Defense Counsel Asks That Trial Be Continued To Next Term of Court

INSANE PLEA TABLED

Prisoner's Spirit Up While Attending Court; Listens Attentively

The trial of Mrs. Bessie Sharp which was scheduled here in District Court on Monday of this week, was postponed until the January term by District Judge Joseph Jones, upon plea of Mrs. Sharp's lawyers, R. F. Spencer and C. F. Slatton.

Failing in their attempt for an insanity trial, the defense attorneys then started a legal battle for continuance. Grounds for continuance were based upon the absence of seven defense witnesses and the fact that "this little girl-defendant" had only a few days previously been indicted on a murder charge.

Mrs. Sharp appeared in the court room attired in a neat black ensemble. She looked about the Company of San Antonio, made the those whom she knew. Mrs. Sharp is charged with the murder of her young husband, W. Telefus Sharp, by means of administering strychnine, having given him three doses of the fatal potion, once in cocoa, in castor oil, and salts. This is one of the most atrocious and cold Alcodes crimes that has ever been committed in this county. Her claim is that she wanted to marry her paramour lover, Willie Burleson, cowboy on the Big Can-Taken to Weatherford you Ranch, and that a divorce would take too long. With the exception of a few weeks spent in a hospital and at the Southwestern State Hospital in San Antonio, she has been confined in the county jail since the tragedy occurred. There is not likely to be an attempt made to get bond for her as the case is listed a a non-bondable offense.

In postponing the trial keen disappointment was felt by the large number of spectators that had gathered to hear the court proceedings. Interest in the case has been far and wide, due, largely, to the fact that the murdered man was well known here and that the defense is also well known.

Willie Burleson, also charged with the murder, and who is at liberty under bond, was not indicted by the grand jury in session here last week. There are rumors afloat to the efect that a special term of court is to be held in October to try the

France had resulted McGarrah in the withdrawal of vast sums from the German banks, the conversion of these funds into foreign currency and its removal from the country. The big Darmstaedter und National bank closed its doors, primarily because of heavy losses sustained through the failure of Germany's largest wool-combing concern. Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, rushed from Berlin to London and thence to Paris, seeking aid. The French government refused to participate in a loan to the Reichsbank unless Germany would agree to conditions which Berlin regarded as impossible of acceptance. These included suspension of the pocket battieship building program, abandonment of the Austro-German customs union, further credit restrictions in Germany and relinquishment of any hope of regaining Danzig and the Danzig corridor. President von Hindenburg and his ministers said they would resign rather than submit to

Luther then flew to Basel and laid the case before the Bank for International Settlements and representa tives of American, British and French banks. Gates W. McGarrah, American president of the B. I. S., announced that the directors of that institution had agreed to renew its participation in the rediscount credit of $100,000, 000 accorded to the Reichsbank June 25 and due on July 15. This credit was advanced jointly by the Federal Reserve bank of the United States. the Bank of France, the Bank of Eng land and the world bank. The sum was welcome to Luther but it was only a drop in the bucket which he or securities, for the Hans Luther time being. There was some rioting, but in general the German people exhibited the calmness of despair. The authorities cannot believe that America and the other nations of Europe would permit the insolvency of Germany, and the decree issued by President von Hindenburg stressed the fact that the crisis was largely metaphysical and due to lack of public confidence.

At the suggestion of the French government, an important conference was held in Paris Saturday and Sunday, the chief participants from other nations being Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany, Foreign Secretary Henderson of Engand and Secretary Stimson of the United States. This was a prelimmary to a conference in London called for July 20 by the British government. To represent the United States at the latter President Hoover designated Secretaries Stimson and Mellon. It was understood they would not concern themselves with matters of European politics, and Mr. Stimson already had explained that this government could not participate in a loan to Germany, that matter resting entirely with the federal reserve and private banks.

President Hoover kept in close touch with the German situation but it was the official view in Washington that Germany must help herself by strong measures and that in the matter of outside assistance Europe must take the lead. Mr. Hoover took the position that in bringing about the moratorium he had done all that he legitimately and properly could do. France refuses to be abashed by the attacks on her apparent harshness loward Germany, She holds that her lemands are fully justified and that they tend to promote the cause of world disarmament and to assure security for Europe in general and France in particular.

Ezra Brainerd, one of the biggest questions that Chair man Ezra Brainerd. Jr., and his fellow commissioners have had to handle for some time. There was no disposition to question the fact that the railroads are in a sad financial plight. The problem is to find the remedy. In the first five months of this year the class one railroads had a net railway operating Income of $188,387,587, or 2.10 per cent on their property investment, and 44 of the 171 roads operated at a loss, of which 14 were in the castern 6 in the southern, and 24 in the western district.

Conforming to the wish of President Hoover, that existing wage ales be maintained, the reads are seeking an increase of revenue in in creased rates, but their executives have made it plain that if this is not granted, wages will have to come down, Many shippers have let the commission know that they favor the latter alternative, asserting that they cannot bear higher transportation harges. President Hoover has taken no part in the controversy, but Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has publicly asked the commission to take into consideration the fact that while the revenue of the railroads dropped 16 per cent last year, the revenue of the farmers dropped 20 per cent; that farm prices are down to pre-war levels, while freight rates are relatively high; that with many products taxes, manufacturing costs, and railroad rates can be passed on to the consumere, but that the farmer cannot pass his costs on.

Two security holders' committees appeared before the commission to set forth the danger that many miltions of dollars of rail securities may become ineligible for life insurance, savings bank and other investment unless the freight rate increase is granted. One of the committee represented life insurance and savings bank interests and the other trust and fire insurance companies and institutions,

In an effort to determine whether certain practices of the railroads are consistent with "economical and efficlent management," the interstate commerce commission announced that it would conduct an investigation on its own motion into practices of carriers which affect their operating revenues and expenses. Among the practices the commission is investigating are prices paid for railroad fuel and the handling of coal at tidewater ports, lake coal, private freight cars, the spotting of cars at industries and the construction and maintenance of sidings for shippers.

CAPTS. GEORGE ENDRES and Alexander Magyar of the Hungarian army made a remarkable nonstop flight from Harbor Grace, N. F., to within 14 miles of Budapest, That city was their goal but their fuel ran out just before it was reached.

Joseph Lebrix and Marcel Doret, two famous French aviators, set out on a non-stop flight from Paris to Tokyo, hoping to make the 6,000 miles in 62 hours. They were making good progress when they were forced down in Siberia 310 miles from Irkutsk. The plane was ruined and Lebrix was slightly injured.

Soviet Russia has taken another step in its return toward old-time ways. It has been decreed by the people's commissiariat for agriculture that payment to workers on Russia's collective farms shall henceforth be made only on the basis of quality and quantity of work performed. The measure is designed to increase the "material interestedness" of the farmers and thus enlarge production.

Heretofore collective farmers have been paid partly in money from farm earnings and partly in produce, according to the size and needs of their families, many taking their share of produce at the outset of the harvest. These factors, combined with inadequate organization and management of farms, were cited in the decree as responsible for a break in labor discipline and consequent losses from the

FROM the White House came an official reply to the attacks on the tariff commission that have been made by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and other Democratic eaders. The statement represented the tariff commission as a most industrious body which had completed investications of 110 different articles under the flexible provisions of the tariff act and has investigations of 119 articles still under consideration. In 22 investigations completed and reported to the President, it was pointed out that on only 10 of the 46 articles involved had there been an increase proclaimed. On 12 articles the duty was cut. On 20 there was no change; on 4 others there were no change.

It was also explained that in addition to its duties under the flexible clause, the commission had been called on by congress for reports on 10 subjects, four of which have been completed. On its own initiative the ommission undertook and completed an investigation of leaf tobacco.

Another reason she felt exhibarated was inherent in the fact that she had all of the long way up the mountain ever since she had stopped at the bottom of it for gas and a cup of coffee and a sandwich, kept ahead of a handsome young man behind her who had sought, at every opportunity, to pass her. It gave her a thrill to best him because he was male, even if he was a rather extraordinarily good looking male, as she remembered from seeing him at the base of the hill. He was tall and broad of shoulder and narrow of hip; and his dark brown eyes had twinkled in their depths. His hair was sleek and dark, and his face was clean-cut and handsome.

At the top, Marion paused only long enough to watch the sunset while he caught up to her; then she went into genr and started the long descent with his car not far behind her. It was when she reached a level stretch of road which curved around the side of the hill that her car suddenly went

Immunize All Pigs to Prevent Cholera

Advisable to Apply Treatment Before Weaning.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) - WNU Service. Swine growers in localities where there is danger of hog cholera may prevent future losses in their herds by immunizing the spring pigs against the disease, says Dr. T. P. White, veterinarian of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. Even if hog cholera has never occurred on the immediate premses, there is always a possibility that infection may be introduced into the herd through various channels when the disease exists anywhere in the neighborhood.

Pigs from immune sows have a degree of natural immunity against cholera, but this protection lasts only while they obtain all their nourishment from the sow. It gradually diminshes as the pigs grow and by the time they are weaned the immunity has entirely disappeared. It is therefore advisable to apply the treatment before the pigs are weaned in order to insure protection against the disease. The pigs are more easily handled at that age and the cost of immunization is considerably less than when they are older and larger.

Guard Against Injury

Done by Common Worms

Corn ear worms are so common in this country that most farmers do not consider it worth while to make efforts to fight them, but tests conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture show that ears with long, tight husks suffer less than half as much injury as ears having short, loose husks.

Ears with long, tight husks are charicteristic in some varieties, the department says, but there is enough variation in all varieties for a farmer to select for seed only ears with long. tight husks. In this way he can build up a strain having better husk characteristics

Long, tight husks are also good protection from other insect pests of corn, such as the corn weevil, in sections where corn is stored in the husks. This is an additional reason for farmers to select their corn in the field, where they can give proper considers tion to the type of husk

The use of poultry for the destruction of the beetle is practiced with good results in some localities,

POPULARITY

Whenever an individual or a product enjoys popularity there is always some good reason or combination of reasons back of it. There are many reasons why more than nine million boxes of St.Joseph's Aspirin have been sold in one single year. For instance, thousands of people now realize that it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more than 10c for 12 tablets of genuine pure aspirin. St.Joseph's is both genuine and pure and meets every overnment standard. More than 10,000 new users every day are asking their druggists for "St.Joseph's," now the largest selling pure aspirin in the world for 10c.

> Physicians and surgeons were quick to make use of these strange rays. With X-ray tubes, doctors can see the human body at work, watch the heart beating and the stomach performing its task.

Industry has benefited as much as medical science. These X-ray tubes take photographs of the insides of manufacturing materials and prevent huge waste and countless accidents. Their light can pierce a 5-inch plate of solid steel. They disclose weaknesses in welded metals, and such articles as fuzes for explosives, that must be accurately constructed inside before they can perform their function, are carefully inspected through the use of the X-ray after they are manufactured.

gate the contents of sealed packages. The X-ray tubes recently have given to the world several paintings by old masters. They looked through pletures painted over old masters and photographed the valuable works of art underneath.

Dr. George L. Clark, professor of chemistry at the University of Illinois, has put this wonder-working tube in a camera and it has photographed atoms, which are so small that millions of them cannot be seen by the human eye.

His device takes photographs in one hour that formerly took one hundred hours, and in one-fiftleth of a second that formerly took two hours. This machine shows atoms at work in turning cellulose synthetically into artificial slik. The device opens a wide field to industrial development.

Scientists now are working with Xray tubes to capture scenes of the past out of the air and make them visible to people living on the world today. The burning of Rome, even the crossing of the Red sea by the Israelites and possibly the flood, with Noah leading the animals into the Ark may be picked out of the air and revisualized. Scientists contend the light waves never die, although sound waves do, and that it may be possible to recapture the light waves from historic scenes of the ages and make them visible again (6, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

CALF STARTER IS MADE AT CORNELL

Dry Mixture Gives a Good Growth and Is Cheap.

Eliminating entirely the troublesome task of heating water to mix with calf feeds, the new "calf starter" devised at the New York State College of Agriculture has proved successful in tests at the college, according to Charles H. Crawford of the department of animal husbandry. Calves have been grown to six months of age at a total cost of $36 by using the new dry mixture, and but 325 pounds of whole milk was fed during the first 17 weeks.

The mixture contains 320 pounds of ground yellow corn, 320 pounds of rolled oats, 320 pounds of winter wheat bran, 160 pounds of linseed meal, and 880 pounds of dry skim milk. The calves were fed the calf starter for the first 16 weeks when they were changed to a cheaper concentrated mixture called the helfer ration. The helfer ration has 300 pounds each of ground yellow corn, ground oats, and wheat bran, and 100 pounds of linseed oil meal.

Both of these feeds gave good growth and are cheap, Mr. Crawford says. The calf starter was limited to five pounds and the helfer ration to four pounds daily. Hay was fed liberally

The new feed is not sold commercially, but a letter to the animal hasbandry department of the New York State College of Agriculture a. lthsca, N. Y., will bring details of the plan and the feeding schedule.

Well Constructed Tank Efficient for Cooling

According to tests at the state experiment station at Geneva, N. Y. cooling in well-constructed farm tanks is easier and equally as efficient from a sanitary point of view as cooling over an aerator. The electric refrigerators now being offered for sale for use on dairy farms are practical and reliable. Whether the farmer uses a tank of the old style using ice or one of the new ice machines, the tank should be large enough so that when filled with cans of milk there will be twice as much ice and water as milk. A tank 35 inches wide, 60 inches long and 26 Inches deep has a capacity of six cans. When the six cans are in, there are two gallons of water and ice for each gallon of milk.

Of course, I don't know what he said, but I can guess. He went from one trap to another, and the farther he got the angrier he grew. But getting angry didn't do him any good. It never does any one any good. So at last he stopped getting angry. Anyway, he stopped showing his anger, and went to work to set the traps over again and again, and this time he took more care than ever to set them. Then he got a piece of meat and around it he hid a lot of stout traps. I guess that was just for Glutton. "Gobbled up that meat and stepped in one of the other traps and was caught!" cried Peter excitedly.

"Nothing of the kind," replied Honker. "He didn't even look at that meat. He went right on hunting for traps until he had found every one. It was just as if he had seen that hunter set those traps, but he hadn't. When he had found the last one he just walked over to that piece of meat and ate every scrap of it. 1. Stephen Stoned (Acts 7:54-60). In Stephen's ministry as deacon he testified of Jesus Christ and wrought miracles in confirmation thereof. This of the synagogue officials. Not being be cleaned before I put them back." able to meet the wisdom as Stephen spoke by the Holy Spirit, they stirred up the people against him. They arrested him and brought him before A half-hour later she came down from the council. They accused him of blasphemy and employed false witnesses against him. They could not silence him by argument before the council so they decided to do so by

1. Stephen looking into heaven (v. $5). Instead of looking about upon his murderers in their raging fury he looked up to heaven. This was the secret of his calmness.

2. He saw the glory of God (v. 55). A vision of God's glory only can be seen by those who are loyal to him even unto death.

3. He saw Jesus at the right hand of God (vv. 55, 56). The fact that Jesus was standing showed his actual interest in the sufferings of his faithful witness.

4. Cast out of the city and stoned (vv. 58, 59).

5. His prayer (v. 60), He kneeled down and cried with a loud voice, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge," How like the prayer of Jesus on the

II. Persecution of the Church at

Jerusalem (Acts 8:1-4). 1. The ringleader (vv. 1, 3). As a member of the Sanhedrin Saul had cast his vote against Stephen. He perhaps was the Sanhedrin representative to guide and direct in the execution. Saul's consenting to Stephen's death shows that he was not taking part himself, but directing the ac-

2. The disciples scattered (v. 1). The stoning of Stephen had so aroused the passions of savage men that they proceeded to wreak vengeance upon the Christians, who, as a result, were scattered abroad.

3. Preaching the Word (v. 4). Though forced out of Jerusalem, they did not go out in a panic, but went "everywhere preaching."

III. Preaching the Lord Jesus at Antioch (Acts 11:19-21).

In the providence of God a new missionary center was now being prepared. With the conversion of Saul and his commission as the apostle to the Gentiles, a new center was needed. Antioch was well suited as that center, for it was the natural door to the Graeco-Roman world. The persecution at Jerusalem sent the disciples as far as Antioch.

1. Preaching to Jews only (v. 19). In this they followed the example of Christ, They had not yet come to realize the universality of the gospel. Even thus limited, they were used in carrying out the divine purpose.

2. Preaching to the Grecians (v. 20). The disciples who had come from Africa and Cyprus were of broader sympathy than those of Palestine, and they courageously crossed the line preaching the Lord Jesus to the Greeks.

3. The hand of the Lord upon them (v. 21). Perhaps the Holy Spirit was poured out anew as at Pentecost. Their ministry was accompanied with the divine blessing. Many believed on the Lord through their ministry.

IV. Rejoicing In Persecutions (I

Peter 4:12-19). Flery trials are to be expected by the disciples of Christ. The world hated Christ and put Him to death. To be reproached and hated for Christ's sake is a badge of honor, and those who may be called upon thus to suffer should rejoice.

Christ Wins at Last

No matter what the obstacles, Christ wins at last. No matter what the delays and disappointments, Christ triumphs in the end. In spite of suffering and loss and repeated defeats, Christ is the eternal conqueror. Lord, we believe! But we need a lot of help !- Charles E. Jefferson.

So Doris finished her breakfast, trying meantime to remember all the errands that her mother had given her. her room for a second time that day.

"You're so absent minded," her mother greeted her at the foot of the stairs, approaching her with an enormous package, a ball of heavy cord and a pair of scissors. "You might leave the curtains in the car or somewhere, so dearle, I'm just going to fasten the package to you. I can run the cord up your coat sleeve and then around your waist. No one can possibly see it, and when you get to the the new rough braid or one of the cleaner's you can get a knife or sciasors to cut it."

Dorls protested mildly but in vala, so she started forth with the large package in her arms, invisibly at-

But, of course, he felt like a cad standing there, and later in the subway train, allowing the girl he was escorting to carry a bundle while he went arm free. At their downtown station he again asked for the package, but again Doris objected. He intle cry as he started to take it from

"It's fastened on," she said. "Mother was afraid I'd lose it. I'm so absent-minded." Walter looked entirely disgusted, but then he smiled.

"So'm I absent minded-lately, wonder why it is?" he said. Then they both looked entirely self-conscious, and Walter had the audacity to press her arm at his side as he had never dared to do before, and Doris giggled a little. So then It was agreed that they should not immediately part, but should take a taxi and drive through the city park.

"But I won't let you hold that confounded package," he said, and once they seated themselves in the car he whipped out his pocket knife and cut the string at her wrist.

At one that day Doris entered the dining room. "Here are the chocolate crullers and the sweet butter is in the refrigerator," she told her mother, "and the white ribbon and the special delivery stamps. I'm sure I didn't forget anything, I-"

Doris had slipped off her suit jacket as she was talking. "Do for mercy's sake take that cord off." Mrs. Collins had approached her daughter, scissors in hand, but Doris, with a little startled cry, rushed from the room toward the teleph

"I thought something was in the alr," and Mrs. Collins shook her finger at Doris, but not with disapproval. "It's all right if you're quite sure Walter's the man you want. #### BLACK AND WHITE REMAINS IN FAVOR

Black and white continues to be a combination greatly in favor whersisted this time, and Doris gave a lit. ever smart women dine. The degree of taste and perfection which is used in this combination has a direct bearing on the effect of the costume. The all-white hat, the white glove and chalk-white jewelry has much to do with its success, says a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star. White liner has a crispness which no one can deny, especially when it is combined with a black hat, either of coarse straw with a glazed surface or one of the crocheted straws. No one has ever known the exact percentage of white to advise in combination with black. Fashion is favoring the black satin skirt and the cream lace blouse for informal dining. This may be worn with a white or an egg-shell jacket. Contrast is the watchword for the linen suit. The white skirt with the pavy jacket has by far and away given the brown and white combinations a race for popularity, while red and white, or a cherry red linen skirt and a french blue handkerchief linen surplice blouse are in the height of fash-

Or listen to this combination which was worn at the horse show in Tuxedo park by New York debutantes: White dresses accompanied by very short white wool capes, and a red and green sash at the belt and with these small white visca caps.

Longer Evening Coats to Return for Winter

The longer evening coats show signs of returning next winter, advises a Parls fashion writer in the New York Times. Lucile Paray favors slightly trailing evening coats, in velvet of the same color as frocks-which just escape the floor. Germaine Lecomte makes three-quarter evening coats of Lyons velvet or velveteen that contrast with the frock. A tiger-colored velveteen coat with a black frock is a striking example. Irene Dana has an attractive floor-length evening coat of pale pink velveteen. Short jackets are by no means abandoned. Worth and Irene Dana both show white cross-barred velvet jackets barely below waistlength, and Worth's new summer and winter jackets of flat fur with fabric sleeves are among the most attractive evening wraps yet invented. They are cut with a dropped shoulder line and draped in around the walst, stopping just above the hip bones. One is of black broadtail with puffed sleeves of white satin; another of pale gray broadtail with huge sleeves in silver lame.

Cotton Dress Favored for the Six-Year-Old

Throughout fashion's realm the style prestige of cotton weaves is a matter of comment. This pretty little dress is fashioned of maize-color "pineapple mesh" durene (perfectly mercerized) cotton. Inverted pleats starting at the yoke and a novel white collar are important styling features.

Color Combinations Now Brighten the New Modes

Brown and yellow, green and crimson, gray and sapphire-these are the tints which now brighten a mode devoted to unusual color combinations instead of striking silhouettes.

Brown coats are worn with brickred or leaf-green frocks, brown hats, gloves and belts. Brown sults are finished with lemon yellow, leaf green. or beige and copper striped blouses and chocolate hued accesories.

The woman whose suit is navy blue may choose white accessories, or a blouse of lemon yellow, while the debutante with a dark blue wool coat may wear a pastel blue or maise yellow frock with hat and shoes of dark blue, Geranium red combined with pearl gray is another favorite combination for navy.

Light green ensembles are worn with dark green chapeaux and accessories, while leaf-green frocks may be worn with black or wood brown coats, hats and bags.

"Warm" Corpse Too Much for Nerves of Ghouls

About one hundred years ago a gentleman, well known for the mad pranks in which he delighted, was walking past a lonely kirkyard in Midlothian when he saw a well-appointed horse and trap standing unattended before the gate. Curious to know what this might mean, he crouched in the ditch by the wall and waited.

In a few moments two men came out of the kirkyard carrying in a sack a long object which they propped up on end on the seat next to the driver's. Then they said something about tools and went back. Quick as thought the watcher pulled down the sack, emptied its grisly contents into the ditch, climbed into the trap, got into the sack, and braced himself stiffly into position.

Hardly had he done so when the two men returned and threw some tools into the trap, after which one got up in front and the other on the back seat. "Wud" as he was, our adventurer now began to repent of his hastiness, reflecting that one corpse was as good as another on the dissecting table, where, in those days, questions were by no means always asked. Suddenly the driver turned to his mate, and in accents of crawling horror gasped, "Mon, Jamie, the corp's warm!" The "corp' had presence of mind enough to moan in a hollow tone, "We're all warm where I come from."

There were two wild yells, the springs of the trap bounced furiously, the horse broke into a gallop and when he got out of his sack the gentleman found himself alone, heading for Edinburgh at a great pace. The horse, trap, harness and tools served him well for many years and no one ever claimed them.-Edinburgh Scotsman.

Immortal "Will's" Father

Feared Process Servers

Prosecution of Councillor Cox, of Manchester, for not attending church on Sunday, was founded on the Sunday Observance act of 1677. But the law of England about compulsory church observance was the same # bundred years earlier, when Shakespeare's father was reported to the Stratford authorities "for not comminge monethlie to Churche accord inge to hir Majestfes lawes."

But it was not lack of plety so much as lack of pelf that kept John Shakespeare away from the parish church. For in the record, there is this note appended to his name and the names of eight other offenders "it is sayde that these laste nine coom not to Church for feare of process for debtte."

It was on September 25, 1502, that this record was made-just a year before the publication of "Venus and in his dedication as "The first beire of my invention,"-London Morning

The Grand Duke Boris contended, at a Hollywood charity sale, that the American man surpasses all others in gallantry and wit.

"And I just overheard a conversation," said the grand duke, "that ! bears me out.

"That pretty girl over there selling toys said to a young man who stopped to admire her booth: "'What do you think of my scheme

Gene and the Classics

Gene Tunney sald at a dinner in honor of Hugh Walpole, the English lecturer and novelist:

"If we were to read the old books -Tolstol and Tacitus and so onthen we'd judge all these new offcolor books more wisely.

"I know a man who reproached his daughter one day for her ignorance of the classics, and the girl's answer was: "'Golly, dad, how can a girl read the books she ought to when she's only got time, as it is, to read the ones she oughtn't to," "
