Large Crowd Hears Gov. Allred

Discusses Issues Involved in New Legislation Passed at Called Sessions

A large crowd of Sanderson and Terrell county citizens were out Wednesday morning to welcome Governor James V. Allred and party who were returning to Austin after a hunting trip in the Big Bend country.

The governor and party arrived here about 11:30 and were met at the Kerr hotel by Joe Kerr and a group of Sanderson citizens and escorted to the high school building where a large gathering of citizens, the school children and faculty were waiting to welcome him. The high school band played several selections prior to the governor's arrival, and several selections after he arrived.

Alfred E. Creigh, who was master of ceremonies, made the opening address, after which Joe Kerr introduced Governor Allred.

Before addressing those gathered Gov. Allred introduced Mrs. Allred and their son, young Jimmy, who were with him, and Rep. Stanford Payne of Del Rio.

He expressed appreciation of the wonderful hospitality and reception accorded by our people, and paid high tribute to the small towns, especially complimenting Sanderson, stating that our fine high school building was a monument to our splendid citizenship.

In discussing the government at Austin, particularly the legislature and its recent two special sessions, Governor Allred mentioned the laws passed affecting the prohibition amendment, the old-age assistance bill, and the fee system of recompensing county and district officers. He stated that the legislators had a big task before them while passing these laws and, while they were far from perfect, they were a start toward better laws in the future.

Closing his address, Governor Allred again thanked our people for the reception tendered him, and stated that the future welfare of Texas was secure, and that Texas was trying to induce industries to the state which would build up a great state, as we were rich in natural resources.

Following the governor's address Representative Stanford Payne was introduced and, in a short talk, told of his efforts to serve the people in this district; of his success in securing appropriations whereby the state livestock sanitary board could carry on its work among the ranching sections of Texas. He urged the people to get legislative-minded and elect men to the legislature who would represent them. He closed his remarks by some well-chosen remarks to the student body, urging them to work hard and push their way through life, and to attain those things they desire.

After the speaking every school child present met and shook hands with the governor, and those of our citizens who had not previously met the governor and members of his party were given the opportunity at this time.

After a luncheon at the Kerr hotel, the governor, Mrs. Allred, and son, Jimmy, and Rep. Payne left for Del Rio where, that night, the governor was honor guest at a banquet.

HENRY IS HONOR MAN

E. I. Dewirs, recruiting officer for the U. S. Navy, with headquarters in El Paso, was in Sanderson last Friday, and stated he was on the lookout for more material of the same calibre as Andrew Henry. "He is one of the best recruits we've had in many a day," said Dewirs, "and I came here hoping there might be others like him." Mr. Dewirs stated that Andrew, who has taken up electrical engineering, is a "natural," and that on October 20, in test examination Henry came through with flying colors, and was honor man in the class.

Gonzales Opens Centennial Year

Historic Gonzales last Sunday closed a six-day celebration that was opened with a salute from a replica of the brass cannon which on Oct. 2, 1835, roared forth the opening shot of the war for independence. A mile long parade of colorful pageantry was witnessed by more than 30,000 persons, including state dignitaries and persons prominent in civic and official life of Texas and the Southwest. Pictured at top is a float entered in the parade from San Antonio representing the early day sewing bee. In the center is a reproduction of the challenging "Come and Take It" flag carried into the battle by the colonists, and the cannon. Below is an entry in the "Run Away Scrape" section of the parade. The historic observance opened at Gonzales and will be continued through the year in celebrations in San Antonio, Houston, Fort Worth and other Texas cities, and in the magnificent exposition to be opened in Dallas next June.

Charges Pending Under Dean Law Out Courts Rule

Austin, Nov. 27.—The Court of Criminal Appeals today freed 26 persons convicted of violating the old prohibition law, while the Supreme court held a wet precinct was not permitted in a county which had voted dry by local option.

The Criminal Appeals court ruled the new act, providing misdemeanor penalties for violating a package sale law with local option, repealed the former prohibition act, known as the Dean Law.

Repeal of the old felony act, it held, invalidated convictions that are pending before it on appeal, and also pending indictments.

The Supreme court determined a policy in decisions on two cases involving construction of the local option clause in the 1933 constitutional amendment legalizing sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

No Piecemeal Repeal

Judge S. H. German of the Commission of Appeals, who wrote both opinions, said: "Local option within a county as a whole cannot be repealed by piecemeal."

The court's ruling in a controlling case, that of Guy Meadrows from Brown county, affected 70 other convictions for violating prohibition laws pending in the court, and an undetermined number of indictments.

Gov. Allred previously indicated he would pardon first offenders serving terms for Dean law violations provided they had not been convicted, in addition, of other offenses.

The Criminal Appeals court ruled it had no option since the liquor control act expressly repealed the Dean law and all its amendments and made no provision for further prosecution of cases not finally disposed of, either on appeal or pending in the trial courts.

In one case the Supreme Court nullified a city of Childress election which favored sale of 3.2 beer after two county-wide votes had opposed it.

Judge Upheld

The court upheld the refusal of County Judge L. L. King to grant J. T. Walling a license and affirmatively answered certified questions from the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals that the election was void; that the county judge was correct, and that the trial court did not err in refusing the application of Walling for a mandamus requiring the county judge to grant a license.

The second case arose from justice precinct No. 4 in Walker county voting for 3.2 beer sales in the face of a county wide election disapproving sales.

Bill Providing Old-age Pensions Effective Feb. 14

Austin.—We are going to be fair to the old people of Texas," said the new pension chief this week.

Orville S. Carpenter, 36-year-old state auditor, was named executive director of the old-age assistance board Nov. 20, by the new three-member commission. He will resign as auditor and take up his new duties when the pension law becomes effective February 14.

"We are going into the matter carefully. I am studying the pension systems of other states that have pension laws," he said.

Mr. Carpenter probably knows more about pensions than any other man in the state. At the request of Gov. Allred he made a survey in September on the "Cost and General Plan for Old-age Pensions." This was prepared for the legislature, and the new law reflects his survey in many ways.

The Dallas business man was appointed last August by Governor Allred to reorganize the office of the state auditor. To the legislature he made reports on pensions, liquor and fees. Other surveys were on taxation, bank deposit insurance, and a number of lesser subjects. He is now conducting audits of the treasury and banking departments.

He established that there were 283,199 people in this state 65 years of age or older. Considering the experiences of other states he calculated that there would probably qualify for old-age assistance in Texas some 62,933 people.

"As there are 41,787 persons 65 years of age and over on the Texas relief rolls, this apparently is the minimum number able to qualify for old-age pensions," Mr. Carpenter stated.

"I am not sure about the reducing effect of the regulations passed by the 44th Legislature. My calculations were made in September before the new law had been passed," he said.

MOTHER DIES

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown returned Wednesday night from Pipe Creek, Texas, where they were called last Thursday on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Anderson, whose death occurred early Monday morning. The many friends of Mrs. Brown extend their sympathy in the loss of her mother.

They returned by way of Kerrville and were accompanied by their son, Herbert, Billy Ferguson and James Robert Nation who will spend the Thanksgiving holidays here.

Langtry Pioneer Passes on At Del Rio Hospital

Following an illness of ten days, W. H. Dodd, 67, well known merchant of Langtry and picturesque figure of the early days of this section, died last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Williams sanitarium in Del Rio.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the Doran funeral chapel, and interment was at Westlawn cemetery, Del Rio. The Rev. Roland Murray, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Del Rio, officiated at the services.

Mr. Dodd was born in Birmingham, England, and came to the United States when he was 19 years of age. He landed in New York, traveling on down the eastern coast and Gulf coast, and finally settled in the Encinal country.

Coming to this section of Texas in 1890, in 1892 he went to Langtry where he entered the ranching business, and at the time of his death he still owned a ranch near that place. During the early days at Langtry, Mr. Dodd entered the mercantile business, stocking supplies for the ranchmen of that section. He was in the mercantile business about 42 years.

Except for a brief time, Mr. Dodd had been postmaster at Langtry almost as long as he resided there, handling the mail in one section of his store. In 1902 he was elected justice of the peace, succeeding Judge Roy Bean, "Law West of the Pecos," and served in that capacity for about 17 years.

Mr. Dodd was married some 45 years ago in Del Rio to Miss Lula Kellman, who survives him, in addition to three sons and a daughter. The children are Cross Dodd of Austin, Herbert and Harold Dodd, and Mrs. Harvey Hall of Langtry. Four grandchildren also survive.

KILLS BIG BUCK

W. D. O'Bryant, Sr., was one of the lucky hunters this season, and brought in what he believes to be the "daddy of 'em all." It was a 10-point buck, and though that is not many points, it tells but half the story. After killing this fine specimen and dressing it against spoilage, it was brought to town a little over 18 hours after it was killed, and tipped the beam at exactly 200 pounds. After figuring the shrinkage, estimates place its original weight in the neighborhood of 235 pounds. The horns were unusually large, the smallest points being nearly two inches in circumference, and the spread nearly three feet. Mr. O'Bryant said he killed lots of deer, but this is the only one he ever thought of mounting as a trophy of his prowess, and soon his grandchildren will be listening to him relate details of the battle, and the funny part of it will that there hangs the head to prove it.

The light of the understanding humility kindleth, and pride covereth.—Quarles.
