LOCAL SCHOOLS TO OBSERVE EDUCATION WEEK

Programs, Exhibitions and School Work Will Be Inspected by Public

The eleventh Annual Education week will be observed November 9-15. The program will be sponsored by the United States Office of Education, the American Legion and the National Education Association.

In hundreds of communities exhibitions of work will be made and these discussed by the faculty and patrons together in order to get a clearer interpretation of the aims, needs and achievements of the school, and to critically test the extent to which the aims of education have been achieved.

The responsibility for the schools does not belong to any special class; it rests upon all the people. The schools shape the life of tomorrow and it is as important for citizens generally to share in this responsibility as it is for them to participate in government and public order. For this reason, a period each year devoted to the co-operation of all citizens in plans to promote educational progress provides for this participation. The citizens are especially invited to inspect the work of the schools this week, when, by special arrangement of school programs, exhibitions, etc., more can be seen in less time than upon the casual visits at other seasons of the year.

The American Education Week program has an integrating function. It ties together in an effective way the efforts the whole community is making to achieve the seven cardinal objectives of education—sound health, worthy home membership, skill and interest in learning, citizenship and world good will, vocational effectiveness, worthy use of leisure, and ethical character.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

William Lea who was painfully injured in the football game at Iraan last Saturday and who was carried to a Del Rio hospital Sunday night, was able to be brought home Thursday night.

Young Lea suffered a severely bruised knee and will not be able to play on the team for the remainder of this season. He will probably be confined to his bed for two weeks longer with the injured knee. X-Ray examination in Del Rio revealed that no bones were broken, but that the knee was bruised. It is thought that no permanent injury will arise from the injury.

A large crowd of citizens went to Marfa today to witness the football game between Sanderson High School and the Marfa High School. Our school band will also play at the Highland Fair today.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Doty arrived here the first of the week from Marfa where the doctor has been practicing medicine the past year. He will locate in this city.

It is to be hoped that a representative number of our citizens can and will be in attendance at this meeting as it is to their collective interests to be present.

FORMAL OPENING OF XER OCTOBER 21

Radio fans in the city and county tuned in last Saturday and for the first time XER, the mighty broadcasting station at Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, across the line from Del Rio, Texas, was heard in a test program. The program came in clear and no interference resulted when other stations were tuned in. At the initial tryout or test the station only broadcasted up to 35,000 watt capacity.

XER will take the air Thursday, October 15, so as to protect various advertising contracts. Between now and that date, test work will be conducted on a sliding scale of capacity and that date, test work will be conducted with the giant station gradually working up to her powerful 75,000 watt capacity.

The formal opening of the giant station has been set for Wednesday, October 21st. At this time hundreds of visitors are expected in Del Rio many of the coming from Kansas for the opening. A special train carrying the Kansas friends of Dr. Brinkley, is expected in Del Rio on the 20th and will remain there for three days.

All equipment in the mechanical department of the studio has been installed. Furniture for the reception room and the two broadcasting rooms as well as the announcer's booth, is yet to be installed. It is enroute to Del Rio and will be there and installed by the opening day.

Sinclair Oil Co. Installs Bulk Gas Plant Here

To Wholesale Only; Retail Station Will Be Erected Later On

The Sinclair Refining Company, with headquarters in Fort Worth, is erecting a bulk gasoline plant here. Construction work was begun on Monday of this week, B. P. Crow of the company's construction department, assisted by local labor, is erecting the platform and storage tanks.

At this time the plant will consist only of two large storage tanks with pumps to match. Later on the company will erect a warehouse here. The tanks are being erected in the West end of the city, next to the railroad tracks.

The Sinclair Refining Company holds and has had for several years the contract to furnish gasoline to the State Highway Maintenance Department. It is for this reason that they are now installing the bulk station here. Later on they will in all probability, have a service station in the city.

Mr. Crow states that it will probably be ten days before the plant is completed and shipment of gasoline made.

No announcements were made at this time by representatives of the Sinclair company as to who would be placed in charge of the local plant.

Marfa Business Man Injured In Car Wreck

Carl Weiss, Marfa druggist, is in a hospital in Alpine as a result of an automobile collision near Alpine last Saturday night. His condition has been reported as serious.

Hon. Edgar Howard Says Democrats Will Elect Next President

Congressman Edgar Howard of Columbus, Nebraska, accompanied by his son, Findley Howard of Guatemala, Central America, were Sanderson visitors Thursday. They were on their vacation and were returning from the Pecos Valley near Roswell, N. M., where they had been visiting. Mr. Howard owns a large orchard near Roswell. They were enroute to Uvalde to visit the Hon. John Garner, with whom Mr. Howard has served in the United States Congress for many years.

Mr. Howard while here was a pleasant visitor in the Times office. He owns the Daily Telegram that is published in Columbus. He stated that conditions were very much the same in Nebraska as here, plenty of crops, etc., but no money and lots of unemployment.

Mr. Howard believes that the Democrats will organize the House of Representatives in December, and that John Garner will succeed the late Nicholas Longworth as speaker of the House. He also stated that the Democrats will elect the next president of the United States beyond any doubt, if only the national convention shall be brave to nominate and adopt a platform free from the dictation of Power Trusts or any other evil influence.

Mrs. R. H. Lewellen and children returned last Sunday from Decatur, Ill., Waterbury, Conn., and New York City where they have been visiting relatives and friends the past two months.

Parent-Teachers Association Has Regular Meeting

Large Crowd Out; Interesting and Well Prepared Program Rendered

The Sanderson Parent-Teacher Association met in regular session at the High School Auditorium last Thursday evening, Oct. 1, at 7:30 o'clock. This was an excellent meeting; the program was both educational and entertaining, and there was a good attendance, the third grade having the largest representation of any class.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. A. P. Utterback. The minutes were read and approved and a report from the treasurer was made. It was decided that the meetings of the organization should be alternated. One meeting should be held at four o'clock in the afternoon, and the next one held at 7:30 p.m. This was done in order to give every one an opportunity to attend PTA at least part of the time.

A motion was made and carried that the Executive Board appoint delegates to represent Sanderson at the 23rd Annual State Convention which is to be held in San Antonio November 10 to 13.

In appreciation of the music furnished by the High School Band and Orchestra at the last two meetings of the PTA, a rising vote of thanks was extended to the members of these two clubs. It was also voted that the PTA help the orchestra in purchasing music during the ensuing year.

Several songs led by Mr. D. L. Duke were sung by the group, following which the program was turned over to Mrs. Haas, program leader. The first number on the program was a most helpful article read by Mrs. A. D. Brown. This article had to do with the punishment of children, and a number of better methods of punishing children were discussed.

Mr. Leo Heisler, well-known radio artist of El Paso, entertained the audience with a group of three songs which were greatly enjoyed by all, and it is hoped that it may be the privilege of the PTA to have Mr. Heisler sing again sometime in the near future.

Three young ladies, Misses Mattie Newton, Mary Ferguson and Mildred Stavley, all students of Mrs. Kendrick Harrell, teacher of expression and dancing, gave demonstrations of the type of work that is being done in their classes.

One of the most educational numbers on the program was the debate on "Resolved: That the Long Plan for Growing Cotton Should Be Adopted in Texas." Miss Florine Dawson and Mr. H. D. Johnson represented the affirmative in this question, while Mr. Preston Utterback and Mr. Lowry Stradley represented the negative. Their contentions were well balanced and direct to the point. Giving those who heard the discussion a clearer insight into one of the most outstanding problems of the day, that of whether or not cotton shall be grown this year.

The final number of the program was two songs sung by the third grade.

Anyone interested in paying membership dues for the coming year, please see either Mrs. Guy Nations, Mrs. W. C. Cargile or Mrs. Al Creigh, Jr. The next meeting of the PTA will be at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, November 5, at the high school auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kerr were in San Antonio last Saturday to be with their sister, Mrs. T. R. Kuykendall who underwent a serious operation at the Santa Rosa hospital. With the exception of Mrs. Jim Kerr the others returned the first of the week. Latest reports from Mrs. Kuykendall were that she was doing nicely.

Clyde Morris, new manager of the local Texas-Louisiana Power Company, left last Sunday for Toyah, Texas. He returned Tuesday with his family and they are now occupying the house next door to the H. D. Williams home.

Princess Presents Coming Attractions

Those rib-tickling funny men, Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, are doing their stuff Saturday at the Princess Theatre in "Anybody's War," a screamingly comical comedy-romance.

"Anybody's War" is the story of two Tennessee dinkies who are suddenly whisked into the excitement of the big scrap, and who encounter a number of amusing adventures in the trenches. The romantic interest is supplied by Neil Hamilton and Joan Peers, boy and girl from the same town in Tennessee who also become embroiled in the farcical embroglio.

Others in the cast are Walter Weems, veteran blackface trouper and writer, as the sepia sergeant with the tough manners; Walter McGrail as the villain; Betty Farrington as a "cullud gal"; Charles Seilon and Guy Oliver.

The picture is based on a novel, "The Two Black Crows in the AEF," by Charles E. Mack, leader of the famous blackface team.

"Unfaithful," an absorbing drama of the disillusioned wife of a public hero, is Ruth Chatterton's latest dramatic sensation, and the Princess will feature this attraction on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Paul Lukas, seen with Miss Chatterton in her recent pictures, "Anybody's Woman" and "The Right to Love," has the chief supporting role, with Paul Cavanaugh and Juliette Compton, both well-known stage favorites leading the cast.

Miss Chatterton's great talent is given unrestricted play in "Unfaithful." John von Drueten, the playwright who won prize honors with his stage play, "Young Woodley," fashioned this inspiring story especially for her. As an American girl married to the popular hero whom she loves madly; as the disillusioned wife who finds her husband's virtues are merely a mask for his secret philandering; as the reckless thrill-seeker, seeking desperately to drown her pride in one wild escapade after another, this brilliant actress plays a series of characterizations in which her emotional expression finds its best expression.

Again, as in "Anybody's Woman" and "The Right to Love," Paul Lukas enters to save the woman from herself. The suave Lukas has exercised his rare fascination in scores of minor parts. It remained for "Unfaithful" to exercise his talent to the full. Cavanaugh, as the hero-husband, plays an exacting role with great skill and polish. Miss Compton, seen in "Morocco" and "Anybody's Woman" is here the beautiful object of Cavanaugh's extra-marital attentions.

As an assurance that all these excellent materials of cast and story are woven together, the name of John Cromwell, maker of such hits as Powell's "Street of Chance," Bancroft's "Scandal Sheet," appears as director.

The Princess Theatre takes pleasure in announcing for next Wednesday and Thursday, October 14 and 15, the showing of "Broad Minded," Joe E. Brown's latest and funniest comedy.

If you can imagine wide-mouthed Joe bulging out of one side of a baby Austin, in a runaway trip in which he is caretaker for his lady-killing cousin—if you can see him doing the gallant to two fair damsels whose car is wrecked by the way—in the presence of a rip-snorting Latin lover of one of them—you will have the faintest idea of the tempo of "Broad Minded." Many lovely ladies of the screen

Late Paris Model

are in the cast—Ona Munson—Margorie White, Margaret Livingston, Thelma Todd—with Grayce Hampton as a well-meaning and much-needed chaperone. William Collier, Jr., is the devil-with-the-ladies youth, who gives Jojo such concern. Others importantly cast are Holmes Herbert as the ne'er-do-well's father; Bela Lugosi as the tempestuous Spaniard and George Grandee.

The story is the result of the collaboration of Bert Kalmer and Harry Ruby, and Sid Hickox is responsible for the snappy photography. Young Mervyn LeRoy, who was so successful in his direction of "Little Caesar," shows his great versatility in a picture so radically different.

But it is old Joe Brown who makes the wheels of the funny wagon go round. He has never been quite so sidesplitting as in the character of Ossie Simpson—well-named—a timid and well-meaning adorer of the ladies—nonplussed in the midst of such a tornado of lovin' 'em and leavin' 'em—marrying and hoping to be marrying—as even Joe E. has never before experienced on stage or screen. Joe's especial brand of comedy is so genial, with all its slapstick, that he is one of the few comedians who would be a permanent loss—should he decide to retire—which he is not apt to do for many a day. See him in "Broad Minded."

2,000 Licensed To Test Cream Under New State Statute

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 8.—More than 2,000 licenses have been issued for cream and butter fat testers since the new law requiring licensing of testers became effective in August, according to M. S. Frazee, weights and measures chief in the state department of agriculture.

Issuance of the large number of licenses in the short time since the law became effective was regarded as somewhat of a feat, inasmuch as there was no previous record of cream testers and by far the larger part of the licenses were applied for voluntarily.

Inspectors, meanwhile, are checking up on equipment and methods of the testers as rapidly as possible with the small force of men allotted to the work. Frazee said inspectors had universally found a willingness to co-operate with the state men in the work which was designed fundamentally for the protection of both the farmer and the buyer of milk and cream.

The cream testing law was enacted by the regular session of the legislature after numerous complaints had been made to legislators by their constituents of dissatisfaction with testing methods.

White Elephants

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

It is or was a Siamese custom, I am told, when one native of Siam did a service of any importance to another native of wealth, for the second man to present the first with a white elephant. Now a white elephant is a very sacred possession and a very expensive one. Its life must be protected with the greatest care; it must be fed and kept in condition, and an elephant's appetite, I am told is something fierce. Our neighbor once kept a huge dog—a Great Dane, I believe—which came near eating the family out of house and home until Providence in the form of a swiftly moving motor car removed it from the incidents connected with this world.

A poor man could not afford to keep a white elephant; he would find it difficult to give one away, even if it were not a serious reflection and possibly an insult upon the original giver to do so. To kill it would subject the assassin himself to the severest penalty. It is no joke, then, in Siam to be presented with a white elephant.

Harold and Sarah are very modest young people in very moderate circumstances in life. Recently, they were married and, as is not an infrequent custom, they invited a considerable number of people to the ceremony, some of whom are not in as modest circumstances as are Harold and Sarah. They received, as is also customary, a great assortment of presents.

They will have no use for most of the stuff for years to come and possibly never unless Harold prospers tremendously. If they could sell it back to the merchants from whom it was bought, even at a considerable reduction in price, it would help them out tremendously, but of course that is not to be thought of, for it would indicate a lack of appreciation of the gifts. So they pack them carefully and store them away in the bank or the basement, and look forward to the day when possibly they will be rich enough and have an establishment large enough to afford to keep a few white elephants in comfort without impoverishing themselves.

Most Sensitive Hands in the World

These are the hands of a group of Angora goat hair sorters at Sanford, Maine. The sense of touch in their fingertips can distinguish as many as fifteen different diameters of hairs, in the thousandths of an inch. If the sorter makes a mistake a fine, luxurious and costly piece of velvet may be ruined later in the weaving. A sorter to hold his job must take better care of himself physically than a football player or prize fighter. Ill-health or a sleepless night will disturb the delicate senses sufficiently to cause errors. No women have ever been able to qualify as hair sorters. Oddly enough the 35 men who sit and match hairs all day long are middle-aged or past. Few of them wear glasses, and few mistakes are made.

Friday, October 9, 1931.

THE FOLLOWING editorials were clipped from the Editorial Digest that comes to our desk each week. We are not publishing them as our own opinion but like to present to our readers both sides to every question, and we think that these editorials are worthwhile and interesting.

We are endeavoring to publish a well-written and fairminded paper; one that is a credit to our town and to its business associates. We have gone to considerable expense and installed a late model Linotype so that we may be better able to serve our town and also, to progress with our city and county, and we need the support of our community in every way to publish this paper.

BREVITIES

IMMEDIATELY AFTER GOVERNOR Sterling issued his emphatic statement that he would submit to the second special session of the legislature "not another frazzling thing" than cotton, an Austin gambler dashed madly through state house corridors offering to bet two-to-one that the governor would submit other matters. "Man, you're crazy," a friend warned him. "Haven't you heard the governor has said he wouldn't submit another frazzling thing?" The gambler was disappointed, but he still wanted to bet. "Well," he said, "if you've heard it, too, I'll make it four-to-one." The depression is not so bad as some of us are prone to think it is. A well known South Texas business man makes his point with this story: "A slightly inebriated gentleman was trying to put his car in the garage. Within a block of him, there was but one tree; and, of course, the tree had to grow just off the driveway. Each time the gentleman attempted to park his car, he would head into this lone tree. After five or six tries, he threw himself dejectedly upon the lawn. 'Losh! Losh!' he cried. 'Losh! in an impenetrable forest!'" The number of port-hearings and port-celebrations held on the Gulf Coast in recent weeks indicates how important a part Texas port development plays in the building of the state. Freeport recently presented evidence hoped to persuade the government to give it a uniform, minimum depth of thirty feet. Corpus Christi this week will celebrate a great year of port progress and development. The Intracoastal Canal will soon tie all of Texas' ports into the Great Lakes-Mississippi River system, and canalization of such rivers as the Trinity will give cities as far inland as Dallas similar advantages. Texas heads into an era of great waterway development.

Political Prognostications

ROSS STERLING HAS stamped as "without foundation" rumors to the effect he would not offer for re-election as governor of Texas. People who profess to understand the language of "grass roots" say that Jim Ferguson, who will run for Congressman-at-large, will enter his wife in the governor's race; that Clint Small will again be numbered amongst the gubernatorial contenders.

It is early, much too early, to risk any predictions as to what Texas may do in the forthcoming election for governor; there are too many contingencies. For instance, if Mr. Sterling is sincere in his statement that he will be a candidate for re-election, and if oil should recover to the dollar-per-barrel level and cotton begin to sell for ten cents a pound, then Mr. Sterling will be a mighty hard man to beat. If "Ma" Ferguson is a candidate and the race is primarily a contest between "Ma" and Sterling and Small, then the probabilities are that Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. Sterling will again be in the run-off, with Mrs. Ferguson trailing when the votes are counted.

If, on the other hand, Mrs. Ferguson is not a candidate, and the administration's oil and cotton policies prove to be as futile as they now appear to be, then there would be a mighty good chance for Clint Small to win a race against Ross Sterling or any other candidate who might enter the ring. Finally, if Mr. Sterling changes his mind and decides not to run again, no candidate who has been mentioned to this time would stand much chance against the popular West Texan from Wellington.

Jim Ferguson is not reputed to be a Sterling man; but if the Houstonian should run again, Ferguson could not do him a greater favor than to enter his wife for governor. Mrs. Ferguson can not be elected, but her candidacy can crown Sterling's with success.

Big Business and Depression

THE FIRST OF WHAT promises to be a long line of wage cuts by the country's greatest industries, proves that big business has not escaped the pinch of the depression. In all probabilities the step was inevitable; in fact, the lower cost of living may have warranted an adjustment of wage scales fixed when a dollar was worth so much less than it is today. There are other defects in the organization of big business, however, which demand adjustment to a new condition.

Before golf took so much of the time of big business executives, and before an unprecedented wave of prosperity actually counseled the distribution of tremendous earnings to more and higher-paid executives, one good president did a fairly good job of running a pretty big company. In time a vice president and general manager was put behind glass doors to relieve the president of some of his burden. Then came the prosperity hysteria—quite the counterpart of what we know as the depression hysteria. Presidents were made chairmen-of-the-board with higher salaries and less work. The vice president and general manager was made president and given a raise. The position of executive vice president was created in order that a man in authority might be found on the job while the chairman of the board and the president settled a dispute on the golf links. A vice president was placed in immediate charge of every department of the company's business and, so that he could perfect his game against the time when he, too, would be a president, they created the position of assistant vice president. This expansion of executive organization worked so well there was hardly an hour of the day when you couldn't find an assistant vice president somewhere on the properties of a great business enterprise.

Back in the "money days" this watering of executive personnel may have been as commendable and proper as the watering of stock; but in 1931 it makes too great an overhead for struggling industry to carry. Adjustment to present day conditions should not begin and end with the wage earner and small-salaried office man. The superstructure of business needs a working-over, too.

I. H. MacDonald, business manager of the Hamilton (Ontario) Herald, says:

"At no time more eagerly than in the past trying months has the public looked to the editorial columns of the newspaper or well considered and digested opinions upon which to base actions or frame policies.

"There are men who have grown up, and grown old, in the tradition of the press; men who think only of their product; who send out their forgeries into the world of industry as a father sends out his sons—giving the best that is in themselves.

"In these testing times editorial writers are correlating, reviewing and clarifying current events with sympathetic understanding of humanity, searching investigation, mature deliberation and sound judgment.

"The press is the herald of tomorrow. Amid the dim lights of poverty, the splendor of riches, a myriad of people are listening anxiously.

"Through the newspapers the national advertiser can get an entree to the homes and hearts of newspaper readers in the manner that was not possible some months ago.

"In feverish times the mediocre and the meretricious may be admitted to equality with that which is worthy, because they fall heir to the overflow which excellence is unable to supply, but in testing times people discriminate between the sham and solid, the superficial and the substantial.

"It must be remembered that when the tumult and shouting die down, the strong man, the strong institution, the true artist and the true workman in any and every vocation will be more solidly entrenched than ever.

"Now is the time to advertise; now is the time to capitalize on an intensity of interest that the general public has in the press of today—an interest without parallel, except possibly during the hectic days of the great war."

Philosophy

Philosophy is called the mother of the sciences, the term meaning literally "love of wisdom." The early Greeks considered philosophy as general culture embracing all knowledge. With the broadening of scientific research, however, it was necessary to classify the branches, such as physics, metaphysics, logic, psychology, etc. Thales, a Greek, was the earliest philosopher of record, living about 600 B. Czech Language Being Taught In Many High Schools

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 8, 1931.—Following the action of the State Department of Education in accepting Czech as a modern language, a number of high schools over the State have placed this subject in their curricula, according to Dr. Edward Micek, associate professor of Slavonic languages at the University of Texas. This year for the first time Czech is being taught in the high schools in Austin, Temple, Hallettsville, Houston and Needville, and in St. Ludmila's Academy at Shiner. With but a single exception, the subject is being taught by teachers who received their training in Czech at the University.

A total of 61 students have registered in the Slavonic language department at the University this year, Dr. Micek said, and additions are being made to the classes from time to time.

Story-Telling Contest Is Sponsored By Interscholastic League

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 8.—Story-telling for little children of the first three grades has become one of the most entertaining and popular contests sponsored by the Interscholastic League in a number of counties during the last several years, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas League bureau. The contest is open to sub-juniors, and the children may tell stories ranging from five to eight minutes, according to the rules prevailing in the various counties. The stories may be selected from the school basic and supplementary readers, must be in good English and may be told in monologue style. The purpose of the contest, Mr. Bedichek, added, is to add to the mental enrichment of the pupils and to enable them to give a sincere, intelligent and effective oral interpretation of their conceptions to the audience.

National Wool Week To Be Observed In Nov.

Value of Wool as Wearing Material Stressed; Retailers Endorse Movement

Western cities and towns in wool producing sections will take the lead in promoting National Wool Week, beginning November 9, with stimulation of woollen sales to increase consumption as the final aim.

This was definitely announced by National Wool week committees, following the last meeting in New York City, where leaders of all branches of the trade, from growers to retailers, endorsed all publicity plans for the coming event.

Suggestions were made that sheep men and western merchants unite to promote the week through luncheons at chambers of commerce and service clubs. State women's clubs will be asked to conduct part of the campaign through gatherings and through instruction talks to schools and club meetings.

Newspapers of the west also will play an important part in National Wool Week through special editions telling the value and worth of the sheep industry to its own state. Retail merchants, as well as wholesalers, are planning attractive offerings to buyers during the week and many sales will be held. Window displays will feature virgin wool cloths from the far west.

While this intensive western campaign is under way, eastern wholesalers and big retail stores are making plans to concentrate on the week with special advertising and constant reminders to buyers of the dates for the event.

Mill men and experts in the wool trade will give radio talks, special lectures and conduct luncheons to stress the value of wool as a wearable material, with remarkable new features in style as well as quality.

TRUST BANKING SPREADING FAST

Government Official Shows
That This Type of Financial Service Is Enlarging
Its Field

SPECTACULAR growth of trust service in the banking field is reflected in the national banking system, Aubrey B. Carter, in charge of Trust department supervision in the office of Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D. C., brings out in an article in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"At the close of the 1930 fiscal year there were 2,472 national banks with trust powers," he says. "Their banking resources aggregated $23,529,100,000, which represented 34 per cent of the number of banks and 80 per cent of the total banking resources of the 7,252 national banks. Trust departments had been established by 1,829 of these banks which were administering 79,900 individual trusts with trust assets aggregating $4,473,000,000, and in addition were administering 11,500 corporate trusts and acting as trustees for outstanding note and bond issues aggregating $11,893,700,000.

"These figures represent an increase during a four-year period of 446, or 22 per cent, in the number of national banks authorized to exercise trust powers; an increase of 725, or 66 per cent, in the number of banks actively administering trusts; an increase of 65,370, or 250 per cent, in the number of trusts being administered; an increase of $3,500,000,000, or 385 per cent, in the volume of individual trust assets under administration, and an increase of $9,340,000,000, or 379 per cent, in the volume of bond issues outstanding for which these institutions were acting as trustees."

These facts, he concludes are "a striking testimonial of the growing public recognition of the desirability of the corporate fiduciary in the settlement of estates and the administration of trusts."

SPECIAL TRAINS TO BRING 50,000
TO SAN ANTONIO FOR W. O. W. AFFAIR

U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, W. O. W. Treasurer, to Deliver Main Address

Special trains of Woodmen of the World members and their families from all sections of the United States and Mexico will bring more than 50,000 people to the formal dedication of the William Alexander Fraser Chapel and Bird Sanctuary, which will be held November 22 at San Antonio, Texas, according to W. A. Fraser, president of the Woodmen of the World with headquarters at Omaha, Nebraska.

Railroads have indicated that special rates will be offered from leading vicinities of the country. The dedication program is to last three days. Leading speakers with national reputations have accepted invitations to make addresses during the program. The principal speaker on November 22 will be Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, who is treasurer of the Woodmen of the World. Senator Sheppard is the author of the 18th Amendment and a speaker of national reputation.

A mammoth barbeque with pork, beef, and mutton products from the farm of the Woodmen of the World Memorial Hospital will be served without cost to the Woodmen of the World Pilgrims attending the dedication.

"Leading Church Dignitaries from all faiths will take part in the program," said Mr. Fraser. "The Woodmen of the World Chapel is a universal church in which every denomination will be represented. Regardless of religion, everyone can hold services in the Chapel."

President Fraser has announced he plan to a half million members of the association by which they may earn their way to the dedication through the performance of service to the Woodmen of the World. The Woodmen of the World expects in this way to pay the expenses of several thousand members.

The Bird Sanctuary was built following a study of the Bok Tower and Bird Sanctuary in Florida and other such structures in various parts of the world.

The Chapel has a patio with a beautiful fountain especially designed, according to Mr. Fraser. The exterior of the Chapel is of Indiana limestone and of a unique architectural design. Dark oak with large ceiling beams are used in the interior. The main stained-glass window of the Church is a production of Tiffany of New York.

Another window of the Chapel contains an art memorial dedicated to the States in which the Woodmen of the World does business. Special landscaping has helped to make the Chapel one of the most beautiful structures in all of Texas. Phelps and Dewees of San Antonio are the architects.

An "Ace" . . . on every count, is this fine open coil type. It might be termed the modern coil spring for it was developed from that popular kind . . . yet it has been so vastly improved that you would hardly recognize it . . . More coils than in most springs, and each of just the right resiliency. Small governor springs prevent all side-sway. No rocking or tilting. Angle-iron top binding prevents tearing of sheets. Finished in a beautiful robin's-egg blue and priced no higher than ordinary springs.

Validity of House Bill 80 Attacked by High Courts

Deputy Tax Collector W. D. Hunter received word this week from State Comptroller Geo. H. Sheppard asking that no delinquent taxes be collected under House Bill 80 which was passed by the legislature. Right now the validity of this bill is being attacked by the supreme court. The substance of the bill is that all interest and penalties accrued and as now fixed by law, on all State, County, Special School, School District, Road District, Levee Improvements, District and Irrigation District taxes and taxes of other defined subdivisions of the State, other than incorporated cities and towns, delinquent up to and including October 20, 1931, shall be, and the same are hereby released, provided said taxes are paid on or before January 31, 1932.

Should this bill be declared valid most every county in the State will be hard hit when it comes to finances. Right now, unless taxes are soon paid in this county, there will be no funds for the county to run on. Then deficiency warrants will have to be issued unless a large amount of taxes are collected within the next few weeks.

Mr. Hunter also received word on Wednesday that when a tax payer takes advantage of the split tax law and pays one half of his taxes by November 30, 1931, that he will have to pay his poll tax then.

Tax collecting will soon start in this county and it is believed that those tax payers who can will pay their taxes soon and thus enlarge

Doors and probably a concrete floor will be installed. This work is being done by the quartermaster at Fort D. A. Russell with W. G. Hubbard as foreman.

Lieut. Ramey in command of a flight of twenty-eight aircrafts with a student at the controls, landed at this airport and refueled. One aircraft remaining at this airport with a bad magneto. Lieut. Whatson of Kelly Field flying a pursuit aircraft brought a new magneto and same was installed and both aircrafts left for their home station.
