LOOKING FOR THE TOWN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

He had motored from Kansas or Arizona or some place beyond the Mississippi and was eager to see for the first time the beauties of New England. Perhaps, he was one of those countless thousands, or millions possibly it has grown to be by this time, whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower and he was looking up the places where they first settled. It was at Provincetown where he ran onto me out by the breakwater at the far end of the cape. He had come via Boston and had traversed the whole length of the narrow wubbling street along which the village is scattered.

"I wonder if you could help me out?" he inquired.

"Possibly, but not likely," I had modestly to admit.

"I'm looking for the town," he explained.

He had been from one end of Provincetown to the other, but he hadn't seen it. The old village, touched by his imagination, was something very different from actuality. He had missed it all as he was driving along.

There are many of us who miss the town in other ways than did the Kansas when in reality it is all about us.

I can, in a vague way, now realize how much of the beauty of the prairie I missed as a boy even when I was looking for beauty. I can see the knolls in spring now as I did not visualize them then, blue with violets and the lowlands in August brilliant with wild phlox. There were lilacs—thousands of them—and goldenrods and yellow sunflowers, "robin woods" we called them, from the resinous gum which the sun melted out of their stems. I didn't see them, as I can well realize now, that while I was longing to see the beautiful things of the world here was a sight before me that I would travel many miles to see again. The town was about me, and I was looking for it.

Friendship and love and beauty—opportunity and happiness—how many of us pass along beside these things and miss them like the man in the midst of houses and yet looking for the town.

SOME DEPRESSIONS WORSE THAN THIS

By ROME C. STEPHENSON
President American Bankers Association

ONE of the most significant aspects of the present business period is that, while we had a speculative panic and while we have had a general economic breakdown yet we have not had any semblance of a financial panic, such as occurred in 1907, and, in other years when the credit and monetary machinery broke down and we had money panics, suspension of specie payments and kindred disasters.

None of these elements of a true financial panic has been present in this depression of the 1920's. At no time was the banking structure as a whole shaken, despite the unprecedented rate of small bank failures that it had to absorb. At no time was the banking and credit machinery unable to extend support to the panic-stricken and broken stock markets and cooperation to all kinds of business and manufacturing. Anyone would have been a wise prophet who could have foretold that our banking and credit structure would stand up so well under conditions so bad.

Finance Taking Cuts

And banking and corporate finance in this period of depression are unflinchingly taking their portions of short rations and enforced self-denial that the nation's need for readjustment demands. Interest rates on money, yields on securities and dividends on corporate investment have all dropped to levels that constitute drastic reductions in the compensation of capital. These are but part of the necessary economic readjustments that all phases of the country's working life must go through before a general revival of business activity can start.

It is my belief—indeed it is my hope—that the tempo of the next cycle of prosperity will be somewhat more moderate than the mad whirl of jazz that brought the last one to a close. I think it will be agreed that the worst aspect of the collapse of that period of false prosperity is the condition of insecurity for employment which it caused. Unemployment is our greatest public problem today.

Unemployment is the worst wage cut that the worker can suffer. It is the worst cause of stagnation that business has to strive against. The sooner we can get our masses of workers back into jobs on almost any terms the better it will be both for capital and labor.

Census Reports Farm Acreage and Values In Texas

According to a bulletin recently issued by the Bureau of the Census, there are 495,489 farms in the State of Texas having a total acreage of 124,707,130, and a total value, including land, buildings, and implements and machinery, of $3,799,593,795. These figures are given in detail for each county and minor civil division within the State. This is the first Federal census report to show these figures by minor civil divisions.

Of the total farm acreage, 24.6 per cent, or 30,634,370 acres, was crop land on which crops were harvested in 1929. 1.9 per cent, or 2,328,222 acres, was crop land which lay idle or fallow; and 1.4 per cent, or 1,803,574 acres, was land on which the war," said Capt. J. S. Scott, technical advisor on the picture, "has never been portrayed on the screen. There were often times when guns were hub to hub over long miles of front, laying down a terrific barrage behind the enemy lines.

The belief that artillery was a safe job far behind the lines is grossly erroneous. The light artillery was usually but a hundred yards behind the lines and more greatly exposed than the infantry in the trenches. Even the heavy artillery which was farther behind the lines, was always the target of enemy artillery. The light artillery would sweep the battle front with shrapnel. We have one scene in 'Chances' where the infantry has retreated behind the guns, leaving the front line with shrapnel. This happened often during the war, when the enemy were advancing."

The cast supporting Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Chances" includes Rose Hobart, Anthony Bushell, Holmes Herbert, Mary Forbes, Tyrrell Davis, Jeanne Fenwick, Harry Allen, Edmond Breon and Edward Morgan.

A great stage star once said, "A star is never any better than the individual acting strength of each member of his supporting cast."

This thought was very apparently uppermost in Ramon Novarro's mind during the selection of those who aid him in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "Daybreak," which will open next Wednesday at the Princess Theatre for 2 days.

"Daybreak," first of all, is a story which demands a good cast. It is an adaptation of a famous stage play by Dr. Arthur Schnitzler, author of "The Affairs of Anatol." Those familiar with the delightful Schnitzler manner of writing, know that this great Viennese author is a master of deft characterizations. Inept players can never expect to appear at advantage in a Schnitzler story.

The tale, first of all, is a sparkling Continental romance, and a Continental director, Jacques Feyder of Paris, was chosen to film it, in order that its rare savor should be retained intact.

Plays Viennese Officer Novarro, as Kasda, returns to the type of thing he did in his "Student Prince" days, as the gay young Viennese officer and adventurer in love. The object of his desires, Laura, is interpreted by Helen Chandler, the well known stage actress who scored in "Outward Bound" and "Dracula."

The "other man" in the case, Schnabel, is none other than that extremely clever character actor, Jean Hersholt, who hardly needs an introduction. Another featured role that of the relentless general, is played by C. Aubrey Smith, who recently scored in the title role of "The Bachelor Father."

William Bakewell of "Dance Fools, Dance"; Karen Morley, who had an outstanding part in "Inspiration"; Kent Douglass, last seen opposite Joan Crawford in "Paid"; Glenn Tryon, Clyde Cook, Sumner Getchell, Clara Blandick, Edwin Maxwell and Jackie Searle, round out an unusually fine group of players.

Undisturbed Comfort For Patrons of Princess Theatre

Big Western Feature Is Scheduled For Tomorrow Night

GANG PLAY TONIGHT

"Daybreak" and "Chances" To Be Shown First 4 Days Of Next Week

Realism in depicting gangland and gangsters is the keynote of "The Widow from Chicago," which is being shown at the Princess Theatre tonight, Friday, September 11.

The picture, a First National production with an all-star cast including Neil Hamilton, Edward G. Robinson, Frank McHugh and Alice White, is based upon Earl Baldwin's popular story of the same title. Edward Cline, who directed it, had many consultations with the author while the film was being made. And it is said to reveal the actual "low-down" on gang life.

Gangs are composed of human beings.

A gangster isn't a "type" at all. In America he now represents a profession.

He may not even be a murderer.

At any rate, the hero of "The Widow from Chicago," Neil Hamilton, portrays a gangster who doesn't carry a gun. Dominic, the most sinister figure, enacted with great skill by Edward G. Robinson, never personally committed a murder. "Slug," the chauffeur, depicted by Frank McHugh, is the gang clown!

"Dealing with such a sinister phase of modern civilization as gangsterism," is a problem Director Cline admits. "I do think, however, that the way to deal with it in films, and make use of its piratical glamor without glorifying it, is to treat it with the utmost realism. We have tried to do that in "The Widow from Chicago."

The program which has been arranged for tomorrow night, Saturday, September 12, is another addition of a series of old time Western pictures booked for week-end showings only. "West of Cheyenne," with Tom Tyler heading the cast of players, and assisted by gobs of western actors well up on their parts. If you love the outdoors you'll enjoy this thrilling hair raiser.

In connection with the showing of "West of Cheyenne" will be presented the weekly news feature, a cartoon and vaudeville act.

The part played by artillery in the World War is depicted vividly in Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.'s initial First National starring vehicle, "Chances," which Alan Dwan directed, and which comes to the Princess Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, September 14 and 15.

Although only a small portion of the picture shows actual fighting on the front, Fairbanks enacts the role of an officer in the Royal Horse Artillery from beginning to end. The screen play is based on A. Hamilton Gibbs' thrilling story of two soldier brothers who love the same girl.

"The part played by artillery in the crops failed to mature or were not harvested for any cause. Pasture land with a total of 86,942,437 acres, representing 69.7 per cent of the total farm acreage of the State, included 11,156,355 acres of plowable land, 14,449,011 acres of woodland, and 61,337,071 acres of other land. In addition to the land cropped and pastured, the total land in farms included 1,240,472 acres of woodland not used for pasture, and 1,738,055 acres not in forest, pasture, or crops, including the land occupied by house yards, barnyards, feed lots, lanes, roads, etc.

The total value of farm land and building was $3,597,406,986, of which $334,537,451 represented the value of all farm buildings, including the farmers' dwellings, which were valued at $351,068,434. The value of farm implements and machinery, including farmers' automobiles, was $182,186,809.

Origin of Tuning Fork

The tuning fork is the invention of John Shore, trumpeter for George I of England. Its pitch varies according to the thickness and length of its two steel prongs. The usual instrument sounds only one note, middle C or the A below it, although the German model has a slide on each prong which regulates the pitch.

Texas Opportunities

TEXAS CONTROLS GAS and oil enough to provide fuel for half the nation's industries, and has in reserve countless thousands of tons of combustible lignite.

No commonwealth of ancient or modern history ever had so valid a claim upon industrial and commercial pre-eminence, yet there is a rather general feeling that we are "muffing" the opportunity.

There was recently established in Corpus Christi a great chemical manufacturing industry whose initial investment will range between ten and twenty million dollars.

A little sane and constructive thinking and acting, and Texas can capitalize upon an opportunity that is without parallel.

The Power of Advertising

ADVERTISING HAS developed within a generation in the United States until at this time more money is spent for advertising than is expended for the entire wheat crop of the United States.

While advertising started in a humble way and was an incident of the first publications in which it appeared, it is now the tail that wags the dog.

From a rather crude and shaky beginning, advertising has developed into a combination of business, profession and art.

Thirty and thirty-five years ago there was a question in the minds of conservative people regarding the truthfulness of advertising.

Today the advertising columns of newspapers, daily and weekly, are read as closely as are the news columns.

The last thirty years has seen advertising become the most important factor in the distribution and sale of commodities and service.

Everybody reads newspaper advertisements because they give the everyday facts they want to know.

Nothing approaches newspaper advertising in display efficiency and real money-getting appeal.

Advertisements take the guess work out of buying because the constant demand for advertised goods and service has proven their worth.

The infallible proof of good merchandise is in the demand. Advertised lines are always increasing in demand.

Experience has shown successful business concerns that they can acquire both prestige and new business by continuous, truthful advertising.

Concerns who draw into their commercial shells get nowhere until they wake up to the fact that if they want to gain this world's advantages they must advertise.

Business concerns who have worthwhile merchandise or service should advertise not once in a while but all the while.

THE TIME HAS COME WHEN EVERYONE WEIGHS THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR. EVEN THE BUSIEST MEN AND WOMEN TAKE TIME TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS CAREFULLY, FOR THEREIN THEY FIND GOODS OF QUALITY AT REASONABLE PRICES--THE KIND THEY WANT.

THIS AND THAT BY JIMMINY

The Week's Most Famous Saying: (General Wolters, speaking to the youngsters under his command at Kilgore) "Shoot at the waist line. If you miss, start over the hill and keep going."

Another famous saying was Governor Sterling's: "If I called another special session of the legislature, they would hang me from the highest limb in the state."

Still another saying issues from Commissioner MacDonald's lips: "You may confidently expect the governor to call an early special session."

Last week a wave of homicidal madness swept over the state. In Houston gang killers gained access to the luxurious Montrose Boulevard apartments of ex-convict "Keggy" Jones at midday.

Texas' dose of martial law may be redone to the benefit of Governor Sterling, who declared it, but it will never prove a credit to General Wolters who administered it.

POTPOURRI

Early Pewter
Pewter ware, again in vogue, was first used early in the Eighteenth century. This grayish white metal is an alloy of tin and lead and sometimes a small quantity of copper or zinc is added. The metal polishes very easily, but as easily tarnishes. Its early use was for plates, teapots, beer mugs and other utensils.

The Ice Spring
LIVES UP TO ITS NAME
An "Ace" . . . on every count, is this fine open coil type. It might be termed the modern coil spring for it was developed from that popular kind . . . yet it has been so vastly improved that you would hardly recognize it . . . More coils than in most springs, and each of just the right resiliency. Small governor springs prevent all side-sway. No rocking or tilting. Angle-iron top binding prevents tearing of sheets. Finished in a beautiful robin's-egg blue and priced no higher than ordinary springs.

Politics

The little boy interrupted his father's reading of the paper with a petition.

"Please, Daddy, tell me the story about the Forty Thieves."

The father, aroused from his absorption in political news and comment on the campaign, regarded his son thoughtfully for a moment, and then shook his head.

"No," he answered decisively, "you must wait until you're a little older, my son. You're too young to understand politics."—Ex.
