Since the beginning of history, human life has been held more cheaply than anything else in the world. It is so held today.

A large percentage of the human race has always met death through the criminality, ignorance or carelessness of fellow men.

Could the minds of all men be directed to the preservation of human life, what a difference it would make! No more wars, no more murders, no more preventable deaths automobile accidents, no more lives lost in fires started through carelessness—how changed would be the front pages of our daily newspapers!

To mention only three causes of violent death, the best authorities estimate that in the United States each year 10,000 are murdered, 25,000 are killed in automobile accidents and 15,000 are burned to death.

The total number of persons killed in accidents now reaches more than 75,000 a year.

While giving our attention to a multitude of other reforms and isms would it not be well to devote more serious thought and action towards reducing this appalling and unnecessary waste of human life.—Citizen, Culver, Ind.

essary waste of human life.—Citizen, Culver, Ind.

The true spirit of the time, which should govern the actions of every patriotic American in our war against the depression, which is being so valiantly fought, was expressed in one of Bruce Barton's inspirational editorials by a certain man of large affairs who, when asked if he thought things happening to us now was Socialism, exclaimed: "It's all right with me! Under any name or set-up, the game will still be interesting. I make no complaints because it isn't the same game our fathers played. Fix it up in any way that is best for the largest number of players. I will take my chance. All I ask is, just tell me the rules."—Topic, Mt. Dora, Fla.

The larger buyers have learned that there is no substitution for newspaper space because of paid circulation. Paid circulation is a guarantee of quality. People who pay for their papers pay for their papers pay for their purchases at the business houses. Their trade is worth while. It is true that direct mail advertising enters homes not reached by paid circulation mediums but the homes that have no paid magazines or newspapers do not offer very great markets for merchandise.—Republican, Humboldt, Iowa.

Bring taxes down, adapt them to the ability of the business and the individual to pay—and watch recovery go into high.

Business report, American Federation of Labor: "If deflation had run its course, half our population might be starving today."

People who count nothing but money as a thing worth while will some day wake up and realize that there are other things.

A whole page could be used in listing the advantages of these days over the "good old days." And yet you'll still hear people actually sighing for a return of those "good old days." It's a funny world.

The people who borrow their neighbor's paper might send in a check and have it sent to them regularly.

If, as the physiologists say, soft foods are changing the contour of the human chin, what's the unremitting application of hard grindstone going to do to the human nose?—Arkansas Gazette.

Old timers say that Goliad looks as it did in the "good old days" when shipping day for the local co-operative cattle shipping association comes around. During the heavy movement in October, shipments averaged 3 to 4 cars every Friday.

When Mrs. E. Ray of Culberson county says "conservation", she means it. She killed and canned 12 chickens by home demonstration methods, saved the feathers for pillows, used the intestines for wolf bait, and gave the bones back to the flock.

Several Delta county farmers recently testified at a terracing demonstration held by the county agent that terraces had increased production on their lands from one-fourth to one-third.

By canning fruit cake at a cost of 20 cents for a No. 2 can and selling it for 60 cents per can, Mrs. Frank Holland of South Plains Home Demonstration Club in Roberts county has been able to make some extra dollars. The retail price is considered very reasonable.

Members of the Hutchinson 4-H Club in Llano county averaged 39 bushels of corn per acre last year and one-half bale of cotton per acre to make returns on labor and investment of about $28 per acre for corn, and about $13 per acre for cotton.

Supplying herself and neighbors with fresh vegetables all year, Mrs. E. C. Hindman of Howland Home Demonstration Club in Lamar county was serving her family 26 different varieties of vegetables in November. She made and filled a canning budget of 712 quarts for other people. She also organized a negro club whose members she taught to can, putting up 2764 quarts.

Max Harrell came in Monday night from Waelder, Texas, and spent Tuesday here visiting with relatives. He and Mrs. Harrell and son returned to their home Wednesday.

O. H. McAdams returned Tuesday from San Antonio where he went last Saturday to be with Mrs. McAdams who is in that city for medical treatment. He reports that she is getting along fairly well.

Country Broadcastings

Edited by Jno. V. McCall, Pastor Sanderson Presbyterian Church

The American Churches are unique in three particulars. They are supported by the gifts of the people and not by State taxes; there are a larger number and a greater variety of denominations in the United States than in any other country in the world—(the Federal Census of Religious Bodies—1926—reports 215 of them); and the Protestant denominations are composed of a large number of small churches.

The three leading denominations in the South are the Southern Baptist Convention, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Presbyterian Church, U. S. The Southern Baptist Convention reports 23,374 churches. Of these 21,515, or 92 per cent, are rural. The entire number of Southern Baptist churches average 150 members. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South reports 18,096 churches of which 16,416, or 91 per cent, are rural. The average size of their churches, including 1680 located in the cities, is only 137 members. The Presbyterian Church, U. S., however, notwithstanding its rather large percentage of city churches, is only 132 members.

The principal problem is to adequately finance the small churches so that they may be able to support qualified pastors, have adequate equipment, and promote a proper program. Many small churches have heretofore been supported wholly or partially by Home Mission funds, but a new emergency has arisen which makes this impractical.

The Pastor of the usual small church or group receives insufficient support, and so frequently has to resort to a secular pursuit in order to get a living. As a rule the equipment is meager, the program is not what it ought to be to provide adequate religious privileges for the people. Frequently the small church is so hard pressed to meet its own necessities, that it gives but meagerly for the Kingdom causes of the denominations. What can be done to solve these problems? In subsequent issue of this paper we propose to discuss some plan which have been suggested for a solution.

EVENTS OF SOCIETY

CUNNINGHAM - STELL

Miss Mary Elizabeth Cunningham became the bride of John Thomas Stell of San Antonio at a quiet but lovely ceremony solemnized at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Conn Cunningham, 410 West Concho Avenue.

The simple ring service was performed in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the couple by the Rev. J. William Stephens, pastor of the First Christian Church. Before the entrance of the couple, Mrs. Winford Cunningham of Girvin played "Trauerelei" by Schumann. As they entered the long and softly lighted living room of the home, Mrs. Cunningham played the opening strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner, and during the ceremony she played "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell.

The bride wore a swag suit, styled by Rothmoor, in an imported tweed in the monotone color of bluish gray. The blouse of gray crepe featured a scarf ascot neckline. With it she used navy blue accessories. Her hat was of pedaline straw in navy blue in the wind-blown mode. It was wide brimmed. Her arm bouquet was formed of white rosebuds and white swansonia with showers.

For the service the couple stood just in front of an altar before the fireplace, the arch of lattice work having been intertwined with fern and pink and white rosebuds. Tall baskets filled with pink gladiolas stood at each side with the light being furnished from burning tapers in the two tall candelabra. Palms and ferns were placed at vantage points about the room and potted spring flowers formed the background decorations for the mantel. An informal reception followed the service. The bride cut the beautifully embossed wedding cake. Close friends of the bride assisted in serving the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Stell left immediately afterwards for San Antonio where they will spend several days before going to Dryden.

The bridegroom is a son of J. M. Stell of Cuero and is a reclamation engineer connected with the Dexter Construction Company of Dallas.

The bride, following her graduation from San Angelo High School, attended Texas Christian University at Fort Worth and later was a student in the University of Missouri at Columbia. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martin of Austin, Mrs. H. C. Burch of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Clements of Goldthwaite, Mrs. Walter Emison and daughter, Mary Jo, of Brownwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. Garver of Garden City, Mrs. W. S. Meadows and Dave Cunningham from the ranch at Sheffield, and Mr. and Mrs. Winford Cunningham, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, from the ranch, near Girvin.—San Angelo Standard Times.

Mrs. Stell is a teacher in the public school at Dryden and last year taught at the Independence school. She is a niece of Dave Cunningham, prominent rancher north of Dryden.

MESDAMES McKEE-SAVAGE HOSTESS TO BRIDAL SHOWER

One of the most pleasing social events of the season was the bridal shower given in the home of Mrs. Jack W. McKee on last Saturday when Mrs. McKee and Mrs. W. H. Savage named as honoree a recent bride, Mrs. Earle W. Adkins, who was before her marriage Miss Alvis Harris, a teacher in the Sanderson Public Schools.

The guests were assembled before Mrs. Adkins arrived and each registered her name together with her favorite recipe in a large heart-shaped book, entitled "Sweets for the Sweet." As the honoree came in, unsuspecting, she heard the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." She was then seated in the place of honor and Miss Louise Noble sang "I Love you Truly", accompanied at the piano by Miss Mildred Williams.

Mrs. Adkins was then given a note which directed her to follow the bluebird, which she found on the front porch, in a search for "bundles of happiness" from the many friends. This proved to be a "Treasure Hunt" indeed, a large basket being filled and refilled with packages large and small. When the hunt was ended, all present enjoyed looking at the gifts as they were unwrapped.

Interesting contests were then engaged in. Miss Margaret Lattimore receiving the prize, a box of handkerchiefs, in the one, Miss Margaret Martin, a Valentine box of candy in the other.

In the midst of the merriment a special delivery letter was brought to Mrs. McKee from the "would-be Benedicts of Sanderson," in which the latter sent their hearts and a request that they be distributed among the "fair maidens" present. Mrs. McKee tossed the hearts in the air, there was a scramble, and each young lady found the name of her "lover."

The guests were served a plate lunch of chicken salad with "heart-beets", Valentine sandwiches, Love Knives, and coffee, after which they were led into the dining room where the large three-tiered wedding cake, gaily decorated with hearts and roses, served as the centerpiece on the dining table, flanked on either side by tall pink tapers. The bride cut the first piece, the other guests following her, nearly all of whom learned still more of their future from the "fortunes" contained therein.

Besides the honoree, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Savage had as their guests upon this delightful occasion Misses Corinne Fox, Eva Chaffin, Mildred Williams, Lorine Barker, Louise Noble, Margaret Martin, Eva Jo Stanley, Margaret Lattimore, Sara Lee Morton, and Mesdames B. J. Brannan, Cecil Cammack, Ervin Grigsby, F. H. Talbot, Joe Kerr, C. L. Surratt, J. R. Blackwelder and D. L. Duke.

MEDICAL ADVICE
If you want to . . .
... relieve constipation safely
... regulate the dose to suit your exact need
... avoid danger of bowel strain
—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be safely relieved? "Yes" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills, and cathartics. But you can relieve this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Why Hospitals Use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Will not irritate kidneys. The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label: fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drug stores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.

AIRDROME NEWS
(By Radio Doc)

We wonder, in considering all the construction work, what is the progress of Mooney's fish pond? Must have moved into his laundry.

It is said that genius is only once removed from madness. Many people have adopted the attitude that radio operators are goofy. But that is the result and penalty of being geniuses. As an example, we quote somebody--"What is the benefit of using correct english everyone thinks you are a darned alien". There you are.

Once in every one's life, there comes a time when it is propitious to disagree with another. Then one is termed a radical.

Larry squawked about not having his name in the paper--here it is.

"When I am old, and hold my grandchildren's children (?) on my knees, it shall be my particular and chief delight to recount to them the time I was in the air corps, and the service ships carried the air mail."--Jimmie.

Homer Junior has taken it upon himself to fire the furnace in the enlisted men's barracks, and upon finding the place dirty, the Sgt. sez everyone living there will help clean it up, and keep it that way.

"Pinky" divulges the fact that his line is good when he has something to work on--and maintains that Pat was in Del Rio Friday night.

Mr. Pinky to you.

Cpl. Hambleton and Pvt. Moss, accompanied by their families, were visitors to the port last Saturday evening and Sunday. Hambleton yet wears his moustache.

On a certain radio program, as of last Sunday evening, one part of the program featured a playlet bemoaning the fact that so many folks are prone to spread soft soap, and stating certain opinions of said people. In writing this column, we endeavor to spread no soft soap (except where it will do the most good), hence the many slams we have gotten on it. It is the truth that hurts.

Why is it that a wrong number always causes embarrassment? Or, rather, why should a wrong number which gets the deputy sheriff, cause stammering and stuttering accompanied by excessive pinkening of the face? Ask Jimmie.

In Corpus Christi, the men are so tough they play tiddledy winks with manhole covers. Page a radio operator.

The fence enclosing the draw, which comprises the livestock dept., has been completed. The visitors to the fields are liable to have to pay a quarter to see the sights. The aspect is gradually changing to that of a model farm.

Anyone allowing a dog to run loose takes the risk of losing it if anyone from the airport sees it.

Ho hum one less set of quarters to enlarge. The newlyweds are firmly established with the Mooneys.

Someone has been reading my mail. But we sincerely appreciate the sentiment (hope it is that kind) behind the posting of our Valentine. The party sending it please accept our thanks. At least one per cent of our readers (maybe one hundred per cent) appreciates the underlying thought and the idea we are trying to put over. In writing for the boys at the drome it is our utmost endeavor to brighten the time for them, and you, our kind readers, with a bit of levity. At the same time, if it be possible to instill in the hearts of this, the great American people, a bit of philosophy; the ability to read between the lines; or accomplish a purpose beyond the pale of frank speech, then we have achieved a great purpose. The last intention is to put before you the fact that there is an airport around somewhere, and that it is inhabited. Of course, the human element must enter into that habitation as well as the livestock. Also, please remember that no malice is borne anyone, and if there should be the least hint of harm done, we had rather never write a word. Again, we thank the thoughtful donor of that remembrance, and trust you have been repaid. Valentine greeting to you from me.

Mr. Deuel and partner were visitors at the field Tuesday night. These men are with the treasury department, and are "on the job."

Another cow and this place will resemble the milky way.

The telephone works again. Next time Mrs. Richardson has any work done on her home, we shall make it our especial duty to disconnect any and all wiring therefrom, eliminating the possibility of needing "wireless" telephone service. It seems the phone is expected to work without being connected to the line. Oh well, we can't all be experts.

We wish we could induce the engineer of the six thirty-five a. m. train to blow the whistle each morning when passing the field. This would solve the alarm clock problem.

It is error only and not truth that shrinks from inquiry.

Benjamin Franklin said "If you would be remembered after you are dead, either do things worth writing-- or write things worth reading". Well, don't know how it would seem to know one would be thus immortalized, and don't expect to realize the feeling. Beat you to it that time.

Among those honoring us with their presence were the school teachers, Miss Barker and Mr. Morgan. In our opinion they were checking up on the pupils residing on the field.

And Dr. and Mrs. Halbert were looking for business. Pardon me, I mean they visited with us and we were happy to have them.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of the "Times" Nuff sed. They print the paper you are reading, and it is not safe to make any remarks.

Had the teachers timed their visit rightly, it is possible Constance would be well, rather than running around with that horsey whisper emanating from somewhere in her vicinity.

The lilies of the valley; and Solomon in all his glory--remember or did you ever know, anyway Mrs. Richardson and Constance have new dresses. Almost said "a new dress--but that would have been a faux pas. It takes at least two.

Things don't turn up on this world until somebody turns them up. Hope it doesn't get too hot over the things turned up in this.

People seldom improve when they have no model but themselves to copy after. You are welcome to use any or all of this column for your edification. Ahem.

Listen--mediocre minds ordinarily condemn that which passes their comprehension.

1933-STYLE "WILD WEST" MELODRAMA

New thrills are promised for Tim McCoy fans in his latest Columbia picture, "The Whirlwind", coming next Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23-24, at the Princess Theatre.

It provides entertainment of a unique variety in that it not only gives the popular western star a chance to display his wares as a rider and crack-shot, but it pounds out thrills in the picturization of a savage wrestling match and the action of a thrilling holiday rodeo.

Tim rides into his home town with his two inveterate pals, as played by Pat O'Malley and J. Carrol Naish. There, he finds, that due to the influence of a crooked sheriff (Matthew Beta) he is snubbed by even his own father. The only person who believes in him is little Molly Curtis, who watches with satisfaction as he turns the tables on his enemies.

The wrestling match between Tim and Leto is one of those high-lights of screen entertainment that you won't forget in some time. The two boys go at it in a fashion that would even make Jim Londos sit back and wonder.

In the same manner the rodeo carries the picture through a series of wonderful shots of horse racing, bulldogging, broncho busting, and general all-around riding that has never been equaled.

Tim carries his own picture smoothly with nice emphasis on the care-free personality of Tim Reynolds. Alice Dahl is "sweet and lovely" as the little blonde girl who is the object of Tim's romantic inclinations.
