LEGION SEEKS NEW BENEFITS FOR VETERANS

Counter-attack Undertaken To Forestall Cuts In Allowances

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. (AP)—To forestall threatened reductions in allowances of former soldiers of all wars, the American Legion is undertaking a counter-attack to gain new benefits for new World War veterans in the coming congress.

The plan as described today at Legion headquarters, involves four major points—including the bonus—which could cost upward of two years.

The Legion, said officials, is proceeding on the theory that the justice of the things they think are needed should decide the fate of legislation rather than any need for economy.

As outlined the program calls for: Immediate cash payment of the adjusted compensation certificates, requiring around $2,000,000,000.

Pensions for widows and orphans of World War veterans, which the veterans administration estimates would cost $13,531,000 the first year and $454,060,000 the first ten years.

Amendment of existing law to permit the presumption that veterans asking for hospitalization or other benefits for some constitutional diseases contracted those ailments while in the service. This would cost near $12,000,000 the first ten years, it is estimated.

Establishment of a special Senate committee to handle veterans' legislation only.

The bonus, Legion officials say, "can wait awhile." But, proposing to push the other legislation for immediate action, they say that justice demands payment of the compensation certificates, too. When that comes along, they remark, "I is not our problem to say how the money can be raised." They point out, though, that every recent issue of government securities has been oversubscribed five or six-to-one.

So far, the Legion's campaign has been limited to "educational work back home," sending to various posts information to support the proposed laws. Soon congressional aid will be sought.

Meanwhile, the Legion, is using similar "back home" methods to counteract the drives of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Economy League for reductions in veterans allowances. The principal argument that adoption of the changes proposed by these two organizations would simply take the burden off the federal government and shift it to the states.

W. B. A. Review Has Visit From State Officer

Mrs. Sallie D. Botzler, State Field Director of Texas for the Woman's Benefit Association, a fraternal insurance for women, paid the local W. B. A. Review an official visit last Friday.

Mrs. Botzler whose home is in Dallas, came here from Del Rio where she had had a meeting with that Review. While here she explained to the members at the meeting, which was held at the Masonic Temple, the many new features and policies that the organization is now offering. From here Mrs. Botzler went to Alpine for a meeting and on to El Paso.

Following the meeting the members went to the Loma Alta Cafe where they were served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sims and their niece, Miss Mayme Reece, left last Saturday for Del Rio where Mrs. Sims was taken for medical treatment. She has been sick for two weeks and X-ray pictures revealed that she was suffering from a blood clot on the brain. Reports late Wednesday afternoon from her bedside were that she was better.

COURT TO HEAR STATE HIGHWAY CASE SATURDAY

Grant State's Motion For Speedy Action On Injunction

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Third Court of Civil Appeals today set Saturday at 9 a. m. as the hour for hearing an appeal filed by Attorney General James Allred from the District Court order restraining the State Highway Commission from awarding further construction contracts.

The court granted Allred's motion that the case be advanced for early consideration and speedy determination. Attorneys for both sides agreed to this motion.

Allred, James E. Ferguson and Ocie Speer, Ferguson's attorney, were the others present.

Economics Club Have Charge Of Chapel Program

The Home Economics Club of the High School gave the Chapel Program on Wednesday, November 30, under the direction of Miss Williams.

The program consisted of two plays and several musical numbers.

The first play, "Home Relationships," treated the subject of divorce from the standpoint of the children in the family. The play was very entertaining and brought out the evils of divorce in a forceful, as well as an amusing manner.

The characters in this play were as follows: Dick Wilkinson, as Dick, the nagged, and high-tempered husband; Madlyn Wilkinson, as Ruth, the complaining wife who wants a divorce; Mary Ferguson and Joy Wyatt as their two children, who "do not want to have a divorce," in the family.

Anna Lee Allen gave a reading, "In Texas, Down by the Rio Grande."

A quartette, Florine Thompson, Beatrice Nichols, Mary Arrington and Bernice Nichols, wearing picturesque cowboy costumes, sang a number of cowboy songs.

The second play, "Mar No Name" brought out the evils of gossip. Those taking part in this play were: Loreine Haass, Ellen Appel, Martha Stradley, and Mary Arrington.

National Pecan Show Is Planned In Uvalde

UVALDE, Nov. 29. (AP)—An exhibit of pecans from the orchard of John N. Garner, vice president-elect, will be one of the features of the Uvalde National Pecan Show, slated to be held December 1, 2 and 3. The Garner exhibit will consist of Georgia Giants, Big Z, Texas Prolific, Stuart and other varieties. It is likely that this exhibit also will be included in the Texas pecan exhibit at the World's Fair in Chicago next year.

Plans which are being made by the local Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the pecan show, are for perhaps the greatest event of its kind in Texas this year. Substantial prizes are being offered for the best of the various varieties of improved nuts as well as the best native nut exhibited.

The three-day program will be filled by speakers of State and National, interest in the pecan industry, including J. H. Burkett, chief of the edible nut division of the State Department of Agriculture; C. L. Smith, director, and L. D. Romberg, assistant, of the United States Pecan Experiment Station at Austin; H. G. Lucas, president, and J. T. McDonald, marketing manager of the National Pecan Marketing Association, and many others.

Prof. B. J. Brannan attended the State Teachers Association meeting which was held in Fort Worth last week end. He returned home Sunday accompanied by Mrs. Brannan and sons who have been visiting relatives in McKinney, Texas.

Makes First Purchase Christmas Seals

UVALDE, Texas.—Realizing the success of this year's sale of Christmas Seals is more imperative, perhaps, than it has ever been before, Vice-President-elect John N. Garner opened the 26th annual campaign in Texas by making the first purchase, with his nine-year-old granddaughter, Genevieve Garner, having the honor of making the first sale.

Relative to this important work, Mr. Garner had this to say in part: "Knowing the great work done by the tuberculosis organizations of the United States during the past quarter of a century, through whose efforts the saving of thousands of lives a year is accomplished, I urge every citizen to make his contribution, large or small, through the purchase of Christmas Seals. I know of no more worthy cause than the support of the annual Seal Sale, through which the work of these organizations is made possible."

Sharp Murder Case To Jury Monday Evening Still Out

Telephone reports to the Times office at 2 p.m. Thursday afternoon were that the jury was still out and that Judge Jones stated that he would hold them for several days longer. The jurors have been considering the case for more than 72 hours and it appears that the 12 men are hopelessly deadlocked.

The law does not state how long a jury may be out and it is up to the discretion of the District Judge as to the length of time they may be held.

The Bessie Sharp case, which was on trial in Del Rio this past week went to the jury Monday afternoon about 6 o'clock. Arguments in the case was started at 10 a. m. Monday morning with District Attorney Julian LaCrosse opening for the state.

Saturday's testimony were of State's witnesses who testified or rather declared Bessie sane. Alienist included Dr. George T. McMahon of Southwestern Insane Asylum and Dr. W. H. Smith, assistant supervisor of that institution, declared Mrs. Sharp sane.

Up to 3 p. m. Tuesday the jury had been deadlocked for nearly 24 hours. The jurors prepared two questions during their deliberations Tuesday morning and Judge Joseph Jones called them into court at 2 p. m. for further instructions. One of the questions, stated in open court, was: "What will be done with the defendant if found insane." Judge Jones informed the jury it need not be concerned with disposition of the defendant, other than to arrive at a decision as to her guilt, innocence or insanity. Judge Jones stated that he could not legally answer the second question, which was not made public, the Del Rio Evening News stated in its Tuesday issue.

Mrs. Sharp was tried on a charge of murdering her husband, Telefus Sharp by the administration of strychnine. The crime was committed.

EAST TEXAS OIL FLOW IS CUT TO 325,000 BARRELS

Intricate Of Three-Way Combination Is Outlined

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—A top production allowable of 325,000 barrels daily for the East Texas field was fixed today by the State Railroad Commission.

The commission decided to adopt a combination per well, bottom hole pressure, acreage plan of proration. Two-thirds of the top allowable will be allowed to wells, one-third to pressure and acreage.

The new order becomes effective at 7 a. m. December 1.

Until the per well, acreage and pressure formula is worked out, a per well allowable of 37 barrels daily will be enforced.

Churches Cooperate In Farewell Service For Rev. Harrison

Sunday night the Methodist and Presbyterian churches dismissed their regular services and cooperated with the Baptist church in giving Rev. and Mrs. Harrison a farewell service. The following program was carried out:

Rev. Harrison was discussed as a preacher—by Rev. Stradley.

Rev. Harrison as a citizen—by Dr. McCall.

Rev. Harrison as a pastor—by J. R. Black.

Token of appreciation—by Stumph Duke. In very fitting words, Mr. Duke presented to Rev. and Mrs. Harrison a $20 check as a gift from the church.

In response Rev. Harrison expressed his appreciation and said that his resignation was of his choice and his conviction was deepened all the time that he had finished his work here.

Guest at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Buck last Wednesday were Mr. Buck's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones of Coleman, Texas, and his nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones of Iraan, Texas.

BRIDGE WORK IS HALTED BY INJUNCTION

Devil's River Bridge Steel Work Waits Court Action

DEL RIO, Nov. 29.—Unless the highway injunction restraining the Texas Highway Commission from expending further funds for construction is dissolved on the appeal taken to Third Court of Civil Appeals, Devil's River bridge will consist of sturdy piers and approaches, B. B. Freeborough resident engineer, announced here Tuesday.

Following the floods in September, complete plans for the construction of the bridge were revised in order to place the superstructure 10 feet higher than the original plans specified. Mr. Freeborough explained. Due to the fact that the revised plans for the superstructure increased costs considerably, the highway department deemed it advisable to let the work without receiving bids, he pointed out. With the granting of the injunction no further funds can be spent in construction on the bridge.

However, construction work on the piers and approaches are going forward with pouring of concrete well underway, he said. Thompson and Company, contractors for the bridge, have 144 working days or approximately six months in which to complete construction of abutment and piers.

January letting of the commission would have included the contract for the highway bridge spanning Sycamore Creek east of the city. Eleven miles of highway, west of Langtry, to close the last unpaved gap in Highway 90, were also affected by the injunction. Contract on the latter project was to have been let at the December sitting of the commission.

Evans Creek bridge and California Creek bridges were not affected by the court order, contracts having been let several weeks ago. Pouring of concrete on the abutment and piers was started Tuesday.

Funeral Services Held In Houston For Claude Young

It was with regret that word was received here Thursday telling of the death that morning in Houston of Claude Young, 28, a former resident of this city.

Most of Mr. Young's life was spent here and he was well and favorably known by the older citizens here. His father, the late W. W. (Fatty) Young was employed here as roundhouse foreman for the S. P. or T. & N. O. as it is now known. After leaving here they made their home in Victoria, Texas, later going to Houston where they have made their home.

Surviving Claude is his mother, Mrs. W. W. Young and one brother, Paul Young and a nephew, all of Houston, two uncles, John H. and Otto Stadler of Bracketville, Texas.

Funeral services were held Friday in Houston from the residence. The Times joins with the many friends of the family here in extending sympathy to the bereaved ones.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY By E. V. WHITE, DEAN Texas State College For Women (CIA)

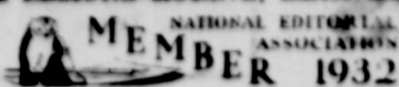

Some look everywhere and find nothing. The reason some don't like you is because you are not as mean as they are. Measure your wants by the size of your purse. Don't look at the things you dislike. Don't be a magnet for bad news. Thieves look the most honest just before they steal.

THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Since the days of Benjamin Franklin no bit of literature has visited so many rural homes as the weekly or home newspaper. For generations it was regarded by its avid readers as the symposium of all the worth-while news, and its editorial page expressed views on current topics that were generally accepted as crystallized public opinion.

Editors of the publications have, with few exceptions, been women of high moral character and sharp intellect. Above all, they possessed uncanny knowledge of human nature. They correctly opine that an occasional paucity of editorial thought is easily compensated by a plenitude of comment on clientele.

To see it chronicled in the local paper that Mary Jones was a visitor in Smithville on a certain day arouses more personal interest in the Jones family than did the recent assassination of the president of France. Country editors know that in satisfied personal pride and vanity resides much of the popularity of the weekly press.

But the weekly newspaper has and performs a higher mission. Its editor lives in close social and intellectual communion with the people he serves. This intimate contact enables him correctly to anticipate and appraise public sentiment and to direct and mould that sentiment in its incipency in the right direction.

This is an opportunity and responsibility which only good men and good women should have. While rural mail delivery has given wider circulation to daily newspapers and the radio carries intelligence to the uppermost parts of the globe, the home paper, whether weekly, semi-weekly, or bi-weekly, still has a welcome and an influence in the average home. It typifies and represents that sincere personal interest one feels in people and things around him a moral and mental attitude upon which Christianity and civilization are founded.—Journal McComb, Mississippi.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The thing that distinguishes a genuine sportsman from a "bum sport" is that those who have the spirit of sportsmanship not only know how to win gracefully, but how to lose uncomplainingly. The difference between a genuine sportsman and the other kind is that your real sportsman never tries to shift the responsibility for his failure upon somebody else.

We have long believed that the sporting attitude toward life is the soundest of all philosophies of living. Try your best to win, but if you lose don't be too quick to blame somebody else for your failure. Nine times out of ten, people get whatever rewards their individual ability, character and industry entitle them to. But it is our observation, also, that about nine times out of ten the man who fails is ready to lay the blame upon the Government, or the capitalists, or the boss, or anybody else but himself.

True sportsmanship does not imply taking defeat lying down. The true sportsman never knows when he is licked. He never accepts de-

ON TEXAS FARMS

Groceries and clothes for his family during the summer is the way Truman Harrell of Stephens county spent the money he made on an 8-acre 4-H club demonstration. At very little expense he took in $80 from corn that made 40 bushels per acre and $25 from fresh corn sold.

He wouldn't take $500 for his terraces, says Ben Boeker of Gay Hill in Washington county after gathering the biggest corn crop in his farming experience on his terraced field. The county agent is helping him to terrace the rest of the farm for Mr. Boeker says he is through building up the river bottoms.

The feeding of high protein mash and minerals to turkeys, as shown in turkey flock demonstrations by county agents in recent years, has resulted in the highest grade turkey crop in Blanco county in history. There are very few crooked breasts.

Five thousand bushels of cotton seed produced on the Schoolland Community one-variety cotton block in Gonzales county in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry and the county agent have been distributed in other communities in the county which have standardized on one variety. The saving is rated at about $5000.

Wiley Martindale of Compground Community in Jasper county says terracing increased his cotton yield from one bale to 15 acres, to one bale to 4 1-4 acres. No fertilizer was used, the county agent reports.

Buster Boland, Montague county 4-H club boy, has made about $40 on two beef calves fed on home grown feed supplemented with cottonseed meal. They were sold late in October weighing 890 pounds and 740 pounds, for six cents and five cents per pound, respectively.

Mrs. C. J. Watts and daughter Miss Floy, returned last Saturday from Seguin, Texas, where they spent Thanksgiving with relatives and friends.

TEXAS INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITIES

Completion of the $6,000,000 irrigation and hydro-electric project near Eagle Pass is made possible by the Reconstruction Corporation's taking up $1,476,000 of the districts unsold bonds.

Investment of $350,000 is called for in the sodium sulphite plant at Soda Lake, in Ward County, where chemicals from the lake are to be made commercially usable by processing them in a freezing treatment.

Reconstruction and completion of the paper mill at Orange at a cost of nearly a half million dollars will be financed thru the sale of bonds, according to an announcement from the owners.

A manufacturing possibility for Texas is that of iodine. Methods of extracting this element from the brines found in deep oil wells have been perfected to the point where they are utilizable commercially. American iodine production success has dropped the price of the Chilean product, which hitherto dominated the world market, from $4 to $3 a pound.

October farm income for Texas was $27,339,320, in spite of the large amount of cotton held off the market, according to a survey by the Dallas News, which estimates farm product values for the first ten months of 1932 at $144,691,207.

Thirteen Texas contracting firms did an annual business of more than $1,000,000 each and the 1,001 contractors during the peak year of 1929 did a total business of approximately $200,000,000, according to announcement from the Census Bureau. They paid out $45,373,000 in wages and purchased materials valued at $77,250,000, according to the same authority.

Baker-Moise Hosiery Mills, makers of Vanette silk stockings, are running full time with day and night shifts and with enough orders on hand to keep the plant on full-time operation thru the remainder of 1932. "We have sufficient orders on our books at the present time," said O. W. Burkett, secretary-treasurer, "that it would take us until Dec. 1 to fill and ship them, if we did not receive another order from any source; so we feel quite safe in saying that not only will our day and night policy continue thru-out this year, but will also continue after Jan. 1, as the carry-over business will make this necessary in view of the fact that our inventory will be very low on Jan. 1." The Baker-Moise Co. is one of the most enthusiastic members of Progressive Texans, Inc.

Texas stands thirteenth in value of manufacturers and fifteenth in number of wage-earners industrially employed. That Texas has an unusually large number of small factories, however, is shown by the fact that it stands eleventh among the States in number of manufacturing plants (5,198) or well above its ranking in either manufacturing value or wage-earners.

The Texas Pecan crop is estimated this year at 19,500,000 pounds, not very much more than half of the 32,000,000 produced in 1931, as a result of cold weather in March. Pecan-shelling and packing plants are a very considerable and a fast-growing industry in Texas by reason of the large production of the State, representing usually more than a third of the national total, and their fall activities will provide employment for many workers both in the plants and in the gathering of the nuts.

To Be Taken At Face Value

When you pick up this newspaper and read the announcements of this city's local merchants, of those national advertisers, you need never think to question the sincerity and honesty of their statements.

This reliance on Advertising has been brought about by Advertising, and it one of Advertising's greatest contributions to the satisfaction and ease of modern living.

An advertiser deliberately attempting to deceive takes the quick, short road to ruin. The insincere or extravagant statement may have its brief day. But the greater the attention it attracts, the sooner the public will discover and destroy its deceit.

The cornerstone of successful shopkeeping always has been "keep faith with the public"; give honest values and truthfully represent the merchandise and its service. This principle had to find its expression in Advertising—for Advertising is nothing more than the owner of the store or a factory talking with people in their homes about such things as shoes and soap, radios and rugs, blankets and bloomers.

It pays to read the advertisements. They are first-hand news of what is being invented, fashioned, and perfected in the workshops of the world for your well-being, comfort and convenience.

A SHORT SHORT STORY

Million Dollar Dog

BY PAUL HAWK

"That's the trouble with you, Phil," Adele had told him. "There's nothing serious about you. Oh, I enjoy you. You're a nice playboy. But I've never seen even one spontaneous action from you to show that there's anything at all underneath. Even your—er—courting is a comedy."

That was quite some time ago. He had turned his face sideways, lips turned up in that usual mocking grin. "Bankrupt heiress turns down playboy, little wotting that he's future president," he chided her.

"See?" she laughed, but underneath she felt a strange anger at him. "If you loved me—Even now you take it as a joke."

There was Barton Mallard, too. "When are you going to marry me and get out of all this?" Barton asked her masterfully. "You've always had everything. I can give it to you again. You're not made for this sort of thing."

"Just what," Adele had demanded defiantly, "is wrong with it? I enjoy my independence—making my own way. And I'm not ready to provide atmosphere and 'Yes milord' to a tired business man."

People thought she was crazy. Losing her fortune, lightheartedly painting in a little cottage—and turning down the crowd's richest bachelor.

"Why, Adele, don't be a fool!" said one of the married women. Jack says Bart's worth at least a million!"

Well, maybe she would marry Bart. He was a go-getter. And Phil—there was just no judging of what stuff he was made. If she could see just one little act that would let her know he ever felt—really felt—about anything. But he was all play; plenty of money, no worries, no work, all fun. And anyway, Phil had stopped seeing her.

Oh well, independence was better anyway. She just wouldn't marry.

Telling Barton that decision, however, made no impression.

"I'm going to make you love me and make you marry me," he told her confidently. "This independence stuff will wear off. You'll see."

"Maybe," said Adele. "But I've some doubts."

She watched Bart's big car drive down the street. Then, thoughtfully, she walked into the agency to leave her week's supply of sketches. As she came out again a hurrying figure bumped into her. "Sorry," muttered Phil. He had a slightly harassed look.

"Well, well," Adele exclaimed. "Where have you been so long?"

Phil's expression changed to the well-known grin. "Princess Charming! And after years, they met."

"Months," corrected Adele. "Weeks—six, to be exact."

"Your memory surprises me," Phil remarked drily.

"But what have you been doing with yourself," she wanted to know. "I haven't even had a glimpse of you."

"Oh, you know how the butterfly flits hither and thither, recking not of the morrow," Phil laughed.

Suddenly Adele had a daring inspiration. "I should have thought," she said, "that even butterflies would have been more—ah—persevering. That is," swift color rushed to her face, "if they really cared for somebody."

"You've evidently forgotten your butterflies," Phil answered, looking away. "Just creatures of light fancies."

"So I was just a light fancy, was I?" she demanded.

"Now take a success—like Barton Mallard, for instance—there's the man to bring home your bacon." Phil studiously avoided her eyes. "Remember what one of my illustrious co-patriots said. 'I do not choose to run?' You were right, as usual. Don't believe I'm quite the man for the job. Now Mallard—"

"Oh-h" gasped Adele. "I—"

She turned and rused away, leaving Phil—minus his grin—to stare after her as long as she was in sight.

"To think I was even interested in such a—a no-good," she told herself furiously. "All right. I'll marry Bart. I'll marry Bart and his million." Then she added, "And a lot HELL care!"

Bart gave a reception and ball at the club to announce the good news.

"Congratulations!" Phil said heartily, after claiming a dance. "It must be nice to have the future well planned, the old nest well feathered, and what not."

"Oh, it is!" Adele assured him. "Happy?"

"Ecstatically," she breathed.

"That's fine," said Phil. "Yes—isn't it?"

"I'm glad. Takes another troublesome worry from my shoulders."

"Yes—you're SO worried," Adele said scornfully.

"Makes wrinkles," Phil explained smilingly.

Well, if she expected any signs from Phil, she was disappointed, she thought as Bart tagged. Phil was just incapable of any deep feeling.

"I don't like that guy," Bart growled in her ear. "He makes me want to take a sock at him. The waster!"

"Just a playboy," Adele agreed. A series of parties kept Adele busy.

At a club tea, one of the women exclaimed, "Why, there's Phil Carlton. He must have a holiday today."

"Holiday?" Adele asked wonderingly.

"Yes. Didn't you know he lost his money? About two months ago. He's actually working—in an office!"

"Do him good, too, to have a taste of work," Bart remarked with satisfaction.

Adele was shocked. Then Phil must have lost his money about the time he quit seeing her. She wondered—

Across the clubhouse lawn came a dog. He was a freakish specimen: half-grown, with the bridle color of a bulldog and the flopping ears and long tail of a bloodhound. Indications of other relations could have been detected also by an expert.

"What a freak!" exclaimed Adele. "Isn't he cute!"

As if her voice were a magnet, Phil turned his head to look at her, and the dog bounced upon the veranda, tail wagging delightedly.

"Get out!" Bart shouted, getting up from the table.

The dog, prancing from table to table, pranced between Bart's legs just as Bart aimed a kick. Everybody laughed as Bart tripped and fell.

Face flushed red with anger, Bart grasped a chair and chased the dog into a corner.

"Bart, don't!" Adele screamed as Bart brandished the chair.

Suddenly Phil sprang forward. "Aw—cut it!" he commanded sharply.

Adele was so surprised to find an expression of real concern on Phil's face that she couldn't move.

Phil was between Bart and the wandering dog. He scooped the dog into his arms in time to receive part of Bart's blow.

"Give me that cur!" Bart yelled furiously.

Phil's eyes were blazing. "Let the poor dog alone!"

Bart struck at Phil. Phil's arm shot out. There was a "plop," and Bart was sitting on the floor rubbing his chin. When Phil turned back to the startled company, a mask seemed to settle over his face and he was his usual grinning self. But Adele had seen enough.

"Sorry," he apologized brightly. "Hate to see a pal abused."

"Is he hurt, Phil?" Adele was standing at Phil's side.

"Who—Bart?"

"No—the dog."

Phil looked at her sharply—solemnly—and then at Bart. "You're more interested in the dog than in the million dollars?"

Adele looked him in the eyes. "I'm afraid so." She patted the dog's head. "He just cost me a million," she said softly, "and it's grand! Isn't it, Freak?"

THE END

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Landers returned Monday from Del Rio, Mrs. Landers being one of the witnesses summoned for the Bessie Sharp murder case.

SOCIETY

CULTURE CLUB MEETS

The Sanderson Culture Club met at the residence of Mrs. A. D. Brown for their November meeting with Mrs. W. E. Lea as co-hostess.

After a short business session the program on France and Spain was taken over by the leader, Mrs. Landon Rose, giving an interesting paper on "Treasures of Paris." Mrs. Joe Brown gave an interesting description of the "French Riviera," while Mrs. Tol Murrain in her able manner told of "Land of Faded Gay Spain."

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed while the hostesses served delicious cake and coffee to the following ladies: Mesdames Landon Rose, H. D. Johnson, Al Creigh, Joe Brown, A. F. Buchanan, F. L. Burnside, Ira Deaton, T. D. Moore and Robert Gatlin.—Reporter.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY

RECIPES AND MENUS
 By Department of Home Economics
 Texas State College for Women
 (C.I.A.)

DENTON, Dec. 1.—Some fruits are on the market every month of the year and will appear in our menus weekly. These foods remind one of the real friend who can be depended upon at all times. But people just naturally like variety; so when a season comes which brings to us a different food we try to make use of it to add variety to our meals. In the spring there are many fresh fruits available, but in the fall we have few. Consequently, when we see the basket or barrel of cranberries in the stores we begin to plan ways to use them.

For the families who like pies, these berries offer a change. As jelly or souce to be served with meat cranberries are excellent. They can be used in ices, relishes, or the juice used in fruit cocktail.

From the standpoint of food value, cranberries are not an economical food. Like most fruits they have a high percentage of water and their value is chiefly in the mineral and vitamin contents. This fruit is of more value for its minerals than for its vitamins. At the present time, according to scientific studies, vitamin C is the only one present. Cranberries are included in menus primarily because of the color they add and because they have an abundance of pectose bodies which means they jell very easily. As molded jelly they serve as an attractive garnish. Other ways of using these berries are suggested:

Breakfast: Orange and grapefruit sections; sausages, biscuits, apricot marmalade, coffee.
 Luncheon: Rice croquettes with cranberry jelly, tuna fish salad, crackers, ice cream sandwiches, beverage.
 Dinner: Roast chicken, dressing, gravy, cranberry jelly, creamed peas, cabbage and carrot salad, hot rolls, frozen fruit salad, coffee.
 Breakfast: Bananas with cream, breakfast bacon, pop-overs, jelly, coffee.
 Luncheon: Creamed salmon on toast, pickled beets, celery and apple salad, baked pears, cookies.
 Dinner: Hot consommé, bread sticks, fillet of beef, browned potatoes, spinach molds, butterborens.

rolls, aparagus salad, cranberry tarts, coffee.
 Rice Croquettes with Cranberry Jelly: 1 1-2 c steamed rice, 1 egg, 1-2 c milk, 1-2 t salt, 1-2 c crumbs, 1 egg combined with 2 T milk, fat for frying. Cook rice until well done, add egg, milk and salt. Cool and shape into croquettes, making a nest in the top of each. Roll in egg and milk mixture, then in crumbs. Fry in deep fat and serve with cranberry jelly in the nest.
 Ice Cream Sandwiches: Use a standard cake recipe and bake in a thin layer as for jelly roll. When cool cut cake in squares to fit brick ice cream. Serve a slice of brick ice cream between 2 layers of cake and top with whipped cream.
 Frozen Fruit Salad: 1-2 pt. whipping cream, 1 banana, 1 orange, 1 c royal ann cherries, 1-2 c beach-ed almonds, 1 c diced pineapple, 1-2 c sugar, 2 T lemon juice, 1-2 c boiled dressing. Dice and drain fruit. To whipped cream add boiled dressing. Mix with fruit, sugar and nuts. Mold in freezer or mechanical refrigerator. Serve as salad or dessert.

Russell Menzies was here Tuesday from San Angelo where he has been the past month recuperating from injuries received when he fell while loading sheep at Fort Stockton. Mr. Menzies also suffered the loss of his ranch home and furniture at the "41" ranch which he has leased. It is understood that the ranch home will be rebuilt.

Mrs. H. L. Stuckey and son Charles who were guests of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Stradley at the Methodist Parsonage last week returned to Sabinal Monday on the early morning train.

University's New Engineer Building Is Well Equipped

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 1.—The new Engineering Building of The University of Texas, to be finished sometime during the second semester will be one of the finest equipped buildings of its kind in the Southwest, according to Dr. S. P. Finch, professor of civil engineering and chairman of the engineering construction, the expenditures for plumbing will total $26,200, for heating $45,054, lighting equipment $36,829, laboratory equipment $12,512, and the architects fee is estimated at $20,000, making a total estimated cost of $391,945, Dr. Finch said.

The equipment for this new building will be of the latest type. One of the many unique features of the building will be the special "illumination demonstration" room. Four lights, constructed by the General Electric Company solely for educational purposes, and capable of making thirty different light effects, will illuminate the room.

The department of communicative engineering will have a complete Manuel Telephone Service System, valued at between $20,000 and $25,000 given to the University by the Southwest Bell Telephone Company when it replaced that system with the dial system in San Antonio, September 10.

Another gift to the College of Engineering is that of a well-known make of automobile which possesses only the chassis, motor, and other working parts. M. M. Heller, instructor of mechanical engineering, said that this gift was made after the automobile company had selected the University as one of the nine leading schools of the country. The cost of this experimental car is $5,000. An electric motor operates the parts of the chassis and motor which have been constructed in such a way as to allow all students to see every detail of the working parts of the machine in operations.

Equipment for the new building has been greatly increased by donations from the various engineering companies. The United States Radiator Company presented a house-heating boiler; the American Blower Company donated a large size fan equipped with several motors; and the Texas Company gave a complete display of its products, which will prove an asset to the petroleum engineering students.

H. W. Stilwell Is Elected Head Of Teachers

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 28.—Chosen by the Texas State Teachers Association as leader during the trying times facing public education in Texas, W. H. Stilwell, superintendent of schools at Texarkana was inducted into office as president of the association Saturday during the final business session of the three-day annual convention, which was attended by more than 6,000 delegates.

Mr. Stilwell was elected over Wylie A. Parker, principal of Forest Avenue High School at Dallas. J. A. Hill of Canyon is the retiring president.

Although choice of the next convention city is up to the executive committee, and will not be announced until later, it was indicated that Austin, Houston, San Antonio and Galveston are being considered.

Resolutions adopted by the convention embody ways and means of saving the public school system from financial disaster while at the same time recommending all possible changes within the system which would fit it closer to present economic and cultural conditions.

A resolution opposing repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted. The convention accepted an amendment offered by E. M. Cain of Dallas condemning any change in the present prohibition laws, either State or national, except to strengthen their enforcement.

Establishment of a tax commission, a tax on natural resources, luxuries and public utilities, legislation to enable school boards to issue interest-bearing warrants to teachers, appointment rather than election of State and County Superintendents, certification of teachers by the State Board of Education, are among the more important proposals favored. Endorsement of the Texas Centennial celebration plans also was voted.

The afternoon was given over to the Colored Teachers' State Association. After a musical program by negro singers, A. W. McDonald of Galveston, negro association president, and W. R. Banks, president of the Prairie View Normal Institute, Hempstead, delivered addresses. Progress has been made by negro education in Texas, these leaders were proud to announce.

VISITING PASTOR PREACHED HERE SUNDAY MORNING

Dr. A. L. Moore of El Paso, Texas, Presiding Elder of the El Paso District of the Western Mexican Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, spent Sunday in Sanderson holding conference Sunday night at the Sanderson Mexican Protestant Church.

Dr. Moore preached to a large congregation at the 11 a. m. hour on the subject, "Spiritual Cultivation." He preached again at 3:15 p. m. at Dryden on, "God and His Church First in Life," and closed the days' preaching services at 7:30 p. m. preaching to the officials of the church on the blessed privileges of God's call to co laborship, all 42 officers of the church being present.

The Church music committee had special vocal music for each of the services.

Dr. Moore is one of the strongest pulpits ministers coming to Sanderson and his messages are always appreciated by his hearers. He is a wonderful mixer and therefore Sanderson always welcomes him.

A conference with the officials of the Church and the Pastor was held by Dr. Moore from 8:15 to 9 p. m. Sunday evening. The Sanderson and Dryden churches united in the conference. Dr. Moore presiding, the Pastor nominating and Mr. A. F. Buchanan acting as secretary of the Conference.
