BESSIE SHARP WITHDRAWS MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

ROAD OPENING PROGRAM DRAWS A LARGE CROWD

Tape Barring Traffic Is Broken By Highway Commissioners

Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock the new 21-mile strip of highway between Cline and Brackettville was officially opened to traffic before a large gathering from surrounding counties. Officials from Del Rio, Brackettville and Uvalde witnessed the ceremony of dedication as William Harrison Furlong, member of the highway committee of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, broke the tape stretched across the highway at the Uvalde-Gray County line, where the new road begins. In the car with Furlong were D. K. Martin and W. R. Ely, both members of the State Highway Commission.

Proceeding the ceremony a band from Fort Clark offered several numbers, and immediately after those gathered to witness the opening formed a procession to drive over the new road for the first time.

Due to the heat, no formal addresses were offered. The Rev. Chas. Nixon, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Del Rio, made the only speech of the morning, welcoming the gathering to Del Rio and urging them to attend the luncheon at the Roswell Hotel given by the Chamber of Commerce.

The new strip of highway is approximately 21 miles in length. Work on it was started in December and was completed Wednesday. The new route is said to eliminate a number of curves, shortening the road by several miles. The direct highway between Cline and Brackettville saves 30 minutes on the drive between San Antonio and Del Rio. The opening Thursday marked the completion of the last gap of highway between San Antonio and Del Rio, making Highway No. 3 between the two points a continuous paved strip.—Val Verde County Herald.

RETAILERS GET A TEMPORARY 48-HOUR WEEK

Smaller Stores Claim That They Can't Carry Out Terms

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—Authorization for retail merchants to put into effect temporarily their own proposed code providing for 48-hour work week instead of 40 as provided in the President's blanket wage and hour agreement, has been given by Hugh Johnson, Recovery Administrator.

Spokesmen for the smaller stores had contended they were financially unable to carry through the terms proposed in the general agreement.

LOCAL CITIZENS EAGER TO JOIN RECOVERY ACT

Several Business Firms Are Studying Roosevelt Plan

As yet Sanderson business and professional men have formulated no definite policy in regard to the National Industrial Recovery Act of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. A number of business firms in the city have signified their intentions of cooperating and before the end of the month will have put the terms of the act into effect.

Very few firms here will be affected by the act as our city population is less than 2,500, however the firms in this city who have more than two employees are now working out plans whereby they may put the requirements of the act into effect.

Postmaster Lee Roy Grigsby has received copies of the code, certificates of compliance, insignias, etc., which business firms interested may obtain by calling for same at the post office.

The government is dependent on public sentiment to force merchants to hike wages and to reduce the hours in every week's work. Distribution of the communications to all employers is calculated to arouse such sentiment.

FOUR INDICTED AT MARFA FOR STOCK THEFTS

Strange Death Of Herald Najar Up As Relative And Wife Held

The Presidio County investigators continue in session and are expected to act in a day or so on the murder of Hearldo Najar, whose body was found, the torso slashed and the head crushed, in an arroyo near Marfa recently. Najar's wife and Chon Najar, relative by adoption, are held in jail charged with the killing.

BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED FOR CREEK BRIDGE

Blue Prints Submitted For Sycamore Creek Crossing

On or about August 7 bids will be received by the Texas Highway Commission for a bridge and approaches over Sycamore Creek on Highway No. 3 twelve miles east of Del Rio.

This announcement was included in the list published in Austin Tuesday of highway construction projects planned with Federal recovery funds. The construction projects are estimated to cost approximately $625,000 and will affect 13 or more counties.

The highway crosses Sycamore Creek over an extended gravel bar, since the creek is dry at that point most of the year. During rains and high water, however, the creek is impassable and during the floods last September held up traffic for days.

At the point where the highway crosses, the creek bottom is approximately 1,700 feet across. The railroad crosses the creek a few feet below the highway crossing over a three span steel bridge.

Blueprints for the bridge were submitted to the State Highway Department some time ago, according to B. B. Freeborough, resident engineer of the department. He declined to state whether the bridge would extend entirely across the 1,700-foot creek bottom or whether shoulders would be built up from each side to reduce the length of the bridge.—Val Verde County Herald.

FORT STOCKTON DEPUTY SHOOTS AND KILLS MAN

Says Gun Went Off When Trying To Block Escape

FORT STOCKTON, July 31. (AP) John Linebaugh, wanted in Riverside, Calif., on a charge of concealing stolen property was shot to death in what Deputy Sheriff C. E. Miller said was an attempt to escape after he had been arrested.

Deputy Miller took Linebaugh, alias "John Baugh," into custody Saturday night at a residence four miles north of Fort Stockton. He was given permission to change his clothes and pack his belongings and then asked to be allowed to shut off a windmill in the yard.

Upon reaching the windmill, Linebaugh tried to run, according to Deputy Miller, who said he grabbed the fugitive's suspenders. The suspenders broke and Deputy Miller said he struck at Linebaugh with an automatic pistol, tearing his shirt and accidentally discharging the weapon. The bullet passed through Linebaugh's body.

Justice E. C. Dyer conducted an inquest but withheld a coroner's verdict pending further investigation. The dead man was buried here yesterday.

RECOVERY BOND NOTICE PLACED IN POSTOFFICE

$500,000,000 Issue Will Be Sold By Banking Institutions

Notices were posted in the post office here Tuesday offering United States government bonds for subscription to finance the National Recovery Act. These bonds are the first offered in two years and are tax free except from state, inheritance and surtax levies.

The new bond issue consists of $500,000,000 in eight-year bonds at three and one fourth per cent interest. They will be offered for sale by banking institutions and will be dated August 15, 1933, to mature August 1, 1941, and are to be had in denominations of $50 and up.

Approximately $400,000,000 in new money will be added to the Treasury by the sale of these bonds after paying off the maturing certificates, treasury officials have pointed out.

Parties in this city desiring to purchase these bonds may make application at the local bank as the post office has nothing to do with subscriptions for the bonds.

CLAIMS ARE TO BE DEVELOPED IN BREWSTER

New Mining Company Begins Work On Property In Terlingua Area

Preliminary work looking forward to the development of the property acquired last February from Frank Duncan, well-known mining man of Terlingua, and associates, has been started by the LeRoi Cinnabar Properties, Inc., in the Terlingua mining district it was learned here this week.

Fifteen mining claims were leased from Duncan and associates by John Mackenzie of Minneapolis at the time the deal was made last winter, the claims being located on survey 70, block G12, and adjoining the Chisos, Rainbow and Waldron mines. The lease was taken for a period of ten years at a reported consideration of $50,000 with option to buy at any time during the life of the contract.

J. Howard Hill, mining engineer, is in charge of the development work recently started on the claims.—Alpine Avalanche.

SPECIAL POSTAGE STAMP TO AID NRA

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29. (US)—A special postage stamp will be issued to aid in arousing support of the national recovery act drive. Postmaster General Farley announced today that President Roosevelt yesterday approved a design for the stamp.

The stamp will show a farmer, a business man, an industrial worker and a woman worker, exemplifying American business and industry, walking hand in hand to a common goal. It will be ready for sale August 15, possibly before.

An initial printing of 4,000,000 has been ordered. It will be the regular 3-cent letter stamp bearing the initials "N. R. A."

Mrs. D. P. Southall and children returned to their home in Comstock the latter part of last week after a visit here with her mother, Mrs. P. F. Sullivan.

Rev. J. F. Green and family left last Friday for the Paisano Baptist Encampment near Alpine.

POISON SLAYER SEEKS TO BEAT TWO YEAR TERM

Asks That Time Served In Jail Apply On Sentence

Motion for a new trial of Bessie Sharp in Fort Stockton has been withdrawn and her attorneys have agreed to accept sentence. Mrs. Sharp was sentenced to serve two years in prison for the murder of her husband, Telefus Sharp.

Attorneys asked that Mrs. Sharp be given credit on her sentence for the time she spent in jail since the murder. She has been in jails and in institutions for mental observation since the death of her husband two years ago last May.

Judge Joe Montague, before whom the case was tried in the 119th District Court, has not announced his decision on the application for a reduction of the sentence for time spent in jail.

Mrs. Sharp's sentence was the result of her second trial. The case was brought to Del Rio last November on a change of venue from Sanderson. The Del Rio trial consumed more than a week and ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to reach a verdict after nearly three days of deliberation.

Mrs. Sharp admitted administering strychnine to her husband three times. Intimate details of her life from the time she was a young child until she became involved with Willie Burleson, for love of whom she declared she poisoned her husband, were aired in court during the day and night sessions in which large number of witnesses testified for both sides.

In both of her trials Mrs. Sharp has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, and trials have been marked by testimony of alienists and doctors as well as friends and acquaintances of the woman giving information of her mental status.—Del Rio Evening News.

Limited Number May Join Army At Fort Clark

An announcement was posted Monday morning in the post office stating that a limited number of enlistments for the U. S. Army could be taken at Fort Clark, Brackettville. Those interested in enlisting should communicate immediately with Fort Clark officers. Aside from posting the notice that enlistments were desired at Fort Clark, the post office has no further information on the subject.—Del Rio Evening News.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY—By E. V. WHITE, DEAN Texas State College For Women (CIA)

Some people believe in future punishment because they know they deserve it.

Poverty teaches us how to change a garage into a mule barn.

Better stay out than get in and not be able to get out.

Words are mistreated when they are forced to convey lies.

A soft answer turneth away wrath but a silent answer returns it.

It is difficult to make a blind person look well.

Better give your money to one you like than have one you dislike take it.

Analysis And Appreciation

With this, that and the other thing given recognition by a week specially designated, or dedicated to it, we feel that at least a few paragraphs can be offered, at least once in a great many years, concerning the home town paper.

Call it Newspaper Appreciation Week, if you will, or whatever, but stop to think what the home town paper means to you and your community.

Though the newspaper's story is generally the same, each publication has its individual style, trend and characteristic make-up.

Consider this paper. Week after week, year after year it comes to the home as a weekly messenger, bringing you news of the town, the personal items, church, school, fraternal political and industrial activities; telling you of happy weddings, babies born, Grim Reaper's call—and many other features.

Analyze your home town paper sometime, don't "just read it."

The first page is the "front window," generally well dressed, and with a variety of attractions.

Then there is the editorial page with it seven separate and distinct features. The home notes page has its five columns and over of personal paragraphs, and weekly an average of thirty correspondents from as many communities send letters for your perusal.

Farmers have the County Farm Agent's Corner, the women their Home Economics feature, the Grange its illustrated department, and the churches their page. Items historical repeat events of thirty and fifty years ago and present day politics and the Governor's announcements appear regularly in story form.

High school students have their own "paper within a paper" and contribute regularly and in interesting form. The merchants themselves have their various departments in which, week after week, they make contact with the reading public. This is an important feature of any newspaper, and of inestimable value to the merchant, the reader and the paper. There is a lot of personality in it, for each advertisement is an expression of the man or business it represents.

The classified page is likewise a feature, far more than advertising alone. There can be read romance and tragedy, happiness and sorrow, failure and success, fortune, progress—in fact it is a barometer of the times.

And so we could go on! But we asked you to make the analysis, and with that thought still in mind, will "sign off."—Quakertown (Pa.) Free Press.

Leadership must have the courage of new ideas if we are to succeed in making a happier, healthier, and more prosperous world.—Emil Ludwig.

TEXAS PRIDE

Deflation hits Texas pride a hefty wallop at the Century of Progress.

There, the Texas exhibit has been empty, while hundreds of thousands of persons passed by to see the wonderful exhibits that came from Missouri, Washington, Georgia, Florida, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and a score of other states. The empty spaces reserved told simply a story of what might have been. There wasn't a chance in Chicago for a Texan to frame a good alibi for a state that is first in so many resources.

Now that's to be changed. Money has been raised, and the uninviting space will be transformed to tell the story of Texas agriculture, oil, and the human energies that have made it one of the wealthiest states in the union of 48.

State exhibits there compare to a series of state fairs, reflecting the agricultural glories of widely divergent areas, picture opportunities, and tell more to the glancing eye than could be learned in years by the study of geography. For Texas to have missed the opportunity of being shown to five million or more visitors who already have thronged the state exhibits is a dissipated opportunity. It comes now as a belated source of pride to know that an exhibit will be opened within a few days. All of us should be grateful to those who in any way had a hand in providing the money to see the task was accomplished.

Human energies and imagination have been combined to tell a wonderful story of the states. Texas with just a little ingenuity can show them all.—San Angelo Weekly Standard.

We regret very much that Sanderson failed to co-operate and raise her share for this exhibit.

Oh well! what difference does it make, no outsider will know it and very few local citizens will care.

Raps Feature Stories

Folks of the Big Bend section of the Tran-Pecos are getting a big laugh out of the series of feature stories published recently about this area. Of all the pure and unadulterated hokey, this bunch of stuff takes the wicker frying pan. One not acquainted with the Big Bend would think that a Mexican bandit armed to the teeth, lurked behind every bush, that rattlesnakes, lions, panthers and other man-eating animals and reptiles roamed at large over its thousand of acres in countless numbers. And yet it is probably the most peaceful and peaceable place in the United States—a thousand times safer than the streets of New York, Chicago, or any other metropolis. This kind of buncombe, just to have something thrilling for the folks in distant points to read, should be throttled and the writer choked.—Alpine Avalanche.

RECIPES AND MENUS
By Department of Home Economics
Texas State College for Women
(CIA)

DENTON, August 3.—As the heat of summer increases, one's desire for cold foods and beverages also increases. Many interesting menus may be planned for all meals of the day, including the essential element cold. This may be brought about by serving cold fruits, cold salads, cold meats, cold desserts, and iced beverages. The following menus are examples of the variety of ways in which cold may be introduced into the meal.

Breakfast: Iced orange juice, corn flakes, sugar, cream, toast, butter, plum jelly, coffee, milk.

Lunch: Virginia ham sandwich, creamed potatoes, stuffed cucumber salad, mixed fruit punch, ice box cookies.

Dinner: Smothered beef, boiled okra, buttered beets, green pepper and tomato salad, French dressing, rolls, butter, peach meringue, angel food cake, iced tea, lemon, sugar.

Second Day
Breakfast: Cantaloupe, scrambled eggs and bacon, buttered toast, coffee, milk.

Lunch: Pressed chicken, creamed onions, cold slaw, rolls, butter, grape sherbet, iced tea, lemon sugar.

Dinner: Creamed salmon in bread cases, buttered peas, baked potatoes on half shell, fruit salad, chocolate ice box cake, iced tea, mint, sugar.

MIXED FRUIT PUNCH: 3-4 c water, 3-4 c sugar, 1 pt. grape juice, 1 qt. chilled water, juice of 3 lemons, 1/2 pt. tea, 1/2 pt. grated pineapple. Boil water and sugar 10 minutes. Cool, add other ingredients, let stand one hour. Add chilled water, serve with chopped ice. Serves 12.

PRESSED CHICKEN: 1 chicken, 1 T gelatin to each pint of broth, salt, pepper. Clean singe, and cut up chicken. Place in a kettle with little water. Cover closely, simmer until meat falls from bones. Lift the pieces from kettle with a skimmer, scrape all meat from bones, separating white meat from dark and taking out the skin. Season with salt and pepper. Soften gelatin in two tablespoons water for each one tablespoon gelatine and add to boiling chicken broth. Place meat in dish, pour over it enough of broth to cover it; lay a plate on top; place a heavy weight upon plate and set away in a cool place. Slice and garnish with parsley.

GRAPE SHERBERT: 3 qts. grapes, 1 1-3 lb. sugar, 1 qt. water, 1 T lemon juice, 2 T orange juice, white of 1 egg, 1 t powdered sugar. Take three quarts of Delaware or Concord grapes, measure after they have been picked off stems. Wash, crush, and cook with 2 cups water, to extract juice. Strain juice, measure out one quart of it. Put half of sugar into grape juice. Bring it to a boil, add lemon and orange juice. Boil rest of sugar and rest of water to a clear syrup. Cool mixture. Put it and grapejuice into a freezer. When it has been in freezer long enough to get cold, begin to turn the freezer. Beat white of egg, add to it powdered sugar. Add this when sherbet is nearly frozen. Turn freezer again and pack.

PEACH MERINGUE: 1/4 t gelatin, 1 T cold water, 1/4 c boiling water, 1/4 c sugar, 2-3 c cream, 2 egg whites, 1 t vanilla, peach ice cream. Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, dissolve sugar in the mixture, add cream. When thickens, pour slowly over beaten egg whites, continue beating until it is consistency of whipped cream. Add vanilla. Line a round mold with frozen peach ice-cream, fill the center with the meringue.

C. P. Peavey motored to Marfa Sunday returning that afternoon accompanied by Mrs. Peavey and daughters who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pruett, the past week.

Advertising Aids Business Revival

NEW YORK, August 3.—Aggressive concerns are expanding business by effective advertising despite depressed business conditions, declared A. W. Diller, advertising counsel, at a bankers' conference here recently.

"In 1932 a good year in which to advertise," Mr. Diller asked. "Yes, if 1933 is a good year to stay in business, to reinforce the public's confidence in you, to put more business on the books. There is new business to be had today and aggressive companies are getting it. But new business will come in only if you go out for it. Advertising certainly goes out for it. Will people read newspaper advertisements these days? They will read anything that interests them. There are plenty of present-day arguments for business."

Advertising Mistakes

A QUESTION before many of us is what change of advertising policy, if any, should be made in view of present financial and business conditions. It is perfectly natural for us to give consideration to some degree of retrenchment, but it is dangerous to let reduction in expenditure be such as to bring about a real gap in the continuity of the advertising. It is a common mistake for some advertisers to think that they can turn advertising on and off, like water from a faucet, and expect it to become immediately effective whenever they are prepared to resume operations. Advertising does not work that way. Temporary conditions should not influence us to make too serious inroads on the program of advertising, which can be wisely conceived only on a long term basis.—Francis H. Stearns, President American Bankers Association.

Don't Suffer From Sour Stomach, Indigestion

Indigestion, acidity, heartburn and sour stomach often lead to serious stomach trouble. Dr. Emil's Adia Tablets counteract these conditions. Give quick relief.—Rio Grande Pharmacy.

Much interest is being shown among poultry breeders and 4-H Club members of Texas in the proposed Capon Show to be held at the 1933 State Fair of Texas. It will be one of the first Capon Shows ever held in Texas and will show the bird on hoof for two days and dressed the third day. A big dinner at which the prize winning birds will be served is also being planned.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

During the last sixty to ninety days prices of nearly all commodities have been advancing. On many items prices have advanced from forty to seventy five per cent and in some cases nearly one hundred per cent.

At this time we believe it will be of interest to the consumer to buy freely of items to care for his needs for the next few months.

We want to assure the consuming public that we will not raise our prices except in line with the advancing costs of merchandise.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

TALENT ON STAGE

Coming to the Princess Theatre on August 11 and 12th is Moonlight and Pretzels. Just a recital of the names of the people who contributed toward its perfection reads like a who's who in the world of entertainment.

The music and lyrics are by Jay Gorney who wrote, "Brother Can You Spare A Dime". Additional numbers are by Harman Hupfield who wrote, "Let's Put Out The Lights And Go To Sleep."

The smart, new dances were staged by Bobby Conolly who staged all the Ziegfeld shows for the past seven years. He threw all he knew into, "Moonlight and Pretzels."

The cast includes Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Alexander Grey, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra and a half a hundred of the most exquisitely beautiful girls out of New York's great show world.

Dozens of Radio orchestras and Jazz bands have been broadcasting the musical hit numbers all over the nation such as, "Dusty Shoes", and "Ah But Is It Love" and "Moonlight and Pretzels", and "Let's Make Love Like The Crocodiles," and "Are You Making Any Money", and "I've Got To Get Up And Go To Work", and "There's A Little Bit Of You In Every Love Song."

It is talent and genius on a spree. It gives you more than you've had for a long time and it all comes under the head of the nonsense title, "Moonlight and Pretzels".

Further Plans For McDonald Observatory

Hal R. Bybee, state geologist, and his son, Bob, both of San Angelo, and E. J. Compton, who has the matter of University grazing lands, arrived here Tuesday and J. W. Calhoun came in from Austin yesterday. They are here to further the plans for the building of the great McDonald observatory, to be located on Mt. Locke.

The road up to the mountain to the observatory site, was started last week by the state highway department forces. The road leaves the Davis Mountain State Park Highway about 14 miles from Fort Davis and will wind its way to the summit of Mt. Locke to where the observatory will be built.

A grand view of a large portion is afforded the sight-seer from the top of Mount Locke. Among the prominent peaks seen from that point are Mt. Livermore, highest of the range, Saw Tooth, Mt. Guide, Blue Mountain, Mitre Peak and a vast field of broken, tumbled-up lands. Thousands of new people are expected to visit the observatory when it is completed, when number will be added to the already large crowds coming to Fort Davis every year.—Fort Davis Dispatch.

The Future Farmers exhibit at the 1933 State Fair of Texas will be made up from products grown by the 20,000 vocational agricultural teaching students in the 341 Texas schools teaching this course. It looked like the end of the watermelon feast to Mr. Kellogg as he sadly watched the big melon float away down stream, but luck was with him—and how! A fisherman further down the river intercepted the floating fruit, and, believe it or not, returned it to its original owner.

How All the People Played a Part In Building Nation's Credit Structure

Banker Describes the Way Loans and Securities of Banks Are Based on the Hopes and Plans of All Classes—Values Dependent on Public's Ability to Meet Obligations

By FRANCIS H. SISSON, President American Bankers Association in The Forum

CREDIT may be informally described as future hopes, plans and good intentions converted into present purchasing power. The farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant, the home buyer, the purchaser of household goods, the investor and the speculator all borrow at times. They plan to repay with the earnings of their crops, proceeds of the sales of their goods, incomes from their wages and salaries or profits from the resale of their securities at enhanced market values, such as the case may be.

The greater part of these various forms of credit is obtained by the borrowers directly or indirectly through the expansion of the loans and investments of the banks. It is this which creates the notes, securities and mortgages in the portfolios of the banks. The banks are able to extend these loans because a great many people deposit money with them.

Even under the best conditions the plans of a small percentage of borrowers go wrong through mistakes, hard luck or dishonesty, and the judgment of the banker in such cases is proved by the after event to have been at fault. The losses caused under such conditions are ordinarily fully met by funds set aside out of the earnings of the banks for just this purpose and do not affect the money of the depositors, who seldom hear anything about such losses.

In the vast majority of cases and in the overwhelming volume of business involved the confidence of the bankers in their customers and the confidence of the customers in their own ability to carry out their plans and obligations to successful conclusions are wholly justified. This is the normal economic situation and it constitutes the conditions under which the use of credit adds to public welfare and progress.

The Faith of the Banks Such was the structure of hopes, good intentions and common confidence in one another that existed among all classes of the nation's community life when the series of economic shocks began to shake the nation's social fabric in 1929. The people had deposited billions of dollars with the banks because they had confidence in them. The banks had loaned large volumes of these deposits on farm and home mortgages and on notes of manufacturers, business men and finance concerns, and had invested in the standard securities of the nation's corporations, state and local government units and the national government itself, because they had confidence in the citizenship and business condition of the nation.

Their mortgage and other loans to owners of farms aggregated $6,500,000,000. Loans on urban real estate were $4,000,000,000. Loans to individuals secured by U. S. Government, municipal and corporate securities totaled $11,000,000,000. Loans to industrial and commercial enterprises in connection with the production and distribution of the nation's infinite varieties of goods amounted to almost $19,500,000,000. Investments in Federal, State and municipal bonds were almost $4,000,000,000, and in various kinds of railroad and corporate securities $11,000,000,000. These made total loans and investments of $58,000,000,000.

This great credit structure was built while the country was at peace, while farms and factories were producing, while the nation and the world avoided great active markets for their goods, while the earnings of all kinds of enterprise were large, while the working people of the nation were fully employed, while wages and salaries were steady and generous, while prices of commodities were strong and while the minds of the people were dominated by faith in the future and confidence in one another.

Great Changes Came to the Nation Then suddenly, almost as if the sun itself had lost part of its vitality, everything changed. Foreign markets failed and disappeared. Industry slackened. A rapid drop in all kinds of commodity values set in. The earnings of business fell. Unemployment developed. Wages and salaries went down. Domestic markets shrank. Fear became general. The securities markets became panic-stricken as the prices of stocks and bonds withered to fractions of their former values. It was the greatest disintegration of human plans, economic conditions and worldly values that history had ever witnessed.

These destructive changes cut right through the qualities and values of the loans and investments, the notes and securities in the banks. Business men and manufacturers could not repay their notes to the banks as due. Many governmental units and corporations defaulted the payments on their bonds. Property underlying real estate mortgages became worth less than the face of the mortgages. The market values of standard securities became less than the banks had paid for them as investments or accepted them at as collateral for customers' loans.

This meant, in fine, that the ability of borrowers to carry out the future hopes, plans and good intentions that I have deposed above as the basis of credit, had become impaired to a far greater extent than had ever before occurred in the nation's history. The resulting losses could not be absorbed by the banks alone out of the normally ample funds that had been set aside against the expectancy of a certain inevitable percentage of human plans gone wrong.

Banks Showed All Reasonable Care It was in loans and investments, whose values thus became so unforeseeably impaired, that the banks, in all confidence, in all good faith, in all humanly reasonable care and good judgment had entrusted the billions of dollars of deposits which their customers had entrusted to them.

These loans and investments were, under all normal conditions, as good as gold itself. Indeed if the banks instead had piled their vaults with gold bars, and then some unknown cosmic ray had transmutated them into lead, the results would have been scarcely more startling than the depreciation that was caused in the assets of the banks by the unforeseeable economic forces which permeated and debased them.

The inevitable result was that, when the banks urgently needed the money they had entrusted to those assets, so that they could meet the unreasoning demands of their depositors, they could not get it back.

It was not that our banking system and methods were of themselves weak or reprehensible, apart from the rest of the life of the nation, as has so much been made to appear.

It was not that our banks were permeated with incompetency or dishonesty or with lower standards of business ethics than were the other forms of human activity with which their own fate and activities were inextricably interwoven, as, it almost seemed at times, there was a concerted national conspiracy to lead our people to believe.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.
