ANNUAL RODEO PLANS ARE COMPLETED

PERSON TO ANNOUNCE EVENTS PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM; MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN BOYS' ROPING

The arrangement for a public address system which Paul Patterson, teacher in the Sanderson schools, will announce the wild Mexican steers at Presidio obtained. Patterson has been asked for their bucking among the outlaws from the country, plans for the Fifth Annual Rodeo are completed.

deco will assure spectators of a minimum of dust at the most.

Mr. Patterson, who is well known here and who has had quite a lot of experience in announcing over address systems and also over the radio, is well versed in the "lingo" of the cowboys and knows all the terms used in making announcements such as are heard at rodeos. The system has ample volume for announcements to be heard clearly over the whole arena.

The wild Mexican steers are guarantee of plenty of action in the steer roping events. The horns have been tipped so that they will not be so long as to interfere with the roping, although there is ample horn left after they are clipped.

The event creating the most local interest is the calf roping contest to be participated in by Terrell County boys under 21 years of age. Many of the boys are practicing roping in the afternoons and training their horses. Number of entrants in this event is not known at the present, although those indicating that they would enter at this early date have insured spectators of a treat in this event.

A colorful parade each morning at 10 o'clock will start the day's activities. The parade will be made up of the cowboys and cowgirls as well as citizens of the towns and others who care to enter. It is hoped that in the future years the parade will also include floats and other attractions by different business firms of the town.

A big dance each night will draw the events of the day to a close, and music for the two dances will be furnished by Mack Rogers and his ten-piece orchestra from the Gunter Hotel of San Antonio. This orchestra is rated among the best in the South, doing radio broadcasts, phonograph recordings, and playing for leading clubs and resorts.

According to reports received here, many of the leading and most prominent cowboys, whose names are known wherever rodeos are held, have indicated that they would be present for Sanderson's annual show. The Kerr Hotel will be the rodeo headquarters and entries will be received for the different events up until 10 a. m., August 4th.

Rotarians Hear Plan For Financing County Hospital

At the regular meeting of the Rotary Club Wednesday plans were discussed by L. M. Baze and others for financing a county hospital, which is badly needed due to great distance of Sanderson from larger towns where hospital service is available.

It was suggested that an increase of 10 cents on the hundred in taxes be made, which would mean that for each $1,000 valuation assessment of $1.00 would be made. It was pointed out that the average home-owner in Sanderson would only be out about $1.00 as the majority of the average homes are rendered for taxation at $1,000.00.

SCHOOL BUDGET PLANS ARE MADE

The 1939-1940 budget of the Terrell County Common School District No. 1, which embraces all of Terrell County, is approximately the same as that for the preceding year, 1938-1939. Income of the school in 1938-1939, according to school district records, was derived from two main sources, local taxes and the per capita school apportionment.

The receipts from local taxes, used for the operation of the school, amounted to $20,023.60. Receipts from the per capita apportionment to date have amounted to $12,053.

Expenditures to date have amounted to $32,932, the main items being teachers' salaries, operation of school plant, transportation and supplies. Teachers' salaries amounted to $27,540, transportation expenditure amounted to $1,896, and expenditure for new furniture and equipment amounted to $3,139.

An additional amount of $5 per capita is expected from the state, here being 709 scholastics in Terrell County for the year 1939-1940. With this amount received, the schools will end the year on August 31, in good financial condition.

HARRELL DAIRY TO DELIVER GRADE "A" MILK

According to Lynn Harrell, owner and operator of the Harrell Dairy, a permit was received Thursday from the state inspector and county health doctor stating that he had met all local and state specifications and requirements and that he could now deliver grade "A" milk to his customers.

Mr. Harrell stated that he had installed a new bottling and capping machine, had just recently remodeled his milking barns, and had built a new milk house and installed a new refrigerator. He also has placed a cover over his milk wagon which is required.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the Times an error was made regarding the settlement of the Gaines County land due to an omission of part of the story. The story stated that the Commissioner's Court had agreed to settle with them for an undivided one-fourth mineral rights in the land. It should have stated that they had agreed to settle the matter of past due interest in the amount of approximately $19,000.00 for payment of one-half the delinquent interest and an undivided one-fourth mineral rights in the land. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent is to continue on the principal of some $62,000, and the note for that amount will be due in 1948.

The Sanderson Longhorns defeated the Marathon baseball club in a return game Sunday afternoon by a score of 10-4, with Bogusch and Newton doing the hurrying for the locals.

Runs were made as follows for Sanderson: Smith, 2; Harris, 2; Bogusch, 1; Weigand, 1; Loehausen, 2; and Lea, 1. Todd, Jones, Granger and Herring each made a run for the visitors, with Jones getting a 3 base hit, longest made in the entire game.

R. Haley went in at short for Nance in the sixth inning and put over several excellent plays ending the game with a double in which he covered second and threw the runner out at first. Newton went in at the same time to relieve Bogusch on the mound. Lea played the best game of the season on 3rd, taking everything that came his way without an error of any kind. The entire team should be commended on the team-work that was kept up during the entire game.

Vitamin C Supplied in Fruit Juices

Drinking a cup of orange or tomato juice is a labor saving device in securing the daily quota of Vitamine C in the average person's diet, since an orange contains the equivalent in this vitamin of three good-sized potatoes according to Nora Elliot, Extension Service food preparation specialist of Texas A. and M. College.

Miss Elliot points out that too many Americans depend upon cooked vegetables for vitamin C element in their diet, and this is unwise since vegetables lose much of their vitamin content in cooking.

Especially in the summertime, the intelligent homemaker will let a cup of orange juice, half a grapefruit, a bowl of fresh green raw cabbage and green pepper salad furnish the vitamin C for one day's diet. These are not only more refreshing than cooked foods with a similar vitamin equivalent, but Miss Elliot adds, they also help keep the diet from being overloaded with various other food-types.

While drinking orange juice or tomato juice may be a lazy man's way of obtaining vitamin C it is also scientific.

Deaths From Diphtheria Controlled By Immunization

The State Department of Health urges that all parents of children from six months to ten years of age, who have not been immunized against diphtheria, take them to their family physician and have this done at once. It will take some time to establish immunity to this disease, so the child should be given this preventative treatment now before the advent of cold weather when diphtheria is more prevalent.

It is generally accepted for a fact among public health authorities that any community may control its death rate from diphtheria. Immunization has been proved a safe and effective preventive measure. Wherever immunizing treatment has been extensively used, diphtheria has steadily decreased.

The most forceful weapon in the control of diphtheria is prevention through immunization rather than cure of the disease after it has developed. Children can be protected against diphtheria by the use of what is known as toxoid. Young children are particularly susceptible to the disease. Accordingly, as soon as a baby is six months old, the parents are advised to take it to the family physician and have it immunized—protected by the use of toxoid. Older children in the family who have not had the protective treatment, should be immunized also, and this should be attended to now before school begins. This immunizing agent is absolutely safe to administer; there is only a slight local reaction and practically no constitutional or troublesome after effects. It confers a lifetime immunity in the majority of cases. To be certain that immunization is complete, however, the child should be taken back to the physician in six months after the toxoid has been administered, and given the Schick Test.

It is within the power of the parents of this state, cooperating with their physicians and public health departments, to eliminate diphtheria from Texas.

Langdon and Hardy Appear In "Zenobia"

The first picture in which Harry Langdon appears with Oliver Hardy in place of Stan Laurel is, in view of the wide news mention made of Hardy-Laurel separation, something of a "MUST SEE" on any theatregoer's list.

Clearly the first thing to tell movie fans about "Zenobia" is that it's a good, clean comedy. There is plenty more to tell including the news that Billie Burk, Alice Brady, June Lang, Jean Parker, J. Farrell McDonald and Step'n Fetchit are among the substantial personalities also present in the cast, and Hal Roach, director, wise in his velerancy, has taken steps to see that this picture keeps the audience entertained from start to finish.

A less experienced showman than Mr. Roach might have been expected, as no doubt he was to simply substitute Mr. Langdon for Mr. Laurel as a baseball manager and substitutes a pitcher in the ninth inning, and leave him on his own. Mr. Roach proceeded differently. He made "Zenobia" a quite different kind of comedy, pairing Messrs. Hardy and Langdon only intermittently in the action, and he furnished all the first flight supporting players with plenty of material for individual and collective entertainment. He has thus made it impossible for "Zenobia" to be compared with any Hardy-Laurel comedy, favorably or otherwise.

"Zenobia derives, by the way of a Cory Ford screenplay, from a short story by H. C. Bunner concerning an ailing elephant treated in an emergency by a shamm town doctor whom she thereafter follows about like a faithful dog. Since the doctor is in some distress at the moment by reason of his daughter's engagement to the local society leader's son and by that ungently ladies opposition to the match, the elephant's persistence in following him into the courtroom, mansion and buildings which tumble down forthwith embarrasses the earnest physician and father to no end. Well along toward the finish, the picture turns serious while a kinky-haired pickaninny recites the Declaration of Independence in a manner that straightens out the pot kinks and brings ringing applause from the audience. Then it turns out that the elephant has been following the doctor all this time to have him on hand when the stork arrives. Mother, babe, doctor and audience are doing nicely by fadeout time.

The film comes to the Princess Theatre screen Friday and Saturday.

Loy and Taylor Appear in "Lucky Night" Mon.-Tues.

Myrna Loy and Robert Taylor in "Lucky Night"

Co-starring Myrna Loy and Robert Taylor in a happy-go-lucky story of Manhattan life, "Lucky Night" current attraction at the Princess Theatre, offers screengoers one of the gayest and most sparkling comedy romances of the year.

That Myrna Loy, heroine of "The Thin Man" series and other comedies, proves herself to be at home in this zany story was to be anticipated. But that Robert Taylor, the dramatic star of such film as "Camille," "The Crowd Roars" and "Stand up and Fight," should reveal an ingratiating flair for comedy action as an eventful surprise.

With laughter the keynote of "Lucky Night" the story unfolds the whimsical and hilarious adventures of Cora Johnson, daughter of a steel magnate, who has broken her engagement for the fourth time, and Bill Overton, the playboy whose luck went against him. These two meet on a park bench, and from then on frolic and gamble, quarrel and love, get married, and separate, and again reunite through a series of dizzy complications that only true love and their mutual sense of humor are able to vanquish.

Myrna Loy plays the part of Cora Johnson with all the gayety and impressive spirit of her "Thin Man" characterizations. Taylor is of course, the devil-may-care Bill Overton, rollicking through a brilliant comedy performance of the part and proving himself as thoroughly at home in the lighter vein as he has in romantic leads.

In the excellent supporting cast are Joseph Allen, Henry O'Neill, Douglas Fowley, Bernard Nedell, Charles Lane, Bernardene Hayes, Gladys Blake, Marjorie Main, Edward Gargan, Irving Bacon and Oscar O'Shea.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Another project designed to increase the Bobwhite and Scaled Quail population of the lower plains of Northwest Texas has been gotten under way by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission through the cooperation of interested sportsmen. A 465-acre tract several miles southeast of Lubbock along Buffalo Lake is being used by Charles E. Friley, Jr., game manager of region 9. It is announced by Phil Goodrum, director of research and education for the department.

The tract is believed to be very adaptable to raising quail, it being tableland, ravines, gulleys, and steeply-inclined land. A 100-acre lake is centered in the area.

The area, to be known as Yellowhouse Canyon Game Refuge, will not need restocking, but game manager Friley is confident that few birds there will be increased many times over.

Ten small food patches will be planted. Tress shrubs to provide shelter for the birds will be planted on tableland and on the steeply inclined ground.

The area, located on the eastern edge of the south plains is used to demonstrate proper quail management practices and their application in pasture lands. Game experts will also be able to determine the relationships of Bobwhite and Scaled quail when occupying the same range.

It is believed that not only the land in the project, but that surrounding it will be restocked.

Among the incidents that may be long remembered are "Bell's" relations to the methodical-to-the-second, New Englander "Gardner Hubbard"; the faith "Thomas Sanders" had in the young teacher-scientist. Electrician "Thomas Watson" gave up a $3.00 a day job to starve with Bell but the moment which in sheer human interest and power to influence sympathetic emotions seldom has been rivaled on the screen is when Bell, after long months of training, seats little deaf mute "George Sanders" on his father's lap and has him murmur "Father". There was scarcely a dry eye in the audience. The suspense dissolved in thunderous applause.

This is a picture that everyone "MUST SEE." It is a picture that will be remembered throughout the year as one of the best pictures of the year.

naturally within a few years. Friley a year ago instituted a similar project on a 2,000-acre tract near Abilene and a survey is being conducted at this time to determine the rate of increase of quail in the area.

While Texas is not regarded by Texans as a leader in trapping the state ranked sixth in the Nation, a report for the 1938 fiscal year by the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey reveals. Texas was not only sixth with a total of 590,400 animals taken for their pelts, but leads the entire United States in five species, badgers, ringtail cats, wolves, Canada lynx and foxes. Ohio and Louisiana are tied for the lead in fur production.

Fifteen species of pelts are taken in Texas. A report for the 1939 fiscal year made by J. G. Burr, statistician for the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission shows an increase, the take being 729,244. However, trapping is declining almost annually in the state, the present output marking a decrease of 48 per cent over the 1933 crop, which was 1,407,884 pelts.

The biological Survey report reveals that 397,300 opossums, 75,900 skunks, 28,900 gray foxes, 250 badgers, 14,400 ringtail cats, 510 wolves, 1000 Canada lynx, 19,400 foxes were taken during the 1938 fiscal year.

A couple of Texas coyotes are probably far more cautious now than they were before, that is if they survived the attack of a pair of huge eagles. J. H. Maggara, state game warden at Amarillo reports seeing a pair of eagles chasing two coyotes over the plains. The birds swooped down time and again, striking the coyotes with beaks and talons so hard that each of the animals was knocked down before the principals in the unique battle disappeared out of sight of the warden.

Loy Huddleston didn't have far to go fishing recently. Part of the city of Houston was flooded by a rise in the streams and Huddleston, seeing five feet of water in his driveway, rigged up a pole and line. He caught three catfish while sitting on his front steps, the Houston Press reports.

Just how hard-working beaver are is shown in a report to the state game department by Arthur Cook, field biologist, who recently cut a beaver dam on the John Mason Ranch near Eagle Pass. The dam had backed up approximately 200 acres of water. Ten days later the beaver had restored the dam and the water was back to its normal level. Beaver are being trapped in West Texas and transported to East Texas by the game department.

Thousands of fish were saved for sportsmen through the quick thinking of Game Warden John Taylor of Marble Falls. Flood waters of the Colorado River, which had been checked by the huge Buchanan Dam, were being released in an orderly manner and water from one of the flood gates emptied into a small creek which otherwise is dry.

Fishermen were quick to find out that the small creek offered wonderful bass and crappie fishing.

Then, without warning, the Lower Colorado River Authority closed the gates feeding the

TEXAS SENATOR URGES AIR BASE IN PUERTO RICO

Decries Falling Market for Texas Rice and Beef in Island Crisis

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Pointing to the strategic location of Puerto Rico, and to the Island's large purchases of rice, cotton, and meat from the United States, Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, declared today in a special interview on Puerto Rican affairs that he is strongly in favor of the proposal to place defensive air bases there, and said that at the same time Congress should give serious consideration to the serious economic plight of the Island.

Senator Connally pointed out that the air bases proposed for Puerto Rico will form an invaluable first line defense for the Panama Canal and the Gulf of Mexico.

"It is vitally important that we protect the Canal and shipping in that area," he declared. "Planes from the Puerto Rican base will be able to scout far out to sea and give advance warning of the approach of an enemy. In addition, because of the close proximity of the Island to South America, the bases on Puerto Rico will serve as a warning to the Dictators of Europe to stay out of South America."

Commenting on the economic condition, Senator Connally pointed out that the Interior Department recently reported that 42 per cent of Puerto Rico's population is out of work or dependent on unemployed persons; that their purchases of rice from the mainland last year fell off more than a million dollars, their purchases of cotton products slumped more than two million dollars, and their purchases of meat, more than three hundred thousand dollars.

Officials of the Island blame this condition on the sugar quota, which restricted production in the Island 30 per cent; on the trade agreement program which they say has made it virtually impossible for them to compete in the domestic market with foreign coconuts, pineapples, and citrus fruits; and application of the mainland wage-hour law to Puerto Rican industry.

Commenting on the sugar restriction, Senator Connally said he believed the tendency will be toward increased quotas for Continental United States and the Possessions and Territories. He said he thought Congress should give serious consideration to the other problems of Puerto Rico taking into consideration their geographic location and climatic conditions.

"Total Puerto Rican purchases from the United States fell from $90,000,000 in 1937 to only $81,000,000 in 1938," Senator Connally pointed out, citing figures recently released by the Department of Commerce.

"Rice purchases dropped from $7,750,000 to $6,306,000; their purchases of cotton manufactures dropped from $11,440,000 to $8,958,000; while meat purchases dropped from $3,864,000 to $3,577,000.

"Such a sharp drop deserves serious attention, not only because the Puerto Ricans are American citizens, but because their decreased purchases hurt us on the mainland," Senator Connally said. "The Puerto Ricans make practically all their outside purchases from the United States, so the money did not go elsewhere. They simply didn't have the money to spend, and the outlet for our rice, cotton and most suffered accordingly."

perared before more than 2,000 students. Conservation as a summer course was introduced last summer by North Texas State Teachers College of Denton and spread this year to include many other schools.

creek, since enough of the flood water had been let out. Taylor chanced to be on the creek bank when the water started going down. Realizing what had happened, he jumped into his car, raced to the foreman in charge of operations and explained the situation. The foreman agreed to let enough water to keep flowing through the creek to save the fish.

Interest in conservation education is mounting, Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game department; Phil Goodrum, director of research and education and Dan Lay, region game manager, reported after each had delivered lectures before conservation classes in ten of the leading schools in the state. Each of the game department speakers ap-
