EXTRA CREWS REPAIR FLOOD DAMAGES

Traffic Resumed on Highway Via Short Detours; Repair on Railway Will Require Several More Days

Planning Band Of Forty-five in Sanderson High

The prospects for a high school band of forty-five pieces are very good, according to J. E. King, band director of Sanderson high school. Mr. King reports there are already thirty-eight students signed up for band work and he has several others who are interested.

The band is handicapped at the beginning because of the loss of several members by graduation last May. Mr. King plans to have his first public appearance of the band at the October 3 meeting of the P. T. A.

Two music classes are being conducted daily by Mr. King other than band rehearsals during the activity period three days of the week. He is making an effort to organize a junior band which will include all students in grammar school who are interested in the work who own musical instruments.

There is no greater barrier to scientific progress than the demand for a too quick result.—Ger.

Extra highway crews as well as bridge men were employed last week to make repairs on the railroad and highway caused by the heavy rains and flood waters of last Wednesday.

Traffic on the highway is now opened up, and while in places the going is a little rough, automobile traffic is possible. Crews were on the job as soon as conditions permitted, all minor washouts have been refilled, and detours made at Prairie Creek and Lozier Canyon. Blacktopping, washed off in several places, will be replaced immediately.

At Lozier, traffic via the highway was made impossible when about 200 feet of the east approach was washed away. At this point a temporary road is being built across the canyon bed about 400 yards above the bridge, dirt from the remaining portion of the fill-in being used. Two small bridges were placed in the canyon bed, which will take care of flood water from ordinary rains.

All of the bridges on the railroad between here and Dryden which were washed away have been replaced and the crews are now working on structures east of Dryden. Railway traffic, it was thought, would not be resumed east of here before the first of next week.

Gutierrez, Found Guilty; Assessed Five Years By Jury at Rocksprings

Extensions For Bridges Here and At Lozier Canyon

Plans are being made to lengthen the bridge on the east edge of town since its approaches have been washed out twice this year. One span will be built on the east side of the present structure and two on the west end, it was reported. The highway department also plans to dike the east side of the creek and rip-rap the west side, the work to be done between the highway and the railroad bridge. This it is hoped, will confine waters coming down the creek within its channels.

For some time the highway department have been making tests and plans with a view of replacing the dips on the highway with bridges. Considerable damage by recent flood waters may prompt the department to do this at the earliest possible date.

It is appreciated that, since the recent floods, which have been extraordinary in extent, the highway department is doing everything possible to correct these evils and put Highway No. 3 in first-class condition at the earliest possible date.

More definite information will be known about these plans when Geo. B. Finley, division engineer, with headquarters at Pecos, returns to Sanderson, as he met with the highway commissioners Monday in Austin, and discussed the plans outlined above.

The recent flood convinced engineers of the highway department that this span, which is over 700 feet long, was not adequate to carry off the waters from abnormal rainfall, and it was stated that recommendations to highway commissioners will be for an extension on the east end of the present structure of approximately 208 feet, which will make the total length something over 1000 feet.

NEW CARS REGISTERED

The following new cars were registered at the office of the tax collector during the month of August: L. M. Baze, Ford Tudor sedan; J. H. Hayre, Chevrolet coach; W. J. Ferguson, Ford sedan; John Breg, Chevrolet coach.

Braulio Gutierrez, who was tried in Rocksprings last week on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Manuel Coronado, was found guilty by an Edwards county jury last Friday, and given a five year sentence.

The case, transferred from this county, went to trial on Wednesday of last week. Two night sessions of the court were held, and the jury received the case on Thursday about midnight. The verdict was brought in Friday morning at 9:30.

Grady Lowry, who acted as special judge, pronounced sentence Saturday.

Gutierrez was remanded to the Edwards county jail, and from there will be transferred to the state penitentiary.

Quite a number of Sanderson people were summoned to the trial as witnesses.

NEW FAMILY AT AIRPORT

Corporal and Mrs. Wogstad arrived last week from Lordsburg, N. M., where the corporal had been stationed for the past seven years, as radio expert, Mrs. Wogstad was raised in Lordsburg.

INJURED AT LOZIER

While supervising the unloading of fill in material for the detour around Lozier bridge last Sunday evening, Noble Latson, one of the engineers got his hand caught in the end gate of a truck. The flesh of the index finger of the left hand was torn away making a very painful wound that will need attention for several weeks.

New Prison Head Was Texas Ranger; Honored for Heroism in World War

Beaumont, Sept. 8.—Dave Nelson of Orange, appointed manager of the Texas prison system Saturday, is a product of the Texas rangers. He knew the saddle before he did arithmetic. He could "cut out" rope and brand a critter before he could spell the words in this paragraph.

But Dave Nelson has been mulling over in his mind the Texas prison conditions for some time. In a Beaumont Enterprise interview he said: "I want to do something for the poor devils who are in prisons throughout the State. Stupidity has marked a majority of prison administrations throughout the country. I don't believe in the coddle theory—but I do believe in being fair; and fairness to your fellowman has never been an unfair creed."

"Crime has its phases as other major problems have. The idea of placing a prisoner convicted of one of the lesser crimes in the identical confinement surroundings of a second-terminer is unfair to the youngster. He will absorb a greater disrespect for the law inside a penitentiary cell than he would on the outside. Too many unlucky fellows sent to penal institutions—fellows who lack the crime instinct—have come out more hardened and dangerous than the day he went in.

"Poor prison administration. A higher expense to the taxpayer. Too many fellows coming out of prison who are going back. It doesn't seem right and I am positive there is an opportunity for correction."

Nelson was raised on a ranch about 25 miles west of San Antonio operating the ranch after his father's death. In recent years he has been in charge of Luther Stark's Orange County herd of 1500 blooded female Brahma cattle, considered the largest herd in the United States.

He served on the Mexican border in 1916, and went overseas as a captain in 1917, returning with a Croix de Guerre and an American citation.

Indian Village Near Fort Davis Open to Public

J. C. White of Cleburne, arrived in Fort Davis last week and announced he had leased the Indian Village at the State park and would open it to tourist trade immediately.

The Village was built by CCC labor and is located in Keesey canyon, about 3 miles from Fort Davis. New rustic furniture has been installed and the place, although not exactly ready, is open to all who care to go there. There are several other things to be done before the hotel is completely ready for tourists, but no one will be turned away who wishes to stay there.

Mr. White is accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss La Fern, who will remain here permanently. The young lady will attend high school here.

The Dispatch wishes to congratulate the Whites on taking over this business. The Indian style hotel would have enjoyed a big season if opened early in the spring. The Indian Village will prove a drawing card for Fort Davis and this section.—Ft. Davis Dispatch.

Baptists of P. V. Association Now In Session Here

The Pecos Valley Baptist Association opened its 16th annual session here Thursday morning at ten o'clock, with a large number of prominent Baptist leaders and laymen present.

The meeting Thursday was devoted to the Woman's Missionary Union, and an interesting program was presented in which several prominent women of the district had part.

At the noon hour Thursday, the visitors gathered in the dining hall at the Masonic Temple, and a barbecue dinner with all the trimmings was served by the ladies of the Sanderson church.

The session Thursday night was devoted to Associational matters, which also will be discussed at the sessions today.

Rev. Buren Sparks of Alpine is moderator of the meeting; and Rev. J. M. Garner of Marfa delivered the opening sermon.

Registering were delegates from Alpine, Marfa, Fort Stockton, Crane, McCamey, Pecos, Ozona, Iraan, Marathon, Sheffield, Sanderson and Toyah.

Governor Rules Prohibition At End In State

Austin, Sept. 9.—Statewide prohibition ended in Texas today with issuance of a proclamation by Governor Allred declaring results of the August 24th election. The official canvass showed constitutional prohibition was repealed 297,597 to 250,948.

Sale of intoxicating liquor became legal immediately on issuance of the proclamation in 12 counties and was legal in one or more political sub-divisions of 50 additional counties. Attorney General McCraw had ruled the repeal amendment would be operative when results of the election were proclaimed.

WILL ATTEND REUNION

F. S. Garrison left Wednesday for Del Rio where he visited until Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hoover. From there he went to Hondo for a visit with relatives before going to San Antonio Saturday where he will visit his son, and attend the reunion of veterans of the Spanish-American War, to be held there next week. Mr. Garrison will also visit with his sister, Miss Alma Garrison, in Houston, and with relatives in Nacogdoches county before returning home, about October 7.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A NATURAL RESULT (El Paso Morning Times)

"Huey Long had it coming to him."

This was the remark most frequently heard Sunday night and Monday as the people read the Times' extra and regular editions reporting the shooting of the Louisiana senator by Dr. Weiss, the ascetic young physician-specialist whose father-in-law Huey Long was about to run politically by abolishing his district judgeship.

The Times agrees that "Huey Long had it coming to him." This does not mean that we approve of the assassination of Huey Long or of anyone else. It means that Huey Long in creating and maintaining his absolutism in Louisiana, had committed a great number of cruel and vengeful acts against people either because they stood in the way of his rise to power or because they opposed him; and in consequence of these acts an attempt against his life was to be expected.

Long knew this. He realized that he had earned the hatred of many who thought they had been wronged by him and that at least some of the many would like to kill him. He often spoke of this. He even related on the floor of the senate an alleged plot to assassinate him. He went nowhere without his armed guards—gun-carrying bullies, eager to shoot at the first sign of menace to their master. Their eagerness was attested by the way they stood over Dr. Weiss, pumping bullets into his body after he had already been shot down and lay helpless on the floor.

It is not surprising that someone finally did what many had been wanting to do. That it had not been done sooner, by others, is probably explained by the fact of the armed guards; by the fact that whoever attempted to kill Long would himself certainly be slain. It required an utterly desperate man, willing to be killed in return for attempting to kill Long, and such a man finally appeared in Dr. Weiss. His act is not to be condoned, but one may feel sympathy for him for the despair and anger which prompted him to kill the oppressive dictator.

Now that Huey Long is dead, watch for a new battle for control of Louisiana. The anti-Long forces now have their supreme chance to destroy the clique that grips the state—now that the dictator is dead.

The Long forces have advantages. They control the enforcement of the laws. They hold virtually all parish offices in addition to all state offices. They control the operation of the state's machinery absolutely. They dominate the legislature.

They are like an army of superior numbers and equipment, are solidly entrenched in a dominating position.

Their weaknesses are two: Lack of a leader and lack of cohesion. They are beset by internal jealousies and rival aspirations. Various of Long's head henchmen will fight for leadership. Their followers will cluster around them and factions will develop. Unless we are mistaken, half their time and strength will be expended in fighting each other.

If the anti-Long contingent maintain a united front and go into action with intelligence and determination, the Long "kingdom" will soon crumble.

STRAIGHTEN OUT LOCAL OPTION

Texas is in a peculiar position. "Wet" officially, "wet" as a state—but with four fifth of its counties dry as a result of prohibition local option elections held in pre-prohibition days, before the days of the prohibition amendment to the constitution and the Dean law.

The effect of the recent voting on the repeal amendment is to revert Texas to its status immediately before prohibition. Thus the local option status of those counties or sub-divisions which voted "dry" is restored. They are "dry" again, or still—officially at least.

Thus we have an anomalous situation: There are counties in which liquor has been sold of late, and which in the recent election gave majorities for repeal. And repeal carried throughout the state. But those counties are now "dry," despite their "wet" majorities, because of their reversion to a local option status.

We shall be seeing a flurry of local option elections throughout the state. Counties left in the peculiar position above illustrated will want to change from officially "dry" to legally "wet." Every county west of the Pecos went for repeal, yet numerous of them, including some of El Paso's near neighbors, are back on a local option "dry" basis, and liquor cannot legally be sold in them, despite the fact that Governor Allred has proclaimed the repeal of prohibition in Texas as a result of the official canvass of votes cast in the late election.

All counties will be wanting to get themselves straightened out and it will be well to do so as soon as possible. Otherwise there will be confusion, misunderstanding, liquor sales with county revenue, ill feeling, and gray hairs in many a sheriff's head.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

Austin—Speculation as to the range of legislative subjects to be submitted by Governor Allred, which will determine the length and the number of special sessions, filled the atmosphere in Austin as the solons prepared to answer the September 16 call for an extraordinary session. Financing the state old age pension authorized by the voters in the recent special election by an overwhelming majority, may reopen the entire subject of state revenue. This would be an opening for the governor to resubmit all or part of his extensive tax program, most of which fell by the wayside in the regular session. Such highly controversial subjects as chain store taxes, sales tax, state income tax, liquor tax, and others doubtless will be offered and debated at length, if the governor's message opens the way.

The governor has clearly indicated that he considers liquor regulation under repeal the paramount subject. He has advised against hasty action. The legislature is probably as closely divided upon the liquor question as were the people, who registered less than 10 per cent majority of votes cast, in favor of repeal. Bitter controversy is forecast by the lengthy battle that was necessary for the legislators even to get the matter before the voters as a constitutional amendment. Opinion ranges all the way from state monopoly from the bone dry bloc, down to minimum restrictions and free flow of hard liquor by the extreme liberals. It will take many hours of committee sessions, hotel room caucuses and floor debate to enact finally a state law to license the sale of liquor and enable dry communities to protect themselves by local option.

Sensational charges that certain major oil companies are preparing to demoralize the market for crude oil, break the $1 crude price that has been steadily held in Texas for many months, and fill their empty storage tanks during the ensuing chaos, made by Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, marked the week's developments in oil. Thompson said the move was planned as a "punishment to Texas" for the successful fight the state, through its officials has made on federal control, advocated by some major companies. First step, Thompson said, was a cut in the gasoline prices, which would then be carried back to the crude market as justification for a slash there. The commission last week denied the plea of certain major companies that the proration basis be changed to an acreage factor, instead of the well-established well potential basis that has been in use two years.

Thompson charged then that the movement was a "share-the-wealth program with reverse English" that would take the property of the small independents and give it to the larger companies. Testimony at the hearing showed that 200 millions of property values in east Texas would be confiscated, that the permanent school fund would lose $300,000 a year in royalties and the state many thousands in taxes, if the proration formula was changed. The commission renewed its proration order on the potential basis, which Thompson charges, is another reason why some of the disappointed majors seek to demoralize Texas' billion dollar oil business. It is broadly hinted in Austin the commission may meet such an attack by ordering a complete shutdown of all oil fields in Texas for a period to take bottom-hole pressures, as it has done in east Texas on other occasions.

Behind every man who has achieved greatness in history, there is usually the shadow of a good woman. Close friends of United States Senator Tom Connally, 2000 of whom gathered at Marlin to pay their last respects to Mrs. Connally, say this is true to an unusual extent in the case of the distinguished junior senator from Texas. Possessed of a remarkably keen mind and a sure instinct for the right, which hurdled easily the hazards of politics, Mrs. Connally was not only the constant companion, but the influential adviser of the senator. From every corner of the state friends came to the family home at Marlin to extend their condolences to Senator Connally and his young son, Ben, and to express their conviction that all Texas, as well as her own family, had suffered a great loss in her death.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

High Jinks And Fast Action In 'Calm Yourself'

"Calm Yourself," which comes to the Princess Theatre Monday, Sept. 16, packs all the laughs of the season's best farce, and in addition has outstanding entertainment qualities in a well-knit story that rings the bell for being humanly dramatic.

In this picture Robert Young and Madge Evans are teamed in a screen narrative that is crammed with action plus merriment. Young is the head of a "confidential service" bureau, and as such accepts whatever jobs come along.

Miss Evans is a banker's daughter, whose father, unknown to her, wishes the bureau head to "suppress" her—and the resulting complications set up laughs that no one has heard since the last blue moon.

There's plenty of excitement, too, especially after Young is hired to take care of a baby and is accused of being its kidnaper. But it all comes out happily with romance at the end of the road.

The wise teaming of the capable Miss Evans and the skilled Robert Young and the all-around fine balance to the rest of the cast makes the acting end well-nigh flawless. Ralph Margon, as the banker, is stellar; Nat Pendleton is also superb. In the best role she has had in a long time Betty Furness is supreme, and Shirley Ross is captivating as the bride.

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types—the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine—an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful... three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

In and Around the Home INTERESTING ITEMS PICKED UP HERE AND THERE

The five food elements needed to properly nourish the body are protein, fats, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins. Vegetables supply some of all, but more of the minerals and vitamins, and also cellulose, or roughage. While the latter has little fuel value it is most essential because of its mechanical effects upon the intestinal tract.

Use all edible parts of vegetables. If you use lettuce for the salads and find some outer leaves unattractive, these may be washed and used in soup along with the outer leaves of cabbage and other vegetables. Water in which pared and leafy vegetables are cooked should be used for soup.

Before heating milk in a sauce pan, rinse the pan with water and it will not scorch so easily.

A pinch of baking soda added to boiled syrup will help it from crystallizing.

If cooked frosting has boiled too long it may be made smooth again by adding a piece of butter the size of a walnut before heating it.

To keep cake fresh put a few slices of fresh bread in a box with the cake.

To grind raisins without sticking place food chopper in boiling water before using.

All new cooking utensils should be thoroughly greased and heated before using for the first time.

To clean white painted woodwork boil two or three onions well, and the water they boil in will clean the woodwork effectively. No soap will be needed.

Paint brushes, if wrapped in silver paper after being used, will keep soft as if they had been left to soak in turpentine or water.
