Real Live Lord To Be In Marfa For Convention

Prominent Rotarian To Be Guest Of Honor At Convention

Unless all plans gang a'gley, Marfa folks will have an opportunity to shake hands with a real live English Lord about next May 4th, when Sir Charles A. Mander, Bart., of Wolverton, England, attends the Forty-Second District International Rotary Meeting in Marfa next May 4th and 5th. Sir Charles is a director of Rotary International, and is without doubt the biggest figure in all European Rotary. Charles J. Andrews, District Governor of the Forty-Second District has notified President Lee Glascock of the intended visit of Sir Charles, and unless complications of an international character arise in England his visit is a certain fact. In addition to this celebrity Marfa Rotarians have been assured that Clint Anderson of Albuquerque, N. M., prominent Rotarian of the Southwest and connected with the official family, Rotary International will also be present at the meeting. Incidentally it might be noted that our own Hillman Davis, secretary of the Marfa club since time was, has been announced as secretary of the District Meeting here in May 1932. Marfa Rotarians are expecting to entertain the largest crowd of visitors at this meeting that has ever visited the city in any convention. President Lee and his directors are already laying plans for the entertainment of the visitors. —Big Bend Sentinel.

Christmas Seals On Sale Today By Students

The annual Red Cross Christmas seals will begin in Sanderson today, Friday, when several hundred of the seals will be distributed among the school children who will offer them for sale among the business houses and the residents of our city. These seals are sold for a penny a piece and the funds from their sales go toward helping fight Tuberculosis in Texas. Tuberculosis Christmas seals in 1931 made possible the following: Health education work among all classes and races. Extensive health work in the schools, also monthly health outlines for teachers. The physical examination of over 5000 school children. A full time worker among the Mexicans. A full time worker among the Negroes and conducting the 13th Annual Negro Health Week. Cooperation with other health agencies in promoting health work. The 4th Annual Early Diagnosis Campaign, which discovered hundreds of cases of tuberculosis in the curable stage. Twenty-six county organizations doing year round work. For our workers to reach over 200,000 persons with a health message. Mrs. Bertha Brown and children left the latter part of last week for Dallas where they will spend some time visiting relatives. Preliminaries are practically out of the way (including improvement of the streets leading up to the property) for starting work on the new Southern Pacific passenger station at Houston, the city spending $2,000,000 and the railroad company $3,000,000 on the project.

New Rail Chief

Frederic Ely Williamson, who first began work for the New York Central lines as a clerk in 1898, has been elected president of the company to succeed Patrick E. Crowley on his retirement at the end of the year.

Auxiliary Gives Pounding To Local Pastor

Rev. McCall And Wife Remembered By Organization

More than fifty came through the pouring rain last week to attend the pageant given at the church by the Presbyterian Auxiliary. After the program a delightful social hour followed when Mrs. D. A. Pollard and Mrs. H. D. Williams with many helpers served pumpkin pie and coffee.

Just before the party broke up Messrs. W. H. Vaughn and Will Savage struggled in with two large hampers and placed them at the pastor's feet. They were filled to the top with 75 varieties of the choicest foods found in the Sanderson markets.

Both the pastor and his wife are most grateful for this substantial expression of love and god will.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK

You wish to be known as a person with opinions you are not afraid to express. You say you have no use for the person who changes his opinion. You state that you are still supporting the opinions you formed many years ago. Time with its changing conditions has added years to your life but has not increased your knowledge and reasoning powers. You call it stubbornness, but, in reality, you have not advanced. In your effort to seem strong-minded you have closed your mind to everything that disagrees with your previously conceived opinions. You might have added much to your store of facts and fundamentals but when you once form an opinion you keep it. Wise men change their opinions when confronted with irrefutable proof. Opinionated persons live in the past—the world and its advancement mean nothing to them—they are dead timber. John Green Jr., who is attending A. & M. College at Las Cruces, N. M., spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Green and his sister, Miss Willie Mae. S. S. Daggett attended Masonic Grand Lodge in Waco this week, Mrs. Daggett remaining in San Antonio with her sister Mrs. C. V. Loughlin.

SANDERSON BEATEN BY ALPINE 46 TO 0

Some of the outstanding speakers heard at this meeting were Miss Florence Hale, President of the National Education Association, and state rural school supervisor, Augusta, Maine, Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Superintendent of Schools, Atlanta, Georgia, and retiring President of National Education Association; Mr. E. E. Oberholzer, Superintendent of Schools, Houston, Texas and Mr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C.

PRINCESS THEATRE REOPENED LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

After being closed over a month due to a break in part of the talkie equipment, the Princess Theatre reopened last Thursday evening showing the late talkie picture, "I take this woman." A fairly large crowd was out to the opening program.

Mrs. C. I. White, the manager, stated that the Princess would in the future, for awhile at least, only show three nights a week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Occasionally a special show will be held on Monday and Tuesday nights.

An unusually good program has been booked by Mrs. White for this week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Deaton and children of Del Rio spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her mother, Mrs. W. R. Ellis.

Haseltine Sends Dobie Picture of "Old Missouri"

Character In "Coronado's Children" Well-Known To Geo. C. Haseltine

To those who have read and loved J. Frank Dobie's "Coronado's Children," the figure of Larkin, or "Old Missouri," the old prospector, is familiar. George C. Haseltine knew him; well when he was in and out of Sanderson in the early nineties. Thus it was that when he read the book and saw the purely fanciful picture of Old Missouri, as Dobie himself describes the drawing, he decided to send the author an authentic photograph, one which he had taken himself.

The day he took the picture, the subject, Missouri, was starting out on one of his many prospecting trips, this time into the Big Bend country. His burro, which appears in the picture, was packed, and Mr. Haseltine and some of the other boys had embellished the pack with an old rifle and a six-shooter, merely for the effect. As Missouri never carried a gun on his prospecting trips. He "traveled light," having as his only cooking utensils a coffee-pot, a small frying pan, a five-pound lard-bucket, a tin cup, and a canteen.

On one of his trips into the Chisos Mountains he brought back a float which he had picked up, and which, when sent to El Paso, and assayed, ran copper and gold to $900 to the ton. Missouri, at the time he discovered the float, could not penetrate farther into the canyon in search of the vein from which the float had been separated, as he was almost out of both food and water, it being usually dry. Later, when he made other trips, he could never locate it. Missouri was also interested in the Lost Negro mine, mentioned in Dobie's book. Old Missouri died about 1898 or 1899.

Mr. Haseltine found the book very absorbing, knowing so many of the characters personally and others by reputation. He knew the Reagan boys and his wife knew the Mrs. Stillwell mentioned in the book.

Mr. Haseltine received an appreciative note from Dobie, which we quote:

October 26, 1931.
Mr. George C. Haseltine, Fort Stockton, Texas.
Dear Mr. Haseltine:
Absence from Austin has prevented my replying sooner to your interesting and cordial letter of October 15. Yes, indeed, I should appreciate very much an authentic picture of "Old Missouri." The one in my book is purely fanciful. Thanking you very much, I am,
Sincerely yours,
J. Frank Dobie.

Snow Halts Traffic West Of Sanderson

Terrell County was visited by a light snow and rain this week with a considerable drop in temperature. Reports reaching here are to the effect that West of here, particularly at Alpine the snowfall was heavier and in the Davis Mountain considerable anxiety was felt for the numerous hunters that were in that section hunting.

Traffic west of here was blocked Monday night and the motor bus was not able to go through to Alpine. Cars reaching the city Tuesday from points West were covered in snow and tourist report that it was very cold and that the snow was very heavy.

Thursday the weather moderated and the sun shone and it is expected that for a few days milder temperatures will be experienced. Reports from the South part of the county are that it was warmer and that plenty of winter feed and water is assured.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Schooley, who are ranching near Dryden were Del Rio visitors Monday.

Cast Gets "Hardboiled"

Pipe down! supplanted the usual "Quiet!" at the beginning of sound scenes filmed aboard the U. S. S. Colorado for Robert Montgomery's first starring picture, "Shipmates," which will be shown at the Princess Theatre tonight. Technicians and Director Harry Pollard's assistants heard so much navy "lingo" during the filming of the nautical romance that they unconsciously picked up the slang phrases. The cast, including Ernest Torrence, Dorothy Jordan, Hobart Bosworth and Cliff Edwards also became experts at using the sailor slang.

FURNITURE CHANGES KEEP MOHAIR IN VOGUE

SOME FACTORS IN MOHAIR'S PERMANENT POPULARITY

- LONG WEARING
- COMFORTABLE
- BEAUTIFUL APPEARANCE
- EASY TO CLEAN
- MOTH-PROOF

HEAD COMES ON END OF FIBRE, SO WHEN AN ACCIDENT HAPPENS TO THE SOFT PILE, IT DOES NOT MATTER.

MOHAIR NOW CHEMICALLY TREATED TO RESIST MOTH DAMAGE

LONGEST WEARING FABRIC IS MOHAIR

Great Durability Explains Its Perennial Popularity for Furniture Use.

STYLES may come and style may go, in furniture as in everything else, but one kind of upholstery—mohair velvet—remains in constant popularity ever since the invention of power machinery put it within the reach of everyday folk, and not just of kings and nobles, as in previous centuries.

The demand for furniture covered with fabric made from the fleece of the angora goat has increased steadily until now the United States leads the world in angora goat raising and consequently in the production of mohair materials.

Its great durability is undoubtedly the chief reason why mohair velvet is an upholstery perennial. Not even the beauty and luster of its soft texture would suffice to win the housewife's repeated approval if mohair velvet, or velveteen as it is often called, did not surpass all other materials in wearing quality. This is partly because the mohair itself is the longest wearing animal fiber known and partly because it is a pile fabric, with the wear coming on the ends of the fiber instead of along the sides. As high as 40,000 of these sturdy fibers are found to the square inch of mohair velvet.

Some knowledge of the physical structure and chemical composition of the mohair fiber is necessary to understand why it makes a superior upholstery fabric. Seen under a microscope, the mohair fiber is smooth and shiny, with fewer scales or serrations than on the wool fiber. This means that it does not attract dirt so quickly, that dust tends to slide off the smooth hairs and that actual dirt is easily removed with a swift brushing or with soap and water if necessary, without affecting the color. Then, too, mohair takes a fast, acid dye, so that the effects of sun and strong light need not be feared. Like all animal fibers, mohair is normally attractive to the pestiferous house moth, but now science has perfected a means of effectually and permanently mothproofing mohair velvet. It has been noticed that moths will actually die in preference to attaching the fabric. When one considers the tremendous amount of damage done annually by this innocent looking little insect, it is obvious that for this feature alone mohair recommends itself as the ideal fabric for fine furniture.

But though mohair velvet remains popular season after season, its colors, patterns and weaves change with the current fashion. Beautiful solid colors, or two-tone weaves, varied designs, modernistic effects or conventional patterns may all be had in mohair velvet. Sometimes the pile is cut to form the pattern, the remaining pile being stamped with a floral or other design. In other places, the pattern is formed by cutting certain of the loops and the fabric is then called frieze. If the uncut portion predominates, it is called friesette. Then again, the material may be hand-blocked in striking designs or woven on a Jacquard loom with various colored mohair yarns.

Then, too, mohair velvet has been found to be virtually fadeless, unchanging after years of constant exposure to the sun and elements. This is because of the unusual construction of the mohair fiber, which is tubular and very attractive to acid dye. The unusual long service which mohair velvet gives is due to the fact that being a pile fabric, the wear comes on the ends of the fibers and not along the sides. It does not really hold down because the surface of the fibers, unlike those of wool, are smooth and glossy. Actual soil is easily removed with soap and water.

GIVING ADVICE AND TAKING IT

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Emeritus Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

Parson Adams was giving very sage and perhaps sensible advice to Joseph Andrews. Joseph was in love as young men are wont to be even today and like most men in this condition was impatient for the marriage ceremony. The good parson was urging restraint of desire and emotions, and laying down the principle that one should never be so inflated with anything human that he could not easily bring himself without too much disturbing his mental and emotional equilibrium to give up. Joseph did not fall for the principle.

"You are too much inclined to passion, child," the parson advised, "and have set your affections so absolutely on this young woman, that if God required her at your hands I fear that you would reluctantly part with her. Now believe me, no Christian ought so to set his heart on any person or thing in this world but that whenever it shall be required or taken from him in any manner by Divine providence, he may be able, quietly, and contentedly to resign it."

The theory sounded all right, but the preacher had scarcely uttered his advice until a messenger brought him the sad and startling news that his youngest child had just been drowned. The news was too much for him and he burst into an agony of grief and lamentation. Joseph tried in vain to comfort him with his own philosophy, but to no avail.

"Child, child," he said, "do not go about impossibilities. Had it been any other of my children, I could have borne it with patience."

Very likely but it is usually a good deal easier to give some one else a dose of bitter medicine than it is to take it oneself.

"If I had infected tonsils," Watson tells me, "I'd have them out right away."

I wonder if he would!

C. I. A. CONCERT TO BE PRESENTED ON DECEMBER 6th

DENTON, Nov. 4.—In cooperation with twenty professional players from Dallas, the Texas State College for Women (CIA) Symphony Orchestra, will make its first appearance December 6 in the college auditorium in a combination concert with the choral club. Daisy Polk, well-known Texas soprano, will render the solo parts of the choral numbers.

The college orchestra, composed entirely of students and under the direction of David C. Hansard, although giving programs during past seasons, has never before been combined with a professional group.

The CIA choir will also be included in the concert. The choir recently broadcasted in the Liberal Arts Movement program over WFAA Dallas.

Several localities in West Texas are manufacturing sorgum molasses this year for the first time.

A creek of moods is the Cottonwood. It is 250 feet wide, can be crossed only at certain places due to its twenty foot banks and yet it flows only after rains. It flows the water for several miles and then dumps it on the plains. Later the waters go to Toyah creek. A funny stream is the Cottonwood, it runs gets tired, throws up the job and then comes the Toyah and pays debts the Cottonwood has created.

AMERICA, HER EDUCATION AND RELIGION

Excerpts from a speech delivered before Hanson Post No. 54, American Legion, Amarillo, Texas.
America, the youngest member of the family of nations, first saw the light of day in 1620. Across the ocean came a pilgrim barque bearing seeds of life and death, the former were sown for you, and the latter for the path of the simple native.
Three hundred years have changed the character of the continent almost blotted forever from its face a peculiar race of people. In this simplicity of life, untrammelled by civilization, they beheld Him the timid warbler that never left his native grove, in the sacred orb of flame from His mid-day throne, and in their own matchless form with a spark of that light to whose mysterious source they bent humble though blind adoration. All this passed on memory's screen we see George Washington standing in mid-winter at Valley Forge a handful of soldiers, hungry, cold, ragged and forlorn, oppressed by an environment and obsessed by fear. Washington, that monumental mind of the last three hundred years, looked across the oncoming centuries and beheld a mighty nation replete with the advances of civilization.
He formed a Government and a Constitution for his people, guaranteeing to them the right to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience, the peaceful pursuit of happiness, and a Government of, for and by the people where might should never supersede right, and where property rights should never overshadow, control and emerge human rights.
Our educational system today is one of the greatest gestures looking toward the emancipation of the human mind from the baleful influence of ignorance, superstition and fear that is known to recorded history. Education means to bring out of and not to place within. It means the development of the inherent potential God-given properties that were placed in the human mind in the beginning of its creation. Much of our effort today along educational lines is, however, misdirected effort and misapplied energy.
When we learn, if ever, that man really means mind, and Lord properly interpreted, means law, then we shall begin to pass more rapidly from darkness to light. From the time God said "Let there be Light," two mighty forces have been active and organized for the purpose of lifting, expanding and unfolding the intellect of man of subjecting it to the powers of darkness. These two forces, roughly speaking, are light and darkness. One is represented by education, which is intended to increase the intelligence of man, develop the power of analysis and synthesis and direct his activities by wisdom, reason and understanding; the other is governed by emotion more or less blind, and in its organization, individually or collectively as may be the case, is subject to propaganda of every type and form; is subject to attacks of fanaticism, superstition and fear, led and directed in its last analysis by the love of ruling and the perpetuation of power in principalities and high places, fed by the hope of attaining self aggrandizement, self, power, and pull.
Without vision the people perish. We must educate or we must perish, and if we hope for the sun to continue to shine on the faces of freedom, we must educate all the children of the land. If we expect right to continue to rule the land, and if we expect human rights to predominate in the thought force of the people, if we expect the principals of this government, namely a government of, for and by the people, to rule the land and Old Glory to continue to be the symbol of right, freedom, love and liberty, we must continue to educate and elevate the thinking mind of the nation and give the mind of the people an added impetus in its spiral flight upward.
In this world-wide condition of turmoil and strife where man is losing confidence in man, where kingdoms and institutions are falling and fading from the land, America, the youngest of nations, by reason of her position, her wealth and her manhood, is hiding the Orient good-night and with outstretched hands, of welcome, good morning to a new era, a new dawn and a higher thought force among men in her education and religion. She must look forward to a greater development of the mind of man and her citizenship as well, and to a higher regard for the universals of religion in its highest concept.
The newest institution in America today in the realm of civics, ethics, and fraternities is a unit of a world-wide organization having for its watchword or slogan "God, Country and Home," teaching in its daily effort an obligation of maintenance of the principals on which this government was founded, the universal education of the youth of the earth the maintenance of the flags of this and other nations as the symbols of a heritage of the past, and balanced application and unity of purpose of the present and a unified force for the future; the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, peace and good will to all men—everywhere.

WHO PAYS?

Recently the head of an animal remedy concern made the statement that his payroll was over $2,000,000 a year. In his state are a number of other similar concerns which we believe are doing as large a business. A great number of other smaller ones are operating. Who pays for it?
Go into other important livestock states and you will find somewhat the same story. Thousands of remedy peddlers, many of them with few qualifications other than a fluent vocabulary, are swarming the livestock sections of the country. Millions upon millions of farmers' hard-earned dollars are being taken in exchange for pills and liquids, many of which might as well be poured into the sewer.
Many of the remedy peddlers have been known to make all sorts of unjustified claims for the products they sell. They will assert that their so-called "medicines" will cure disease that are incurable. They are known drug remedies for contagious abortion in cattle, hog cholera, influenza, tuberculosis, distemper, heaves in horses, bacillary white diarrhea in poultry, fowl cholera, roup, diphtheria, chicken pox or blackhead in turkeys. Yet remedy peddlers often claim their products as cures for these diseases.
In some cases they will sell their products as a cure-all for everything. In other cases they will make a diagnosis or get the company's "specialist" to come out and make the diagnosis. Then they will produce the remedy. In too many cases the hired man is just as well qualified to make the diagnosis as the so-called "specialist."
There are high class manufacturers of livestock remedies. But they are not likely to turn their products loose with just any high-powered salesman to be prescribed for any condition he may find. Consult a good veterinarian. If he says a remedy is good and worth the money use it.
In times like this it is poor business to pour millions upon millions of hard-earned dollars into the pockets of unscrupulous remedy peddlers and manufacturers. Are you paying this part of this toll?—Successful Farming, Des Moines, Iowa.

THIS AND THAT By JIMMINY

The overwhelming Democratic victory in the special election held last week in the Fourteenth Congressional District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Harry M. Wurzbach, can mean, but one of two things: either the Republicans need more postmasters in Texas or the W. C. T. U. must stage bigger and better parades.
The two principal Democratic candidates together polled over 30,000 votes, compared with only 5586 votes polled by the Republican who was sent forth by the G. O. P. forces to render aid to a "lost cause." Why the Republicans chose a dry to be the victim is a secret not disclosed by the Grand Old Party. The Fourteenth is exceedingly wet, and any candidate, no matter what his party preference might be, who is a dry and hopes to win in a district as moist as the Fourteenth is all "wet" if he thinks he can win.
Dick Kleberg won handsomely, as is seen in the final count. Whether he won because of his popularity or because of his "personal liberty" convictions is a moot question; but it is safe to say the combination had much to do with the final outcome.
It is significant from the action of the voters that your ordinary citizen does not vote party affiliation against personalities. Harry Wurzbach, a Republican, held the seat of Congressman from the Fourteenth for 11 years before his death, not because he followed Republican concepts but because he struck popular fancy in a district that is normally Democratic.
Richard M. Kleberg, a Democrat, won in the special election to fill Wurzbach's seat not because he was a follower of the principals laid down by Jefferson and Wilson but because he was a picturesque figure in the life of a community which has long been "cattle country" and because he believed, as so many of his constituents do, that every man has a "right to wet his whistle" when he so chooses.
Kleberg is to that section of Texas where he lives what Paderewski is to music. He may be expected to give a good account of himself in the national Congress.
But Congressman Kleberg has made one serious mistake. When he went to the polls on election day he had to make affidavit to vote, because he had lost his poll tax receipt. Mr. Kleberg must remember that the first rule of the "well regulated politician" is to have a "paid up" poll tax receipt in his pocket-book at all times. No politician nor any citizen should be without one.
Teachers Inaugurate Alarm Clock Race
DENTON, Nov. 4.—Alarm clock racing has become the latest diversion of blasé modern girls. There are those folks who race their trained fleas, and there is the proverbial race of the tortoise and the rabbit, but the latest wrinkle is the contest of the sleep-breakers held at sunrise.
"I challenge you to an alarm clock duel. Bring your 'man' to the main hall second floor at 6:30 in the morning, (signed) Crossed Swords." And it all happened in this manner. The girls on one floor of one of the dormitories at Texas State College for Women (CIA) all entered their alarm clocks in a which-can-ring-the longest contest giving the prize to the Old Ironsides which rang steadily for three minutes, twenty-eight and one-half seconds. Girls will be responsible for this latest craze for the boys are few and far between who will get up that early in the morning for sport.
The scene of the last battle of Geronimo, in Texas, in the Apache Canyon is covered with resurrection plants. It is a plant that lies flat and green on the ground but when pulled up forms a ball. Put it in water, and it comes to life. You can do that two or three times and then it dies. The scene of the last fight is difficult to reach but it is a treasure house of Indian relics.

BREVITIES
A peculiar thing about the attorney general's oyster suit is that it prosecutes one large Texas oil company for not doing a thing, for the doing of which it had to defend a suit brought against it by one of Mr. Allred's predecessors in office. Mr. Allred complains that defendants to his action, contrary to the Texas' law, will not "loan" pumps and other filling station equipment to station operators. It was not so long ago that another Texas attorney general sued one of the defendants in the present action for doing that very thing. Here seems to be another instance of "sued if you do, and sued if you don't."
The election of Richard M. Kleberg to represent the 14th congressional district of Texas in the national House, restores the solid Democracy of Texas' congressional delegation. To all appearances, Mr. Kleberg was unquestionably the popular choice, yet the Corpus Christi Caller, numbered among his most ardent supporters, was dismayed by the apathy of the people. Under the caption "For the people but not by the people," it said:
"Yesterday's election displayed America's usual indifference as to who runs the country. As this is written, voting throughout the fourteenth congressional district is still light though poll closing time draws near.
In late afternoon, supporters of candidates were hard at work calling for voters, accompanying them to the polls. Electioneers were surprised at the degree of apathy manifest in decision of a question of such vital importance to Corpus Christi.
Politicians of experience are not surprised. They know that the much vaunted right of suffrage is one that is never fully exercised.
Too many do not know their rights, responsibilities as citizens. They complain of taxation, tariff graft, gangsterism, yet do nothing about it.
Political rings, machines take advantage of the fact that a patronized, organized minority will always defeat an indifferent, unorganized majority. Unscrupulous politicians expend funds, effort without stint in campaigning, seize benefits greedily in victory.

THOUSANDS OF W. O. W. PILGRIMS ATTEND IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AT NEW CHAPEL

Above is a photograph of the new Woodmen of the World Chapel at San Antonio, Texas. Inset is W. A. Fraser, president for whom the chapel was named.
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 22.—By auto, train, airplane and foot came thousands of members of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance association from nearly every state in the Union to help celebrate the dedication of the William Alexander Fraser chapel and bird sanctuary this afternoon.
The beautiful chapel is on the grounds of the W. O. W. War Memorial hospital a short distance from San Antonio.
From early morning until late in the evening, the exceptionally large number of W. O. W. pilgrims inspected the chapel and bird sanctuary, as well as the hospital and its spacious grounds.
They were thrilled by the masterful oration of U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, national treasurer of W. O. W., who made the principal address.
National officers of the association took part in the formal dedication of the building, as well as ministers of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.
The Ninth Infantry band from Fort Sam Houston played.
An elaborate program of music included a recital by St. Mark's Church choir, a number by the San Antonio Liederkreis, a feature by the Beethoven Maennerchor and organ recitals by Ben Stanley of Omaha, Nebraska, Walter Dunham and John M. Steinfeldt.
The beautiful chimes of the Chapel lent much atmosphere to the impressive occasion.
Thousands were guests of W. O. W. at a huge barbecue of products from the farm of the W. O. W. hospital. Many members of the association came as guests of W. O. W., having won their expenses to the dedication by special performance in a large membership campaign.
The chapel was named for William Alexander Fraser, president of W. O. W., because of his personal enthusiasm and long devotion to the building of a great W. O. W. center at San Antonio. Mr. Fraser began the task of raising funds to purchase the hospital grounds twenty-five years ago.
Everyone in attendance agreed that Woodmen of the World has contributed much to the wonders of Texas by the unusual architectural design and the solemn physical beauty of the new building.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE OF PROMINENT YOUNG LADY IS ANNOUNCED

The beautifully appointed tea given by Mrs. Sam V. Houston Saturday afternoon at her home was a lovely compliment to Miss Mary Rose Kerr, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Peter Clemens Schiffers was announced. The spacious rooms of this attractive home were ablaze with a profusion of chrysanthemums, pink roses, marigolds and jack beans. Everywhere were seen bowls of these chosen blossoms.

Greeting the guests in the reception hall, which was decorated with gorgeous bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, were the hostess, the honoree, and Mrs. Rosa Dewees, Mrs. J. P. Houston and Mrs. J. B. Munns.

Mrs. Houston wore a lovely gown of blue crepe and lace with a corsage of pale pink roses.

Miss Kerr was gowned in a handsome velvet costume with a rhinestone yoke. With this she wore a corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Dewees was lovely in a gown of pale pink chiffon with a corsage of pink roses and tiny lavender chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Munns was in green flat crepe and a corsage of red roses.

The living room was effectively decorated with masses of yellow, gold and bronze chrysanthemums, together with small bowls of lovely mixed flowers.

The dining room was fragrant with quantities of yellow chrysanthemums. The tea table was laid with an exquisite imported lace tea cloth and marking its corner was a lovely green bowl in which was massed pink roses, lace fern and pink carnations. Pink tapers burned in low green holders. Silver trays held dainty pink and green colored sandwiches and crystal bowls were filled with nuts and pink and green mints. Presiding at the coffee service was Mrs. T. C. Echenburg, who wore a black satin with a corsage of pink roses and lavender daisies.

Serving the pudding, which was a beautiful ring-shaped confection with mounds of pink frosting, was Mrs. J. T. Houston, wearing black satin with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Assisting in serving the guests there were Miss Gertrude Murray, who was lovely in a white crepe frock with rhinestone trimmings; Miss Patty Carnes, in pale blue taffeta, and Miss Alfreda Carnes, in pink taffeta.

A lovely surprise of the tea was the announcement of Miss Kerr's approaching marriage, which was made in a most unique manner. A very persistent salesman, Mr. E. J. Tiner, selling Christmas cards forced himself in the midst of all the ladies, insisting on leaving sample cards for each one. These cards when read, contained the following verse:

"What's this I hear; Whir! Whir! Whir!
It's someone coming for Mary Rose Kerr.
What; Is she leaving? Yes—
'tis so;
To a far away land she will go.
And what could the reason be;
Why, she's getting married—see;
Married? Did you say married?
To whom?
Don't you know, Pete Schiffers is to be the groom?
And the marriage date as well as I can remember.
Is on the twenty-ninth day of December.
And then to Cartagena they will roam.

ECONOMICAL TO USE PRE-LEAVENED FLOUR

This is a question often asked by women—just what is self-rising flour? From what is it made and what are the advantages in using it?

Well, first of all, self-rising flour is a soft wheat flour to which the miller adds pure monocalcium phosphate and bicarbonate of soda, which is really baking powder, and salt for seasoning. So it is after all a ready prepared or pre-leavened flour.

Using self-rising flour in the home three times each day has many advantages. The greatest thing about it is its dependability. In fact, self-rising flour gives the only source of a uniform biscuit 365 times a year. Do not add baking soda or baking powder to it.

When a woman mixes soda and buttermilk, she has no way to tell accurately about the acidity of the buttermilk without taking it to a laboratory, and if she wants to have a first-class biscuit, the soda and buttermilk must neutralize each other. In the self-rising flour the leavening is accurately proportioned by weight and on a basis of a minimum, whereas, the other way is usually a maximum and guess work at that.

Self-rising flour is economical for all baking purposes because it saves the purchase of baking powder, soda and salt.

You can take any of your own favorite cake recipes and change it into a self-rising flour recipe.

Use one whole egg or two egg whites to each one and a half cupfuls of flour, and add one tablespoonful of liquid for each egg omitted from the original recipe. Omit all baking powder and soda. Do no unnecessary beating. Do not let batter stand after mixing. Bake at the correct temperature.

The most common mistake in baking cakes is in having too hot an oven. Keep the oven at 350 degrees F.
