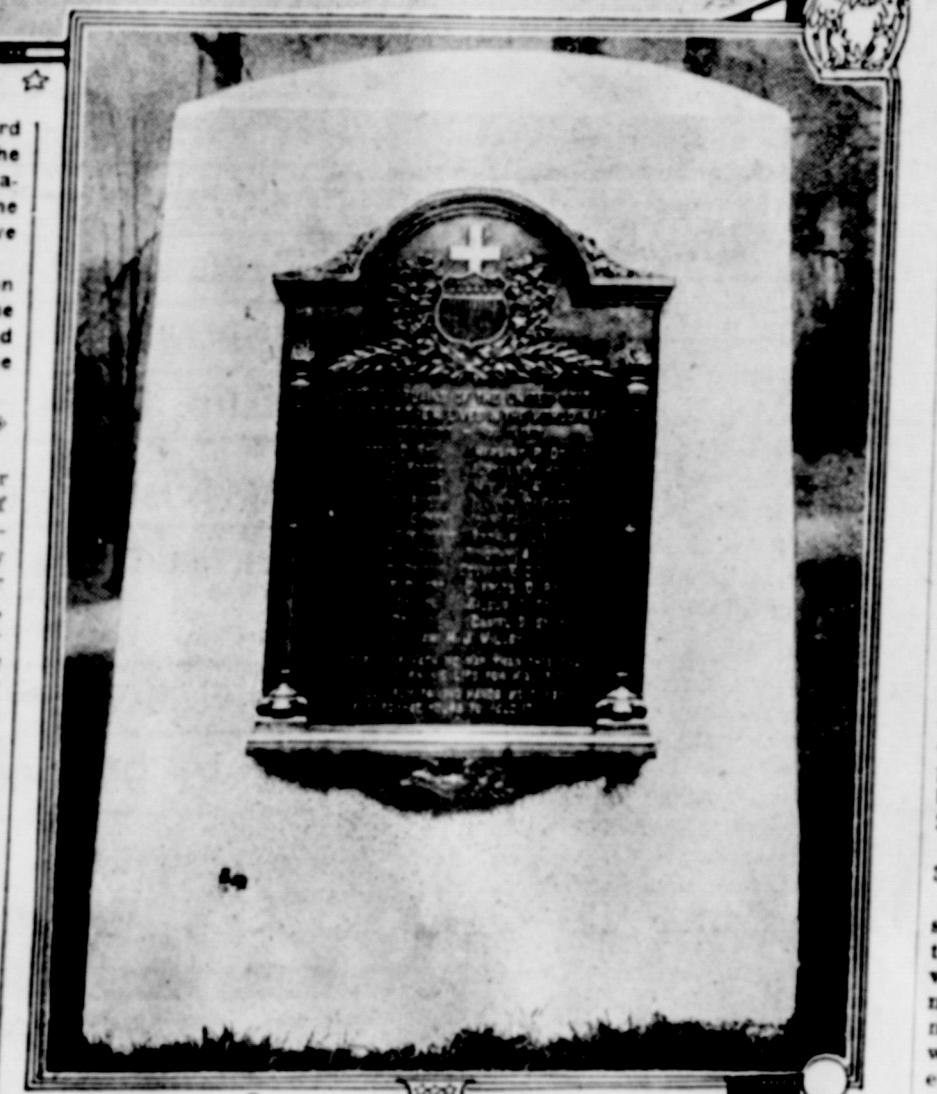

Below the names is inscribed this epitaph for them: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends" and "To you from failing hands we throw the torch—be yours to hold it high."

In Arlington also stands another memorial recalling the sacrifice of men who served in a branch of the United States service which is too little known to most Americans. This is the stone obelisk, erected in 1928, in memory of the 192 officers and enlisted men of the United States coast guard who lost their lives during the World War.

The average American citizen, perhaps, thinks of the coast guard mainly in terms of its newspaper notoriety gained in chasing "rum runners," little realizing that its task of preventing the smuggling of contraband liquor into this country is only one of the many services which it performs. For the coast guard has a record of 140 years of honorable service under its proud motto of "Semper Paratus" (Always ready) in performing various duties.

The coast guard was created by act of congress in 1915 which brought about a merger of the revenue cutter service, and the former life-saving service. The revenue cutter service, which was established in 1790 during the second session of the first congress upon the recommendation of Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the treasury. The Continental navy had been disbanded at the close of the Revolution and there was no organized armed force to protect the coasts of the new republic and to enforce the customs laws.

In every war in which the United States participated the revenue cutter service, ancestor of the coast guard, performed brilliantly. During the War of 1812 its vessels, assisted by small gunboats, protected our coast-land trade from the ravages of the hostile ships sent out by Great Britain, "the Mistress of the Seas," to harass our coast towns and our shipping. In the Civil war it had a part in both naval engagements and in blockade work.

Thirteen revenue cutters co-operated with the navy and seven with the army during the Spanish-American war. One of these, the McCulloch, helped Dewey at the Battle of Manila Bay and won special commendation from the admiral and another, the Hudson, took part in the action at Cardenas, Cuba. The officers and the crew of the Hudson were awarded medals by congress for their rescue work of the torpedoboat, Winslow, in this engagement.

This fine tradition was carried on by the coast guard service during the World War. On April 11, 1917 President Wilson mobilized the coast guard and the lighthouse service under the command of the secretary of the navy for the express purpose of resisting the submarines, which it was virtually certain that Germany would send to attack our coast. How real that danger was and the important part which the coast guard played in curbing the ravages of these deadly under-sea fighters was revealed for the first time two years ago when Little, Brown and company published William Bell Clark's book, "When U-Boats Came to America."

In addition to operating in home waters, the boats of the coast guard service also served on the other side of the Atlantic. Six of its cruising cutters were sent abroad to join the naval forces in the war zone, principally as ocean escorts working from England to Gibraltar. While engaged in this service, the Tampa was sunk by a submarine and 115 of the coast guard's 192 casualties were recorded as the result of that disaster.

Chaplains, coast guardsmen—they also served and died. But there is still another group whose names are too little known and whose memory should be honored on Memorial day. They are the 271 heroic women, members of the army nurse corps, who laid down their lives. Although none was killed in action, three were wounded by enemy fire. Two lost their lives and one was seriously wounded in an explosion in target practice on one of our transports at sea. A hundred more had a narrow escape from death when the transport on which they had just embarked had a collision in New York harbor which sent it to the bottom. But pneumonia and influenza caused the death of nearly 180 and overwork, exhaustion and poor living conditions accounted for the deaths of the remainder who gave their lives for their country just as truly as did any soldier who fell in the firing line.

Three members of the army nurse corps received the American Distinguished Service Cross. Here are their citations: Miss Helen G. McClelland, Base Hospital No. 10, for extraordinary heroism in action while on duty with the surgical team at British Casualty Clearing Station No. 61, British area, France, August 17, 1917. She occupied the same tent with Miss Beatrice Macdonald, another reserve nurse, cared for her when wounded, stopped the hemorrhage from her wounds under fire caused by bombs from German airplanes. Miss McClelland was born in Austinburgh, Ohio.

Miss Macdonald, a New York girl, received the D. S. C. also. Her citation reads, in part: "During a German night air raid she continued at her post of duty, caring for the sick and wounded until seriously wounded by a German bomb, thereby losing an eye."

Miss Isabell Stambaugh, also on the staff of Base Hospital 10, a Pennsylvania girl, was seriously wounded while with a surgical team at a British casualty clearing station during the big German drive of March 21, 1918, not far from Amiens.

Twenty-four women were given the Distinguished Service medal for exceptionally meritorious service to the government in a place of responsibility. Here are their names and places of birth: Lillian Aubert, West Baton Rouge, La.; Cecelia A. Brennan, Branchdale, Pa.; Katherine Brown, Philadelphia, Pa.; Sophy Mary Burns, St. Francis, Wis.; Reba G. Cameron, Canada; Edna N. Coughlin, Kenosha, Wis.; Alice H. Flash, Jefferson County, Ga.; Annie V. Goodrich, New Brunswick, N. J.; Carrie L. Howard, Colusa, Calif.; Grace E. Leonard, Newark, N. JESUS ENTERS JERUSALEM AS KING

GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 19:29-48. These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings; and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaches the People That He Is King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaches the People That He Is King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to the King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Supremacy of Jesus.

This event is frequently designated as the "triumphal entry" which is somewhat misleading. While it was his official entry into Jerusalem, it was far from being a triumphal entry. In fulfillment of prophecy the Messiah officially presented himself to the Jewish nation. It seems that back of the cry "Hosanna" was taking form the awful word "crucify." It is possible that the word "crucify" was uttered by some of the same persons who had cried "Hosanna." Though they were utterly blind to the fact, God was about to carry out his plan of Hosanna which means "save now" through the crucifixion of his son.

I. The Preparation (vv. 29-34).

1. Sending the disciples for the ass (vv. 29-30).
He told them just where to go to find it, and how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly the Lord knows all our ways.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (Zech. 9: 9, Cf. Matt. 21: 4, 5).

Some five hundred years before, Zechariah had predicted this event. Christ's entry into Jerusalem was an exact fulfillment of this prediction. This is highly instructive to those who would understand the as yet unfulfilled prophecies. Since the predictions of his first coming were literally fulfilled, we can expect the second to be literally fulfilled also. The first is established beyond a doubt. The second we should as heartily believe. The prediction of Zechariah 14: 3-11 will be just as literally fulfilled as that of Zechariah 9: 9.

3. Obedience of the disciples (vv. 32-34).

The request may have seemed strange and even unreasonable, yet they fully obeyed. The true disciple will render glad obedience to the Lord, no matter how strange his commands may seem. Obedience to that only which seems reasonable is not obedience at all. May we prove that we are really his disciples by obeying him.

II. The Entry of the King (vv. 35-38).

1. The disciples set Jesus upon the ass (v. 35).

This act of putting the garments upon the ass and setting Jesus upon it showed that they recognized him as their king (II Kings 9:13).

2. Acclaimed as king by the disciples (vv. 36-38).

Some spread their garments in the way, others perhaps having no garments to spare cut down branches of trees and strewed them in his way. This, no doubt, was just as acceptable to him. They praised God for all the mighty works which they had seen.

III. The Critical Pharisees (vv. 39, 40).

Although swept along by the demonstrations of the multitude, the Pharisees deemed it prudent to ask the Lord to rebuke the disciples, as such behavior might be interpreted by the Roman government as an insurrection. To their demand Jesus replied that such homage was not only fitting but necessary. He declared that if the multitude were silent, the very stones would cry out.

IV.—The King Rejected (vv. 41-44).

Christ knew what awaited him in Jerusalem. Though surrounded by loyal hearts, he knew that the rulers of the nation had no heart for him. His coming trial and death loomed before him so that he wept over Jerusalem. He knew what awful days awaited it and that loyal hearts would gladly welcome him if they only knew. He showed them that their inability to see him as their King and Saviour would result in bringing upon them the destruction of their city.

V. The King Taking Possession of His Own House (vv. 45-48).

Upon entering the city he rebuked the rulers for allowing the house of God to become degraded by carrying on traffic therein for gain. The cleansing of the temple only increased their hatred and opposition to him. The chief priests and scribes even sought his destruction.

Christian Service

There is something deadly in Christian service, where "the excellency of the power" is of us and not of God—The tragedy in so many lives is here; they have no adequate power house, and when they are confronted with a supremely difficult task they fall to cope with it and are disastrously overwhelmed.—Jewett.

Tourist Travel Turns to Small Isle of Man

The Isle of Man, tiny goal of many an ancient conqueror's fleet, is still open to invasion, but from a much more welcome source. Whether flax-haired Manx girls are the attraction, as was said to have been the case with shipwrecked sailors of the Spanish armada, or the island's friendly climate and fertile fields which Vikings fought for, is hard to say, according to the National Geographic society, which declares that half a million English, Scotch and Irish holiday makers flock annually to this ancient "hill island." On bright, clear days from Shaeffell, the island's highest mountain, five old-time kingdoms are visible. The Isle of Man, a kingdom itself for many centuries, is centered in the busy Irish sea within easy reach of Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England. For almost a millenium Mona, as Caesar called it, was a shuttlecock in the hands of warring nations and feudal lords instead of vacationists. First the Irish conquered the miniature kingdom, then the Norse descended in their Viking boats, next came the Scotch feudal chiefs, and finally the English. King Orry, the Viking, is perhaps best remembered. It was he, first of the long Norse dynasty, who instituted the Tynwald court and House of Keys, still in existence as part of the government of the Isle of Man. Smuggling was reputed to be the chief trade and means of livelihood of the islanders in the eighteenth century. So profitable did it become that even fishing and farming were neglected, it is said.

Soothes restless, wakeful CHILD

THERE are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria! A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Give good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; when there's any sign of sluggishness, people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

Colossal Nerve

"You say your neighbor has a lot of nerve?"

"Yes; but his wife is worse. She comes in to use our phone to make an appointment with her dentist. And she knows I'm one, too."—Answers.

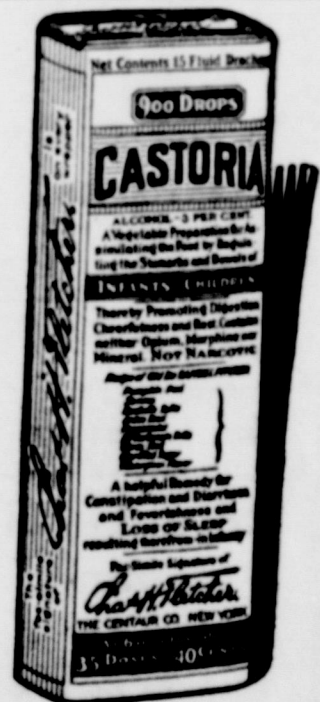

NEXT time you are out of fix as the result of irregular or faulty bowel movement, try Theodor's Black-Draught for the refreshing relief it gives thousands who take it. Mr. E. W. I don't feel hungry and I know that I need something to cleanse my system, so I take Black-Draught. Can sure say we have found it a great help."—THEODOR'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

DR. A. L. MOORE WILL BE HERE SUNDAY

Next Sunday at the First Methodist Church building, Sanderson, Texas, Dr. A. L. Moore of El Paso will deliver two special sermons of vital interest to the city and surrounding country. Dr. Moore is loved by all in this section and all those who have heard him before will be anxious to hear him again, as his messages are filled with that magnetic love and true gospel ring, bringing joy and peace to the hearts as they hear the word of God preached in the beauty of simplicity and clearness.

Dr. Moore is not only an evangelist of note, a deep scholar, but has held the pastorate of several large churches, and wherever he has been pastor his ministry has always brought that community Christian love and fellowship, blessing the whole section.

Dr. Moore preaches Sunday, May 17, at the First Methodist Church building at 11 a. m., and again at 8 p. m., as announced elsewhere in this issue.

C. F. James is erecting a small lunch and root beer stand on the lot just west of the Border service station on Oak street, which he recently leased from Mrs. Addie Lee Lemons Boling of this city. When completed, he will be prepared to serve light lunches, cold drinks, coffee, and ice cream.

Golf Course Will Open Next Monday.

The Breeding Golf course, situated on West Oak street, will open next Monday night, May 18. The prices for playing will be as follows: Single games 15c, two games for 25c, and 10 games for $1. Monday night will mark the opening of this course for the season.

The stand by the state to prove the charges in the complaint Attorney Creigh was called by the state to testify to the statement of Mrs. Sharp's, made at her examining trial, to prove Burleson's connection with the poison plot. The defense's attorney, Walter Jones, vigorously objected to this, saying that the statement itself should be introduced as evidence. The state, as it's counter charge to this, stated that the original statement of Mrs. Sharp's was prepared ready for the grand jury and that the state did not propose to offer it as evidence at this time. Burleson was not put on the stand and his attorney offered no witnesses. The state presented enough evidence at this trial to warrant the court binding Burleson over to await the action of the grand jury, his bond being fixed at $5000. The bond was carried by Burleson's relatives to Menard county where they will try to complete it.

The room was cleared of all prospective jurors by the Court before the examining trial. This met with protest from the defense's lawyer, Jones. He claimed that he was entitled to a public hearing, and the state contended that the large crowd present would disqualify nearly all prospective jurors and that the state was entitled to this protection.

During the trial Burleson sat beside his counsel and appeared calm and free from worry.

This murder is no doubt one of the most cold-blooded and premeditated murders yet in this section of West Texas.

Mrs. Sharp and Burleson are in jail without bond and the charges against them will be turned over to the grand jury which convenes in July. Their trial will probably be held here at that term of District Court. Sheriff Lee Cook, assisted by Rangers Capt. Light Townsend and Arch Miller and Custom Officer W. L. Barler made the arrests at the Big Canon ranch where Mrs. Sharp lives and at which place Burleson worked.
