Sanderson Gets 3.04 Inches Rain Last Saturday

One of the heaviest rains to fall here in some time was that of last Saturday morning when more than three inches were recorded within two hours' time. The rain came from the northeast and for some time the downpour was so heavy one could not see across the street.

Considerable damage was done to streets and yards of residences in the north part of town, as ditches were unable to carry off the excessive water. Sanderson canyon, in the south part of the city, came down on a big rise and for a while threatened to wash away the underpinnings of the railroad bridge in the east end of the yards.

The rain did not extend very far east or west of Sanderson, and reports from the north were that it did not extend much farther than Big Canyon Ranch.

A total of 3.62 inches of rain fell in this section during June, according to official figures.

Tax collection this week have been good, according to reports from the tax collector's office.

Big Bend Park Measure Signed By President

A message from Representative Ewing Thomason last Saturday, stated that President Roosevelt had signed a bill creating the Big Bend National park in Southwest Texas.

The bill authorizes Secretary Ickes to acquire by donation several hundred thousand acres of land in Brewster and Presidio counties on the Rio Grande. Both President Roosevelt and Secretary Ickes have expressed hopes that Mexico would create a similar territory on the south side of the river, and an agreement could be evolved to create an international park.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Senators Connally and Sheppard of Texas, and in the House by Thomason.

Mrs. Ervin Grigsby is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Glass in Sterling City.

Washington—Under the leadership of the Texas delegation, the House Democrats decisively defeated Republican opposition and passed by a voice vote a resolution authorizing an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the 1936 Texas Centennial celebration.

The House rejected three attempts from the Republican side to reduce an appropriation to not more than $1,500,000 and sent the resolution to conference with the Senate over minor amendments. One would permit the appropriations committee to make an allocation for a Texas museum at the state capital in Austin.

A voice vote defeated an attempt of Rep. Michener (R. of Michigan), to authorize a $1,000,000 appropriation and the motion by Rep. Taber (R. of N. Y.) to make the amount $1,500,000 lost by a vote of 39 to 86.

When the final passage of the legislation became apparent, Rep. Martin (R. of Mass.) moved to recommit the committee and cut the amount in half, but he also lost, 86 to 186, in a roll call vote.

The $3,000,000 appropriation would be given to a special commission composed of Secretaries Wallace, Hull and Roper, and to perhaps Vice President Garner, for expenditure as they saw fit to assure federal participation in the celebration honoring Texas' one-hundredth anniversary of independence from Mexico.

AIR CONTROL OFFICER SENT TO TACTICAL SCHOOL

The following item from the San Antonio Express, in its issue of June 23, will be of interest to friends in this city, Dryden, and at the airport of Capt. Thad V. Foster, who is well known here:

Plan Enlargement of Dryden Airport

Plans which will greatly enlarge and improve the Dryden airport are now under way by the war department. An allotment of about $20,000 has been made, and this sum will be spent to further the usefulness of this station, contingent upon securing the needed land for its purpose.

Thursday morning two planes with officials from San Antonio delegated to act for the department landed at Dryden, and were met by Joe Kerr and Al Creigh of this place. Plats of the terrain were examined, and the land needed decided upon, but nothing definite along this line was decided upon, as other owners of acreage in the needed tract must first be consulted.

After the conference an auto trip was taken to a tract lying to the southwest of the port, which impressed the officers as a very favorable spot for a landing field. Among contemplated improvements are concrete runways, and remodeling of the radio system to enable pilots to converse with the stations on the ground.

CONTROL OFFICER VISITS

Capt. Chas. Pursley, new airway control officer of the southwestern division, was a visitor at the Dryden airport and in Sanderson Wednesday. Sgt. Rowe, a house guest of Sgt. Richardson at the port, accompanying him.

BUSINESS HOUSES HERE WILL CLOSE JULY 4TH

Sanderson business houses will close next Thursday, July Fourth, to give employees an opportunity to observe the holiday. Many of the filling stations will be closed half the day, it was stated.

While no celebration has been planned for Sanderson, many of the nearby towns have planned programs, and many of our citizens will attend these.

In order that the Times force may have part of the day off we are asking merchants to get their advertising in early, and that all news items be turned in early in the week.

Work Starts On Dormitory For Sul Ross, Alpine

Alpine.—Work was started last week on the boys' dormitory at Sul Ross college. It is a Public Works Administration project and long sought as a major objective in the college's improvement program. The contract was let to Morgan and Sons of El Paso and the estimated cost is $47,500.

The dormitory will be of Spanish type, 176 feet long by 111 feet wide, containing 28 rooms which will accommodate 54 students. During the summer, it was stated, the building will be used as headquarters for the Sul Ross art colony.

County Secures Two Trucks For Work On Roads

At a special meeting of the county commissioners held on Monday of this week, bids for the purchase of three trucks to be used on road work were considered, and a canvass of the bids submitted found that of the Ferguson Motor company lowest, and an order was placed with that company for two heavy duty truck chassis, with cabs. Dump bodies which the county now have, will be installed on the new trucks, to be used in this precinct—No. 1, and in Dryden, Precinct No. 2. A third truck, on which bids were asked, will be purchased later, to be used in Precinct No. 4.

Twenty Added to Baptist Church During Revival

Real interest has been manifest in the revival now drawing to a close at the Baptist church. All services are well attended, especially at night. Rev. Philip Brown, the pastor, is doing the preaching, and the song services are being led by Johnnie Cohen, one of the best singers in the denomination. These song services, under his direction, have been a highlight of the meeting.

Twenty additions have been reported to date, fifteen by conversion, and five by letter. The meeting will continue thru Sunday, and on Monday night the ordinance of Baptism will be administered.

Clyde Morris local manager for the Community Public Service Co., was a business visitor to the division office in Pecos Thursday evening.

Ewes To Lead on West Texas Market

A spurt in yearlings was noted in West Texas. Roy Henderson said $5 a head for 4000, and county ranchmen in the last few days. Many ranchmen expect to go to $7 and $8, due to range conditions. Yearlings are bringing a good price. Yearlings are selling at $5 a head, and several important ones have been made. E. L. Angelo shipped out 1000 yearlings, mostly yearlings, to the fair grounds at Springfield, Ill., where the "grass roots" Republican conference of the Middle West was held.

Way Again Open to Traffic Following Flood

Route to Uvalde over No. 3 from Del Rio eastward about noon Tuesday traffic on this road had been closed for nearly two weeks by high water in the vicinities, which caused the road to go on a rampage, and cut both railroad and bridges.

Part of the highway detour have been busy opening over the river via detour a few miles this side. A low bridge on the river was constructed, and slabs were poured to support the heavy timbers. This, however, is only temporary.

On Buying Securities

Is a security? The new law of Texas regarding the sale of securities, which includes any form of bonds, mortgage certificate, or under a profit sharing agreement, royalty interest in an oil, mining property. In addition are many lesser known securities. The Texas Securities law which was passed by the Legislature in 1935, is broad in its scope, and what constitutes a security, according to Secretary of State C. Mann. In purchasing any form of security, such as those named above, the buyer should determine the person doing the selling is registered with the Secretary of State. Emphasis is on the fact that in no case is the State guaranteed or any responsibility on the part of the seller. Under the law he held accountable for representations as to fact made in the sale of a security.

LIFE-LONG EDUCATION

Prominent educators are now advocating education for a life time. This is the final stage. At one time children up to 12 years of age were compelled to go to school at least 24 weeks every year. Those were the days of the three R's. The school age was raised to 14. Finally, it has been raised to 16.

No boy or girl under 16 can work without a certificate in most of the states in this country. In some states, illiterates are compelled to attend night schools to get an elementary education.

Adult education has received considerable emphasis in recent years. With compulsory education extended to a life time, we have come at last to the crowning stage.

Yet there is every reason to extend the education process through all of life. This is especially true in a democracy.

In Russia and in Germany they have what they call a "cleansing" of the party. That is a test which is applied to those who are members of the political party which controls the state, to find out whether they are still true to its ideals.

Why should not every American citizen from time to time pass a test to see if he or she understands what government is all about, and to learn whether the voter really knows anything of the issues upon which he is called to give an opinion through his ballot.

There are too many voters who are incompetent to pass upon anything but the most elementary of propositions before the country. There are Democrats or Republicans, protectionists or free traders, not because they are intelligent upon the matter, but too often because they lack intelligence.

There are those who still announce with pride that they vote a straight ticket, always. If they were really intelligent, they could not do it.

Candidates for office differ in character, in ability, in their pronounced views on anything. What claim have such upon the good-will or support of the voter?

Of course, we cannot see how the government can support an educational system that carries a man through life. But the idea is sound in principle. A man should be learning and investigating all his life.

We have the opportunities in this country through adult classes, through forums, through a wide system of extension courses, and through a great variety of journals on every conceivable subject. All that is needed is that the people avail themselves of these opportunities.

Along this line, it is well to consider the matter of the seven constitutional amendments upon which voters of Texas will pass at a special election on August 24th.

Each and every one deserves careful study before either a "for" or "against" is registered. But, it is a sad fact that too often voters face amendment changes with a feeling that all constitutional amendment are machinations of lobbyist politicians, and should be swatted, regardless. A careful reading of the current proposed changes to the Texas Constitution will uncover features of real worth—and some of them should be passed. Be that as it may, they are worth reading—worth consideration. After you have read them, you will, at least, have voted "your opinion" on matters that deeply concern you and your neighbors.

Ginger Rogers Is Star of Romance In Manhattan

Theatre goers who enjoy stirring pictures of real life, told in simple form, without artificiality, should see "Romance in Manhattan," starring Ginger Rogers and Francis Lederer, which comes to the Princess Theatre next Monday, July 1, one day only.

The story is of a young immigrant who comes to America afire with hopes, but is denied entry because he lacks the necessary $200 demanded by the laws of the country. He slips overboard from the ship on which he is being deported and swims ashore. His struggles in the New World make a series of dramatic situations and build up a stirring climax. This role is enacted by brilliant Francis Lederer.

Sparkling Ginger Rogers furnishes the love interest as the irresistible New York chorus girl struggling gallantly to support a small brother. Her role is even more dramatic than that in "Gay Divorcee," one of her many triumphs.

Introduce New Retirement Plan For Railroaders

Washington, June 26.—A new railroad retirement plan, to replace the law held unconstitutional by the supreme court, was offered in congress today by Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) and Rep. Crosser, (D. Ohio).

In an attempt to meet the Supreme Court's objection they offered the program in two separate bills, one providing for payment out of the treasury, and the other levying a tax on payrolls against both employers and employes without reference to the retirement plan.

An appropriation of $50,000,000 out of the treasury to pay the benefits would be authorized in the retirement bill. Authors of the bill contended that this would be "clearly constitutional" because the courts have held in the past that the right of Congress to appropriate money is virtually unlimited.

Mrs. J. V. McCall, accompanied by Misses Adair Edmiston and Nell Lea, left Monday for Kerrville where they are spending the week attending the Intermediate conference of young folks of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. S. C. Harrell and daughter Lillian have returned from a visit in El Paso with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Qualtrough.

Per Capita For Texas Scholastics Fixed At $17.50

Austin, June 24.—The board of education today set a per capita apportionment of $17.50, the statutory maximum, of state school aid for approximately 1,600,000 scholastics during 1935-36.

Augmented by income from the special levies the school fund overcame the usual four to eight months deficit, the board said, predicting a cash balance of some $2,500,000 on August 31, the end of the fiscal year.

Only once before, in 1929, was the apportionments $17.50. It was $16.50 for the current school year and $16 for the year prior. Except for the statutory limit, the board said the apportionment could have been $19 or $20.

Prospects that the apportionment would not consume all of available school funds heightened likelihood of a reduction of the present 35 cents per $100 valuation ad valorem levy for school support. It was estimated a rate of 32 cents could be set by the automatic tax board in July, and would yield a balance in 1936-37. It was calculated the $17.50 apportionment would grant $28,000,000 state funds to schools. In addition, the state provided $5,000,000 for rural aid and school benefit equalization, the largest in its history.

John Trent of Fort Stockton was a Sanderson visitor Wednesday.

There's no need to cover foods in a modern Air Conditioned ice refrigerator

The 1935 WARD

Handsomely designed in sparkling white Dulux. Heavily insulated. Needs re-icing only once in every 4 to 7 days. Over 10 square feet of shelf space. Equipped with sliding utility basket and porcelain freezing unit for making ice cream and frozen desserts.

It isn't necessary to wrap foods or put them in covered dishes when you own a modern AIR-CONDITIONED ice refrigerator. Foods may be placed in open containers without drying or without intermingling of food odors, because modern AIR-CONDITIONED ice refrigerators embody these three fundamental principles of proper food preservation:

1. Proper Humidification. The melting film of water on the ice keeps humidity properly balanced, neither too moist nor too dry.
2. Elimination of Food Odors. Objectionable food odors are picked up by circulating air, absorbed by melting ice and passed out through the drain.
3. Uniform Cold Temperature. A continuous flow of cold, washed air maintains temperatures below 50 degrees throughout the entire food chamber.

Modern AIR-CONDITIONED refrigeration with ICE gives you this three-way protection at low cost. Heavy insulation and improvements in design make re-icing necessary only once in every 4 or 5 days in summer and once a week in winter. For beauty, convenience and economy, investigate the new AIR-CONDITIONED ice refrigerators TODAY. Ask for 10-day free trial!

BIG BEND RANCHER IS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

W. W. Threadgill, manager of the La Mota ranch near Casa Piedra, was struck by lightning Sunday night about 11:30, and lived over it.

Threadgill had moved his bed out under a tree in the yard near his house to escape the heat and had gone to sleep. A storm came up and lightning struck the tree over his bed peeling the bark down to a clothesline. The clothesline saved Threadgill's life, for instead of coming on down the tree to the ground where it would have hit him direct, the lightning followed the line to another tree where it jumped to a barbed wire fence and finally grounded.

Threadgill was brought to Marfa by his grandson, Jack Bradley, to the Paisano hotel where he was treated by Dr. Darracot. After treatment for his eyes, back, and nervous shock, he was sent to El Paso by train where he received further treatment. — Big Bend Sentinel (Marfa).

METHODIST CHURCH

"Consider the Lilies" will be the sermon subject Sunday morning. It is a plea for simplicity in living as opposed to artificiality. Undoubtedly in recent years there has been a healthy trend away from artificiality toward simplicity in living and thinking, and yet our much-vaunted freedom is not all clear gain.

Exhibits New Air Conditioned Ice Refrigerators

Jack Bass, special representative for the Community Public Service company, was in Sanderson Tuesday and Wednesday, exhibiting and demonstrating the latest in ice box refrigeration.

The theme of this demonstration was "There's no substitute for ice," and a close inspection of the different models of Ward refrigerators, plus air conditioning features and other improvements, would convince one that such is the case.

Te boxes are of steel, pure white, scientifically insulated. The ice chamber is sealed on all sides, the front wall being hinged for the reception of ice. Refrigerated air escapes through a grated bottom, insuring a circulation of cool air to the food chambers that is positive and even, with maximum results.

Two more features, important ones, too, are embodied in this new and modern refrigerator. (1) Ice cream can be made in the incredibly short time of 45 minutes, compared with a minimum time of 80 minutes in electric refrigerators. (2) Ice cubes can be made in the Ward ice refrigerator. And what ice cubes! Crystal clear, and free of obnoxious taste or odors.

The new style refrigerators are as far ahead of the old "boxes," as the auto is ahead of the old horse and buggy. One has a wide range of sizes to choose from, and the materials used in their construction make them a thing of beauty.

Any information needed will be cheerfully given at the local office of the Community Public Service Company.

Mrs. Esther Shely and granddaughter, Pat, of Tesmus, spent Monday in Sanderson visiting Mrs. John Whistler.

Charles Robertson arrived from San Antonio Tuesday, and is visiting in the home of his brother, Frank Robertson.

Helpful Household Hints

By BETTY WEBSTER

If you are clever why don't you try painting designs on your scarf or handkerchiefs or even pajamas? All the very newest of these are hand-painted and altho they are quite expensive to buy, are the easiest things in the world to make or—I should say—decorate.

If you can make your own designs so much the better, but if you can't there are patterns to be procured. The paint used is almost any you may choose. It is best, however, to inquire as to its qualities, for use on cloth, before purchasing.

Picnic Suggestion

On warm summer evenings it is cruel to make mother stay in the kitchen, first cooking and then cleaning up. Why not try picnic suppers? Let dad supply the paper dishes, cloth napkins, forks and spoons. Mother will furnish a salad. Sister can make the sandwiches. And brother will provide a dessert.

CONDUCT COOKING SCHOOL

Mrs. H. Laurence, assisted by Mrs. Theresa Dawson, held a three-day cooking school this week for the benefit of the Mexican people of this community who are on relief.

The first class was conducted at the Mexican school building last Friday at which time hot cocoa was prepared and which was served with a cake that Mrs. Laurence had made.

The classes conducted Monday and Tuesday of this week were held in two different homes. Appetizing food was prepared using the various foods that are given the relief clients.

Much good was accomplished in conducting the school and the Mexican women were very much interested in the work. Mrs. Laurence will continue with the work in that she will visit the homes and assist those in preparing foods who wish her to do so.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapter

Soyna pleads with her keeper for a means of self-destruction rather than face the fate decreed by El Diablo. But Concha, her love for Stone overcoming her, though she knows Soyna is her rival, arranges her escape with her lover, but as the ship is about to take off she pays with her life. The chase is on.

CHAPTER XIV

Trapped On the Mesa's Top

Soyna clung to the cockpit's edge with clutching fingers, her eyes burned dry of sudden tears, fixed on the future, if future there was to be. The aching sorrow for the lovely Mexican girl who had loved Starr Stone sank deep in her heart, never to be quite eradicated.

The memory of all sane and ordered things was dim and far away—the ranch house that was home, the faces of Serge and Lila and the child.

And Rodney Blake! With a shock she remembered him. He was a stranger to her. She could not recall his face with any clearness. There was only one face clear to her. The face of this man so miraculously snatched from death to life, this man who drove an airship through the midnight sky toward life and love and liberty.

Presently, watching tensely, she saw the great pale ribbon of the Rio Grande.

The border! She held her breath as they passed over it, and let it out in a great sigh.

A little longer and they would be safe.

Safe—and home. Home! What would it mean to her and to Starr Stone?

The stern face of her brother—Rod Blake who had so grimly promised that no people, no country, no man should ever take her from him—and Marston of New York, the man who came to find who sent the contraband from Mazatlan to the coast!

They had not cheated destiny after all. They were headed into all this, and Starr knew it! For that he would not leave her to save himself, she knew full well.

With the knowledge of a new disaster confronting them, Soyna wet her dry lips, cast desperately about her for something she might tell these three grim men and she found nothing.

And, leaning her face across the cockpit's polished surface she became conscious of something, felt something of a seventh sense. Exactly as a dog senses danger which he cannot see, so this girl of the wild land sensed danger now. It was as if the hackles of her spirit rose.

What could it be?

She looked at the back of Starr Stone's head, its bronze hair whipping in the backwash of the wind behind the low windshield, and wished she could see his face.

If she could have done so, she would have seen it set like a mask, for long before she felt the presence of this unseen danger he had been conscious of it.

He knew that not far behind them, not so high above, another little ship droned steadily out of the south—that Nemesis incarnate was on their trail. He knew that in the ship there was, in all probability, a machine gun in the hands of El Diablo himself, who was an expert in its use. What the end would be he did not know. Only that it would be an end. There was no doubt of that.

El Capitan would never, in this world let him get away with what he had done, with the knowledge he had, with the stand he had taken, to forswear him and all his works. He meant to kill him—to kill them both, if no other way was possible—to shoot them both down if they did not land.

And where could they land with any chance of safety? Well, it was fate—as he had told poor Conchita.

And then Soyna looked up and back—and saw.

Saw the soft silver thing that followed like a pointed sword.

After all! After all the monstrous anguish, the fear, the sorrow, and the hope!

Verily Starr Stone was paying for his sins, and she paid with him for that love which had redeemed him to manhood's high estate, which had made of her a fugitive, an outcast from her own, but which burned in her soul with indestructible beauty.

So be it, thought Sonya Savarin, so be it!

Down in that dim world below, the last act of this drama of the sage land was preparing for enactment. Posse after posse scouring the lone levels, had turned back toward the railroad and the town. Baffled, wondering, they sought new reinforcements, made more extensive preparations to search the canyons beyond the Bad Lands country. Only Serge Savarin, the two men with him, rode and would not give up. Two Fingers, Hostenez Nez, Hostenez T'so hunted patiently in ever widening circles that had covered all the face of the flat land.

In the quest of these three silent trailers there was more than a mere search for a lost white woman. There was the dim and gentle shadow of that legendary diety, the Blue South Woman, who "made her hogan" in the white girl's heart.

So the Navajos rode steadily—would ride until they found her, either living or dead, if she was anywhere in the wild land, and destiny came to meet them.

They had done with the sagebrush levels. Lone Mesa loomed before them. Silently save for the click of the slithering hoofs, they ascended, fantastic figures from a long dead past, the low moon red behind them.

And in the magnificent heavens Starr Stone, looking desperately down ahead, caught the dim outline of Lone Mesa's crown, its shining white stone level.

Here was a landing place. Here were the walls against which a man might make a stand if he were armed, find shelter behind if he was not, providing he could get the time to leave his plane and gain them.

And Sonya, too, saw and recognized Lone Mesa.

It was almost level with them—was so—the ship was leveling off—distance, height, had dropped away; they were skimming the mesa's surface, touching, then bouncing on uneven rock, and finally were still.

Behind them that other was at the very edge above them, passing over.

Starr Stone, with his arms about Sonya, dragging her over the side, cast one flashing glance ahead.

"Kismet!" he said with white lips, "they beat us after all! They are down between us and the pueblo!"

So they were, the rocking gray ship still a hundred feet beyond. And Diablo and Manuel, deadly shapes of menace, were climbing out, coming toward them.

Calmly Sonya stood beside her man.

"Come back," she said touching him, "toward the cliff. It is our only chance."

With his arm still around her, Starr Stone turned and, stumbling, hurrying, they crossed the space between them and the sheer lip where once, ages ago, it seemed, they had looked in each other's tragic faces and found their destiny.

"Darling," the man said softly, "hold me tight—don't be afraid."

Soyna Savarin laughed, a little low sound.

"Afraid?" she said, running. "With you?"

"Halt!" same the great voice of El Diablo. "Halt! or I fire!"

There was yet a moonlit space for the running feet. Death might catch them before they leaped to meet it!

RATTLE OF THE RAIL

Engineer H. J. McGovern was recently assigned to a passenger run between Sanderson and El Paso for one trip due to washout.

Washouts have been repaired and all freight runs have been placed back on this division.

Trainmaster Weatherford was here Sunday from Del Rio.

Conductor W. Swearingen and Flagman Bohanon came down from El Paso Tuesday to take the "Powers Special" west that night.

Fireman T. R. Arrington made a trip on passenger between here and El Paso this week.

Fireman Potter has resumed his passenger run out of Del Rio.

All the boys who had an opportunity to handle traffic on the T. & P. report they were treated royally on that road, but are glad to be back on their own divisions.

Crack! Crack! Crack! The sharp barking of an automatic, not the machine gun.

Bullets whined about them and clipped into the rock beyond.

And Sonya Savarin looked up for the last time into the face which had filled her heart, her soul, to the exclusion of all else since that wild day in the spring here on this wind-swept height, when she had first beheld it.

The man looked down, slowed in his stride.

One moment more—a kiss maybe, and this glorious adventure would be done forever, sealed like a deathless flame in the casket of eternity.

Calvin Stansell, being desirous of fencing and improving all of the lands above described entered into a contract and agreement with Plaintiffs, whereby Plaintiffs would advance the money to pay for the material and labor necessary to fence and improve said lands, and Plaintiffs did advance the sum of $4,000.00 to said Defendant in pursuance of said agreement and said sum was used for the payment of said labor and materials, and that by reason thereof a builder's, contractor's laborer's and materialman's lien was created and came into existence in favor of Plaintiffs to secure the payment of said sum. That on said date last above the Defendants J. Calvin Stansell and Eva Stansell made, executed and delivered to F. B. Swift their note in the sum of $3,000.00 due four years after date, bearing eight per cent interest per annum payable semi-annually. And on the same date said Defendants did make, execute and deliver to Bertha E. Jones their note in the sum of $1,000.00, due, payable and conditioned as the above note payable to F. B. Swift. That in order to secure the payment of said notes above, the said Defendants did convey the lands hereinbefore described to Walter F. Jones, Trustee, for the use and benefit of the Plaintiffs. That by reason thereof, a valid and subsisting deed of trust and mortgage lien was created and came into existence to secure the payment of said notes. That each of said notes are now long past due and unpaid, and the Defendants though often requested have failed and refused to pay the same or any part thereof. Plaintiffs are entitled to judgment for the principal, interest and attorney's fees due upon said notes, and to a foreclosure of said liens.
